SHOW INCREASE IN ADVERTISING

National Advertising is Up 21.6 Per Cent. in United States.

$145,000,000 INVESTED.

NEW YORK, April 25. (AP).—Encouraging developments in the newspaper advertising field were noted to-day at the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

Three symptoms of improved conditions in the 21st annual report of the A.N.P.A. bureau of advertising, as submitted by Edwin S. Friendly of the New York Sun, chairman of the committee in charge of the bureau.

"The first quarter of 1934 continued the increase in national advertising volume that began last year, with an average gain of 21.6 percent over the same three months of 1933" Friendly reported.

"Volume of national advertising in 1933 reflects the stability of our medium, compared with the year preceding and with the records of other major mediums.

"The newspaper's share of the national advertiser's dollar showed an appreciable increase in 1933. . .

"National advertisers invested $145,000,000 in newspaper space in 1933, according to bureau of advertising estimates. This represented a decline of slightly more than nine percent from the figure of a year ago (1932). The $94,000 000 magazine expenditure reported for last year represents a drop of 18.2 percent compared with 1932; while $1,500,000 invested in chain broadcast indicates a loss of 19.2 percent compared with the investment of a year preceding."

Weddings

JONES—SHERIDAN

A quiet and pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning, April 18th, at 8.30, at the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, when Mary Stella, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheridan of Marmora, became the bride of Wilfred Jones of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Keeley. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and she wore a lovely gown of white sheer crepe with veil, gloves and shoes to match. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and fern. The bridesmaid, Rose Sheridan, sister of the bride, wore a beautiful gown of maize crepe with hat and shoes to match and carried a lovely bouquet of pink carnations and fern. Clement Sheridan, brother of the bride, acted as best man. Following the ceremony the wedding dinner was served at the home of the brides' parents, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers and evergreens.

The young couple left by motor for a short trip. The bride wore a blue swagger suit and matching accessories. On their return the young couple will reside in Peterborough.

Chief Webster Held Two Missing Girls

The two missing Peterborough girls, Pearl Armstrong, 13-year-old schoolgirl, and her companion, Helen Cooper, aged 18, were found yesterday afternoon in Lakefield by Chief R. Webster as the result of the story yesterday in The Examiner concerning their disappearance.

"I saw the article in The Examiner about the two girls being missing from their homes since Sunday and the description of them," Chief Webster said. "I knew two strange girls answering to the descriptions furnished had been seen about the village streets. So I went out and picked them up.

"They admitted that they were from Peterborough" he continued. "They said they had walked here from Peterborough on Sunday afternoon and were staying with former friends of that city. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reid. I think they just dropped in on the Reids' and I don't think they were very welcome. They had been seen hanging around the street late at night."

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong went to Lakefield and brought home both girls, who apparently none the worse for their little escapade.

Where The Old Otonabee Flows

Where the old Otonabee first begins to flow,
In the mystic valley, where zephyrs whisper low.
Where the city lights are shining and the moon and stars are bright,
Cast a thousand bright reflections on the lake in the dreamy night.
Where the night birds softly calling,
In the trees as they wave and sigh,
And the moonbeams softly paling shadows in the western sky.

CHORUS:
Oh, Otonabee, I often wander far away from thee
To strange and foreign cities,
But my heart is never free,
Weary and homesick I return,
No matter where I go,
To that city in the valley, where I first beheld you flow.

When the first gray lights of morning adorn the eastern sky,
And the stillness then is broken as the birds take wing and fly.
The sunlight plays on eastern hills they are all bathed in a golden glow
Which casts its bright reflection on the valley far below,
Then the angelus bells starts ringing and the factory whistles blow
And day has begun in the valley,
"Where the old Otonabee flows".
CHORUS—Repeat.

—Michael Joseph Twomey, 477 Rubidge street, City.

CONCERT GIVEN FOR ST. ALBAN'S

St. Alban's Pierrots Delight Audience in Southend Hall.

TWO MORE PERFORMANCES

The spirit of gay companions pervaded the concert given by St. Albans' Pierrots last night in the Orange Hall east of May's School. Meagre facilities of staging and lighting were ingeniously overcome, and the attractive setting reflected a great deal of credit upon Victor White and his associates who prepared the pleasing background.

Some day the congregation composing the mission of St. Alban's hopes to have sufficient funds to build a church in that southwestern suburb of the city, and such affairs as last night's concert are planned as a means of raising money for this project for which a member of All Saints' parish has given several nearby lots.

One of the visitors last night was Rev. Douglas Paterson, rector of All Saints, but the attendance generally was from the southend neighborhood. The pierrot and pierrette costumes enhance by spot and colored lights gave the stage an effectively theatric appearance, and its nearness to the audience created an intimate atmosphere in which there was no trace of the cast taking themselves and their parts too seriously.

The concert is being repeated tonight and Thursday night, and probably friends of St. Alban's from farther parts of the city will find it possible to drop in on the Pierrots and Pierrettes of the neighboring suburb.

With Mr. White at the piano, assisted by a small orchestra, the program opened with a snappy vocal ensemble entitled "The Ranger Song" followed by "My Hero" sung by Beatrice Curtis and the chorus, and lightly burlesqued by E. Whiteside.

That once favorite "Beautiful Doll" and "Tipperary" were also sung by the chorus, and Mrs. John Cooper contributed the solo "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" in a very pleasing voice. Frank Wallwork in a nautical, not to say piratical costume, had the solo in "All the Nice Girls Love a Sailor" and also "Yak-hic-doolie." Mr. Wallwork's uptown friends shouldn't miss this opportunity of seeing him in this role which he put across with delightful breeziness.

Mr. Whiteside and the chorus were heard in the Waterworks song, a rather timely number about some chap who had lost his job.

William Carter, interlocutor throughout the first part which invoked the manner of the minstrel show, sang "The Dawn of Tomorrow", followed by Stuart Roberts in "Come to the Fair" both soloists adding appreciably to the merit of the first part which was concluded with a finale incorporating the chorus "Pack Up Your Troubles."

A group of piano numbers by Mr. White carried on the program after the intermission. An amusing radio sketch was given by Mr. Carter and C. Hopkins.

Miss Winnifred Wallwork's violin solo was another instrumental number that delighted the audience, and a guitar duet by Helen Scott and Dorothy Wallwork including a little "mountain music" was warmly encored. A violin, banjo and harmonica trio by J. Hopkins, C. Hopkins, and T. Arnott was recalled. The program also included a skipping dance by junior girls and a kickstep dance by senior girls. Incidentally Sam Carpenter must be mentioned among the supporting Pierrots in one of the comedy incidentals.

Among those assisting Mr. White were Misses Connie Legon, Winnifred Wallwork, Dorothy Wallwork, Mardel Carter, Eva Howarth, Mabel Busby and Doris Wagstaff and the junior girls, M. Godfrey, Dorothy Locke and G. Coleman. The gentlemen in the ensemble were E. Whiteside, S. Roberts, F. Wallwork, D. Ford, C. Hopkins, G. Carpenter and A. Rose.

RETAILERS PLAN CLEAN-UP WEEK

Campaign Will Be Held During the Week of May 5.

PLENTY OF ODD JOBS.

Plans for the big "Clean-up; Paint-up; Give-a-Man-a-Job" campaign to be held here during the week commencing May 5 under the auspices of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce were further advanced at a meeting of the Retail Merchants Section of the Chamber held yesterday afternoon under chairmanship of James Juby.

Mayor Roland Denne in giving the campaign his hearty endorsation stated, "The Spring clean-up campaign is a regular activity in the Chamber's program and has effectively proven its value not only in developing better conditions in safety, sanitation and health, but also in uniting all classes in a movement for civic improvement. It creates an atmosphere of optimism and encouragement, and is the means of giving much needed work to the unemployed of our city".

J. J. Dorris, secretary-treasurer of the Chamber intimated that this year the campaign is to be run to a schedule suggested by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Monday is designated as "home inspection day"; Tuesday "community day"; Wednesday "paint - up, clean - up day"; Thursday "discarded clothing day"; Friday, "sanitation day", and Saturday, "beautification day".

In its daily sequence the program suggests that all houses and yards could be inspected, renovated, cleaned, painted(where necessary), and gardened, (where possible). Schools, hospitals, churches and public buildings require a general cleaning, both internally and externally. Stores, manufacturing and railroad properties could be made more wholesome and a greater degree of efficiency has in past year been felt as one of the general results. Vacant unsightly lots, may be transformed into gardens and playgrounds.

Not the least of the benefits from the campaign will be the large number of odd jobs that need doing and that will provide employment, if only of a very temporary nature, to the city's unemployed. Anyone requiring the services of a man, may readily obtain them by making application to the unemployed registration bureau at the city hall, in charge of Art Metheral.

While the Chamber is assured of a good measure of support from the local retail merchants who will feature special displays of household needs, the Chamber is also seeking the cooperation of both the Public and Separate School Boards of Education, in contacting the school children.

The Irish Free State unemployment total has just passed the 100,000 mark.

German railways will test "bucket-type" cars for hauling coal and ore.

INSULL SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

Spell in Ship's Salon Worries Friends—Blamed on Smoking.

DUCKS PHOTOGRAPHERS.

S. S. EXILONA, AT CASABLANCA, Morocco, April 25.—(A.P.)—Recurrence of an old ailment—heart trouble—caused concern to-day for the welfare of the Exilona's famous captive passenger, Samuel Insull.

He suffered a slight heart attack last night as he puffed at a big black cigar and chatted with fellow passengers in the ship's salon.

The 74 year old Chicagoan's face went white; his expression was one of great pain. Before a word was said, however, he arose and hastily left the room.

"Too much smoking," he said on his return a few minutes later. Insull planned to cut down on his smoking to-day.

Aside from that, he apparently took no notice of the slight attack. But others were concerned for his health.

Insull supplied a humorous interlude yesterday when he fled from Spanish photographers.

"I must protect home industries," he said. "These fellows want to rush pictures away by airplane to beat the American photographers who 'took' me at Catania. They're trying to snap my picture without my consent. I've had enough."

DRAMA FESTIVAL IN FULL SWING

Galt Club's 'Brothers in Arms' Finds Favor in Eye of Critic J. T. Grein.

CANADIAN AUTHOR.

By RAY BROWN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, April 24. (C.P.) Three more of the 22 competing amateur dramatic teams will face the footlights here to-night in the Dominion Drama Festival. Before the critical eye of James T. Grein, finals adjudicator, groups from Ottawa, Sarnia and Regina will make their effort for the Canadian amateur dramatic crown. Last night the competing teams came from Toronto, Saint John, N.B., and Galt, Ont. Even two days' program gives some idea of the scope of the festival.

Across the stage will move the shadowy figures of the great Kublai Khan, the charming Kikachin, and the materialistic Marco Polo, as outlined by Eugene O'Neill, when the Ottawa Drama League presents two scenes from the colorful drama "Marco Millions." With a cast of 10 players, this presentation will be one of the most ambitious made thus far in the festival.

Last night three one-act plays were viewed by a capacity first-night audience. "Brothers in Arms," presented by the Galt Collegiate Institute Staff Players Club, found favor in the eye of the adjudicator. "A charming Canadian play" was one of the comments of Mr. Grein on this production. The author is Merill Denison, a Canadian playwright.

The opening presentation last night was "Minnie Field" by E. P. Conckle, which the Toronto Central High School of Commerce played. Monotony of action was the criticism of Mr. Grein on this effort.

He had similar criticism for the second offering "Mansions" by Hildegrade Flanner. Preesnted by the Saint John Theatre Guild, this delicate little play did not carry conviction to the critic. He said that the actors had failed, he thought, to give forth the soul of the piece, and also that the acting was not always in tune with the words.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: Since the recent deflation of my bankroll, I've been doing my own manicuring at home. There's one thing that has me puzzled, though, and perhaps you can help me. Is it, or is it not proper to cut the cuticle when manicuring the fingernails?

"LEILA."

When the fingernails have been neglected for any length of time, and the cuticle has become heavy and ragged, it is usually best to trim it evenly. However, when the nails are manicured regularly, the cuticle is usually kept pushed back properly, and cutting really isn't necessary. If each night before you retire you wrap a bit of cotton around an orange stick, dip it in warmed olive oil, push back your cuticle with it, and permit the oil to remain on over night, your cuticle will remain soft and not in need of cutting.

"Dear Miss Glad: Well, I've tossed away the old girdle now—and I've you to thank for it. You see, by following that grand reducing course outlined in your 'New Figure' booklet, I've managed to lose 34 pounds. And I don't have to worry about those slinky spring styles now! However, I look a great deal like Joan Bennett of cinema fame, and would like to try that new coiffure she's adopted. Can you tell me how this star now arranges her locks?

"LILLIAN."

The new coiffure that Joan Bennett recently adopted is one of the new short bobs. She parts her hair rather low on the left side. This gives her a chance to make an unusually wide first wave on the right side of her head, where the heavier part of the hair is. The first dip of this wave is over the temple. In the back, the natural neckline shows from ear to ear, and the hair is waved in a swirl effect, with soft ringlets at the ends. While on the left side, the hair is waved softly back to reveal the hairline and the left ear.

"Dear Miss Glad: I recently heard that cornmeal constitutes an excellent skin beautifier. Do you think that this is really true? And if it is, could you possibly tell me just how the cornmeal should be used? PATRICIA."

Cornmeal can indeed be used to improve the condition of the skin. It can be used alone on a moistened and slightly lathered washcloth as a skin cleanser. Or it can be made into a face mask. To prepare the face mask, one-half cup of the cornmeal should be combined with enough milk to form a thick, smooth paste that will spread easily. The skin should be thoroughly cleansed with cleansing cream and then with soap and water, before the mask is applied. Then the paste should be spread generously over the face and permitted to dry. When thoroughly dry it should be removed with tepid water and a a soft cloth. And as the final step unless the skin is naturally very oily, a bit of nourishing or cold cream should be patted into the skin in order to counteract any drying effects.

BENSFORT

On Friday night the Bensfort Club presented their play "There Goes the Bride" in Fletcher's Hall in Bailieboro. There was a good crowd, the proceeds amounting to over twenty dollars. Readings were given by Misses Willa Watt and Isobel Dawson between acts.

Miss Helen Howson of Port Hope spent the week-end at the home of her parents.

Master Ralph Barnard of Bailieboro spent a couple of days this week with his aunt, Miss Velma Barnard.

Miss Joan Pue visited Miss Jean Stinson of Millbrook on Friday.

Mrs. George Nurse is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clifford Emberson.

Mrs. Hector Jewison of Oshawa is visiting in the vicinity.

On Sunday evening the executive of the Sunday School met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dawson to discuss summer plans. It was decided to hold the Sunday School anniversary towards the end of May and to secure a good speaker for that date. Plans were made to have a pageant and special music on Mother's Day, May 13th, the two services being taken in one. Further announcements will be made later regarding the Sunday School picnic to be held in June on some local camp ground. Promotions are to be made in some of the intermediate and primary classes in the near future. A report was made stating that $65 was realized from the play in 1933. Those present at the meeting were: Edmund Dawson, W. C. Wood, Mrs. H. Howson, Mildred Dawson, Gomer Robinson, Willan Wood, Mrs. W. C. Dawson, Mrs. C. H. Barnard.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Barnard, Miss Velma Barnard and Miss Mildred Hall motored to Norwood on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Dawson visited Peterborough on Monday.

W.E.C. APPEAL DISMISSED.

OTTAWA, April 24 (C.P.).—The appeal of Western Electric Co., Inc., and Northern Electric Co., Ltd., against Baldwin International Radio Co., of Canada, Ltd., for alleged patent infringement was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Canada to-day.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., APR. 25.—Alarmed studio officials forbade Jean Muir to play polo, but now she has hopped off a horse into an airplane. The youthful Warner star, who has out-Hepburned Hepburn, says she is going to fly and defies her employers to stop her.

Jean isn't satisfied to be just a passenger either. She plans to go after a pilot's license, starting her lessons immediately under the guidance of Art Kline, former war flyer with Rickenbacker, and now transportation manager for the Warner studios.

The rumor-hounds will tell you that George Brent is responsible for Jean's sudden interest in aviation. The two are seen together frequently since Brent's separation from Ruth Chatterton and the actor, who has a brand new pilot's license himself, made a date to take Jean for a sky-ride on Thursday.

Meanwhile, the pair are being considered for a picture together.

A HUMAN
moving photodrama that treats of a subject hitherto greeted with lifted eyebrows and shocked, hushed voices, is now on view at the Regent Theatre under the pertinent title, "What Price Innocence?"

Jean Parker, lovely little brunette, is excellent in the role of the tragic little heroine. Minna Gombell is no less impressive in the unsympathetic role of the mother, and Willard Mack, the picture's author and director, is truly splendid as the gracious and gentle old family physician.

The theme has been handled with such understanding delicacy and tact that it emerges as powerful entertainment with no obtrusive preachment or crudely handled situation to mar its quality.

Ben Alexander is the handsome young scoundrel who deceives Ruth Parker. Others in the splendid cast are Bryant Washburn, Beatrice Banyard, Betty Grable and Maurice Murphy.

The comedian won't go on with his act at Hollywood affairs unless the master of ceremonies also gives Young credit There is a free give and take of wisecracks between the pair and Young has more influence than anyone else over the whimsical comedian. As a last resort, the studio appealed to him the other day to try to get Fields over for costume fittings.

The following telephone conversation is reported between the two:

"Mr. Meadows, I want you over here immediately."

"You wouldn't talk to me like that if I were there."

"Oh yeah? If you were here, I'd punch you right on the nose."

"You can't do that," shouted Fields "It's my favorite prop."

TO MY KNOWLEDGE,
King Vidor's 'Our Daily Bread' is the first instance of extras actually living on the set of a picture. The director has built a model village on location and several atmosphere people have moved into the little colony. The Vidor film deals with the back-to-the-land movement and with cooperative industry. His figures say that in Southern California alone 200,000 people are trading services through various cooperative agencies

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

We may divide the human race into three classes. Let us call one the 'normal" or "average" pattern. This type goes through life in an ordinary manner, mixing his acts in about equal proportion between those that are inspired by reason and emotion. His life is a mixture of staid, sober actions conforming to the conventional pattern of the particular strata of society to which he belongs, but at times given to flights of fancy, to the performance of silly, ridiculous, illogical or actually harmful things, but nearly always with enough common sense to bring himself "back to earth" before going beyond his depth in flights of emotional stimulus. In other words, he is able to "keep both feet on the ground."

Then there are two extremes from this average or normal pattern, "the emotionalist" and "the phlegmatic." Probably the most unpopular individual in the world is the extremely phlegmatic soul who apparently never has a thought beyond satisfying the most elemental urges.

The emotionalist, on the other hand, goes through life with a constant relapsing fever of mental exuberance or despondency. He figuratively "knocks all the tin pans off the shelf," raising a terrific din and turmoil, irritating himself and his friends. He heads all the "movements"; writes all the nonsensical literature; is either crowing like a young rooster about his mental superiority or sunk in the depths of despair.

If we were free to choose the ideal type of personality for ourselves and our friends, we doubtless would pick those elements that would lead to a peaceful, happy, contented life. We would endow ourselves and our friends with generosity, a sense of humor, personal integrity, enough emotionalism to enjoy the pleasure of life, and couple this with enough sober sense to be serious and practical about the duties pertaining to making a living. We would eliminate extreme radicalism, selfishness and greed, hypocrisy, ignorance, hysteria, and all the other unlovely traits that so many of us unfortunately possess.

We would certainly endow ourselves with a certain amount of Spartan fortitude, that would enable us to "take it on the chin" without flinching.

Such an ideal state would eliminate a large per cent of the business of the physician, because so many human ills are directly attributable to an unstable nervous system. It is really remarkable how large a per cent of examinations result in no organic findings, and the diagnosis of hysteria or neurosis has to be made. The point may well be taken that possibly the physician makes mistakes, that many so-called cases of nervousness are actually caused by some organic disease which has escaped the physician. Undoubtedly a small per cent of such mistakes does occur, but modern physicians are reasonably certain of their ability to divide "sickness into two main groups, functional and organic.

Organic disease relate to structure changes in the various organs due to infections, growths or degenerative changes incident to age.

Functional diseases represent only a disturbance in physiology or function, with no demonstrative changes in the organs themselves. The patient may be just as sick and miserable, or even more so, than if an organic disease is present.

PROPRIETOR KIDNAPPED WISCONSIN OIL STATION

ST. PAUL, April 25 (A.P.) — A midnight raid on an Ellsworth, Wis. oil station by three men, who kidnapped the proprietor, yesterday intensified the search for John Dillinger mobsters in the Twin City area.

George "Baby Face" Nelson, Chicago criminal, meanwhile was definitely identified at the Department of Justice as the Dillinger mobsman who killed Special Agent W. Carter Baum in the gunplay in Wisconsin woods early Monday.

Nelson escaped from the Illinois State Penitentiary in February, 1932, where he was serving a sentence of from one year to life for first degree robbery. He is 22 years old.

The Justice Department said it had no information of a report that the Dillinger mob was in Cincinnati.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The value of things and the realization and appreciation of their worth are two different things. The price may be high or low according to the circumstances of purchase, but this neither increases nor decreases the genuine value and worth of the articles. It may be that the fluctuation of styles raises or lowers the monetary value while it in no way influences the intrinsic worth. To be specific clothes, shoes, etc., have precisely as fine materials in them when they are in style or when they are out, but the price paid is higher at one time than at the other. The seasonal desirability of buying them at the different times is what weighs in the balance.

* * * * * * *

Then there are things bought second hand, either at stores or at auctions. The first benefit of the furniture and furnishings, china, ornaments, etc., is attained by the initial purchaser. But so fickle is the value in which such articles are held when rebought that some get higher prices and some lower than those originally paid. An article in current style or in that of a little while back is counted as second hand and may or may not bring its real value. Articles known to be very old or even quite old are apt to bring higher prices than those originally paid even though the first bloom of freshness is gone. Provided the craftsmanship is as good in the more recent articles as in the old ones, the intrinsic worth of those having the least use and wear is more, even though the price paid is less. However, there is a patina of age that brings its price, and the quaintness of the articles and their charm of style lend their elements in raising prices of the old, really old, articles.

* * * * * * *

When furnishing a house, it is well to remember the points I have stressed. Decide upon what sum you can pay in total and whether you want brand new articles and furnishings, and get the first use of them, or whether you want excellence of worth new or old. Then, too, determine whether you prefer antiques or modern furnishings. Articles in all the classes described can be bought. It is for the purchaser to realize values not alone intrinsically, but also through appreciation and knowledge.

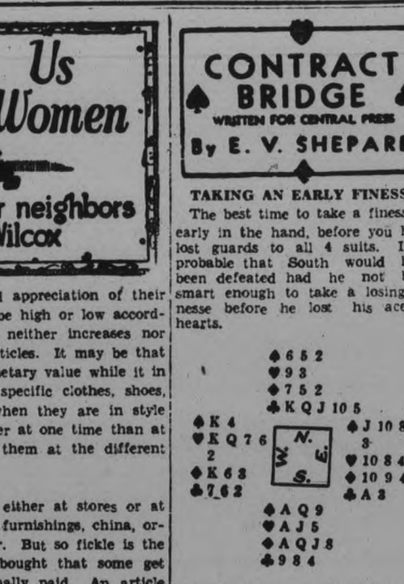
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

TAKING AN EARLY FINESSE

The best time to take a finesse is early in the hand, before you have lost guards to all 4 suits. It is probable that South would have been defeated had he not been smart enough to take a losing finesse before he lost his ace of hearts.



Bidding went: South, 1-diamond; West, 1-heart; North, 2-clubs; South 3 no-trumps, which ended the auction.

Of course West led his fourth best heart. The rule-of-11 showed that East held 2 cards higher than the 6, so dummy played low. East put up the 8, forcing the J.

The declarer led his 9 of clubs, overtook with dummy's 10, then when East held off playing the ace, hoping that South held only one more club, dummy led the 7 of diamonds. East put up his 9, the J covered, and West was in with his K.

West led the 2 of hearts. Dummy covered with the 9. East played the 10, and he was allowed to hold the trick. He led back his last heart. South's ace won, and he led his second club. East won with the ace. He led the J of spades. South's ace won the trick.

South led his last club. Dummy won and ran off 2 club tricks while the declarer discarded his 2 losing spades. West held his hearts and the K of spades, letting go his 2 useless diamonds.

The declarer had lost only 1 heart trick, 1 diamond trick and 1 club trick. He had won 1 spade trick, 2 heart tricks and 4 club tricks. He was certain of his contract, even before he saw West let go 2 diamonds. Those discards assured him of 4-odd, and he ran them off as soon as dummy's clubs were gone. Losing to West's K of diamonds, before South lost his ace of hearts did the trick.

There were two ways by which the contract might have been defeated. The first way was in case East had won the first trick in clubs, and established his partner's suit for him by leading hearts, before West lost his K of diamonds. The second way was for West to have allowed South to hold the first lead of diamonds, as if East held the K. Either of those stratagems cannot beat double-dummy play by South, but would he have played as if he saw the cards?

May Call Imperial Parley On Defence

LONDON, Eng., April 25. (C P. Cable)—In a special despatch from its Canberra correspondent The Times said to-day the suggestion had arisen during the visit of Stanley Bruce, Australian Minister to the United Kingdom, that an Imperial Conference might be held next year in London to consider question of defense and economic policy in the light of the Ottawa agreements.

The newspaper said feeling existed in Australia that in view of an apparent standstill in disarmament negotiations the decline in Empire defenses had created a situation of grave importance.

In an editorial on the same subject The Times expressed the opinion there was no reason why discussion of possible effects of the British decision to restrict agricultural imports throughout quotas or any other question should wait any conference.

CONFIDENCE IN MAYOR

STRATFORD, Ont., April 25. — (CP)—The Stratford Single Men's Unemployed Association was on record today as having confidence in Mayor O. J. Kerr as being the only man on the city council from whom the Association could get any satisfaction on relief questions. A meeting of the Association last night over-ruled a suggestion that a vote of confidence in the mayor might be interpreted to mean endorsation of his labor policies.

The confidence vote was extended to Mayor Kerr as an individual.

EXCELSIOR CLASS PRESENTS PROGRAM

Packed House Enjoys Play 'Nancy Anna Brown's Folks' in S. S. Hall.

The season for amateur plays is not yet ended, as was evidenced last night with the initial performance of the three-act comedy-drama "Nancy Anna Brown's Folks" by the Excelsior Class of St. James' United Sunday School. This excellent production under the capable direction of M. Drysdale was presented for the benefit of the Fairview United Church, with a large and appreciative audience in attendance.

A drama within a drama, this play exhibits a somewhat unusual plot—full of interest, quick movement and with the ordinary quota of romantic developments. Here the story demands that the roles of professional actors be filled by amateurs and this difficult task was done with much ease and naturalness by the well-chosen cast of young people.

At the rising of the curtain the two stage hands, Pete (Ernie Walling) and Dave (Bob Simmons) are seen working upon the setting of the Grand Theatre stage, upon which is worked out much of the action of the play. Here we are introduced to Ma and Pa Brown—Nancy Anna Brown's folks—and these quaint characters are endeared to their audience by the skilful acting of Helen Crowe and M. Drysdale. Grant Palmer gives a finished performance as the stage director, Nick Miles, who is finally affianced to Inez Clifton (Dorothy Drysdale) who plays adventuress parts.

Among other members of the troupe is Rod Quinton, who plays the part of a villain, and who is well depicted by Frank Hitchins, in his matrimonial ventures. Every troupe boasts its "ingenue" and in this case she is Connie Stair (Hazel Palmer) who, with Val Vincent (Sid Turner) the comedian, supplies many of the lighter touches of humour in the play—incidentally, they finally combine forces and "live happily ever after." A great deal of hilarity is also introduced by Juliet and Denny Saul, both of whom are actors, playing character parts. These roles are excellently portrayed by Frieda Pavey and Ernie Gregson, respectively.

The leading man, Barry Ramond, is an attractive person as presented by Bob Kitchen's splendid acting. His love affair culminates happily, too, after a series of reverses when he at last wins Willa Dean, the leading lady's erstwhile maid—and a very winsome character as played by Mrs. R. Kitchen.

Last, but not least, is the leading lady herself, the real Nancy Anna Brown, whose stage name is Rosalind Raylor, and who creates rather an unfavourable impression at first, due to her refusal to recognize her parents because of their poverty and poor appearance. When she learns of their sudden acquisition of wealth she does a 'right about face" but is spurned by her irate father. However, all complications are worked out successfully at the end and Jean Rose does full justice to this rather exacting role.

Altogether this production is well worth seeing and is a worthy effort of this enterprising class of which Miss Jessie Martin is the teacher, and which has a long line of past dramatic successes to its credit.

LISTEN—

MILTON, Ore., April 25.—(CP)—"Just listen," said the contractor who was erecting the new fire station. He proceeded to demonstrate the fire siren to one of the councilmen.

The siren sounded, and then kept on sounding. He had forgotten how to shut it off.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

If your right side is tight in your finishing position, you can be sure that it was tense as you were hitting the ball. Tension never occurs suddenly in the swing. It always increases as the action progresses. To locate the origin of any tension, check over the positions and movements you perform from starting from the point where you place your hands on the club. Your right side should be passive and simply following the leadership of your left side as you strike the ball. Then the right side will be almost completely relaxed at the finish at your swing. Check up on your right arm and shoulder in your starting position and at the finish of each swing. This will tell you exactly what your right side in doing during the swing.

Voice of the People

April 26, 1934.

"NO CUTTING IN."

Sports Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—With the softball and baseball season soon due to open, I would like to explain the stand the Men's Softball League here takes toward baseball. Sometimes there are misunderstandings in this respect.

The City Softball League has every wish to co-operate with baseball locally, and is always willing to help that sport. We believe the two games are different and should be kept so. The players should not mix. While we do not bar baseball players from our league, most of the softball managers would prefer their players to play nothing but softball, as a young fellow who plays both games cannot be depended upon always to be available to his team when wanted. Practically everyone connected with our league is also a baseball enthusiast and may be seen every Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park.

Softball is essentially a game to be played by those who cannot or do not play baseball. It should be kept this way, and then more boys would have a summer sport, and neither softball nor baseball would be "cutting in" on each other. I realize also that there is more future for a youth in baseball, if he is thinking of taking up sports as a career, than there is in softball. Both are good games and I am strong for both being kept separate and distinct. I believe I am speaking for the whole Men's Softball League when I make these statements.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours sincerely,

FRED C. SCATES.

President of Men's Softball League.

A couple of veteran clouters, Bill Dickey of New York Yankees and "Pie" Traynor of Pittsburg Pirates held the leading places in the "Big Six" yesterday, when the first compilation of the leading batters' records was made a week after the major league season opened. BROWNIE HOLDS RED WINGS FOR 1 TO 0 VICTORY

Four-hit pitching Gives Newark the Series Over Rochester 2 to 1.

ROYALS ON EVEN TERMS.

Three Montreal Hurlers Hold Orioles to Give Hits for 6 to 2 Victory.

(By Associated Press.)

Newark's International League fans apparently were unduly alarmed over what they thought was the weakest link in Bob Shawkey's rebuilt Bears—the pitching staff.

Two days after young Jack Larocca had turned in a six-hit performance to cheer Shawkey's heart, Walter Brown, 260-pound right-hander, checked in with a four-hitter yesterday as the Bears whipped Rochester Redwings 1-0. The victory gave Newark the series two games to one.

Brown had to be good to earn the decision over young Norbert Kleinke, up from the New York-Penn. League, and he was. Not a Rochester runner got as far as third base and the burly right-hander never was in danger of being scored in. Kleinke was almost as effective in the seven innings he worked, allowing only six hits.

On Even Terms.

In the only other game played yesterday, Izzy Goldstein, Clarence Fisher, and Ray Fritz combined to hold Baltimore Orioles to five hits as Montreal Royals won a 6-2 decision and earned an even split in the four-game series. Pete ("Jablonski") Appleton was rudely assaulted for 14 hits and all the Royals' runs in the eight innings he worked.

TUMBLING THE PINS

The best bowling teams hit the bumps one in a while, but the Nashua Paper girls' team took a mighty tumble last night when they tangled with Mrs. Coursey's Lawn Bowlers, in the play-off series for the championship of the Ladies' City League. The Nashua team have been hitting a fast pace all season and turned in several outstanding performancse in the last quarter, while their opponents have won their way into the finals by close, hard-fought battles. Last night, however, the Paper-makers got away on the wrong foot and lost the series by 203 pins in three games.

Mrs. C. Dwyer and Mrs. J. Hogle gave the Lawn Bowlers the edge when they both topped the five hundred mark, scoring 187-168-184—539, and 226-169-138—533, respectively. Mrs. J. Jeffries was next with 479 and Mrs. M. Killingbeck rolled 427. Eileen White was the only bowler on the losing side who performed up to scratch. She turned in 143-131-227—501.

Team scores— Lawn Bowlers 740-772-823—2,366. Nashua Paper 717-623-623—2,163.

Freddy Martin's team of bowlers from the C.G.E., which represented the Duffus Alleys as the No. 2 team in the Inter-alley league, claim the five-pin championship of the city on their performance this year, and are ready and willing to battle any other five men crew in a three-game play-off series, in defence of their title. Vince Anthony and Chief George Gimblett, both of whom had first class teams, are therefore given a chance to tangle with the Electrics. These two captains or any others can arrange a series by communicating with Fred Martin at the C.G.E.

The Peterborough Cricket Club holds a general meeting this evening at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce. The special subcommittee will report at this time and everyone interested in the sport is cordially invited to attend. The Oval is now in good shape for practices, and following is the first part of the season's schedule of fixtures:

May 5—Whittakers C.C. at home; May 12—Grove School at Lakefield; May 19—Grove School at home; May 24—First round County Championship; May 26—Whittakers C.C. at home; June 2—Trinity College at Port Hope.

GIANTS ALSO WIN.

Red Sox Blank Washington 5-0—Tigers' 7-3 Win Keeps Them On Top.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Among the numerous perplexing problems which have arisen to plague the managers in the first week of the major league season is the big one which faces Washington's Joe Cronin—"What's wrong with the Senator's pitching?"

Last season it was largely the hurling of the Senatorial "Big Four" Alvin Crowder, Earl Whitehill, Monte Weaver and Walter Stewart, which carried the Nats to the American League championship. So far this season 10 different elbowers have made a total of 23 appearances in eight games and the standing of the clubs shows Washington in seventh place with three victories and five defeats.

Stewart made his second unsuccessful start of the season yesterday, gaining an even footing with whitehill and Weaver as the Senators opened their home season and took a 5-0 trimming from the Red Sox.

With 25,000 fans, including President Roosevelt, looking on, the slender southpaw pitched four shutout innings. Then a rainstorm held up the game for an hour and when it was resumed Manager Cronin decided to turn the hill over to Jack Russell.

The Sox belted him out in one inning, scoring three runs on a walk and four straight singles. They clouted Crowder freely for two more runs before Bob Burke finished up. Johnny Welch, meanwhile, limited the champions to five hits.

15-2 Win for Indians

While Oral Hildbrand hurled four-hit ball, Cleveland Indians clouted four St. Louis flingers for 19 hits, including a pair of homers by Hal Trosky, and won 15-2. Detroit Tigers cut loose in the sixth to score six runs off Joe Heving and subdued the White Sox 7-3 in another slugfest.

The only real mound duel of the day came at New York where 40,000 fans, the largest throng of the round of "home" openings, turned out to see those noted sluggers, the Yankees and Athletics, do battle.

Charles Rufus ("Red") Ruffing, and John Marcum allowed only four hits apiece in their argument and the only run came when Frank Crosetti, belted a home run in the sixth.

Hold Winning Streak

Chicago Cubs continued the business of showing their National League rivals how it is done by winning their sitxh straight victor, a 3-2 decision, from Cincinnati Reds. They did all their scoring off Dazzy Vance in the first inning.

Right on the Cubs' heels came the world champion Giants with an 11-7 triumph over the Phillies, gained largely through the home run route. Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Mel Ott pasted two homers apiece. Another four-bagger played an important part in deciding the day's results as Freddy Lindstrom of Pittsburgh came to bat in the ninth inning with his team two runs behind the Cardinals and two mates on base and pasted one far over the fence to win the game.

Boston Braves found a near relative in Walter Beck, big Brooklyn right hander, and before he yielded the floor to Leslie Munns in the fifth they had pounded out five runs to win their first home game, 5-3.

Battling Ike

The new manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs of baseball fame, has apparently gathered together a fighting ball club. Ike Boone's cohorts have been in the thick of every fray so far this season and given a couple of pitchers, ought to get somewhere. Boone, as usual, is leading the hitters.

FAVOR CANADIAN IN EMPIRE DASH

Bert Pearson Dominion's Hope to Retain Sprint Honors in England.

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.)—Canada's supremacy in the Empire events, won and held by Percy Williams of Vancouver, since he took both Olympic dash events at Amsterdam in 1928, will be threatened this summer at the British Empire games in England. But a Canadian, Bert Pearson of Hamilton, is likely to start as favorite.

South Africa's Daniel Joubert, one of the most feared sprinters at the 1932 Los Angeles Olympiad, has not been selected for the Empire games. In his meteoric career, Joubert equalled the world record three years ago at Cape Town, being timed in 9.6 seconds, and was credited unofficially with even better time.

In Los Angeles he finished fourth in the final, behind the United States stars, Eddie Tolan, Ralph Metcalfe and George Simpson. Canada's dashmen did not even qualify for the final. M. W. Theunissen of Natal, a 10-second man, will be the leading South African sprinter in the London games.

Pearson has been caught in 9.6 and 9.7. The Hamilton youngster was only 17 when he competed in the Olympic Games and he has developed in the last two years. He is out to retain the sprint title Williams captured in 1930 at the first Empire games at Hamilton, Ont.

EDINBURGH (CP)—An open-air theatre with seating accommodation for 2,500 peopld is proposed as part of a new scheme to be carried out in the Braid Burn Valley, near Braid Hills golf course.

HAMILTON BOY LEADS TO-DAY IN TITLE RACE

May Dethrone Camp Borden Airman From Amateur Middleweight Throne.

PROVINCIAL MEET.

Kitchener and St. Catharines Boys to Meet in Final of 147-pound Class.

TORONTO, April 25 (CP) — A well-built youth from Hamilton with plenty of poke in his punches and with more than a passing knowledge of the finer points of the game loomed to-day in the path of Ken Robinson, Camp Borden flier, seeking the Ontario amateur boxing middleweight crown for the second year in succession.

Ken Wadsworth, blond Hamilton youth, stamped himself as a serious threat to Robinsons' tenure on the throne by the manner in which he disposed of Harry Greb, Toronto, in the Provincial championships here last night.

Greb, with a style similar to that of his namesake, the old "Pittsburgh Windmill," fought ferociously against the Hamilton boy, but Wadsworth's straight shooting right landed time and again on his rivals solar plexus and he piled up points to win easily.

A One-Sided Victory

Robinson, too, scored a victory when he outpointed Ernie McClelland of London in a one-sided match. The other survivors in this class are Sherman Teal of Niagara Falls and Colen Rowe, Woodstock.

Deceptive in style and deceiving in appearance, Herbie Dyment of Kirkland Lake showed the best clouting of the night to defeat Warren Kennedy of Woodstock in a light-heavyweight mill. Dyment, looking like a welterweight, outguessed his rival repeatedly with his two-fisted hitting and won in a canter.

A dark-horse showed up in the heavyweight section, when Harry Samwell of Kingston took a one-round victory from Alf Walton, Guelph, last years' light-heavyweight winner. Samwell dropped Walton to the canvas with a wicked right to the eye which opened a cut and resulted in the fight being stopped a half-second from end of the session.

147-Pound Final

In the 147-pound class, Gordon Schmaltz, Kitchener, and Lawrence Denapolis, St. Catharines, will fight it out for the title. Schmaltz outslugged John Pasquino to gain the final, while Denapolis given a split decision—the only one of the night—over Ard Adie of Guelph.

Three other Hamilton boys scored victories and all advanced into the finals in their respective classes. Russ McCarthy will meet Eddie Hutchinson, Toronto, for the 105-pound title; Angelo Callura tangles with Tony Zanzano, Toronto, for bantamweight honors, while Lefty Jordan will meet Jimmy Humphries, also of Toronto, for the lightweight crown.

No. 1 for Jimmy

Here we have James Emory Foxx, American league batting champion, cracking out his first home run of the season. The Philadelphia Athletics' star hopes to pound out enough four-ply socks to break Babe Ruth's record of 60.

SITE DEFINITELY SETTLED FOR McLARNIN-ROSS BOUT

NEW YORK April 25. — (AP) — The site for Jimmy McLarnin's welterweight title defense against Barney Ross of Chicago lightweight champion was definitely set yesterday for Madison Square Garden Bowl on Long Island. The match is scheduled for fifteen rounds May 28.

Contracts for the match were filed today with New York State Athletic Commission and accepted by the board. McLarnin the Vancouver Irishman will receive 40 per cent. of the net receipts and Ross 25 per cent. The match is being promoted by the Free Milk Fund for Babies Inc. Ticket prices range from $2 to $10, exclusive of taxes.

BOSTWICK'S MATE IN THIRD POSITION

Behren's Light Sussex Wins Famous City and Suburban Handicap.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, April 25 (C.P. Cable).—Major C. Behren's Light Sussex won the famous city and suburban handicap over the mile and a quarter course this afternoon.

M. I. Simon's Play On was second and the United States campaigner, A. C. Bostwick's Mate, winner of many great races in North America, raced into third position in the fiel dof 14.

Light Sussex won by two lengths over Play On, and Mate was another three lengths back.

The betting was 100 to 7 against the winner, 9 to 1 against Play On, and 100 to 9 against Mate, the odds against the United States horse having considerably shortened overnight.

Light Sussex carried 118 pounds and was ridden by Harry Wragg. Play On, with Dines up, carried 113 pounds, and Mate, ridden by Freddy Fox, had an impost of 130 pounds.

It was the 81st renewal of the big handicap.

Mate was making his second start on this side, having been outrun in the Newbury Spring Cup, a shorter affair, 10 days ago. He is being pointed for the historic Ascot Gold Cup.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Having nothing else much on the mind but a hat that could stand a cleaning, we began thinking yesterday about some of the oldtimers in history, notably the old Greek soldier heroes. And we were just thinking what a whale of a time a livewire press agent could have had in those days. Virgil and a few other guys didn't do too badly but they didn't put enough punch in their stories to have the kids in school fighting to get at their stuff. It's much too dry. Look at that scrap Achilles and Hector had—what a spell spot for a good boxing writer to be! Even the prelim between Hector and Ajax wouldn't have been so dull. Not that it matters now—it's all old stuff—but those guys would certainly have kept a sports-writer busy and the fans all heated up.

• • • • • •

And they took their glory seriously, too. For instance, when Achilles, the big shot, developed something or other in his heel and kicked the bucket, there was quite a pow-wow as to who should get his shield. Seems his shield although it was made of gold and worth plenty of kopecks in any hock shop, was valued for the leadership of the army it signified. Well, the vote finally came down to two dudes, Ajax and Ulysses. The former was, we imagine, something like Jawn L. Sullivan—a tough battler who packed a kayo in both mitts, but muscle-bound between the ears. Or he was like Hack Wilson—could hit 'em a mile but didn't know how many days in the week there were. Now, Ulysses was more like Kid McCoy; he couldn't bust an egg with either fist but he knew so many tricks he never lost a fight. And he must have resembled Ty Cobb—not a heavy hitter but loaded with brains and always a headache to any rival twirler. Well, the old boys of the Greek army thought it over and finally they decided in favor of Ulysses, giving brains over brawn. And what did Ajax do, challenge him to a July 4th scrap in Madison Square Garden? Not a bit of it. He burned up worse'n Jimmy Durante and committed suicide! Yessir, those guys weren't Spring holdouts, they either got what they wanted or they bumped themselves off. What a spot for a sportswriter!

Yesterday we saw a dispatch which said: "Baseball fans will drink beer at Navin Field for the first time in history tomorrow at the Tiger opener. The State Liquor Control Commission today granted a license to the Michigan Sports Service Company of Detroit to sell beer in the ball park, but only in a refreshment room and not in the stands." And we got to thinking of the games we score over at Stevenson Park, and how we have to holler for the kids when we want to buy a bottle of pop on a red hot afternoon. And, since Premier Henry's pledge of beer by the glass doesn't include ball parks, we immediately sat down and wrote out an application for a job to the Detroit News, offering to work for room and board money.

But just in case the News hasn't heard of us—and doesn't want to—we've still got to look forward to summer sports here. We're glad to know that most of the local factories are going by daylight saving time, getting through by four o'clock in the afternoons. That's four o'clock our time. This means softball or baseball teams, playing twilight games, can get started by 5.15 or 5.30, our time, and play nine innings. In other words, the sporting ladies and gentry are pulling a "fastie" on those who voted against "fast time."

Tomorrow eve at eight in Duffus', the City Baseball League meets. Once again, we'd like to ask everyone interested in baseball for the youngsters to come out and see what can be done at this session. And anyone interested in entering a team should drop around and talk the matter over. Committee to check up on entries consists of Mike O'Brien, Bill Prindible and Jack Deannard. Alex Kay is convenor here and Bill Kay again represents the O.B.A.A. in this district. But there should be more than these men and the few other faithful followers out. Some of those minor league hockey managers ought to be on hand, and the local service clubs should send a representative After all kids' sports are important in the civic scheme and a little help now would get a good City Baseball League going for the summer with maybe a hundred youngsters enjoying themselves at a fine healthy sport.

Pete McGillen, president of the Girls' Softball League last year and vice-prexy this summer, is against the local loop affiliating with the Women's Union. He was chairman at the meeting last week when the motion was made to affiliate, but he didn't vote. "I am against it and have always been," he told us, "as it means the curtailment of the playing season here which is not in the best interests of players or followers of our league." Well, the matter will come up again next Wednesday when the league executive meets, and all officers and team managers should come prepared to discuss it thoroughly and vote once more on whether or not to affiliate.

Here's one for "Believe It Or Not" Ripley: The final game of the 1933 rugby season will be played in Ottawa on April 28th, 1934! Yowzah Ottawa Glebes and Carleton Place High play the final senior game of the Eastern Ont. Secondary School Assoc.—the game that was postponed because of cold weather last December. This should have no trouble copping the long distance record for rugby seasons, but we don't imagine the players kept in perfect shape between their last game and this one. We only hope it gets mild enough by this Saturday so they can play it off and not have to again postpone it on account of cold weather. Otherwise, they might be years settling the darned series . . . .

Players expected for the Petes' lacrosse lineup in that senior exhibition game with North Toronto at the Armouries this Friday are: Buster Whitton and Fred Ingram of Campbellford, Becky Jack of Havelock, Shine Bovin of Oshawa, and Pete King. Doug Miller Doug Hatton, Ira Dundas, Cliff Cadd, Mick Magee, Red Creighton and Carlos Routley of this town, with maybe a few others also. They practise again this evening and expect to slam into the Toronto seniors hard to test themselves in this game, as the Petes are still hoping for a senior O.A.L.A. group this year and claim they rate high enough for it. Proceeds of the game Friday will go to the Kinsmen Club.

AGRARIAN AND TIME CLOCK IN

Top Horses in Florida Derby Both Lining Up for Kentucky Classic.

RECORDS UNIMPRESSIVE.

Two of the prominent winter campaigners that are being prepped with the Kentuck Derby in view are the Brookmeade Stables Time Clock and Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian, both of which have attracted considerable attention in the early betting on the Blue Grass classic.

Time Clock will be running mate to the more highly regarded Cavalcade, if all goes well between now and May 5, the date set for the sixtieth renewal of the race at Churchill Downs.

The handsome son of On Watch-Milfoil, under the skilful thandling of Bob Smith has had a short but successful campaign in Florida. He was sent down to Hialeak Park from Columbia, S.C., at the fag end of the season and after running third in his initial start came back in his next effort to win the Florida Derby, beating Agrarian, Boy Valet and others.

Theres' a Chance

Time Clock will undoubtedly benefit from the conditioning obtained in Florida and under Smith's clever training he should retain that form. His proud owner, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, whose silks were carried to many fine victories last season, is counting on Cavalcade to win the big event, but she also believes Time Clock will prove to be a first-class running-mate.

Then, there is always the possibility that the lesser light of the two may gallop to fame and fortune; it has happened before.

The juvenile form of Time Clock was unimpressive, for he won one race in ten starts; was second once, and third twice, for total earnings of $1,050; he won ten times that much in his recent appearances in Florida and the result is his earning now aggregate $11,225.

Time Cook is a short-coupled colt, black in color and not of the speedy type. However he can be rated and the long route of the Kentucky Derby should be strictly in his favor.

Once a Plater

Agrarian was claimed by his present owner for only $2,500 from G. M. Odim, at Empire City last year. He graduated to the estate of fast company after having raced with lowly platers. In this eight starts in the silks of Mrs. Heller, the son of the successful young sire, Sickle, imported to this country by Joseph Widener, was never worse than second. He won three races for her and was five time runner-up.

Including his races at Florida, where he was one of the leading three-year-olds, Agrarian has been postward seventeen times, with five victories to his credit. He has improved remarkably, and while few believe he is possessed of sufficient quality to win the Derby, Agrarian is apt to prove one of the big surprises of the $30,000 fixture.

Agrarian was the biggest and heaviest horse seen under silks in Florida during the past winter. He is of the English type, with strong, long barrel, and impresses one as being a natural distance runner. His most notable effort was his second to Time Clock in the Florida Derby.

SUDBURY HONORS MARATHON KING

Dave Domonen Guest at Banquet and Lauded for Boston Victory.

SUDBURY, April 25 (C.P.).—More than 300 persons honored Dave Komonen, winner of the Boston Marathon, at a Board of Trade banquet here last night. Numerous presentations were made to the famous Finnish runner, and he was congratulated for his Boston victory on behalf of the Finnish government by Herbert Johnston, Finnish Consul at Copper Cliff.

Mayor W. M. Brodie welcomed Komonen back to Northern Ontario on behalf of Sudbury citizens. The Mayor presented Komonen with a razor and a toilet set.

The Finnish Consul tendered the noted runner a set of towels, and the Frood Mine Athletic Association whose colors Komonen carried in the Boston race, gave him a club bag. Other presentations were made by service clubs and the Board of Trade.

The marathoner made no speeches, but merely bowed and smiled as the presentations were made. Later he handed a written statement to President Tom Edward of the Board of Trade.

"My only regret," the statement said, "is that my inadequate knowledge of English prevents me from voicing my appreciation in the manner that I would wish."

Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines, who also attended the banquet, tendered the congratulations of the Government to Komonen.

Lalonde Re-signs With Les Canadiens

MONTREAL, April 25 (C.P.). — Newsy Lalonde has signed a one-year contract with the Canadian Hockey Club to manage and coach the Canadiens during the 1934-35 season of the National Hockey League.

Leo Dandurand, managing director of the club, stated he and his partner, Joseph Cataarnich, were very well satisfied with Lalonde's work and expressed the opinion the Frenchmen would have won the Stanley Cup if the team had not suffered major mishaps in the injuring of key players. Important changes will be made when the team starts out again next fall, Dandurand said.

Lester Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, conferred with Dandurand and is reported to be seeking the services of Howie Morenz.

Vancouver Province Team Ready For Dominion Basketball Final

Western Champions to Meet Montreal Nationals

Here are shown members of the Vancouver Province basketball team, new Western Canada basketball champions. From LEFT to RIGHT, FRONT ROW, are R. Kennington, B. Smith, H. McIntyre, W. Chater, R. Helem; BACK ROW—Dr. Cuthbert Taylor, manager; Ed. Armstrong, "Red" MacDonell, "Long John" Purves, A. Bumstead, N. Will, and "Chuck" Jones, coach.

By MAURICE SMITH
Central Press Canadian Correspondent.

WINNIPEG, April 25. — Mighty monarchs of Western Canada basketballdom, Vancouver Province are freely considered by Winnipeg experts to be one of the smartest teams ever to come out of the West in search of Dominion honors. The Vancouver champions swept all before them in their march to the Canadian final. Victors over Robertson Memorial and Raymond Union Jacks in the western playdowns, the big team from the coast is well qualified to represent the West in the titular struggle.

British Columbia is famous for its giant Douglas Fir trees and it seems that they make giant men out there, too, for there is no less than five members of the team who tower over six feet.

Most outstanding of these is "Long John" Purves. It is around the tall centre, he stretches the tape at 6 foot three, that Coach Chuck Jones has moulded his team. Exceedingly hard to stop because of his great height, Jones has trained his forwards to feed Purves the ball as often as possible. It is this method that had been responsible for the success of the "newsies" as they are more commonly called.

Ed. Armstrong and "Red" MacDonell make up a defence, the like of which has never before been seen on a Winnipeg floor. Both are six feet tall and gifted with an exceptionally long reach. Opposing forwards are forced to shoot from well out as they are seldom allowed to work in close for baskets.

Have Imposing Record.

Then there is Russ Kennington, Harvey McIntyre, Ross Helem, Bill Chater, Norm Will and Bert Smith. Each of these men plays his position well and likely to break up a game at any minute.

The coast hoopsters hung up a very imposing record during the 1933-34 season. They did lose a game in league play and have dropped only five in the play-offs. They figure their greatest triumph came at the expense of Victoria Blue Ribbons, present Canadian champions. Of course, the Ribbons were performing without the services of the Patrick brothers who have led Montreal Nationale to an eastern title.

Every member of the British Columbia team is familiar with the style of play of the Patricks, having played against the two sons of the famous Lester in exhibition games.

This Province team is practically an all-star aggregation. They were selected from the two strongest teams in the Vancouver City League in the 1932 season. While they do not promise the West another title, they say they will make things mighty interesting for the best the East has to send against them.

GILPIN TRAINING PAT GAIETY

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 25 — Frank Gilpin is preparing the Canadian-bred, Pat Gaiety, for a campaign on the Ontario circuit. Zakoor has arranged to ship his recent purchase, St. Nick, from here to Windsor.

LIST OF OFFICIALS ANNOUNCED CANADA'S BRITISH EMPIRE TEAM

Three of Most Brilliant Competitors in Former Olympiads to Hold Positions.

WILLIAMS AND WILSON.

TORONTO, April 25 (C.P.). — Canada is falling back on experienced Olympic performers to put the Dominion's 1934 British Empire Games team through its paces. Three of the most brilliant competitors in the Olympiads of 1928 and 1932 hold official positions on the team that will represent Canada in the London games this summer.

Percy Williams, double sprint victor at Amsterdam in 1928, is honorary manager of the men's track and field force it was announced last night. Alex Wilson, the greatest middle distance runner ever developed in this country, is to coach the team. The women's track team will be coached by Miss Fanny Rosenfeld.

All three were point-winners in Olympic competition. Besides his Amsterdam wins, Williams won the 100 yards event at the first Empire Games in Hamilton, Ont., in 1930. Wilson won the 440 yards at Hamilton and in the Los Angeles Olympics two years ago was second in the 800 metres and third in the 400 metres.

Perhaps the best all-round woman athlete in Canada a few years ago, Miss Rosenfelt was a star hurdler, sprinter, jumper and weight performer. She finished second to Betty Robinson of United States in the 100 yards final at Amsterdam—and it was a disputed point as to which won.

Robinson at Top

The dapper former Hamilton newspaperman, now of Burlington, (Bobby) Robinson has been named honorary manager of the whole Canadian contingent that may number 115 athletes and officials. He led the last two Canadian Olympic teams and organized the first Empire Carnival. His assistant is Sergeant John Leslie of Edmonton, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Miss Alexandrine Gibb, Widely-known Toronto sports writer, heads the women's track teams. Chaperone of the team is Mrs. R. J. Foster of Edmonton, president of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada.

Sam Manson of Hamilton is to have charge of the combined track and field section. Williams' assistant on the men's squad will be Harry Gillard of Hamilton. In charge of the boxers is Dennis White of Montreal and in charge of the Wrestlers, Frank Saxon of Montreal. Both have had Olympic experience.

Officials of the swimming, cycling and lawn bowling sections of the team have yet to be named.

NEW YORK, April 25 (A.P.) — Arthur W. Morse, Wall Street broker, yesterday was sentenced to a prison term of eight to twenty years on his plea of guilty to manslaughter in the first degree in connection with the death of Mrs. Edna Field Leavett, formerly of Brookline, Mass.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Oliver C. Bell,
Lakefield, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your card for analysis reveals many interesting characteristics. It shows that you are keen, quick and thoughtful. You are not accustomed to procastinate and you appear to detest anyone who will not hurry, when you think that haste is necessary. You can be very firm, and you can be most lenient. You are perhaps rather too generous at times, and often wish you had not given of your best to others. This is a natural consequence when one is as openhearted and humorous as you appear to be. The rounded curves of some of your letters suggest an interest in music. The firmness of the pressure throughout the signature illustrates very good willpower and determination. The small letter formation indicates that you have a propensity to think too quickly sometimes, and in so doing lose the ultimate objective as it were, through over enthusiasm. Your general character is excellent, and I think that you are rather inclined to judge others from your own viewpoint or standard. However, I think you have learned your lessons in the school of experience, haven't you? So there is no need to try to change anything.

Mrs. J. Banner,
R.R. 2, Fraserville, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your card for character analysis shows that you are not very fond of routine or detail, and that there are times when you become quite careless. You are emotional and apt to carry this characteristic to extremes. You are very quick and versatile. One seldom knows what to expect of you from one day to the next. I might suggest that you concentrate upon your versatility and put it to constructive use in a play-acting or fiction writing line, even if only as a hobby. It would at least relief you of self-consciousness, which at present seems to be holding you back from real progress. The long, soft, flying 't' bars show vivid imagination, but very little will-power or driving force, so you see, concentration is what is lacking most in your make-up. Apart from that, you are genuine, loyal, lovable and refined, yet quite a nervous individual. I mentioned 'play acting' but if you are past that stage of youth where interest in those younger recerations is lacking. You might try to encourage the little folks about you to enter into something of the sort. In doing this, you would be assisting your general health.

Mary E. Carban,
Lakefield, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your card for analysis reveals anxious determination, and excellent will-power. By the word 'anxious' I mean that you are willing to please at all times and give of your very best to your work. Your disposition is usually about the same and does not vary much from day to day. You are kind-hearted and friendly. You have a very good imagination, but should be most careful not to let it get the better of you. Your impulses are too generous for your own good. You are steady and reliable, honest and industrious. Yours is a very credible character and I can see no logical reason why you should not reap much happiness out of ths world as you pass through. Your friends should place confidence in your judgment, and should adore you for the richness of your personality. Business might interest you, but I think love and a home is preferable for one of your type. You birth-sign is Gemini The Twins. You friends should place confidence in your judgment, and shoul adore you for the richness of your pesonality. Business might interest you, but I think love and a home is preferable for one of your type. Your birth-sign is Gemini The Twins. You are ruled by Mercury. Friday is your lucky day. August and April the most fortunate months.

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

MILBURN'S HEALTH AND NERVE PILLS

There is no happiness in the home when the mother is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, has shortness of breath, faint and dizzy, can't sleep, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as she went to bed, and is downhearted and discouraged.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills will soon convince women it is not necessary to suffer, as they build up the nervous system and bring back the former health and vigor.

JANETVILLE W.I.

Ladies Hold "Backwards" Rally With Program Opposite to Usual Custom.

JANETVILLE, April 25. (Examiner Correspondence).— The local branch of the Women's Institute met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William English. As this was a "backwards" meeting everything was carried out entirely opposite to ordinary form. The ladies came attired in gowns with backs to front while their hats and gloves were worn in the same manner. They entered the back door of the pretty little log cabin home backwards and greeted Mrs. English with 'Good byes'.

Mrs. Charles McNeil occupied the chair and announced the opening of the meeting by the singing of 'God Save the King' and the repitition of the Institute code. A reading "What a difference fifty years makes" by Mrs. Joe Capstick was in keeping with the "backwards" idea. "A package of seeds" was an interesting reading by Mrs. Albert Heaslip. Mr. William English contributed a violin solo. Other interesting numbers were: Recitation 'Just a Boy" by Miss Violet Emery; reading, "Ain't it fine to-day?" by Mrs. Walter Walker; reading "Little Benny's Note Book" by Mrs. M. Armstrong; reading "Essays on a Cow" by Miss Edna Jackett; paper "Checkers, a game of Life", by Mrs. Oswald McGill; An "Observation" contest was sponsored by Mrs. Armstrong with Mrs. Heaslip winning the prize.

Proceeding with the 'backwards' plan the business session was held at this unusual time. It was planned to have a government speaker on May 29th when the annual open meeting will be held. The annual business meeting will also be held in May and nomination took place for President as Mrs. McNeil after two years of faithful service, has resigned her position. Those nominated were: Mrs. William Hill, Mrs. Albert Heaslip and Mrs. Oswald McGill. It was suggested that the club rooms be decorated with blue and gold as an attraction for the many summer sessions.

A delicious lunch was served backwards. The cakes were passed first, then the sandwiches and finally the plates. The hostesses were Mrs. Walter Walker, Mrs. George Heaslip, Mrs. E. A. Bradburn. All agreed that the meeting was a decided success and that the Institute was going 'forward' and not 'backwards' with a new zeal in the coming summer months.

PEERS FOLLOW LAW OF 1600'S FOR LORD DERBY

Grant Unanimous Permission for Member to Appear in Commons.

AVOID PENALTIES.

Noted Sportsman Would Defend Self Before Indian Committee.

LONDON, Eng., April 25. (C. P. Cable).—A 300-year-old law carrying dire penalties ror any Peer appearing before the House of Commons, without the upper chamber's consent, was revived in the House of Lords to-day and surmounted by the house unanimously giving its consent to Lord Derby's appearance before the Commons' committee on provileges.

Lord Derby was linked with Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for India, in charges by Winston Churchill that the two had secured substantial alteration in evidence to be presented before the Parliamentary committee on Indian reform. A special Commons committee is now hearing evidence on the charges against Sir Samuel.

The fact that Lord Derby might be committed to the custody of the Black Rod of the upper chamber, or to the Tower of London itself during the pleasure of the House of Lords if he appeared before the committee without the Peers' consent was mentioned by Lord Hailsham.

Lord Hailsham, Minister of War, therefore moved that in accordance with a request received from the Commons Lord Derby be given permission to appear before the Commons committee, and the Peers agreed without taking a division.

Communication Barred

The necessity for obtaining the permission, the government spokesman said, was due to the standing order dating back nearly 300 years which provided that no Lord should either go to the Commons, send a written answer or appear by counsel, to answer any accusation in the lower house, unless permission had been given by his fellow-Peers.

"Lord Derby, being anxious to avoid these penalties" continued Lord Hailsham, 'thought it right to communicate with officials of the House of Lords in regard to the matter."

Lord Derby himself, noted sportsman, said he sincerely trusted the House of Lords would assent to the Commons' request in order he might testify for himself.

The substance of the charges is that Lord Derby held a dinner in London attended by the secretary for India and members of the Indian section of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, at which and afterwards pressure was brought to bear resulting in substantial changes in the chamber's testimony on India later given the joint committee.

RANCHER EARL TO VISIT ESTATE

Young Nobleman Will Take Canadian Bride for First Trip to England.

CASTLE IN HAMPSHIRE.

CALGARY, April 25. (C.P.).—Plans for a return to England to show his bride of two-years and the ancestral estate are being made by the Earl of Egmont, Alberta's 23-year-old rancher - nobleman. Married in Calgary in 1932, the Countess of Egmont has never visited the Earl's estate in the Old Land.

No date has been set for their dearture from Calgary, where they have resided for the past two years, and it is not likely they will leave Alberta before June. It was indicated to-day it will be a visit only, and that the young Earl and Countess do not intend taking up permanent residence at Avon Castle, the ancestral home, near Ringwood, Hampshire.

Succeeding to the title after the death of his father, victim of a motor accident in England, the Earl of Edgmont—Frederick George Moore Perceval—returned to Canada in July, 1932, and a month later married Miss Anne Moodie. She is a grand daughter of Major J. D. Moodie, a veteran of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. They have lived quietly in Calgary and district, the Earl spending much time on foothill ranches, a life he desires. He is the 11th Earl of Egmont.

Born on an Alberta ranch, near Priddis, 20 miles southeast of Calgary, the youthful Earl, who had known the hardships of range life, accompanied his father to England early in 1929. The father had been a rancher for 26 years, and with the death of John Charles, Earl of Egmont, he succeeded to the Earldom, sold his Priddis ranch and took up residence at Avon Castle. Three years later the father died and the Alberta-born Earl returned to Calgary within a few months.

Press Ban Lifted For Women Golfers

LONDON, April 24.—(AP)—Faced with open rebellion from several of its leading players, the Ladies' Golf Union today reversed an earlier stand and announced a player in the championship tournaments could as heretofore, write about the matches for the newspapers.

Among those "lady journalists" who had protested the ban are Enid Wilson, present British champion, and Diana Fishwick, a previous titleholder. Miss Fishwick had threatened court action if the rule were not rescinded.

The ball used will be the regulation ball used by the City Softball Association, and the home team in each case will be responsible for the umpire, but the choice must be acceptable to the visiting team. Any postponed games should be played as soon as possible.

As in former years, the team standing first when the regular schedule closes, will be adjudged the champions.

Rained Out At Syracuse Leafs Move On to Newark

SYRACUSE, April 25. — Jack Simon Legree Corbett, president of the Syracuse Chiefs, was in a kindlier mood yesterday and called off the scheduled combat in time for the now much better attired Leafs to take a train to Newark that would get them in there by nightfall.

The day before Corbett didn't tell Ike Boone the game was off until it was too late for the Leaf leader to arrange a practice session in some gymnasium. Howley's successor approved tactics of this kind and said he was pleased managing a team in a league that had some fight in it.

The Leafs, says Boone, are going to fight and hustle, they're going to fight the opposition. "When the Chiefs get to Toronto we may pull something on them that will surprise them," declared Ike.

A prominent U.S. swimming coach, who watched Pirie beat his unbeaten lads, stated that he was a potential world's champion. He recently established a new record in St. Louis at his specialty, the 440-yard free style.

Voice of the People

SUCKER FISHING

Editor, Examiner:

Surely the powers that be have made a mistake in barring netting suckers—a scavenger fish and also one destructive to spawn. There is an excuse for not permitting gaffing, which undoubtedly leaves many dead fish in the waters.

What the fish and game committee should have advocated was imprisonment for netting and not replacing game fish.

There are many unemployed who are now barred from a feed of suckers.

STRICKLAND ANNOUNCES RETIREMENT

Northumberland Liberals Name Carr

CAMPBELLFORD'S MAYOR TO CARRY LIBERAL BANNER

Wasteful Expenditure of the Government Criticized by Leader.

Four Men Nominated at Liberal Convention Held in Warkworth.

HEPBURN SPEAKS.

WARKWORTH, April 26.—At the most largely attended political convention this village has witnessed in many a year, Mayor Harold N. Carr of Campbellford was nominated candidate of the Liberal party in Northumberland County for the approaching Provincial elections yesterday afternoon.

Mayor Carr was sponsored by A. J. Meyers of Campbellford and Marshall West of Seymour Township.

Five others were proposed for the responsibility of carrying the Liberal standard, but two withdrew, leaving four names for the first ballot.

John Callaghan, barrister of Toronto, and Dr. W. G. Robertson of Colborne, former member of the Legislature, declined to enter the afternoons primary contest.

The other four were Reeve C. H. Curtis of Percy Township; Clarence W. Massie of Morganston; Fred J. Slade of Fenella, and Mayor Carr.

Frank Wilson, Colborne, presiding as president of the Northumberland Liberal Association, announced that, in accordance with the party's accustomed practice, there were no accredited delegates, and that voting would be by ballots which were distributed to the entire assembly which crowded the auditorium of the town hall and overflowed by hundreds into the council chamber downstairs, and out on to the main business street.

Lowest Dropped Out

As a means of providing the electors with every means of expressing their wishes in choosing a candidate, Mr. Wilson said that the nominee receiving the smallest number of votes on each ballot would retire from the field. It was the ordinary method of elimination.

Mr. Slade footed the poll on the first ballot and Mr. Massie on the second, leaving Reeve Curtis and Mayor Carr as the survivors in the final round.

It was unofficially reported that Mayor Carr received 602 votes to Reeve Curtis' 450; and from the same information it was learned that on the second ballot the vote stood: Curtis 505, Carr 319 and Massie 212.

It was also stated that Mr. Curtis led the field on the first ballot, and in the early stages it seemed that the Reeve of Percy Township might emerge with the party honors. However, the final swing was decisively toward Mayor Carr with

CADI IS SUED FALSE ARREST

Youth Asks $2,000 After Being Jailed for Colliding With Magistrate.

MET ON STAIRS.

HALIFAX, April 26 (C.P.). — A damage action for false arrest was instituted against Magistrate J. L. Barnhill to-day on behalf of Chas. MacDougall, 18, who was jailed after bumping into the magistrate on a City Hall stairway a month ago.

Since young MacDougall is a minor, the suit was brought by his father, J. J. MacDougall, who claims $2,000 damages. Notice of the action was given the magistrate at his office to-day.

The statement of claim filed on the boy's behalf alleges he was arrested wrongfully at the behest of Magistrate Barnhill. It sets forth that he was locked in a cell for several hours after having collided with the magistrate.

At the time, Charles was hurrying up the staircase to the city engineer's office, while Magistrate Barnhill was going down to his court-room. The magistrate claimed at the time the youth had refused to give him the right-of-way.

POLICE BURNING WITH CRITICISM OVER DILLINGER

Rumor Desperado Already Has Slipped Through Blockade in Wisconsin.

CITIZENS WRATHFUL.

Scotland Yard Unable to Recall But One Similar Case in Its History.

CHICAGO, April 26.— (AP) —The law of United States with 5,000 eager arms, slammed shut the stable door today, but the horse—John Dillinger—apparently was gone.

A great circle of men blocking highways and stopping all suspicious appearing persons, was swung for hundreds of miles around Mercer, Wis., to prevent the escape of the gunman; yet even as the circle tightened, there came reports that the desperado had slipped through.

Federal men, burning under such criticism as seldom is made of government detectives, were massing somewhere in the vicinity of St. Paul, Minn., believing Dillinger to be in that neighborhood and that a fight to the finish with him was imminent.

From other sections of the country, however, as far south as Virginia, came reports that Dillinger had been seen. Most of the reports were disproved. One or two, however, remained questionmarks today.

Residents of Mercer, Wis. charged the federal agents with bungling the attempt to capture Dillinger at the Little Bohemia resort near that town Sunday night. To their demands that Melvin H. Purvis, head of the Chicago office of the Bureau of Investigation, resign his post, there was no reply. Purvis said: "I never comment on things of that kind."

The Mercer citizens charged that the federal handling of the case had been 'stupid and reckless.' Two men —one of them a federal agent—were killed and four others wounded in the ill-starred effort to bag Dillinger Sunday night.

No Cooperation.

Another denunciation of the Federal men came from Commissioner Oscar G. Olander of the Michigan Department of Public Safety. He charged at Lansing that agents had failed to co-operate with the Michigan State Police, and that their failure probably was responsible for the criminal's escape when he passed through Michigan last week. He accused them of refusing to permit Sergeant Fred Kune of the State police to attend a Dillinger conference called to map out details of the hunt for the desperado.

Although the government technically wants the "million dollar gangster' only for the comparatively minor crime of transporting a stolen automobile from one State to another, Purvis disclosed last night the belief of investigators that the downfall of Dillinger and his men may definitely clear up the $100,000 abduction of Edward G. Bremer, the St. Paul banker.

The Federal operatives believe that Alvin Karpe of Chicago, Fred Barker and the latter's brother, Arthur (Doc) Barker, who have been identified through fingerprints in the Bremer "snatch," were with "Wooden Gun" Dillinger when they shot their way out of the government trap at the little Bohemia resort. J. F. STRICKLAND NOT CANDIDATE

Liberal-Conservative Convention Will Be Held on May 10.

PREMIER HENRY TO SPEAK.

J. Ford Strickland, member for Peterborough City in the Legislature, does not propose to contest the convention at which a candidate will be chosen to carry the Government colors in the combined city and county ridings, he informed a joint executive meeting held at the Empress Hotel this afternoon to arrange for the Liberal-Conservative convention.

"My decision was arrived at months ago," Mr. Strickland declared, "and is based entirely on personal and not on political grounds. I thought it was only fair that I should make my position clear today."

The executive decided that the Peterborough riding convention would be held on Thursday, May 10, in the Canadian Legion Hall, Peterborough, at 2 o'clock, and the principal speaker will be Premier George S. Henry. The meeting will be open to the public, although the selection of the candidate will be made by the properly appointed delegates. Each polling sub-division in the county and each Young Conservative Club will be entitled to send delegates.

15 Children Victims Of Incurable Disease

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.). — Not all the rures developed in the progress of medical science can save the lives of 15 children in Toronto and the immediate district. They are suffering from a disease known as pseudo-hypertrophic-muscular-dystrophy for which, as yet, no cure had been discovered.

The cause of the illness is unknown and death results a few years after it attacks. Dr. W W Barraclough of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children said to-day. Two cases were reported yesterday

The plight of these children was revealed following a meeting of the York Township School Board last night when Dr. W. E. Pearson, school medical officer, told the board that a 12-year-old boy in York Township had lost the use of his legs and could not attend the school. His leg muscles were paralyzed. The trustees were told that nothing could be done for the lad.

Medical men to-day said the cause of the disease was not known and as yet there was no known cure.

YOUTHS PLEAD SUMMER HOMES GUILTY ROBBING

Boys Are Remanded for Sentence Until Thursday, May 3.

LOOT RECOVERED.

At Least Ten Cottages Broken Into Provincial Police State.

Held responsible by Provincial Police for the series of thefts from summer cottages about Stoney and Kawartha Lakes during the past three weeks, two 16-year-old boys, Theodore Zinster of McCracken's Landing, and John McClennan, London street, appeared before Magistrate Langley to-day on four charges of stealing.

Both lads entered pleas of guilty to all four charges brought against them. They were remanded for sentence until May 3. More charges will probably be brought against them, it was learned, as a result of their alleged burglaries from summer cottages.

Ten Cottages Entered

It was stated by Provincial Constable D. Silvester, who in company with Provincial Constable W. Warren, were engaged for the past two days about the lakes clearing up the thefts, that at least ten cottages were broken and entered by Zinster and McClennan.

Led by one of the youth yesterday, police were able to recover about $250 worth of stolen loot, which had been cached in the woods near the lakes. The canoe, stolen from Walter Greens' cottage near Kawartha Park, and which the boys used in visiting the cottages, was was also found. It had been abandoned on the lake shore.

Revolver Recovered

Police also succeeded in recovering from the lake a valuable revolver which the lads admitted stealing. They had thrown it in shallow water off from an island. The bicycle, which the pair used later in riding about the countryside, was recovered from the Otonabee River, north of Peterborough. The boys had let it down into the river as the best place of concealment.

To-day the pair pleaded guilty to two charges involving thefts from George Douglas' summer cottage and two charges of theft from the summer place of Walter Green.

It was learned that both lads had recently escaped from industrial school.

CLOUDS OF DUST MENACE CROPS

Roll Like Blizzards Over Vast Wheat Lands of United States.

SERIOUS SITUATION.

CHICAGO, April 26 (A.P.).—Black blizzards sweeping over the Middle West are menacing crops in huge areas of the United States "bread basket."

Dust or sand storms are common and prosaic events in many states west of the Mississippi River, but are generally a phenomena east of that stream. However, vast clouds of flying dust recently have dimmed sunlight and cast a peculiar haze over many localities far east of the river.

Disastrous storms have been sweeping the wheat country, blowing dust and dirt for many miles, piling it up against snow fences until they were buried.

Meteorologists have been asked to explain these storms and tell of the probable damage that either has or might result.

Eric Miller, Federal meteorologist at Madison, Wis., attributes the "blizzards" to the past two or three years of drought. He said little crop damage results from such a storm, because as much dust is blown out of a state as comes in.

Other meteorologists are not altogether agreed with Miller as to the crop damage.

H. L. Walster, dean of the Agricultural College at Bismarck, North Dakota, said the situation was "undoubtedly serious."

J. F. STRICKLAND, K.C.,

BUFFALO GNAT PLAGUE BREAKS OVER ARKANSAS

Over 300 Horses, Mules and in 48 Hours Within 10 Miles of Cabot.

CLOUDS OF INSECTS.

Only Solution is to Keep Stock Locked Up—Halts Seeding.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 26 (AP)—The buffalo gnat plague spread over Arkansas to-day, killing hundreds of head of livestock and retarding farming operations.

Within a 10-mile radius of Cabot, near here, 300 horses and mules were reported by Mayor C. W. True of Cabot to have died in the last 48 hours.

More than 100 mules were victims of the deadly insects in the vicinity of Marvell, Phillips County.

The menace was reported from various sections as the greatest in many years. Thousands of dollars' worth of livestock already has been lost.

The gnats forming huge black clouds carry death to livestock both through bites and inhalation. The only effective means at command of farmers for combatting the insects is to place the livestock in the barns and use fire smudges to keep the gnats away.

With the planting season in full swing, this method means a virtual halt in farming operations.

British Columbia Will Be Given Aid

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—The British Columbia government will receive financial assistance from the Dominion treasury in the form of a loan, it was learned authoritatively today. How large the loan will be depends upon further discussions between the federal government and the delegation headed by Premier T. D. Pattullo.

Accompanied by three of his ministers Mr. Pattullo came to Ottawa Monday and two conferences have taken place with cabinet council. The British Columbia premier wants at least $8,000,000 to enable him to finance existing obligations and make a start toward balancing his budget.

When he first tried to serve it, he found the Pyzels had moved to The Bataafsche Petroleum Maatschappij in Balikpapan, Borneo.

Then he received a letter from Mrs. Pyzel, who had read accounts of the incident in the press. They are returning to Chicago, she said, but not until after they complete an engineering assignment at a place even harder to spell.

CASE WATCHED VERY CAREFULLY COMMONS TOLD

No Official Information Tokyo Intends to Claim Naval Parity.

MUCH AT STAKE.

British Investments in Shanghai Three Times Those of Japan.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 26.—(C P Cable)—Government spokesmen imperturbably parried another storm of queries about the Japanese declaration in the House of Commons this afternoon. Although a report on the conversations between the British ambassador and the Japanese Foreign Minister was received at Whitehall today, the government remained silent.

Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, told one questioner the government had no official information that Japan intended to claim naval parity with the United Kingdom and the United States when the present pacts expire, but added "the matter naturally is being carefully watched."

"Does that mean the government intends to take a general attitude of lying down in regard to Japan, demanded Geoffry le Mander, Liberal.

"The assumption is unwarranted," Captain Eden replied.

May Be No Statement

It was indicated the House may not expect any information as to what Japan told the British Ambassador, or what the British Government thinks likely to eventuate, for some time.

It was known Britain had represented to Japan that declarations by a single power could not affect the nine-power treaty carrying joint responsibility for maintaining Chinese independence, and it was reported the Japanese had replied the declaration would stand, but the Ambassadors' report was kept in the silences of Whitehall.

While the Government leaders kept silent, it was authoritatively pointed out that British investments in Shanghai are three and a half times as large as Japan's and in all China far outrank those of Japan or the United States.

It has already been plainly intimated the British Government will not consider joint action with the United States or any other power in making representations to Japan.

With the entire theme of the British stand being insistence on the right to trade without interference, it was stated that British investments in China proper are 56 per cent of the total foreign investments. The Japanese are 21 per cent and the United states only nine per cent.

The respective figures are $985,000,000 for Great Britain, $370,000,000 for Japan, and $160,000,00 for the United States.

Toronto Will Ban All May Day Parades

TORONTO, April 26.—(CP)—All leave has been cancelled for Toronto police on May Day and all shifts will be on duty to prevent the two May Day parades planned by different organizations.

A letter from the United May Day Conference, received by the chief constable and passed on to the police commissioners, asks permission to use Trinity park in the west end and Riverside Park in the east end for rallying points in the parades. The requests will not be granted, it was learned.

Ranchers and Cowboys Offer Services in Far Flung Search.

TUCSON, Agie., April 26. (AP).—A second ransom note was delivered to-day to Bernabe Robles, grandfather of six-year-old June Robles, kidnapped yesterday, offering to reduce the abductor's demand from $15,000 to $10,000 "if you act quickly."

TUCSON, Ariz., April 26 (AP) — Kidnapped and held for $15,000 ransome, six-year old June Robles was sought to-day by the same police who once captured John Dillinger, and they were aided by scores of ranchers and grim-faced cowboys with six-shooters.

The little girl was abducted yesterday afternoon as she was returning from school. A man drove up beside her in an automobile, called to her and then speeded away when she entered the car.

Two hours later Rosalio Estrada, a small boy, brought to the girls father, Fernando Robles, member of a wealthy old Arizona family, a roughly printed note which demanded $15,000 for the release of his daughter and warned the father not to report her abduction to authorities.

Disregarding the threats, Robles called in authorities, and word of the girl's kidnapping spread quickly.

Ranchers Lend Aid

Ranchers and cowboys quickly offered their services in the search for the granddaughter of Bernabe Robles, wealthy Spanish rancher.

To-day the Morgan McDermott Post of the American Legion was ready to mobilize its members to aid in the far-flung search for the little girl.

Late last night three unnamed men were taken into custody by police after a newsboy said they resembled the trio who offered him $10 to take a note to Junes' father. Police said the men admitted accosting the newsboy, Leon Castor, but declared their actions were a "practical joke." Two of them were released by police, who indicated the third would be freed later to-day.

ALLEGE TEACHER BEAT STUDENTS AT BELLEVILLE

Thorough Investigation is Promised by Chairman of School Board.

MASTER ISSUED DENIAL.

Pupil Claims He Was Struck Without Warning as Class Looked On.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 26 (C.P.). — Allegations that pupils at the Belleville Collegiate Institute had been beaten by an instructor, will be thoroughly investigated at a special board meeting to-morrow night, George Osrom, chairman of the School Management Committee, announced to-day.

The case which had brought matters to a head was said to have been that of Donald Lewis, who alleged he was struck by a teacher without warning. He blamed Hubert A. Frise, English master, for the attack.

According to Lewis he went to a classroo mto see a fellow-student, classroom to see a fellow-student. He said Mr. Frise told him to leave, and then beat him. He suffered a cut about half an inch long on his lip during the alleged attack, he said. During this encounter, the class was said to have looked on.

The teacher denied having struck the boy. He had been advised he said, to refer all questions on the matter to the principal, he said, and would not comment.

GANDHI ESCAPES HINDU ATTACK

Three Disciples Are Injured as Rock is Hurled in Car Window.

CAMPAIGN OPPOSED.

BUXAR, India, April 26.—(AP)—A rock smashed the windows of a car in which Mahatma Gandhi was riding today, but he escaped uninjured from a clash with persons opposing his campaign to assist India's untouchables.

It was the first time the Mahatma ever had been made the object of a physical attack.

Three Nationalist Congress volunteers accompanying Gandhi were injured in the attack, said to have been made by orthodox Hindus who oppose the Indian leader's long campaign to aid the oppressed classes.

Gandhi was reported today to be threatening to undertake another period of severe penance because of growing opposition to his movement for the untouchables.

TORONTO, April 26.—At the annual safety convention of Industrial Accident Prevention Associations at the Royal York here to-day, H. A. Cranfield and J. H. CONTRACTS CUT ON RURAL HYDRO TO FIVE YEARS

Price Announces New Agreement Will Be Terminable Year's Notice.

TOWNSHIP LAW CHANGES.

Hepburn Renews Attack in Crash With Cow. Trenton—Escapes in TORONTO, April 26 (CP)—Ontario electors to-day pondered over a night of political events that included an important Hydro announcement, appearance of a new group, speeches, promises and the death of a cow, martyr of the Liberal cause.

While Attorney General W. H. Price announced at Welland the Ontario Hydro Power Commission would substitute a five-year contract for the present farmer contract of 20 years, Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal leader, spoke at Trenton.

The car in which Mr. Hepburn drove from a Warkworth meeting to the Trenton rally struck and killed a cow, but he was unhurt.

Col. Price announced the new five-year contract would be terminable on one years' notice. Farmers who hold the 20-year contract will be relieved of this obligation after five years, providing approval of the townships is obtained.

"In future," he said," a man who has been using Hydro on the farm for five years will in effect be on a year-to-year basis. To make this legal, townships will be asked to pass amending by-laws."

Col. Price addressed the Welland Conservative convention, which selected Mark Vaughan, present Legislature member, to represent the riding again in the coming general elections.

Philpott to Enter Fray

The new political group made its appearance with Captain Elmore Philpott's announcement he would enter the election campaign on behalf of an Independent Movement with which United Farmers of Ontario members will be connected.

Next week, Captain Philpott opens his campaign in Bruce and Huron Counties, where the new group is expected to enter candidates. Captain Philpott said H. H. Hannam, U.F.O. secretary, was handling campaign details, the first meeting being expected on Monday night at Wiarton.

Questioned regarding entry of candidates in other ridings, he merely stated he thought "organized campaigns will be launched in other rural ridings." Advancement of a new social order for the Dominion was his object, Captain Philpott said, levelling criticism at Liberals and Conservatives for discussing "such empty issues as the McCaughrin squib and the tax on

ANGLING SEASON TO OPEN MAY 15

Order Affects Peterboro', Victoria, Northumberland-Durham Counties.

NO BASS, MASKINONGE.

TORONTO, April 26.—Anglers in anchored boats and using natural bait can take any fish but bass and maskinonge from the waters of the Counties of Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and Peterborough, after May 14, under a recommendation submitted to the Federal Government by the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries. Formerly the season in these areas opened July 1, under the special law.

The regulation which it is expected that Ottawa will issue specifies that only "coarse fish" may be taken, and this is interpreted by the Provincial Departments as including pickerel, pike, perch, catfish and fish other than bass and maskinonge. Natural bait must be used, such as worms, frogs and minnows. Artificial baits, including June bug spinners, are prohibited except for shore line fishing.

The new regulation will bring the four specified counties into line with the rules in other parts of Southern Ontario.

Fall Wheat, Clover Winter Kill, Heavy

CENTREVILLE, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—The farmers around Centreville are much concerned over the condition of fall wheat and clover. While it is impossible to definitely estimate the loss caused by the severe winter and early spring killing it is safe to say that most of the fall wheat fields will have to be broken up and sowed to some spring crop.

The clover crop has suffered and many fields will not produce the usual quantity.

DIVISION NEAR ON MARKET BILL

Lone Liberal, Dr. Deslauriers, of Montreal, Continues the Opposition.

MAY VOTE TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, April 26. (CP)—Possibility of a vote on the much-debated Marketing Bill by which Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, hopes to improve farm prices was seen by leaders in the House of Commons to-day. As there are a number of members who yet wish to speak the vote may be late. Generally the bill has been opposed by the Liberal opposition but supported by the Farmer-Labor group.

During the short session yesterday one lone Liberal, Dr. Hermas Deslauriers of Montreal, continued the opposition and charged the bill was an infringement of provincial rights. A number of Conservatives along with A. A. Heaps, Labor member for Winnipeg north, defended it.

By their stand on the bill Liberals had admitted they did not want legislation to correc the wrongs exposed in the mass buying inquiry, charged Errick Willis (Cons., Souris). They were opposing without offering an alternative and despite the fact no opposition had been offered in the provincial legislatures when similar measures were put through.

The choice was between "control and chaos" said Mr. Heaps. For his part he would choose control and support the bill leaving the Liberals to stand for chaos.

FRENCH PLAYS HIGHLY PRAISED

Toronto's Hart House Groups Present Dramas To-night.

AT OTTAWA.

By Ray Brown. Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)— The mysticism of Maurice Maeterlinck will be in evidence at the little theater tonight when Toronto Hart House group number two plays "the death of Tintagiles, as its entry in the Dominion drama festival. This is a short one-act play, but it contains no fewer than five scenes.

'Lonesome-Like' will bring to the theater stage a drama of poor Lancashire folk which has made a wide appeal and will be played twice during the progress of the festival. The St. Clement's church players, of Verdun, will give this play. It is a story of a poor Lancashire man who, failing to find a wife, 'adopts' an old woman who is on her way to the poor-house as his 'mother.'

The final presentation tonight will be Vernon Sylvaine's 'The Road of Poplars' which number one group from Hart House, Toronto, will play.

Last night the four French entries in the festival were played. It was a program which drew high praise from J. T. Grein, festival adjudicator.

STUDY COAL INDUSTRY.

VICTORIA, April 26 (C.P.).—Immediate steps to make a special study of the coal industry to-day had been placed at the head of the list of duties for the British Columbia Economic Council as it swung into stride on its work.

Coal was selected as the problem presenting the greatest difficulties from an employment standpoint at the present time. Because of this, the board believed immediate solution of the coal problem would bring a strong reflection in employment in the industry and its affiliates.

SENATE PLANS STUDY TO HELP TOURIST TRADE

Aim at Co-ordination of Various Provincial, Municipal and Other Agencies.

KEEP MONEY HOME.

Point Out Canadians Spend $120,000,000 in Travelling Abroad.

OTTAWA, April 26 (C.P.).—Taking the first definite move ever taken to give Federal encouragement and study to the tourist traffic, a special committee of the Senate will investigate the possibilities of the trade and inquire as to the best means of encouraging and expending it.

The committee was appointed yesterday when the Upper House of Parliament placed unanimous approval on the proposal advanced by Senator W. A. Dennis of Halifax. Senator Dennis suggested a committee and called attention to the importance of the matter and shortly afterwards Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader, made the formal motion for the committee.

On the committee will be Senators Dennis, Georges Parent of Quebec, W. A. Buchanan of Lethbridge, W. E. Foster of Saint John, R. F. Green of Victoria and Horatio Hocken of Toronto.

Co-ordination

The aim of the committee will be in part to seek means of co-ordinating the various agencies, provincial, municipal and others now working to stimulate tourist trade. An effort will be made not only to hold out attractions to visitors from abroad but to encourage Canadians to travel in Canada.

In one year, Senator Dennis said, Canadians spent $120,000,000 travelling abroad. Much of this, he believed, might have been spent in Canada with profit and pleasure to the travellers.

The influence of the new liquor laws in the United States and the movement of American tourists to Canada was referred to by more than one speaker in the debate. It was suggested the change would cause a falling off and that to counteract this and keep the revenue derived for touring up to its former standard new and special efforts were needed.

AMATEUR PLAY FINE SUCCESS

"Here Comes Charlie" Staged By Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford.

WILL RUN TO-NIGHT.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26 (By Examiner Staff Corespondent). — Meeting with great success from a very large and responsive audience last evening, "Here Comes Charlie," a new three-act comedy made its debut in Campbellford, being staged in the St. Andrew's Church Hall, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of that church.

A bright and snappy play with lots of action, the cast of the production was well chosen and showed excellent talent in the rendition of their parts. The dialogue was also very fine and carried a lot of clean humor and funny wisecracks which made the play a very entertaining affair.

Marion MacArthur as Nora Malone, the Irish maid, was one of the fun-makers of the cast, being ably supported by her sweetheart, Officer Tim McGill, this part being played by Gerald Cochrane. Mrs. Fanny Farnham, the aunt by marriage and a person, comely maidenish, who is at times very disagreeable, was portrayed by Mrs. Percy Locke; while Larry Elliott, the young business man, was taken by Frank Taylor.

And of course Charlie, around whom the pley centres, is the pretty and charming girl of seventeen years old, who is still a child in thought and action. This part was taken by Margaret McGregor, who was exceptionally good in her portrayal of it, her acting being impressive and natural. And Uncle Aleck Twiggs was the typical hick, who added much fun to the performance, and as a side line was in charge of Charlie. J. D. McEachern took this role and showed some splendid interpretation in what is always a difficult character.

Ted Hartley was the college chum of Larry, a part that was very well taken by Frank Roe, while Vivian, Larrys' financee, was exceptionally well acted by Annie Park.

Mrs. Caroline Smythe Kersey, Vivian's mother, a snobbish and arrogant matron, addicted to the use of a lorgnette, was very well acted by Mrs. Harold Dunk, while Mortimer Kersey, the brother, a vacuous-looking youth with a bored and languid air, was ably portrayed by Morley Peeling.

The chair was taken by F. F. Long, under whose direction the play was produced. Mrs. Kirkpatrick was the pianist for the evening. The production will be staged again this (Thursday) evening.

SCHOOL BOARD PLANS TO BUILD

Madoc Trustees Expect to Use Armories to Acommodate Classes.

NEW DESKS ORDERED.

MADOC, April 26. (Examiner Correspondence). — The School Board, consisting of Messrs. W. E. Connor, chairman, Dr. S. S. Eagleson, G. Munro, C. N. Whytock, F. Nayler, T. E. Burnside and Jno. Robertson, held an emergency meeting yesterday to make arrangements for the temporary accommodation of the classes following the loss of the High School building by fire Wednesday. Though several plans were discussed it was found to be a difficult task to find accommodation for the one hundred and thirty students. Desks were ordered at once and should be here by Friday, it being planned to secure the use of the Madoc armouries for the purpose.

Plans are already being discussed for the erection of an enlarged up-to-date building to replace the one burned. No casualities were reported among the fire fighters.

High School students are asked to assemble at 8.45 on Monday, April 30th, to re-organize for the continuation of the classes for the balance of the year.

The beer and wine question promises to leave its mark on the political picture in East and West Kent, where the Kent County Temperance Federation has decided to consider entering Dry candidates in the field. If other candidates do not pledge themselves against extension of the sale of beer and wine or support a referendum proposal, Dry standard bearers might contest the ridings, it was declared.

Hepburn Renews Attack

Mitchell F. Hepburn attended the Northumberland Liberal convention at Warkworth, where Harry Carr, Campbellford Mayor, was chosen Liberal candidate for the elections after eliminating three other nominees. Mr. Hepburn then attended the huge Trenton rally, where he renewed his attacks on Conservative Government administration costs with a promise to cut them by 50 per cent if elected to power.

Mr. Hepburn said he would eliminate 23 boards and commissions, and that the "big fellows, the Cookes, Meighens, Gaby, and members of the Compensation Board have to go." He charged a "toll gate system" existed in the Liquor Contro Board and promised to obtain the names of British distillers' agents and "how much was paid."

East Kent Conservative Association executive meets to-day to arrange for a nomination convention. Angus Carss, president, stated there was "no doubt" Hon. William Finayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, and present members for the riding, would receive the nomination.

Liberals in Windsor-Walkerville seemed to be divided on the question of the man for the nomination. B. Ross McKenzie's friends are supporting him strongly and Mayor David Croll of Windsor has announced he will seek the nomination. The fact Mr. McKenzie was the candidate in the last election is given as a reason by his friends that he should again be the choice.

Dr. A. C. Burt, Conservative member for Norfolk, last night announced his retirement from politics because of business reasons. His riding has been merged with Haldimand under redistribution, and R. M. Berry, Haldimand member, is expected to be the Conservative choice for candidate in the new constituency.

Farmer Learns Liberal Cause Has Kick In It As Mitch Hepburn's Car Kills His Cow

TRENTON, Ont., April 26.—(CP)—Ontario's election campaign was in full steam ahead today and one farmer of the Trenton district has a dead cow to prove the Liberal cause has a kick in it. And Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, is thankful the automobile he was driving in last night proved sturdier than the four-legged milk producer.

Two Liberal meetings in one night forced Mr. Hepburn to motor to Trenton as soon as the nomination convention ended at Warkworth. He was driven by W. A. Fraser, Liberal member in the House of Commons for Northumberland.

The cow moved on to the road from out of the darkness. Mr. Fraser had no chance to avoid striking the animal. The cow was killed instantly.

Both men were shaken by the impact but located the cow owner before continuing their ride to Trenton. The farmer was grieved, Mr. Hepburn said.

ALEX MACCOLL AT LAKEFIELD

Pays Legion Official Visit as Zone Representative—Appeals For Unity.

BRANCH FLOURISHING.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The first official visit of N. Alex. MacColl, representative of Zone 15 of the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, was made to the Lakefield branch on Tuesday evening, when a very large number of members turned out to give him a very friendly and sincere welcome. Held in the Town Hall, the president, Comrade McKenzie, presided over the gathering. Mr. MacColl being introduced to the meeting by Tom Chaplin.

In an address that dealt with the problems of returned soldiers, Mr. MacColl stressed two very important points The first of these was in regard to what we owe to our fellow members "We who have the advantage of better jobs," he stated, "must remember that during the war, to a large extent, we were helped over the rough spots by the fellows who to-day have no jobs. As they discharged their obligations to us then, we should feel an everlasting obligation to help them now, when the circumstances have been reversed."

Comrade MacColl reported that he found the Lakefield branch a very active body with a fine spirit of friendliness, and taking a keen interest in all their fellow veterans especially those who were ill or in hospital.

POLICE BURNING WITH CRITICISM

Hamilton, the first lieutenant of the Dillinger gang; Tom Carroll, and George (Baby Face) Nelson are reputed to have been thr other marksmen with Dillinger when the Federal raid was made.

ONE SIMILAR ENGLISH CASE.

(By Oscar Leiding. Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, April 26 (A.P.).—Famed Scotland Yard probably would be of little help to the heavily-armed United States officers of the law hot on the trail of John Dillinger.

Odd as it may appear to those accustomed to thinking of Scotland Yard as a premier run-'em-down-and-lock-'em-up organization, gunman are the least of the noted unit's worries.

In fact, the men of Scotland Yard could recall to-day only one English case even approaching that involved in the headlong hunt for the No. 1 public enemy of the United States.

And when that historical occasion arose, did Scotland Yard hustle to the job of bringing the criminal to book, with guns bristling and tear-gas bombs in hand? Wrong again.

British troops were ordered out.

The case was recalled to-day with discussions of the Dillinger chase which dominated the conversation wherever Englishmen gathered.

This famous incident, which Britons term "the seige of Sidney Street," occurred in 1910 in London's world-known East-end.

Two desperate foreign criminals led by "Peter the Painter" took refuge in a house and met their would-be captors with a hail of bullets.

But there were no death-defying charges by police. At least, not at once.

Instead, the police withdrew to a safe distance until they were reinforced by soldiers orderd out by Winston Churchill, then Home Secretary, who himself rushed to the scene of battle.

Desperadoes Die in Fire

The desperadoes ultimately perished whwen the house was fired, but the incident remained in the limelight as Churchill was roundly criticized for calling out the troops.

Except for that, there have not been any British Dillingers and Scotland Yard finds it difficult to conceive of a situation involving gunmen lurking in England instead of the woods of Minnesota.

'What plan would Scotland Yard follow if Dillinger and his gang were running amok on English shores" an Associated Press correspondent asked Scotland Yard.

"Scotland Yard would do nothing" a spokesman replied, "because its jurisdiction only extends over the Metropolitan area. Scotland Yard can only enter a case outside the area if it is called in by police of the locality concerned."

"What would Scotland Yard do then if Dillinger were loose in the metropolitan area?" the reporter asked.

"I cannot imagine a car speeding at 80 miles an hour through London's narrow, winding streets; nor could I conceive of a situation in London in which criminals could be armed with machine guns," the spokesman said.

3 Reasons for Few Gunmen

"There are three reasons," he explained, "why gunmen are rare here.

"First is the difficulty of obtaining weapons; secondly the heavy penalties imposed when a criminal is caught carrying arms, let alone using them, and lastly, the island's size gives criminals little choice in regard to means of escape."

The firearms law in England is tightened periodically—the House of Commons only recently passing an amendment designe d to restrict sales of so-called toy pistols—and the situation never is allowed to get out of conntrol. Because the penalties are so severe, criminals seldom take a chance on being caught armed and policemen normally go about their duties unarmed.

It would require a desperate situation the Associated Press learned at Scotland Yard, before police would resort to the use of weapons —thought all are trained through a certain amount of target practice.

MILBROOK W. I. PLANS FESTIVAL

Annual Strawberry Supper Set for Date With Centennial Services June 24.

SOCIAL HOUR SPENT.

MILLBROOK, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Mervan Kinsman, King street centre, extended the hospitality of her home for the special meeting of the Women's League of Grace Presbyterian Church held on Tuesday at 3 p.m., with the president, Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke, in the chair.

Among the many present was Mrs. F. J. Deyell, who has been confined to her home for some weeks with a fractured ankle, and who was warmly welcomed to the gathering. A new flower committee was appointed during the business period, Mrs. H. C. Lord, Mrs. F. J. Deyell, Mrs. J. P. Eakins and Mrs. Kinsman, who will be responsible for providing flowers for the church each Sunday, and for any special occasions as well; the members will arrange between themselves whether they will take the work week about, or have two serve for one month, then alternate with the other two.

The date for the annual strawberry festival was changed from June 27 to the 26 to be nearer the special Centennial services on Sunday, June 24, when the church's one hundredth anniversary will be celebrated. The place will be named later. Mrs. J. H. Paul invited the league to be guests at her home in Cavan for a social afternoon on May 16, when the hostess will serve a dinner making a charge of twenty-five cents in order to raise her talent money for the society's funds. The invitation was gratefully accepted.

Arrangements were made for the Women's League to cater for the biennial district W.M.S. meeting to be held in Grace Church the latter part of May convenors for the three tables to include: Mrs. Kinsman and Miss Jean Syer; Mrs. J. H. McKnight and Miss Lillian Syer; Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Mrs. J. R. Thompson; these ladies will chose their own helpers.

Mrs. Thorndyke and Mrs. J. R. Eakins, committee to purchase the new offering plates for the church, reported their work done the plates of highly polished, heavy oak, being shown and approved. Dismissal of the gathering was by prayer, and immediately afterward a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed when the hostess, assisted by the committee in charge, served afternoon tea.

The tables were daintily laid, and each centred with a crystal vase of pussy willows, the color scheme throughout being in green and white, appropriate to the spring season. Mrs. Kinsman was convenor of the tea committee, and helping were Mrs. H. C. Lord, Mrs. Thorndyke, Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Williams and Mrs. R. J. McMahon who made the tea.

Talent money handed in on Tuesday amounted to $3.40, and from the tea $5.10 was realized. A number of guests from other churches of the village were among those who came in to enjoy the tea hour.

All islands in the most northerly part of Canada and part of the northern mainland will be included. The measure will have to be reported to the Senate and receive third reading.

The committee rejected on a six to four vote a bill to extend for six years a patent for an improved process of producing malleable steel. The patent was owned by the Firth-Brearley Stainless Steel Syndicate Ltd., of Sheffield, England, and expired Aug. 31 last.

ST. JAMES' CLASS PRESENTED PLAY

Three-act Comedy-drama is Given in Fairview United Church.

BRIDGENORTH, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Tuesday evening Fairview Church had a friendly visit paid them by the Excelsior Class of St. James' Church, Peterborough. They presented their three-act play "Nancy Anna Brown's Folks," a comedy drama in three acts under the guidance of Mr. Drysdale. The play requires a rather large cast, but each player handled his or her part with ease. The humorous and serious is well blended and the audience is kept well in suspense as to what Pa Brown really intends to do. Proposals of marriage with both their acceptances and rejections are numerous, but this is probably to be expected as players are portrayed as show troupe with an engagement at the Grand Theatre, New York City. The visit of this class to Fairview is very much appreciated, the ladies served lunch to the players and their friends in the church hall, after the play.

Selwyn Young People presented their play "The Dust of the Earth" in Young's Point on Monday evening. The play was well received by a capacity house.

Mrs. George Wheeler is spending some time with her daughter in Peterborough.

The young ladies' class of Bridgenorth Sunday School entertained the young men at supper and a social evening on Wednesday night.

Several from Bridgenorth attended the F. & G. Markets employees' "At Home" on Wednesday evening.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAINS.

F.O.B. shipping point: Wheat, carlots, 77c to 79c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Butter was the lone commodity to register a price change on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday.

Fresh No. 1 butter, in carlots or less, gained half a cent at 21½c to 22½c a pound. To retailers solids were quoted at 24c and prints at 25c a pound. Receipts totalled 1,158 boxes.

Current Ontario cheese was firm at 10¾c to 11c, with summer white and colored Ontario selling at 11½c to 12½c a pound Arrivals were 34 boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs in carlots or less were quoted at 19c to 19½c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18½c for A-medium, and 17c to 17½c for "B." Receipts were 3,443 cases.

Potatoes were unchanged. Quebecs, per 80-pound bag, selling at 95c to $1, and New Brunswick Mountains in the same quantities at $1 to $1.05. Prince Edward Island Mountains were quoted at $1.20 to $1.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

An outburst of buying just before trade was ended gave an upward whirl to wheat yesterday, and more than overcame almost 2c earlier loss.

The late buying was attributed largely to Eastern sources and caught the wheat market in an oversold condition. Reports of a new dust storm in Nebraska and of the biggest flour purchases in several months at Minneapolis, together with a recovery of silver figures quotations, were among late incentives for wheat buying.

Wheat closed nervous at about the day's top, ¼c to ⅝c above Tuesday's finish; corn carrying from ⅛c decline to ⅜c advance; oats ⅛c off to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 26 — Aided by recovery at Chicago, wheat prices rallied from an early ½c break in the late stages on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday and closed ⅛c lower to ¼c up.

May wheat closed at 64⅛c, July wound up at 65⅝c, and October ended at 67½c. Trading was again rather mixed, and only moderate in volume. Export trade was small and no figure was placed on sales.

Liverpool wheat was off ¼d to ½d with cables reporting a lull in export trade The trade abroad apparently expects to receive a report on Thursday of the proceedings of the Rome Wheat Conference, and this was said to be causing buyers to hesitate in their operations

Demand for cash grains continued indifferent. Coarse grains followed the late upturn in wheat and closed about steady.

WELL WORTH SUPPORTING.

There are few more important social service activities than the splendid work of caring for and reclaiming neglected and dependent children and converting them into self-supporting and capable citizens.

For many years St. Vincent's Orphanage has been engaged in that excellent task, and the institution has been a blessing to scores of young children who have received the benefit of its training, influence and care.

It is a work that means much to the community and that merits therefore warm-hearted and generous community support; support The Examiner is glad to say, that has been freely accorded the Orphanage from year to year as the assistance of the public was sought.

The annual appeal on behalf of St. Vincent's Orphanage—in its usual form of a tag day—will be made on Saturday of this week, and we most heartily commend this cause to the citizens generally as one entirely worthy of their assistance.

Naturally the unusual economic conditions of the past few years have been reflected in greater demands upon the Orphanage, and the need of financial help at this stage is therefore more than normally great.

If that fact is remembered on Saturday the canvassers for the Orphanage will be gladdened by a cheerful and generous response to their annual appeal.

THAT PEST, THE STARLING.

The extension department of the Ontario Agricultural College has just issued an interesting and informative bulletin on that rapidly increasing nuisance bird, the starling, about whose depredations frequent complaints are being heard.

The starling was introduced into the United States from Europe in 1890, and is thought to have first appeared in Ontario in 1919.

It has proven its hardihood and aggressiveness under our conditions, the bulletin points out, by its very rapid increase during the past few years and by its spread throughout practically the whole province.

While the starling does some good by consuming large numbers of insects, especially in the breeding season, it also preys upon fruit, vegetable and grain crops, and is already doing considerable damage in the southern part of Ontario.

Further than this, it has been observed to destroy the eggs and young of some of the more desirable insectivorus birds and to confiscate the nesting place of bluebirds, woodpeckers, swallows and other such birds as nest in cavities.

For these reasons the starling has been placed on the list of unprotected birds in Ontario, and may now legally be destroyed by any person, either by shooting, trapping or taking the birds or eggs from the nest.

The Ontario Agricultural College has been carrying on some successful experiments in trapping these birds during the winter, and the current bulletin, which is available to all those interested, illustrates and describes the traps in use.

The extension department of O.A.C. is very anxious to hear from any person having any authentic information to offer about the activities of the starling, and especially from those who have built and experimented with traps.

WHAT ABOUT THE OBJECTORS?

It is all very well to talk about taking the liquor question out of politics, but it is difficult to see how that feat can be accomplished unless such questions as the sale of beer and wine by-the-glass can be settled by a referendum, apart altogether from party trappings.

At the present moment both the Government and the Liberal and Progressive Opposition are committed to putting in force immediately after the next election the measure just passed by the Legislature, which provides for sale in hotel beverage rooms and with meals in hotels, restaurants and clubs.

That situation leaves large numbers of the electors, both those who are opposed to the legalized sale of intoxicants in any form and the many others who are in favor of the present Government control system but object to any loosening up in the regulations, in a decided quandary.

Between the two old parties they have no choice on this questions—provided, of course, Mr. Hepburn is able to line up his whole party behind the policy he announced over the week-end.

What will be the result?

With both the Government and the Opposition marching under the freer beer flag, will the heavy dry sentiment in the province be translated into action and produce a crop of independent candidates?

Or will the thousands who object to the by-the-glass policy be forced to forget their convictions on this question and line up with the party of their choice?

These are interesting questions, and the people as a whole will await the answers with a great deal of concern.

THIS MAKES GOOD READING.

Bank officials are not given to undue enthusiasm in their appreciation of business conditions, nor to issuing optimistic statements that are not supported by concrete facts.

That being so, the encouraging tone of the latest business summary issued by the Bank of Montreal and prepared from information received by the bank from its branches throughout Canada is decidedly significant.

The summary notes a steady widening of the circle of business activity in Canada as well as in Great Britain, United States and several other countries, and adds: "Barring untoward events, the outlook is encouraging for continuance of this trend."

Evidence of the revival of trade, says the report, is afforded by increasing car loadings, bank clearings and foreign trade, greater industrial activity, less unemployment and brisker retail trade.

The heavier industries, the Bank of Montreal finds, are beginning to share in the better state of business, while makers of textiles, rubber goods, newsprint and motor cars are producing in larger quantities and finding a receptive market for their output.

Lake and river navigation will open up at about the usual time, and as the movement of commodities is already substantially larger than during the past two years, prospects are brighter.

Probably the most encouraging sign yet given of the improved conditions of business generally is that here and there wage increases are being made.

Wholesale prices in March were 12 per cent. higher than a year ago, while retail sales in February showed an increase over the corresponding month of last year of 7 per cent.

The index of economic conditions in Canada for the week ended April 7 was 89.2 per cent. of the index for 1926 and compares with 68.5 per cent. on the same date a year ago, a rise of 30.2 per cent.

Expansion of Canada's foreign commerce in March was strikingly great, imports increasing $14,000,000 and exports nearly $20,000,000 over the preceding month, and in both branches of trade the increase over March of last year was equally great. The total foreign trade of Canada in the twelve months to March 31 aggregated $1,019,459,000, against $887,098,000 in the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of $132,361,000, or about 15 per cent.

CANADA AND UNITED STATES

Between the extremism of Uncle Sam and the compromise of John Bull, where shall Canada properly fix her economic and social philosophy?

The phrase "100 per cent. American" is more than current slang. It is thoroughly descriptive of the American attitude in every field.

For the modern American is the most intense and the most extreme individual on the face of the earth. And this extremism has given to United States a very definite function in the evolution of political, economic and social doctrine.

Because United States goes to the extreme in all her experiments, she has brought out in sharp outline the weaknesses of the various theories with which she has associated herself.

Thus, she demonstrated the weaknesses of prohibition, the weaknesses of democracy, the weaknesses of capitalism, and now we will soon see, presumably, the weaknesses of Socialism just as Russia has brought out the weaknesses of Communism.

It is an entirely different political philosophy that colors the actions of old John Bull. He is the symbol of practical compromise.

Those compromises enable him to sail along and give him a sense of fictitious strength that really lies in the concealment of his weaknesses.

Form and letter do not mean very much to the Englishman. He gets right through to the spirit and the essence of things. That is why his codes and his ideas are fluid and elastic and durable.

It is why he is so sure of himself.

He does not care what the other fellow does. He is not concerned about defining himself or his actions. He will not subscribe to hypocrisy nor Puritanism.

He likes a good meal and a good time and he admits it.

Somewhere between the stolid and Liberal and middle-course compromising of John Bull and the intense one hundred percentism of Uncle Sam lies the economic, political and social philosophy that Canada shall ultimately adopt as her own.

When shall we begin to develop it?—Vancouver Sun.

SOUTH AFRICA'S TAX ON GOLD.

In deciding to apply a tax to gold of Canadian production, the Finance Minister may have had in mind the influence which South Africa's policy in the same regard has exerted upon the governmental finances.

The Union of South Africa has been in difficulties as a result of the depression, and try as it might, could not do better than accumulate a series of deficits upon its financial operations. Then came the application of a premium to the selling-price of gold and since gold-mining is the foremost industry of the Union, it immediately began to experience a return of better times.

The Government clapped a tax on excess profits of gold mines, and so great has been the yield from this impost that the other day Finance Minister Havenga announced that, in addition to wiping out deficits, the Government was able to reduce taxation by $10,000,000 and to budget for a surplus of $14,000,000 during the coming fiscal year. Notwithstanding the tax in question, the dividends from gold mines increased during the year by 51 per cent. as opposed to 1932. The enhanced value of the yellow metal has thus enriched the mining corporations as well as the Government, and the South African people as a whole will benefit from the reduced taxation, including a return to penny postage, that has been the result.

Mr. Rhodes would be a happy man if his proposed tax on gold could produce the same situation in this country.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With his former Minister of Agriculture and practically all the Progressives in the House supporting the marketing bill, Mr. King must be wondering just now as to the wisdom of his cause in opposing the measure.

Even the provincial governments cannot agree on the merits or otherwise of the gold tax. While Premier Taschereau of Quebec declares the levy is an invasion of provincial rights, Premier Brownlee of Alberta issues a statement heartily approving the tax.

There are signs that Mr. Hepburn will have to accept a number of dry candidates or else find his nominees opposed by the independent candidates opposed to the freer beer policy. The liquor question refuses to stay out of the political picture.

Premier Henry has discovered that heckling, like charity, also begins at home.

Bruce Liberals are evidently realists. They have decided that their candidate can vote either for or against the beer bill, as he sees fit, the main thing evidently being to get him elected.

If New Yorks' slot machines are all thrown in the river, as threatened, the suckers should have a grand time playing with them.—Hamilton Spectator.

STORM DRIFT

By ETHEL M. DELL

CHAPTER 48

In the gloom that followed the flash Tiggie began to grope his way along the cliff base, stumbling over stones and plunging into pools, but making a certain amount of progress until the next far-off flash revealed to him a long jagged wall of rock ahead, jutting out into the sea like a breakwater. It was not more than a hundred yards from him, and in the succeeding darkness he pursued his difficult course, slipping here and tripping there, but still refusing to be dismayed even when one unseen obstacle flung him down headlong. Doggedly he picked himself up, aware that both his shins were badly cut, and struggled on through the pouring rain until he came into sharp contact with another rock that towered above him. He tried to find a way round it just as a great wave broke, and the next thing he knew was that he was waist-deep in water. He braced himself against the drag of it as it receded, but barely succeeded in keeping his feet.

"The next one'll get me," he said aloud, and abandoned the attempt to skirt the opposing rock to place a greater distance between himself and the advancing sea.

The next wave came, hurling itself with a boom like the report of a cannon against the rock and burst in a tremendous shower of spray that covered Tiggie, clinging like a limpet to the rough wall of his prison. Again the water rushed up,reaching his shoulders as it banged against the cliff and fell back. But for that precarious hold, he must have been washed away.

The awful strength of it and the darkness shook him at last. "My God!" he cried into the howling night. "Help me to get out of this!"

There came immediately a gleam of lightning like the glare of a beacon held up to one in sore distress, and by it he saw that he had reached the outjutting wall of rock, and if he could find foothold to climb it he might yet discover some cleft in which to hide himself.

Knee-deep in water he felt for and eventually came upon a ledge, and with a great effort he dragged himself up on to it as the next wave broke in thunder. The water swirled around his feet and washed back again. Once more the lightning shone. There were cracks and crannies above him. Allowing for no mistakes, he might yet reach the top of the jagged wall, and, though drenched by the spray of every wave, yet lie in safety till the tide went down.

It was his only chance, and he began forthwith to make that last stupendous fight for life, knowing that one false move would precipitate him into the ever-deepening whirlpool below, there to be churned to death among the rocks.

The lightning still flickered occasionally far away over the sea, but the intervals between were very dark. He crawled upwards, feeling right and left for every foothold, clinging with a fierce tenacity to every excrescence his hands encountered as the great waves shattered themselves in fury and gathered afresh to the attack.

It was impossible to maintain that terrific effort for long at a time. Human endurance was unequal to a continuous contest of such immensity, and there were intervals immeasurable by time when he could only hang there grimly, half expecting to be washed away. Sometimes his feet slipped and scraped on the slimy rock and his gripping hands alone saved him; at others it seemed that whichever way he felt there was no further hold to be obtained. And once, after a terrific struggle, he found himself dropping into a state that was almost the stupor of exhaustion, which if it gained full possession could have but the one end.

That scared him badly, and he resolved to allow himself no longer pauses than were barely necessary as he wormed his desperate way, upwards, sideways, obliquely, but never downwards, towards deliverance.

The struggle must have been going on for a very long time and he was nearing his last spasmodic reserve of strength when he realized that the rain and wind had ceased, and a little later a paleness began to lift the gloom somewhat, until at length through a rift of cloud a white moon shone down. He found that he had climbed to about the height of 30 feet, and the top of the wall of rock was but a bare 10 feet above him. Below, there was no beach visible, only a turmoil of seething water, the spray of which still covered him with each successive wave. But he thought that these were less overwhelming in their onslaught and that renewed his waning courage.

He did not at first see how he could reach the top which was slightly overhanging, but eventually as the moonlight strengthened he spied a possible means of circumventing the difficulty. It was in fact his only remaining chance, for to hang there indefinitely was wholly out of the question. His weariness was such that inaction must inevitably induce sleep, and that was bound to be fatal. He decided upon the venture forthwith and began to feel his way along a seam in the rocky surface which gave some promise of foothold. It was such a task as he could not have attempted in the darkness, and when at a critical moment a cloud obscured the moon he went through the worst period of suspense that he had yet experienced, not daring to move hand or foot till the light shone again. But when it came, it was brighter than before, and he saw a definite way to safety ahead. There was a place where the overhanging rock had broken away leaving a deep ridge up which he succeeded in dragging his exhausted frame. Up and up he went. It was the most direct climbing he had yet achieved, far too steep to have been negotiated in the darkness. Up and up, helped by that blessed stream of light that gave him confidence!

And then came the feeling of a flat surface under his hands. He made one last superhuman effort. His feet scrambled and kicked nothingness. The whole strain was on his arms. But it was the end of the struggle, and victory was within his grasp. He summoned the last ounce of his strength and hoisted himself into safety, sinking face downwards on the wet rock as he reached it, and lying prone, barely conscious under the lashing spray, his feet still hanging over the depth that had so nearly swallowed him.

When some measure of his normal powers returned to him, Tiggie drew his legs up under him and surveyed the scene. He realized at once that he was a prisoner on the most barren and exposed of rocks until the tide went down unless some help should be forthcoming—a possibility which seemed to him a most unlikely one. He was drenched to the skin and shivering, and his clothes were in rags. But the wind had dropped and the moon still shone, so he did not despair. In fact something of his usual philosophy gradually revived in him as he sat taking stock of his surroundings. He was at least out of reach of the tide, and the force of the waves was certainly lessening. He calculated that it might be five hours before he was able to return, and he did not enjoy the prospect before him; but seeing no help for it, he looked about him for some more favored spot in which to spend the period of his captivity.

The sky was steadily clearing, and though heavy clouds still hung on the horizon there was small chance of the storm returning that night. This circumstance cheered him considerably, but the showers of spray that continued to douche him were hard to endure with equanimity, and, now that the long and desperate exertion was over, he was beginning to be chilled to the bone. With chattering teeth, he searched the rough platform on which he was huddled, and the frowning cliff face to which it gave access; but he searched in vain. There was no possibility of shelter, and the flat space he had reached was too restricted for any form of exercise to be possible.

"It's just a case of hanging on," he told himself, and closed the door of his mind to a most unwelcome wonder as to how long most people took to die of exposure.

Yes, it was a case of hanging on. There was nothing else to be done. And he must remain awake. If he slept, he might easily roll off his narrow and slippery perch into the black depths below. He soon realized that this was going to be a task almost harder than the climb had been. For the deadly coldness that gripped him was like a drug paralyzing all his senses. He found his attention wandering to trivial things and jerked it back again. He found his eyes, dazed with watching the heaving waters, beginning to close and blinked them open by sheer force of will. He found his hands, numbed of all feeling, lying powerless on each side of him, and flogged himself desperately with his arms until he was too spent to continue.

"This is what shipwreck is like," he said to himself, and thought of Viola.

Somehow she seemed very far away from him, so far as to be almost unreal. He did not think she would grieve very deeply if he never returned, and he began to ask himself over and over again, like a foolish child repeating an unanswerable question, why he had taken so much trouble after all. He had put up a tremendous fight, and all for what? If Viola did not want him, what had he done it for? Did he seriously want himself?

He began to roll over, but instinct was not wholly dormant yet. It caught him as it were on the brink. He jerked back again and partly awoke. It was as if he had dragged at a chain. The moonlight danced in his half opened eyes. He raised his head with a vague movement. Something was holding him. What was it?

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO

The first name given to the city of Peterborough was Scott's Plains, so named because Thomas Scott, the first settler, built a mill there in 1819. In 1825 a large immigration of settlers was brought to the district from Ireland, under the supervision of Hon. Peter Robinson. He was a brother of Sir John Beverly Robinson, chief justice of Upper Canada, and an uncle of Hon. Beverley Robinson, late lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

About that time the name of Peterborough was adopted, in honor of Hon. Peter Robinson. As city Peterborough was incorporated in 1905.

A Thought

MIRRORS

Do not forget that the world is hung with mirrors, reflecting you as you really are. Have you never realized this? Perhaps not, and yet it is true. How small you look when you see the image of yourself in the bright eyes of a friend! Yet you occupy just as much room as is possible in so diminutive a space. So with the soul that looks into your soul; you are measured according to space. Be careful of your friends and associates. Remember they measure you by themselves, and imagine you to be as small-minded as they. Their influence will affect your whole life, and you will unconsciously adopt their thoughts and ideas, even if you do not altogether approve of them. Choose only such friends as those whose influence is pure and wholesome.

Dr. Wilton Pratt Begins His Term

KINGSTON, Ont., April 26 (CP)—Dr. Wilton Pratt, convicted at Smith's Falls on 10 charges of performing illegal operations and sentenced to five years in prison, is now a convict in the Kingston Penitentiary, arriving here yesterday. Pratt had little to say as he went through the usual procedure on arrival at the institution. It is probable that he will be assigned to work under the prison surgeon, Dr. Garfield Pratt. One of the most efficient assistants in the hospital of the penitentiary is the one-time notorious "Red" Ryan, serving a life sentence.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

PLOUGH FIRST USED BY WOMAN

On this date, in 1628 a plough was first used in Canada. It has been generally assumed that the user was Guillaume Couillard, son-in-law of Louis Hebert the first farmer in Canada! but Benjamin Sulte, the Quebec historian, asserts that it was Madame Hebert who first held the handles of a plough as it broke the hard soil on her little farm at Quebec.

She was a real heroine was Madame Heebert, Masie Rolet by birth. When her husband, the apothecary of Paris, abandoned his drug shop in 1606 to cross the ocean to Acadia with dePoutrincourt, his wife came with him and there several of their children were born. When Port Royal was destroyed in 1613 the Hebert family returned to France and Hebert again opened his pharmacy, but when in 1617, he accidentally met Samuel de Champlain in a Paris street and was asked to go with him to Quebec, he decided, after consultation with his good wife, to again put fortune to the test and assist in laying the foundation of a new France in America. So the whole Hebert family, father, mother, two daughters and a son came to Quebec to become the first farmers in this country. Hebert had cultivated the soil at Port Royal, growing the first wheat and vegetables and planting the first fruit trees, but it was not until he settled at Quebec that he made farming his chief avocation. In 1627 Hebert sent orders to France for some oxen and a plough, but he died before they arrived late that fall and the imports were received by his widow.

Came April 26, 1628. Other historians have told that the plough was drawn by oxen, but M. Sulte is convinced that it was a hand plough (that the ox-hauled plough came later) and that it was pushed through the ground by the strong arms of Madame Hebert herself.

When Champain was compelled to surrender the little Quebec to Sir David Kirke in 1629, Madame Hebert and her family refused to return to France. Kirke recognized their importance, granted them his protection and encouraged their farm and garden work during his three years' occupation. The farm grew; the crops increased; and Madame Hebert grew well-to-do from the sale of food stuffs to the townsfolk and garrison.

When Champlain came back in 1632 he found that this brave woman and her children had placed agriculture beyond the stage of experiment in New France. Soon afterwards Madame Hebert, then well on in years abandoned the farm to her children and grand children and devoted the rest of her life to teaching Huron children, for whom she opened a school in her home and carried on to her death in 1649. She was thus the first lay school teacher in Canada as well as the first woman farmer.

THE BROWSER

The Browser has been lucky lately....The other day he went to a literary luncheon given to Phyllis Bottome on the publication day of her new novel, "Private Worlds"—and he sat right next to Miss Bottome (who prefers to be called Mrs. Forbes Dennis)....It was a rich experience. She is charmingly intelligent. She is more than that. She is wise. And she has a passion for decency in all human relationships....Her books are calm but there is little calmness in Phyllis Bottome's eyes when she speaks of Germany and what has happened to her friends....Then she blazes with grief and anger....The Browser sat there like a stage-struck youngster talking to a matinee idol ....You see, Phyllis Bottome was one of the first of the modern writers he ever read. He started reading her way back in high school which doesn't make her at all old because her first book was accepted by Andrew Lang when she was only 17 years old....When she is praised she blushes....Miss Bottome thinks a noval should tell the truth about people as they are and where they are going....But she is a reader of detective stories, too; her favorites are Dashiell Hammett and Earl Derr Biggers....And her own novel, "Private Worlds", is a different from "The Thin Man" or "Charlie Chan" as any novel could be....Into it, she says, "I have tried to pour... all that I know of love and friendship—the ties that give to each human being freedom and security." ....She does that....The setting of her novel is a psychopathic hospital and her characters are human beings, some of them mad, some of them not so mad, but all real.... She is telling you in every way she knows that the difference between the sane and the insane is less than you think....The Browser's copy is inscribed by her "with the author's warm appreciation to a life-long friend'—and you cant borrow it.

Lion Feuchtwanger's "The Oppermanns" will be a best seller. It is the story of a fine Jewish family in Germany and what happened to them....A terribly necessary book. ....Among the best sellers now are Phyllis Bentley's "Modern Tragedy", Phil Stong's "Village Tale", and "I Went to Pit College"....The Browser's nomination for the most ridiculous suicide in literature: The death of Bolly in Phil Stong's novel. A laughing self-destruction by a man who wasn't quite certain he was brave enough to kill himself... The Browser can't accept it...John Farrar wrote a letter to Thomas Coward praising MacKinlay Kantor's "Long Remember" and saying he thought it would be "the next really great American Best Seller". ....Harriet Ashbrook sends along the letter to prove that "publishers are NOT the low, scheming creatures they are painted; they do NOT lie in ambush ready to cut each other's throats and steal each other's authors; they have their moments of magnimity"...Much obliged.

Roger Vercel's "In Sight of Eden" is the first novel to receive the American-France award. On the jury were Gertrude Atherton, Mary Austin, Ellen Glasgow, Dorothy Canfield, Inez Haynes Irwin, Julia Peterkin, Evelyn Scott and plenty of others....Doubleday Doran announce that they are publishing "the most horrible psychological murder story that the editors collectively or individually have ever read." Its innocent title is "Harriet" and it was written by a cheerful young English woman named Elizabeth Jenkins....Haven't you read Mary Mitchell's "Warning to Wantons" yet? You haven't?.... The Browser admitted he knew nothing about Scott O'Dell who wrote the excellent "Woman of Spain"....Harrison Leussler tells him something. O'Dell lives on (or in) an orange grove in southern California. He threw his first novel away because it was too much like Wila Cather's "Death Comes for the Archbishop". He threw his second novel away because Pearl Buck's "Good Earth" came out with much the same theme. Then he wrote "Woman of Spain"....He is now writing a second book, which will be about the same family during the California gold rush....Alexander Woollcott praised his own "While Rome Burns" on the air and increased its sale and was paid for boosting it. The Browser would do the same if he wrote a book and was on the air and had Woollcott's light touch....William C. Hanighen in his biography of "Santa Anna; Napoleon of the West" says that Santa Anna was not only the villain of the Alamo, but was the man who introduced chewing gum into America. He chewed chicle and gave James Adams the idea for pep'mint gum....Many a mickle makes a muckle many muckles are made from mickles, and many a nickel is spent for chicle....and that's quite enough from

Marconi Working On Wireless Revolution

LONDON, April 26 (C.P. Cable)—A revolution in wireless communication may result from new experiments being carried out by Guglielmo Marconi using much shorter waves than any yet known, the Morning Post said to-day.

Senator Marconi is engaged in the first regular communication tests over distances of hundreds of miles between stations near Genoa and Leghorn in Italy, using wave lengths of 50 and 60 centimetres.

The newspaper interviewed the inventor last night and was told the experiments were obtaining "very fair reception, although not as good as we want."

There was no apparent difference between day and night reception on the new wave lengths, Senator Marconi told the newspaper's representative, but there were other variations, the cause of which they had had not discovered.

Senator Marconi added the new waves greatly extended the range and would probably be applicable to television. He concluded they would have this advantage, "that there will be no interference of any kind."

56 Natives Drown As Ship Capsizes

SUVA, Fiji, April 26 (C.P.). — (C.P. Havas.) — Fifty-six natives were drowned when their sailing ship capsized in a squall, according to two haggard survivors who, after clinging to the wreck, gained the shore to-day and told the story.

The vessel keeled over out of sight of land six days ago, they said. Those able to cling to the wreck were forced by hunger and fatigue to release their hold, one after the other, until only two remained

FALL WHEAT IS WINTER KILLED

Estimated That 80 Per Cent of the Crop Killed in District.

BIG ACREAGE SOWN.

Farmers of the Peterborough district have suffered a serious financial reverse in widespread winter-killing of fall wheat and clover.

"It is now generally realized that from 75 to 80 per cent. of the fall wheat crop was killed by the severe weather conditions of the winter just passed," John Dewart told The Examiner to-day. "Last year's seeding in clover has been affected to about the same extent."

Farmers sowed the largest acreage in years last fall, Mr. Dewart stated, and their crop loss is the most extensive that has been experienced since 1917. Reports are deplorably similar from the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland.

"It means a shortage of hay and seed for another year," Mr. Dewart said, "and with the loss to the fall wheat, and last year's seeding in clover ,there will be the necessity of purchasing additional seed and plowing up the fall wheat fields to put in a crop of spring grain."

Farmers Cash Crops

J. J. Duffus on his way to Warkworth yesterday examined half a dozen fields of fall wheat in Asphodel and Percy Townships, and found the same condition reported by Mr. Dewart. He said that the most regrettable feature of this setback was that these grains were material factors in the farmers' cash crops, that all the labor and cost of seed and fertilizing last fall had been wasted except on those farms where a part crop would be reaped, and that farmers everywhere were looking forward more hopefully than ever this year to favorable conditions to amplify the satisfactory financial returns which had been received from the winter marketing of hogs, cattle and dairy products.

Mr. Duffus saw one field south of Westwood which he believed would yield a 75 per cent crop. The farmer had recently sown grass seed in this field and would go over it with a light harrow, thereby helping the wheat also. This was the best field he saw between Peterborough and Warkworth.

In one field below Hastings a farmer was already plowing over his blighted crop of fall wheat.

The loss to the farmers, Mr Duffus said, would be felt by the whole community.

SHAKEDOWN IN GOLD TRADING

Rumors of No Relief on New Budget Tax on Metal Starts Selling Wave.

SILVERS ALSO SLIP.

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.).—The gold shares were given quite a shakedown to-day as traders sold on the assumption that nothing would be done in the way of relief for the big gold producers from the new tax on gold. Losses up to more than $2 were registered, but these were reduced a little before the close. Silver and base metal shares also slipped.

HEAVY SELLING BREWERY STOCKS

Slight Improvement Shown at Close in Oil, Food and Steel Shares.

TORONTO, April 26 (C.P.). — Irregular price movements and spotty volume marked the trading to-day on the industrial board of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Profit-taking developed in some of the beer stocks, attended by price recessions, while oil, food and steel issues had weak spots which, however, showed slight improvement in the last few minutes. Losses and gains were about equally divided.

Marked Improvement In Drama Festival

OTTAWA, April 26 (C.P.).—One of the outstanding features of this year's Dominion Drama Festival is "the marked and rapid improvement in the standard of the performances," in the opinion of the Governor-General.

Addressing the festival committee at Government House to-day, His Excellency, who is patron of the festival, referred to the fact that Rupert Harvey, regional adjudicator this year and finals adjudicator last, reported the standard of performances distinctly better than a year ago.

The second outstanding feature this year, His Excellency continued, was "the immensely quickened public interest in the movement." Packed and enthusiastic houses had featured the regional performances in different parts of the Dominion.

COLONEL JOSIAH WEDGEWOOD

This is Colonel Josiah Wedgewood, British Laborite, who deplored the failure of the British budget for 1934 to make provision for payment of war debts to the United States in an address before the House of Commons. UNITED KINGDOM CATTLE

The load arrived in good condition and consisted generally of good quality light and medium weight cattle. It met a rather poor trade, however, due to cheaper prices of English cattle, and large supplies of chilled beef on hand. At time of cabling quite a number of the cattle were still unsold.

Heavy Eastern steers brought from 13.3 to 13.8 cents per pound, dressed weight, including offal. Heavy Western from 12.8 to 13.3; medium weight Easterns, 13.8; Medium Westerns, 13.3 to 13.8; light weight Easterns, 14.4 to 14.9; light Westerns, 13.8. Heifers ranged from 13.8 to 14.4 cents.

USE OF ELECTRICITY GROWING FOR TEMPERATURE ON HOTBEDS

Can Put Warmth of Life in Beets, Asparagus, Three-quarter Cents Kilowat Hour.

ABSOLUTE CONTROL.

BURLINGTON, Ont., April 26. — (CP)—Putting the warmth of life into beets and asparagus at three-quarters of a cent a kilowatt hour is "entirely feasible and practical" says M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, manager of Canada's British Empire Games team, Secretary of Olympic and British Empire Games committees, and gentleman-farmer at Burlington.

Attorney-General W. H. Price announced last night at Welland the Ontario government had approved the use of electricity to control the temperature of hotbeds, and established the new rate. Bobby Robinson was a pioneer in introducing the method in Canada. Norwegian and Swedish gardeners have warmed their young shoots with 'juice' for some time.

"The equipment necessary isn't expensive, when you consider it as a capital charge which shouldn't be booked against any one year," Bobby said today. "Any outlay is more than made up by saving in labor, and the absolute control you have over the temperature, which can be adjusted to the needs of the moment. That isn't possible of course, when you depend on manure beds. The plan has been in limited use around London and Grimsby, and now that a rate-plan has been set up, I think you'll see it spread."

He said not a word about track records. Green things are growing in the hotbeds at Burlington.

No Holding Him

CHICAGO, April 26. (A.P.) There's nothing like a "powerhouse" hand to grip and hold a bridge enthusiast—thought Harold Freeman, until last night.

Vieing with nearly 1,100 other contract bridge players in a tournament, Freeman found himself with a grand slam hand. The biding reached its peak and Freeman was about to play when an attendant tapped him on the shoulder.

Freeman turned, annoyed, and the attendant spoke

"Pardon me, sir, but we have just received a message that your wife is being taken to the hospital. You are about to become a father."

Freeman dropped his cards and dashed out. A substitute made the grand slam.

NO LAW AGAINST BOY SOLO TRIPS

Lone Flight of 14-Year-Old Lad in England Caused Criticism of Authorities.

LONDON, April 26. (C.P.)—The solo flight of a boy of 14 years of age, Ovid Victor Ottley of Alexandra Park, London, who went up 1,000 feet, after only five hours' instruction from a flying officer of the East Anglican Aero Club, has caused a sensation. Incidentally there was considerable criticism of the authorities for allowing the flight.

It was stated the question whether a boy of 14 or one even younger should be permitted to fly solo is at present in the discretion of the aerodrome officials and the parents of the boy.

There is no rule specifically to safeguard the lives and properties of people living within three miles of an aerodrome from the inexperience of boy fliers.

Ovid was smiling when he climbed out of the cockpit of the little plane. "It was a wonderful experience; and I enjoyed it very much indeed," he said. "Although I was up for five minutes, it seemed to me only a few seconds. I was not in the least afraid, and I am anxiously looking forward to my next solo flight."

The youngest holder of a pilot's "A" certificate in the country is probably John Cresswell, aged 17, of Buckden, near Cambridge. He qualified at Brooklands.

ST. PAUL GIRL KIDNAPPED

ST. PAUL, April 26.—(AP)—Mary L. Caroline, five years old, was kidnapped shortly before noon today while playing near her home.

STATESMAN CHARY ABOUT PORTRAITS

Modesty of Famous Public Men Leads to Scheme to Preserve Faces.

LONDON, April 26 (C.P.)— Trustees of the National Portrait Gallery have instituted a scheme to preserve for posterity the faces of men who are making history in the United Kingdom, especially British statesmen who are personally modest and not anxious to have their portraits painted for public observation.

With the view of ensuring that the faces of these shall not be forgotten, carefully chosen artists are being commissioned to draw the heads of a small, selected number of men whose political work will almost certainly affect the country and Empire long after they are dead.

Limited funds, made available some time ago, are being used for this purpose, and an ex-Prime Minister is now sitting for his portrait.

After the death of a well-known statesman a few years ago, it was found that there was no portrait of him. An artist was then commissioned to make a posthumous drawing from a photograph. This procedure was regarded as highly unsatisfactory, but was the only way out of the difficulty.

Another famous statesman left only one portrait of himself, and this had been executed by a foreigner. This was eventually acquired for the National Portrait Gallery.

Under the new scheme, adequate pencil portraits of the living great become at once the property of the Gallery. But, as a prominent newspaper proprietor learned to his cost recently, no appeal is made to living vanity.

Except by a five-sixth majority vote of the Trustees a portrait of a man or woman cannot be hung until 10 years after he or she is dead, and the portraits now being commissioned will be carefully stored until this period has expired.

U. S. JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(AP)—The United States justice department's Dillinger chasers have no more legal right to carry firearms than ordinary citizens—but they do.

Not only are they fully armed, but Attorney General Homer Cummings seeks an increase in their forces, and the use of armored cars and a fleet of high powered squad cars.

The perplexing legal twist whereby the agents are not authorized to bear arms, nor even to make arrests, has come to the personal attention of the Attorney General.

"You may say that the Department or Justice would like to have this matter cleared up," he said

Until it has been fixed, the Bureau of Investigation agents pursuing the Indiana bad man and others of his like are armed —and are given a complete course in marksmanship.

The house judiciary committee was called back into session today to approve more bills, giving the increased anti-crime power to the government.

Y.W. PAGEANT OPERA HOUSE FRIDAY, MAY 4

"Enchanted Garden of Peter Pan" Name of 1934 Pageant.

GYMNASIUM REVIEW.

Fairies of Many Types as Befits an Enchanted Garden.

"The Enchanted Garden of Peter Pan" will be the big attraction of the Y.W.C.A. Pageant this year, when it has its one-night production at the Grand Opera House on the night of Friday, May 4th.

Hundreds of gymnasium members take part in this review, which opens with Wendy and Michael following Peter Pan into the enchanted garden.

Little flowers warn the children that it is getting late and the time for home-going is at hand. The flowers are in gay costumes, fashioned by many pairs of willing hands that have been busy for months past in the sewing rooms at the 'Y', getting ready for the big event. Stiff sateens come in brilliant colorings for these gay flowers, with marigolds, purple and yellow pansies, tiny pink and green rosebuds and sky blue forget-me-nots, all in jaunty little outfits simulating blossoms, and wearing tiny sidewise hats.

The sunbeams are darlings in chiffons and georgettes of lovely sun colors—orange, yellow and apricot, and there are tall ferns swaying in the breezes, with serrated edges to their frocks and long, scalloped green scarves floating from their arms.

Night comes in sable draperies, studded with silver stars, and Peter Pan, the woodland sprite, wears a petalled costume in woodland green.

There are fairies of many types, as befits an enchanted garden, with three special elves that go in for toe dancing gowned in filmy green with wings in pastel tints.

The birds appear; robins with brown bodices and red breasts, blue birds in appropriate outfits, orange and brown orioles and gorgeous cardinals in bright red. Humming birds flash in and out in the glittering beauty of yellow, green and red casings.

Rounding out the party are the fearsome witches in black and orange, with tall pointed witches' hats, and woodpeckers with black and white bodices and long points to their little red caps, while white buttons adorn their soft black velvet shorts.

With the fairies come their attendant dragon flies in green and blue, with flickering wings and little mirrors forming points of light on hats and costumes.

And their are bats with black caps and black, clawy wings and tiny wood elves that wear pointed red smocks over green panties, and little green pointed caps.

This will be a colorful portion of an entertainment that includes also the usual physical exercises; German and Danish gymnastics, pyramids, intricate dumbell, club and wan exercises and the amusing Baby Class in "Setting-Up' exercises. These will precede the Fantasy of "The "Enchanted Garden of Peter Pan."

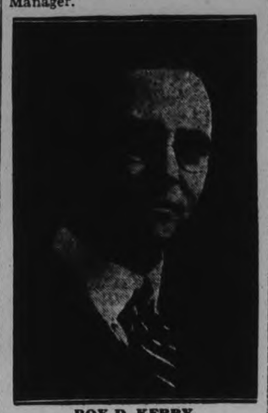
ROY D. KERBY IS GIVEN PROMOTION

One of Best Known Motor Car Men to Manage Toronto Zone.

OSHAWA, April 26.—Roy D. Kerby, one of the best known motor car men in Canada, marked his "coming of age" in the automotive industry by taking charge of the key sales territory of General Motors Products of Canada, Limited. It was just twenty-one years ago that Mr. Kerby started in the motor car business as a retail salesman for the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, Corner Church and Richmond streets. To-day his appointment as Manager of the Toronto Zone in the magnificent new office building, recently completed, on the same site, was announced here by C. E. McTavish, General Sales Manager.



ROY D. KERBY

It is an example of the interesting way in which fortune some times completes the circle of business experience, a circle which, in Mr. Kerby's case, took him far afield in Canadian motor car selling.

Roy Kerby is not only well known in Toronto, but his is a popular name throughout the Central Ontario area where he will be in charge of dealers and sales activities.

After retail and wholesale experience with the McLaughlin Motor Car Company back in the early days, Mr. Kerby became Assistant Sales Manager in 1918, and from 1920 to 1925 served consecutively as Sales Manager for Oldsmobile, Oakland and Cadillac Divisions.

In 1925 he went to Durant Motors as Sales Manager, becoming General Manager in the following year. He was appointed to the position of President in 1927. Mr. Kerby re-joined the General Motors organization last December.

News of his return to Toronto will be pleasing to a wide circle of friends. He takes charge at once at the General Motors Building, Corner Church and Richmond streets.

2 Friends, Neighbors To Contest S. Essex

KINGSVILLE, Ont., April 26 (C.P.). — Close friends and neighbors are expected to be the South Essex candiates in the forthcoming provincial elections.

Austin Smith, M.L.A., has stilled rumors that he would not be a candidate for re-election by announcing he will contest the riding if the Conservative meeting desires he would. The day of the meeting has not been set, but it is expected it will be the latter part of May. Party leaders declare Mr. Smithe will be the candidate.

Lambert Wigle, who was a member of the Legislature 1914 to 1919, was nominated some time ago as the Liberal candidate.

Some question was raised recently as to his candidacy because of his temperance views and the possible position of the party on the wine and beer issue. This has been settled by his acceptance of Mitchell Hepburn's leadership.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Wigle are the best of friends and are close neighbors.

NURSES HOLD RALLY.

LINDSAY, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence)—Norman Young, a resident of Bobcaygeon, appeared before Police Magistrate Jordan yesterday on a charge of posessing illicit spirits, laid by Constable Wood, R.C.M.P. He was given a $200 fine or three months in jail. Constable Wood had secured a quantity of the liquor which the accused had concealed behind a fence on the main street of Bobcaygeon and exhibited it in court.

A Dundas, a resident of Fenelon Falls was charged with consuming liquor illegally, and was fined $10 and costs.

The white pine lumber mill on Drag River, Haliburton has started operation and a number of men are employed. Over one thousand logs are ready to be cut into lumber.

The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, District No. 6, convened at the nurses' home, Ross Hospital, last night, with representatives from Peterborough and Lindsay. Some forty-two nurses were present. Miss Dixon, of Peterborough presided during the evening, and the guest speaker was Dr. F. A. Logan, of Lindsay, who took as his subject "The Prevention of Deformities in Children." A vote of thanks to the speaker was expressed by Miss Anderson, of Peterborough, and Miss Schofield, of Lindsay.

At a meeting of the Lindsay Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church held here on Tuesday Rev. W. G. Smith, of Glenarm, made application for leave to retire from active duties due to ill health. The application was approved, and will be sent on to the Pension Board of the Assembly. It is expected that Dr. Smith will continue as clerk and treasurer of the Presbytery and clerk of the Synod. He has been thirty-nine years in the ministry and served at Bobcaygeon, Callander and Glenarm. A committee was appointed to make temorary rearrangements of the bounds of pastoral charges in the northern part of Victoria County. A communication from the Board of Administration of the General Assembly requesting Presbyteries not to make legal dealings for real estate without notifying this Board, was tabled for further consideration, as it was felt this was an invasion of Presbytery rights.

Maple syrup production has been only fair in the immediate vicinity of Lindsay this spring, but in some points in the county plentiful supplies are reported. In Dalrymple district one farmer has a record of boiling sixty-four gallons in ten and a half hours. Syrup has been selling in Lindsay from $2 to $2.25 a gallon for the best quality.

Several citizens have appealed to Chief of Police Lawler for permission to use shot guns and small calibre rifles on rabbits which have been clipping the tops off tulips. Rabbits have invaded the town in great numbers and can be seen in the evenings hopping across streets into flower gardens. Many hundreds of tulips have been destroyed during the past few nights.

Trappers in this district are pleased that the season for trapping muskrats has been extended. The season has been backward because of the extreme cold weather. Rats were scarce, but buyers were plentiful. The price is double that of last season, $1.25 being paid, and up to $1.50 for better pelts. Some trappers report the quality as not up to the standard of past years, because, in many instances, the rats had little food. In some cases the rats had left their homes and taken to the fields in search for food. One farmer reports that two pelts have been brought right to his home, the rat having been caught by the dog.

SAVE ½ THE WORK and have the Same Fine Looking Floors!

Constant "going over" Unnecessary

Smart housewives everywhere are proving that weary hours of waxing, rubbing and polishing floors CAN be cut in half.

There's an easier way, a quicker way to care for floors. The SHINE and SHUFFLE TEST proves there is a difference, that there is ONE floor wax which enables you to have good looking floors all the time and save one hour's work in every two.

THE SHINE AND SHUFFLE TEST

While you still have some of your present polish left, get from your dealer a tin of Poliflor and test them both side by side. Use Poliflor on any one floor in your home where the finish must be right. Then take a floor where wear is extra hard and do this with Poliflor Wax.

Then on the balance of your floors use the polish you always have been using. Test the results you get from both finishes over a period of time—we leave the decision to you.

CHINA MAY ASK AID OF SIGNERS 9-POWER TREATY

Scorn Tokyo's Intention in Proclaiming Japan Gurdian of Peace.

SOUND NATIONS' VIEWS.

Chinese Claim Nippon Action is Open Violation of Pact.

(By Joseph E. Sharkey, A.P. Foreign Staff)

GENEVA, April 26 (AP)—China may appeal to the signatories of the nine-power treaty against what she sees as the possibility of Japanese overlordship.

First, however, it was indicated to-day, the Chinese are expected to attempt through diplomatic exchanges to learn whether such an appeal would receive general support.

Chi Tsai-Hu, the Chinese Minister to Switzerland, asserted yesterday that the Nipponese dream of world supremacy beginning with the domination of Asia and the Pacific Ocean.

The envoy scorned Tokyo's "good intentions" in proclaiming Japan the guardian of the peace in Asia and warning other powers not to threaten the maintenance of peace through activities in China.

Under the nine-power treaty, the contracting powers agreed to respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

The signatories of the pact agreed to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights or subjects or citizens or friendly states.

Violation of Treaty

The Chinese minister asserted Japan's policies embody open violation of the treaty as it relates to guarantees of China's independence.

The Nine-Power Treaty, which resulted from discussions at the Washington conference early in 1922, was signed by Great Britain, the United States, Belgium, China, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands and Portugal.

In addition to other agreements, the powers were not to support any arrangements by their respective nations with each other designed to create spheres of influence or to provide for the enjoyment of mutually exclusive opportunities in designated parts of Chinese territory.

Article three specifically provided for applying more effectually the principles of the "open door" or equality of opportunity in China or for the trade and industry of all nations.

China charged Japan, objecting to China's markets being opened indiscriminately to foreign nations, "wishes to keep a privilege situation to herself."

London's Famous Dog Demonstrates Life-Saving Ability

It looked hopeless! The wax on this doll was just starting to melt when along came London's famous "Dewet of Pinefold", picked up the doll in his teeth, bravely jumped through circles of flames (LEFT), and down the fireladder (RIGHT) to safety. Dewett is one of the finest Alsation dogs in the world and the only one to win a cup for beauty and brains twice running. The doll episode shows how he is trained to rescue a child from fire should the situation arise. He also holds the English tracking record.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

CIVIL WAR FEAR GRIPS MADRID

President Zamora May Resign to Ease Tense Situation.

RIOTS THREATENED.

(By Rex Smith, A.P. Foreign Staff.)

MADRID, April 26 (A.P.) — President Alcala Zamora, fighting to avert civil war, will resign to-day, it was indicated, if such a drastic step is deemed necessary in the governmental crisis gripping Spain.

With a state of alarm in effect throughout the nation, threats of strikes and riots flared among Extremists on many sides.

Cries came from both Leftist and Rightest elements demanding the President step out on the heels of the Cabinet which resigned yesterday.

In this situation, the president was confronted by almost impossible difficulties in his attempts to form a government to succeed that of Alejandro Lerroux.

Alcala Zamora himself, weary after long conferences with goverument leaders, was described in high ministerial circles as fearing the Cabinet walk-out would not sufficiently ease the tense situation.

The temper of Extremists was indicated in an attempt on the life of Rafael Alonso, Interior Minister in the resigned Cabinet, when a bomb which failed to explode was hurled into his automobile after he decreed a state of alarm throughout Spain.

Need for quick action to solve the crisis was emphasized by recurrent rumors that Left Extremists were planning a general strike against the new political amnesty law under which thousands of political prisoners were freed yesterday.

INDIA TO HAVE EXHIBIT

TORONTO, April 26 (CP)—India will have a display at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. The C.N.E. was notified to-day that the Indian Government had approved participation. An exhibit was being assembled in India. The country has not been represented since 1928.

Nazi Press Claim Plot Bared To Kill Hitler

BERLIN, April 26 (A.P.).—Exposure of a "Jewish plan to murder Adolf Hitler" was promised to the German people to-day in sensational posters, aflame with red ink, which were distributed throughout the Reich.

The posters advertised the May Day issue of "The Stormer," published by Julius Streicher, Nazi chieftain for Franconia, who only yesterday was named 'political commissioner' of the Bavarian State Government.

The advertisements carry a reproduction of the masthead of "The Stormer," which boasts that it is the "greatest anti-semitic newspaper in the world."

The May Day issue, it is promised, will "cause a sensation in the whole world."

Mongrel Dog Once Dead Stands And Growls Life Reviving Test May Be Tried on Humans

BERKELEY, Calif, April 26 (AP)—A mongrel dog, once dead, was stronger in life to-day and the doctor who worked the wonder said it may be applied next to humans.

"If we succeed in restoring the dog completely to life and consciousness, our next step will be experiments to save the lives of human beings," said Dr. Robert A. Cornish.

The dog—for the first time since it was put to death Friday, April 13—rose to its front feet, growled and barked yesterday while being fed.

"He is getting stronger day by day," the doctor said, "but we can't tell yet whether his brain, the most vital part, is improving.

Two other dogs, experimented upon at the laboratory, were restored to life by the treatment, but they died again within a few hours, and an examination showed that their brain cells were damaged.

JAPANESE LEAVE WORLD TO DRAW OWN FINDINGS

No Intention Interfering With European or U. S. Asiatic Possessions.

CHINA AROUSED.

Envoy States Tokyo Hopes to Veto Rights of All Foreign Nations.

TOKYO, April 26 (A.P.)—Japan in effect told the world yesterday to draw its own conclusions regarding her restated policy toward China.

A foreign office spokesman said: "Our statement has been made. Let others read it as they will."

This was the reply to requests for further elucidation of the declaration in which Japan claimed responsibility for maintenance of the peace in Eastern Asia, warning other powers not to threaten tranquility by activities in China.

The spokesman also refused to comment on reference to "Asia for Asiatics" in an enunciation of Nipponese policy by the Japanese consul general at Geneva, Masayuki Yokoyama.

However, he did reiterate that Japan has no intention of interfering with European and American powers in their Asiatic possessions.

"We have no intention," he said, "of promoting independence movements in the Philippines, Indo-China or elsewhere."

The British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Francis Lindley, visited Foreign Minister Koki Hirota yesterday afternoon and delivered the request of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon for a further elucidation of Japan's new policy.

Hirota remained silent concerning the matter yesterday. He will speak before prefectural governors here on May 4 and some newspapers quoted him as promising an explanation to world capitals to ally suspicion.

Enclose All China

GENEVA, April 26 (A.P.)—Chi Tsai-Hu, Chinese minister to Switzerland, declared yesterday that Japanese Imperialism seeks to enclose all China and veto the rights of foreign nations.

He told newspaper correspondents, gathered by invitation, that the new Japanese doctrines violate all the fundamentals of the nine-power treaty signed at Washington in 1922 to which the United States, Great Britain, France, Holland, Japan and other nations are signatories.

These fundamentals, he said, include the sovereignty and independence of China, the promise of helping China obtain a stable government, the right of equal opportunity for all nations, and the promise not to take advantage of conditions to seek special privileges.

"The Japanese declarations reveal clearly," he said, "that Japan, pretending to speak in the name of peace in the far East, which she alone has disturbed for the past 30 years, is pursuing a policy which is the negation of peace and collaboration.

"The Japanese do not seem to want a prosperous China whose markets would be opened to all countries without discrimination."

The Chinese minister denied that Northern China is negotiating for a de facto recognition of Manchukuo.

He declined to say whether China would appeal under the nine-power pact.

Tsai-Hu's declaration was made after Masayuki Yokoyama, the Japanese consul general here, had pictured Japan as a social welfare worker.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby the parts almost dead? the parts lifeless?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching bleeding, or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood heals and restores the affected parts.

HEM-ROID is so successful in even the most stubborn cases that McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and all good druggists advise every sufferer to get bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets to-day—take them as directed—then if not completely satisfied with results—your money back.

JAP STATEMENT SOUGHT BY U.S.

Tokyo Speculates Whether Anglo-American Understanding Exists.

NO NOTE DELIVERED.

TOKYO, April 26 (C.P.).—Concern of United States over Japan's declared intention to oppose Occidental dealings which from Japan's own viewpoint "endanger the peace of Eastern Asia," found official expression to-day.

The United States attitude was carried to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota by the United States Ambassador, Joseph C. Grew.

The Ambassador, according to the Foreign Office version of the interview, delivered no note and made no representations, merely requesting an authoritative version of Japan's restatement of policy toward China.

Significance was attached to the call in high circles here because it followed close upon a visit made yesterday by Sir Francis Lindley, British Ambassador.

There was wide speculation in Tokyo whether an Anglo-American understanding exists concerning Japan's intentions under her restated policy toward China, although despatches from London said Great Britain had no intention of acting with any other Powers in connection with the situation in the Far East.

MEDICAL MEN LONG STUDIED FATAL DISEASE

Amoebic Dysentery Suffered by Troops in Near East During War.

BEEN TREATED HERE.

There is nothing new or strange to the medical profession concerning recent reports of deaths from amoebic dysentery, according to Dr. N. H. Sutton, District M.O.H.

"Anyone who has had anything to do with the treatment of ex-soldiers know that there is nothing new about this disease," Dr. Sutton told The Examiner. "Quite a number of troops who served in the Near East suffered more or less from it, and it was by no means unknown on the Western Front.

"Veterans of the War have been treated for the disease right here in Peterborough," he continued. "Some of these men continue to have recurring attacks of it."

That other disease, leukemia, which has been gaining much attention in American press stories of late, Dr. Sutton said has been known to medical practitioners for many centuries. "Why, one of this city's best known citizens died of leukemia last year," he explained. "Fortunately the disease is uncommon because it invariably proves fatal."

However, amoebic dysentery is in another category from leukemia, he continued. "We have reason to believe that it is more less widespread on the North American continent, in the temperate zone as well as in the hot regions."

While bacilliary dysentery is more common than amoebic, it is the less persistent of the two because there are more carriers of amoebic dysentery.

"Those who have suffered an acute attack of amoebic dysentery and recovered have recurring attacks" Dr. Sutton said. "And it is these recurring attacks that we have treated here in this district. Persons may have their systems invaded by the amoebae and yet never suffer inconvenience thereby. Their bodies seem to set up an armed neutrality with the disease, and only when they are in ill health from some other disease will they suffer an attack of amoebic dysentery that will cause them any actual illness.'"

He explained that it is in most cities the disposal of sewage is so complete that citizens' only danger of catching the disease is from food that has been handled by a carrier of the disease. Carriers of amoebic dysentery are much more widespread than the public conceive of, he said.

"Fortunately it seems that there must be quite a proportion of the public that is relatively immune from it, or else they have to have pretty heavy exposure to it before they succumb," he explained.

"One lesson it teaches is the importance of pasteurizing of all milk and another is the necessity of keeping close tab on all food handlers, especially those employed in hotel and cafe kitchens preparing food for consumption by the public."

CHURCH FIGHTS MIXED BATHING

Irish Catholic Organ Scores Outrages Against Public Decency.

OUTLAW JAZZ DANCING.

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 26. (CP).—Hot on the heels of a campaign backed by the Catholic clergy to outlaw jazz dancing in the Free State has come a drive against mixed bathing, sun bathing and bathing-costume parades.

Catholic press organs are following the lead of the "Standard", the Roman Catholic newspaper and official mouthpiece of the church, in promoting local 'Catholic action' committees representing religious bodies.

It will be the aim of these bodies to focus public attention on what they regard as outrages against public decency at seaside resorts and bathing pools and a national conference which is being arranged in Dublin will consider the method of attack.

Strong pressure will be exerted on local authorities to enforce existing laws covering regulation of public bathing resorts. Under the Public Health Act, passed by the Imperial Parliament in 1907, local bodies may enact by-laws for prevention of abuses in public places, but in practice they have exercised their powers rarely.

The church demands by-laws segregating the sexes for dressing and undressing, prohibition of mixed bathing, sun bathing, except by afimily parties, and bathing-costume parades.

FAMOUS MAGICIAN WILL SEEK GOLD IN NORTHERN ONTARIO

Howard Thurston to Give Up Stage for Mining Business.

LIVE IN CANADA

TORONTO, Ont., April 26.—(By Central Press Canadian). — The wand of a magician is soon to wave over the ore-bearing rock of Northern Ontario in an effort to extract gold.

The hand that has drawn from ethereal spaces live rabbits, that has for the benefit of thousands of spell-bound spectators produced solid facts from apparent nothingness, will move over acres of mining properties in which it is fondly hoped the yellow metal so much in demand at present lies hidden and attempt to bring forth, in paying quantities, the ore that lies below the surface.

Howard Thurston, world-famed magician, who for the last 44 years has pursued and practised the "black art" of magic in all countries of the world and whose name is a byword to every wonder-struck youngster delighting in the mystic art, is about to end his career upon the stage and devote all his time to mining interests in Ontario's northland, with which he is connected.

Thus the lure of gold has drawn from the spotlight of the vaudeville stage one of its foremost and most colorful figures. A man who ranks with his great friend, the late Harry Houdini, in the profession that lives by entertaining audiences with apparently unfathomable mysteries.

After years of popular success, after rising to the topmost rung of his profession and attaining fame for his exploits in the realms of the mysterious, he now finds himself gripped by the excitement of another popular pursuit, the quest of gold.

HOWARD THURSTON.

Wife Was Canadian.

It was the death of his wife, a Canadian and a niece of the late Hon. W. S. Fielding of Nova Scotia, a few weeks ago, that finally brought about Mr. Thurston's decision to retire from the stage. She was seized with a serious illness just as her husband was about to go on to the stage at Jamaica, L.I., and leaving his daughter to carry on the show, true to the traditions of the theatre, Mr. Thurston rushed to her side. His wife died shortly afterwards.

Howard Thurston was born in Columbus, Ohio, 64 years ago, and in accord with the wishes of his spiritualist father, was trained and educated for the ministry at the Bible school of D. L. Moody. He studied assiduously, but one day he saw Herrmann, the greatest magician of his time, and from that day the possible career of a preacher was relegated to the background. At the age of 20 he became a professional magician. Fired with the enthusiasm of youth to himself duplicate the feats of the great Herrmann he travelled across the whole world studying the art of wizardry, and finally captivating audiences with the things new and old which he drew from his mystic treasure box.

For many years he was also interested in spiritualism and studied the possibility of communication between the living and the dead, but an incident in connection with the death of Houdini somewhat weakened his faith in the theory that the dead can still converse with the world they have left.

Before Houdini died a set of signals was arranged between the two wizards and a solemn promise given that whoever died first would attempt to communicate with his friend still on the earth. For seven years, Thurston waited for the signal from his dead friend, but he admits it never came.

"That message has never come," he once said later. "And now I know it never will. It is like smoke. They vanish into the air; they go somewhere — they disappear, but they never come back.

One more contract to finish—a three weeks' run in Boston, opening to-day — and then the master of magic will return to Toronto, where he will live while his time will be devoted to furthering his mining interests in the north.

Perhaps over some dubious prospect, some apparently worthless claim, he will wave his magic wand. Perhaps he will murmur the magic word "Presto." Perhaps then the unyielding earth will bow to the will of the wizard and give forth a stream of the yellow metal to add to Canada's, and Thurston's wealth.

Rayon production in Japan is increasing while that of real silk is slumping.

The Boy Scout training is to educate, not to instruct; or to draw out the boy so that he will learn for himself of his own desire, the things that tend to build up character in him.

Qualities that make character are: Reverence, sense of honor, self-discipline, unselfishness, self-reliance, intelligence, enjoyment of life, sense of humor, and energy.

The list includes all that is taught in Scouting, the entire program being directed toward character building as the chief step to good citizenship.

Here are the ten Scout laws, which over two millions of Scouts of all creeds, races and countries have promised to obey (with modifications in some instances):

1—A Scout's honor is to be trusted.

Babies GROW and GROW On this easily digested milk

So many mothers write us telling how their babies began to make normal gains in weight as soon as put on a Carnation Milk feeding formula. Many medical authorities are convinced that Carnation Milk is better for infant feeding than cows' milk in any other form.

Carnation Milk agrees with babies. It is much more easily digested than raw or pasteurized milk. It is as completely nourishing as the best bottle milk. It contains the same food elements—supplies the same minerals and vitamins that any other milk is depended upon to furnish. Nothing but water has been removed from Carnation Milk. Nothing has been added. And the purity and uniformity of this sterilized, safeguarded milk protect the baby from upsets.

Your doctor will give you a correct Carnation formula for your baby. Write for two free booklets—"100 Glorified Recipes" and "Contented Babies". Address Carnation Co., Limited, Toronto, Ontario.

W. A. Fraser, M.P. for Northumberland, was also present, with J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, Dr. A. J. Faulkner, Belleville, Liberal candidate in West Hastings, all three of whom were heard in brief addresses. Liberal reeves of the county and other members of municipal councils were noticed among the assembly, but the personal aspect of the convention was secondary. The crowd was the feature, and almost to the last man and woman, those who were present when the proceedings were promptly opened at 1.30 o'clock remained until Mayor Carr's nomination was announced at 6 p.m.

John D. Haydan of Cobourg, former president of the county Liberal Association, said it was the biggest political gathering he had ever seen here, even at nominations. All the available room on the stage was occupied, indicating the packed condition of the main hall.

Some prescient member of the executive must have anticipated the interest which the convention developed and engaged a radio broadcasting outfit by which the convention speeches and business were transmitted to the overflow crowd in the basement and lower corridors. Some even waited outside, presumably hearing but little of what was going on inside.

J. J. Duffus, arriving shortly after two o'clock, reached the stage of the auditorium by way of a fire escape, and Mr. Hepburn's entry was by the same route.

Ross Douglas, of Campbellford, secretary of the association, performed the secretarial duties of the convention. It was reported that more than forty automobiles made the trip from Campbellford.

Made It Unanimous

When the result of the final ballot was announced by Mr. Douglas, a motion to make the convention's nomination unanimous was moved by Fred Slade and seconded by Clarence Massie. It was loudly endorsed from the body of the hall, and in acknowledging the nomination he had just received Mayor Carr expressed his thanks for the confidence which the Liberals had placed in him.

"To those who voted for other candidates I'd like to say that we all realize this was a friendly contest," Mayor Carr said. "I hope that we will all get together from now on, and that I shall have your hearty support throughout the campaign."

A resolution of confidence in Mackenzie King and Mitchell Hepburn was moved by Miss Clara DeLany of Cobourg, seconded by Mrs. Sam Dudley of Colborne, and was aproved with applause and cheers.

Mayor H. N. Carr

"I am not a politician," declared Mayor Carr as he rose to speak to his nomination. "I have never taken part in a political campaign but I believe I have a grasp of good, sound business principles. It is men with business heads that is the great need in Queen's Park today."

"The Government is doing nothing but attempt to borrow us out of the depression," he continued in voicing a sweeping charge of incompetency on the part of the Henry Government. "The Tories are piling up such a huge debt that our grandchildren and their grandchildren are going to be in virtual slavery for generations to come. They are spending millions of dollars on direct relief. Relief is all very well but in handing it out that way they are piling such a huge burden on the taxpayers that the taxpayers are finding it more and more difficult to meet their taxes."

Declaring that the men and women of Ontario do not want charity, he said they want to work, earn their livings and pay their taxes as they did in better years. Work can be provided in place of direct charity by the Federal and Provincial Governments but it will not be provided as long as the present administrations remain in power, he said.

Turning a broadside on the Bennett Government, he asserted that the problem of the day is not overproduction but under-consumption. The Tory Governments are representing the big financial interests, he charged as he argued that it would be impossible for Mr. Bennett, a millionaire, to have the interests of the working men and farmers at heart.

Mayor Carr boasted that he has enjoyed a good record during many years of business in Northumberland County. He said that he has been unopposed as mayor of Campbellford for two years, an indication that his administration has been satisfactory.

Mitchell F. Hepburn

Mr. Hepburn was not introduced to the assembly until five o'clock, and his address was halted by a long interruption of preparation for the final voting.

Mr. Hepburn recalled the recent South Oxford by-election in which he said he had assisted. "Mr. Bennett didn't have the courage to enter the riding, but he sent his melodious voice over the ether. The spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. He didn't tell the farmers how their markets could be expanded and their cost of production reduced.

If Mr. Bennett had been absolutely honest in his radio speech he would have said that from 1921 until 1930 this country had a Liberal administration which lowered the costs of production and expanded our markets until our trade had increased to the great figure of $2,800,000,000; that federal taxation and the national debt were reduced. He did not say that in the last Dominion election Mackenzie King had gone to the people with the Dunning budget offering still wider markets and further reduction of debt. Mr. Bennett did not say—"I conceived the idea of fooling you people by saying that I'd end unemployment and blast my way into the markets of the world." He did not say he had autocratic control of the Government and that the ministers had become forgotten men. Nor did he say that instead of ending unemployment he had to acknowledge more than one million men being on relief. Probably his blasting powder backfired, for our trade has declined since the King Government was defeated. We have sugar and tire taxes, our debt has been increased by $450,000,000."

"Mr. Bennett did not say those things, but they constitute the reason why the Liberals won the South Oxford by-election. Toryism is on the way out. British Columbia turned them out, and so did Nova Scotia. And they lost five by-elections."

Mr. Hepburn remarked that the titles issue had been endorsed by Premier Henry while many people in this province were hard pressed to hold the titles of the small properties they had acquired. Recent increases in wages to road workers and the increased programs of road building, Mr. Hepburn continued, were a form of bribery, and the irony of the situation was that the Government was trying to bribe the people with their own money as a last resort. After all, the cost of this work would have to be borne by the people as a whole. When the elections were over, Mr. Hepburn said, there would be no respect by Mr. Henry for the road builders. The country would be operated once more for the Tory machine.

Reduce Administration Costs

"One thing we all understand is that we must lower the costs of production; in the federal field by lessening the exploitation of the people by high tariffs; and in the provincial field by lowering the cost of administering the affairs of this province, your affairs. For instance, although the Government maintains a largely manned legal staff it has paid "to" W. E. N. Tilley, a prominent Conservative counsel $355,000 for legal since 1923. What do we keep a legal staff for if we have to pay out such a sum as that? We also have an auditing staff, but the firm of Clarkson and Company, auditors, was paid $360,000 for work done by them. In these two items alone you have an expenditure of $700,000 which must be classified in administration costs."

The goal to be aimed at, Mr. Hepburn continued, was the reduction of expenses, and from that a reduction of taxation.

If taxation were reduced, the people would have more money to spend.

"I have gone over the public accounts as carefully as I can, and I believe we can reduce administration costs in this province by 50 per cent. I was laughed at when I said there were too many members of the Legislature, but it has been reduced by twenty-two members since then."

In his criticism of the Henry Government, Mr. Hepburn declared that departments instead of being revenue-producing were costing more than they yielded to the province. He cited the Departments of Lands and Forest, and Game and Fisheries in this category. He also explained his objections to the federal gold tax as involving a constitutional issue which the Bennett Government was ignoring.

"The British North America Act says that natural resources belong to the provinces. It is a constitutional issue which was settled years ago. If the Federal Government can tax Ontario's gold, they can also tax our fish and lumber, our pork and milk."

Reeve C. H. Curtis

"Id like to take you down the slippery paths of the moribund Henry Government," Reeve C. H. Curtis said to the audience in his address after the nominations were closed, but he remarked, in response to laughter greeting his rhetorical flourish that time did not permit.

Mr. Curtis charged Fred J. McArthur, M.P.P. with having obtained an appropriation of $10,000 to be spent east of Norham on the Campbellford - Brighton highway, and with having condoned the appointment of the sons of well-to-do Conservative farmers for this work while needy laboring men, after being repeatedly told that the job was not ready for them, eventually realized that this employment was not for them.

Mr. Curtis named three farmers, James Ross, Murnie McCann and Bert Nelson, and said their sons were given work on this highway, although the fathers were comparatively wealthy.

"I charge that Fred McArthur knew what was going on there. The same Fred McArthur stood in his place in the Legislature and great crooodile tears streamed down his face over the plight of the poor farmers. And he will continue that spasm until after the election."

Reeve Curtis also alleged that Mr. McArthur was instrumental in preventing the investigation of the county road superintendent's department which had been asked for by unanimous vote of the council of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham.

John Callaghan informed the convention that he had no intention of contesting the nomination. He had been repeatedly urged to become a candidate but had replied that he would not consider the matter unless the Liberals of the county were unanimously in favor of him.

Fred Slade and Dr. Robertson both spoke briefly on the record of the Henry Government which they declared should be the only issue in the approaching campaign.

W. A. Fraser, M.P.

In a spirited speech, W. A. Fraser, member in the Federal parliament, for Northumberland called on Liberals to put aside all personal ambitions and join in putting in a Liberal Government. "We have an opportunity at this time to carry the Liberal banner to success that we have never had before. May I appeal to the voters of Northumberland County to stand shoulder to shoulder and work in unity to elect the candidate selected at this convention. Regardless of what your personal likes and friendships may be, it is up to you to send a man to Toronto to support Mr. Hepburn."

The election of a Liberal member to the Ontario Government will not be merely a matter of politics to Northumberland voters but a matter of business, he continued. "The Government is your business and mine. No matter in what direction the government spends money or how much it spends it all comes from your pocket and mine And no administration has been so adept in taking money out of our pockets as the Ferguson-Henry administration. It is purely our business to select a man who will act in the interests of the people of Northumberland County and the Province of Ontario and who will help oust the present Queen's Park gang.

"I do not think that in the history of Northumberland there has been such a demonstration for the Liberal cause has we have here today. I can not remember a time when the people were so determined in mass to throw out a government as that which rules the province at the present time.

"We have reached a parting of the ways. By your vote you will determine whether we are to continue as a democracy or to continue submerged in individualism. I want to tell you that Bennett is plunging this country into socialism. If we continue under Tory administration, our freedom as Canadian citizens will be lost."

Default Bonds

A prediction that the Province of Ontario will default its bonds within three years if the present regime continues featured an address to the convention by J. J. Duffus, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association. "The Government has built highways to a total cost of $189,000,000 yet not one shovelful of gravel or one bag of cement used in building those highways has been paid for," he declared. "How did the Government get the money? It borrowed it. It borrowed so heavily that three and one-half cents out of the six cents you pay in tax for each gallon of gasoline goes for interest on that borrowed money. That is but one example of what the Henry administration is doing for us."

He assailed the Government for taking such a "light view" of public affairs as to bring forth beer and wine by the glass as the important issue in the coming election. "It is preposterous. What we want is not beer and wine but beef and weiners. The present administration has absolutely no feeling for the people who are faced with the real difficulties of these hard times." He stamped as autocratic the attitude of Premier Henry in withholding from the voters of the province the date of the election.

"Our friends the Conservatives do not like Mr. Hepburn. We will make them like him. When he goes into power there will be reduced taxation, a balanced budget and a sinking fund to take care of our debt. That is how we will make them like him."

Mr. Duffus said that much quiet work has been going on in the Liberal cause throughout Central Ontario and that practically every sub-division is organized and ready for the election.

Beer and Wine

Dr. A. J. Kaulkner of Belleville, the candidate for West Hastings attacked the beer and wine issue as "a herring drawn across the trail by a maladministration." "I am not going to say whether I approve of beer and wine by the glass or not. It is not an issue in this election. The issue is the incompetency of the Henry Government. The policy of the Government today is the preservation of the Conservative party instead of the preservation of the people."

Stating that he had great faith and implicit confidence in him, the speaker paid a tribute to Mitchell Hepburn.

LATE WALTER KIDD WELL KNOWN FIGURE IN WARSAW CHOIR WORK

Led Presbyterian Church Choir After Late Thomas Choates Death.

OUTSTANDING FIGURE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, April 26. — In the passing of the late Walter John Kidd, an outstanding figure in the choir work of this community is gone.

As a young man, Mr. Kidd was a member of the late Thomas Choate's choral class and of the Presbyterian choir some times. After Mr. Choate's death Mr. Kidd became leader of the Presbyterian choir. For choral work he had a large choir, which included many from other churches, who were glad to work under his direction. For special occasions churches and other organizations invited him and choir to help with the services or entertainment, and he was always able and glad to do so. Travel was not so easy in those days as now. The remuneration was usually the joy of doing it and the pleasant time spent.

About thirty years ago while the Rev. Mr. Atkinson was on the Warsaw-Cottesloe charge, Cottesloe people purchased a new organ, and Mr. Kidd, who had often assisted the church service with singing, organized a choir, and for some time in addition to his work at practices, and two Sunday services at Warsaw, directed the practice and music at Cottesloe in the afternoon.

The hymns at the funeral services: "The Lord's My Shepherd," "What a Friend we Have in Jesus," and "Nearer my God to Thee," were old favorites, as was also the quartette, "The Golden Key," by Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Roland Payne, Clarence Watts and David Miller, all of whom but Mrs. Payne had been in his choir. Mrs. George Taylor, who presided at the organ, had been organist for him, for some time, also had sung in the choir.

ACADEMY OFFERED 12,000 EXHIBITS

Record Number of Works Before Selection Committee for May 7 Show.

LONDON, April 26 (CP)—Twelve thousand works—more than ever before—have been submitted for the Royal Academy exhibition opening May 7. It promises to be an interesting show, the News Chronicle remarks, if the selection committee is kind, broadminded and shows a sense of humor.

The paper says: "Two of the most exciting exhibits will be a large portrait of Major Douglas, the economist, by Augustus John, whose work London has missed for some time, and a scale model of Liverpool's new Roman Catholic Cathedral, by Sir Edwin Lutyens, with 49 figures arranged around it.

"A. J. Munnings, the horse painter, will probably arouse interest with his 'Trooper of the Scots Greys of 1800,5 complete with top-hat, and a background of battle and smoke."

ROOSEVELT MAY VISIT CANADA

Would Like President to Take Part in Jacques Cartier Celebrations.

EXTEND INVITATION.

OTTAWA, April 26 (C.P.). — The Canadian committee in charge of the quadricentennial celebrations of the landing of Jacques Cartier in Canada are hoping that President Roosevelt will visit the Dominion while these are in progress, Senator C. P. Beaubien, one of the most active of the Canadian committee, said here to-day. The senator had been invited to comment on the reference by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in the Senate yesterday to the possibility of the President visiting Canada.

"We are endeavoring to assure the presence of the President in Toronto, which will stage the last of the series of celebrations," said the Senator. "How far we will succeed I do not know. It is difficult for the President of the United States to leave his territory while in office. The late President Harding did so in Vancouver, in 1923, however."

Senator Beaubien recalled that President Roosevelt's visit to Campbello, N.B., last year was "incognito" the President travelling then as a private individual.

"I understand from the United States committee at Niagara Falls, N.Y., where the celebration will immediately follow ours on September 6 and 7, that the President is anxious to attend there."

Should Mr. Roosevelt be present at Niagara Falls, the Senator felt there was reason to hope he might visit Canada. At all events, when the President's intentions were made known, the Canadian committee would, through the usual diplomatic channels, extend a warm invitation to him.

Y.M.C.A.'s Drive For Funds in Two Days Amounts to $3,718.

It was reported last night that for the first two days of the Y.M.C.A.'s drive to raise $7,250 for the 1934 budget $3,718 had been obtained.

Harry Ballantyne, of the National Council, who has been loaned to the local association for the financial drive, stated that the task of raising the needed funds to carry on the work of the "Y" is about half done. "We have reached about half the objective and the workers have seen about half the citizens on our lists," he reported. "We had hoped to conclude the drive this evening, but we may not able to do so."

Chief Gimblett's team of workers is the first to go go over the top on its quota. It was reported that this team has obtained 101 per cent. of the amount set for it.

J. F. Reid's team gained the highest total yesterday, 48 per cent, while W. L. Ferguson's team made the most number of calls.

Last night's report meeting had a large attendance and great enthusiasm was exhibited. It was explained that the support of every citizen is needed to make the campaign the success it deserves to be.

HATE CONQUERS FOUR MAROONED WITH A MADMAN

Weird Wireless Message Bares Drama Being Enacted at Sea.

LONELY LIGHTHOUSE.

(By Central Press Canadian.)

RIGA, April 26. — A strange drama of hate and madness is being played to-day in one of the world's loneliest spots.

"Enemy ships have entirely surrounded us—now they've begun to bombard us—we're caught like rats—escape impossible."

This series of radio messages, flashed from off the Latvian coast to Riga was the overture to the drama.

It threw the city into a turmoil such as it has not experienced since war times. Somewhere out in the grim winter waters of the Baltic Sea there was a tremendous naval engagement taking place, it seemed. But who were the combatants? And who had sent the desperate flashes?

There were no combatants and the sender was a madman came the official announcement from the head of the Naval Hydrographic Department. But behind that terse statement lies a tale of twisted human relations in the lighthouse, "Domesnaes,' four miles off the coast, which has gripped the hearts of this hardy, sea-faring folk — and which has yet to be unravelled in its entirety.

The Domesnaes light is manned by a crew of five, two beacon tenders, two radio operators, and a general mechanic.

The supply ship which is supposed to visit it every three months could not make the last round because of the perilious ice conditions.

Hate Each Other
Among those five men cramped into tiny quarters, little personal antagonisms, mounting from day to day created hate. Social intercourse and friendly conversation, ceased weeks ago. When the Navy Department succeeded in getting into communication with Domesnaes, after receiving those remarkable flashes, the only person who would answer their flashes was the mechanic. The others refused he said.

Each of the five kept strictly to himself, according to the latter who added that the two radio men had locked themselves into their respective quarters, and came out only at meal times, when they picked up their rations and immediately retired.

The operator who sent the messages about being attacked and about "huge birds sweeping around the tower," is believed to be the 37-year-old Fritz Tabak. Some months ago he sent a flash that all his companions had got into a motor boat and gone off. This was later proved to be a falsehood but the officials on land little thought it was the first visible sign of what appears to be a highly developed case of persecution-mania.

Orders have been issued for Tabak's replacement but with the prevailing ice conditions this cannot be accomplished for weeks.

Meanwhile the five men must go keeping their vigil, hating each other as sworn enemies, yet living at close quarters with an insane man.

The four-year-old heifer, Rowancroft Alcartra, bred by Daniel Murphy, Lindsay, Ont., and now owned by Fred Ormiston, Brooklin, Ont., has just finished her last lactation period in the 305 day division of the R.O.P. with a production totalling 16,403 lbs. milk containing 706.26 lbs. butter, showing an average test of 3.44% fat. This heifer sired by Sir Bloomfield Alcatra, was milked twice daily for the full lactation period.

CLEVELAND, April 26 (AP)—A five-alarm fire fought by 21 downtown fire companies roared through a five-storey brick building, occupied by the Mutual Drug Company, in the wholesale district early today and destroyed the structure.

SMART, SIMPLE FROCKS FULFILL MILADY'S SUMMER NEEDS

Bride Will Find Wool Swagger Suit, Shirtwaist Frocks Useful in Trousseau

(Courtesy Good Housekeeping)

Left, wool jersey swagger suit; second, lightweight wool shirtwaist frock; third, woven cotton dress; four, striped cotton madras; five, pique shirtwaist model; right, printed drop-stitch batiste.

For the bride choosing frocks suitable for her wardrobe, for the business girl or the home woman, a practical suit and simple dresses that may be worn at home or business and that will fit into many different situations are needed. And now is the time to choose them, when the stocks are not mauled over by bargain hunters.

The two-color swagger suit, left, combines a frock of French blue with a navy coat. The material is jersey wool with a boucle loop in the surface. A jabot neckline is chic and becoming.

Shirtwaist frocks are trim and smart. The one shown second is angora with tailored effect and button trim. The third model is a woven cotton with white pique collar and cuffs, leather belt and nickel buttons. The design of the print is a herring-bone.

Two shirtwaist frocks for everyday wear are shown next, four and five. The first is a striped cotton madras, gray with maroon, tan with brown, blue with gray; the next a pique in green, maize, orchid or blue, as you choose.

The last model sketched, right, is more dressy and may be worn for visiting. It is a printed drop-stitch batiste with white organdie collar and detachable bow that ties. Notice the pleated skirt and patch pockets.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

As I told you recently, growing old gracefully is an art, and it certainly is one well worth cultivating. Look at some of our better-known screen luminaries, for instance, Mary Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Billie Dove. These charming women are no longer in their 'teens or twenties. Yet today they do not look like over-painted caricatures of their former selves. They have acquired added charm with the years. And that's because they've learned the art of growing old gracefully. Maturity has increased, rather than decreased, their attractiveness.

Too often, older women commit gross errors in make-up. They are intent upon achieving a sweet sixteen appearance, and do not realize that maturity must forego a good many of the privileges allotted to youth. As a rule, the elderly woman must tone down the vivid make-up that became her so when she was younger. And she should be sparing with her make-up. For a lavish, vivid make-up will not conceal her age, but will accentuate it, emphasizing any hard lines there are in her face.

The skin of maturity is always somewhat darker than the skin of youth. A note of blue creeps into the complexion. And if a natural effect is to be gained, a darker, matching powder must be used, and a rouge with a different basic tint. The lipstick should be applied sparingly always, so that the mouth remains soft looking. And the rouge should be blended lightly on the cheeks, and the edges blurred, so that there are no hard lines of demarcation.

Elderly women can usually use eye cosmetics advantageously, if they are skillful. But they must be careful not to apply them too heavily. It is seldom pleasant to see an older woman with heavily made-up eyes. Mascara should be applied very lightly to the lashes. Eyeshadow should give the lids just a mere suggestion of color. And only a faint, soft tracing with an eyebrow pencil is necessary to darken and accent the brows. Soft browns are usually best for lash and brow darkening for the older woman. A harsh black line above the eyes has a hardening effect on a mature face. Soft browns are far kinder, and tend to make the eyes of maturity softer and much more attractive.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

We well may ask, "What are the factors in life which are conducive to the development of functional or nervous diseases?"

Generally speaking, diseases are either hereditary or acquired. It is difficult to determine how much of our traits of character are inherited, and how much acquired by contact with other human beings after birth. The weight of this evidence points to the latter as being the principal actor in the play. We inherit blue eyes, brown hair, body type and weight, bald heads, big noses, and all the other physical characteristics which make people interesting. Our traits of character however, and the stability of our nervous systems, are largely a matter of contact and experience with others.

Granting this to be true, how fortunate is the child born and reared by sensible parents, possessing good control of their nervous systems, and how unfortunate is the child of neurotic, hysterical or highly emotional parents.

Many quite stable persons develop under the latter situation, but the average is against them from the start. Many children emulate their parents, because in the early impressionable years of mimicking others. Such children are figuratively battered about between excess love and unreasonable anger; between fear and bravado; between over-solicitous attention and neglect. Even such natural functions as eating sleeping and elimination receive an unnatural and unwarranted attention, and the child is tremendously impressed with the importance of a lost meal, a coated tongue, a scratch on the hand, a failure to respond to a call of nature when the clock strikes nine. Life early becomes very complex and serious, revolving around taboos, fears, dont's, doubts, turmoil and indecision. Is it any wonder such a child develops nervous indigestion when mature?

Then there are other people who, even though their adolescent years were passed under favorable circumstances, develop nervous or emotional tendencies in adult life. Many factors enter into this, but they usually will fall into certain broad classifications—economic, domestic, thwarted ambition, organic disease.

The present economic disaster has brought to physicians thousands of men and women who previously always had been considered physically able and emotionally sound. The symptoms very tremendously—headache, dizziness, backache, indigestion, loss of appetite and weight, weakness, anemia, insomnia, mental depression are the common ones.

Incompatible domestic relations probably still heads the list, particularly with women. Books could be written about this subject and still not cover all the causes that are advanced as reasons why men and women fail to live together in peace and harmony. Back of it all is a fundamental reason—ignorance of the laws of physiology. Add to this selfishness, bad temper, jealousy, idleness, illness, perversions and other similar human frailties, and the picture is practically complete.

Mount Pleasant

Miss Annie Graham left on Monday for Guelph, where she will attend a two weeks short course. Miss Graham was the successful student at the judging competitions in Household Science held at Newcastle last year, winning the $25.00 scholarship donated by the East Durham Womens Institute. Miss Ruth Tully was high girl, but Miss Tully was the winner of the trip to Guelph the previous year and therefore was not eligible for it again this year, Miss Graham coming second.

Miss Grace Lewis of Ida entertained about 50 of her friends and neighbors on the occasion of her 19th birthday, on Wednesday.

The evening took the form of a hard times party, and the costumes certainly looked the depression.

Master Donald Perks, thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Perks, Sophia Street, was successful in winning second prize (silver medal and certificate) in the "open to the province" section (boys' solo class, any age) at the Peel County Musical Festival held at Brampton last week. Donald received 84 marks, the second highest marks given for vocal solos in the whole festival. The competition was very keen, and the test piece was Mendelssohn's "O for the Wings of a Dove" (Schirmer). The adjudicators were Dr. Harvey Robb and Mr. D'Alton McLaughlin, both of Toronto. Mr. McLaughlin remarked to the audience that "Donald is a very musical and talented young lad." His mother has been teaching him for the past fifteen months. Beside the medal, Donald is holder of three certificates for Singing, two for Piano and one for Theory.

Tea was poured by Mrs. McKee, and assistants were Mesdames J. Bell, Boyer, J. Craig, J. Collis and Miss Alma Foote. Miss Florence Corcoran was in charge of the refreshments. PATE DE FOIE GRAS, WHAT IT IS AND ALSO MOCK PATE DE FOIE GRAS

Pate de foie gras is idiomatic because it does not stand literally for what it is. It signifies a patty (paste) of goose liver although it does not actually state that when given word for word translation. Pate means a paste or a pie, foie means liver, and gras means fat in the sense of rich or greasy, de simply signifies of or of the. Literally pate de foie gras is a paste or pie of fat liver. The fact that goose is oie in French and in foie (liver) is found the word oie (goose), gives rise to the significance of goose liver and very naturally.

* * * * * * *

Genuine pate de foie gras is made from goose liver. However a pate of liver from chicken, turkey or any fowl can be so similar to the genuine pate de foie gras that it would take an epicure to distinguish the difference. It is not a literal prevarication to say pate de foie gras of a pate made from other livers, as named. If goose liver is combined with other liver it is just as much pate de foie gras as is a chicken salad in which veal is in part substituted for the meat of the fowl.

* * * * * * *

MOCK PATE DE FOIE GRAS

When the liver of animals is used in the making of foie gras, it is called mock pate de foie gras. This can be delicious, and mistakable for the genuine when used in sandwiches and in some of the preparations calling for pate de foie gras. Calves liver should be used, and it is quite possible to mix successfully the pounded paste of calves liver with goose or other livers of fowl in the making of the foie gras. It should be remembered, however, that genuine pate de foie gras calls for nothing but livers from geese. It is not a homemade preparation, but one which comes ready to use. As it can be combined with other things and only a little need be used with other ingredients, it can be included without extravagance in home menus.

* * * * * * *

To understand the literal and free translation of the term pate de foie gras is enlightening and of interest to all those who which to comprehend the niceties of culinary nomenclature. It is in response to questions about the term by such readers, that I have written so fully. Later I will give recipes for mock pate de foie gras, and some ways of serving the genuine or its substitute.

BLIND LEADS AGAINST TRUMP MAKES

Possibly against popular belief, trump makes are much more difficult to play than no trumps, both for the declarer and for the defenders. There are more chances for the declarer to choose the wrong method of play than at no trumps. Also there are more chances for the defenders to make bad opening leads than there are at no trumps.

Recent very elaborate investigations concerning trump leads proved to me how bad leads in common use really are. A business man would be considered a fool if he mismanaged his business so that he constantly incurred needless losses, running from 16 to 2 per cent., but that is just what bridge players have been doing since the game commenced. These losses will be reduced greatly by adhering to the following table of leads whenever possible.

Relative Efficiencies of Blind Leads

Except from sequences headed by ace, lead the highest card. Lead the K from A-K with more than 2 cards in suit, lead the ace from A-K without lower cards.

1. Solid suits (A-K, A-K-Q, A-K-Q-J, without small cards added).
2. Suits of any length exceeding 4 cards, when headed by A-K-Q.
3. Truncated suits (solid sequences, K-Q-J, Q-J-10, Q-J-10-9, J-10-9-8).
4. Sequences of 3 or more cards (K-Q-J-X, Q-J-10--9-X, 10-9-8-X).
5. Sequenced honors in long suit (K-Q-X-X-X, Q-J-X-X-X, J-10-X-X-X-X).
6. Intermediate sequences (10-8-7-6-2).
7. Fourth best leads.

In case partner has made an opening bid of no trump, showing generally distributed strength, disregard ordinary rules against showing opening suits headed by single honors or tenaces (gaps between honors, as A-Q, K-J, A-Q-J, A-J-10, etc.) and lead your longest and strongest suit, to weaken the declarer as much as possible, by forcing him to use his trumps to ruff your strong suits. When partner has bid no trumps, and he has been overcalled by a suit make, above all things he wants to know where you are strongest. Never lead a short trying for a ruff. The original bidder of no trumps cannot afford to wreck his hand to allow you to ruff. He wants to force trumps from the declarer, to put the hand upon a no-trump basis, if possible.

Bad Suits to Open

The two worst suits to open are those headed by tenaces (A-K-Q-J, A-J or others having gaps between honors), and suits headed by either ace or K, without the next lower honor. Unless the suit contains more than 4 cards, the following suits are poor choices from which to make blind leads: K-Q-10, K-Q, Q-J-9, Q-J and J-10.

You must lead some suit, of course. Bad suits to open are defensive in character, rather than offensive, that is why they make poor suits to open.

ADVERTISING HAS MADE TRADE MARK

Newspaper Advertising Aided C.C.M. in Staging Early Comeback.

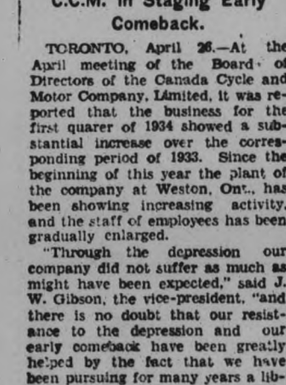
TORONTO, April 26.—At the April meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, Limited, it was reported that the business for the first quarer of 1934 showed a substantial increase over the corresponding period of 1933. Since the beginning of this year the plant of the company at Weston, Ont., has been showing increasing activity, and the staff of employees has been gradually enlarged.

"Through the depression our company did not suffer as much as might have been expected," said J. W. Gibson, the vice-president, "and there is no doubt that our resistance to the depression and our early comeback have been greatly helped by the fact that we have been pursuing for many years a liberal policy of newspaper advertising."

"What has been the net result of your many years' advertising?" was asked of Mr. Gibson. He paused thoughtfully for a minute or two and then said: "I think it can be truthfully said that our C.C.M trade mark is to-day worth more than our plant and equipment. If we lost our plant we could erect another building and install more machinery, but it would take the expenditure of much money and a long period o ftime to build up a trade name equal in value to that of C.C.M.

"In addition to manufacturing bicycles the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, Limited, has been equally successful in using newspaper advertising to promote the sale of C.C.M. skates, bike-wagons and joycycles. In each case the letters 'C.C.M.' have enabled us to develop a substantial volume of business.

"That, I think, is what advertising has done for C.C.M.," concluded Mr. Gibson.



for Baby's Comfort

There is nothing better for body rub after baby's bath. Keeps his tender skin smooth, free from dryness, chafing and chapping. Use it, too, each time you change his diaper, to soothe inflamed buttocks; on his scalp to correct "cradle-cap"; in his nostrils to ward off sniffles. Absolutely pure, harmless to the most tender skin.

WORK OF THE Y.W.C.A. TOLD IN PITHY TALY BY SECRETARY

Good Proram Provided at April Meeting of Women's Temperance Association.

PLAN MAY 3RD CONCLAVE.

The W.C.T.U. held their April meeting yesterday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. green-room, with a splendid attendance. Mrs. J. H. Rowe, the president, occupied the chair and was in charge of the excellent program arranged for the day. A devotional period opened the meeting, and consisted of a Scripture reading from the 37th Psalm by Mrs. W. H. Cunningham, a nymn, and prayer was offered by Mrs. F. Kerr.

"Travellers' Aid Work" proved an interesting subject for the day's study and prayer. "The Emigrants' Prayer" was a short responsive service which was effectively carried out, with Mrs. Rowe as leader, and several of the members taking part.

The business session was quickly despatched, and consisted chiefly of reports from the treasurer and secretary. Miss Might also read four letters from members of grateful appreciation for kindly attention during their illness.

Open Meeting.

An open meeting was announced for the evening of May 3rd, to be held in George Street United Church, for the presentation of prizes for the poster contest and medals for oratory. A good program of pageants and music will also be given, and there is no admission fee. Miss Rosamund Duff, W.C.T.U. travelling secretary, will be present as a guest speaker at this meeting of May 3rd, of which further announcement will be made later.

Work of Y.W.C.A.

Miss Leta Brownscombe, secretary of Peterborough Y.W.C.A., in a pithy address, brought the work of her organization vividly before her audience. Taking as her theme, "Out of a need," Miss Brownscombe introduced her talk by the story of the founding of the Y.W.C.A. to meet a distinct need, that of a Christian hostel. In Peterborough the "Y" was organized forty-two years ago, and to meet the increasing demand has grown to its present status. She emphasized that the "Y" is not merely a building, but something that builds. This organization is meeting the needs of today, first, with their fine residence and all its many privileges. Citing many instances of girls unable to pay the very moderate cost of these privileges, the secretary told of how their needs had been met by the "Y" without appearing to give charity.

The fact that 450 city girls belong to the physical department proves the great need for this work, the swimming pool by itself being a decided factor in the physical development of the girls.

A variety of needs are met by the numerous clubs organized for games, handicraft, cookery, sewing, lectures, Bible study and several others.

Since the "Y" has been described as the founder of the night school system, it is seen that it fills an educational need with such classes as "home nutrition, home nursing and housework."

The need for a happy holiday is also met at a very moderate expense at the Y.W.C.A. Camp at Stoney Lake.

The immigration service is another avenue of work conducted by this institution, which also helps to make new Canadians feel at home. The department which has been kept especially busy recently is the employment bureau, organized as a Christian Association. The "Y" still carries its message of Christ in all the branches of its work, and perhaps the greatest value is in its fellowship.

A delightful duet, "At Thy Feet, Dear Lord," was contributed by Mrs. H. Turner and Miss Marion Wood.

The next regular meeting, which is also the annual meeting, will be held the third Wednesday in May, and all members are especially urged to be present.

WAR DEBTS MAY BE COLLECTED BY TAXING SHIPS

Delinquents Ships Taxed When Enter U. S. Ports.

ONLY METHOD OPEN.

Continued Almost Indefinitely to Yield Very Much.

[It is being freely suggested in Washington that shipping be taxed in collection of unpaid war debts. This suggestion is not by any means official nor likely to be resorted to. Charles P. Stewart, noted Washington correspondent, herewith writes a colored account of how the idea would apply. The article is presented here to show the trend of feeling in Washington against England for making no mention of debts in her recent budget].

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Just one, and only one, method seems to be open to the United States to collect, slowly, some of the war debts due from Europe to this country.

This method is to tax the money out of the delinquents, by levies on their ships, whenever they enter American ports.

It will not be a satisfactory method.

It will be a retaliatory proceeding, akin to war which is injurious to the folk who engage in it, as well as to those against whom it is waged.

It will have to be continued almost indefinitely, to yield much.

It will not penalize peoples like Belgium, which have little or no shipping.

It will keep world trade disturbed.

Still, it will be a constant reminder. It will be a real irritant to England, who boast of commercial honesty; and some little irritant to French, who do not brag so loudly of their honesty, but who, nevertheless, are proud, and do not like to be caught repudiating their obligations.

Would Injure Shipping

It will be an embarrassment to the non-paying nations, too.

They have goods which they wish to sell to Americans, and, if their ships are especially taxed when they bring such goods here, they will have to use American bottoms, or the bottoms of countries (for example, those of little Finland which pays what it owes, on the nail), that haven't weighed.

At least in theory it should give an advantage to the American trade of the debt-paying peoples of the world, at the repudiationists' expense.

Presumably it should amount to a subsidy of American shipping, qualified by consideration that it would be shared in by the shipping of other maritime powers (Finland's, Scandinavia's and Japan's among them), which never have reneged on indebtedness to the United States.

And finally, it is not to be lost sight of that it would be a retaliatory step.

It is well-nigh beyond human endurance not to think of retaliation against a policy like that of England, whose chancellor of the exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, takes credit, in a formal address to parliament, for a $149,350,000 budget surplus, while simultaneously stating that he hwas made no allowance for an $85,670,765 payment due to Washington in June.

The Defaulters' Side

Doubtless it's fair to state the defaulters' side of the case.

It's this:

President Wilson, in seeking congressional recognition of the existence of a state of war between Germany and the United States, of course, was compelled to represent that America was threatened by the kaiser's forces.

America, being relatively unprepared for action, was some time in landing troops on the field of combat.

The European viewpoint is that the English, the French, the Italiands and their allies "held the line" against the Teutons, in America's defence, for a period of several months, and that, for this service, Americans morally are indebted to them for all, and more, too, than they had borrowed and subsequently borrowed from this side of the Atlantic.

And it is not to be denied that, if it really is a fact that the Hun actually was at America's gate, this argument has plausibility.

The question is: Was the Hun really at the American gate?

Debt collection by the method outlined is a long way from being undertaken; nevertheless, it's freely suggested on Capitol Hill.

Made No Allowance For U. S. Debt

In his budget message, Nevill Chamberlain made no allowance for $85,670,765 that England owes United States in June

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., APR. 26.—Countrymen of Karl Dane are smarting under the inference that the former film player would have gone to a pauper's grave if the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio hadn't stepped in to pay the funeral expenses.

Jean Hersholt, as near excited as I have ever seen him wants me to explain why the actor's body was allowed to lie unclaimed until Monday morning.

"None of us knew about his suicide until we read it in the Sunday papers," declared Jean. "Nothing could be done about it that day, but the Danish Relief Association and a half dozen people called me up offering to bury Karl. We were ready to notify the morgue when the studio, without solicitation from anyone, took over the funeral."

Jean, who knew Karl in the old studio days, was one of filmland's representatives at the services. It was he who called various of his countrymen in Hollywood and took an active part in arranging the final rites.

ISOBEL JEWELL goes to work at Paramount where Lee Tracy also will don makeup. A good actress, Isobel should fit into any studio. But this disposes of that ballyhoo about her not wanting to work on the same lot with Tracy for fear people would think she got the job through his influence.

Oddly enough, Paramount is readying a series of pictures for Lee without any contract having been signed. The whole thing is predicated upon a handshake.

HIGH ROMANCE and lilting melody, prize-winning twins of entertainment, are deftly combined in 'The Cat and the Fiddle,' which opens Friday at the Capitol Theatre.

Ramon Novarro and Jeanette MacDonald are the stars, and this department suggests that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will do well to keep them together in future films.

Frank Morgan as the suave producer who also falls in love with Miss MacDonald contributes a memorable performance. Charles Butterworth is superb as Novarro's faithful but none-too-bright friend. Jean Hersholt scores as Novarro's professor and confidant. Vivienne Segal's lovely voice and seductive personality will be remembered.

The musical number sung by the co-stars and by Miss Segal are already best-selling hits and their interpretation from the screen adds new laurels to the concert reputations of both Novarro and Miss MacDonald. In such selections as 'The Night Was Made for Love,' 'She Didn't Say Yes,' 'One Moment Alone,' 'The Love Parade,' 'A New Love Is Old' and 'Try to Forget' they reach musical heights that will not soon be forgotten.

A LITTLE GROUP of English players and writers working out here ease their nostalgia by gathering every Sunday night for cold roast beef suppers at the Leslie Howards. Here may be found Nigel Bruce, the actor; Reginald Berkeley, adapter of 'Cavalcade'; Monkton Hoff and Roland Pertwee, also slaves to scenarios; Madeleine Carroll, the actress whose beauty and charm have upset half the males in Hollywood, and the William Gargans. Bill is an Irishman but gets in on a rain check.

Later on, the entire party may move over to the Colony Club where Howard, frequently in his carpet slippers, wins the title of Hollywood's most nochalant patron of the midnight rendezvous.

GOSSIPS AND chatter-writers may take fair warning. Lupe Velez is boiling over about late rumors and breathes threats of legal and physical reprisals unless they stop.

"People in Hollywood haven't the nerve to fight back, but I have," stormed the peppery little star. "I feel sorry for the next person who tells or prints a lie about me or Johnnie.

"First, I'm going to sue them for all the money they have. Then the real trouble begins. If it's a woman, I'm going to beat the life out of her. If it's a man, Johnny is going to do the beating."

Lupe has been burning for weeks about one unsigned gossip item that appeared in a local paper. She tells me she'll pay $50 to anyone who'll supply the name of the writer.

"It's hard enough to make a marriage last in Hollywood without having lies told about you," exploded the star. "Maybe I've talked too much about Johnny and me. Well, I'm going to be mighty careful whom I talk to after this and they'd better not misquote me."

MANY WILL SAY that he is talking through his hat, but Will Rogers insists that polo will soon become as popular a game as baseball is today. The comedian plays a mean chukker himself, and most of his youngsters are proficient at the game. To help popularize the sport, Will has turned his ranch over to schools and colleges for a practice field.

WORLD 'DOPE' TRDE IS GROWING DESPITE EFFORTS OF THE LEAGUE

Action by League Has Created More Addicts Survey Charges.

SEEK NEW MARKETS.

(By S. Edmund Keating, Central Press Canadian Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 26—The world narcotic menace is growing instead of abating.

The League of Nations attempt at regulation of the traffic has played into the hands of the traffickers and aided their evil business instead of hampering it.

One consequence is that traffickers, to protect themselves against loss, are looking around for other customers and using all sorts of methods to create them.

These conclusions were drawn today by narcotics trade investigators after a survey of the situation. Their findings indicate that Canada, the United States, as well as European countries are threatened by such an over-supply of the products of the "death farmer' as a result of activities of new criminal elements who are getting the market, that "hell dust' may soon be almost as common as tobacco.

They pointed to the fact that accounts of opium smuggling are making their appearance with greater frequency in newspaper headlines of the world. There indicate that in less than three months nearly 10 tons of smuggled opium and other narcotics—enough for thousands of addicts—have been seized. Since it is well known that only small fractions of smuggled opium ever are seized by the authorities of the various countries, experts deduce that tremendous quantities of opium recently have been finding their way into the various "dope" markets.

League Action Blamed

This new increase in the traffic the English publication "Britannia and Eve links to the new League of aNtions system of licensing the factory output of narcotics on a basis of national quotas instead of abolishing the trade altogether. As a result of this system, coincident with drought in some of the larger opium fields, a shortage of opium and other narcotics in the illegal dope trade in North America and Europe became very acute for a while. This shot up prices and the rich rewards awaiting dope-runners.

Through the functioning of the law of supply and demand narcotic factories everywhere became busy supply the demand. While in the Near East and in Europe the production of narcotics was markedly checked as a result of the League of Nations surveillance, China, Japan, and Manchoukuo have profited from the situation and have taken it upon themselves to supply the needs of the illicit traffic, by both lawful and unlawful means, it is charged.

Poppy Fields Increase

As a result, reports from investigators show, opium-poppy fields are seen extending to-day for hundreds of miles in China and Japanese controlled Manchoukuo and clandestine factories are scattered throughout the Far East, supplying narcotics in many cases with official consent or connivance. Particularly in China, and Manchoukuo, the opium industry has tremendously increased. The Chinese farmer can grow his poppies like corn or beans and there is no control system to stop him. The Manchoukuo government itself is supporting the production of narcotics by borrowing from banks in the strength of future taxes on large opium stocks. And Chinese bandit chiefs and "generals" who need money for troops, are encouraging the farmers to grow all of the opium they can.

Consequently there is a pressure on western countries to absorb this increased production and the agents of the producers are finding plenty of criminals to tap this new "racket" and source of wealth.

Goebbels Warns Catholics Of Working Against Nazi

DORTMUND, Germany, April 26 (AP)—Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, warned Catholics to-day of activities against the Nazi Government.

Addressing a party meeting, he said:

"The gentlemen should not believe they can deceive us by wearing the mask of false piety. They have been recognized."

The German Government can not tolerate any sort of religious war, said the Minister, in touching upon the strife within the Protestant Church.

"People," he declared, "can not comprehend the present fights within the Protestant Church in these times of distress.

"We do not trouble the church, but the church shall not bother us, either."

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Too many golfers have tried to build their own swings.

Golf to these players is a hobby very much like the building of radio sets. Something for which they can gather parts from here and there, and assemble them at home.

With radio sets this is practical because the essential parts are well established. But the essentials of a successful swing have yet to be recognized generally. Even where the player does have a mental picture of the correct swing, he is not likely to execute it.

Recognizing the essentials is one thing, learning them is another.

Go to an instructor who knows the essentials. Let him show you how to learn them.

REDS' ERRORS PAVE THE WAY FOR CUBS' WIN

Pat Malone Holds Cincinnati Club to Six Hits and One Run.

BRAVES BEAT DODGERS.

Yankees Take 3-2 Win From Athletics, While Tigers Lose 3-2.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. A.P. Sports Writer.)

Despite the manifest difficulties of having to get along without Rabbit Maranville, who is something of a Boston institution as second baseman and "sparkplug" of the Braves, Bill McKechnie and his club are acting as if they intended to go places in the National League.

The Braves swung into their the Giants their first defeat of the the Giants their first deftat of the season, and since then they have added a pair of victories over the Dodgers to go into a tie with Brooklyn for fourth place in the standing.

They spotted the boys from Flatbush four runs in yesterday's encounter, then rode from behind on Hal Lee's slugging to win 9-4.

Boston's comeback, however, still was an affair of secondary interest as Chicago Cubs continued their perfect start-of-season by downing Cincinnati Reds 6-1 for their seventh straight triumph. Except for Pat Malone, who hurled six-hit ball, the Cubs didn't do a lot to help themselves, but the Reds made sure of losing by committing five errors

New York Yankees, still in the unfamiliar role of a "hitless" club, continued to furnish the American League headlines by trimming the Athletics 3-2 and going to the top of the standing. The Yanks got only six hits off young Alton Benton and Bob Kline, but bespectacled Danny MacFayden hurled expertly, and Benton's wildness in the fourth started a two-run rally.

Detroit and Cleveland wound up in a second place tie as the Indians defeated St. Louis Browns 5-1 and Chicago's White Sox handed the Tigers a 3-2 setback. Monte Pearson's fine flinging and steady stickwork which wound up in a three-run burst in the eighth brought the Indians their triumph, while the Tigers tossed away their own chance with a couple of errors that let the tying runs score in the eighth.

TORONTO PITCHING FUTILE AGAINST BATS OF THE BEARS

Selkirk Connects for Two Homers and a Double and Drives in Five Runs.

TOO COLD FOR BALL.

(By the Associated Press).

Whether it be hot or cold weather, apparently doesn't make any difference to Newark Bears, who are doing about the task of winning ball games while the other clubs in the International League are piling up doubleheaders.

Yesterday cold weather forced the postponement of all games in the circuit except at Newark, and there the temperature was more suitable to football than baseball. Nevertheless the Bears opened their series with Toronto Maple Leafs and won 11-6 to add to their lead.

While the other teams have had two or more postponements, the Bears have kept up with their schedule. As the result the standings to-day showed Newark with six games won and two lost. Rochester Redwings also have dropped two contests but they have played only six games, while Syracuse Chiefs, in action in only three games, have won two.

George Selkirk, the Bears' rightfielder, was largely responsible for the decision over the Leafs. With two homers and a single he accounted for five runs His second circuit drive was one of the longest ever hit in Ruppert Stadium, and came with two mates on the sacks and Pattison pitching. Jesse Hill also hit a homer for the Bears while Ollie Sax and Fitzgerald, batting for Pattison in the ninth, connected with circuit drive to send four of Toronto's runs across the plate.

ENGLAND EXPECTS TO LEAD IN TENNIS

Country Looks to Wimbledon for Big Victories in Coming Season.

LONDON, April 2. — (C. P.) — England is tennis mad, visualizing this spring the dawn of a new era in the world of tennis with John Bull in definite command everywhere. It is to be, believe usually conservative critics, such a dominance as Australia never enjoyed—nor France.

England came back in the field last season to lift the Davis Cup. She was far from being the favored nation before she defeated Australia in the round before the challenging final. Then she downed the United States to challenge France for the most prized o fall tennis trophies. France Fell, too, before this charge.

The triumph has not gone to Englands head but tennis authorities here regard the chances of any country picking up the Davis Cup within the next two or three years as remote, to say the least. Australia is regarded as the most serious challenger. The United States isn ot given more than passing thought.

Great Britain proudly calls Frederick Perry the foremost amateur player in the world. Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, his masterful little singles partner, is perhaps the worlds third ranking amateur. Many Englishmen are not willing to concede that even Perry is the superior of Austin.

Austin has kept in trim through the winter months and climaxed a long period of casual training with a series of impressive victories on the French Riviera. One English critic who saw Bunny play in the south was so impressed by his form that he was willing to bet the former Cambridge star would not lose a set at Wimbledon.

These two are Britains stalwarts. Whether Australia, Japan, Germany or the United States reaches the challenging round, the Britons will be favorites. There is no Ellsworth Vines on the 1934 American team and England cannot conceive that Lester Stoefen will be a threat to either Perry or Austin.

Led by Jack Crawford, conueror of Vines in the Wimbledon final last year, the Australians have Vivian McGrath, Adrian Quist and John Turnbull, and Great Britain fears this combination more than any other.

The business of keeping the Davis Cup is only part of the program. There is Wimbledon, where Perry or Austin may come through with a victory. And at Wimbledon there is hope that Britain's women forces will come into their own. The long reign of United States stars, led by Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, may be nearing the end.

Dorothy Round, who gave Mrs. Moody a terrific three-set battle in the final last year, is the chief hope. But there are others, notably Katherine Stammers, 20-year-old St. Albans girl, and Margaret Scrivens, who won the French title in 1933. Freda James is training hard in Nottingham for the summer tournaments. Only United States, when Tilden and later Vines, joined with Mrs. Moody, to sweep through both men's and women's divisions, has held complete sway over the tennis world. This they say, is England's year.

NEW ZEALAND'S DEFICIT.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, April 26 (C.P. Cable via Reuters) —Cheering revenue figures for the fiscal year ending March were announced to-day by Finance Minister J. G. Coates. He reported a deficit of around $3,500,000 compared with a deficit of $10,000,000 that had been expected when the budget was drawn up.

One of the most noteworthy features of the year was the improvement in New Zealand's State Railway finances, the Finance Minister said. Practically every item of taxation yielded revenue above the estimate.

ARMY HEAD INJURED

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 26 (AP)—Col. Mary Booth leader of the Salvation Army in Denmark, and two other officers, Brigadier Ivar Schmidt and Adjutant Roenager, were injured in a motor accident near Randers, Jutland, to-day.

At the hospital, Colonel Booth, who is the second daughter of the late Bramwell Booth, complained of violent pains in her back. She is being X-rayed to disclose whether her injuries are deep-seated.

The accident was due to a puncture causing the car to swerve from the road into a house.

Golliwogs and other toys with black faces are now out of favor in Germany.

HAMILTON AND KITCHENER RANK SECOND WITH DOUBLE

Ken Robinson of Camp Borden Loses Middleweight Title to Wadsworth.

MEL GLIONNA WINS.

TORONTO, April 26 (CP)—After three days of leather flinging, nine Ontario amateur boxers had reached the pinnacle of their ambitions, and to-day proudly carried Provincial champions as fruits of victory.

The titles were scattered throughout Ontario, Toronto leading with three, Hamilton and Kitchener next with two apiece, and Brantford and Kirkland Lake with one each.

Bill Maich of Brantford took the heavyweight crown for second successive year, as the tournament closed here last night. The hard-hitting Brantfordite battered plucky 19-year-old Harry Samwell of Kingston with a series of rights to the head. After Samwell had been down for counts several times in the second round, the referee awarded the bout to Maich.

Northern Ontario obtained its only championship when Herb Dyment of Kirkland Lake outlasted Cecil Sharpe of Toronto to take the final in the lightweight division. Dyment, formerly of Barrie, showed great natural ability and a fighting spirit to gain a slight margin.

A Decisive Victory

Ken Wadsworth of Hamilton scored a decisive victory in the middleweight final with the outstanding display of the tournament and had Ken Robinson of Camp Borden, last years' champion, groggy at the end of the bout.

Blood spattered over the ring as Gordon Schmaltz of Kitchener, after being almost out in the first round, fought back courageously to defeat Lawrence Denapoli of St. Cathrines for the welterweight crown. Another Kitchener battler, Harvey Fleet, veteran of many amateur bouts, came through in the lightweight final to gain a close win over George Bland of Toronto, who reached the final with an unexpected victory over Billy Humphries of Toronto, defending champion.

The 105-pound title went to Russel McCarthy of Hamilton, who won a decision over Eddie Hutchinson of Toronto. McCarthy repeatedly beat the stocky Toronto boxer to the punch, but absorbed much punishment from the heavy-hitting Hutchison.

Heavy Slugging Bee

Tony Canzano of Toronto and Angelo Callura of Hamilton treated the fans with some heavy slugging in the bantamweight final, the former winning on a decision. Both battlers were in distress at time, but Canzanos experience gave him a slight edge. Callura was down twice for no count, but came back to rock the Toronto boy with a barrage of blows.

Both the flyweight and featherweight finals were all-Toronto affairs. Mel Glionna came back strong in the third round to take a split decision over clever Sammy Tomlinson for the featherweight crown. The veteran Glionna weathered a storm of punches from Tomlinson in the second round. Jack "Spider" Armstrong defeated his club-mate Frank Shea to win the flyweight title.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD BY BELLEVILLE NETTERS

BELLEVILLE, April 26.—In the library of St. Michaels' Academy yesterday the annual meeting of the Tennis Club was held. Miss Margaret Donoghue, retiring president, was in the chair, and discussion of the activities of the past year showed that the club had made interesting progress during that period. Several tournaments had been arranged, and it was felt that increased interest would result this year.

The election of officers resulted in the following executive being appointed: Past President, Miss Margaret Donoghue; President, Ormond Butler; Vice-President, Miss Alice Peets; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Kathleen Quinn.

Convenors of membership and tournament committees, Miss Audrey Wilkinson and James Lafferty. It is hoped that work on the courts can be begun in a few weeks. The remainder of the business was devoted to plans for raising funds for the season.

Old Toreador Unlimbers Former Skill, Battles Bull To Death In Market Place

MADRID, April 26 (AP)—Wending his homeward way in the early hours this forning, Antonio Sanchez saw a sight to gladden the heart of an old toreador.

His steps led him past the central market, where there was a great hubbub.

Prancing and snorting amid a shambles of garlic and cabbages, beans and potatoes was a bull that had escaped from a slaughter-house herd.

The triumphant animal, with lowered horns and devastating charges, defied all mankind.

Sanchez, a retired bullfighter, rushed home and shouted for his trusty muleta—the small red cape—and his sword. Back he raced. The bull, at the climax of its orgy among the vegetables, started for Sanchez.

After a brief exhibition under fickering street lamps the old toreador plunged the sword into a vital spot and the show was over.

Grateful vegetable dealers showered Sanchez with gifts salvaged from the market shambles. Bearing the traditional tribute of the animal's ears and laden with produce, the old bullfighter resumed his homeward journey.

(Central Press Canadian Writer)

A large number of Canadian athletes are continuing their affiliations with sports as coaches, managers, referees, etc., since being retired as performers in the athletic dramas. When the germ penetrates the blood it rarely submits to ejection.

Frank Shaughnessy of Montreal has been athletic director and coach of football at McGill university, Montreal and business manager of the Montreal Royals in the International baseball circuit. As an athlete he played baseball, football and hockey, and was a manager and coach in all three of these sports. Walter Knox of London, old Olympic athlete, has had himself reinstated as an amateur and will compete as well as coach this year. Knox was once one of the leading all-round track athletes of Canada, having been a runner, shot putter, hammer thrower and jumper, in competition for over 25 years.

Tommy Burns of Hanover, Ont., a former heavyweight fistic champ despite his lack of altitude and bulkitude, has been managing and coaching punch absorbers, first at London and now at New York city, in recent years, including the importation of several European knights of the daze. Johnny Walker, a former long-distance swimmer, has been coaching marathon swimmers, with a camp near Toronto, for the past six years, his proteges having included Marvin Nelson, 1933 winner of the Toronto squad grind, and George Young, 1932 winner of the Exhibition marathon. Tommy Walker, of Toronto, son of Johnny Walker, and who was also a long distance swimmer in succession to his Pop, is swim coach at Toronto Central Y.M.C.A., and also of the Canadian Olympic committee.

George Gibson

Moe Herscovitch of Montreal, once a Canadian Olympic welterweight boxer, and later active as a pro, and one of the best of the Jewish boxers developed in the Dominion, is a physical instructor for the Young Men's Hebrew association at Montreal, and is now in the heavyweight class, although accepting no ring dates.

George Gibson of London, once a star catcher for the Pittsburg Pirates, is manager of the club he formerly starred for, and is hopeful of ousting the Giants from the National leadership this season. For in 1933 Gibson was outlucked in the dash for the pennant in finale. Billy Allen of Ottawa, once a star featherweight and Canadian titleholder at a time when capable featherweights were plentiful on both sides of the border, has been a boxing instructor and coach at Calgary, Alta., for some years. Joe Wright of Toronto has been a rowing coach for the past 25 years, following a career as an oarsman in Toronto eights and as a singer. Between his original service as a coach and his current mentoring at Toronto, Wright was in charge of rowing at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

Hockey Stars Now Coaches

Frank Frederickson, of Winnipeg, Man., who starred as a centre in hockey, as an amateur and later as a pro, in the west and east, is hockey coach at Princeton University, the past year. Art Ross, of Montreal, who was in the hall of hockey fame 30 years ago, has been the coach of the Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League, since pro hockey was introduced at Boston in 1924, during which he has produced champions and cellarites.

Dick Irvin

Dick Irvin, of Regina, has been re-engaged for the 1934-35 season as coach of the Toronto Leafs in the N.H.L. He was once a star pro hockeyist. Frank Nighbor, of Pembroke, Ont., possessor of one of the best poke checks in captivity, and for 18 years a star in the N.H.L., has been coaching the Fort Erie, Ont., (Buffalo) team in the International hockey circuit the past two seasons. Eddie Gerard, of Montreal, one of the best defence men ever produced in Canadian pro hockey, is coach of the Montreal Maroons in the N.H.L., and previously of the New York Americans and Montreal Canadiens. Newsy Lalonde, coach of the Montreal Canadiens, was a star centre for 20 years.

Eugene Brousseau, a former Canadian middleweight champion, has been coach and manager of pro millers at Montreal since quitting the ring.

Duke Keats, of Edmonton, Alta., for many years prominent on hockey defence in the western and eastern circuits, quit playing during the 1934 ice season, to concentrate on coaching and managing his Edmonton puck crew. George Rivet, of Montreal, formerly a welterweight walloper, has been a boxing instructor and referee in Montreal, since swan songing from the ring.

Clonie Tait, of Calgary, once Canadian lightweight champion, and one of the best of the Dominion lighties during the past 25 years, has been managing and coaching swatters, with base at New York city, the past ten years. Tom Longboat, of Hamilton and Toronto, one of the most picturesque figures in the history of sports, and a champion marathon runner in both the amateur and pro ranks, has been coaching young Indian runners in his spare time.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C.J.P.

City Baseball League goes into a huddle at eight bells tonight down at the Duffus' Academy of Bowling. We hope the room is jammed with officers, prospective managers and fellows interested in minor league baseball. It doesn't cost anything to attend, nor do you have to enter a team. But a large turnout will result in a good slate of officers being elected and various matters discussed thoroughly. From the dope out at present, it looks like about three bantam entries and the same number of juveniles. Only one junior team appears probable so far. Since the teams should be working out within two weeks, they should be lined up at once. Drop around to this meeting and get an idea of what the City Loop will do this summer.

Quite a few years ago—in fact 'twas before Chris Columbus hopped aboard a windjammer and didn't stop till he hit Montreal—the Americans used to play a game. We mean the real Amerks, the Indians. They used limbs of trees with crotches at the end, strips of buckskin being laced between the crotches. They didn't have a ball, so they used a round stone or knot of wood and had goals sometimes a mile or two apart. Maybe twenty players would take to each side, or maybe a whole tribe—but only the younger, stronger and faster braves could play this game.' We don't know what they called it in their jargon, but the French later termed it "La crosse", since the sticks resembled a cross.

This is the oldest Canadian sport still in existence, as it was played long before white men set foot on what is now Canada and the United States. Now, there is a game of lacrosse being played here this Friday night at 8.30 in the Armouries, but it will be a bit different than the one played by the Indians. The goals wont be a mile apart, the players wont be Indians, the ball wont be stone or wood, and the sticks wont be crotched tree limbs. In fact, the game wont be the same as the lacrosse of ten years ago. It will be faster, since the boxed game concentrates all the speed and action in a small arena. The players will be members of a Toronto senior club, called North Toronto, and the Petes. It will be more thrilling than the old Indian game so don't miss it, folks.

Belleville is highly indignant over gals' softball there. Seems those sponsoring the Central Ontario Girls' Softball League asked Belleville a couple of weeks or so ago to enter a team. Now, that the proposed loop has obtained Newcastle, the Belleville writer claims they are no longer interested in a Belleville team. He says: "Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough, Newcastle, Bowmanville and Oshawa are now mentioned as starters. Due to the fact Belleville was invited into the league when it was first talked of why shouldn't they be included with the rest thus having seven or possibly eight teams?" We don't know why, and we didn't even know Peterborough was invited in. Certain local gals' squads might be willing to join at that, if they're invited.

• • • • • • •

Public School Softball League opens its schedule May 4th, six teams swinging into action. This loop decided to play softball this year instead of baseball as formerly. We are not surprised at the decision, but we are disappointed. Several of the teacher-managers wanted to continue with baseball but they bowed to the others' wishes for this year. They intend to hold out for the return to baseball next year. The School League tried softball once before but it didn't prove so good, and this season's trial may end the same way. Baseball is a kids' game in the summer, same as hockey in the winter, and if they don't get it in school competition they'll try to catch bantam teams in the City League or else play scrub ball.

• • • • • • •

One of the reasons given for the change was the lack of adequate grounds at some of the schools for baseball. However, didn't South Central cop a title not so long back with no grounds at all, playing all games away from home. Then, too, we're told that baseball is a harder game to learn than softball. True enough, but isn't that all the more reason to teach it, as all the teacher-managers are experienced coaches of baseball? We found arithmetic kind of tough to learn in lower school, but had to keep slugging away till we got it. No one ever offered us a substitute for it just because we had trouble learning it. And won't some of the smaller kids find it tough to get their little hands around the big softball this season on the abbreviated diamond? This softening up of sports for youngsters doesn't appear to us to be a good thing, though some may disagree with us. However, they can try it out this season and see how it works. At anyrate, it should mean a good six-team softball league dishing up lots of smart competition. Team finishing first wins the title.

• • • • • • •

Time the East Peterborough Baseball League was doing something. Some have been hinting this loop might disband for the season, one or two of the teams trying to get into an outside league like the Lakeshore one. We don't think there is anything to it, and no doubt the circuit officers will call a general session shortly. C.G.E. and Cogs, runners-up and winners respectively last season, are almost sure to be back, and maybe Crescents, Fosters are out, but Raybestos may decide to trot out a team. Then, there is always a nigger or two back of the kindling wood, ready to enter a dark horse in the race—oh, well, can we help if it mataphors insist upon getting jumbled up everytime we look at one? At least, we expect some action in the E.P.L. within a week.

• • • • • • •

A game that is becoming increasingly popular here is tennis, and we imagine a new batch of prospective Helen Wills and Bill Tildens will be smacking the ball around the courts this summer in and around Peterborough. The enlarging of the Kawartha District Tennis League to ten teams should help the sport considerably here. The loop is divided into two groups, the southern one consisting of: Port Hope, Cobourg, Quaker Oats, a Peterborough Club entry and one from Kawartha Club. Northern group includes: Lakefield, Lindsay, two Peterborough Club teams and one from Kawartha Club. Matches in this circuit will be men's singles, two men's doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles.

DILLINGER AS EASY TO FIND AS LOTHARIO MAX BAER, THINKS JOHNSON AT END OF LONG HUNT

Cost Garden Matchmaker $20 in 'Phone Calls to Reach Leather Lugger.

ARRIVE IN N.Y. MONDAY.

"Gonna Smack Snaggle Carnera Flatter Than a Tablecloth,' Says Masterful Maxie.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 26—(AP)—The whereabouts and plans of Maxmillian Adelbert Baer, who is about as easy to catch up with as John Dillinger, are no longer a mystery to Madison Square Garden.

It cost something over $20 in long distance calls to track down the leather lugging Lothario in Des Moines, Ia., and relieve the blood pressure that was starting Jimmy Johnston's safety valve to popping. Baer was due here two days ago. The Garden's boxing manager had not heard from him since he signed to fight Primo Carnera for the heavyweight championship here June 14.

Johnston discovered from the conversation that Baer will arrive here Monday, that he is in fine condition and will choose a training camp from sites that have been offered him at Atlantic City and Ashbury Park, N.J. speculator and Saratoga, N.Y.

Better Get In Shape

"You'd better get in good shape," Johnston shouted over the telephone. "That Carnera's up in the Maine woods working hard."

"He might just as well save his strength," Baer yelled back. "I'm going to smack him flattern's a table cloth in about five rounds."

After suggesting diplomatically that the busier Baer kept on his trans-continental exhibition tour, the less likely he was to get into mischief, Johnston hung up.

"Now," he sighed, "all I've got to find out is if that Carnera really is working up in Maine, and if he's there at all. He was due back here a couple of days ago, too. This business gets tougher all the time.

Both Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross likewise are scheduled to reach New York next week to start training for a 15 round match in the Garden bowl May 28 that rivals the interest in the heavyweight title match.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Miss Lucille Hynes,
501 Elm St., Peterborough.

The handwriting as delineated on your card for analysis represents you as a most fastidious person. You desire self-expression, and perfection in everything. You are most energetic and have a very keen mind. In fact, it is so keen that it rushes ahead much faster than your pen. Therefore, your writing has many loops and quirks which are not essential to the outlines. You are most discriminating as to taste in clothing, rather artistic and demand attention at all times. You carry yourself with an air of authority and distinction. You move with a decided agility which marks you as one who knows exactly what she wishes to do with the time at her disposal. Your will-power is sufficiently well expressed to enable you to carry out projects or plans which you deem worthy of your time and energy. Your temperament is somewhat hasty and passionate at times, especially if you feel deeply hurt over an injustice and on these occasions you say exactly what you think. The capital letters denote designing ability. This could be carried out in any line of fancy work. You may send me your birthdate, month and year, if you wish for further assistance.

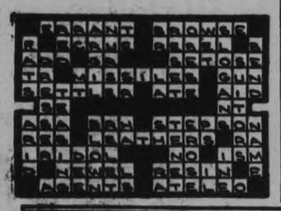
Marion McEwen,
22 Manning Ave., Peterborough.

Your writing shows that you belong to the nervous and temperamental type. This does not of necessity mean that you have a bad temper, but rather that you become very easily upset over things, and the hurt remains deep down within you, long after the incident has been forgotten. Deep breathing exercises should help you to overcome this characteristic, and plenty of fresh air. You are far too imaginative for your age, and this naturally causes you mental stress. Now your birthsign is that of Gemini the Twins, and is one of the most predominant factors in your life. Gemini people are as a rule restless, and also fond of being out in the open, they are usually frank and very honest and I might add, rather clanish. That is to say the instinctively know that they do not have anything in common with certain people, and then, nothing in the world can make them act friendly towards them. This, being part of their honest natures. On the other hand, these people would always be polite and civil to the people for whom they have an aversion, because they have a horror of hurting the feelings of others, due to the fact that so often their own are deeply hurt. They are persistent, and very persevering once they have overcome the habit of doing too many things at once. Your lucky months are April and August. Friday the best day. Seven is your number. You are ruled by Mercury, and should be a mental person.

George Manning,
Lakefield, Ont.

Your handwriting as expressed on the sample which you desire to have analysed, reveals a very changeable disposition. You seem to actually 'fly off the handle' without the slightest provocation, then become upset and temperamental. Now, if you will stop to think, the fault in this respect is your own, for you do not take time to consider the feelings of others as often as you might, and so, think only of what you want to do. Things that you do accomplish; you do so with a grand gesture, as if to say: "There, look what I have done." Those lance-like formations indicate a keen mind. The main body of your writing illustrates that you are quite emotional and that you resent advice. It seems to be a rather difficult undertaking for you to accomplish the same thing twice because you utterly detest routine of any nature. In fact you dread monotonous details, and desire change, travel, variety, anything which breaks up the hours. Your type are usually big hearted and have a geenrous sense of humor. They enjoy the out-of-door life whenever possible, and they enjoy talking. Their minds are so keen that they can hardly wait while being talked to for their turn to answer. I would suggest, for this type of person: A vocation where change would be essential, as in exploring new fields, surveying. Forestry might fill the bill, or work in a department which required specific publicity, for the convincing talk of one of your type, should be a delightful factor in promoting sales or selling direct. The characteristic, which does not seem to come to your aid when necessary, is will-power, but I think you can steadily develop this if you know that it means a different future. Can't you? If you would came to send your birthdate, fmonth and year, I should be glad to find your lucky number for you as well as your birthsign, but please be sure to give me the same name as above. You may ask questions, and I will gladly answer them, if within my power to do so.

Answer to previous puzzle



Iron - Starved Blood

The greatest trouble at this Season

Spring usually finds the blood weak and impure.
It is lacking in iron,
The element of greatest importance to the body.
An unbalanced winter diet
Has caused this condition.
For this reason nearly everybody
Needs a restorative in the springtime.
They need a treatment which supplies to the blood,
In condensed and easily assimilated form,
Iron and other elements,
Which restore the nutritive values of the blood.
This is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does.
By making the blood rich and red and powerful,
It brings back vigor to the whole human system,
The starved nerves are restored
And the new nerve force
Brings increased energy and vitality to mind and body

DESPITE CERTAIN impediments or frustrating circumstances this should be a day of conquest, achievement and certain fulfilments, according to the predominant planetary government. It is a time for pushing with determination to desired goals with the assurance of the support and friendly encouragement of those in high places, who will be ready and dependable. There should be definite results in finances, business and in increase of solid possessions as well.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of substantial increase financially, in real possessions as well as in all important enterprises needing the support and friendly prestige. This in spite of delays, obstacles and certain congestions to be disposed of.

A child born on this day should be steady, studious, persevering as well as industrious and ambitious, winning the support and preferment of those in power and high standing.

MARITIME COAL CRISIS EASING

Riot at Minto, B.C., is Quelled Though Feeling Still Tense.

MOUNTIES ON GUARD.

HALIFAX, April 26 (CP) — Labor conditions in coalfields of the Maritime Provinces were generally improved to-day. A riot had been quelled at Minto, N.B., where strikers and non-strikers clashed, and progress had been made toward putting 1,300 idle miners back to work in Pictou County, N.S.

There was still a tense feeling in the Minto area, however, and Royal Canadian Mounted Police stood guard to prevent recurrence of trouble yesterday, when a group of men who have been on strike for three weeks attacked employees of the Minto Coal Company on their way to work.

Seven men charged with being members of the attacking party were arrested and remanded to May 3. Wielding clubs, the strikers took away the non-strikers' equipment, and three men were injured in the hand-to-hand battle that followed.

The raiding party fled to the woods when two policemen appeared. Later, more policemen were sent out from Fredericton and order was restored.

Optimism was expressed in Pictou County, after representatives of the men, idle since March 1, decided to submit a new proposal to receiver-liquidators of the Acadia Coal Company. They agreed to give the receiver-liquidators weekly rebates totalling $100,000 in the next year if the present wage scale is maintained. The rebate would go toward the companys 1933 deficit, estimated at $208,000. The operators previously expressed willingness to assume $80,000 of the total, and it is hoped the Government will contribute $28,000. The proposal will be considered at a tri-party conference in Halifax Saturday.

WARM WEATHER IN FEW DAYS.

KINGSVILLE, Ont.—Warm weather will be here in a few days. The wild geese say so. All of them have left the Jack Miner sanctuary and headed north. They did not clean up the last of the corn feed spread out for them, they departed so quickly.

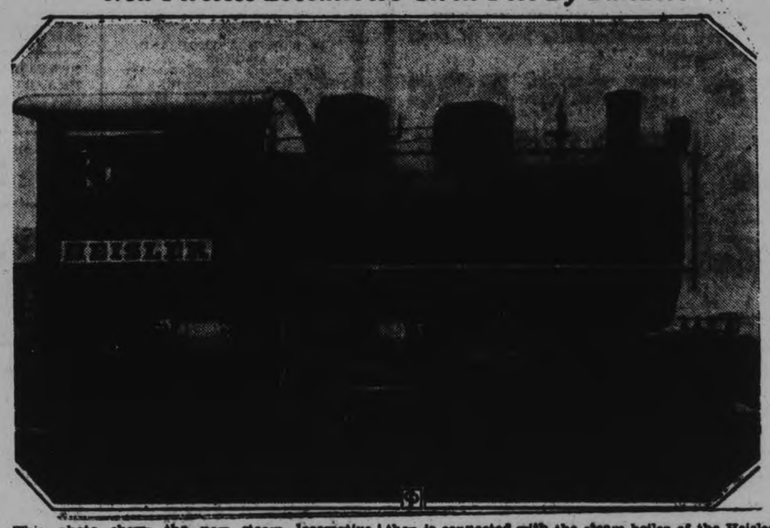
New Fireless Locomotive Given Test By Builders



This photo shows the new steam locomotive which operates without fire or firebox as it was given a trial run in the switching yards of its builder, the Heisler Locomotive Works at Erie, Pa. The locomotive which is regarded as a remarkable advancement in the development of power engines, works on a principal of storage generation. The tank is filled to about 80 per cent capacity with water and then is connected with the steam boiler of the Heisler plant by hose, filling the remainder of the tank with live steam until the pressure in the tank is equal to that in the boiler. The locomotive is operated on this stored power and the steam heats the water so that more steam is generated as the water boils. This enables the locomotive to run 95 miles on its own power.

Popular Astronomy

THE MOON

The glimmering curve of tender rays
Just planted in the sky.
From William Cullen Bryant

BY H. W. L. MAHOOD

The Moon is the orb of reverie and mystery. This the gods, Selene, named. But men name the Moon. The Moon is the Earth's nearest neighbor. And it is a most interesting neighbor. A rather changable neighbor it is. The variety of its phases, and rapidity with which it changes its relative position in the sky keeps the Earth guessing.

One astronomer suggests that an observer on a near by planet would see the Moon and Earth as a double star. To him the Earth would be brighter than Venus, and the Moon brighter than Jupiter. If the Moon is inhabited the Earth will appear to the star gazers there fourteen times as large as the Moon does to us.

The Moon is not a distant neighbor. A good roadster travelling leisurely at the rate of three hundred miles a day could reach the Moon in a little over two years. Like some folks the Moon is very eccentric. At times it is very companionable. Then again it is cold and reserved. When real neighborly it is only 221,614 miles away. And then it turns the cold shoulder and goes far afield to the distance of 252,972 miles. The Moon wears a small belt. It is only 5,048 miles in length. The Earth wears one four times as long.

The apparent diameter of the Moon is half a degree. The Sun's apparent diameter is the same in length. The orbit of this luminary about the Earth is 1,500,680 miles. It travels swiftly. Its speed is 2,290 miles an hour.

NEW ALIGNMENT OF PARTIES SHAPING UP IN GREAT BRITAIN

Need Group Strong Enough to Defeat Socialism, Fascism Says Inskip.

NO ELECTION THIS YEAR.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 26 (C.P. Cable)—Behind the political scenes forces are moving to new alignments of parties preparing for battle.

Sir Thomas Inskip, attorney-general and true-blue Conservative, proposes creation of a new National party to fight Socialism. Joyous Laborites meantime hail the recapture of the North Hammersmith seat in yesterday's by-election as an emphatic condemnation of the National government and endorsement of the Labor party program.

Liberals meet in annual conference next week at Bournemouth to consider policy and plans of campaign

Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascists also claim to be rapidly gaining ground, although they are not represented in the House. Their plan of campaign is based on assumption of a Labor victory in the next elections. The idea is that a Labor victory would mean such a clash between a Labor government and the big industrial and financial interests as would entail another general election. Then, according to the Mosley followers, would come the Fascists' chance.

Peril of Socialism

Sir Thomas Inskip doubts whether the new wine of this generation can be put into the old bottles. "Should we be able to fight the peril of Socialism if we went to the country as the old Conservative party, prescribing men who in things essential are in agreement with us merely because they are not prepared to subscribe to the Shibboleths of the old Unionist party as they knew it 15 or 30 years ago?"

He demanded an answer to this at the Constitutional Club and replied himself, in the negative. "At the next elections," he added, "we shall want a party strong enough to receive the support of all men of good will, who are opposed to both Socialism and Fascism."

For this year at any rate, however, there is no general eection in sight. Actually the term of the National government does not run out until 1936.

ALAN SMITH GIVES SPLENDID ADDRESS

Interesting Program at Y.P.S. Meeting in Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, April 25 (Examiner Correspondence)—A justifiable pride in being citizens of "so great and wonderful a country as this Dominion of Canada" was strengthened in the minds of the large audience which gathered in the basement of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening, the occasion being the regular meeting of the Young Peoples' Society, with the Citizenship committee, Alan Smith, M.A., convenor, in charge of the program.

By means of colored slides thrown on the screen, and a story of fascinating interest, Mr. Smith took his listeners from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and northward to Alaska, showing the varied means of making a livelihood, the thriving industries, the stately cities, and the rolling prairie that are hall marks of this young, but rapidly-developing country.

Beginning with a map, with radiating lines from the centre of Canada showing how wheat is carried to all four corners of the world, the large harbours at Halifax and St. John, New Brunswick, with shipping from all parts of the globe, were next shown; then the fishing industry in its many phases, with tuna fish weighing from seven to eight hundred pounds apiece, smelts brought in with a drag net, and the sailing craft of the same type as the Bluenose, manned by the finest sailors in the world, racing to and from the fishing grounds at the Newfoundland Banks.

Among the many features connected with Quebec, including the cod and halibut weighing from thirty to thirty-five pounds each and caught in Gaspe Bay, the marvellous engineering feat manifested in the Quebec bridge, spanning the St. Lawrence, the old-time battlements below the Chateau Frontenac, came the picture of an asbestos mine, right on the surface of the ground, this province supplying ninety per cent of the world's requirements.

The International Nickel Company's plant at Sudbury was another point of interest, as were also the many large waterfalls shown as a source of electric power supply, the government grain elevators at Port Arthur and Fort William, with the loading and unloading of steamers, the thirty miles of railway yards, fourteen miles of stock yards, and the famous grain exchange at Winnipeg.

Included in the pictures were some fine views of Canada's capital cities, and the Parliament buildings from the east to the west; the irrigation ditches which have transformed southern Alberta from a desert to fruitful acres; the large cabbages, cauliflowers and practically every kind of vegetable grown seven hundred miles north of the boundary line, almost at the Arctic Circle; the never-extinguished gas wells at Medicine Hat; and then the almost unbelievable beauty of the Rockies, leading to the fruitful Okanagan Valley in British Columbia with its cherries, apples, peaches and other products.

Mr. Smith was warmly thanked for the educational value of his talks, illustrated each month by views girdling the globe, which he has given throughout the season, the one on Monday night completing the series for this term.

Next activity of the Y.P.S. is the play on May 4, in the Town Hall when the Dramatic Club of the Lakefield Efficiency League will present "My Irish Rose," under the young peoples' auspices.

Ingersoll Man Always Has A Word of Praise for Dodd's.

Ingersoll, Ont., April 26 (Special).—"I suffered for more than twenty years with what I was told was Rheumatism, my back bothered me of time from my work," writes Mr. of time from work," writes Mr David Armour, a well-known and respected resident of Cedar Street, Ingersoll. "I tried all kinds of liniments and plasters, but they did not help me much. One day in 1924 I was reading Dodd's Almanac and saw about Dodd's Kidney Pills, I decided at once to try them. After I had taken four boxes I felt like a new man. I have taken eight boxes to date, and will at all times have a word of praise for Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am seventy-three years old."

For half a century Dodd's Kidney Pills have been relieving others of Rheumatism. Why not profit by their experience?

Contracts Let For Two Highway Jobs

LAW COMPANY TO PAVE ROAD TO LAKEFIELD

Holdcroft Construction Company Gets Havelock-Campbellford Job.

TWO MORE TO LET.

85 Per Cent Local Labor Will Be Employed on Lakefield Contract.

The Ontario Government's extensive program of highway building in Peterborough County is about to get underway, according to T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P.

Contracts for two of the four important sections of highway to be constructed in this county during the summer have been let by the Highways Department during the past 48 hours, Mr. Lancaster informed The Examiner. Contracts for the other two sections will be accepted and announced within a day or two, he added.

The Law Construction Company, of Toronto, has been granted the contract for paving the road to Lakefield. This is the same firm which at the present time is engaged in turning Lansdowne street into a proper highway to connect highways Nos. 28 and 7.

Havelock-Campbellford Road Let.

The contract for building the 12 miles of road between Havelock and Campbellford into a provincial highway has been obtained by the Holdcroft Construction Company, of Kingston. This job consists of much grading and resurfacing and the removal of bad turns. Work is expected to start upon it almost immediately.

Contracts for the two uncompleted sections on No. 7 highway, one section just east of Havelock and the other west of Norwood, have not been let as yet, but announcements as to the successful

DOG ONCE DEAD IS ABLE TO EAT

Still Appears in Stupor, With Brain Facilities Dormont.

TEST NEARS SUCCESS.

BERKLEY, Calif., April 27. (AP). The pink tongue of a dog, revived from death, lapped eagerly as milk was poured into its mouth and Dr. E. Cornish said to-day he hoped the animal's increasing strength would enable it to survive and thereby advance his revivication experiment to aid mankind.

Dr. Cornish, young research worker at the University of California, believes his theory of revivication some day may be applied successfully to human beings who have died from heart failure, shock, submersion and asphyxiation.

The animal, now known as "13" because it was put to death clinically on Friday, April 13, appears to be in a deep stupor and Dr. Cornish explained the dog has not recovered his mental facilities.

"I hope the dog's brain eventually will become restored to the condition it was before death" Dr. Cornish said.

"The dog was dead four minutes by medical standards. It was asphyxiated, the heart had stopped beating, it ceased to breath and its blood had halted its circulation. There is no question that the dog was dead.

"Then I injected Heparin to start its heart and defrinated blood into its veins and within a minute its heart was beating, but too rapidly.

"This rapid heart movement which reached 220 beats a minute, quickly wore out the hearts of two dogs on which we experimented previously. To give the heart something to pump back into the arteries, we injected a salt solution and the beating slowed down to normal."

Britain Has Not Slightest Intention Of Returning Tanganyika To Germany

LONDON, April 27.—(C. P. Cable)—Assurance the British government had not the slightest intention of returning Tankanyika territory to Germany was given today by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary for the Colonies.

Addressing an East African group at a luncheon of the Overseas League, following his recent tour of Africa, Sir Philip prophesied also that no future British government would change its mind.

Several suggestions about return of the German territories in Africa taken during the Great War have been made since the Nazis came to power, notably during the World Economic Conference in London last year.

NO FEAR OF JAPANESE EXERTING SLIGHTEST INFLUENCE IN INDIA

British Authority, However, Believes Tokyo May Dominate China by Force.

INDIANS ARYANS.

(By Albert K. Wilson—Copyright, 1934, by the A.P.)

LONDON, April 27.—An answer to the "Asia for Asiatics" doctrine came to-day from a source close to the British Indian administration.

Japan, the authority said, may dominate China by force and may gain some influence in Siam through intrigue—though this latter is doubtful—but she will never exercise even minor influence in India and other areas of Southern Asia.

"Asia for Asiatics" is rapidly becoming the slogan of all Eastern peoples, he added, "but only the Japanese conceive of this new Asia as being run by Japan."

The authority attributed the popularization of the slogan to Japan's rise to power and Imperialistic expansion.

A doctrine of "Asia for Asiatics" under the leadership of Japan, acting in close collaboration with other Asiatic powers," has been enunciated officially by the Tokyo Government through Masayuki Yohoyama, Consul-General at Geneva.

Views of Indians.

No official reply, it was made plain, has come from Great Britain, but the answer given the Associated Press was represented as accurately reflecting the views of the British Indian administration.

The informant described as "utterly fantastic" any possible Japanese aspirations to an extension of influence over India and other Southern Asiatic areas.

Even if independent of Great Britain, India would never permit Japanese influence, he asserted.

First of all, the authority went on, the Indians are Aryans more similar to Europeans than Northern Asiatics.

Second, the Indians have a deep distrust and suspicion of the Japanese as a result of commercial contacts;

Third, India's greatest problem is to raise the standard of living, and this means she must fight Japan industriallly; and Hinduism Supreme.

Fourth, Hinduism has "swallowed up" every other Asiatic cult with which it has come in contact and the Moslem minority remaining in India now has been saved only by British intervention.

Aside from these reasons British leaders can not envisage an independent India that would not be steadfastly and perpetually loyal to the King—as are Canada and Australia to-day.

It is no exaggeration to say that despite the political differences with Mahatma Gandhi's ranks, British authorities believe there is and always will be a real affection between India and "Mother England."

Friendly War

RACINE, Wis, April 27 (C. P.). — When police found Paul Roszek, 48, badly beaten and unconscious, they asked Edwin Collins, 51, how it happened.

"We were fighting a nice, friendly fight until Roszek started to use a sledge hammer," he said. "Then it got serious."

Collins went to jail and Roszek to a hospital.

VERMONT PROBE STIRS MYSTERY

Dozens Federal Agents Invade District But Tell Nothing.

DENY KIDNAPPING.

BOSTON, April 27 (C.P.) —What did those Department of Justice agents want in Rutland, Vt.—

They were not following a clue in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, Department of Justice officials said; and a report that a Rutland business man was being held for ransom proved erroneous.

Beyond the fact that Federal men were scattered about the Vermont community, the entire affair was a mystery.

Roy H. Leonard, Chief of Police in Rutland, Vermont, said he estimated there were at least 20 Department of Justice agents in Rutland on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. All were armed, he added.

"I first learned of their activities," Leonard said, "when mothers of the boys and caddies at the Rutland Country Club complained to me about their sons being questioned. I immediately went to the agents, who proved to me that they had authority to conduct the investigation. They said their orders from Washington were that no one was to be taken into their confidence.

Suddenly a rumor spread to the effect that a large portion of the $50,000 ransom money paid in the Lindbergh kidnapping had been discovered in New England, and yesterday, late editions of Bostonnewspapers announced that more than half that ransom money had turned up through the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston.

The rumors brought quick denials from Federal officials

It was all very mysterious—this business of a score of agents circulating around Rutland, questioning youthful golf caddies.

It was very thrilling—this carrying machine guns into the Federal Building here in the dead of night.

It apparently was all very inexplainable.

C.C.F. To Enter Field In Niagara Riding

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 27. (CP)—There will be a C.C.F. candidate in the Niagara Falls provincial riding. That was decided at a meeting of executives of the various clubs last night. The date of the nominating convention has not yet been set having been left to a committee headed by Reeve Roland Booth of Stamford. Rev. Norman McMurray, mentioned as a likely candidate, to-day said he would not permit his name to go before a convention. Reeve Both, formerly prominent on the Conservative side is regarded as a likely choice.

SOLICITOR QUITS CASE AS YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY

St. Thomas Boy Remanded Week on Charge of Breaking Into Store.

3 FATALLY BURNED.

Coroner's Jury Returned Open Verdict, Thus Discrediting Boy's Evidence.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 27 (C.P.)—Walter Vaughan, 15-year-old St. Thomas boy, brought here from the Mimico Industrial School last Monday night, pleaded guilty in police court to-day to charges of breaking and entering the grocery store of Vera McConnell in Aylmer on the morning of April 16 and negligently starting the fire that butted the building and caused the deaths of Mrs. Grace Witheral and her two young daughters, Stella and Dorothy, residents on the third floor.

The boy's insistence to plead guilty to the charges led to the withdrawal of his solicitor, S. St. Clair Leitch, K.C. Mr. Leitch told the court that he would not assume the responsibility if the accused were pleading guilty.

He told Crown Attorney Wilfred Haines that he would have to assume responsibility. A remand of one week was granted on the Crown Attorneys' request.

Coroner's Inquest

Before retiring from the case, Mr. Leitch referred to the action of the coroner's jury at Aylmer Wednesday night in bringing an open verdict, thus discrediting, he said ,the boy's evidence that he broke into the grocery store to pilfer provisions, threw a lighted cigarette on the floor which started the disastrous fire.

The boy's chief concern this morning seemed to be avoiding being sent back to the Mimico Industrial School. He is said to have told Mr. Leitch in a brief consultation before the charges were read that he didn't want to return to the institution. Before Mr. Leitch could get to his feet, the boy said "guilty" when asked to elect for trial. When asked by Magistrate Maxwell if he understood the nature of the charges, he replied, "Yes, sir."

MILLIONS LOSS ONTARIO CROPS

Fall Wheat, Clover, Alfalfa Hard Hit in Majority of Sections.

FEAR FEED SHORTAGE.

TORONTO, April 27.—(CP)— Unless farmers get a break and find the damage to fall wheat and hay crops is far less than estimated, loss through winter-killing may amount to several millions of dollars, S. L. Page, agricultural representative estimated. In Simcoe County alone loss was expected to amount to $1,000,000, he said.

Alfalfa and clover crops were also badly damaged and, unless conditions improve, a shortage of feed is feared. In the Milton district alone the loss in these crops is already placed at hundreds of thousands of dollars. Fall wheat was also badly damaged in southern counties, Mr. page said, but loss was not yet estimated.

Marshall Is Named On Permanent Staff

Fred C. Marshall, fish and game inspector for Peterborough County, has been appointed to the permanent staff of the Fish and Game Department, T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., announced yesterday. Although Inspector Marshall has been employed by the Department for a year and a half, his appointment had been only temporary. Mr. Lancaster said he was assisted in getting Mr. Marshall's permanent appointment by the recommendation of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association.

For years, Mr. Marshall served with the R.C.M.P., and rose to the rank of sergeant with that famous force. He served in France with distinction with the C.E.F.

Fatal Blast

CHICOPEE, Mass., April 27.—(AP)—One woman was killed and at least 20 persons were injured when an explosion demolished a cottage dwelling house and damaged a score of other buildings here early today. The blast caused a panic in the neighborhood.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Joseph Prinke, who, with her husband and 10 year old son, occupied the building. The boy escaped injury, and it was believed that the father also escaped.

The explosion blew the house to pieces, hurled large sections of the walls for long distances, and badly damaged nearby buildings.

MOTHER IS ILL IN ROOM ABOVE DYING OARSMAN

Blood Transfusion in Effort to Save Life of Joe Wright, Jr., Successfully Performed.

INTERNAL HEMORRHAGE.

Sculler's Father, Worrying Over Son's Ailment, Suffering From Shock.

TORONTO, Apri 27—(CP)—While Joe Wright Jr., world-famous sculler, was being given a blood transfusion in an effort to save his life today, his mother lay ill in the room above, not knowing of her son's condition. At the Wright home, the oarsman's father, worried over his son's ailment, was confined to his bed suffering from shock.

Meanwhile the blood transfusion, to replace blood lost by the sculler from an internal hemmorrhage, was successfully performed.

Wright Jr. was taken to hospital yesterday when the hemmorrhage occurred. He had been ill for more than a week, suffering from an infected hand attributed to early season training with the Argonaut Rowing club crew. Hospital attendants today said he had spent a good night and his condition remained unchanged.

Winner of the Diamond Sculls in 1928 and captain and coach of the Argonaut Rowing Club, Wright was one of the outstanding Canadian scullers. When news of his illness reached the Argonaut Club, clubmates hurried to hospital to be donors in the blood transfusions. Their blood however, was not of the right class.

Large Acreage Of Barley This Year

A larger acreage of barley is expected in this district this spring as many farmers are being forced to plough up their fall wheat which was winter killed.

Farmers are reluctant in saying that it is on account of the expansion expected in the brewing industry on account of the increase in sale of beer expected from the new legislation which will come into effect after the general election.

They admit that the price of barley during the past year has been more favorable than that of other coarse grains but with practically the entire fall wheat acreage which was the largest in a numberof years killed out they are forced to sow more coarse grains and naturally barley is the one which will be largely sown.

ALL CONDEMNED TO DIE ON JOINT MURDER CHARGE

Gagged Aged Woman Who Surprised Them at Work.

VICTIM SUFFOCATED.

Case First of Kind Since Old Bailey Re-organized in 1906.

LONDON, April 27.—(C.P. Cable) — For the first time since the notorious criminal court at the Old Bailey was reorganized 28 years ago, three prisoners were today condemned to death on a joint murder charge.

They were Leslie Martin, 32, a Croydon motortruck driver; Albert Ansell, 29, warehouseman of Kennington, and Walter Ross, 24, leather stainer of Camberwell.

They were convicted of the murder of Mrs. Eliza Juliet Ray, 79-year-old widow who was found dead in her house at West Croydon, a handkerchief stuffed in her mouth.

The trio were self-composed as they stood in the dock to hear the sentence. They had received the jury's verdict quietly. Martin remarking casually to Mr. Justice MacNaughton:

"My lord, in my time I have been a bit of a thief but I am not a liar. I have told you the truth—I have nothing on my mind only a bit of moral guilt."

The trio walked from the dock almost jauntily.

Ansell's wife however was not so composed. Wearing a vivid red hat, she trembled when the verdict was returned and as the judge donned the black cap to pass the death sentence she collapsed. She recovered as the three were taken from the dock and stood up to catch a last glimpse of her husband.

Other women relatives of the condemned men blew kisses as they passed from sight.

It is understood an appeal will be fyled.

The Crown charged the trio were in the act of robbing Mrs. Ray's house when the aged woman surprised them, and they left her tied, the victim dying of suffocation.

NAZIS REJECT RED PROPOSAL

Claim Plan to Guarantee Baltic Independence Lacks Political Sense.

SEE HINT OF INVASION.

MOSCOW, April 27 (A.P.).—The rejection of Nazi Germany of a proposal to join with Communistic Russia in guaranteeing "independence and inviolability" of the Baltic countries, was revealed in an official Soviet communique, was the centre of interest in diplomatic circles here to-day.

The communique, issued last night by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff, revealed that the German Government replied to Soviet overtures with a statement that the proposal "was lacking in political sense."

The German reply held that there was an inference that the independence of the Baltic countries would be endangered by one side or the other, and assured the Soviet Union that the Nazi Government had no such fears.

Recommend Sheriff As Returning Officer

At the Peterborough Liberal-Conservative executive meeting yesterday afternoon, at the Empress Hotel, a resolution was adopted recommending the appointment of Sheriff F. J. A. Hall as returning officer for the riding in the coming Provincial election. Sheriff Hall has been returning officer for Peterborough City in the last four Provincial elections.

The meeting also recommended the appointment of Matthew Elliott as the returning officer's clerk. Mr. Elliott was secretary of the former East Peterborough Conservative Association.

Tricked

ERIe, Pa., April 27 (C.P.). — Warden Matt Hess told Slim Young, the best window washer ever locked in the county jail, that if he would wash all the prison windows a parole would be granted.

Young worked feverishly, washing for freedom. But he was saying things to himself as he walked out of jail. The parole had been granted before he accepted the warden's bargain.

COMMONS GROUP APPROVES BILL ON NEW BRIDGE

Provides for Constructtion of New Link Over S. Lawrence River.

NEAR GANANOQUE.

Will Cost $2,000,000—With Work to Start Within Two Years.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.).—The Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons to-day approved a bill to provide for a new link between Canada and the United States. The committee approved incorporation of the Thousand Islands Bridge Company, which intends to construct a Canadian and part of an international bridge over the St. Lawrence near Gananoque, Ont., at a cost of nearly $2,000,000.

The work is to start within two years of the assent of the Canadian and United States Governments.

The bridge would be built from a point near Ivy Lea, in Leeds County, across the St. Lawrence and its islands to a point near Collings Landing in Jefferson County, New York.

The Canadian bridge would cross from Ivy Lea, on piers built on Georgina and Constances Island, to a point on Hill Island. The international bridge would be built across the "Rift," a narrow channel through which runs the international boundary, and the third or American bridge would be built from Wellesley or Wells Island to Collins Landing.

After 40 years, the Government of Ontario will be entitled to acquire the portion of the bridges, approaches, roads and works situated in Canadian territory without payment of any consideration. After two years' operation, the value of the bridges is to be determined by a board of arbitration consisting of three members, one to be nominated by the Ontario Government, the second by the company and the third by the Dominion.

Provisional directors of the new company are John G. Mitchell and D. A. Craig of Leeds and Lansdowne, in Leeds County; G. B.

Start Construction On Norwood Building

Work was started this week on the construction of the new building which is to house the mechanical switchboard of the new dial telephone system now being installed in Norwood by the Bell Telephone Company, according to The Norwood Register.

The innovation was scheduled to be in use by March 1st, but owing to heavy frost and unforeseen difficulty, the work was delayed. A gang of men, however, have been at work for the past few weeks in lowering poles and stringing cable for the installation of the new system.

The building, which is to be of brick construction with special soundproof walls, is to be located on Peterborough street, adjoining J. L. Squire and Sons' grocery store. Work is being done by contract under supervision of Bell Telephone Company officials.

MAY REQUIRE MORE MEN ON BANCROFT HIGHWAY

His expectations that more Petehborough men will be employed soon on the construction of the new Burleigh Falls to Bancroft highway were expressed yesterday by T. P. Lancaster.

"I expect to be able to secure more jobs for local men on the highway very soon," Mr. Lancaster stated. "Not only will the jobs now be open to single men but also to married men, since with the 25c an hour rate of pay the job is no longer a relief project by a construction job."

DILLINGER'S PAL IS SURROUNDED IN WOODED AREA

Sheriffs Beat Bush and Side Roads to Scare Nelson Out.

BAUM'S KILLER.

Trackers Are Called in By Law Officers for Round-up.

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., April 27. (AP).—Under-Sheriff Del McGregor this afternoon received a report that the automobile which George "Baby Face" Nelson took from Adolph Goetz, Merrill rural carrier, last night had been traced to Squirrel Lake, about half way between Fifield and Lac Du Flambeau.

FIFIELD, Wis., April 27 (AP)—A man believed to be George (Baby Face) Nelson, quick-shooting gunner of the John Dillinger gang, today was believed in near range of a posse that had tracked him in the Northern Wisconsin woods.

The man the authorities think is the machine gunning pal of the elusive Dillinger and who was identified as the gangster who mowed down Federal Agent C. Carter Baum when the Dillinger crew shot their way to freedom last Sunday near Mercer, was believed to be making his last stand against the law.

Once during the hours before dawn the "Baby Face' was reported to have been surrounded by Federal agents and Deputy Sheriffs in the desolate wooded area of this section, but as the hours wore on and no further trace of the gangster was found it was believed that Nelson might have made good his escape, after all. All Sheriffs of the section, however, were beating the woods and side roads to scare him out.

Trailed For Miles.

The trail of the Dillinger marksman, who momentarily at least stole the spotlight of notoriety from his chief—who is still being hunted by 5,000 or more officers—was first picked up in the village of Lac Du Flambeau, north-east of Fifield, when an automobile was stolen there by a man the authorities are convinced was Nelson. He apparently had been hiding in the vicinity of the Lac Du Flambeau Indian reservation, having escaped from the Sunday night fighting at Mercer in the car in which Baum rode to his death.

This car was found abandoned on a deserted road near Boulder Junction, approximtaely 25 miles nodth-east of Lac Du Flambeau.

SUCKER RULING IS PROTESTED

Fish and Game Association Take Question Up With Provincial Department.

REFERRED TO OTTAWA.

Believing that the new regulations prohibiting the netting and gaffing of suckers will deprive local unemployed men of the opportunity of getting suckers which would assist materially in feeding their families during the next month or two, Alex. Weddell, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association, informed The Examiner today that the local association has taken the matter up with the Fish and Game Department.

"We took the question of the new sucker regulations up with the Department," said Mr. Weddell, "and we were referred to Ottawa by the Provincial Department. We are taking this matter up with Ottawa in an effort to get some modification of the new regulations to permit some sucker fishing under supervision."

FAIL TO FIND MACHADO

NEW YORK—A defence for Gerardo Machado, against a return to the Cuban republic he once ruled, was thrown up to-day as he still evaded capture. Friends of the former Cuban president, whose dictatorship ended in revolution, called Henry G. Gray, a New York attorney, to advise them in the fight to prevent Machado's extradition. While authorities of New York and neighboring states hunted the exile, on Cuba itself was placed the burden of finding him.

EXTRA PROGRAM PUBLIC WORKS FOR S. ONTARIO

Scheme Calling for Roads, Bridges to Cost $10,000,000 Says Henry.

20 P.C. LESS ON RELIEF.

McGibbon Urges Referendum Before Amalgamation of Two Railways.

TORONTO, April 27 (CP)—Another $10,000,000 public works program is planned by the Ontario Government for Southern Ontario. It will be supplementary to the $10,000,000 program of last fall, according to the announcement of Premier George S. Henry who states additional public works also will be carried out in Northern Ontario.

Premier Henry's announcement, made at a meeting in Toronto of the northwest Scarboro Conservative Association, featured last night's round of political oratory and nomination conventions. Three Conservative candidates were launched into the Ontario general election campaign with the government standard bearers chosen for Prince Edward-Lennox, Perth and Muskoka-Northern Ontario.

The new public works program is expected to call for roads, buildings and bridges throughout Southern Ontario. Premier Henry said he visited Ottawa with Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Ontario Minister of Highways, Wednesday.

The work will be accomplished in conjunction with the municipalities, the Premier stated.

Minimum Wage

He announced in his address that there had been a 20 percent decrease in the number of relief recipients during the last year and he also stated consideration had been given to a minimum wage for men.

He declared "organised labor has asked us to postpone bringing it into effect as they were doubtful of the result, but I think a minimum wage for men will have to be worked out."

While hecklers interrupted Mr. Henry said the government was paying 25 cents an hour to between 25,000 and 30,000 men occupied on works programs and he defied anyone to find a man dissatisfied with conditions in the work camps. He predicted a great boom in the

BUCHANAN BODY STILL IN TENT

Widow Secures Lumber to Build a Vault for Husband's Body.

TENT WEATHER BEATEN.

RUSH POINT, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—Neighbors of Mrs. John Buchanan, while sympathetic toward the lonely widow, are at a loss to understand her strange attitude in refusing to permit the interment of her husband's body. The burial is apparently no nearer being accomplished than before, efforts of health officials here in that direction again having failed.

The tent in which the body lies has become badly weather-beaten and flaps in the wind, revealing the rough coffin to eyes of passers-by.

It was learned that she has secured lumber and is employed in building a sort of vault in which she intends soon to place her husbands' body.

Election Ardor

BENWOOD, W. Va., April 27 (C.P.). — The day of the town election dawned bright and warm, but Louis Kepple, ardent Democrat, was dismayed— his wooden leg was gone.

What was more, his friend, Police Chief Pat Scully, was up for re-election and needed votes. Kepple called Pat and the latter called the Democrats. They carried Kepple to the polls.

The Democrats won and Chief Scully located the missing limb.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey.

That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you "feel punk". Your stomach gets sour, gas, bloating, sourness, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is blotchy. All, of course, because your system is full of poisons.

Mere bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You've got to get your liver working and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and sure but how they do change your view on life!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c, at all druggists. 49

CAMPBELLFORD HAS GOOD YEAR IN COLLECTIONS

Total of $67,075 Collected Out of 1933 Tax Roll of $80,080.

BALANCE SETTLEMENTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — An appreciation of the good work done by Campbellford's tax collector, J. D. McEachern, was voiced by Mayor H. N. Carr, when the tax rolls were handed in at a special meeting of the council, and accepted.

Under the trying conditions now prevailing tax collections in the municipality have been exceptionally good. The total tax roll is $80,080; approximate figures show that taxes collected amount to $67,075, leaving a balance of uncollected taxes of $12,926. Out of this amount, however, abatements total $921, discount allowed, $627; taxes on the paper and pulp mill, which are shortly to be paid, $3,500; the tax sale list representing $2,000. Of the approximate five thousand dollars balance, Mr. McEachran reports that settlements of about three thousand dollars have been arranged for.

And a very bright feature of the situation and one that reflects credit on the town treasurer, F. D. Wood, and the tax collector, is the fact that $9,565.65 were collected in 1933, that belonged to the 1932 roll and previous years.

Scenes as varied as the fore compartment of a wrecked and submerged submarine, on the one hand, and the apartment of Queen Elizabeth in the Tower of London, on the other, will form the settings for the plays.

The first number wil be that of the Queen's University Dramatic Guild. It is the one-act play "submerged" by H. Stuart Cottman and Le Vergne Shaw. The scene is laid in a submarine, and its story concerns the submerged sailors confronted with death in the wreck of their vessel.

Sir James Barrie's "Half An Hour" presented by the London Drama League, will be the second presentation to-night. It is a sad piece of drama concerning the effor an unhappily married woman for liberty and happiness, and its failure.

Elizabeth the Queen

Finally, the Festival audience tonight, will see players from the Vancouver Little Theatre Association in the third act of "Elizabeth the Queen.' This is a full length play by Maxwell Anderson, and deals with the association of Elizabeth and the Earl of Essex. The scene is laid in the Tower of London, where Essex awaits his execution for treason.

Last night a capacity crowd saw two teams from Hart House, Toronto, and the St. Clements' Church Players, of Verdun, in one-act plays. Hart House Group Number Two gave Maeterlinck's "The Death of Tintagiles." It was followed by "Lonesome-Lik," the play of Lancashire, by Harold Brighouse, which was played by the Verdun players. The last offering was "The Road of Poplars," by Vernon Sylvaine, presented by Hart House Group Number One.

Appreciation of the productions was expressed by J. T. Grein, Festival adjudicator.

self with a new car the fugitive sought to make his escape to some other section when information, coming from an undisclosed source, tiped the officers as to his whereabouts, and the hunt was on.

All highways and bridges in the vicinity were closely guarded by the officers, who called upon woodsmen and guides to help.

Latest Developments

While posses, heavily armed, beat the lonely timber country around Fifield hunting Nelson who was believed trapped there, the case for his leader, Dillinger went on unabated.

Latest developments were:

1—The disclosure that members of Dilliner's gang left behind them in the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., last Sunday night, money believed to be part of the $100,000 ransom money paid to liberate Edward G. Bremer, kidnapped St. Paul banker.

2—A statement by Dr. Clayton May of Minneapolis that he had been forced at the point of a machine gun to treat Dillinger's wounds received when shot last March 31 by Henry Communings, a St. Paul detective.

v—Preparation by the Grand Jury to investigate charges that Dr. May and his nurse, Mrs. Augusta Salt, harbored the elusive gunman. They are in jail.

The new link connecting members of the Dillinger gang with the Bremer kidnapping was disclosed by a Minneapolis newspaper which said the ransom money paid for the St. Paul banker's release on February 7, had been found in bags abandoned by the mob in its flight from the Wisconsin resort.

Previously, Department of Justice announcements at Chicago had disclosed Arthur Barker and Alvin Karpis, linked to the Bremer case some time ago, had been with Dillinger at the resort.

Heading South?

The disclosure came as the peace officers were on the alert in widely separated parts of the United States following reports Dillinger had been seen in a number of cities, including South Bend, Ind.

From Fort Wayne, Ind., came word Homer Van Meter, associate of Dillinger in the recent raid on the Warsaw, Ind., police station, was reported seen near there.

Dr. May said that he and his nurse were menaced by machine guns and repeatedly threatened with death when forced to treat Dillinger's wounds nearly four weeks ago.

Another doctor, N. G. Mortensen, was suspended as St. Paul City Health Officer after he had admitted treating Dillinger and his first lieutenant, John Hamilton, both for gunshot wounds. His case is also to receive attention from the grand jury. He is not being held. He treated Dillinger and Hamilton early in March, he said.

EMPLOYEES ARRESTED

TORONTO — Six employees of Rogers Majestic Corp. were arrested here today and charged with theft. Various charges in connection with theft of radio parts and canned goods were laid against Charles S. Shoebridge, 26, Alexander McDonald, 28, John Moody, 30, Dave Logan, 35, John O. MacArtney 20, and John Hahn, 22.

EXPECTED VOTE ON MARKET BILL FAILS TO COME

Debate on Issue to be Continued in House Next Tuesday.

INSURANCE ACT UP.

Senate Approves Dominion's Last Attempt for Supervision on Insurance Firms.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.).—With Senate approval the Federal Government's last attempt to retain a measure of supervision over the operation of insurance companies in Canada is due to come before the House of Commons. Yesterday, while the Lower House continued arguing over the merits of the marketing bill the Upper Champer gave third reading to the bill respecting British and Canadian insurance companies.

Successive Federal insurance acts have been challenged by the provinces which seek to have sole control and have been found ultra vires by the courts. If the present bill passes Parliament and fails to pass the test of court action, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader, told the Senate the Federal Insurance Department would pass out of existence.

As the provinces under the constitution have jurisdiction over property and civil rights insurance has been found to fail within their sphere of action.

The large provinces of Ontario and Quebec are anxious to keep it so, but some of the smaller provinces look upon the upkeep of insurance departments as a needless expense when a central department at Ottawa could do the work. So while they have been content to turn the work over the Dominion, Ontario and Quebec have stood out as leaders in the battle for provincial rights.

The Bill now before Parliament is designed to utilize the Dominion's power over bankruptcy and insolvency to enable it to exercise supervision over insurance companies. It compels insurance companies to maintain deposits of $100,000 in securities with the Federal Insurance Department to ensure their solvency.

Lloyd's an Exception.

An exception made in the case of Lloyd's was opposed in the Senate and may also be challenged in the Commons It was stated this society by reason of its constitution is not in a position to deposit securities.

The expected vote on the Marketing Bill in the Lower House did not materialize last night and will likely come on Tuesday when the measure comes up for further consideration.

To-day the House will begin discussion of the Salary Reduction Act which provides for a continuation of the 10 per cent. salary reduction. A change this year will make persons receiving less than $1,000 a year exempt from the cut.

Providing for more strict regulation of companies and supervision over their reports and prospectuses the New Companies Act was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State. It was hoped the Act might be made the basis of a uniform set of company laws throughout Canada, but the Provinces have not yet adopted the principles contained in the Federal measures and the Legislatures have prorogued without taking action.

V-type engine holds world's records

SALUTE THE CHAMPION—THE V-TYPE ENGINE. It holds every major record on land, on water and in the air.

It has the stuff that makes a winner in any grueling test . . . speed to go into the lead and the endurance to hold that lead to the finish. For it takes more than speed to win under the severest racing conditions. It takes efficiency of a rare order and the ability to keep going when the others drop out.

That's why record-breaking automobiles, speed boats and seaplanes use the V-type engine. And like these V-type engines, the Ford V-8 can take it.

Right there is the reason for the outstanding performance of the New Ford V-8. No other low-price car can match it on the road because no other low-price car has a V-8 engine. Fact is, you have to pay more than $4000 to get a V-type eight-cylinder engine in any other automobile but Ford.

We invite you to drive the New Ford V-8 and let it tell you its own revealing story of performance, safety, comfort and economy.

URGE DOMINIONS TAKE OWNERSHIP OF STOCKYARDS

Operate on Self-sustaining Basis Says Alberta Agritural Minister.

MARK ALL BEEF.

Suggests More Imports From Britain to Assist Cattle Exports.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.)—Government ownership of Canadian stockyards was proposed yesterday by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, when he appeared before the Stevens committee on price spreads and mass buying here. The yards, he said, should be operated on a self-sustaining basis as public utilities, and the Federal Government could handle them better than Provincial Governments since it "had more money" to carry on the initial work. There would be no loss ultimately, he said, for the yards would carry themselves.

The committee had expected to hear reports from tobacco producers and manufacturers who had been in long conference in an effort to strike a fair price for the producer, but no agreement has yet been reached, although Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman of the committee, who suggested the conference be held, declared it was possible a statement would be forthcoming before nightfall.

Mr. Hoadley, who was to appear before the committee last week, was unable to do so owing to an accident, and it was decided yesterday to hear his submissions.

Mr. Hoadley further suggested an educational campaign to increase the domestic consumption of wheat, and steps to buy greater quantities of manufactured goods from Great Britain so that in the quid pro quo policy of that country it would not further restrict cattle imports from Canada.

Aid to Ranchers

Continuing, he proposed the government should consider an "all-inclusive rate" on cattle shipments to the United Kingdom so the ranchers would know definitely what their costs would be. There should be restriction of imports of meat, both chilled and canned, into Canada, he said for "the heavy import of meat into Canada is a thorn in the side of the meat producers here."

All beef should be marked. At present, the best quality beef is "Red Label" while the next best is "Blue Label." This system, Mr. Hoadley said, should be extended so the poorer quality of beef would also be stamped and the purchaser would know exactly what was being bought.

The remarks of British ministers that, unless the Dominions bought more, the flow of natural products from the Dominions to the U. K. markets were stressed by Mr. Hoadley who urged that the government should do everything possible to prevent further restrictions of live cattle shipments to that country.

The ranchers of Alberta and Saskatchewan must not be allowed to go into bankruptcy, he said, and the government should not hesitate to come to their rescue. Stability of prices for the ranchers was imperative. This committee will continue this afternoon.

3 MONTHS GIVEN TO TIMEKEEPER

Gov't Employee at Kaladar Found Guilty of False Statements.

SAWYER LOSES FINGERS.

TWEED, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—Everett Hughes of Kaladar, employed by the Ontario Government as a timekeeper and paymaster on the highway, was given three months in Lennox County Jail, when he was found guilty before Magistrate Lloyd at Kaladar on Wednesday, of making false statements.

It is alleged that Hughes had been carrying on the payrool, the name of a man who has not been in the employ of the Government since last September. Hughes had been out on $5,000.00 bail since his arrest one week ago. I. D. Corcoran of Tweed defended the accused.

Fire destroyed the home and contents of Mrs. C. E. Hayes, early Wednesday morning. Owing to the faithful work by neighbors, no other buildings were destroyed.

Charles Mitz, Crookston, was sentenced to three months definite and one year indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory, after pleading guilty to a charge of theft, in police court, on April 23rd, before Magistrate Mikel of Belleville.

Originally the charge had been that of breaking, entering and theft. Mitz denied breaking into the building in question, but admitted walking in an open door and stealing a large quantity of household goods.

Mitz was arrested by County Constable Wickett of Stirling, and charged with robbing the dwelling house of Mrs. Emma Ryan, Huntingdon, who is also a relative of the accused man. Bed clothing, all kinds of linens and kitchen utensils were reported stolen; the majority of which were recovered by the police.

When he appeared in court, Mitz stated that his wife, with whom he did not live, had remained outside the Ryan house, while he burglarized the dwelling. No substantiation of this statement was available, however.

Following a painful accident which removed all four fingers of the right hand after they had been drawn into an edger at Chisolm's Mills sawmill, Wesley Copeland, 55-year-old employee, was hurriedly taken to the Belleville General Hospital where further amputations were made by Dr. Harold E. Welsh, Roslin.

Mr. Copeland is suffering from shock and loss of blood, but according to Dr. Welsh, who administered first aid, his condition is not critical. Mr. Copeland is an old employee of the mill.

While operating a saw in Bancrot village, J. Woodcox had the ends of the fingers on his right hand severed. He is a patient at the Red Cross Hospital at that place.

A minor fire at the home of George Coulter, near Chapman's Corners, Thursday afternoon, occasioned some damage, but it was quite easily extinguished.

The blaze had its origin in the roof, part of which was burned with a minimum loss. Willing neighbors formed a bucket brigade and the frame dwelling was saved from any serious damages.

tenderers are expected by Mr. Lancaster within a day or two. "Everything is ready to go ahead on these two jobs, and it is just a question of who the contractors will be," he stated.

85 Per Cent. Local Labor.

The section east of Havelock to the Peterborough-Hastings boundary is slightly more than five miles, while the section west of Norwood to the fifth line of Otonabee is 11 miles long.

Eighty-five per cent. local men will be employed on the work of paving the Lakefield road. This is set forth in the Law Construction Company's contract, according to Mr. Lancaster's information. It is expected that about 100 men should find jobs on this work. Minimum wages will be 25 ents an hour for an eight-hour day, and men with teams will receive 45 cents an hour.

Remove Bad Curves.

The road will be paved with a 20-foot strip of cement, Canada cement from Lakefield being used. The new course of the road has been staked out already by highway engineers and all dangerous curves, particularly the one at Nassau, will be removed, Mr. Lancaster explained.

In order to permit the free flow of traffic, it is understood that one side of the road will be paved first. "It is the intention to interfere as little as possible with the free movement of tourist traffic to the lake district," Mr. Lancaster said.

No work camps will be located on any of the highway construction jobs, in an effort to keep out jobseekers not resident in Peterborough City or County.

Completes Through Road.

The Campbellford-Havelock highway will connect at Havelock with No. 7 highway, hooking up No. 7 highway with No. 2 highway, and making a through highway from Havelock to Brighton. It also runs along Concession street, joining up Old Havelock with No. 7 highway. Nine miles of this road is in Seymour Township and three in Belmont Township.

It is the definite purpose of the Provincial Government that the construction of these highways will be a real employment benefit to the districts concerned, stated Mr. Lancaster, and this plan will be adhered to strictly.

Employment System.

For the three jobs east of Peterborough, W. C. Ferris, of the Labor Department, Toronto, will be in charge of employment. "Mr. Ferris will be stationed at Havelock and will have an office in the Council Chamber there during the duration of all three jobs," Mr. Lancaster explained. "He will allocate men to the various jobs. In putting men on these jobs he will use lists of applicants supplied to him by the heads of the municipalities concerned.

"It is the opinion of the Government that the reeves should know better than anyone which men in their townships most need or deserve the work. Married men or those responsible for a household will be given the preference. There will be no camps; it is expected that the men will sleep at home.

"In order to supply as many jobs as possible there will be no steam shovels on the jobs; it will be mostly hand labor and teams."

Obituary

MRS. J. T. BELSHAW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, April 27. — At 6 p.m. on Tuesday evening, April 24th, at the residence of her son, Buttimer, Mrs. J. Belshaw passed away after an illness of six weeks, at the age of 90 years. Mrs. Belshaw (nee Mary Buttimer) was born in 1843, in the County of Cork, Ireland, on November 27th. She was brought to Canada by her grandparents in 1850 and settled on the 7th concession of Rawdon, where she resided for 21 years. On Feb. 4, 1863, she married J. T. Belshaw, who lived on a farm three miles distant. Six children were born to this union, two of whom died in infancy; the surviving are: Abigal, Mrs. C. Mumby), George, Samuel and Buttimer, all of Stirling.

Her husband passed away in Jan., 1926.

In 1913, this happily wedded pair celebrated their golden wedding and in 1923 their diamond anniversary was marked by a family gathering. Mrs. Belshaw had a most retentive memory and could recount many most interesting tales of the strange experiences of the little Irish colleen in a new country.

She received her education in a near-by log school house and until the erection of St. Thomas Church near her home walked to Stirling to attend divine service.

The erection of this rural church was greatly due to the efforts of her husband, as he took a most active part in church work.

The funeral service was held at day at 10.30 a.m., with Rev. A. S. St. Johns Anglican church Thurs- McConnell assisted by Rev. B. F. Byers.

WILLIAM KERR

(Examiner Correspondence)

LIFFORD LINE, April 27.—The death occurred on Tuesday evening at Franklin of one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Manvers in the person of William Kerr who was in his eighty-fifth year.

The late Mr. Kerr while not enjoying good health since the beginning of this year had not been confined to bed until recently.

For year he lived with his wife and family on the "Twigg" farm southeast of Lifford. He then purchased the farm at Franklin where he spent his happy latter days. He knew the history of Manvers and its people so well that his friends found him a most interesting person to consult for dates and references.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife formerly Jane Crawford and one daughter Annie at home, also one son James at home. His daughter, Mrs. Joseph Whiteside and his married son John Kerr also reside near Franklin.

A large crowd of friends and relatives attended the funeral at the family residence at Franklin on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment took place at the St. Mary's church cemetery at Lifford with Rev. Holden, rector of Manvers parish officiating at the graveside service.

WILLIAM D. HEALEY

TWEED, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—William D. Healey, a well-known resident of the Stoco district, died on Wednesday evening of this week following a stroke which he suffered on Monday.

Previous to that, Mr. Healey had been in good health. He was a life-long resident of the district.

Funeral arrangements are as yet incomplete owing to the fact that members of the family are coming from California.

JOHN CRIVEA

John Crivea, well-known resident of Bancroft village, died on Wednesday at the home of Mr. D. Woodcox, Faraday Township. Mr. Crivea was ninety-three years of age and was one of the oldest residents of North Hastings.

BRUCE ALEXANDER KIDD

LAKEFIELD, April 27.—(Examiner Correspondent).—Bruce Alexander Kidd well-known Smith Township farmer, passed away suddenly early this morning at his residence on the 14th Concession. He was 46 years of age, and while he had been in poor health for some time past, his death was nevertheless unexpected.

Born in Dummer Township he was a son of the late A. Kidd and of Mrs. Kidd. Besides his mother he is survived by his widow who was formerly Olive Robinson; by three daughters—Beatrice, Violet and Ruby and by one son, Malcolm. He also leaves five brothers—John of White Fox, Saskatchewan, Robert of Toronto, William of Merritt, Saskatchewan, Elmo of Asphodel and Maxwell of Smith—and one sister, Miss Jessie Kidd of Peterborough. A brother, Hugh Kidd, died suddenly three months ago.

Funeral announcement later.

MINSTREL TROUPE PRESENTED SHOW

Port Hope Young People Provide Program in Millbrook Hall.

MILLBROOK, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence)—The minstrel, twenty-one members strong, from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, presented a two-hour program before a large audience in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday evening, F. J. Deyell, president of Grace Church Y.P.S., introducing the entertainers.

Rev. Dr. K. H. Palmer filled the role of interlocutor, and between the scenes, in addition to radio music, Miss Francis Johnston was heard in a vocal solo, and accompanied Mr. Easter in his violin selection.

Staging was well done, and high lights of the evening included some clever step dancing by "The Mascot," otherwise styled "Little Cliffie"; the able performance of "Pop" as the accompanist at the piano, his impersonation being that of a decrepit old gentleman bent over a cane, and assisted on the stage by his son "Ezra"; the active stunts of the four end men, Roy, Tom, Bill and Walter; and the performance of the "Coon Band," whose instruments were certainly of a kind it would be difficult to name, though the players succeeded in producing a very good tone when they struck up in unison.

"Home Sweet Home," and "Old Black Joe," played on the plain edge of a saw by means of a violin bow, by a workman who appeared suddenly on the stage declaring he had "some repairs to make"; and "The Rosary," with "My Wild Irish Rose" as recall, contributed by "Pop," otherwise known as "Ephraim," using a sort of violin that had but one string, were also well worth the applause accorded them.

Preliminary to the appearance of the full chorus of 'darkies,' with their white shirts and big red bow ties, was some varied acting, such jokes of ancient vintages the waiter's excuse, "They done broke the doggoned eliminatah, Sah," to the diner (Dr. Palmer) who had indicated his choice of a breakfast menu adding "eliminate the eggs"—to the confusion of "George Washington" and the hotel Chef — going over comparatively well.

Spring Fever

CHICAGO, April 27 (C.P.).—A woodcock's spring romance came to a sudden and violent end when it careened dizzily against a store window.

Children rescuing the bird believed it had been pursued by a hawk, but attendants at the Field Museum said it was merely in love.

building industry when the depression disappeared.

When he remarked there were 12,000 persons in provincial mental institutions, a heckler interjected: 'Victims of capitalism.'

C. E. Richardson of St. Mary's was selected Conservative candidate for Perth at the Stratford convention which was addressed by Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario Minister of Mines. Mr. Richardson is a member for South Perth, merged in the new riding under redistribution. At the Beaverton convention, where Premier Henry spoke in the afternoon, C. W. Ecclestone was the choice for Muskoka-Northern Ontario, a new riding, the candidate being member for Muskoka since 1918.

Colliver In Prince Edward

Horace C. Colliver of Picton, member for Prince Edward, was the unanimous choice at the Picton Conservative meeting as candidate for the new riding of Prince Edward-Lennox, Attorney General W. H. Price was the speaker at this gathering where 12 other nominees withdrew to make Mr. Colliver's selection unanimous.

Col. Price's address included the announcement of the taking over of the road from Trenton to Kingston as a provincial highway. He attacked Liberal and Progressive leaders, claiming their ranks were divided and he derided their actions in opposing the Liquor Control Act during 1926 and 1929 and then 'acquiescing' in the government's extension of beer and wine sales this year.

In his Beaverton address Premier Henry reiterated his statement that the question of beer and wine could not be separated from politics and that people had reached the belief freer distribution of beer and wine would result in cutting consumption of hard liquors.

Referendum on Railways

Dr. Peter McGibbon, Conservative member in the House of Commons for Muskoka-Ontario, told the Beaverton meeting in his next House of Commons address he would propose amalgamation of the two Canadian railway systems and that a referendum be held so the people could decide on this idea.

Dr. McGibbon defended the governments gold tax which he thought might be changed so it would not injure the small producer but he believed the 'big fellows' should pay the tax. He said the sugar tax would be removed entirely next year and he urged his listeners to prepare immediately for a federal election which was near.

NOVA SCOTIA'S FINANCES

The Editor,

The Peterborough Examiner,

Dear Sir,—In last night's Examiner there is contained an editorial criticizing Premier MacDonald for the new levies to be collected by way of taxation in Nova Scotia. Your editorial says that the Liberal Party was successful in ousting the Conservative administration largely on the strength of explicit pledges of lessened government expenditures and consequently a lighter burden of taxation.

If The Examiner had truely stated the facts it would have stated that the present Minister of Finance, Honourable E. N. Rhodes, who was Prime Minister of Nova Scotia for some four years, left the Province of Nova Scotia with a burden of debt and deficits by reason of his expenditures and extravagance, which caused the people to rise and kick him out of office. He was a failure in Nova Scotia and he is just as great a failure as Minister of Finance in the Bennett Government, when he has produced nothing but deficits every year, and introduced the gold tax legislation which depreciated the mining market $100,000,000.00 in twenty-four hours, and brought protests from Premier Henry, Honourable Charles McRae, Honourable Wesley Gordon and Premier Taschereau.

As far as the Nova Scotia situation goes. Premier MacDonald found himself loaded with a burden of debt caused by the extravagance of former Premier Rhodes. He required to establish Old Age Pensions in our oldest province which the Rhodes Government stupidly for some four years refused to pay to the people, although there was the Dominion Government bounty available every year. The Province of Nova Scotia is heavily drained of its young people who are leaving for the West and for the New England States, and it is said that the Old Age population is greater per capita in Nova Scotia than in any other province.

The Liberal Government of Premier MacDonald is required to provide a vote for Old Age Pensions and to take care of the elderly farmers and fishermen and their wives, and in addition to that has to make up for the extravagance and wastefulness of his predeceassors who ran a riot of wastefulness which turned them from office.

With this addition to The Examiner's editorial, the true facts would be placed before the public.

Yours very truly,

G. N. Gordon.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Rush Point Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. John Pollock on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies spent a busy afternoon sewing. A new quilt was begun and several blocks completed, besides finishing other articles of dressmaking. It is expected that the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ben Newton on May 9th.

Mr. Cyril Medd, who left Rush Point for Toronto recently, has secured a position near that city.

Mr. Petersiel of Hastings was in this vicinity on Tuesday of this week.

TO-MORROW'S APPEAL.

It is to be hoped that in view of the greatness of the need, Peterborough's citizens will make a generous response to the tag day appeal on behalf of the St. Vincent's Orphanage to-morrow.

The institution which, with the Children's Aid Society, the other local agency, takes care of dependent children was among the first to adopt this method of securing public assistance for its activities, and has shown itself by its record of useful service to be entirely worthy of community support.

It supplies a home and the proper guidance and training for many unfortunate little folks, sees them re-established and given a fresh start in life, and produces good citizens from material that if allowed to drift might prove a liability rather than an asset.

That is humanitarian work that should enlist not only the sympathy but the substantial support of the citizens of Peterborough ,and judging from the splendid response to previous appeals, that support will be effectively demonstrated to-morrow.

The need is great; let your donation to St. Vincent's Orphanage be determined accordingly; it is a splendid cause and should be liberally supported.

MR. STRICKLAND'S RETIREMENT.

The announcement made by J. F. Strickland, member of the Legislature for Peterborough City, that he does not propose to contest the convention to select a Government candidate for the now combined city and county ridings, would seem to make it very easy to predict that the Conservative nominee for the constituency will be T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, the energetic member for Peterborough County.

The Examiner does not pretend to speak for Government supporters in this constituency, nor would it even venture to suggest what candidates they should put in the field; we are satisfied merely to say that we will be greatly surprised if the convention that has been called for May 10th does not unanimously select the present county member.

His record of aggressive representation and the work that he has been enabled to get done in this section speak for themselves to the general public, and will certainly have their effect upon the delegates to whom the task of selecting a candidate will devolve.

Mr. Strickland, who has represented the city riding since the last election, has many friends who will be sorry to learn that he is for the time being at least retiring from the political arena, and they will regret the fact that personal reasons have made it necessary for him to take such a step. He has been a regular attendant at Queen's Park, has taken part in House debates effectively upon occasion, and has been a good representative.

WHAT ABOUT THE DETAILS?

The action of restaurant owners in Ontario in taking steps to find out if possible more information in regard to the new wine and beer bill as it will affect their business serves to call attention to the fact that details of how the measure will work out are decidedly lacking.

Mr. Hepburn announced the other day that if his party were to be elected he would put the legislation into force, but up to the present has not explained just what is his conception of the measure.

Certainly the bill itself is beautifully indefinite, and Government statements in regard to it have been equally lacking in detail, so that it is by no means clear what the Henry administration proposes or what Mr. Hepburn has endorsed.

All the public knows as yet is that the wine and beer bill authorizes the sale of beer and wine in beverage rooms in hotels and with meals in hotel dining-rooms and restaurants, while provision is made for sale in veterans' rooms and labor clubs.

Mr. Henry—and Mr. Hepburn as well, in view of the fact that he has adopted the whole Government program—will have to be more frank than that; the public has a right to know how many hotel licenses will be issued, and how many restaurants will get the privilege of sale, how generously the club licenses will be distributed, something definite about the hours of sale, the means of control, and a lot of other important information that is so far lacking.

Up to now the situation is that the Government has introduced a blanket measure of freer wine and beer, and Mr. Hepburn, who cannot know anything more of the details than the general public—and that is very little—says "I'm for that, too."

Both leaders will have to be more explicit if an enlightened expression of public opinion is to be expected.

NOVA SCOTIA'S FINANCES.

In a letter in the Voice of the People to-day Hon. G. N. Gordon takes exception to a recent editorial in which The Examiner pointed out that it was easier to promise economy when out of office than to practice it when in power, and cited the MacDonald Government in Nova Scotia as an example.

Mr. Gordon remarks that if The Examiner had truly stated the facts we would have said that the new Government in Nova Scotia found itself saddled with a burden of debt and deficits because of the extravagance of the previous Conservative administration, and also had to establish an old age pension system.

Suppose such to be the case, how does that affect The Examiner's contention that it is easier to be economical in theory when in Opposition than in practice when given the responsibility of government?

Premier MacDonald fought his whole campaign in Nova Scotia last year on the extravagance of the previous Government; he pictured the financial condition of the province in every speech and promised if elected to put an end to heavy expenditures and to lessen the burden of taxation.

At the same time he pledged his party to establish old age pensions, declaring that he could finance that system by effective savings in other branches of government service.

Undoubtedly he was sincere in his belief in his ability to carry out these pledges, but, just as The Examiner pointed out, he has since found that it is not quite a simple matter to use the pruning knife as he had imagined.

The facts are that instead of lowering taxation the MacDonald Government has been forced to adopt new levies and seek fresh sources of revenue.

Incidentally it has already had to drop one of its new taxes, that on telegrams, having discovered that the Federal Government already collects such a toll.

And again, incidentally, in answer to Mr. Gordon's reference to Mr. Rhodes, we had always thought that it was his successor, Premier Harrington, that the people of Nova Scotia had "kicked out of office." Mr. Rhodes having departed from the provincial stage three years before to accept a portfolio in the Federal Cabinet.

Just to keep the record clear, it should be stated that Mr. Rhodes severed his connection with provincial politics on August 11, 1930, and that the election at which Mr. Gordon says he was "kicked out of office" took place on August 22, 1933, just three years and eleven days later, which we mention merely as an addition to the "true facts" asked for.

TREATMENT OF NEW SETTLERS.

The Rev. Dr. R. B. Cochrane, secretary of the Home Mission Board of the United Church of Canada, in a recent address at London gave Canadians something to think about when he deplored the treatment that had been accorded to new settlers in Canada. "If the non-Anglo-Saxon new Canadians," he said, "turn to communism in their hunger for friendship, and if the agitator finds in them a happy hunting ground and converts them to something we do not like, it is entirely our own fault." This is a strong indictment, but there is nevertheless considerable truth in it. In justifying his statement, he explained: "We paid the railways and steamship companies to bring them here and they have done our dirty work for more than twenty-five years. They have all made their contributions to this country, and I hope I shall never again hear a United Church member speak of them as 'foreigners.' No less than 60 per cent. of the honor students and prize winners in western schools and universities this year are of foreign extraction. The responsibility is upon us to organize a League of Nations within Canada built around the cross of Christ."

This certainly constitutes a challenge not only to the Christian churches of the Dominion, but also to all patriotic societies and kindred organizations that are interested in promoting good citizenship in Canada. There is absolutely no defence for the neglect that has been too widespread to teach the principles of good citizenship to the new settlers who have come to Canada from foreign countries. There should be at least as much energy displayed in making them good Canadians as there was by immigration agents inducing them to migrate from their native lands to take up their homes in Canada. The agencies that are working in behalf of good causes can afford to learn from the zeal manifested by the propagandists of questionable doctrines. The remarks of Dr. Cochrane should be published throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion and seriously pondered.—Brantford Expositor.

Figures presented by the Minister of Finance show that in four years the Government of Canada has spent $130,000,000 for the relief of those suffering distress through unemployment. This by no means represents the country's total expenditure on this account. The provinces must have spent nearly as much, and the municipalities, so that the official outlay for relief—that is, of money raised from the same body of taxpayers no matter through which agency the levy is imposed—will exceed $300,000,000.

Nor does this figure include the large sums spent through private charities, through philanthropic organizations maintained by public subscriptions. It is impossible to secure any complete picture of this phase of relief, but there is no question that in the aggregate the Dominion has spent at least $100,000,000 a year during the past four years on its distressed citizens.

And even this huge sum includes only the extraordinary items. It disregards the cost of old age pensions, of pensions for widows, of maintaining indigent persons in homes and hospitals, of the hundred and one forms of social service operated out of public funds which have seen their costs mount because of widespread unemployment.

Study of these figures, and of their significance, is commended to a reader of the Journal who complains that this newspaper is not sufficiently sympathetic with the plight of persons in distress. He resents the thought that practical considerations of cost and finance should enter into the relief scheme.

In this respect the Journal does not need to defend its course. It has supported consistently, and as constructively as it knows how, the policy of maintaining in decent comfort those temporarily unable to support themselves, has paid its share of the bills. At the same time this newspaper, like all newspapers, has had to consider the good of the general body of citizens, as well as of that section of it receiving relief. It would be dangerously easy to let sympathy dominate, to permit the cost of relief to get out of reasonable bounds, to impose upon the taxpayers such a burden that they would crack under the strain and so create a situation disastrous to the nation and to all classes of its citizens.

For the sake of those receiving relief the cost of it must be kept within the limits of what can be paid by those able to pay taxes In February 1,400,000 persaons throughout Canada were receiving aid in some degree—more than one-seventh of the population. In other words, each group of seven individuals was meeting the cost of maintaining one other person, and this in a time when most people are balancing their personal budgets with more than a little difficulty.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Y.M.C.A. as a community service organization is entitled to the support of citizens who are in a position to help.

Leon Trotzky is one individual who would like to play the role of the forgotten man—but the world refuses to allow him to do so.

The pursuers of John Dillinger have been ordered to shoot first and challenge afterward, which looks like sure death for a few innocent bystanders.

Now that Hon. W. R. Motherwell has expressed approval of the marketing bill old-timers on the Government side of the House will carefully read the measure over again to see what is the matter with it.

CHAPTER 49

The moon was shining full upon Tiggie, and he had a curious sensation as of being some infinitesimal object under a microscope—some special bit of foolishness perhaps that had never been thoroughly examined before. He resented the idea, but he could not dispe it. He was quite sure that he was being examined. His first impulse was to curl himself up with his back to the light like a spoilt child refusing to be exploited for the amusement of its elders; but in a moment or two better feelings prevailed. He made a conscious effort to recall his wandering ego.

It was then that a sound reached him which he was dimly aware had been audible before, though it had in some fashion failed to pierce his comprehension. He comprehended it now with an odd aloofness as though it came from another world.

Someone was shouting at him, calling him by name—"Tiggie—Tiggie—you born fool! Wake up. I'm coming!"

Fool again! That epithet wearied him, yet it also had a homely sound drawing him in spite of himself. The overpowering lethargy began to lift, and he shivered again.

But his eyes were open now, and he looked about him. He was crouched in a pool of water in a slight indentation of the rock. Above him the cliff rose sheer to a height of 200 feet. It seemed to menace him as he stared upwards and he shut his eyes to conquer a sudden giddiness.

When he opened them again he saw a thing which made him think that he was dreaming. An enormous spider, the size of a man was traveling down the face of the cliff, apparently spinning an endless web as it came. He watched it, fascinated. Down and down it traveled, scratching ou a certain amount of loose rocks in its progress. Now it was almost on a level with him, jerking all its limbs in a way which seemed to him ludicrous. It was not a dignified method of getting anywhere, but perhaps under existing conditions the only one.

And now it reached the actual rock on which he sat, and began scrambling with ungainly movements, still like an immense spider, towards him. Tiggi 's brain reeled again. This was a dream of course—of the most extravagant order.

A wave thumped against his refuge, and there ollowed the usual cloud of spray. "Damnation!" shouted a voice close to him. "We shall be swamped in a minute."

He roused himself afresh and saw Harvey, grotesquely clad in shining oilskins, stooping over him.

"Oh, don't mind me!" he managed to say, "I'm nearly done in."

Harvey swore a great oath and dived into some intricacy of his equipment. "You're not!" he declared with an emphasis that Tiggie could not eel the occasion demanded. "Drink this, you poor drowned rat, and come off it!"

He pushed something hard and round against Tiggie's mouth, and to his own mild surprise, Tiggie found himself drinking. It was a strong mixture of rum and water, and it sent warmth into his chilled veins even as he swallowed it.

Harvey stood over him with legs well apar as though he expected to receive some shock to his balance at any moment.

"Holy Moses!" he said. "The dance you've led us!"

Tiggie stared at him hazily, smacking his lips. "How'd you ge here?" he inquired somewhat uncertainly.

"At the end of a rope, my son—the way you're going back," said Harvey. "Finish that! It wouldn't hurt a fly. And let's get out before we have another of those damn shower baths!"

Tiggie obeyed with docility while Harvey made some adjustment of the spider's web to which he was attached.

"Come along!" he said then. "You get into this! No, you silly ass, that gadget's meant for your legs. See? There, that's better. You can protect yourself with your hands as you go up. What? Yes—yes, I shall follow, you bet. They'll pull you up first, then me."

"But—I say . . ." objected Tiggie. He had been hauled to his feet by the energetic Harvey, and he stood swaying as though his legs were mere props and unreliable at that. "What's it all for? I'd just as soon stay here. There's no one to care."

"No one to care?' Oh, you sublime idiot!" said Harvey. "And she breaking her heart for you over there! D'you suppose I'd have taken this trouble if she wasn't?"

This was a question which Tigie found himself quite unable to answer. He felt that in some way Harvey had the advantage over him, and that all that was left for him to do was to submit to being pushed into place and generally stage-managed by his officious friend.

He abandoned further argument therefore and accepted the role of subordinate without further inquiry. His lengthy sojourn on that wave-swept rock had not improved the state of his wits, and after all once a fool, always a fool. He determined then and there that it would be waste of time ever to attempt to be anything else.

During his transit from the bottom of the cliff to the top, however, his reasoning powers began to return to him, and he decided that it was a mode of travel that held no appeal whatever for him. That Harvey should have undertaken the double journey for his sake was an amazing circumstance that marked him as a being apart. As he viewed at length the anxious faces of Joe Penny and his son and two others, who had accompanied them on their errand of mercy, he realized that it had been a task of considerable difficulty and danger, and it was with unspeakable relief that he saw Harvey also at length hauled to safety. It was only then that the fact of his own deliverance actually dawned upon him, and he remembered with a shiver how near he had been to rolling over into the deep water below his prison rock.

But Harvey gave him no time for these reflections. He himself had had more than enough of the adventure and his main idea was to bring it to a close as quickly as possible. Before Tiggie had time to make any acknowledgments, he found himself seized by the arm and started off at a jog-trot over the downs for Farne.

It was perhaps the best treatment that he could have devised, and one which restored Tiggie to himself more quickly than any less drastic remedy. Before they had covered half the distance, he had fully recovered his normal state of mind and declared that a hot bath and a meal were all he needed to put him right.

Harvey agreed, but grimly added, "And after that, you'll have to go round and see her, for there'll be no peace till you do."

"What on earth do you mean?" said Tiggie, on whom his former allusion had been somewhat wasted.

Harvey laughed sardonically. "She'll tell you what I mean all right," he said. "She's been in a perfect fever about you all the evening. You very nearly spoilt my picture—not quite. If the rain keeps off tomorrow, I'll finish it—with luck."

"It won't," said Tiggie. "There's a mist round the moon."

"Oh, damn the moon!" said Harvey. "If I'm held up again, I'll murder everybody."

Tiggie's laugh sounded almost boyish. "Well, you're one up on me anyhow, so I suppose I can't complain if you do."

"Oh, you!" said Harvey. "No, I shan't murder you if I can help it. I should have to face Janet afterwards."

"Ah!" said Tiggie in a tone of enlightenment. "It's for Janet's sake you've taken all this trouble tonight, is it?"

"No, it isn't," said Harvey curtly. "It's for Viola's if you want to know." He added with a curious vehemence as though he spoke against his saner impulse, "I'll do anything on earth for anyone I'm in love with."

"Well, you are a quee old fish!" said Tiggie, baffled.

It was half an hour later that a new Tiggie, fed and washed and eager, ran up the cliff path to the cottage with the quick step of a boy.

There was a light in the little front sitting room, and as he entered Helen came to meet him, carrying a candle. "I've persuaded her to go to bed," she said, "but she won't sleep till she's seen you. Are you all right?"

"Oh, rather—quite!" said Tiggie. "I got cut off by the tide, that's all."

"All!" said Helen reproachfully. "Well, for goodness' sake go up and report yourself or we shall have her ill again! Spot didn't get back. He wired."

"Don't you worry!" said Tiggie, "I'll go and see her."

He forgot to take the candle from her, and went up the dark narrow stairs as though his feet had wings.

The door at the top was ajar, and a low voice called to him: "Tiggie! Oh, Tiggie! At last!"

He went in. The bed was by the window, and she was lying in the moonlight. But her face was turned towards him and as he entered he saw her arms outstretched.

"My dear!" he said, "I'm safe home again. Were you worried about me? I never thought——"

"Worried!" she said. And then he had reached her side and words became suddenly superfluous—hopelessly inadequate.

He went down on his knees beside her and into the outstretched arms.

"My darling!" she said, and gave one sob and spoke no more at all.

And Tiggie? Tiggie said nothing either in those great moments. He only pressed his lips to hers closely, closely, and then laid his head down upon her breast.

For it is only with the arms of the woman he loves about him that a man ever truly knows the meaning of the word home. And in those sacred moments, with her heart throbbingunder his temple, Tiggie knew it for the first time in his life.

DIFFICULTIES

To this day I thank difficulties. They were more numerous than the nice, happy incidents. But the latter gave me nothing. The difficulties of life have hardened my spirit. They have taught me how to live.—Mussolini.

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Fed up on Continental gallantry with its attendant hand kissing, a group of chorines returned to-day after playing a season at Monte Carlo.

"The European men have a few good points, however," admitted Miss Evelyn Joslyn, one of the principals of the troupe.

THE UNITED STATES

A Letter From Fresno, Calif.

This is the story of a little Mexican girl of fifteen years. The material from which the story is built came to my desk from the pen of John L. Spivak of Fresno, California. The name of the little girl cannot be given because her story appearing in print would surely lose her a job. She is working in a cotton field at Mendota, California. Mendota is about thirty miles from Fresno. Near Mendota is the conspicuous sign, "Land of Milk and Honey." A cluster of houses come into view. There stands the big sign, "Hotchkiss Ranch, Cotton Pickers Wanted."

Near by is a comfortable farm house, with its barns and cotton shelters. Farther along and on the road side there are fifteen outhouses. These bits of buildings, that look like good-sized outhouses, are the homes of the workers. A short distance away there are two real outhouses. The occupants of the fifteen company homes use them. Swarms of flies are about them continually. The stench is worse than the flies. This scene is typical of a migratory workers camp. It is embodied desolation. The bits of homes are without the semblance of color relief. They are built of rough boards just as they come from the mill. The boards are not even tongued and grooved.

The little girl of whom we purpose to write lives in one of these tiny huts. In large letters is the sign: Scarlet Fever. The sign is there but no medical attention—at least very little, is given. The company and the authorities are indifferent. Not a word was said about the necessity of carefulness. If the word should reach the public that Scarlet Fever had broken out in the camp the whole camp would be quarantined. The huts are built so close to one another nobody could escape exposure. Anyway what does the life of a Mexican girl amount to anyhow?

These lines are only the beginning of the story.

THE WORLD OVER

Predatory Wealth Everywhere Ruinous.

Wealth, or in another term, Capital is essential to industrial expansion, and profit. Without profit industry would be short lived. Profit is the life of business: It is the sharing of profit that is seriously questioned. Profit for the few will ruin the capitalistic system. In this article we have in mind honestly acquired profit. Profit may be strictly honest—legally honest, and yet morally unjust.

The industrial worker has had to battle for a reasonable wage. He has been underpaid. This underpayment has heaped immense profits for predatory capital. The underpaid industrial worker, think of it, has profited by an impoverishment of the farmer, and truck gardener, such as he himself has not experienced.

This is the rub. The city was getting his farm commodities at a lower price than the farmer was paying for his factory-made goods. If low wages impoverished the industrialist, factory-made goods impoverished the farmer more. The purchasing power of neither the industrial worker nor the farmer can be allowed to dwindle without disastrous consequences to the whole economic system. The purchasing power of the worker whether on the farm or in the factory must be more than just a living to recover and maintain a reasonable prosperity.

During the era of internal geographical expansion in Canada and in the United States the constant movement of the frontier westward and the increase of population, largely from immigration, built up new and great markets for all industrial products. Land was easily acquired. The population was aggregated almost fabulously. Work was more than the workers. The markets were at hand. Everybody could have plenty. At present the market is surfeited. Barriers stand in the way of the world markets. Farms are mortgaged. Credit has been impaired. Capital is storm tossed. Who can speak the word?

A WORLD SYSTEM

A New Form Of World Exploitation.

Take a look at the nations. In every country the Capitalist is on the job. Ours is the day of mass production. Mass production necessitates mass consumption. Neither of these processes can go far alone. They must be favored by mass purchasing power. Exploitation is not the easy affair of a decade ago. Have you noted the persistent urgency of the radio broadcasters? If everything recommended had the quality the public are assured it has the efforts to sell would not be so sharply criticized.

Mass selling is the slogan of the manufacturers. Predatory wealth has discovered that radios and automobiles and refrigerators and furniture and houses and patent-medicines or shelves of books just must be sold. Perhaps seldom if ever has the selling technique been so highly perfected. Men and women are trained to do the act. At the door of our apartment the other day stood a man with a basket filled with soap. He was told that the home was well supplied with that article. This agent then made the statement that if the housewife would buy some her purchase would help keep out of Canada $80,000 worth of United States soap. The housewife did not buy. The soap agent went off red mad. That agent reflected the mass selling urgency of capital. Sales must be made to glean profits.

The scramble of the nations to depreciate currency in order that more of their goods be sold abroad amazes. By this method it is hoped to force upon unwilling foreign peoples vast amounts of commodities and manufactured goods, which if these people tried to take from us, we should fight, with all our national valor to defend and retain.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

CALGARY, ALBERTA

Contrary to general opinion the origin of Calgary, one of the two great cities of Alberta, is not traceable to the Indian language, although the site of this city in the early days was the converging point for various Indian tribes.

Calgary is a Gaelic word and means "clear running water." It was not an original word as applied to this city of the plains, but was brought out from Scotland by Col. MacLeod, the famous old mounted policeman. Calgary was the name of Col. MacLeod's old home in the Isle of Mull, Scotland.

Col. MacLeod was in charge of the mounted police post at this point, back in 1876. The mounted police headquarters was situated at the junction of the Bow and the Elbow rivers, both streams of very clear water. The clarity of the water induced Col. MacLeod to name the place after his old home back in Scotland.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

AN INSTANT

Everybody says that time flies. And so it does. But in one minute or even less than 60 seconds the entire course of your life may change.

You may meet a friend, may meet an enemy, may meet the one you will love till the last breath of life is drawn. In a minute anything may happen....You may, in a minute, review the movement, drama, comedy or tragedy of all your years. You may decide to die, may decide to live.

You may make a minute the meanest, harshest, most dreadful, most bitter experience you have ever known....Or you may, such is the alchemy of the stream of time in which we live, make any minute the most joyous, most magical, most glamorous, most memorable of all instants that have ever come to you.

At each second of life, we stand on a peak that stretches away in every direction....We stand there and look back to agony or to beauty, to childhood, youth and manhood or womanhood. The years just behind us slope gradually to our feet. The years ahead drift downward before us if our hearts are pessimistic this day; they rise grandly, challengingly, if we dream of mightier endeavor.

But there we stand on this small peak, in this slight interval of time, and waste the opportunity that is given to us or make fair use of it. ....Years from now you may look back and say of one instant in your life, "At that moment I was wise." Or at another instant that you were brave, or cowardly, or negligent, or dull, or cruel, or kind, or stupid. ....And out of all the moments of actions or decisions you make up the self that is you. You do not know, you can never know, whether this self that is you was born as it is today and you have spent all whether it was born waiting and you have spent the years in creation of your own self that stands on this small peak of time today... But you must know that if a life is important, then so is every year and every day and every hour and every little minute of the day—and even the most unregarded minute may be a seed from which a towering future will spring and reach the heavens.

GET $3,000 CASH BREMER RANSOM ON CHICAGOAN

Ex-Convict is Arrested in Gambling Den and Held Incommunicado.

$200,000 PAID.

Police Confident Capture Will Lead to Nabbing of Others.

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Arrest of a suspect carrying $3,000 of the $200,000 paid for the release of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker and brewer, from kidnappers several months ago was disclosed here today.

The suspect, William E. Vidler, 34, a reputed ex-convict, was arrested yesterday in a Chicago gambling establishment and has been held incommunicado.

After others in his office had denied reports of the arrest for several hours, Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the United States Division of Investigation here, acknowledged that Vidler was in custody and the money recovered.

The money found in Vidlers' pockets, Purvis disclosed included $2,665 in $5 and $10 bills identified as part of the ransom money.

Lead to Others

Federal authorities said they hoped Vidler's arrest would help to bring about apprehension of other suspects in the kidnapping and perhaps aid in recovery of additional ransom payment.

Purvis said he had information that Vidler had been in communication with John Dillinger and members of his gang, who left behind them some of the Bremer ransom money when they fled from a Northern Wisconsin resort several days ago.

The Bureau of Investigation Chief also said he was seeking another man said to have more of the ransom money in Chicago.

An informant also disclosed today Federal men who tried to trap John Dillinger and his gang at the Wisconsin resort Sunday night, did not find any Bremer ransom money there, as previously reported.

None of the $200,000 paid for Bremers' release Feb. 7, after he had been held captive 22 days, had been recovered until the arrest of the man in Chicago Thursday.

STRONGER TONE IN OIL LEADERS

Advance Supported Mainly by Dividend Action for Imperial and International Pete.

CLOSING TREND FIRM.

TORONTO, April 27.— (C.P.) — Brewing Corporation Preferred stood out again to-day for price advance in the industrial section of the Toronto stock exchange, while definite strength appeared in the oil leaders, supported mainly by the dividend action for Imperial and International Petroleum. The general tone was firm at the close.

Brewing Corporation Preferred climbed to 30¾ and closed at 10½ for a net gain of 2¼. The common issue added ½, closing at 10⅝. Brewers and Distillers sagged 10 to 1.70 but the leaders finished the day mainly unchanged. Walkers Common standing at 41, Alcohol adding ¼ and Distillers at 19⅛.

Interlisted shares moved up well in the last hour, Nickel again hitting $29 and closing 60 cents up at 28.90. Brazilian and C.P.R. had small net gains and Ford 'A' closed unchanged at 23.

Jap Says Foreign Attitude 'Demagogic'

NAGASAKI, Japan, April 27.—(C.P., via Havas).—Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese Minister to China, arrived here to-day and labelled foreign powers' objections to the arms clause in the Japanese Foreign Office spokesman's "hands off China" speech as "demagogic."

He added: "Although the principles enunciated in Eijiamau's declaration of April 17 caused a sensation in certain countries, the governments of those countries will nevertheless come to see Japan's viewpoint. China's friendship for us was strengthened by it.

"For the problems of North China are really local problems, left in suspense, since the Tangku armistice," he said. "Now they can be dealt with."

The Minister added that the increase was in the number of passengers using Japanese steamships showed that anti-Japanese boycotting was on the wane.

W. R. Dyess, State farm director, ordered an investigation of conditions in several communities where the loss has been the greatest, after farmers of the Cypress Bayou area north of Little Rock asked the County Red Cross to intercede for them.

A survey of the area by State veterinarians yesterday showed 30 horses and mules dead from the insect attacks, and 20 more near death. Farmers of the area declared their losses of animals will run into the hundreds.

SINGAPORE BASE IS MENACE TO JAPAN

Japanese Likely to Demand Base Be Abandoned or Reduced.

LONDON, April 27 (C.P., via Havas).—Development of the British naval base at Singapore is a menace to Japan and an obstacle to world peace, according to the Liberal Right Wing paper Hochi, as quoted in the Manchester Guardian to-day.

In an article given over to comment on the Oriental attitude toward British naval strategy in the Far East, the Guardian further quotes the Minseito organ as saying that when the naval conference convenes in Washington in 1935 the Japanese will demand that the Singapore base be either abandoned or considerably reduced in importance.

Ignoring the fact that Britain has not only the Antipodes and considerable other territory to guard in the Far East, but also has a bigger financial stake in the Orient than any other power, the Hochi lists the following Japanese arguments against the base:

Singapore's geographical position is such that establishment of a powerful naval base there constitutes a menace to both Japan and the United States.

The development of the base would cause it to acquire greater strategic importance than the American naval base at Pearl Harbor, in the Hawaiian Islands. The balance of power in the Pacific would thus be destroyed.

The existence of a British naval base but five degrees west of the 110-degree meridian—the borderline of Pacific defence zones—is in contravention of the spirit of the Washington treaty.

The Hong Kong naval base is sufficient to protect British trade routes in the Far East.

Should the British refuse to accede to the Japanese request that Singapore be weakened as a naval base, the Guardian continues, still quoting the Minseito organ, the Japanese will demand revision of existing naval treaties which establish the ratio at 5-5-3 for Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

GASOLINE FUMES START FIRE IN SERVICE STATION

INGERSOLL, Ont., April 27. — (C.P.).—Fire of unusual origin and nature did damage roughly estimated at from $2,000 to $3,000 to the Odell and Allen Garage, Ingersoll, to-day.

A large gasoline truck was unloading gasoline to the tanks in front of the building when the office door was opened and the fumes entered the building where they were ignited by an open gas fireplace burning in the office.

Astreak of fire ran through a large portion of the building with lightning-like rapidity, setting the office portion afire. Tires, office fixtures and other items of stock were caught in the swirl of flames and seriously damaged, while the building itself was also seriously burnt.

Toronto Livestock Review

TORONTO, April 27. (CP). — Lambs and hogs for a second week held the spotlight on the Toronto Livestock Market while butcher cattle showed a loss and veal calves were unchanged. Lambs led the advance with a jump of 50 cents followed by hogs with a gain of 25 cents while butcher cattle recorded a loss of 10 to 15 cents at the end of the week.

Cattle and lamb receipts were lighter while calves and hogs showed an increase in volume compared with the previous week. Export buying was light and is expected to continue so for the next two weeks. The slaughter cattle run was all that the packers could absorb and heavier supplies would have brought lower prices.

The cattle market was draggy at the opening with a holdover of 1,000 head from Monday. Lighter runs for the balance of the week, however, allowed a good clean-up at the close. Prices on butcher cattle slipped at the opening while other grades held about steady with last week's close.

Weighty steers sold at $4.75 to $6.25 with a few tops making $6.35. Good and choice butchers sold at $4.75 to $5.25 with a few tops at $5.50. Common butchers sold mostly at $4 to $4.25.

Butcher cows were firm through the week at $3.75 to $4.25 for choice with canners downward to $1.25. Good butcher bulls brought $3.50 with a few tops making $3.75. Bologna bulls went at $2.75 to $3.

Fed calves of medium to good quality sold at $5 to $6.25 and a few choice brought $6.50 to $7. Several loads of western yearlings were included in the supply.

Stockers were active on Monday at a range of $3.75 to $4.50 but the demand fell off thereafter. Milkers and springers continued dull at $40 to $45 for tops.

Calves were unchanged in value on a heavier run of 2,900 head or 800 more than for last week. Common to medium vealers predominated in the supply, selling mostly at $4 to $6. A few choice calves sold at $6.50 to $7 with an occasional kosher at $7.50.

Hogs receipts of 5,500 were also heavier. The market gained 25c on Monday and held steady for the balance of the week. Bacons sold at $7.75 f.o.b., $8.10 off trucks and at $8.50 weighed off cars. Selects brought the usual $1 per head premium. Packers were talking lower prices for week-end deliveries.

Sheep and lambs receipts of 2,400 head were made up chiefly of feed-lot lambs from Western Canada. Prices were 50c higher at $9 for the bulk with a few culls and mediums selling at $6 to $8.50. Good spring lambs, weighing around 60 pounds, brought $7 to $9.50 each while a large number were sold between $3 and $5.50. Sheep were firm at $3.50 to $4 for the best with other grades downward to $1.

BACON EXPORT STRONG SPOT CANADA LIVESTOCK MARKET

Exports By Foreign Countries to Great Britain During 1933 Reduced Through Quotas to Approximately 76 Per Cent of 1932 Volume.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.). — The bright spot in Canada's live stock industry during 1933 was pigs, which showed an unusually strong price position under the influence of a rising British market, according to the annual market review for 1933 prepared by the Markets Division of the Dominion Live Stock Branch. The review is issued by authority of Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture.

Exports of bacon by foreign countries to Great Britain during 1933 were reduced through quotas to approximately 76 per cent. of the 1932 volume. Canada has, under the terms of the Ottawa agreements, an outlet on that market for 280,000,000 pounds, of which about 25 per cent. was taken up in 1933. Canada's trend is towards an increased production, as against decreases elsewhere, particularly in Europe and the United States, says the review.

While the cattle situation was far from satisfactory in 1933, at the close of the year there was evidence of a definite improvement and a promise of a reliable outlet for all good grades or grain-fed cattle. The world cattle supplies continued an upward trend despite low prices, restricted markets and indications of further restrictions by importing countries. Present beef production is heavier than a year ago, and importing countries tend to a further protection of their domestic producers. British countries will continue to enjoy an advantage in the British market, in spite of the temporary limitation on cattle movements from Canada and the Irish Free State, says the review.

Lambs Steady.

Lambs were probably the steadiest live stock commodity on the market in 1933, resulting in the sheep industry having a pretty fair year. The improvement in lamb prices was associated with a marked upturn in wool prices and consumption late in 1933.

The store cattle moved back to country points during the year amounted to approximately 91,000 head, compared with 118,000 in 1932, 130,000 in 1931, 121,000 in 1930, and 115,000 in 1929. The decrease in demand for store cattle at public stockyards was common to all provinces with the exception of Alberta.

The outlook for 1934 is better, due to an already visible improvement in prices for good beef cattle since the beginning of 1934. Prices are steady on best qualities with 6 cents easily secured on Eastern markets. This is much better than a year ago, says the review.

Increased exports of live stock to Great Britain were due to the relative sales value of cattle in Canada and the United Kingdom, to the increased facilities afforded by the Ottawa agreement, and a favorable exchange situation. Shipments in 1933 totalled 50,317 head, compared with 16,568 in 1932. The value of the exports last year was $3,198,194, or $2,000,000 more than in 1932. A similar export this year would serve to strengthen the domestic market. United States markets were low during 1933, resulting in a decline in exports to that country to the low figure of 5,686 head.

Favorable lambing seasons in the world's major mutton and wool producing countries promise an increase in output for 1934.

COMMONS GROUP APPROVES BILL

Acheson, Harold Code and A. C. Boyce, Ottawa. The capital stock of the company will be 50,000 shares, having a par value of $10 each.

The new bridges would link No. 2 highway in Ontario, near Gananoque, with a partly paved road leading across the islands. Over the "Rift" a very short international bridge would be required, and then from Wellesley Island to the United States shore a purely United States bridge would be constructed.

50 P.C. Canadian Material.

The bill approved by the committee contains a clause to the effect employment of labor in the construction, maintenance and supervision of the Canadian and international bridges must be subject to the terms and conditions of the Dominion Fair Wages and Eight-Hour-Day Act. Canadian materials and labor to the extent of at least 50 per cent. must also be used in the construction of the international bridge. The company will be required to report weekly to the Department of Labor the names and addresses of firms supplying material for the construction of the bridges.

The Act calls for the construction of the bridges to start within two years, and for completion within three years. However, should approval of the project not be forthcoming from the respective governments within two years after the Act is passed, the powers granted will be nullified.

There was little discussion on the bill. The measure had been before the Ontario Legislature for approval before being brought to Ottawa, but was held up when the Province entered certain objections to several clauses. The objections were removed with the substitution of amendments for the offending paragraphs, and in less than half an hour the committee had decided to report the bill to the House of Commons for further action.

Budget to Home Island

KINGSTON, Ont., April 27. (CP). Preliminary steps are being taken for the establishment of a bridge between the mainland and Howe Island, it was learned here to-day.

This is taken as possibly the first step towards the construction of an international bridge.

H. M. Lamont, bridge engineer of the Department of Highways, in company with M. E. Crough, Howe Island township engineer, have been looking over the ground and it was learned that actual work will start shortly, erecting a bridge from the mainland to a small island near Nokomis Lodge on Howe Island, a distance of 424 feet. It is proposed to fill in the remaining distance to Howe Island, a stretch of about 126 feet of shallow water.

It is understood that the estimated cost of the proposed scheme will be about $139,000. Howe Island council recently passed a by-law granting a sum of $10,000 toward the project.

PERPETUATION OF SIGNS SPIRITUAL

So Says Rev. George A. Chambers of Full Gospel Pentecostal Church

So says Rev. Geo. A. Chambers of the full Gospel Pentecostal Church.

In a sermon last Sunday night in reply to a statement made by Dr. Roll last Wednesday night and repeated on Friday night, viz., that "Perpetuation of signs were foolish and unscriptural, though they had been given to the early church," Rev. Chambers showed from scripture, to a full house, that it was right to expect scriptural signs to be perpetuated.

Mr. Chambers said that when the church does away with or loses the supernatural workings of the Holy Spirit it remains nothing better than a social club and has no more to offer the people than Mohammedanism, or Buddism, or any other heathen religion. It becomes powerless, spineless and lifeless.

Mark 16: 15-18 was used as a basis of the evenings talk. Jesus here referred to a variety of signs, among which He mentioned New Tongues, he declared these signs would "Follow," not cease, and said they would follow not only the apostles or disciples but, "They that believe." Therefore since all Christians are in the scripture termed believers they must be included here. Jesus here also said the healing of the sick would be part of the work of the church, and in the corresponding account in Matthew He declared to be with the believers in power to the end of the world or the end of the age. The disciples of that day did not see the end of the age, therefore the signs and supernatural power of the Lord must be perpetuated till the end.

We are still in the church age, said the pastor, and the plan God gave for the early church was never revoked and is still unchanged. There is no scripture showing the contrary, if so, chapter and verse please. I know the scripture that is used to declare that the sign of tongues have ceased, it is I Cor. 13: 8. "Whether there be prophecies they shall fail, whether there be tongues they shall cease,' and here the reading is brought to a full stop, but continue to read the entire verse, "whether there be knowledge it shall vanish away." I want to ask, has knowledge vanished away? No of course not; then neither has tongues ceased. Jesus said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away," but has it passed away? No, but the same word shall is used in both cases.

In I Cor. 12:28 we are told that "God hath set some in the church ....Diversity of tongues." The word set has the meaning of permanency, just as the jeweler places or sets a diamond in a ring, he intends the stone to remain there as long as the ring lasts and the stone is the value of the ring. So when God set these signs and gifts in the church He intended them to remain in the church.

We do not claim that the speaking in other tongues is a continued proof of the indwelling of the Holy Spirit as we are charged with, but that according to scripture is the initial sign of the baptism of the Holy Spirit and our ground for such is the fact that in every case in the Book of Acts where it speaks of the baptism of the spirit and this the only book that records the receiving of such experience, the sign of tongues was in evidence. Acts 2:4 says "They were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance." Then Peter in answer to the question of Acts 2:37, "Men and Brethren what shall we do?" said, "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the Gift of the Holy Ghost for the promise is unto you, (Jews) and to your children, (Jews) and to all that are afar off, (Gentiles) even as many as the Lord our God shall call."

Now who are the "As many as the Lord our God shall call?" Is not God still calling men and women to-day; therefore the same gift and sign are for those whom God calls.

Again in Acts, 10: 44-46, The Holy Ghost was poured out upon the Gentiles and those who were with Peter said "On the Gentiles is poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost, for we heard them speak in other tongues."

Acts 19:6, "Then Paul laid his hands on them and they received the Holy Ghost and spake in tongues." This occurred some twenty-eight years after Pentecost, and why may it not occur in the twentieth century.

Mr. Chambers continued his sermon by saying that the only place tongues are not definitely mentioned at the reception of the Holy Ghost was at Samaria, Acts 8: 17-18, and here though not definitely mentioned, the speaking in tongues is implied. Simon saw something of a spectacular nature that caused him to offer money for the power to bestow it on others, he surely saw some one particular evidence and not a variety of what might be termed evidences.

When Paul was instructing the Corinthians regarding the use of the gifts of the Spirit he said, I Cor. 14:39, "And forbid not to speak with tongues." Paul was by no means refering to any language he had learned when refering to himself in I Cor. 14, as the entire chapter also the 13th and 12th chapters deal exclusively on the Gifts of the Spirit, not on natural attainments. He calls it, "An unknown tongue." Ch., 14:19. Why call Hebrew, Greek and Latin unknown? He also said they must be interpreted, and in order to interpret they must pray for it. Does that sound like an educated man making use of a language he had learned and fully understood. 2nd verse of Ch. 14 says, "He that speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God; for no man understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries."

Paul again said in I Cor. 2: 1, 4, 5, "I came not to you with excellency of speech or of wisdom declaring unto you the testimony of God....and my speech and my preaching was not with enticing word of man's wisdom ,but in demonstration of the spirit and of power; that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of man but in the power of God....the wisdom of God in a mystery." Does this sound like denouncing the supernatural manifestation of God giving preference to education, as good as it may be? No. No.

Referring again to the perpetuation of signs. The breaking of bread at communion service is a sign, a sign of the death, of our Lord, a sign of remembrance to Him. Water baptism is also a sign of our identification with our Lord's death, burial and resurrection. Sunday is a sign of resurrection, many other signs may be spoken of, but why condone all but one and discard Tongues. What is the reason? Is it of such a damning nature that the church must to say the least consign it to heresey, or the pit?

I maintain said Mr. Chambers, that if the church had not become lukewarm as John Wesley said, and retained the various operations of the Spirit she would have no need to resort to such wordly methods as operettas, masquerades, card parties, etc., to assist in its upkeep, but would have in her congregations those with the gift of giving, all would be giving of their tenth as well as free will offerings.

If the Holy Spirit was dwelling in the professed followers of the Lord the tobacco shops would be out of business, instead of them being supporters of them. I am amazed to see not only girls and women smoking but I have seen preachers walk the streets smoking. I maintain that a girl has as much right to smoke as a man, soon we will be watching them drink the beer and wines in our restaurants and eating places but I want to say there is not one man or woman in my church that uses tobacco of any sort and if there were they would be ex-communicated. I stand ready with three hundred followers or more to refuse to patronize any place that will put the beer or wines back for sale.

In closing God has warned us not to be ignorant of the gifts of the Spirit but to desire them that the church might receive edifying, but how strange it is that the things of which we are most ignorant and some are willingly ignorant. Many dear good Christian people in this city and community are tired of forms and profession and are hungry for the full gospel.

Mr. Chambers said he felt it was due the people of Peterborough that he should take up this matter and declare his stand. He had not come out so strong since the inception of the work of the Full Gospel Church here but felt that truth cou'd not be withheld.

REWARD FOR REASON

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—For the best 100 word essay by a public or separate school pupil of this county's 1600 square miles, I will give a suitable present if delivered to The Examiner before June 1st and if upon the following subject: It was stated by Mr. King in 1930 that Canada's retrocession up to that date was due to world conditions. It is now stated by Mr. Bennett that Canada cannot go forward again until other nations go forward and again buy produce. The other nations of course say the same thing, each one says that until the other rises it cannot rise. Logically therefore it would appear that no nation can rise and that we are all doomed. Th equestion I want answered in the essays are: "If these statements of the various parties cited are true and sensible what is going to become of the world and of Canada? Are these excuses indicative of a sound and sensible people or of a silly gullible lot?"

SPEAKING WITH TONGUES

36 Glenhurst Ave.,
Toronto, Apr. 25.

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—With every rediscovery of any great truth in Christian teaching, there are sure to be attendant dangers. The mission and ministry of the Spirit of God were brought into greater prominence by some Anglican ministers fifty-four years ago, and since then many unwarrantible teachings and practices have been attributed to His work.

Exception has been taken by Mr. Harvey to a reference I made concerning the baptism of the Spirit and speaking with tongues, in an address given at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The objector himself states "We do maintain that you cannot have the baptism of the Holy Spirit without the speaking in tongues, as this is the initial evidence of having received the fulness of the Spirit. He gives utterance in tongues as a sign of this indwelling presence."

In answer to this I would like to state that Christ was born of the Spirit, led by the Spirit, filled with the Spirit, baptized with the Spirit, empowered by the Spirit, preached in the Spirit, and offered through the Spirit, but He did not speak with tongues as an initial evidence. He has left us an example that we should follow His steps, I Pet. 2, 21. Likewise John the Baptist, the Spirit born and filled herald, manifested no such evidence. Nor does Paul give it as one of the evidences of a Spirit filled life, Eph. 5: 16-19.

The gift of tongues was an initial gift in the apostles days for a sign to confirm, that a heavenly invisible administration was at work on earth, in fulfilment of Christ's promise.

Our Lord on one occasion said to a needy soul, "Thy sins are forgiven thee." The Parasees objected by saying "none can forgive sins, but God only." Their argument implied also that inasmuch as forgiveness was an invisible transaction, there was no evidence or guarantee that Christ had done what He claimed.

Very well said the Lord, in order that you may know the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, I'll demonstrate it by a visible proof, "Rise take up thy bed and walk."

Christ hereby confirmed by an outward visible sign that He had actually wrought the invisible thing.

Likewise the ministry of the apostles was similarly verified in the sight of men.

The apostles had five distinctive privileges for exercise in establishing the early church, which were not perpetuated beyond the apostolic ministry.

I will merely mention two of these for sake of brevity. The raising of the dead, and the imparting of spiritual gifts by the laying on of hands. If the latter is still operant as some claim, what about the former?

This fivefold sanction to the apostles did not of course include baptising in the Holy Spirit, for the Holy Spirit is not subject to human hands. He is Sovereign in His activity and acts in conjunction with Christ, John 1:33.

The baptism of the Spirit referred to by John, took place at Pentecost, and when St. Paul is writing on the subject later he says, "For by one Spirit are we all baptised into one body whether we be Jews or Gentiles....and have been all made to drink into one Spirit." I Cor. 12:13.

Earlier in his message he had referred to a similar typical experience in connection with Israel. This people was baptised unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea and all drank the same spiritual drink. I Cor. 10.

The event had formed the people into a nation and although they continued to drink of the spiritual rock, they were never again baptised into national status. Likewise the Holy nation I Peter 2:9, was formed by baptising Jew and Gentile into one body, once this was done the body could not again be reformed.

By way of illustration, a certain Canadian regiment was formed by special ceremony one hundred years ago, to-day there is not a single original member in the company, but the regiment still remains.

The forming does not have to take place each time new units enter the ranks, although everyone entering the lines, becomes a partaker of the benefits and privileges of the regiment.

Christ is not recrucified every time a sinner seeks salvation, nor is the body of Christ reformed by the baptism of the Spirit each time a company of believeing souls is added to the church.

If Mr. Harvey can produce an instance from scripture where any individual is spoken of as having received the baptism of the Spirit after the Pentecostal effusion, I shall be indebted to him. The filling of the Spirit is totally different and may be repeated.

Mr. Harvey further quotes I Cor. 14:39 to defend his teaching "Forbid not to speak with tongues."

Having met with this defence on five continents, I did not pass it lightly by, but made unbiased investigation of its claims. I found as a conservative estimate that 85 per cent of those who claimed to have received the gift, and were exercising same in the church gatherings, were women, and this very chapter I Cor. 14 declares, "Let your women keep silence in the churches; for it is not permitted unto them to speak. Verse 34. Therefore I still maintain that the methods practiced are unscriptural, for the Spirit of God does not act contrary to the Word.

The quoting of Mark 16:17, "These signs shall follow in them that believe" only confirms the point I have stressed, that the signs were realized and served their purpose. If not let Mr. Harvey drink the deadly poison and show us that he sustains no harm. The dislocation of nations brought about by the confounding of tongues is the greatest cause of cleavage in the world.

Christ disclosed that His Gospel was a factor that would gather and reunite the forces of mankind and this He gave demonstration of at Pentecost, when fifteen nations heard in their own tongue. The sign points forward to when the city of God shall be established and the perfected society shall speak a pure language.

There are at least three communities in the world to-day who have attempted to be more consistent than Mr. Harvey. Having seen that certain powers were the exclusive rights of the apostles they have ordained twelve, and teach that God intended apostolic succession and the continuance of apostolic gifts. They may make as many as they will, Christ spoke of but 12 thrones for the twelve apostles of the Lamb. The apostles formed the foundation of the church, but no structure is built of foundation all the way up, although the foundation must remain in place until all is completed. King David and Solomon never tried to reproduce the initial signs associated with Moses and Aaron, nor did any kings after them, but they entered into the good of the experience of the baptism of the cloud at the Red Sea.

There are many other points in Mr. Harvey's letter that could be answered by a more accurate knowledge of the Bible and its teachings, but space forbids. There is still the possibility of having a zeal that is not according to knowledge. I doubt not his zeal. His conclusion "Yours for the full Gospel" is characteristic. Let him remember that when Paul wrote his treatise on the full and perfect Gospel as contained in the Epistle to the Romans, those Christians were not in possession of the New Testament. Paul himself had not been to Rome, but he did not communicate one word about tongues.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your courtesy, and the generous publicity you gave to the services of the Co-operative Mission in Peterborough. I am

Gratefully yours,
Charles J. Rolls, D.D.

INDIANS, TIGERS AND RED SOX LOOK GREAT TO BELTING JAMES

Jimmy Foxx Predicts Mad Scramble for Pennant at Close of American Race.

AFTER RUTH'S RECORD.

(By Edward J. Neil, A.P. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, April 27 (CP)—If you dont' care to worry along through the closing days of September adding up Jimmie Foxx's home runs and wondering if he'll break Babe Ruth's record of 60 in one season, here's a short cut.

Put a ring about June 1 of your baseball calendar.

"If I have 18 by then," says the burly belter of the Athletics, "I'm on many way, I'll make it. If I'm under 18, well . . ."

Jimmie shrugs his wide shoulders and grins cheerfully. He's only 27 years old with years of slugging still ahead of him. He hit 58 in 1932, two shy of the Babe's great mark. It would seem as though adding two homers to that shouldn't be too tough a task for a fellow who was that close to do. But it's far from simple.

Need Every Break

"You have to have every break in luck," Jimmie explains. "You've got to be in there swinging in every game. I always get away to a slow start and have to make up ground late in the season. One minor injury will ruin everything."

Jimmie has a suspicion, too, that the American League ball this year isn't as fast as the National League whippet. It seems that they're still using balls in the American League that were manufactured last season, and they don't seem to vanish with the celerity of the National League balls that were rushed into manufacture when uniformity was decided upon last winter.

He has an idea, too, that the 1934 pennant race in the American League will wind up in a mad scramble.

Yanks Not As Strong

"The Yanks look good, sure, but I don't think they're as strong as last year with those kids Rolf and Heffner in the infield. And the Senators, they look like they're still suffering a hangover from the licking the Giants gave them.

"Their fire and pep are gone. Their pitchers are all bogging down. Cleveland, Detroit and the Red Sox look great, and if we get pitching —its' anybody's race."

Jimmie makes one exception about the strength of the Yanks this season. Babe Ruth looks better to him than he has in years.

ENGLISH CUP FINALLY CARDED FOR SATURDAY

More Than 100,000 Will See Portsmouth-Manchester City Soccer Classic.

PITCH IN FINE SHAPE.

WEMBLEY STADIUM, England, April 27.—(C. P. Cable)—The field at Wembley gleamed like a billiard table today, all set for the classic English soccer cup final between Portsmouth and Manchester City Saturday afternoon.

If they could get into stadium 400,000 persons would see the great North-and-South clash between the Pompeys and the City. There were that many applications for tickets. In Portsmouth alone, alloted 7,500 tickets, there were 35,000 applications.

Officially the limit is 94,000, but for the international match last Saturday on the same field 113,400 turned out, and that number will probably be exceeded for the cup final. Workmen today were rushing completition of 20,000 extra seats after removing greyhound equipment.

Pitch in Fine Fettle

April showers, followed by bright period of sunshine, have built up the turf splendidly, and after cutting and rolling this afternoon the pitch is in perfect condition.

While myriads of preparations are going on, least concerned of any with the final seem the players themselves. In plus-fours or comfortable flannels the stalwarts who have brought their sides through the gruelling competition have been golfing and taking things easy all week. The City has been at Southport, and the Pompeys at their own seaside.

Both teams have been troubled by injuries, but are recovering. The strained shoulder that Sam Weddle received playing against Arsenal has yielded to treatment, and Portsmouth is all set. Manchester City, however, has not yet decided whether to play J. Bray or McLukie, both recovering from injuries, at left-half. Bray will probably get the call.

If the weather is favorable his Majesty will attend the match, but if it does not turn out good the Prince of Wales will deputize.

PALACE PREPARED.

ROME, April 27.—(A.P.)—Montecitoric, the palace of the Chamber of Deputies, has been placed in readiness for the opening of the 29th Legislature to-morrow by King Victor Emmauel.

The King will make his address to Parliament, the first in five years and probably the last he will make to the Chamber of Deputies, since Mussolini is resolved on its abolition.

Kawartha Softball League Is Organized

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in Norwood recently at which the Kawartha Softball League was organized. Keen interest was shown by the men from Lakefield, Keene, Norwood and Havelock who were present to represent their men's softball clubs, and a league composed of the four places was formed up. Dr. Wright of Keene was elected president of the league, and D. D. Brown was elected secretary-treasurer. A great deal of business was transacted, and the league will open some time about the 10th of May.

A very commendable feature of the meeting was the fairness with which each club viewed the problems of the other clubs, and the unanimous opinion that all players must be bona-fide residents of their respective towns or immediate district.

The league decided that it would not affiliate with any association this year. A double schedule will be played.

FIRE LOSSES $185,825

TORONTO.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ending April 25 were estimated by The Monetary Times at $1,85,825, compared with $439,550 during the preceding week and $281,500 during the corresponding week last year. Fire losses since Jan. 1 to April 26 totalled $5,349,200, compared with $6,820,525 for the same period in 1933.

Engineer Is Stricken Dies At His Throttle

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 27. — (C.P.).—Stricken at the throttle of his locomotive near Coteau Junction, Que., yesterday, Frank A. Chatson, aged 53, C.N.R. locomotive engineer, died at his home here early to-day after having been brought here on another train.

Chatson was driving the engine hauling a fast freight train when his fireman, A. F. Bean, also of Brockville, noticed him slump in his seat, stopped the train and backed it into Coteau Junction. The dead engineer is survived by his wife.

ARSENAL NEEDS ONE MORE POINT

Gunners Meet Pensioners—Latter Desperately in Need of Victory.

SEASON NEAR CLOSE.

LONDON, April 27. — With only two more games to go, the Arsenal is still not yet sure of getting the English Football League championship for the second time in succession, but the prospects of their defeat are very remote.

The Gunners go to Chelsea on Saturday, and just one point clinches the title. The Pensioners, however, need points more than the Gunners, for, with Chelsea it is a question of staying in the First Division for another season at least.

Arsenal holds a four-point lead over Huddersfield Town at the top of the table. If Arsenal loses both matches, and Huddersfield wins both theirs—they meet Blackburn on Saturday, and should win—the two will be tied on points, and goal average will decide the title. Arsenal's average is somewhat better than Huddersfield's so far Sheffield Definitely Doomed.

Sheffield United is definitely doomed to the Second Division, but any one of five clubs may go down with them. Newcastle United and Birmingham are next in danger, with 34 points, and Chelsea comes next to them with 35. Liverpool and Aston Villa have 36.

There remains just as keen a struggle as to who will go up from the Second Division to the first, along with Grimsby Town, whose lead cannot be disputed. Bolton Wanderers are striving hard to get back to the premier division after their demotion last season, but the Preston North-End is tied with them on points, while Brentford, which came up from the Third Division this season, is only a point behind, and may yet get back into the First.

The tie is likely to remain until the last game of the season, for both Bolton and Preston are at home on Saturday, the former to the lowly Millwall eleven, and Preston to Fulham. Brentford take on Bury.

Second Division Tangle.

At the bottom of the Second Division another tangle continues, although Lincoln City are definitely on the way out. With two games to go, or four points, only three points separate Manchester United, next to the bottom, and four other teams — Swansea, Millwall, Notts County, and Notts Forest. Manchester United meet Swansea on Saturday, and a win for the Welshmen will put the United down.

The struggle for promotion from the Third Division's Southern Section will likely be carried to the last game of the season, a week hence. Chesterfield, striving to get back after last season's demotion, and Barnsley, who are tied at the top of the table, are both at home on Saturday. Norwich City, in the Northern, are already safe.

TOUGH OPPOSITION FOR LOCAL OUTFIT

North Toronto Made Up of Players From Three Queen City Senior Clubs.

Tonight's senior exhibition lacrosse game at the Armouries, in aid of the Kinsmen's Club eye clinic fund, will see the Petes—made up of local and district stars—facing the toughest opposition local fans have seen them in against. The Petes have shown in the past few years that they could beat most senior outfits in the Province, and even when they were beaten two years ago by the classy Haldimand Rifles, the series was close enough to prove the class of the losers. But the North Torontos, who will be here this evening at 8.30, have drawn players from three good Toronto senior squads of last year, Oakwood Grads, Torontos and Native Sons. But the Petes believe they can "take" this crew and show their right to an O.A.L.A. senior grouping this year.

Followers of the game will recognize some of the names in the visitors' lineup: Hayward, LeBar, Carey, Ireland, Hill, Hickson, Standaven, Cooper, Davis, Limbke, Powers, Aldis and Kitson. The Petes' team will be drawn from these local players: Pete King, Doug Miller, Ira Dundas, Doug Hatton, Cliff Cadd, Mick Magee, Red Creighton and Carlos Routley; besides Buster Whitton and Fred Ingram of Campbellford; Becky Jack of Havelock; and Shine Bovin, now of Oshawa but former local star.

The admission price is low, the accomodations are perfect, the proceeds go to a worthy cause, and the game promises to be a first class exhibition of senior box lacrosse. Fans will more than get their money's worth at this contest.

ABDUCTED GIRL'S RELATIVES HALT FEVERISH HUNT

Father Asks Chance to Negotiate for Payment of Ransom.

$15,000 ASKED.

Arizona Police Stand By But War Veterans Continue Patrol.

TUCSON, Ari., April 2. (AP)—An army of searchers hunting for the kidnappers of six-year-old June Robles was called off early to-day to permit the father to negotiate for payment of $15,000 ransom.

The order which temporarily checked the widespread manhunt was issued by Undersheriff Colby S. Farrar after Fernando Robles, father of the dark-eyed girl, and Carlos Robles, her uncle, said they were willing to meet the ransom demand.

"The safety of the child comes first" Farrar said. "I don't believe anyone will deny that it is of primary importance that June Robles be found alive."

Despite Farrar's order, war veterans still patrolled highways in and out and out of Tucson at 2.30 o'clock this morning. But heavily armed volunteers and peace officers stood by awaiting further orders from the family. The child's mother was reported near collapse.

Want Girl Alive

"The main object in the case" said Carlos Robles as spokesman for the family, "I believe, is to have the girl returned safely to her family. For that reason I have accepted for myself and other members of the family the decision that the officers withdraw from the case in order to permit us to negotiate with the kidnappers in the hope that we maye have the girl returned safely to her home. The officers have been kind enough to accept and agreed to withdraw."

County Attorney Clarence Houston said that the serious condition of Mrs. Robles influenced the decision to pay ransom and halt the hunt.

Previously the search was extended into canyons and desert wastes surrounding Tucson. Cowboys, ranchers, veterans and peace officers joined the greatest hanhunt Arizona has ever known under the leadership of Sheriff's officers and chief of police C. A. Wollard, captor of John Dillinger.

While the hunt was underway a second ransome note was received and branded as false by Farrar. That note reduced the ransom demand from $15,000 to $1,000.

WOMAN HAS KEY POLICE STATION

Found on "Mall" Believed to Have Given Dillinger Wooden Gun.

FIT HOLLYWOOD OFFICE.

LOS ANGELES, April 27 (AP) — A report that keys to the Hollywood Police Station had been found in the possession of Evelyn Frechette, alleged aide of John Dillinger, stirred police in the movie city today.

The Times said keys found in the womans' possession had been tried by Department of Justice agents in the locks of the police station and that they fitted the door to the Detective Bureau and "other strategic places."

Joseph Dunn, in charge of the Department of Justice Agents here, declined to comment.

The newspaper said police officers were shown pictures of the Frechette woman, who is credited with supplying Dillinger with the wooden gun with which he bluffed his way out of the Crown Point, Ind., jail, but none recognized her.

No one could offer a theory as to how the keys might have come into her possession.

A "thorough investigation," was promised by Chief of Police James E. Davis.

"When bandits and molls are found carrying the keys to police stations in their pockets its' time to take drastic action."

The Frechette woman is reported to be in custody of St. Paul police.

Fliers Go On Trial Aged Man's Death

KENORA, Ont., April 27 (CP) — Harold Franklin and Charles W. Gordon, occupants of a De Havilland Moth plane which struck and killed John McCoombs, pioneer Kenora resident, March 29, were on trial to-day before Magistrate J. A. Kinney on charges of criminal negligence.

Whether Gordon, a pilot instructor and son of Dr. C. W. Gordon of Winnipeg, known under the pen name of Ralph Conner throughout Canada, or Franklin was at the contrals of the plane when the accident occurred, had not been established at adjournment of court yesterday.

When arraigned, both pleaded not guilty and elected summary trial. McCoombs was killed as the plane was taking off from the snow-covered landing field near a roadway on which McCoombs was walking.

Trottier Is Hanged For Woman's Murder

QUEBEC, April 27. (CP).—Philip Trottier, St. Casimir, Que., was hanged to-day for the murder of Marie Anne Webster.

On April 28, 1933, almost exactly a year ago, the woman's body was found in a boarding house. She had been beaten to death. About the room were broken battles and pieces of furniture broken by Trottier in a violent rage.

Trottier was tried at the Spring assizes in 1933 and was convicted. An appeal resulted in a new trial being ordered. He was retried last Fall and was again convicted, but this time an appeal failed. Word came the other day that the Governor-in-Council had refused to interfere with the death sentence.

BRITAIN SENDS BERLIN WARNING

Opposes Plan to Apply Transfer Moratorium to Dawes and Young Plan.

CLIMAX TO RUMORS.

LONDON, April 27 (A.P.).—The British Government has frankly told Germany that it would take a "grave view" of any proposal to apply a transfer moratorium to the Dawes and Young loans, the Associated Press learned to-day.

This warning was delivered formally to Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German Foreign Minister, in Berlin yesterday by Sir Eric Phipps, Ambassador to Germany.

Significantly, the warning was voiced after recent recurrent rumors that the Reich intended to take such a step.

British official circles, however, professed to-day to have no knowledge officially from Berlin that Germany would take such action.

It was pointed out in official circles that the Dawes and Young loans were raised under inter-governmental auspices, and, in addition, they are governed by a series of agreements — including those reached at the London conference in 1924 and at the subsequent Hague and Paris conferences of 1930.

It also was considered significant that the British warning was placed in the hands of the German Government on the eve of the opening of a series of conferences in connection with medium and long term credit.

Further procedure of the British Government, it was indicated, will be contingent upon discussions under way in Berlin. Representatives of British, French, American, Dutch and Swiss medium and long term bond holders are engaging in these discussions with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the German Reichsbank.

More than $89,000,000 of the Dawes bonds are held by British investors, and a smaller amount of the Young loan bonds. Hitherto full interest has been paid on the Young and Dawes loans because of their special status in the German financial scheme, but if a moratorium of transfers is applied it may mean a complete suspension of all interest payments.

GERMAN DEBTS WORRIES NATION

See Only Solution in Creditors Boosting Import Quotas.

NEW INTEREST RATES.

BERLIN, April 27 (A.P.)—German finaciers were ready to place before the nation's creditors to-day in formal conference a problem they admittedly cannot solve themselves —how to pay what Germany owes in foreign debts.

This afternoon representatives of long-term and short-term creditors will meet officials of the Reichsbank to thrash out the matter. Indications were that the meeting would be a short one.

Through Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reichsbank, Germanys' position already has been made clear.

He pointed to "boycott agitation against German goods," tariff barriers, the dwindling of world trade to one-third its volume in 1928, and currency devaluation by the United States and Great Britain as making increasingly difficult payment of Germany's debts.

The only solution, he said, was the raising of Germany's export volume and "the willingness on the part of creditors to meet us on the matter of interest rates, the postponement of redemptions, and the like."

ONTARIO WOMAN FOUND WOUNDED BY GANG BULLET

Believe She Knew Too Much of Silk Truck Hi-jackers' Plans.

GUARDED IN HOSPITAL.

Claims She Was Kidnapped in Washington—Sure She is Doomed.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.— (A.P.)—Police and Federal investigators are working on a theory that Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Fontaine, a Canadian, was shot in suburban Upper Darby because she "knew too much" about the activities of a gang of crime specialtists —silk truck hi-jackers.

To save her from them, an extra guard is stationed outside her hospital room.

The 29 year old brunette, critically wounded, named two men and a woman who, she said, had kidnapped her in Washington and brought her to Upper Darby. She accused one of the men of firing a bullet into her breast while she lay in bed yesterday, but investigators withheld the identification.

"It's no use to save me," she told police after a blood transfusion. "They'll get me anyway. They'll even come in here to do it."

Gangster Friend Slain.

Federal agents, checking up on interstate activities of the gang and the supposed kidnapping of Mrs. Fontaine, said the woman had been brought to Upper Darby after William B. Philips, her gangster-friend, had been slain by Washington police in a battle. Philips was killed but his companions escaped when they are alleged to have attempted to take a stolen car. The Capital officers were watching it.

Saying her estranged husband was a Montreal steel worker, Joseph Fontaine, police identified Mrs. Fontaine as a native of Ontario.

Her home town or city was not disclosed.

She was found on the steps of a house yesterday, with a trail of blood leading to the adjoining apartment occupied by the woman and her companions. In the apartment were an automatic shotgun and pistol—neither used in the shooting—and outside was a locked sedan with bloodstaned cushion.

KIDNAP SCARE AGAIN RAMPANT

ARRESTS MOUNT FAST.

(By the Associated Press.)

Kidnap news leaped into the headlines again to-day with a series of startling developments.

In Minneapolis it was disclosed that currency left by John Dillinger and his gang when they fled a Wisconsin resort in a hail of gunfire had been linked to the Edward G. Bremer kidnapping. Bremer, a St. Paul banker, was released in February after payment of $200,000 ransom.

Early to-day, officers were believed to have surrounded a member of the Dillinger gang in Northern Wisconsin.

At Tucson, Ariz., hundreds joined officers in the search for kidnappers of 6 year old June Robles. She is held for $15,000 ransom.

Chicago police captured Ludwig (Dutch) Schmidt, wanted in connection with the kidnapping of John Factor for which some of Schmidt's pals in the Touhy gang are already serving time.

Max Chipman, sought in Boston for the kidnapping of Herman Rutstein in 1932, is being held in Kansas City pending extradition proceedings.

May Face Death.

A Federal district attorney in Fort Worth, Tex., said that the two accused abductors of Charles M. Keila, Jr., may face prosecution under the Lindbergh law.

Two former convicts were held in Belleville, Ill., on charges of planning to kidnap William N. Baltz, a former Congressman.

Five year old Mary Lou Carline was returned to her home in Minneapolis several hours after she had been kidnapped.

The United States' House of Representatives Judiciary committee in Washington approved a bill to impose the death penalty in Interstate kidnappings.

CATHOLIC PERSECUTIONS RECALLED BY RALLY

LONDON, April 27 (C.P.).—Nearly 3,000 will take part in a procession Sunday from the Old Bailey to Marble Arch in memory of certain martyrs dragged along this route to the ancient Tyburn gallows. The procession is organized by the Guild of Our Lady of Ransom which claims that between 1535 and 1681, 1,000 men and two women were killed for saying or hearing the Catholic mass, while similar executions were carried out at other places.

Parties of Catholics from all parts of London and from as far as Nottingham and Leicester are coming for the occasion.

Catholics executed at Tyburn, represented every class—priests and laymen, poor men and rich men, and women.

Scott of Bethany delivered a splendid address to his congregation on Sunday morning, basing his text on Rev. 3:8, "I know thy work; behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it; for thou hast little strength and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name." The selections by the choir were well received. The anthems were "Shepherds of Israel" and "One Day When Heaven," under the leadership of Mrs. Lilly Turner.

Presentation Made To Stirling Editor

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, April 27. — On Tuesday evening members of the Young Mens Club gathered in the Community Hall as a farewell dance was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dobbie.

About ninety guests were present, and the music was supplied by the Belleville "Commodore Orchestra." After lunch a beautiful Chestergield table was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Dobbie by members of the club.

In his reply Mr. Dobbie expressed his regret at the severance of the connection of Stirling ties. Although being a citizen for only eight years he felt that any measure of success he had attained was due to his stirling supporters.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR FORMATION HASTINGS PARK

Women's Institute Seeks Co-Movement Sponsored by operation of Business Men.

LONG FELT WANT

Coughlan Estate Property on Front Street is Under Consideration.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 27. — Plans for the formation of a central park in Hastings were made at a well attended meeting held in the town hall on Wednesday night. The meeting was called by the Women's Institute, to find out if they had the hearty co-operation of the business men of Hastings in filling the major need of the village at present.

Walter M. Fowlds acted as chairman in his usual capable manner. In explaining the purpose of the meeting the chairman stated that the Institute felt that in order to put the park over successfully they needed hearty co-operation from everyone, who had the good of the village at heart. The property that was though of was the Coughlan estate property, with a frontage of two hundred feet on Front Street, one hundred and fifty feet on Bridge, with a depth of three hundred feet. The institute had written the government for a representative to be in Hastings on Wednesday but owing to the department being very busy at present he was unable to be present. The first speaker called on by the chairman was Rev. Father P. J. Kelley, who is the father of the thought of a recreation park for Hastings. It was while giving an address at a recent Institute meeting on the betterment of Hastings that Father Kelley spoke about a park, which started the ladies on their campaign to fill the long felt want.

Rev. Father Kelley, who has made a very thorough study of the property stated that he was fortunate enough to obtain an option of $300 from the owners, seeing that it was to be used for such a worthy cause.

Make Ball Diamonds

If the property passed government inspection they would make a grant of twenty-five per cent. With a very little extra cost the property could be quite easily drained. It was the speakers idea to have a baseball and softball diamond, box lacrosse, tennis courts, as well as track and field sports. A park in Hastings could be made the central place for the neighboring communities, and in this way different championships could be run off under the supervision of the athletic unions, and athletes would be found who would carry the name of Hastings high in the field of sport.

Rev. H. F. Battersby was of the opinion that the people of Hastings, especially the parents at the present time, did not know where their children were, but if there was a recreation park their worries would be over.

Rev. S. H. Hill, B.A., the local Scout Master, who since coming to Hastings a little over a year ago, has done a great deal towards furnishing clean sport, for the young boys of the village, was a very enthusiastic supporter of a park.

Before calling on Frank F. Daly, manager of the local tannery, Chairman Fowlds spoke of the great things already done by this company by way of supplying sport for the village. Mr. Daly pledged his support and informed the meeting that he would take the matter up with his company.

Councillor Fairman, who is chairman of the Finance Committee of the village council, promised his support in the council for a grant up to $100. He was supported by Councillor Brooks and Doherty.

Other speakers were Messrs. A. J. McKenty, A. Clapper, G. Sine, W. W. Knight, W. A. Killingbeck, W. H. McMillan, Dr. J. A. MacDonald, D. Gowans, J. V. Findlay and T. A. Coughlan.

A hearty vote was passed expressing every co-operation with the ladies in their undertaking, was passed.

In the course of a few days the ladies will meet and pick out the men they wish to assist them.

IN MEMORIAM.

RUDE. — In loving memory of Violet Mae, beloved daughter of Harry Pearson, who passed away, April 28, 1929.
Sweet is your memory, dear to our hearts,
The place you hold there will never depart;
All through the years, be they many or few,
Will be filled with fond memories, dear Violet, of you.
—Sadly missed by Father, Sisters, and Brothers.

LEAHY. — In loving memory of my dear brother, Stephen Leahy, who passed away April 27, 1932, in Toronto.
We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died
To think you could not say good-bye
Before you closed your eyes.
The flowers we placed upon your grave,
They wither and decay;
But the love for you who sleep beneath
Will never fade away.
—Ever remembered by Charlie and Family, Toronto.

SMALL LOAN COMPANY BILL PASSES COMMITTEE BY 19-11

Interest Rate 16.6 Per Cent at 7p.c. Monthly With Service Charged Added.

AROUSES IRVINE.

OTTAWA, April 27 (C.P.)—A bill to incorporate the small loan company of Canada was reviewed yesterday before the House banking committee. Included in the provisional directors were close relatives of Arthur Cutten of Chicago, Canadian-born wheat operator.

Under the bill, interest rates were set at seven per cent payable monthly and also a two per cent service charge. Col. A. T. Thompson, Ottawa lawyer, who was piloting the bill said seven per cent payable monthly represented 12.9 per cent and if the two per cent service charge were added, the rate jumped to 16.6 per cent.

Col. Thompson said the company would loan money on chattel mortgages. For instance, a man without cash could put up his house furniture and get a loan. The company would be under the supervision of Dominion insurance branch, the head of which had approved the bill. There were heavy penalties in the bill against the company for improper conduct.

"This bill," said William Irvine, (UFA Westaskiwin), "is an insult to Parliament and an insult to the people of Canada. I admit there is need of something like this but to present a bill which allows interest as high as 17 per cent. is an insult."

Earl Lawson, (Cons. West York), said he personally did not care whether the bill passed or not but he insisted "You cannot legislate people into heaven or stop them from getting money when they need it."

"You cannot legislate people into heaven," admitted Mr. Irvine, "but by heaven you can legislate them into hell and that is what you are doing here."

The preamble of the bill, containing the principle, passed the committee 19-11 with the Conservatives generally supporting and the Liberals and Progressives opposing.

A question arose as to the amount of the paid-up capital of the company and whether the provisions of the companies act applied. This led chairman R. B. Hanson to suggest the bill be laid over until the point was cleared up by the lawyers.

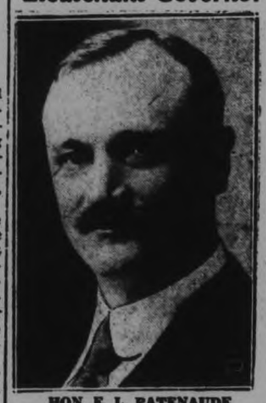
NO RETURN TO GOLD STANDARD

MANCHESTER, England (C.P.-Havas).—"The time has not yet come for England to return to the gold standard," declared W. H. Coates, of the Imperial Chemical Industries to-day in an address to members of the Chartered Institute of Secretaries.

Lieutenant-Governor



HON. E. L. PATENAUDE
Prominent Quebec Conservative, and former Federal minister, Hon. Esioff Leon Patenaude of Montreal has been appointed Lieut.-Governor of the province of Quebec.

SUMMER TIME IS ENDORSED BY KIWANIANS

Standing Vote is Taken at Weekly Luncheon of Service Club.

RUSH-BAGOT TREATY.

Horatio Mooers of United States' Consular Service Adresses Members.

By a standing vote, members of the Kiwanis Club, representative of a cross section of the citys' commercial, industrial and professional interests, to-day almost unanimously endorsed the principle of Daylight Saving Time, despite the fact that as a result of a plebiscite taken by the City Council on New Years' Day the city will officially remain on Standard Time.
The matter was brought before the members of the club at their noon luncheon at Empress Hotel, President A. B. Gates calling for a standing vote as an expression of the clubs' opinion, in view of the fact that Toronto is about to adopt Daylight Saving Time.
Asking, "What is to be done about the local situation?" Mr. Gates felt, "it will not be out of place if we show the public where the Kiwanis Club stands on the matter.' He also expressed the opinion that in taking a vote on the matter on New Year's Day, the City Council had placed the Daylight Saving question before the public at a time when it could not be expected to receive proper consideration.

Rush-Bagot Treaty

Introduced by Past President John I. Allen, the guest speaker, Horatio Mooers, of the United States Consular Service, Toronto, very ably discussed the Rush-Bagot Treaty—the treaty which has preserved peace between Canada and the United States for one hundred and eighteen years.
The address was particularly appropriate in view of the celebration and observance by Kiwanis International of "United States and Canada Week."
During his introduction of the speaker, Mr. Allen pointed out that in his service with the United States government, Mr. Mooers had been in Italy, Belgium, Scotland, Azores, Portugal, Quebec City and is at present in Toronto.
Happiness, the speaker believed, was the ideal towards which all humanity was striving. He pointed out that happiness could not be attained without the acquisition of goodwill, harmony and tolerance, and believed that if happiness is not attainable on the American continent, it is not because tolerance and goodwill are lacking in the relationships between the United States and Canada.
Guests at the luncheon included H. S. Ingram, superintendent C.P.R. Telegraphs, Toronto; Cyril J. Rice, organist at St. Andrew's Church; and Stan. Willis. The latter contributed two vocal solos to the program, being accompanied at the piano by Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

SEEKS BROCKVILLE SEAT.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 27 (C.P.). — John B. Pinkerton, machinery agent and Justice of the Peace at Elgin, to-day announced he would be a candidate in the new riding of Brockville-Leeds, the convention for which will be held here on May 5.
W. C Taylor, Brockville produce merchant, has already announced that he is in the field for the nomination, which, it is understood, also will be contested by Dr. H. A. Clark, the retiring member for Brockville Riding.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN NEARS OBJECTIVE

$5,871 Already Contributed By 497 Subscribers.

Although the Y.M.C.A financial campaign to raise $7,250 by public subscription for the 1934 budget failed to reach its objective during the original three days set for the drive, workers in the campaign last night expressed confidence that given a little more time they could push the drive over the top with the co-operation of citizens.
It was reported last night at the 'Y' by the workers that $5,871 in subscriptions had been secured, while team captains stated confidently that they can secure another $900 almost at once with a little extra effort.
Chief George Gimblett's team of workers led all teams with results, reporting that they had obtained 137 percent of the quota set for them. Two other teams, J. A. Bell with 108 percent of its quota and J. F. Reed's squad with 105 percent, had also gone over the top, it was reported. Charles Lacheur's team with 92 percent of its quota was next in the big race.
The Special Names' Committee reported that it had obtained 81 percent or $2,960, of its quota.
Number of those who have given subscriptions already in the campaign was reported to total 497, which is 50 more subscribers than last year. W. L. Ferguson was high for the number of calls. J. F. Reed led for number of subscriptions secured with 51, while J. A. Bell was second with 49. A total of 749 calls have been made to date, but there are more than 200 persons yet to see, it was reported.
The workers' meeting was enthusiastic and decided unanimously to carry on the campaign under full steam until Tuesday in a great effort to reach the objective of $7,250 rejuired to properly conduct the 'Y' this year. There will be a meeting Tuesday evening to give reports and it is confidently predicted that the campaign will reach its objective with the continued co-operation of citizens.

WOMEN'S ART ASSOCIATION CLOSES SEASON WITH BANQUET

Charming Miniature Dramatic Presentation Arranged by Mrs. L. J. Pettit.

DELIGHTFUL WIND-UP.

Cranford, that sleepy little English village immortalized by Mrs. Gaskell. . . . The ladies who dwelt there in a remote, candle-lit age in which manners counted more than money, in which a mild snobbishness was tempered by kindness of heart, in which the niceties of demeanor and the proprieties of life were of the supremest importance. . . . Costumes of a bygone day; heavy, corded silks, jet-trimmed bonnets, beaded reticules, bustles and "pull-backs" and deep pockets. . . . Precise little tea parties and evening gatherings that concluded on the stroke of nine. . . .

They all had their way in the delightful scenes presented in the grill-room and dining-room of the Empress Hotel last night, when ninety-nine ladies (members and friends of the Women's Art Association) had dinner together and then watched the unfolding of the charming miniature dramatic presentation arranged so cleverly by Mrs. L. J. Pettit.

Mrs. W. Blackwell, president of the Art Association, presided at the head table, which was decorated with a lovely basket of pink Darwin tulips. The guests included members of the parent association and its affiliated branches: the Art Study Club, the Guild of Arts and Crafts, the Causerie Francaise, the Music Club and the Literary Study Club, of which Mrs. N. D. Seaton is convenor. Much regret was expressed at Mrs. Seaton's absence through illness, and a gift to her (a copy of Stephen Leacock's "Life of Dickens") was received by her sister, Miss Leone Walsh, and presented, on behalf of the members of the Literary Study Club, by Miss Amy Beal, accompanied by a neat little speech by Miss S. A. Tomkins.

Mrs. Blackwell spoke briefly, speaking of the initiative of the Literary Study Club in making plans for the social evening which is a wind-up of the club's activities for the season, and opening it to members of the auxiliary societies.

Tiny Addresses.

Last night also put a period to the meetings of the Art Study Club throughout the winter, and Mrs. F. C. Neal, who, with Mrs. V. S. Foster, has been joint convenor of the last-named organization, spoke very pleasantly for a few minutes of the activities of the club. Others who made brief speeches, outlining the work of their clubs, were Mrs. C. S. Thompson, convenor of the Guild of Arts and Crafts, whose talk was punctuated with humorous stories, and Madam Sifroy Goulet, convenor of the Causerie Francaise.

After dinner, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, who has so successfully directed the activities of the dramatic section of the Art Association for several years, introduced the dainty little scenes from "Cranford" which formed the effective conclusion of a very enjoyable evening, by a brief explanation of the story, quoting some of the highlights of a book written in a carefully precise manner which yet contrives to be deliciously funny by reason of the fascinating fashion in which it reveals the foibles of the ladies of whom it tells.

Mrs. Seaton was also mentioned by Mrs. Pettit, who referred to the "faithful, energetic interest" taken by her in the Literary Study Club this year—the first in its annals—and drew attention to the fact that Miss Viola Fusee had taken Mrs. Seaton's role at very brief notice and with only one rehearsal.

But Miss Fusee, although a pinch hitter, proved to be just as capable as always. She was admirable in the part of Miss Matilda Jenkins, daughter of the dead rector of the little village and a leader in Cranford's determinedly genteel society. The ladies never mentioned money—that would be vulgar—but they practised "elegant economy" and had a great fondness for marvellously-designed caps, with different types for different hours in the day.

And Miss Jenkins had a maid who deserves special mention, so well did she enact her part. Miss Leone Walsh was Martha, who might well have stepped out of one of Dickens' memorable works and who never let the role down—for a moment. She was especially good.

No "Followers."

Martha had a fondness for "followers," with a particular liking for one Jem, "six foot one in his stocking feet," but Miss Jenkins, whose girlish romance had died on the vine because the gentleman, a farmer, was not genteel enough for the daughter of the vicar, frowned on the idea of romance in connection with her careful household. So Martha enlisted the aid of the extremely pretty and sweet Miss Mary Smith, cousin and guest of Miss Jenkins, who intercedes successfully for the shy little maid. This part was taken in the best possible manner by Mrs. D. R. Howat, who looked as dainty as a rose, in a pink gown.

The character parts were exceptionally good in every instance. There was the Hon. Mrs. Jamieson, social arbiter of the village (Mrs. H. E. Connolly); a very elegantly-attired lady with a lap dog, Carlo, Miss Pole (Miss Laura Belleghem), who was quite up to date on every question and made a brave appearance in ringlets and poke bonnet and shawl; Mrs. Forester (Miss Mabel Wyatt), in graceful widow's weeds and jet-trimmed lace shawl, who got a great hand when she told delicately the story about the kitty who swallowed her precious lace, and the manner of its return; and Miss Betty Barker (Mrs. Hazel Anderson), a retired milliner, who, while remembering her place vocally ever so often, still aspires to shine at tea parties with the other ladies and minces cannily through a "gay" tea-meeting of her own, to say nothing of her maid, Peggy (Miss Eva Outram), who has to be restrained at most times from taking part in the genteel conversation of her betters and who is well portrayed in Miss Outram's unfailing good style.

The little scenes, which delineated four episodes in the life of the quiet ladies of Cranford, took place under the arch leading to the grill-room, with a few meagre but very effective props; some brass pieces and bits of needlepoint and a gay flowered tablecloth. Miss Isabel Connolly assisted with the arrangement.

The charming presentation concluded with a dreamy bit in which the ladies sit quietly thinking of brides they have known, and a procession of maidens passes behind them and quietly departs, leaving paper-frilled nosegays in their hands. They wore beautiful white bridal costumes with flowing veils. This group included the Misses Betty Runnett, Marjorie Read, Maida Conner, Leta Brownscombe and Isobel McKee.

At the conclusion, a lovely bouquet of flowers was presented by Mrs. Howat to Mrs. Pettit, to whose untiring work the success of the very effective scenes was due. The ladies watched and listened with great interest as the entertaining production unrolled itself to a pretty finish.

LIFFORD LINE.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson and son Kenneth entertained their neighbors and friends at a jolly progressive euchre party under auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Mary's Church on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of about fifty.

Ten tables were played, with prizes going to the following: Ladies high, Miss Phyllis Mann; gentlemen's high, Rev. Mr Holden; ladies' consolation, May Mulligan; gentlemen's consolation, Jack Hannah. Following cards, refreshments were served by the hostess and several assisting ladies. Music and dancing were enjoyed later. Messrs. George Tims, Lawrence Staples and Harry Pierce rendered a delightful trio.

Mrs. Robert Bell and daughter, Pearl, of Nestleton, motored to Lifford on Sunday and visited several relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. David McLean and family have moved to their new home in the bank building at Nestleton.

Mrs. George Peters was a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Ward, Eighth Line.

Mr. Murray Spiers of Franklin was a business visitor on Lifford Line on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Howe of Janetville visited relatives at Lifford on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Preston were business visitors to Pontypool on Wednesday morning.

All maple syrup makers in this locality have lifted their sap buckets for this year and report a satisfactory flow.

The late return of spring finds many farmers with a scant supply of feed for their stock, making it necessary for some to travel many miles in search of some fortunate fellow-farmer who may be able to spare even a half-ton of hay to tide his cattle over until the "thrice welcome" grass arrives.

Mr. Archie Wilson was a business visitor to Lindsay on Wednesday afternoon.

Why ARE You Always Tired?

Why do you have to go through days that seem endless—days when your whole body seems listless and weary? Probably you will be surprised when you learn the answer.

That answer is very likely that your system is not providing complete elimination of body wastes. Don't shake your head. Regularity of habit doesn't mean complete elimination. In fact, incomplete elimination troubles thousands who never suspect it because they are regular. That is why headaches, indigestion, and drowsiness occur.

Sane, sensible habits, plus an occasional refreshing, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt will keep your system in fine tone. Eat moderately, sleep sufficiently, take plenty of fresh air and exercise, and once or twice each week enjoy an invigorating glass of Andrews, to help Nature keep your system thoroughly clear of impurities.

Do these sensible things and you will keep fit. Your appetite will be good—and you will escape the dreary days of physical depression.

Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist to-day and adopt these simple inexpensive rules against the common little ailments. In tins, 35c and 60c. New, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto. 16

Hand Beauty As Important To-day As In Napoleon's Era, Says Gladys

Verree Teasdale

Madame De Stael, who was one of the most famous of history's charmers and a celebrated favorite of Napoleon's first empire, was really quite devoid of beauty. She had however, very exquisite nails and hands, and she kept them constantly in evidence by toying with a string of beads, a rose or some like object. For she knew full well the power that graceful, pretty hands can wield.

Times have changed since then, of course. Women don't go about plucking petals from roses or coyly fingering necklaces to expose their hands. And hands are no longer delicate, fluttery, useless things. They're firm, strong and expressive and they do things. Useful, capable things.

In this year of grace, however, hands are just as beautiful as they ever were. And usually they're made up almost as carefully as are faces. A bit of powder fluffed on makes them appropriately pale and delicate. A bit of rouge skillfully applied pinks the palms or makes the hands appear more slender. And, of course a lustrous polish gives the finger tips an attractive accent.

The smartest women in New York Paris and Hollywood generally change the shade of their nail polish to suit their moods and costumes. At a cocktail bar the other afternoon, for instance, I saw a young lass attired in a frock of green, and she wore green eye shadow and a matchnig green nail lacquer, while later in the evening I spotted her again in a night club, in a coral evening gown and coral-tinted finger tips.

The only squawk that women ever register about changing their nail polishes frequently, is that some polish removers tend to make their nails brittle and their cuticle dry. But this is no longer a worrisome factor, for one of the newest of our beauty aids is an oily polish remover. This remover not only removes the polish, but also keeps the cuticle soft and the nails lustrous. It's most effective, but if a gal hasn't it on hand, she can always resort to the expedient of soaking finger tips in warmed oil after removing her polish with a drying remover, for such soaking will soften the cuticle and help to prevent any nail brittleness.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hair

Worried: The hot castor oil shampoos will help to promote the growth of your hair. In addition to the coco butter massages, you should practice arm and leg exercises vigorously every day.

Complexion

Constance: My methods of clearing the skin of pimples, blackheads enlarged pores and wrinkles are too long to print here. They are, however, fully described in my "Beauty Culture" booklet.

Henna

Dotty: The pure, Egyptian henna, made of the leaves of the henna shrub, is not injurious to the hair. The chemical henna, however, contains metallic salts, and may prove harmful.

Eyelashes

Judith: To promote the growth of the eyelashes and eyebrows, apply odorless an d tasteless castor oil or plain vaseline nightly. Brush the eyebrows daily to make them tractable.

Standard Weight

Rose: I think that a girl 16 years of age and 5 feet 6 inches tall should weigh about 126 pounds.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The homemaker who has not inherited money has two ways of acquiring it. One is to make money and the other is to save it. Each way has its advantages and also its disadvantages. There is something stimulating about being paid for one's labor, but it is not always possible to have time, energy for extra work, or money-making ability. On the other hand there is satisfaction in realizing that by careful managing and thrift without stinting, small sums of money are accumulating to buy wanted articles. There is in this none of the flair of business, but also there are not the perplexing problems to be coped with which commercial enterprises, however small, always have. Also there is no lurking apprehension that home duties may have been neglected, or at least slighted, by busying oneself with work entirely outside home requirements.

* * * * * * *

There certainly are points in favor of, and against each of the methods for the homemaker. It is for her to decide which she wishes most to do, make money or save it, and which she can be most successful in. It is probable that as far as the wish is concerned, the pendulum would swing far in favor of earning with most women. It is more than probable, however, that managing and running a home, even with the aid of delicatessen foods and cramped living quarters, plus application to business will be too taxing to strength. Men, who are recognized as having stronger physiques do not attempt such duplex drain upon their energies.

* * * * * * *

The woman who has business acumen; who excells in making or creating a demand for wares; or who has pronounced ability in management of affairs plus business smoothness with co-workers, competitors and purchasers, is generally able to lead a business life and run a home by hiring a working housekeeper. She must expect to give up many of the social pleasures of entertaining and being entertained and little home activities which lend so much charm to home life She becomes director of a household, giving orders as would a director of an institution. She relinquishes many of the joys of homelife and homemaking. She is a wage earner, in a large or small way. She can buy and pay for service and needed things. Such a life may be one of choice or necessity.

* * * * * * *

The woman who must save to acquire money puts home above things. It is only when she reaps the reward of success in her devotion to it, that she wins out. It is payment but not in dollars and cents It is these she must thriftily accumulate without becoming niggardly. Some women are best fitted to acquiring money by saving rather than by earning it.

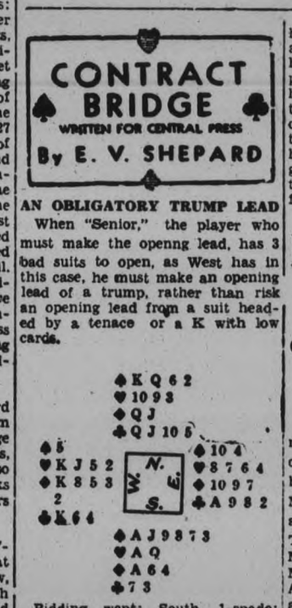
AN OBLIGATORY TRUMP LEAD

When "Senior," the player who must make the openng lead, has 3 bad suits to open, as West has in this case, he must make an opening lead of a trump, rather than risk an opening lead from a suit headed by a tenace or a K with low cards.



Bidding went: South, 1-spade; North, 3-spades; South, 4-diamonds, thinking that partner had called for aces to be shown; North, 4-spades, as he did not expect any slam could be made. That ended bidding.

Having 3 bad suits to open, West led his only spade. Dummy played low, with the 8. He won a second trump trick with dummy's Q, then he led the Q of diamonds. West won with his K.

It required no great stretch of the imagination to note that East must hold the ace of clubs. If South had held the missing ace, he would have led the long club suit. So West put his partner in the lead by giving him a trick with his ace of clubs. Because West had made an opening lead of a trump, he had requested West to lead toward unplayed suits in dummy, and West led back his fourth best heart. South had to take the finesse of the Q and he lost to the K, giving the defenders their thrd defensive trick. West saw nothing to do but lead his K of clubs and that won the setting tricks for his side. The remainder of the tricks belonged to the declaring side.

Had West made an opening lead of a heart the declarer would have lost no tricks in that suit, giving him an easy game. The same would have been true had the opening lead been a diamond. As then South would have lost no diamonds, and losing 2 clubs and a single heart would have given him game.

An opening lead of a club would have put East in the lead with his ace. He would have led back a heart. The declarer could have played his ace, pulled trumps, then have given his opponents a club trick, thereby establishing 2 good clubs in dummy. West would have taken his K of clubs and his K of hearts, but South would have gone game. The opening lead was all that enabled the defenders to defeat the contract.

PLANS ARE MADE CHURCH MEETING

Group Leaders Invited to Next Meeting of George Street W.M.S.

An interesting and enjoyable meeting of Group F of the W.M.S. of George Street United Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Morton, Sophia Street, with a large attendance of members and friends. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Harvey, followed by prayer by Mrs. Northey and Mrs. Flannery. A duet was rendered by Mrs. Binks and Miss Binks. It was arranged to hold the next meeting at the church under the auspices of the South-end section ,and all group leaders are to be invited. Announcement was made for the mother-and-daughter banquet, and plans made for the group's share of refreshments The guest speaker was Mrs Payne, a returned missionary from South America, who spent seven years laboring among the Indians in the Argentine Republic and Bolivia. Mrs. Payne was an interesting speaker, talking in such an informal way that she won her way into the hearts of all present She gave a description of the country and habits not only of the people of the cities but of the primitive people She is returning to the work in July, sailing from New York for Buenos Aires and travelling from there by train, completing her journey by mule. At the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Payne was accorded a hearty vote of appreciation and assured that the best wishes and prayers of the group would be with her. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Morton and members of her section Mrs. Girven, Mrs. V. Boorman, Mrs. Fowler, and Mrs Harvey.

SHOPPING WITH ANN

Hats have done a right-about face, as it were. Many of them have brims that are wide and flat or that turn up or down. Brims that shade the face or art turned precipitately back from it. Of course not all hats have brims. Many of them are small and closely resemble the beret, tam and turban shapes we have been wearing all winter. But whatever type of hat you select you must look to your hair. Your hat will not look well if your tresses are not dressed to suit your chapeau. It is a splendid time to give your hair special treatments and we in Peterborough are fortunate in that we have such splendid beauty specialists who are so capable in this line of work. Sometimes a new style of coiffure will make you look like a different person. And do you know it makes all the difference in the world with the changing styles in head wear. Consult your hairdresser if you think you cannot wear the new hats.

The stores are just abounding these days with charming new dresses and suits for the warmer days that we are promised for sure within the next week or so. Ensembles consisting of a print dress and plain coat. Blouses of crinkled cotton and knitted silk in bright pattern, and hand embroidered linen, strike a new note with the practical suit Waist-length capes and suits with jackets that give the effect of capes, are also featured for warmer days Charming little taffeta suits have slim skirts with cut-away jackets that are fitted at front and feature a flare at the centre back below the waistline. With these are worn elaborate blouses of silk, chiffon or heavy lace and satin. Many of the new frocks have short sleeves with fullness concenthated near the elbow. Daytime skirts given movement by pleats or slight flares. Some afternoon and early season dancing frocks are almost ankle length and are in printed silks with high necklines, and an occasional one of these frocks boasts of a capelet.

HOURS OF RUBBING AND SCRUBBING? I SHOULD SAY NOT!

Try soaping your clothes with Pearl White Naptha Soap in the usual way, then soak them overnight in cold water. While you are sleeping Pearl seeks out each tiny atom of dirt and loosens it so effectively that there is no need for hard rubbing and scrubbing next morning. Just a quick, easy wash and thorough rinse will leave the clothes fresh and sparkling. Try it and learn how Pearl White Naptha brings you extra leisure.

"Mine is a large family and I used to dread the weekly wash. Then I discovered Pearl White Naptha. No more 'blue' Mondays! Pearl does the work for me and I don't feel a bit tired."

"My! how white Mother's linen is! I'm going to use Pearl when I'm married. I don't want to wear out my new linens with hard rubbing —I want them to last."

"I'm out working all day. I haven't much time for washing clothes and I don't want extra work at the end of a hard day. I use Pearl because it does my laundry more easily and quickly."

You will prefer Pearl White Naptha for more reasons than one. Buy a bar—it costs so little. Compare it with any other laundry soap. Its pure whiteness and clean, fresh smell will delight you. There's nothing like it to ensure a cleaner, sweeter wash in such a short time.

Cubs' Seven - Game Winning Streak Broken By Reds

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Granted that you are among the horde who just haven't time for practice, you still have time to warm up properly before you step onto the first tee.

Even if you have rushed out to the tee at the very last minute, you can well afford to take the practice swings necessary to warm up and get the proper feel of your clubs.

When you first take clubs out of the bag, pick a couple of iron or wood clubs of about the same length. Hold them together as you would a single club and swing them back and forth slowly.

The main idea is to have the weight of the clubs loosen up your muscles, so let them swing well over your back on both ends of your swing.

Swing the two clubs as long as you have time for. This will also keep your clubs from feeling heavy during the game.

CRICKET

An adjourned meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club was held at the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, April 25, with the vice-president, Mr. J. Lawrence, in the chair. The sub-committee which had been appointed to consider the question of juvenile cricket, the county championship, entertainment and transportation, etc., reported the result of their deliberations. After full discussion, viewing the matter from all angles, the policy of the club was settled.

Twelve counties have entered the county championship, and the interest of Peterborough County will be looked after by a committee of two representatives from each of the Peterborough C.C., Whitaker's C.C., Peterborough, and the Grove School, Lakefield, with the Rev. E. Worrall, of Havelock. There was a feeling of cheery optimism, and with keen, enthusiastic officials, the members are looking forward to a successful season.

There will be practice on Saturday afternoon, and afterwards every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at Nicholls Oval, to which all interested are cordially invited.

BOTTOMLEY'S CIRCUIT BLOW GIVES CINCINNATI 5-4 WIN TO BREAK CHICAGO'S MARCH

Klein Connects For His Fourth Homer of Season to Aid Cubs' Cause.

TIGERS REGAIN TOP.

Cronin Benches Three Regulars and Senators Bat Way to 10-7 Victory Over Sox.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With the first failure of a Cub starting pitcher to go the route, Chicago's seven-game winning streak that opened the National League season in somewhat sensational style has come to an end. And, oddly enough the only flinger who has shown signs of consistently good work for the Phillies, wound up that club's seven-game string of defeats at the same time.

The Cubs met their Waterloo yesterday facing Cincinnati Reds, a former "jinx" which has been thoroughly dissipated by five beatings so far this season. Charley Root, making his second start, ran into a streak of wildness in the second and had to give way to Bud Tinning.

Even then it took a ninth inning homer by Sunny Jim Bottomley to bring in the two runs that meant a Cincinnati victory by a 5-4 score.

First Win for Phillies

Fidgety Phil Collins, who had held the world champions to four hits in his first start, came right back at them with a five-hit hurling performance to pitch the Phills to their first triumph by a 3-2 count.

Pitching also took the outstanding positions in the other two National League games as Boston Braves turned back Brooklyn 2-0 in a duel between old Tom Zachary and young Emil Leonard in which each Elbower allowed six hits and Bill Hallahan's six-hit flinging aided St. Louis Cardinals in a 10-1 triumph over Pittsburgh.

A big shakeup at Washington, which brought highly gratfying results in the form of a 10-7 victory over Boston Red Sox, furnished the high spot of the American League's three-game program. Manager Joe Cronin benched Ossie Bluege, Buddy Myer and Johnny Stone in favor of Cecil Travis, Bob Boken and Sheriff Dave Harris, juggled his lineup around and came up with a combination that scored eight runs in the first two innings, pounded four flingers for 15 hits and won out even though Monte Weaver weakened and gave the Sox five tallies in the third.

2-1 Triumph for Tigers

Vic Sorrell's expert five-hit hurling and some timely hitting by Hank Greenberg gave Detroit's Tigers a 2-1 triumph over the White Sox and sent them back into first place even though Milt Gaston and Whitlow Wyatt limited them to six blows. A pair of rookies Pitcher Joe Cascarella and Frank Hayes led the Athletics to a 3-2 victory over the Yankees.

The Cleveland-St. Louis encounter was rained out.

(By Associated Press.)

A shakeup in the batting order plus the first really good pitching they've received this International League season had given comfort to supporters of Baltimore Orioles to-day.

Beaten five times in their first seven games by a combination of poor hurling, loose fielding, and the failure to hit in the pinches, the Orioles executed an abrupt about-face yesterday and trounced Buffalo Bisons 16-1, with a 20-hit attack supporting Beryl Richmond's two-hit pitching.

The Orioles, led by Keith Molesworth and Wally Gilbert, drummed four Bison pitchers for eight doubles, a home run, and 11 singles, scoring nine runs in the fifth. Molesworth drove in five runs with a home run, double and single, while Gilbert drove in four with a pair of doubles and a single Buddy Lewis' single, scoring Estel Crabtree, gave Rochester Red Wings a 6-5, 12-inning victory over Syracuse, and sole possession of first place. The Chiefs filled the bases with none out in the 10th, but could not score.

Leafs Even Series

Gene Schott allowed only six hits and was given airtight support as Toronto Maple Leafs dropped Newark Bears, 8-1. The Leafs fell on Spurgeon Chandler and Frank Makovsky for four hits in the third, and, with the aid of three passes and three Newark errors, scored seven runs. Schott allowed only two hits in the last seven innings and fanned six.

Home runs by Hal King and Manager Oscar Roettger helped Montreal Royals earn an 8-1 decision over Frank Coleman and Albany Senators. Clise Dudley gave up 10 hits but kept them spaced so they did little damage.

Canadian Sculler at Point Of Death

Joe Wright, Jr., Critically Ill

At death's door lay Joe Wright, Jr., once the British Empire's greatest sculler, and now coach and captain of Argonaut Rowing Club. Wright, attacked yesterday by an internal hemorrhage which followed a week's illness from an infected hand, lay critically ill in a Toronto hospital while doctors rushed preparations for a blood transfusion, or a series of transfusions, designed to bolster his ebbing strength.

JOE WRIGHT, JR. BATTLING HARD FOR HIS LIFE

Famous Canadian Sculler in Toronto Hospital Suffering From Internal Hemorrhage.

AFTER WEEKS' ILLNESS.

TORONTO, April 27.—Joe Wright, Jr., 1928 winner of the Diamond Sculls, captain and coach of the Argonaut Rowing Club and one of Canada's best-known sportsmen, was fighting for his life in a private ward of St. Michael's Hospital last night, victim of an internal hemorrhage which seized him yesterday afternoon after a week's illness from an infected right hand.

Late last night his condition remained unchanged as physicians prepared for a transfusion, or possibly a series of transfusions if necessary, to be administered to-day.

Only the fact that he possesses such a remarkable physique and was always in the pink of condition through his rowing activities, enabled him so far to withstand the loss of the tremendous amount of blood he suffered in the hemorrhage, doctors stated.

Rowing practice at the Argonaut Rowing Club was temporarily suspended early last evening as word of their captain's critical condition reached its members and nearly a score hurried to St. Michael's Hospital to offer their blood for the transfusions which will be made today. Late last night, Wright's physician stated that he would be given one transfusion this morning and possibly two or three.

Husky oarsmen of the club trickled into the hospital all evening to obtain the latest report on their coach's condition and offer their blood for tests. The transfusian required Class 1 blood and although most of the members rated Class two and three, it was reported, it was indicated that sufficient blood of the adequate type would be obtainable.

Dr. Lamb To Manage Team To Australia

Director of Physical Education at McGill Requested to Accept Post.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(C.P.) — Dr. Arthur S. Lamb, director of physical education at McGill University, Montreal, has been requested by the National Committee on the Intra-Empire school boy meet to be held in Australia Oct. 10, to act as manager of the Dominion's team. The team, which will be composed of 12 boys, remains to be selected.

Dr. Lamb expressed himself as "highly honored" at being chosen, but pointed out his choice remained to be ratified by the Board of Governors of McGill University.

The Intra-Empire meet, which will see schoolboys from all the Dominion participating, is related to the British Empire game movement. The meet will be held in conjunction with the centennary anniversaries of the Cities of Melbourne and Victoria, Australia.

To represent Canada at the games, Dr. Lamb stated, 12 schoolboy athletes will be chosen. They will be picked following competitions in each of the Provinces this summer.

League Plans Junior Ball Revival In City

INTERMEDIATE SECTION UNDER CONSIDERATION

Entries From East City, West End, Curve Lake and Lakefield Invited.

JUNIORS IN DISTRICT.

Jack Deannard was elected president last night of the City Baseball League for 1934 at a general meeting held in Duffus' Board Room. There was a fair representation on hand and a note of optimism prevailed as plans were made for a bigger and better minor league circuit than has operated here in years. Eight teams are expected in now, with the possibility of more.

A suggestion was made of considerable interest concerning the forming of an intermediate section to the City League, this section to be in the nature of a Peterborough County division with possible teams being an East City one, a West End outfit, and entries from Curve Lake and Lakefield. This was left over for the present, with any such squads interested being advised to notify The Examiner or a league official.

Juniors in District.

Pat Calladine stated he would enter a junior team if he was assured of competition, whether outside the city or inside. The secretary was advised to get in touch with Lindsay, Lakefield, Millbrook and Norwood, toward the organizing of such a junior section. There is also the possibility that the local team could play in the Lakeshore Junior League. Herb Ralph expects to have his Terriers in the juvenile section and informed the meeting that Harvey Smith was thinking of entering a juvenile team from Ashburnham.

R. Brady said he woud enter his Leafs in the bantam section. Jack Deannard stated he hoped to get entries, probably bantam, from Lalemand's, Silverwood Dairy, Blue Sunoco and Campbell's Dairy. These will be checked up on shortly.

Officers elected for the coming year were: Honorary president, George Hewitt; honorary vice-president, Max Swanston; president, Jack Deannard; secretary, Mike O'Brien; these officers with an executive of three members to be appointed by the president.

League Assistance.

A motion was passed that no subscription list could be circulated by City League team managers without a written order to this effect, signed by the league president and secretary and the Chief of Police. It was also suggested that any individual or shop or factory wishing to aid this league without taking active part or having names made public would be welcomed and invited to inform The Examiner Sports' Dept. or a league officer. William Kay, O.B.A.A. representative, advised the meeting that he for the rich Humbletonian stakes. the Ontario Association as a gift to the City League. Various other matters were discussed, and the officers will check up on possible team entries before the next meeting, which will be held in Duffus' at eight o'clock Wednesday evening, May 9th, when final plans will be made before the season opens. The session then adjourned.

HOCKEY LEAFS LEAD ON TOUR

Have Won Three Games Against Two for Detroit While One is Tied.

SERIES ENDED.

VANCOUVER, April 27. (CP).—The barnstorming tour of Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings was ended to-day.

In the six games played in Winnipeg, Trail, B.C., and in Vancouver, the Canadian division champions of the National Hockey League won three games against two for the N.H.L. titlists, while one was tied.

Leafs came through with a 7-5 victory here last night in the final game of the tour. Previously the teams had split two games in Winnipeg, Leafs won the Trail fixture, the first game here ended in a tie with Wings taking the second.

Both teams had to split a $500 purse off red for the winner of the tree game series here, despite an overtime period. The game was called at the end of the regular time, with the Leafs winning. But the Leaf victory tied up the series. No goals were scored in the overtime so the purse was split.

Toronto took the lead on a goal by Ken Doraty before three minutes had elapsed and were never headed. At the end of the first period Leafs led 3-2 and they pushed their advantage up to 6-3 at the end of the second period. Wing tried hard but couldn't overhaul them in the final period.

Charlie Conacher, leading point-maker in the N.H.L. during the season, led the Leaf snipers with three goals. Toronto's other markers, beside the Doraty goal, were scored by Bill Thoms, Harvey Jackson and King Clancy.

Laurie Aurie hit the netting once in each period to cop the lions share of the Detroit points. Herbie Lewis and Jack Riley got the other two.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Tonight at 8.30 in the Armouries, two senior lacrosse squads tangle in an exhibition game. Proceeds to go to the eye clinic fund of the Kinsmen's Club. This tussle up in the barracks this eve should be plenty exciting and well worth sauntering up that way for. You lay two bits on the line and you go inside and grab yourself an armful of the plain and assorted thrills that the box-lacrossers ladle out while play is on. The Petes think they're good enough for senior company and should give this Toronto aggregation of stars an extremely busy hour or so trying to prove their assertion. Lacrosse fans and other lovers of fast sports should get an eyeful of tonight's game.

• • • • • • •

Just another crack or two about hockey before the weather finally turns summery. We see by the Belleville paper where Pete Morgan of that town, Jo-Jo Graboski of Oshawa and Peterson of Queen's, are all headed for Brockville, making it appear as if the Magedomas there are casting eyes at the 1935 Allan Cup and the honor of representing Canada at the Olympics the following winter. If the Petes could import four brilliant stars before September 15th—well, who knows but this burg might make a big splash in the amateur hockey puddle next winter.

• • • • • • •

Peeney Mills has been re-elected manager of the Nats this year. He expects to do considerable catching again, and fans around the circuit will be glad to hear this. Old Peeney is still a fine receiver and a dangerous bird at the plate. And he's got a lot of color—riding opposing players and fans, and arguing with the referees. His little trick of walking around in a circle, kicking up dust in disgust and delaying the game when things don't suit him always draws boos—what he lives on. Jack Williams will be back this season, and if the Chief has anything left in that cunning twirling arm of his, a bunch of the younger batters will wish he had not been re-instated. The Nats are to have new uniforms and a new outfit. They are in favor of a triple schedule in the C.O.B.L.

• • • • • • •

Two local softball meetings are listed for Duffus' next Wednesday, May 2nd. Gals' loops executive meets at eight bells, while the men's circuit executive holds session at 7.30 there. Much important business will come up at both. Meantime, both leagues want a few more entries and they should notify the secretaries beforehand and have a representative present at the Wednesday conclaves. Once it comes the first of May, all softball teams should be started to organize and practise as their schedules open three weeks later.

• • • • • • •

Prospects cleared up considerably last night at the City Baseball League meeting, and everything appears smooth sailing from now on. Of course, a number of possible entrants must be seen and slipped the necessary information before they'll definitely enter but we imagine there should be a well-rounded circuit formed by the next meeting, May 9th. Last night it was stated definitely that a junior and a bantam squad were ready to step in, and two juveniles. Others who had evinced interest and were seriously thinking of joining included: Bud Hickey of Fashion-Craft, Lallemand's Yeast Co., Silverwood Dairy, Campbell's Dairy and Blue Sunoco. These are all interested in minor local baseball, and if some of the service clubs would also take an interest—why, this loop couldn't be beaten in Ontario!

• • • • • • •

Most of those at the meeting felt that with the Public School League going off the baseball standard it was a fine chance to develop bantam teams, there being hundreds of boys with school baseball experience, young enough to play as bantams, and anxious to stay in baseball. The wiser manager will enter his team in the bantam section. Age-limits are: Juniors, under twenty by May 1st of this year; juveniles, under eighteen by May 1st; and bantams, under sixteen by May 1st. It shouldn't cost any more than twenty-five or thirty bucks to start a bantam team, there being no entry fee and no uniforms being necessary. In fact, we'd advise the loop to pass a rule that no uniforms be allowed in bantam or juvenile series, till the Provincial playdowns commence, when they may be borrowed. Sweat-shirts are okay with the name of the team on them, but buying uniforms for one team and not for another causes the former to get a corner on most of the players.

• • • • • • •

A good suggestion was made and that is that an intermediate section be formed this year, a sort of Peterborough County division. There is a team in East City, made up of fair ball players, who tour around through the summer playing exhibition games. They played hockey in the West End League last winter. They might enter, and one from the West End, under someone like Harry McFadden. Then, Curve Lake, Lakefield or Bridgenorth, might be willing to enter. None of the teams could be too strong—the O.B.A.A. has definite classes for teams of every calibre—and they could play organized ball against fair competition. Expenses are low. No action was taken, it being felt that those interested could get in touch with this writer or a league official, or have representatives at the next meeting if they're interested.

• • • • • • •

Officers elected were: Hon. Pres., George Hewitt; honorary vice, Max Swanston; president, Jack Deannard; secretary, Mike O'Brien; and three executive members to be appointed by the president. These are all good friends of the City League, along with Bill Kay, Bill Prindible, Herb Ralph and Pat Calladine, who were present, with others, last night. Jack Deannard will make a fine working prexy, a man who refused to touch higher baseball series, contenting himself with developing players in the City League. Shops, factories or individuals wanting to help out here—without publicity or active work—ought to get in touch with us. And all are advised to donate no money to so-called City League team managers with subscription lists unless these lists are signed by the president, secretary and Chief of Police. Places to be communicated with regarding entering teams in this loop include: Lindsay, Lakefield, Curve Lake, Norwood, Bridgenorth and Millbrook. More anon.

EDMONTON GRADS WIN SECOND GAME

Windsor Alumnae Gives Westerners Hard Tussle But Lose 47-30.

EDMONTON, April 27 (C.P.).—Appearing like a new team, Windsor-Walkerville Alumnae to-day had come closer to toppling Edmonton Commercial Grads and were building hopes of winning the third game of the five-game series for the women's basketball championship of the Dominion on Saturday night.

Entirely forgetting their 84-20 trouncing in the first game, the Eastern Canada titlists went over the sturdy Albertans with a fast, steady stride last night, but they tired in the final quarter and came out on the short end of a 47-30 score. If Grads win on Saturday night, they will retain their title while a win for Alumnae will force a fourth tussle

The 17-point margin was the narrowest victory Grads earned in the Canadian titular play since Toronto Lakesides held them to a 41-27 score in the second game of the 1930 championship series.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Charlie Grey,
R.R. No. 2, Havelock, Ont.

Your handwriting with its variable shape and size is almost an answer to the poem which you sent me entitle "Hustle" for it appears to me that you are in the habit of doing that very thing, when a slow method would have worked out much better, so my advice to you is: "Make haste slowly". Your letter 'd' at the end of each 'and' which is left without a downstroke, shows that you like to do a lot of talking, but you do not seem to accomplish much. You could, if you would settle down to it, and I hope that when you are a little older, you will experience the joy of much work accomplished, through clear straight thinking. The capital 'h' in Havelock, illustrates constructive qualities, and it may in time lead you to bridgebuilding, or to being a foreman of constructive works. The mentality is there, and there is no logical reason why you should not make it bring you success. You are humorous, and seem to be fond of certain types of music. This might, of course, mean vocal or instrumental, or only just in hearing it. Your 't' bar crossings show a will-power which is not quite developed as yet, but which I sincerely hope will be in the near future. The last word 'hustle' on the second page of your sample shows impulsive qualities.

Thomas F. Gorman,
Hastings, Ont.

Your handwriting with all its peculiar quirks and flourishes is an interesting study along graphological lines. There are so many things that one can see in this type of writing, that it is rather difficult to express them all without touching a tender spot in your 'make-up' somewhere. However I shall endeavour to coat over the very rought and smooth out the effect of harsh words if possible. In the first place: If you ever desire success, you will have to come down off your vividly imaginative 'perch' as it were, and try to think, clearly, definitely and conscientiously. You see, you are so emotional, and easily swayed by those emotions that you do not seem to exercise your own mind correctly. This in turn has tiful noted in some of your letters, but instead of this qualification assisting you, it makes you pleasure loving. Your long wavy 't' bars express this trait too. Some of your smaller formations as in the word Hastings, show slight indications of a skill which I shall call technical, and through this characteristic, though only slight at present, it is possible for you to train your mind and become adept in the science of engineering, or in a mechanical line. Aviation also might fill the bill for you. You see, you are a dreamer, and you have such a lot of really splendid ideas in your head, but you do not yet know how to use them. I venture to suggest that you will go steadily up the ladder towards success from now on (that is if my words have helped you and not hurt you) for you are clever beyond the average, and it would be a great pity to let such talent follow along the path of misdirected energy. You are quite youthful at present, and here's hoping you will lift up your head and face the world with a smile, and say to yourself: "I can win, and I will." Your birthsign is Taurus the Bull, which governs all those who are born between April 21st and May 22nd. You are ruled by Venus, which accounts for your a tendency to cause people to think that you are not exactly reliable, for though you say you will do so and so, you are apt to forget to do it, and then you are blamed for not keeping your word. Now if you could train your mind, and put it to constructive or practical use you might in time overcome the habit of meaning to do things, and not doing them. There is a love of the beau- love of beauty. Friday is your lucky day. Nine is your number. May and July are your best months.

James B. Harnden,
Havelock, Ont.

Your handwrting portrays youthful qualities, and it also represents a persistent nature. You realize what you want and set out deliberately to make what you want come true. This is the spirit of progress, but you will have to exercise a great deal of care in order to prevent this characteristic from developing into stubborness. I am inclined to think that after a while when you have learned to concentrate, that you will be deeply interested in psychology, for there is a noteworthy tendency to 'question' things, portrayed in your writing. You already have a flare for writing or poetry, and if your poetry is full of philosophy, it will grow with the passing years, and who knows? You might be another 'Edgar Guest'. This would not be the only line which you could follow with merit, for you are inclined to be an expert at mechanical things, but this, as also the other attributes, will have to develop as you grow older. Your lucky number is three. Your birthsign is Leo the Lion. You are ruled by the Sun. January and October are your best months. Sunday your most fortunate day.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 28.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

JUDGING BY this day's lunar and mutual aspects there should be much liveliness with probably startling developments of a quite unforeseen nature. There is augury of a sweeping change, suddenly precipitated and carrying some perils or devastations, unless tenaciously held at bay by determination, steadfastness and ceaseless industry and application.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of the unexpected, with some disintegrating influences making way for new propositions and environs.

A child born on this day may be inventive, original, adventurous and may attain important public position, with aid of elders.

FORESTRY DEPARTMENT PLANTING 6,000 TREES IN TOWN OF LINDSAY

17 Transients Find Shelter in Police Station Over Night.

WOMAN IS INJURED

LINDSAY, April 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. James Anderson and daughters, Margaret and Kathleen, of Mariposa Township, were victims of a motor accident near the village of Woodville this week. Something went wrong with the car, causing Mrs. Anderson to lose control. It took to the ditch and overturned. Mrs. Anderson received nasty cuts in both legs as well as body bruises, while her daughters escaped with a shaking up. They were taken to Woodville for medical treatment.

A representative of the Forestry Branch of the Department of Lands and Mines has commenced work with a staff of men planting 6,000 trees in town which were supplied by the Government. The trees include walnut, red and white spruce, beech and cedar.

Fall Wheat Killed.

Farmers in this district report that fall wheat is almost a complete loss as a result of the prolonged cold spell. A survey of the district also discloses the fact that there has been no grass growth, and that the outlook for clover is anything but promising. Very little spring work has been done in the fields.

The town is the mecca at present of a great many transients, seventeen of them having found shelter in the police station Wednesday night. They are all young men who flocked into town expecting to get work in the construction camps in the north country.

DILLINEGR, PAL WOUNDED TWICE PAST 6 WEEKS

St. Paul Health Official Suspended on Admitting He Dressed Injuries.

AT GUN POINT.

Occurred After Mason City $52,00 Bank Hold-up March 13.

ST. PAUL, April 27 (A.P.)—With the suspension of St. Paul's City Health Officer yesterday it became known that both John Dillinger and his first lieutenant, John Hamilton, were shot and wounded while raiding the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, last March 13.

The officer, Dr. N. G. Mortensen, was suspended by John McDonald, Commissioner of Public Safety, after Federal agents disclosed Dr. Mortensen had been forced to dress wounds Dillinger and Hamilton suffered in the Mason City robbery.

Both Dillinger and Hamilton have been sought for various crimes but this was the first time they had been definitely connected with the Mason City holdup which netted seven machine gun bandits $52,344 and resulted in the wounding of a by-stander when the raiders sprayed the town's main street with bullets in their getaway.

It was learned yesterday that Dillinger and Hamilton suffered shoulder wounds during the Mason City raid.

Faced With Machine Gun

Dr. Mortensen told authorities that a day after the robbery early on March 14, three men came to his home. He said one carried a machine gun and told him that they wanted him to dress wounds two of the men had suffered.

Dr. Mortensen said that Dillinger and Hamilton had been treated for shoulder wounds. He said he changed the bandages and told the visitors to meet him at his office the next day. They did not do so. Dr. Mortensen told authorities he had planned to notify them when the outlaws came to his office.

Thus Dillinger, the phantom outlaw whose arrrest escapade occurred Sunday night when a large force of Federal agents trapped his gang in a Mercer, Wis., summer resort, has begn shot twice within six weeks. The desperadoes shot their way to freedom, killing two men and wounding four others.

Dillinger's other wound was suffered March 31 when he and at least two associates blasted their way out of a police and Federal trap in a St. Paul apartment.

Dr. Mortensen, who is prominent in American Legion circles, and is president of the State Board of Health, was named City Health Officer about two months ago.

TWO CONVICTS KIDNAP POLICE

Escaped Desperadoes Surprise Officers Hunting Them by Car.

BOTH HEAVILY ARMED.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., April 27.—(A.P. — Two desperate convicts, heavily armed to-day held the fate of two kidnapped policemen in their hands.

The pair, Wanda St. Stewart, 29-year old robber and Walter H. Wyeth, 40. robber and forger, escaped from San Quentin prison yesterday after slugging a guard. They fled in an automobile in which the olicemen had been seeking them, with their intended captors as hostages.

Arms known to be in the possession of the convicts include three revolvers, two rifles, a shotgun, a hunting knife and many rounds of ammunition. Except for one pistol taken from the prison guard, the weapons were in the police automobile.

Kenneth Wulbern, service station attendant who witnessed the abduction, said the officers were apparently surprised to find the convicts armed when the pair suddenly leaed on the running board of the police car. The machine drove away with Dewey at the wheel before Wulbern realized what was happening.

BISHOP FLEMING HEARD AT GROVE

Some Phases of Work at Northland Described by Speaker.

LAKEFIELD, April 27.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Bishop A. L. Fleming of the newly created diocese of the Arctic was the guest speaker at The Grove assembly hall on Monday evening and gave a very interesting address in the far northland or rather some phases of that great work which includes, besides the actual holding of services and bringing Christianity to the pagan tribes, medical and hospital work and the educational side. Bishop Fleming announced himself as a Scotchman, which recalled the fact of the enormous contribution made by Scotchmen in the missionary work on this continent, and the honor roll of the Church of England work in Canada has many names of devout Scots who have nobly worked as heralds of the Cross.

The bishop has spoken in some of the church schools in England, in Bishop College and Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, P.Q., Appleby School and Trinity College School, Hatfield Hall and other Canadian church schools.

Very Large Diocese.

The region which comprises the diocese of the Arctic comprises two and a quarter million square miles, with a widely scattered population of only 10,000. The advent of the aeroplane as a means of transport has done a great deal for that far northland, helping materially in opening up that wonderful land. Mr. George Douglas, who was in the audience, is one of the pioneer explorers in the region of the Coppermine River and Great Bear Lake and has made a noteworthy contribution to the opening up of that wonderful territory.

The pictures, which were tremendously interesting, were mainly taken by the bishop and some were taken by the Government photographer, David Finney. The map of Canada showed the relative positions of Aklavik and Shingle Point in relation to Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal.

This year we in the south became interested especially in Aklavik in hearing its temperature given in the daily weather bulletins, and it was interesting to see the excellent air picture of it with its church, which the bishop announced as his pro-cathedral, and the hospital which has been so valuable in the work among the sick, both white and native. Rev. Thomas Murray, the missionary at this point, was shown with his wife and baby and the doctors and nurses of All Saints' hospital which is maintained by the Anglican Church and is the most northerly in the British Empire. Several pictures showed "Wop" May, the noted airman, in his plane with his mechanic.

Shingle Point is a smaller settlement than Aklavik and lies west and north. The speaker will go back within a few weeks, calling probably at Hay River and Fort Simpson (an historic Hudson Bay fort) en route and will spend five weeks on the coast, travelling by canoe, motor boat and schooner.

Doing Good Work.

At Shingle Point is a residential school which has done a great work. The mission has been guaranteed funds to open a new mission at Cambridge Bay, Victoria Island, through the generosity of an unknown doner in England, who communicates through a firm of Piccadilly lawyers. The work of converting the Eskimo from paganism has been productive of splendid results, and they have proved to be earnest and devout Christians, taking an interest in their church and showing great loyalty to the missionaries.

There are two residential schools in the district and eleven day schools, and two hospitals, equipped with electric light and x-ray. Major Ingram in crossing Great Bear Lake in a motor boat, fighting the ice all the way, had the added misfortune of having the boat take fire. Saved by an aeroplane, but suffering from severe burns and frost bite, a grim and serious combination, he was taken to hospital in Aklavik and his life spared.

The mission work is in four distinct classes—evangelization, education, medical and hospital, and pastoral parish work.

The hospital at Aklavik was donated by Col. and Mrs. R. W. Leonard, of St. Catharines, and is of enormous value in that northern outpost. There are sixteen clergy, 26 women workers and a number of native lay workers.

The mineral wealth of the north is attracting some white settlers, but the Eskimo are not interested; they are hunters and live by hunting the seal, walrus, polar bears, etc. They sell the furs and obtain fair prices for them.

Pond Inlet is 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle, and there there is six months of sunshine and six months of darkness. The midnight sun sounds romantic, but it has its drawbacks.

The missionary finds the north a land of distances, sunrise and sunsets. The Indians and Eskimos are fine people and one learns to love them.

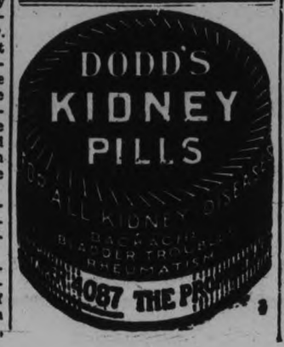
Answering a question regarding the health of Sam who was a pupil at The Grove for a year with Ben, who was drowned some time ago, the bishop said that Sam was well. He had had a letter recently from him, saying that he was hunting with his brother, his stepfather was dead. The Grove supports a bed in the hospital in the northeastern part of that great land as a lasting memorial to little Ben, who, with Sam, was a pupil at The Grove and greatly beloved by teachers and pupils alike. Parcels are sent regularly for the school and the contact kept up.

Pictures were shown of the building of an igloo and a house warming staged by the natives to honor the missionary.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, D.D., M.A., headmaster of the school, introduced the genial bishop, and at the close of the address, expressed the thanks of the staff and pupils and friends who had attended the lecture by his kind invitation for a real treat. "One is inclined," said Dr. Mackenzie, "to think of a bishop as a detached person who lives in a palace and travels in a motor car, but Bishop Fleming lives for part of the year in an igloo and travels in an aeroplane."

The hearty applause which followed showed the hearty appreciation of the audience, consisting of the staff and pupils of the schools, friends and interested people from the village who accepted the kind invitation of Dr. Mackenzie to be present.

FEWER COLDS VICKS Nose & Throat DROPS
NEW AID IN PREVENTING COLDS



ON THIS DATE
A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY
By Fred Williams

A MUCH TORTURED PRIEST

On this date, in 1644 began the terrible tortures of Father Joseph Bressani. Born at Rome in 1612 he joined the Society of Jesus and came to Canada, in 1642, the year of the founding of Montreal. Having trained for two years at Quebec and Three Rivers, he set out for the Huron mission in a canoe. But hardly had he got into Lake St. Peter before he was captured by Iroquois and taken to their village. There he was subjected to all sorts of incredible tortures for weeks until his sturdy frame was reduced to a skeleton. Finally, convinced that he would not recant Christianity, the chiefs handed him over to an aged squaw to be her servant. She took pity upon him, dressed his wounds, and eventually enabled him to escape towards Lake Champlain. From there he made his way south, aided by the Dutch until he reached New Amsterdam (New York) where he rested for a while, writing a minute description of his experience with the Iroquois.

Then embarking upon a vessel bound for Holland he found the sea had its perils as well as the land, for the ship was chased by Turkish corsairs for weeks, but finally escaped in a fog and eventually reached Holland. From there Father Bressani proceeded to Rome, saw his kinsfolk and had an interview with Pope Innocent X, who gave his blessing. It had been the priest's intention to remain at Rome, but the call of the Cross was too strong and he returned to Quebec, whence he proceeded to the Huron Mission in Georgian Bay in the summer of 1645. But he was of little use. He did not know the language and his mutiliated hands were useless, for he had only one finger left, and from that the nail had been torn by his torturers in the Iroquois village.

He returned to Three Rivers in July 1648, and so escaped being in the raid in which Father Daniel was killed, but was back the next summer only to return in the fall with the Huron flotilla to Quebec. In 1650 he started from Quebec with supplies for the Huron Mission but just above Three Rivers met the remnant of the mission on their way out, after the wiping out of the Huron villages. And so Huronia was left in silence for a century until the axe of the white settler turned the once crowded territory of the Hurons into homes for Christians and laid the foundations of the present county of Simcoe, Ontario.

Father Bressani returned to Italy and died at Florence in 1652, only 40 years old, but always bearing to his death the marks of those awful privations which he endured amid the savage Iroquois.

THE MARKETS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

With the exception of a slight decline in cheese prices, quotations remained steady on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday.

Current Ontario cheese eased ¼c at 10¾c a pound, while summer white and colored Ontario was quoted firm at 11½c to 12½c a pound. Receipts were 28 boxes.

In carlots or less fresh No. 1 butter sold at 21½c to 22½c a pound, with solids being quoted to retailers at 23c, and prints 24c a pound. Arrivals totalled 659 boxes.

Eggs were unchanged, graded shipments in carlots or less selling at 19c to 19½c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18½c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for 'B' and 16c to 16¼c for 'C'. Receipts amounted to 3,191 cases.

Quebec potatoes, per 80-pound bag, were 95c to $1 and New Brunswick Mountains, per 80-pound bag, at $1 to $1.05. Prince Edward Island Mountains sold at $1.20 to $1.25 per 90-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Sensationally adverse spring crop conditions led to late rallies of wheat prices yesterday and about overcame early downturns of more than a cent a bushel.

The transient setbacks of wheat values were associated with fears of renewed liquidation of May contracts and with disappointment over a conference agreement at Washington to enforce 3 cents tax per $100 valuation on commodity futures transactions, whereas the Senate had proposed a cut to 1 cent from 5 cents. On the other hand, authoritative trade reports indicated that exceptionally favorable weather hereafter would be requisite to produce even a fair outturn of domestic spring wheat this season.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to ½c lower, compared with Wednesday's finish; corn, ⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 3c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 27. — With export demand curtailed and little encouragement offered either from Liverpool or Chicago wheat prices hovered around previous closing levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday and finally closed ⅛c to ⅜c lower.

A little buying near the finish, coupled with a reaction at Chicago from bottom levels, strengthened the two near-by futures, but October failed to respond and closed at 67¼c. May and July wound up at 64⅝c and 65½c, respectively.

Offerings were not particularly heavy, but there always appeared to be wheat for sale and the market had a slightly heavy appearance most of the morning.

Cash grains continued in the rut of the past several days, while the coarse grains followed the action of wheat, maving within a narrow range.

Widow's Long Vigil in Belmont Ends

BELMONT MAN'S REMAINS BURIED IN FAMILY PLOT

Mrs. Buchanan is Removed After Examination, to Whitby Hospital.

GUARDED BODY.

Husband Died on December 3—Widow Would Not Permit Burial.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, April 28. — Mrs. John Clark Buchanan's winter long vigil over the unburied remains of her husband ended yesterday when she was committed to the Whitby Hospital.

Her husband died on December 3, but Mrs. Buchanan refused to permit burial unless her son, Lon C., a patient at Whitby Hospital, was permitted to attend the service. She claimed she had pledged her husband on his deathbed that she would see to it that their son was present at the funeral. The burial might have been held with the son present as she wished, but the young man became seriously ill and could not be moved.

Kept Body in Tent

She kept the body in its coffin in a tent beside her home and guarded it jealously, refusing to permit any effort at burial although friends and relatives of husband pleaded with her to have the remains interred in the family plot.

In the interest of public health, the authorities finally took action to end the undesirable condition.

It is understood that Attorney General W. H. Price had ordered the mental examination of the woman by two doctors. This examination was made and the papers were sent to Queen's Park. Yesterday Whitby Hospital authorities went to her home and removed her to the hospital.

Residents of the district had become frightened of Mrs. Buchanan, since it was reported that she kept a loaded shotgun at hand to prevent intrusion. It was common knowledge during the past week that with her own hands she was fashioning a vault of wood in which to place her husband's body at its last resting place.

The remains of Mr. Buchanan were interred to-day in Maple Grove cemetery.

FRANCE READY MAY DAY RIOTS

Cabinet Picks Force to Operate Wire Service Through Strike.

REDS ACTIVE.

PARIS, April 28 (A.P.). — The Cabinet of Premier Doumergue struck a smashing blow to-day at the projected May Day general strike through a plan to assure communications.

A picked force of trusted men was created at the Cabinet's order to operate skeleton wire and wireless systems in France and her colonies for the day.

This special staff, it was disclosed, will be maintained permanently to act when necessary to prevent the paralysis of the country by strikes.

It was brought out by officials that Communist operators during the demonstrations of April 13 almost succeeded in a plot to seize radio stations and broadcast propaganda.

They were prevented only by the prompt activity of loyal engineers in cutting power cables and wrecking some machinery.

There was no further indication to-day of what leaders plan in connection with the May Day strike urged in protest against recent Government economy decrees.

Whiskey Worth $5,000,000 Is Lost In Fire As Warehouses Burn, Trapping Watchman

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28.—(A P)—Old whiskey valued at more than $5,000,000 went up in smoke early today when a spectacular fire destroyed four warehouses at the old pepper distillery..

Stanley Travis, 24, watchman who was trapped between two blazing buildings, died of terrible burns. The bottling plant and a small building used as an office also were destroyed. A $400,000 distilling plant, not yet completed, was threatened by the flames, but was saved. Twenty thousand barrelsof liquor were lost.

The property was owned by the Schenley Products Company of New York.

English Soccer Cup

Here is the famed English Cup, to England what the Stanley Cup or Allan Cup is to Canada, save for the fact that the cup itself seems to be a bit more presentable. Two great soccer teams, Manchester City and Portsmouth attracted 93,000 people to Wembley Stadium to-day in dull weather, the former winning 2-1. It is still one of the world's greatest sporting attractions.

TO ALLOW USE TWO DIP NETS

Mayor Roland Denne Receives Permit From Federal Department.

FOR UNEMPLOYED.

As the result of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association's representations to Ottawa that some modifications to Ottawa that some gulations prohibiting the gaffing and netting of suckers should be made in order that local unemployed might not be deprived of securing some fish, Mayor Denne today received a permit from the Federal Department for the use of two dip nets in local waters.

The permit was worded as follows: "In view of the urgent need of relief, permission is hereby granted to Mayor Denne, or to any two persons named by him to operate two dipnets not to exceed ten feet by ten feet in the waters of Peterborough county for the taking of coarse fish. This fish taken under the authority of this permit must not be sold or bartered, but are to be distributed among the unemployed of the City of Peterborough."

Mayor Denne stated that he was turning the permit over to Alex Weddell, president of the local Fish and Game Association, and it is probable the permission granted will be acted upon immediately by the association.

In a letter from D. McDonald, Deputy Minister, it was stated that the mayor could obtain more permits of a similar kind if they were desired.

FRED McARTHUR IS AGAIN CHOICE OF CONVENTION

Warkworth Town Hall Filled to Capacity for Tory Convention.

DEFEND ROAD PROJECTS.

Hon. William Finlayson Principal Speaker of the Afternoon.

WARKWORTH, April 28.—Fred J. McArthur of Cobourg, representative for Northumberland in the Henry Government, was accorded unanimous re-nomination Friday afternoon by the Conservatives of the riding at the second convention held here this week.

The town hall was again crowded to its corners, with a large representation from every section of the county, and Mr. McArthur received a demonstrative ovation when the chairman, John R. Allan of Cobourg, announced that the party's mandate had been again entrusted to Mr. McArthur.

Hon. William Finalyson, Minister of Lands and Forests and Northern Development, was the principal speakers of the afternoon.

Mr. McArthur was proposed by C. H. Davidson of Campbellford and W. J. Ross of Brighton.

Reeve F. K. Denyes of Brighton township and Harry G. Phillips of Brighton village were also proposed, but both declined to enter the convention lists.

Mr. Denyes was proposed by Vernon Coulter of Smithfield and W. H. Nelson of Warkworth; and the sponsors of Mr. Phillips were R. J. Ross and W. Armstrong of Brighton.

Convention Contrast

In his address to the acclaiming audience Mr. McArthur alluded to the Liberal convention here on Wednesday.

"Compare the two pictures. There were six contestants on Wednesday. Two gracefully retired, and the other four went out to devour each other. One section of the riding was determined to overthrow the other without any thought as to what was fair, legal and right.

I would like to ask the chairman of that convention if they counted the ballots and also the number of the people present. They had portable ballot boxes, and they went up and down with them even out on to the highway and to people sitting in automobiles. Some voted twice, others four times and some even eight times. It will go down in the history of this county as the ballot-stuffing convention.

A Respectable Convention.

Today you see here a respectable, high-class, representative gathering of Conservatives, who have come

Germany Refuses Dictation On Arms

BERLIN, April 28.—(A.P.)—Germany, serving notice she no longer intends to submit to dictation, stood firm to-day for adequate defensive armaments—despite a blast of criticism from other nations, particularly France.

"Victor powers are no longer free to act as they please in the matter of disarmament," declared Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath.

"The days of imposing ultimatums and dictation upon Germany are gone."

Addressing German newspapermen yesterday, Baron Von Neurath voiced the Nazi attitude in a speech in which he assailed "the French Intransigeance" in striving "to keep Germany permanently in a state of inferior rights and inferior rank.

SECOND BLOOD TRANSFUSION IS GIVEN SCULLER

Life Giving Donation Made by Lionel Conacher, Chicago Hawk Star.

CONDITION CRITICAL.

Oarsman's mother, a Patient in Same Hospital, Uninformed of Son's Condition.

TORONTO, April 28. — (CP) — Joe Wright Jr., seriously ill with blood poisoning, was given a second transfusion this morning. Lionel Conacher, Chicago Black Hawk defence star, gave his blood to the famous oarsman, a close friend.

Wright, former holder of the Diamond Sculls, rallied after a transfusion given by George Stockwell, Argonaut Rowing Club trainer, yesterday but suffered a relapse during the night. The hockey star who had previous offered his blood and been typed was called this morning and rushed to Wright's bedside.

Physicians attending Wright hoped the new blood would bolster his strength but indicated his condition is critical.

Mother Uninformed

Wright, captain and coach of the Argonaut Rowing Club, is suffering from blood poisoning which started a week ago after he pulled an ingrown hair from his wrist. Thursday an internal hemorrhage occurred and he was rushed to hospital. A transfusion was made yesterday and another supply of new blood will be given him later today.

Martha Norelius Wright, famous professional swimmer, was called to her husband's bedside early today when the relapse occurred. His mother is a patient in the same hospital as the young sculler and has not been informed of his condition. Joe Wright Sr., in his day as famous an oarsman and coach as his son, was affected so by the illness of Mrs. Wright and his son that his doctor ordered him to bed yesterday.

NEW BEER LAW IS CLARIFIED

Hon. Wm. Finlayson Says Only High Class Standard Hotels May Sell It.

TEMPERANCE MEASURE.

No beer licenses will be granted to Italian, Greek and Chinese restaurants, Hon. Wm. Finlayson told the Conservative convention at Warkworth yesterday, replying to a question by Dr. J. H. Hess of Hastings, who said there was considerable doubt in the minds of electors, especially women, regarding the Government's plan.

"High-class standard hotels may have the right to sell beer by the glass if the Liquor Control Board deems it advisable," Mr. Finlayson said. "There was a similar feeling of apprehension in 1926, but temperance people have since realized that their doubts are unfounded. They have said they were mistaken, and are glad that Ontario was not stampeded into what has happened in the United States and other provinces. Now the Government is trying to carry it a step further and to say where people can get beer by the glass if they want it. Personally, I think that liquor is a waste and extravagance, but I would rather see a man have the chance to get a glass of beer at five cents a glass than to have to buy a case or a flogshead.

Beer licenses will be under strict control, and in all districts where the old local option law is still in effect as in 1926, there will be no beer licenses issued unless that law is repealed, and the local option law can be repealed only by a sixty per cent. majority. Where there is local option there can be no beer sold, and there is no vendor's shop. Our revenue from the sale of liquor is falling off, and we are glad it is falling."

Mr. Finlayson said that there might be some high-class restaurant in certain places where the Control Board was satisfied a beer license might be safely issued.

Likely to Retire

HON. J. R. COOKE,

who has represented North Hastings in the Ontario Legislature for 25 years and never tasted defeat. Under the Redistribution Act, Mr. Cooke's riding was joined with that of West Hastings, represented by William H. Ireland, Conservative Whip. Mr. Cooke, it is expected, will remain as chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

RIDING DISAPPEARS.

Hydro Chairman Willing to Leave Field to Conservative Whip.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 28 (CP) —Hon. J. R. Cooke, Chairman of the Hydro Commission, may not be a candidate in the new riding of West Hastings but might leave the field to W. H. Ireland, Conservative Whip, according to a statement made at the meeting of the Conservative Association for the riding held in Stirling last night. The association executive met at the conclusion of the meeting, but the date of the convention to select a candidate was not announced.

"In accordance with the Redistribution Act of 1933," said Hon. Mr. Cooke, "whereby the unit of rural distribution was increased from 20,000 to 30,000, the riding of North Hastings disappeared from the Legislature." He felt since he had been associated with that riding for so many years, it would be only mete, that he got out with it."

"West Hastings has over 70 per cent of the population, so it seems but fair that Mr. Ireland should stay with the ship, releasing me. In my 25 years in the Legislature, I have never tasted defeat and I embrace this opportunity of expressing to the electors of the old riding, my thanks for their loyalty for so many years," said the Hydro chairman.

R. A. Elliott, Deloro, past-president of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association, was elected president of the new association.

Escaped Convicts Killed In Gun Fight

VICTORIAVILLE, Calif, April 28 (AP)—Sudden death at the hands of a quick-shooting posse of desert folk ended the flight of two escaped San Quentin convicts, one of whom was characterized by authorities as second only to John Dillinger as a desperado.

In a running exchange of gunfire three miles south of this little community, death came quickly to Wanda T. Stewart, 29, and Walter H. Weyth, 40. The two had slugged their way out of San Quentin Prison Thursday.

The convicts were trapped by a hastily-summoned band, composed of a deputy sheriff and three deputized civilians, as they drove toward Victoriaville from San Bernardino where a short while before they had released two policemen, whom they kidnapped in San Rafael and forced to accompany them on a wild ride that led through Death Valley.

LAST MINUTE CITY 2-1 WIN COUNT GIVES

Sammy Tilson, Manchester Centre, Scores Equalizer and Winning Goal.

WEMBLEY STADIUM, London, April 28.—(C.P. Cable)—Ramming in a goal two minutes before the final whistle, Manchester City defeated Portsmouth by 2-1 in the English soccer cup final this afternoon. Ninety-three thousand spectators saw the game, a great exhibition of the finest soccer punctuated by thunder and lightning.

Portsmouth took an early lead when S. Rutherford scored after half an hour and until the second half was well under way the Pompey defence held off the city attack. Manchester, however came back with an irresistible combination that produced the equalizer by Sammy Tilson, Manchester centre, 15 minutes before the whistle. Then Tilson scored the winning goal just before time.

The King and Queen, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and "Jimmy" Thomas, Secretary for Dominions, along with the Australian cricket team, were on hand despite threatening weather.

Both Tilson's goals were the result of fine combination attacks in which Alec Herd and Ernie Brock had a large share.

The win made up for the City's defeat in the final last year by Everton. It was Manchester City's second win in four finals, the last victory being in 1904. Portsmouth were beaten by Bolton five years ago in their only previous appearance.

OUTLAW'S GIRL WEEPS IN JAIL

Pleads Justice—Asks Police Not to Shoot Dillinger in Cold Blood.

TELLS NOTHING.

(By Jay R. Vessels, Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 28 (CP).—Crying for the life of her lover marked for death on sight, Evelyn Frechette, black-eyed girl of part Indian blood, sat in her sombre cell to-day, pleading for "justice" for herself and John Dillinger.

Told that countless officers of the law grimly waited with guns cocked for even a glimpse of the phantom gunman, Miss Frechette sobbed:

"He cannot be as bad as they say he is, for I myself know that anybody who has been as kind and true to me during the year that I have known him, cannot be guilty of the things that they accuse him of.

John Dillinger, rated as the hardest outlaw in the United States, is just a plain sweetheart to this girl, just a few years out of a Government Indian shool.

"He is my man," she said confidently. "If I could be with him now I know that I would be in his arms. And just as soon as I can convince them that I have done nothing wrong and am free, I will flee to him, regardless of where he may be."

Softly she continued: "They must not kill him. It is not right that they should take his life like that. He will see or hear what I am saying, and he will give himself up if given half a chance. I know I cannot prevent what they may do to him after they catch him but they must not kill him in cold blood."

Thus, the frightened young woman, harrassed by thoughts that she might never see alive the man who courted her for more than a year, concluded the first extended interview permitted since her incarceration in the County Jail here on charges of harboring a criminal.

Miss Frechette, a brunette, slender and pretty, talked freely and frankly about her early life, her girlhood on the reservation, and in the Government Indian School at Flandreau, S.D. But of the events following her friendship with Dillinger which began one year ago last winter, she kept a steadfast silence.

DILLINGER LAYS PLANS TO KIDNAP OHIO GOVERNOR

Daughter Included in Plot Says Inside Information Received.

HUNT WIDENS.

Desperado and Gang Reported in Binghamton, N.Y.—Stopped for Liquor.

COLUMBUS, O., April 28 (AP) — Gov. George White has received supposed "inside information" that members of the John Dillinger gang have established a "head quarters" here with the view to perfecting plans to kidnap the executive and his daughter, Mary.

The Governor declined to disclose the source of his information, which was to the effect that several members of the Dillinger gang had reached Columbus and were merely awaiting a favorable moment to act. He acknowledged that the supposed "inside information" had been turned over to him, but indicated he was giving it the same unconcerned reception accorded other Dillinger threats and "tips."

Only 11 days ago, the Governor received a letter mailed from Chicago containing a threat that he would not live to the end of his term of office unless he pardoned Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley and Russel Clark, three members of the Dillinger mob now held in Ohio Penitentiary.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y., April 28.—(AP). A report that John Dillinger, object of a United States massed man hunt, and several members of his mob were in Binghamton last night stirred police and Sheriff's deputies into activity to-day. Representatives of the Sheriff's office undertook an immediate pursuit, but no trace of the suspects was found.

Best Guarantee of Peace in View of King Victor Emmanuel.

OPENS PARLIAMENT.

Will Renew War Materials—Seek More Efficiency in Ranks.

ROME, April 28.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel declared today that while Italy ardently desires peace, she will increase the strength of her military in the conviction that is the first guarantee of peace.

The King was cheered roundly as he made the declaration in opening the 29th parliament since Italy became a United Kingdom in 1860.

"We sincerely and ardently desire for Italy and Europe the longest possible period of peace," the King said, "but the best guarantee of this peace is the efficiency of our armed forces.

"My government will augment and perfect this efficiency, which rests on three points—officers, materials and unity of preparation."

Joining in the enthusiastic cheering were senators and deputies — including Premier Mussolini and Guglielmo Marconi, members of the Italian cabinet and Crown Prince Umberto.

Elaborating on his "three points of preparation," King Victor said Italy's officers must have solid professional preparations and be animated by the fervor of youth which he said is a characteristic of the Fascist age.

SECOND MURDER EFFORT FOILED

Clerk Warns Police Guarding Wounded Woman, Suspected Killer Flees.

VICTIM LOSES HOPE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28 (A.P.)—Police with shotguns patrolled the Delaware County Hospital in Upper Darby to-day as the result of what was apparently gangland's attempt to finish a job—the assassination of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Fontaine, whose mother lives in Ottawa.

A man wearing a purple shirt walked into the hospital yesterday, announced that he was a detective, and said he was going to "make an inspection." A wary clerk went to warn police guarding Mrs. Fontaine's room, and the man dashed from the building.

Leaping into an automobile carrying several other men, he drove off. Police commandeered a car and gave chase, but could not overtake the high-powered machine, which bore New York registration plates.

"It's no use to save me." Mrs. Fontaine had told police. "They'll get me anywhere. They'd even come in here and do it."

ORILLIA CASE IS BROUGHT UP BY MACAULEY

Minister Promises Complete Probe Into Background of Charges.

NORTH YORK RALLY.

Tweed Definitely Announces Retirement From North Waterloo.

TORONTO, April 28. (CP)—The McCaughrin case appeared again to-day in Ontario's general election campaign with intimations of a "complete investigation" into the background of the charges from Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Ontario Minister of highways.

Mr. Macaulay injected the McCaughrin case into the campaign last night as nomination conventions and campaign speeches continued throughout the province for the election which is predicted for some time in June. Mr. Macaulay addressed the North York Township Conservative Association, supporting Premier George S. Henry's candidature in the riding.

"What we need and what we'll get" Mr. Macaulay declared, "is a complete investigation of the background of these charges, and how they were brought about. And I can promise you that the truth won't be to the credit of the Liberal board of strategy."

During the last session of the legislature former Magistrate McDaniel McCaughrin's charges were investigated and found unfounded. He had charged efforts had been made by Ontario government heads to buy him out of office but the legislature committee found arrangements had merely been made to provide the magistrate with a retiring alowance, a practice followed for some time.

Five candidates were entered into the campaign at nomination conventions last night.

Candidates Chosen.

Herbert Jackson, Parry Sound druggist, was named Conservative candidate for Parry Sound. Fred J McArthur, present member for Northumbedland, was again selected to contest the seat; Foster Graham Moffatt, Conservative member for South Bruce in 1928-30, was chosen Conservative candidate in the new riding of Huron-Bruce; Dr. H. J. Davis, East Elgin member, will contest the same seat again; and Lt.-Col. H. Fraser Hunt, was selected as Liberal candidate in the Toronto riding of St Patrick's.

S. C. Tweed, present Liberal member in the Legislature for N. Waterloo, definitely announced his retirement from the field when he declared he had not changed his decision of a few months ago to remain out of the election. The Liberal convention to name a candidate in this riding will be held at Waterloo to-day.

MINSTREL GROUP VISITS MARMORA

Town Hall is Well Filled for Presentation by Campbellford Players.

MARMORA, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—After three successful presentations in Campbellford, Christ Church A.Y.P.A. of that town staged their minstrel show in Marmora Town Hall on Friday evening and created a favorable impression among an audience of good dimensions.

C. Runions proved to be an ideal interlocutor and well filling the position of end men were Will Hamer, Melvin Booth, "Happy" Runions and Fred Palliser. Pete Monaghan delighted the audience with his step dancing. Vaudeville acts were furnished by Marguerite Runions and Frank Frederick, Marshall Sills and Homer Johnson and Francis Beaudoin.

The step dancing epidemic among members of the cast in the plantation scene was most mirth-provoking. With catchy songs and excellent jokes, the program altogether took well.

Mrs. James Benor was the accompanist throughout, and her many Marmora friends were delighted to hear her playing again after a lapse of several years.

Following the show, St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. served refreshments to the cast and accompanying friends in the Council Chamber.

BLOCK SYSTEM IS FAVORABLE

Northumberland County Cheese Association to Sell Product at Belleville.

INITIAL MEETING.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 28 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — All cheese belonging to the Northumberland County Cheese Factory Patrons' Association will be sold on the Belleville Board, and will be sold in block instead of by the factory, and S. L. Joss, secretary-treasurer of the association, with Thomas Fry, president of Rylstone Factory, will sell the cheese, were the decisions reached at a meeting of the association held last evening in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Campbellford.

It was the first active meeting of the association and if the size of the attendance and the enthusiasm shown is indicative of the success of the venture, then great things can be expected of it. The chair was occupied by the president, Geo Vanvolkenburg of Seymour Township, Walter H Smith, district agricultural representative, Mr Joss, and R. H. Mayberry of Oxford County also being among those present. M. H. West was secretary of the meeting.

The first business came before the meeting when the chair stated that two courses were open to the association with regard to the assembling of the cheese. A. J. Meyers of Campbellford had submitted a tender for the handling of all the membership cheese at a rate of nine cents a box, which included trucking, cold storage, and loading but not insurance. Against this there was a suggestion by Mr. Joss that this could be handled at Trenton for seven cents a box but this was subject to certain concessions which would have to be obtained from the transportation concerns, which at present were not forthcoming, and under the present conditions he favored the proposal of Mr Meyers.

After some discussion this offer was accepted on a motion sponsored by Harold Wood of Trent River and W. H. Stephens of Seymour. It was understood, however, that with factories that had already made arrangements for shipping their cheese for this season a private arrangement would be entered into with Mr. Meyers.

Favor Block System.

The block system of selling cheese on the board was proposed as an experiment and seemed generally to be agreed upon by the meeting, Hector Arnold of Crow Bay and Harold Wood making the motion.

The question of establishing a cheese board in Campbellford was fully discussed and brought forth many arguments for and against. Many felt that if a board were established in town, board "regulars" could be eliminated, it being felt that in regard to this method of buying there was not only much graft, but that it detracted from a competitive market, upon which all cheese should be sold. The matter was finally settled, however, when Thomas Fry and Harold Wood withdrew a motion for the establishing of a Campbellford board. W. V. Drewry of Warkworth and Alfred Merrills, moving a motion in favor ample of disciplined economic force, having started in 1926, only three years before the crisis which eventually resulted in other nations following her lead."

With 400 newly elected deputies before him, the King referred indirectly to Il Duce's indicated intention to abolish the Chamber of Deputies when he said:

"It also seems evident that this new development can but lead to constitutional transformation — transformation which the Italian people approved in an imposing plebiscite on March 25."

The King said the Italian government would continue to follow "a policy of specific collaboration with all people, particularly neighboring states, and with those upon which the development and future of western civilization will depend.

"Italy has worked and will work to try to solve some of the urgent problems affecting European and world-wide order."

His Majesty referred to the development of Italy's colonies which he said now have been completely pacified.

Need Balanced Budget

Speaking of financial matters, the King said the most pressing problem is that of balancing the budget, adding:

"To a balanced budget is bound the fate of public and private demands."

He lauded authorities for the internal order maintained in Italy, saying it had become a moral order.

Mentioning the understanding between civil and religious authorities, King Victor declared "Conciliation with the Vatican remains an essential element in Italian history."

He referred to the development of new legal codes and educational progress. Then he said:

"No one should be surprised if military material is made a part of the scholastic program in high schools and universities.

"Notwithstanding the hardships of the times, the King concluded, "It is with profound satisfaction that I follow the ascending march of the Italian nation. This march will never be interrupted because the Italian people are united compactly around my house and the Fascist emblem as in no other epoch in its history merits and will have always a greater destiny.

Agricultural Notes Of Interest To Farmers In District

Agricultural Representative, A. D. Runions states that with the continued cold of the past week accompanied by the high wind, farmers are convinced that their Fall Wheat will be almost a total loss.

Except in a few cases where fields were exceptionally well sheltered and carried a heavy blanket of snow throughout the winter, killing has been very severe and over 80 per cent of the acreage in the county will have to be broken up.

This increased acreage sown to Spring grains will no doubt cause a shortage of seed grain. While there was practically enough seed in the county to look after the acreage planned for the regular cereal crops, the increased demand caused by the wheat failure will make it necessary for many farmers to purchase seed.

In view of the present situation it is possible that the "Seed Grain Subsidy Act" will be used to a greater extent than was expected. While the application forms have been prepared for some time, to date there has only been a limited number of enquiries; the majority coming from Otonabee where the council has already passed the by-law.

In view of the heavy acreage that will be sown to Oats and Barley, the treatment for grain smut should be of great importance this Spring.

In many cases the quality of the seed used will be slightly below the average and in addition smuts and rusts are usually worse on a late backward season when the germination of the crop is held back by cold wet weather.

While there are a number of successful methods of treating grain to prevent smut, the following methods have proven to be the simplest and most effective:

Spraying or So-Called Dry Formaldehyde Treatment

This method is recommended for the prevention of Oat Smut only, though it can be safely used with a mixture of oats and abrley. It cannot however, be safely used with wheat or hulless oats.

Directions—use equal quantities of formalin and water. A quart of the solution should be applied to 50 bushels of oats. If smaller or larger quantities are treated use proportional amounts of the formal-

Attack Cornwall Officer on Being Ordered Away From Station.

LAW CALLS RESERVES.

CORNWALL, April 28 (CP) — Bringing into play their feet and fists, three transient loiterers at the Canadian National Railway station here assaulted Provincial Constable W. H. Kennedy, when he attempted to arrest a man who is alleged to have made a threat against the telegraph operator. Three alleged participants in the fracas are lodged in jail and will most likely be remanded when they appear in court to-day.

Calls to the local station to oust hoboes from the waiting-room are frequent occurrences, and when Constable Kennedy received the call late yesterday he responded, and ordered more than half a dozen hoboes away from the station. Leo Laramee, 25, who gave as his last residence Ottawa, became stubborn and when the telegraph operator pointed out to the constable that the hobo had threatened him if he called the police, the constable placed him under arrest and was about to put him into the police car, when he was jumped on from behind by two others.

Constable Kennedy battled with the three, while a call was sent for more officers. After kicking the officer in the face and body the transients ran off, but the officer followed and succeeded in catching one. Other policemen arrived, and within a short time had the second man arrested.

Laramee was captured after a struggle.

The other men arrested are Nelson Pilon, 20, of Montreal, and Gordon Simpson, alias Martin, 29, of Brockville.

FINANCE FIRMS' INTEREST RATES TO BE LIMITED

Bill Sent Back When Member Claims it Allows Charge of 40 Per Cent.

SALARIES DISCUSSED.

Opposition Fights Continuing of 10 Per Cent. Cut on Gov't Salaries.

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.).—Definite restrictions on the interest rates finance companies specializing in small personal loans may charge will be inserted in the acts incorporating these institutions as a result of protests in the House of Commons. Two such bills are now before the House, one to amend the charter of the mortgage and loan company and the other to incorporate the small loan company of Canada.

When the former bill came up in the House last night Humphrey Mitchell (Labor, Hamilton East) and Henry Spencer (U.F.A., Battle River) claimed it would authorize the company to collect as high as 40 per cent. interest. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett proposed the bill should be sent back to the banking committee for the insertion of a limit and intimated the same course would be followed with the other measure which has already received the approval of the banking committee.

The House devoted most of yesterday to debating the bill continuing the 10 per cent. cut on Government salaries.

Opposition.

The two Ottawa members, E. R. E. Chevrier and Franklin Ahearn, both Liberals, entered strong objection and were supported by others on the Opposition side.

A different stand was taken by John Brown (Lib., Lisgar), who commended the Government for the course it had taken and said it was unjust to pay high salaries to one class in the country when they came out of the taxpayers and placed a burden on others forced to get along on reduced incomes.

Explaining the bill, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, said he hoped this would be the last year the Government would have to retain the salary cut. The most careful consideration had been given the matter and it was only because of the condition of the Treasury that it had been retained this year.

The House yesterday gave second reading to a bill to provide for the 1934 financial requirements of the Canadian National Railways. It will be scrutinized in the railway committee and is designed to take care of a requirement of some $65,000,000, including an estimated income deficit of $48,840,048.

Supplementary Estimates.

Mr. Rhodes also tabled supplementary estimates totalling $3,552,000. They cover a loan to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, a loan to Canadian National Steamships (West Indies), and the amount needed for the operation of the Maritime Freight Rates Act.

A new member made his appearance in the House yesterday, when A. S. Rennie, recently elected in the South Oxford by-election, took his sea . He was greeted with a round of desk-thumping on the Liberal side as he made his first bow to the Speaker.

When you've looked at all Three Lowest-Priced Cars and Compared the Prices you will realize that Plymouth Quality is within the reach of any Motor Car Purchaser . . . This is the supreme achievement of Chrysler Engineering and Manufacturing Genius

THE new Plymouth Six gives you four vital quality features. Two of them are safety features and two go to give you a smooth ride.

TWO SAFETY FEATURES

Hydraulic brakes, as perfected by Chrysler engineers, are the safest kind of brakes. They are always equalized and prevent three-wheel braking. They operate with a touch of the toe . . . and will stop on a dime!

Plymouth all-steel body, reinforced with steel, is the only kind of body that satisfies a modern-minded motorist. It's the only really safe kind of body. All-steel electrically fused into one shock-resisting whole—it's as modern as a steel bridge or a steel Pullman.

TWO COMFORT FEATURES

Plymouth Independent Front Wheel Springing is the same as used on some of the world's highest priced cars. The long, soft coil springs of specially processed molybdenum alloy steel permit the wheels to "step" over bumps and prevent "back seat bounce".

Floating Power engine mountings are much more than "rubber cushions". They permit the engine to absorb its own vibrations. The passenger doesn't feel the engine at all!

Try and match these features at Plymouth's low price. Certainly—"Look at all Three", but be sure and ride in the New Plymouth Six. Accept your Plymouth dealer's invitation today.

The Golden Text

Matthew 20: 28—"The son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Sabbath Message For The Shut-Ins

Written for The Examiner by the Ministers of the City.

(By Rabbi A. Fine)

Deuteronomy, chapter 32:4-5: The Creator, His work is perfect; for all His ways are Justice; O God of faithfulness and without iniquity. Just and right He is. They have corrupted themselves, they are not His children, it is their blemish; they are a perverse and a crooked generation.

THE TRIAL OF LIFE.

THE secret of what the world Creator created may be expressed in two words, free will. The object of a person's life is to develop his soul. God created millions of angels who carry out His wishes according to their destiny at birth. The latter are created with a definite task and do not know whether to be better or worse. The world Creator, however, also wanted to have a creature who would develop by himself and later become transformed into an angel. He wanted to have a creature who would himself have the free will to be good or bad, who would by himself discover the Almighty's greatness, but not by seeing it openly. Such a creature is much greater than an angel who sees the Almighty and is so created that he must serve loyally.

God has given us inventors and artists and he has also given us teachers who have shown us our object in life, how we should live in this world and how to react a spiritual degree, only it is the free will of every one of us whether we will obey the sages or not.

We know, for example, that drunkenness, theft and murder spread hatred among people and cause one to do harm to the other, and that they are dangerous to the doers, but many of us will not heed and therefore suffer as a result of our foolishness.

We know further that study, work, honesty, patience, love for our fellow-beings, and winning a good name are very useful to every one of us, but, however, these do not come to us by themselves, but we must have the understanding to put them through and to hold on to them. Whoever does so has the benefit of them, but those who do not are unfortunate.

Therefore God gave us the Holy Bible which gives us the following benefits:

(1) It prevents us from bringing into our bodies uncleanliness and guarantees us a long normal life.

(2) It develops our spirits and transforms us into higher human beings, fills our hearts with idealism and love for our fellow-creatures, righteousness, morality, peacefulness and good manners. It transforms us into human angels instead of human devils.

(3) The study of the Holy Bible is by itself the greatest pleasure in this world, and it causes the human being to enjoy the present and the hereafter. We reach a holy spirit and our souls become joined with divinity even during our lives.

Cathedral Musings

LIFE is a great puzzle to the average man. "Why?" he asks, "am I here? For what purpose is life thrust upon me? Surely for a greater reason than to spend nine-tenth of my energies upon the bare making a living. What is the greater reason, if any?" He is told to have patience, to have faith, and his reward will come in Heaven, in some future state of existence. But to him, Heaven is a long way off and he is not even absolutely sure there is any. He hopes so, but it all seems vague and why, he reasons, should he in particular and most of the world in general, be ground between the upper and nether millstones of economic necessity while others enjoy everything? It all seems a great puzzle, full of inconsistencies and not a little injustice as well.

And yet, the answer is very simple. We are here to gain experience and so to grow, to unfold and become that for which we were created. It is only by our own experience that we can learn. No child starts off with the knowledge possessed by its parents. The child has to learn the lessons of life for itself. So it is with the unfolding of the soul. We learn by suffering the results of our mistakes. We learn the emptiness and unsatisfying nature of the material. We learn that Heaven is not a place, but a condition, as likewise is what is termed hell. We learn that love breeds love, harmony returns in peace, and that to ally oneself with the Divine current is life and happiness. That discord breeds hate and hate recoils in more hate, in sickness and all manner of ills. And so we attend the great school of life upon this earth, and slowly we grow and are moulded into the real spiritual being that we should be, until at last we unfold into the likeness of our Elder Brother — Frater IX., Rosicrucian Order, San Jose, Calif.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered
By DR. WYLIE CLARK

I notice in many places there are discussions as to the merits of the Roman Catholic and Protestants and invitations being extended by the Catholics for the Protestants to seek reunion. Could that ever be?—R.P.

Union among churches is not only in air but is among some an accomplished fact. Others are talking and negotiating union. In any union the difficulty is to find a common meeting place and one point from which to start. Find these and then almost anything may be worked out.

Dr. Wylie Clark

The things which now seem impossible in a few years may become fairly easy.

The human mind and the human heart under the guidance of truth will inevitably bridge all chasms and clasp in friendship all hands.

Are not many of the books of fiction published these days not worth reading, and if read are they not more injurious than helpful?—B.S.P.

It has been estimated that no more than one in four are worth reading. Some readers go as far as to say only one in ten.

Much depends on the kind of reader as to proportion.

There are so many reading fiction that to produce good stuff for them all would demand a multitude of writers of the past order to satisfy the demand.

A bad book or a poor book is a dangerous thing. Our memories are queer customers. They seem to gather in the very things which they should cast away. Wrong things stick and right things slip out.

It is a tremendous task to get rid of a vile sentence or blot out an evil idea.

Books can be our best friends, but they also can be our worst enemies.

A short time ago our minister said we had formed the habit of brooding instead of thinking. Is he right or has he just become a brooder himself?—R.D.

A hen broods over, covers up, protects and cherishes her chickens. She separates them from outside interference. These days we are apt to do that with our ideas of life. We huddle them together, and draw them away from contact with others until they become a peculiar production of our own, and the worst of it is, they look like us and are as small as ourselves.

What we need is not brooding, but wide and deep thinking—the measuring up to the time in which we live.

The brooding hen thinks her nest is greater than all the barnyard; so does the man who shuts himself in with his own thoughts—his little corner is the world.

If we are going to think, we must come out into the open and let the wisdom of men and the revelation of God guide and help us.

I want to come back and ask you an old question. It is this, do you really believe that the youth of to-day have it in them to make anything else out of life but a complete failure? — Y.G.H.

This question is everywhere. It is demanding an answer every day. In every home, in every school and in every country this is a supreme question.

Why is it so important? Because upon the youth of to-day depends whether the world in the next generation is going to be better or worse.

There is a conceit of age and perhaps of middle life which frowns upon youth. This conceit is self-centred and is apt to fancy itself as the last word in goodness and progress.

During the centuries this conceit has been exploded thousands of times, but it is always dragged out again and these days it is very much alive.

I have no doubt, as in former times, the youth of to-day will set it aside and in spite of it make new history.

Jesus was never mastered by fear.

Joy is not in things; it is in us.

• • •

That best portion of a good man's life is his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love.

Declaration of Brotherhood

GOD being my Father and all men being my brothers, I make this declaration:

(1) I intend to do unto others, of whatever race or creed, as would have them do unto me.

(2) It is my purpose to respect the rights of human beings, and to judge each fellowman on his individual merits alone.

(3) I will oppose every organized effort to evoke fear or hatred of any religious or racial group.

Christ's Standard of Greatness — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 20:1-34

Jesus applied the principle of the Cross to the problems of industry in his story of the workmen and the vineyard. The earliest workmen hired demanded an agreement. Their only consideration was their wages. They held no good will to their employer and expected none.

The cry of the unemployed in the market place was, "No man hath hired us". Like millions today they were unemployed through no fault of theirs. "It is lawful for me to do what I will with my own." Here is "rugged individualism" made safe with the ruggedness of the Cross.

James and John with their mother came to Jesus seeking the places of pre-eminence "One on thy right hand, and the other on the left in thy kingdom". Jesus replied that greatness could not come through selfish seeking, but rather through unselfish service of others.

The other disciples were indignant with James and John because they merely beat them to it. So Jesus said to them, "Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant: even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto."

THE HEALTH ALMANAC.

The annual Health Almanac issued by the Ontario Department of Health has just made its appearance, and is undoubtedly the best that has been published since the department began circulating this booklet for the benefit of residents of the province.

The 1934 Health Almanac contains, amid a mass of other helpful information, a brief outline of the organization of the activities of the Department of Health, and in a foreword Hon. John M. Robb, Minister of Health, expresses the hope that the use of these activities during 1934 will aid in the improvement of personal and community health in Ontario.

The publication contains over 100 pages, and there is important and valuable data on every page, ranging all the way from the proper diet for infants to the matter of aids for the summer cottager.

There are articles on many health matters, including food poisoning, the effect of pasteurization on milk, the food requirements of the body, and the value of everyday foods, toxoid, sleeping sickness and a score of other timely and important subjects, all of which should be of general interest.

Particularly useful is a list of tuberculosis clinics in Ontario, informing the public just where and when these are held, while there is similar information in regard to mental health clinics.

The Health Almanac would be a servicable volume in any Ontario home, and citizens would be well repaid in writing to the Department of Health, Toronto, for a copy of this very informative little publication.

HE'LL PROBABLY CHANGE HIS MIND.

A statement made the other day by a candidate for the Legislature in a nearby riding that he did not propose to state whether or not he favored the sale of beer by the glass indicates that this aspirant for office is due for a rude awakening before the campaign is very far advanced.

This beer question is going to loom up bigger and bigger as election day gets near, and any candidate who fancies that he is going to be able to straddle the fence on the issue and that he will be allowed to keep silent as to just where he stands on a mater of such general importance will not be long in discovering that the electors will not stand for such a course.

Whether it should be or not this freer beer question is definitely in politics, and will be a factor of great significance in the provincial campaign, and every candidate who seeks office will have to declare himself one way or another.

The two old parties may think that they can ignore the strong feeling that exists in almost every section of Ontario against the restoration of sale by-the-glass, but as the battle develops it will be seen that this sentiment is not a trifling affair, but something that must be reckoned with—and that the issue cannot be evaded by anything so simple as a refusal on the part of a candidate to make clear his own views in regard to the matter.

Mugwump aspirants for a seat in the Legislature are not likely to enjoy a great deal of success; invariably the public prefers the candidate who is courageous enough to declare himself on every important issue.

GREAT PROGRESS IN AVIATION.

The immense strides made in aviation in the past decade are clearly seen in the progress made in the development of Empire air routes and commercial flying general by that great British organization, Imperial Airways Limited.

This organization, which established a British air transport as a self-supporting industry and which absorbed existing flying concerns, not only has developed a large air traffic in Europe but has successfully expanded a long distance Empire air service, which has always been the company's main concern.

The first link in the chain was between Cairo and Basra, established in January, 1927, and two years later the service was extended east to west to form a regular air-mail route between London and India.

In 1932 a regular air transport service was established between London and Capetown.

In 1933 the Indian air-mail was extended to Calcutta and in September to Rangoon, and in December the link to Singapore was completed, while this year a through route of 11,000 miles between England and Australia will be established.

The growth of the company's business is astounding.

In its first year 1924-25 Imperial Airways operated over 1,760 miles of continental routes, flying a total of 853,024 miles, and carrying 11,395 passengers and 26 tons of mail and freight.

During a recent period of twelve months the aircraft of the company were flying over 14,000 miles of continental Empire routes, covering a total distance of 2,355,834 miles, and carrying 59,966 passengers and 862 tons of mail and freight.

Altogether, taking the latest figures available, Imperial Airways has carried since its inception more than 300,000 passengers and over 7,000 tons of mail and freight, while in regard to the all-important question of reliability the percentage of flights cancelled has been reduced from 23.25 in 1924 to 1.56 in 1934.

"HOW THE BRITISH DO IT."

In an editorial on the Budget speech by the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer in Britain, the New York Times pays a most striking tribute to British methods of taxation and finance. It points out that "the British cling to economic ideas which the Washington of to-day regards as obsolete. They still think that taxation is an evil instead of a blessing, as our Senate appears to think. The Chancellor gave reason for the faith that is in him. Announcing his proposal to lower the income tax by sixpence on the pound, he said: 'The relief which would confer the most direct benefit to the country and have the greatest psychological effect and impart the most immediate stimulus to trade and employment would be a reduction in the standard rate of the income tax.' It is needless to point out the contrast of this with theories now prevalent in Congress. The idea that high taxation will increase purchasing power has with us supplanted the view that if you leave more money in the hands of those who have earned it they will desire to invest it in ways certain to stimulate industry and make more work for the unemployed."

That is a most significant utterance by what may be termed one of the greatest and most influential newspapers in the United States. The Times frankly acknowledges that the Chancellor was able to demonstrate that the antiquated British methods still produced the goods because he ended the year with a huge surplus. In view of such impartial testimony as this, Canadians may well rejoice that the Ottawa Government was not stampeded into the adoption of spectacular and artificial methods to stimulate trade in accordance with the example of the United States. It is absolutely true that Great Britain has made the most remarkable recovery of any nation in the world, having attained the enviable position of becoming the leading exporting country, yet this result was achieved by strict adherence to economic doctrines approved by centuries of experience. — Brantford Expositor.

TURNED DOWN.

We are glad to see that Conservatives and Liberals have joined forces to defeat a recommendation from United Farmers of Alberta sources, that both Federal and Provincial Cabinet Ministers be prohibited from sitting on the directorates of banks. Only six members supported the resolution brought before the House Banking Committee by Mr. Spencer, U.F.A. representative from Battle River. Among them was Mr. Morand, M.P. for Essex East.

* * * *

Mr. Hanson, New Brunswick Conservative and chairman of the committee, in opposing the suggestion, said he would hesitate to place additional reflection on the honesty and integrity of provincial and federal members, and to add strength to the popular opinion that politicians were disreputable characters.

Mr. Euler, North Waterloo Liberal and former Minister of National Revenue, was in hearty agreement with the chairman. It seemed to be the popular opinion, he commented, that politicians were "out to get something for themselves." Legislators should not support this belief, he added, by placing restrictions in the laws of the country. If a man transgressed the proprieties of his office, his constituents would look after him at the next election, the North Waterloo member said.

The vote against the resolution is described as "overwhelming."

* * * *

We are pleased to see public men protesting, publicly, against the continual charge that all of them are engaged in a big racket to line their own pockets. Mr. S. E. McGorman, major of Ojibway, commented on the same subject a few days ago and now we see his lead being taken up in Parliament itself.

It is interesting, also, to note that the attitude of the House Banking Committee is not based on any desire to protect the position of present-day Cabinet Ministers. Only one in Canada would be affected were the Spencer resolution accepted. The lone figure is the Hon. Louis Alexandre Taschereau, Prime Minister and Attorney-General of Quebec, who is a bank director. No doubt there have been Ministers in the past who also sat on the directorates of banks, but Mr. Taschereau is the only one at present. The Ottawa committee was not concerned, of course, with Mr. Taschereau, but its action was one on principle—resenting the suggestion that a Minister, federal and provincial, could not sit on a bank board and still do full justice to his duties as an adviser of the Crown.

After all, if we have so little confidence in our Government leaders that we have to bind them around with restrictions of the type put forward by Mr. Spencer, then it seems to us public life in Canada must be in a bad way. However, we do not believe it is. On the contrary we feel that, by and large, this country is singularly fortunate in its public men and that they represent a high order of intelligence, executive ability and integrity. We regret that one of our local members, Mr. Morand, does not appear to share, fully at least, this opinion. That must be the inference from his vote in favor of the Spencer resolution.

* * * *

For most men public service is a temporary proposition. Only a few, in Canada, make it a life work. The remuneration is not sufficient, except in the case of ministerial salaries, to attract many. In such circumstances it would be unreasonable in the extreme to suggest that a man, taking on a ministerial post, perhaps for only one session, should be expected to resign his bank directorate, if any, and to completely divorce himself from all active business. Mr. Bennett, assuming the Conservative leadership a few years ago, did this voluntarily, but one could not reasonably expect the rank and file to follow his example. For one thing, few men could afford to.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Ontario Government is evidently trying to ride back into office via the provincial highways route.

If Mr. Hepburn is really serious about a flat rate for Hydro customers, rural and urban, and gets a chance to try the thing out, he'll have to revise his ideas as to government expenditure or secure a magician to operate the Hydro system.

May Day parades are likely to stir up trouble in a number of Canadian centres, which is just what the promoters of these affairs are really aiming at.

Captain Philpott is reported as likely to be associated with an independent party in the provincial election. Having been a Liberal and then a C.C.F. lieutenant in the last few years, there is plenty of time for him to swing round to the Conservative column before election day.

The newspapers, as the St. Thomas Times-Journal pertinently points out, are again being called upon to devote columns and columns on election issues from which the financial returns are more or less negligible.

The St. Thomas Times-Journal reminds its readers that pickled bats were a delicacy in Babylon. Even in this country men go on them sometimes.—Toronto Star.

STORM DRIFT

By ETHEL M. DELL

Gray Skies and drifting mists of rain succeeded the storm—a sufficiently depressing prospect to most people; but to Tiggie, sauntering forth with his pipe immediately after breakfast, as fair a one as he could have desired to ook upon. He was in fact sublimely unaware of any climatic drawbacks since so far as he was concerned the sun had been shining permanently throughout the night. His rubicund countenance had that expression of benign contentment which had probably helped to earn him his soubriquet. He was supremely at peace with the whole universe, and it would have taken little short of an earthquake to upset his smiling equilibrium. She had asked him to go to her early, but a hint from Helen at parting kept him from presenting himself too soon. According to Helen, she had fretted herself nearly ill on his account, and a long night's rest was essential. But then Helen of course did not know of the glory that had dawned in those few minutes that he had spent kneeling beside her bed. She could not realize that his presence might be an even more health-giving factor than sleep. Tiggie determined to split the difference as it were and go to her the moment he could honestly say that his pipe was finished. It was a point of honor with him not to hurry over it. Perhaps the joy of anticipation was also too precious to be foregone. For the thought of seeing her again as he had seen her last night with all her soul reaching out to him was almost enough to turn Tiggie's brain.

But of course, as he told himself, today she would be different. Today she would have recovered from the ravages of anxiety, and would probably show more reserve. Yet the soft shining of her eyes would tell him the same story which never could be hidden from him again. She loved him, not as in duty bound, not as one forsaken loves a benefactor, not as protege loves a protector, but freely and splendidly, as a woman loves her lover. It had come even to him—Tiggie, the commonplace, the good-natured bungler, the fool. Henceforth they could call him what they liked, but to one woman he would be none of these things. He would be just the man she loved.

How soon would she let this amazing thing be known, he wondered? It would be impossible to keep it hidden for long. Helen would guess if she had not guessed already. And Spot also was too shrewd to be hoodwinked. On the whole he was rather glad that Spot was still away. For Helen had the children to look after and could not be everywhere at once, luckily.

He had seen nothing of Harvey, who was apparently sleeping late, since his bedroom door was locked and his shoes waited on the mat for admittance. He knew him too well to disturb him in his lair. He would in fact have prolonged his own rest if it had not been for last night's amazing revelation which had deprived him of all desire to linger in bed.

To and fro he paced in the driving drizzle, still sticking to the bargain he had made with his pipe, but enjoying it not a whit. He could not remember when he had relished a smoke less. To and fro—to and fro—with the miniature roar of the torrent close at hand and the farther-off roar of the returning which had so nearly overwhelmed him 12 hours before.

Ah! A friendly voice behind him! He turned and with a smile saw Joe Penny. His pipe was but half smoked. He joined the landlord with relief. This would help to pass the time.

"Beg pardon, sir!" said Joe Penny in a stout wheezy voice. "How do you feel yourself this morning?"

"Morning!" said Tiggie cheerily. "I'm all right; sound as a bell, thanks to you good fellows."

He had handsomely renumerated all of his rescuers with the exception of Harvey the previous night, and had the comfortable sense of knowing that if they considered him a fool he had at least the merit of being a generous one in their eyes.

"Lor' bless you, sir!" said Joe Penny. "What we did weren't nothing. There's not one of us what wouldn't do a pile more nor that for a gentleman like you, sir. I blame myself in a way for not giving you warning. It be mighty easy to get cut off along Stimby way, mighty easy it be. And it were a regular treacherous tide last night that I will say."

Tiggie recognized that his munificence was meeting its reward in this tolerant opinion, and smiled his appreciation.

"It was a pretty slippy thing for you, sir," proceeded Joe Penny, "to get right up the Slimby rock. It's not an easy thing to do, that, even for one of the slim young chaps. But you . . ." He paused, looking significantly at Tiggie below the natural waistline.

"Well, what about me?" said Tiggie.

"Nothing sir." Joe Penny discreetly looked higher. "I was only just wondering how you managed it."

"It's wonderful what one can do with the deep sea behind one," said Tiggie. "I never knew myself before. But it took me some time to get up, and I assure you"— he surveyed his hands reflectively—"I've no desire whatever to do it again."

Joe Penny also looked at the hands which bore abundant testimony to the violence of the struggle. "Be you a married man, sir?" he inquired unexpectedly.

"No," said Tiggie. "I mean"—he caught himself up in some confusion—"well, I may be. What do you want to know for?"

"Oh, nothing, sir, nothing," said the landlord peaceably. "Excuse the liberty! I was only thinking what a mort of fuss your good lady'd make if she saw them hands o' yours."

"Oh, I see," said Tiggie, aware that he had turned a fiery red and deeply resenting the fact. "Well, I'd better put some gloves on them if you think the ladies won't like it."

"I warn't saying that, sir," protested Joe. "But she—they might think as how you'd gone through more than p'raps you'd want 'em to know of Always keep back the worst's my motto, for my old woman, sir, she's a regular fusser." He looked at Tiggie and slowly shook his head. "Shou dn't be in no hurry to get married if I was you, sir. There's things for and against, as I always say, things for and against."

"Let's hear the against!" said Tiggie cheerily. He only knew Mrs. Penny as a thin voiced woman in the background who always seemed to be nailing someone to order.

Joe Penny continued to shake his head "I'm not speaking of myself, sir," he said. "We've never had a quarrel in our live, but as I say, I always keeps back the worst. It's the only way with women."

"Right!" said Tiggie. "I'll remember that. Anything else?"

Joe Penny's look became a little suspicious as though he dimly cnsed a joke somewhere. "I'm not one as treats the marriage bond lightly," he said. "What I says is, weigh it out beforehand and know exactly what you're going to do, or there'll be trouble. Women, you know, sir, women takes some managing, even the best of 'em. And I don't like for a woman to take the lead, not too much I don't."

"Oh, I can quite see that," said Tiggie.

"No, it don't answer," said Joe Penny ruminatively. "They're quick, you know, quick as monkeys. They takes advantage of a man—especially if he's like you and me, sir—not too ready in the uptake."

"Oh, aren't we?" said Tiggie, interested.

Joe Penny once more ponderously shook his head. "That's why I'm telling you, sir. Don't you get married in a hurry! Marriage—marriage is like the tide." He spoke weightily, as though inspired. "It cuts you off when you aren't looking, and you can't get back. You remember that, sir! Just you remember that!"

"I'll remember," promised Tiggie, restraining his face from broadening with a severe effort. "Thanks for the warning."

"Don't mention it, sir! Don't mention it! We're here to help each other," said Joe Penny. "And I knows how easy it is to get caught—only too easy, sir."

Tiggie took out his pipe and looked at it. "Easier than catching, what?" he suggested.

"I never had to do no catching," said Joe Penny in a tone of depression. "It was all done for me, that was. Not that I'm speaking personally sir," he added after a moment. "No one's ever had a happier married life nor what I has. But there's things for and against, as I always says, things for and against."

"I can quite see that," said Tiggie. "And deuced difficult sometimes to tell t'other from which, so to speak."

"That's right, sir." Joe Penny smiled upon him as one who hails a sympathizing friend. "But arter all, what's the good o' talking? Every man's got to go to his appointed place, as the saying is. And them that's married'll be the same as them that's not in the final reckoning. Still you haven't been and done it yet, sir, so you mind and remember that one thing! There's for and against—for and against."

"I'll remember," said Tiggie for the third time.

"Joe!" cried a woman's voice suddenly from within. "Joe! What you doing out there? For mercy's sake come in and have a look at the kitchen flue, for I can't do nothing with it, and it's a man's job, not a woman's, as I'm always telling you, and if there's to be any dinner cooked today——"

"Here, I'd best be going," said Joe, closing one eye at Tiggie by way of farewell. "It's a darn nuisance that kitchen chimney. All right, woman!" as a higher and more urgent summons reached him. "Coming! I'm coming!"

He shambled within as the voice of his spouse cried irritably, "And don't you call me woman neither! Just you keep a civil tongue in your head, Joe Penny!"

The banging of a door curtailed the remonstrance so far as Tiggie was concerned. He sauntered away from the inn porch, while the smile he had been repressing spread in unrestrained comfort over his face. Presently he took out his pipe again and addressed it. "But I'm a married man, too," he said.

The pipe was practically finished, and he knocked out the rest without further scruple on the heel of his boot. Poor old Joe with all his warnings had only succeeded after all in helping him to pass the time. And now at last he was going to her.

OUR FAULTS

Do not think of your faults; still less of others faults; in every person who comes near you, look for what is good and strong; honor that; rejoice in it; and, as you can, try to imitate it; and your faults, like dead leaves, will drop off, when their time comes.—Ruskin.

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

No May Day parades aint been scheduled for this berg next Tues., our folks not being given to doing any unnecessary pedestrianing for 1 thing, and Reds being a scarce article here for another.

The big shots in the local Tory ranks held a get together at Graham's hotel Thurs., to arrange for a meeting of the faithful to pick out a candidate for the coming political fracas. Looks like the battle is about to open, folks, say we.

Horseless carrage driving for hire is going to be put under a new by-law, your scribe learns. Looks like the boys need a fresh deal or some of them would be soon paying folks to ride in their machines. The business is got so now that after driving 3 birds a mile or 2 for 2 bits the customers put in a squawk because the horseless carriage aint got 1 of them new wireless contraptions.

The trout season opens in these parts next Tuesday. Or aint you got no rubber boots neither?

Our senior ball league after much argument and such is now getting in shape for the season and it looks like the Bellevilles and the Kingstons will be in our midst frequently this summer, if, as and when Old Man River drops outa our ball orchard.

The first excursion of the season was held the other day by G. Nicholls, the bridge tender, who took a water trip on a section of the Chemong floating bridge when the same was bust loose by the ice. Anyway it's a sign winter can't last much longer, say we, hopefully.

Walt Stocker started in manicuring the village parks this week and the benches oughta be out in the same any month now, your scribe announces in reply to inquiries from here and there.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

HE DOESN'T HATE ANYBODY

I know a man who doesn't hate anybody.

He says he doesn't, and I know it's true.

I'm not saying that he likes or loves everybody he knows.

The man has some discrimination, and he is a good judge of human nature. He has lived long, had many controversies and battles in his life; he knows people outside in and inside out, and so he likes some people better than he likes others.

But he doesn't hate anybody. He sees inside of them and most of the time when you think he ought to be hating a person you discover that he is merely slightly annoyed, or even amused. Or, most terrible avenge of all, he is sorry for them....They don't know he's sorry for them. If they did, they'd be furious with rage....After all, most of us would far rather be hated than pitied. You're somebody, you're imposing and definite, if you are hated. But the other fellow's pity shrinks you, puts you on the defensive, belittles you more than you can stand.

Sometimes his friends are annoyed with this man, who doesn't hate anybody....They develop a nice clean rage against a man or a woman who is no friend of his....a righteous and unselfish anger.... and then they discover that they have merely wasted their fuming and fulminating. They're MAD, but he isn't. He's not with them at all. He's far away from them, attending to his own affairs in his own fashion. It's very distressing. And they tell him so. And he laughs at them....He doesn't see why he should be wasting any part of his life in hating when there are so many other things he prefers to do. He stopped hating people a long time ago, and he advises them to do the same....Hatred sends the blood pressure up. Quarreling gives you a sick feeling in the pit of the stomach. When you're angry, you merely make a spectacle of yourself....That's what he says, and you know he is right. You can't live up to his ideas. You're not as wise as he is, nor as strong....But between your righteous angers you wish you could be as sensible as he—though you know you never will be.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

ST. CATHARINES, ONTARIO

The nucleus of this city was formed in 1797, when George Adam built a roadside inn on the property of the Hon. Robert Hamilton. Around this grew a little settlement known as Shipman's Corners. The growth, however, was very slow, until about 1815, when Hon. William Hamilton Merritt erected a saw and flour mill there, and started a general country store.

It was the fact that he was handicapped in the operation of his mills by the lack of water that the idea of the Welland Canal came to him, one of the most important public works on the North American continent. The building of this waterway has contributed in no small degree to the growth of St. Catharines.

In 1845, the town of St. Catharines was created by act of parliament, its name being chosen in honor of the wife of Hon. William Merritt. The city charter was granted in 1876.

Hats with plumes over six feet long were worn by "The Gilles" in a recent carnival in Scherbeek, Brussels.

Foreign Affairs

THE UNITED STATES.

Can the Policy of Adventuring to Please Everybody by Franklin Delano Roosevelt be Made to Succeed?

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

Keeping in the middle of the stream may be good politics, but it is not good diplomacy. The more prominent the matter at issue the more inescapable the moral element. Morality is as essential in government as is expediency. From the beginning of his Presidential career Roosevelt has trimmed his sails to the direction of the opposition winds. The extent of his success will be very limited.

Crises have arisen. "He is coming our way," some said. But he didn't come. Other crises arose. "He is coming our way," others said. But the ship of State didn't move in that direction. The aim of the President has been to conciliate everybody. In the game of politics he is an adept. Can mere manoeuvring get anywhere? A middle course for a statesman is simply impossible. Sir John Simon of Great Britain has drawn sharp criticism from opposition benches. But the people know where to find him when great decisions are to be made. He is blunt rather than suave.

A number of short views taken of Roosevelt at the crises hours would look like a series different curves. The longer view shews that he has slowly drifted into the company of the predatory capitalists. It is interesting to study the bigger issues which have arisen since his incumbency in this light. The banking system needed radical reorganization.

In dealing with the banks his first act was dramatic. The nation sat up and took notice. Everybody expected fitting legislation to follow. In his addresses to Congress in the last session nor in this has he said a word abount fundamental legislation. The big fellows, the wealthy bankers are carrying on just as they did before Roosevelt became President. The little banker has been driven to the wall. The little banker has been and is nearer to the masses of the people than is the millionaire banker. In the vaults of the little banker are thousands of frozen assets because of the collapse of business. The little banker is the friend of the farmer and the small merchant. This feature of American economic life is not encouraging. The drift of the Roosevelt policy is away from the little man.

As plain as day is the fact that men with large incomes are not paying their just share of taxes. And just as undeniable is the fact that the great corporations are tax delinquent. The expectation of the people that there would be a righteous revision of tax assessment on great wealth has been disillusioned. Roosevelt is not doing one thing to establish taxation justice. A few men were called to give an accounting. There the matter ended.

At the beginning of his term as President, Roosevelt gave promise of independent action. If attacked the might of entrenched wealth is sure to be evident at the strategic moment. The failure of the St. Lawrence waterway is a sample. A powerful lobby and vigorous, was established at Washington by railroad and utility interests. This lobby was too much for Roosevelt. At the first he was vigorous in his advocacy. Had he fought for the waterway with all his might and ability the American support for its construction would have been won. As the matter now stands a party other than the democratic will inaugurate and carry through this too long delayed project. At present local interests have determined the policy of the government. We are not living in the day when local instead of national interests can long prevail. The St. Lawrence waterway will be built. Those who crow now will groan later.

The amount of propaganda that can be aroused to defeat, for a time, worth while projects in the United States is simply amazing. The cancellation of the air-mail contracts called forth a storm of protest. A few, if they have the cash can stir up a lot of political dust. From the propaganda appearing in subsidized newspapers throughout the country the President faltered in his determination to take the air-mail out of the hands of private persons and private companies. The latest is that he will subsidize the private handling of all air-mail. Huge private fortunes were made in some of the combinations by the watering of stock, and some companies received enough money from the government for carrying the mail to put any efficiently and honestly managed enterprise on its feet by that means alone. The United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, with a number of subsidiaries, and has the mail route from New York via Chicago-Omaha-Cheyenne-Salt Lake City to San Francisco received $40,174,412 as a subsidy from the government. This private company received in other words 45.88 per cent of the total expenditure for transportation air-mail. The subsidy made the company rich.

JUDGES APPOINTED.

The composition contest for children of the second and third books of the city and county schools on the subject, "What it Means to Be Kind to Animals," closes on Monday night. Mrs. A. M. Young informed The Examiner to-day that the essays would be judged by Mrs. A. E. Sherwood, Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Miss F. M. Edwards.

The response of children of the second and third books has been quite satisfactory, and it is expected that competition will be quite keen for the eight prizes which the Humane Society has offered in this contest. Four prizes will be for city pupils and four for children attending rural schools.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

NO CLUES FOUND KIDNAPPED GIRL

Heavily Armed Officers Continue Combing State of Arizona.

3 SUSPECTS FREED.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 28 (AP) — The dash of heavily-armed officers for an unannounced destination added mystery to-day to the quest for kidnappers of six-year-old June Robles, missing for the fourth day after she was spirited away while returning from school.

While sheriff's deputies were on their mysterious mission, two men questioned in Phoenix for three hours were released this morning when Tucson authorities expressed satisfaction with their movements since the girl vanished.

Authorities awaited word from the group of officers who sped away by automobile from the Pima County Court House late last night. They declined to disclose their destination or purpose. All were heavily armed.

Roy Morris, 35, who originally gave his name as George R. Graham, and John R. Pattie, 48, were picked up at a Phoenix automobile camp for questioning because their automobile answered one of the descriptions of a car used by men who made inquiries at Junes' school the day before she was abducted. After three hours of questioning, they were released.

Authorities were kept busy denying the many rumors which kept the city alive with a variety of stories regarding the kidnapping. Chief among the reports which met prompt denials, was one that the little brown-eyed girl had been returned home, a reduced ransom paid.

Officers reiterated that June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferando Robles and granddaughter of Bernabe Robles, pioneer cattleman, had not been returned home.

SPAIN HUNTING FRESH CABINET

Ibanez Picking Men Aimed to Save Country tFrom Gravest Crisis.

DISORDERS SPREAD.

(By Rex Smith, A.P. Foreign Staff)

MADRID, April 28 (AP)—Premier - designate Ricardo Samper Ibanez completed selection to-day of a Cabinet banked upon to bring Spain out of one of the gravest crises in the three-year history of the Republic.

After night-long conferences, the former Minister of Commerce and distinguished Republican, announced he was ready to present his list of Cabinet members to President Alcala Zamora.

Samper Ibanez was named by the President yesterday to form a government succeeding that of Alex-Jandro Leroux, which resigned Wednesday after differences with Alcala Zamora.

Despite recurrent labor and political disorders, particularly at Zaragoza and at Barcelona, Samper Ibanez was confident he had obtained representation sufficiently broad to satisfy all major parties.

Radical Republicans (Lerroux's party) were among the first to flock to the support of the Premier-designate. He received immediate assurance of support from 268 Deputies, 31 more than a quorum.

The critical situation resulting from the violence of anti-government extremists, striking laborers and the government crisis was emphasized anew in disorders at Zaragoza. Extremists persisted in acts of violence, shooting and wounding a street car operator, and bombing a haberdashery with injuries to a passerby.

At Barcelona, Syndicalists burned two street cars after ousting the passengers and the operator.

Theatre Party Held By Friday Night Club

Last night the Friday Night Supper Club brought to a close another highly successful year of activity. C. A. Salmonsen, the president of the club entertained the members as his guests at the theatre.

Immediately following the supper Mr. Salmonsen gave the boys some advice on "going out into the world". Some people, he said, have personality and get along well. Others lack personality and find difficulty with their associates. He commended the Scout motto "Do a good deed every day" explaining that this did not mean do something for others with the selfish aim behind it, but of giving service that even meant sacrifice.

The march to the theatre was led by Gordon Hall. In front of The Examiner office the group broke into a run and landed at the Capitol about one hundred strong.

The club wishes to take the opportunity of thanking all the speakers who contributed to the various programs during the past seasons: The Examiner for its co-operation; and Mr. Salmonsen for his leadership and devotion to the club.

Drinking

TOPEKA, Kas., April 28.—(CP)—Discovery that "Panchito," a monkey at Gage Park, is a "dunker" has stirred amateur scientists to argument.

After watching him dunk cookies in approved style, they raised the question as to whether it was a natural or acquired characteristic.

If natural, some argue, then those who dunk, are reverting to type. If acquired, other say, it proves dunking is aesthetic.

ROLLER SKATING WARNING

Police issued the warning to-day that children will be prosecuted for roller skating on the roadway. In pointing out the danger, Chief Newhall said to-day that a motorist nearly ran over a girl roller-skater this morning who fell on the pavement in front of the car. Parents should not permit their children to roller-skate on the streets, he said, and if they do action will follow.

PLAN TO PLACE CRUCIFIX IN DAIL STIRS PROTESTS

DUBLIN, April 28 (C.P. Cable)—The proposal to erect a crucifix over the speaker's chair in the Dail Eireann has been rejected by the parliamentary committee on procedure after a long discussion. The question is "postponed" indefinitely.

The suggestion came from Roman Catholic organizations but aroused considerable controversy as to whether the Free State dail was a fit place for a sacred image in the present heated state of Irish politics.

The official organ of the Protestant Church of Ireland described the Irish parliament as a place "reeking with allegations of treachery and murder" and as such hardly fitted for the presence of the crucifix.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS.

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). — Profit-taking in the oil and brewery shares mildly depressed the industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. These groups showed a majority of recessions over gains at the close, while the rest of the board was slow with the balance about even on losses and gains. Nickel was up 10 and Brazilian off ⅛.

Brewing Corporation Preferred opened the session with a quick advance to 31¾, but profit-taking soon set in and the close at 30⅝ was unchanged. Brewing Common showed a small loss for the day, as did also Cosgrave and Walkerville.

Distillery shares moved slowly with a fractional loss for Walkers Common and gains of small fractions for Industrial Alcohol and Distillers Seagrams.

TO SERVE WELL JUNIOR LEAGUE ASSEMBLY AIMS

Association Has Program to Develop Efficiency of Its Members Volunteers.

MEETS MAY 28-JUNE 1.

TORONTO, April 28 (C.P.). — With efficiency in the volunteer services of its army of young women members as the prime objective, the Association of Junior Leagues of America will hold a conference here on May 28 to June 1. This is the 14th annual meeting of the organization and the first to be held in Canada.

Representative of the Dominion from coast to coast, the Junior Leagues of several Canadian cities will send their delegates There are six full-fledged Junior Leagues in Canada with others in the embryonic stage. Membership in the local organizations is progressive. Young women must serve a probationary year before being admitted to full membership. Candidates must first show appreciation of the ideals of the League to foster and maintain interest in the social, economic, educational, cultural, and civic conditions of the communities in which they live, and seek to improve these conditions.

Discussions and exhibitions at the convention will incude a wide variety of women's interest along the lines of the League's general objects.

Hon. David C. Adie, commissioner if Social Welfare of the State of New York, will be the principal speaker at the social welfare conference. Mrs. Charles A. Lindley, of New York, will conduct an open forum on the Junior League magazine. Children's theatre, business enterprise, arts and cultural projects are also on the agenda.

Mrs. F. Grenville Rolph is chairman of the thirteen committee in charge of the convention arrangements.

week, end of the seasons.

Fighting to the last ditch Huddersfield Town defeated Blackburn Rovers 5-3. Gunners have a lead of three points over Huddersfield now, and the worst that can happen is to see this shaved to a single. It is the second year in succession the gunners have produced a championship eleven, and the third time in the club's history.

Chelsea fought desperately, having their own worry about staying in the First Division. Sheffield United, tail-end team, defeated Derby County in another desperate relegation battle. The result of to-day's matches, with only one game left, was to leave Sheffield at the bottom with 31 points, and Newcastle United next with 34 If Newcastle wins next week, all that Chelsea, Birmingham and Liverpool need to stay in the division is a single point. Each have 36.

SCOTTISH SEASON ENDS.

GLASGOW, April 28. — (C. P. Cable.)—The long Scottish soccer season ended to-day, except for a couple of odd games, with the Glasgow Rangers in possession of the championship for the second year in succession and also of the Scottish Cup.

With another game left, Rangers to-day defeated Hamilton to bring their margin over the second-place Motherwell outfit to three points. Motherwell has already finished and the club is en route to South Africa.

By the slim margin of one point, it was definitely decided that Third Lanark will go down to the second division with the luckless Cowdenbeath outfit. Third Lanark won today, beating Partick Thistle 3-1, to bring their points to 25. But the Airdrie club gained a point in a 1-1 draw with Ayr United, and are a point ahead of Lanaark.

DILLINGER LAYS PLANS TO KIDNAP OHIO GOVERNOR

gistration plates, and carrying six men and three women, stopped in front of the Marquette Hotel on court street. The cars were headed east, and drew up on the wrong side of the street at the hotel. One of the men motioned to a hotel employee, and ordered drinks for four of the party. After paying for the liquor the party drove away quickly in an easterly direction.

The men and women did not leave the cars here. The waiter said three men rode in the rear seat of the first car. A fourth man, driving, ordered four drinks of whiskey.

The waiter said the driver passed three of the drinks to the men in the back seat who kept their faces turned from view.

The waiter told police the driver tossed him a bill and drove off without waiting for change and with the whiskey glasses.

FOUR FACE INDICTMENTS.

ST. PAUL, April 28.—(A.P.) — Indictments charging conspiracy to harbor and conceal John Dillinger, notorious outlaw, were returned by a Federal grand jury here to-day against four persons now held by the Department of Justice.

The indictments were against Evelyn Frechette, girl friend of the Indiana outlaw; Beth Green, alias Bessie Moore, reported wife of a slain Dillinger henchman; Dr. Clayton May of Minneapolis, and his nurse, Mrs. Augusta Salt.

Several secret indictments, said to include persons connected with the Dillinger case but still at large, also were returned by the grand jury, it was reported.

Miss Frechette is alleged to have been with Dillinger in the apartment from which he shot his way to freedom March 31. Dr. May and Mrs. Salt are alleged to have treated Dillinger for a wound he suffered in the escape while Mrs. Green also is alleged to have been connected with the desperado while he hid here.

Mrs. Green, arrested the night of April 3 when Eugene Green was fatally wounded by Department of Justice agents, is held incommunicado by the Federal Government under $35,000 bail.

On Nelson's Trail.

ST. PAUL, April 28 (A.P.). — An alarm broadcast shortly after 10 a.m. to-day urged officers on a trunk highway north of Pine City to watch for a gray sedan, containing two men, one of whom was thought to be "Baby Face" Nelson, Dillinger mobster.

Two men who stole a gray sedan at Moose Lake at 5 a.m. to-day were the object of a widespread search in East Central Minnesota, with authorities warned to approach the car with extreme care.

Sheriff Hannes Rypkema of Pine County picked up the trail shortly after the thieves raced out of Moose Lake and chased them 40 miles.

The Sheriff said he travelled up to 80 miles an hour during the chase and once got within shooting range, but another car, speeding ahead of the stolen sedan, prevented him from shooting.

The Sheriff finally was outdistanced and gave up the chase.

YOU PAY IN BLOOD AND TREASURE AND GET DROSS—THAT'S WAR

ENEMY ARTILLERY OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS CAPTURED AT CAMBRAI

Cannon, mine throwers and machine guns captured by Canadians at Cambrai are seen here as trophies of the last great drive. Krupps sold these to the German taxpayers for a lot of money, but they are just so much scrap iron now. That's war. You pay in blood and treasure and get dross in return.

FINAL CURTAIN NEAR ON DRAMA PERFORMANCES

Only Six Groups Remain Out of 22 Seeking Amateur Laureis.

FROM 7 PROVINCES.

"Elizabeth the Queen," By Vancouver Players, Draws High Praise.

(By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, April 28.—(CP)— Tonight will ring down the final curtain on the second drama festival. Six competing groups, bringing the total up to 22, will play at Matinee and evening performances for the amateur dramatic crown of Canada. When the final curtain rings down, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will close the festival with a brief address.

That will be all, excepting what might be regarded as a most important feature, the determining of the winners. James T. Grein, festival adjudicator, must address himself to the difficult task of deciding which of the 22 playing groups from seven provinces of Canada, is entitled to the Bessborough Trophy, awarded for the best presentation. He must also decide on the best presentation in the English and the best in French, exclusive of the winner of the main trophy. Other awards are to be determined.

One Act Plays Rule

One-act plays will rule at today's final performances. They will be as follows: Matine: 'All On A Summer's Day,' by Martha Allan, the Montreal Repertory Theatre; 'Lonesome-Like,' by Harold Brighouse, the Selkirk Little Theatre, Manitoba; 'Waterloo,' by A. Conan Doyle, The Saint John Players' Club, N.B. Evening; 'Michael,' by Miles Malleson, Toronto Hart House Theatre, Group Number 3; 'Derelict,' by E. J. Thorlakson, the University of Alberta Dramatic Club; 'The Devil Among the Skins,' by Ernest Goodwin, the Toronto Masquers.

Two of today's plays are by Canadian dramatists. They are 'All On A Summer's Day,' from the pen of Martha Allan, of Montreal; and 'Derelict,' by E. J. Thorlakson.

Last night's offering of the Vancouver Little Theatre Association, 'Elizabeth the Queen,' by Maxwell Anderson, drew high praise from the adjudicator. "It is a credit to those who have come so far," he declared, and a "wonderful performance." The other presentations were 'Submerged,' given by the Queen's University Dramatic Guild, and Sir J. M. Barrie's 'Half An Hour,' presented by the London Drama League.

The first play "Submerged" by H. Stuart Cottman and Le Vergne Shaw, brought the Queen's University Dramatic Guild before the foot-lights in a dramatic and depressing picture of the last moments of half a dozen men trapped in a sunken submarine.

Some Criticism

Criticism of the piece was offered by Mr. Grein. Some of the characters had forgotten to speak clearly at times, he said. The lighting had not been good, and the actors were handicpped thereby. There had, however, been manifest a strong desire on the part of the players to lose their identities in the characters they were portraying, and that was good. He paid particular tribute to the actor playing the role of a coward who declines to risk death even though he has drawn the fatal card which marks him for the sacrifice in order that the others may be saved.

The London Drama League, of the Western Ontario region, presented Sir J. M. Barrie's lovely little play" Half An Hour." This is another tragedy, but a human story of what may happen in any of a hundred homes. It is the story of Lady Lillian, the wife of Richard Carson, a materialistic bully who has, as he informs her, purchased his wife for 20,000 pounds.

She is unhappy, and after a violent scene, decides to leave him for a man she loves. She does so, but the man whom she turns to is killed a few minutes after their meeting when he goes out to call a cab to take her to the station. The final scene shows her return to the home of her husband, who has not discovered her departure.

No Comparisons.

"This play is very near to my heart," said Mr. Grein. He had an office near Sir James Barrie in London, and he revered the great dramatist greatly. He had seen the play a score of times, played by great actors. He would make no comparisons.

The play was one which imposed upon its actors a heavy task, the adjudicator continued. He criticized the playing of the two principal roles, and praised one of the other parts.

It had been a "very cheerful evening," the adjudicator remarked att the close of his speech while the audience laughed. It had, however, been a very interesting evening. The longer he continued performing his task, the more he was impressed with the importance of the two words "be just" in dealing with the presentations.

PARLIAMENT HILL HEARS

By WILFRID EGGLESTON

Anyone who innocently supposes that the rigid restriction of "parliamentary' language stops members from passing the odd compliment across the floor of the House, would do well to consider the folloing recent examples:

The Veniot-Hanson retort courteous:

Mr. Veniot: Oh, oh.

Mr. Hanson (York-Sunbury): I have heard other animals make noises like that. (Yes, other).

Mr. Veniot: May I be permitted to say that I have listened to jackasses braying better than the honorable member.

An exchange between Messrs. Gott (Essex, South) and the former Minister of Labor (Mr. Heenan):

Mr. Heenan: My honorable friend never opens his mouth without giving a grunt like a pig.

Mr. Gott: The honorable member for Kenora-Rainy River ought to be ashamed of himself . . .

Mr. Heenan: If the chairman cannot keep that honorable gentleman quiet, I will try to do it myself.

Mr. Gott: You would have a fine time.

Mr. Heenan: All you would have to do would be to give him a little pin prick and he would burst like a bubble.

Even the Speaker, the Grand Arbiter of what is parliamentary, sometimes is the subject of a mild bouquet, as in the following observation from a British Columbia member:

"I appeal from your decision, sir; it is too rank for anything."

In order to remove any impression, however, that such an atmosphere is typical of Parliament Hill, it is only necessary to consider Premier Bennett's luncheon the other day.

Some three hundred members of the House of Commons and Senate, members of the Fourth Estate and civil servants, accepted the hospitality of the Prime Minister in a function in honor of the Postmaster General of Australia. There were amongst them some of the bitterest political foes of Mr. Bennett, Liberal members and Senators, members of the C.C.F., headed by J. S. Woodsworth and "Bob" Gardiner. . . . There was cordial hand-shaking on both sides as they trooped in. . . . Mr. Bennetts' bountiful luncheon was keenly enjoyed, the Prime Minister was in his mellowest and most facetious mood, and for the nonce, at least, party animosities were forgotten.

It was remarked at the luncheon that these "family gatherings" of which the Prime Minister must have given seven or eight since he came into power, notably for Winston Churchill and Sir Josiah Stamp, mark an innovation on the Hill. No Prime Minister before Premier Bennett ever gave these comprehensive luncheons—no predecessor, perhaps, could have afforded it. Even his political enemies testify to his personal generosity, and, with few exceptions, I notice, they accept it.

The growing joviality of the P.M. has been remarked before and elsewhere: it would almost seem as though every by-election defeat makes Mr. Bennett a little kindlier than he was before.

And, speaking of by-elections, "Bob" Deachman of Liberal headquarters, says that there are now two Oxford "movements" in Canada, but the more important of them is South Oxford!

Newspapermen, like doctors, have no hours; the eight-hour day is merely a subject to write dispatches about. I had this forcibly brought to my attention by a dialogue between Alec Carisse, the Grand Factotum of the Press Gallery, and a visiting correspondent, as follows:

Correspondent: "When does this place (the press room, a few yards from the gallery in the House) close?"

Carisse (borrowing a phrase from the restaurants): "We never close."

Correspondent: "I means the press room here."

Carisse: "That's what I mean; this place has been open 24 hours a day, for the last eight years."

It's a tribute to the department of finance and Mr. Rhodes, that the ten per cent. gold tax burst on the country as a complete surprise, on Wednesday afternoon (Budget Day) after all mining exchanges (except Vancouver) had closed for the day. Millions could have been made by any speculators who had got hold of that precious information a few days before. It's tru that a gold tax had been idly discussed, but the action of the market on Budget Day showed that not the slightest leak had got out of the West Block.

Last year unfortunately, the sugar tax either "leaked" or was conjectured by a shrewd crowd of dealers, for one-quarter of a year's supply was taken out before the tax came on, nicking the Federal Treasury of over $4,000,000 in tax money.

I hear that this year any possibility of that was circumvented in an ingenious way. The decision to tax gold wasn't made until the morning of Budget Day, and even then it was a secret between Premier Bennett, Mr. Rhodes and one or two finance officials.

If so, they were taking a leaf out of a former Liberal Finance Minister's book. I'm told that when Dunning put the tax on tea in 1930, no members of the cabinet were told, but a decision was reached on the morning of the presentation day.

This year, on the gold tax, even Hon. Wesley Gordon, Minister of Mines, and the one most affected, didn't know until he heard it in the House, if my informant is correct.

I didnt know before . . . that when they processed a discarded doormat used at the Royal Mint they took $20 worth of fine gold dust out of it. . . . that Grote Stirling, member for Yale, is related to the Grote who wrote the classical history of Greece.

Nelson, on Friday afternoon, April 20th, being well attended. A program of music which was much appreciated, was given by Miss Margaret Bryce, Mrs. F. A. Eason, Mrs. J. S. Ferguson and Mrs. Wm. Weir of Lang.

After tea was served Mrs. James McFarlane, on behalf of the ladies present, thanked Mrs. Nelson for the very pleasant afternoon enjoyed in her home.

Mrs. D. D. Brown entertained at bridge on Thursday evening. Those present were Mrs. Robert Nelson, Mrs. P. C. Gillespie, Mrs. F. A. Eason, Miss Margaret Bryce, Mrs. G. S. Taylor, Mrs. H. Miss Edith Nelson left on Monday for Guelph where she will attend the Ladies 'Agricultural College for the next three weeks. Miss Nelson won the trip by winning in the girls' judging competition, held at Lakefield in the summer.

Mr. F. L. Roy will be in the village on Tuesday evening, May 1st, when he will show moving pictures at the May O.Y.P.A. meeting.

Mr. Norman Taylor of Winnipeg was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Taylor.

The young people of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, are presenting their play, "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard," here on May 4th.

Mr. Harold Robb of Balcarras, Sask., visited relatives in the vicinity last week.

About a hundred friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Donaldson, in honor of the marriage of their daughter, Louise, which took place recently, to Stewart Lang. During the evening an appropriate address was read, and the young couple were presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Mr. Lang replied in a few well chosen words thanking their friends for their kindenss.

JAPAN EXPLAINS HER STATEMENT ON CHINA POLICY

Will Welcome Foreign Dealings That Rebound to Chinese Benefit.

AIMED TO EASE ALARM.

Cannot Remain Indifferent to Efforts Endangering Peace of Asia.

By GLENN BABB.
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

TOKYO, April 28.—(A.P.)—Japan issued an "official" interpretation of her re-stated policy toward China to-day.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota said in a statement that Japan "can not remain indifferent" to foreign efforts to aid China that "endanger the peace of Asia."

Japan has no desire to interfere with the rights of other powers in China, the statement added, and will welcome other nations' dealings with China provided such dealings rebound to China's benefit.

Hope was expressed that the statement would convince governments alarmed by the April 17 declaration that there never had been any intention to assert Japan's right to censor the relations of Occidental nations with China.

The statement in full was delivered only to Ambassador Joseph C. Grew of the United States and to the British Ambassador, Sir Francis Lindley, in response to their questions concerning the earlier declaration.

Only the high points of the statement were made public. The text will probably be made public to-day.

A Mistake

A foreign office spokesman declared the earlier statement was not intended for publication.

The communication to-day to the British and United States ambassadors "is the only official statement" it was pointed out.

Hirota told the two envoys that Japan has no intention of violating China's sovereignty and integrity, desires the unification of China, supports the open-door, equal opportunities policies and has no intention of infringing on existing treaties.

Diplomatic circles, while pointing out that the new statement is along the general lines of that of April 17, remarked that it was couched in more conciliatory terms.

The foreign office vigorously declared that Hirota Was not responsible for the April 17 pronouncement which has become widely known as Japan's "Hands-off China" policy.

It is presumed that Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, will present Hirota's statement to Parliament Monday.

ONCE WAS BLIND SIGHT NOW KEEN

James Mulligan, 91, of Meaford, Survives Sun Stroke and Likes Hard Work.

MEAFORD, Ont., April 28 (C.P.)—Meaford's oldest man, now 91, thinks he has lived long because he worked hard. It was work, he believes, that made him tough to survive a sun-stroke that blinded him for a year.

James Milligan, the town's patriarch who used to be a fisherman, is strong and lively. He reads without glasses and is a noted checker player in this section of the country. He was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, a land almost as famous as Turkey for the longevity of its emigrants.

The sailing vessel that brought Milligan and his parents to Canada took 42 days to make the crossing. The old man has been interested in ships since his boyhood. He came here when he was 25 and can tell tales of the sinking of the "Jane Miller" and the "Asia," when many lives were lost and the foundering of the "Jones," bound from Owen Sound to Lion's Head.

Milligan attributes his long life not only to hard work but recalls he gave up smoking and chewing tobacco more than 40 years ago, never smoked a cigarette, and drinks nothing but hot water for breakfast.

Government Silent On Gold Tax Changes

OTTAWA, April 28 (CP)—Any change the Government may make in the 10 per cent levy on gold will remain a secret until official announcement is ready. Negotiations between the mining interests and the Government looking towards a change have been carried on in the last few days, but no indications of progress have been given.

So far, it is understood, the Government has not withdrawn from its intention of making the gold-mining industry contribute an extra $10,000,000 to the treasury. The Government is believed to be willing to alter the form of the tax in any way the miners prefer, so long as it produces the desired return.

Suggested modifications have included a plan which would make the impost bear more lightly on low grade mines operating on a small margin of profit. Automatically then it would bear more heavily on the mines blessed with high grade ore and would be even less attractive to them than in its present form.

To the Citizens of Peterborough

April 27, 1934

Dear Friends:

With the expectation of summer and a brighter future, we are going to ask all of the citizens who have not yet availed themselves of the opportunity to contribute to the Y.M.C.A. Campaign Fund, and we are also going to appeal to those who have followed the line of least resistance in some cases and said, "No, we cannot afford to make a donation," to further seriously consider this worthy cause and the opportunity which is theirs to make a donation, and thus show in a tangible way that they are indeed concerned about the future welfare of our boys and young men.

The objective of $7,250 will be made, and it will not be necessary to go past the citizens of Peterborough for this amount. The Board of Directors and the management of the Y.M.C.A. of Peterborough have more than saved this amount which they are seeking in economies which they have been able to make during the last three years, so kindly let us boost, rather than knock, sing rather than cry and give rather than withhold. To use a very well-known quotation "Giving does not impoverish us, neither does withholding enrich us."

If you do not wish to be solicited, kindly send your donations in to the Y.M.C.A., and if a canvasser calls to see you, kindly receive him courteously and satisfy his efforts by giving him your donation, and thus help us declare a victory on Tuesday night.

I would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who have contributed to the success of this campaign.

Yours sincerely,

CHARLES SHAW, Campaign Chairman.

TWO BIG COMPANIES ARE AMALGAMATED

Fry and Cadbury Organizations Now One Firm in Canada.

An amalgamation of the firms of J. S. Fry & Sons (Canada) Ltd. and Cadbury Ltd., has been announced from Montreal, the Canadian headquarters of these two widely known companies.

The name of the new partnership is Fry-Cadbury Ltd. and the two modern factories which have been near and friendly neighbours in Montreal for several years, are now a unit where products bearing two of the most famous names in the English-speaking world will be manufactured.

This event is another milestone in the romantic history of two great companies, pre-eminent in the cocoa and chocolate industries.

In a small shop in Bristol, England, Joseph Storrs Fry started making Fry's Cocoa in 1728, just 206 years ago. In Birmingham, England, in 1824, just over 100 years ago, John Cadbury started in business. He started his Cocoa and Chocolate business in 1831.

While it is only in recent years that there has been any connection between these two firms, their histories are similar in many respects. Both Joseph Storrs Fry and John Cadbury started business with modest capital, in a small retail establishment. Both were Quakers. Both businesses have remained under the direction and control of the original family to this day. Cecil Fry, present Chairman of the Board of Directors of the parent Fry Company, is the sixth in direct line of succession to head the firm.

The analogy holds good with Cadbury Bros. Ltd. John Cadbury was the founder of this business, which later passed into the hands of Richard Cadbury and George Cadbury. Under their direction the business grew into world fame. The present chairman of the company is Mr. William A. Cadbury, a direct descendant of the founder.

The Cadbury and Fry Companies have always gone to Companies have always gone to what might be considered extreme lengths to ensure the comfort and happiness of their employees. Nowhere is this concern for employees' welfare better evidenced than at Somerdale and at Bournville, the headquarters of the English companies. Both firms conceived the idea of creating a model site for their operations—a place in the open country where they could work and play and live in ideal homes.

The Bourneville Village, created by Cadbury's around the Cadbury factory, was the first great experiment in an ideal housing scheme. To-day with its flowers, its neat homes, its playing grounds, and community houses, it is one of the show places of England.

Fry's have built their Garden City on the banks of the River Avon at Somerdale. It is a more recent development than the Bourneville enterprise. In the past few years the manufacturing has been transferred from the older Fry plants in the heart of the City of Bristol to the huge modern buildings in the peaceful English countryside.

The annual opening of schools in Costa Rica recently caused an unusual jump in the buying of materials for uniforms for pupils.

here voluntary. None of them had to be drawn here in cars, carted like so many skulls to the stockyard. You are here because you are Tories. I am exceedingly proud of the people of this county, and tomorrow the papers will not be able to speak about any ballot-stuffing here.

The Liberals were divided in their convention, but they were true to form. They have been divided for years into Labour and U.F.O., Hepburnites and old Line Liberals, the same as the party is divided all over the province. You see Mr. Hepburn going about the province while he is supposed to be representing his riding at Ottawa. No man can serve two masters. While he is going about in this way he is losing all control of the little group he is supposed to lead. And if he can't lead twenty-two men, how can he be expected to lead a Government.

I make this charge that any man who goes about trying to upset people against the government and British institutions merely to g— power is justly in the ranks of the Communists. In the times we have been passing through any group that tries to upset things is guilty of an offense. Of course, when it comes to an election time it is perfectly all right that there should be opposition and discussion of public affairs."

"At times when our county is at war, all good citizens are expected to work together for the good of the country. We are at war now—economic war. Everyone should be standing shoulder to shoulder fighting this war."

He characterized Hepburn as the "runabout leader." Hepburn is in Toronto or some nearby city one day doing his "malicious publicity work" in the interests of his Ontario party and the next day he is in Ottawa, he said. "He is trying to serve two masters and has shown himself incapable of serving either. When he can not even control his own group in the House, how can he serve as premier of our province?"

Defends Road Projects

Replying to Hepburn's charges that the great program of road work by the Government is merely a vote-catching proposition, Mr. McArthur maintained that the Liberal leader has been telling only one side of the story. Mr. Hepburn, he said, has been shouting that millions are being spent in road work but fails to point out that thousands of men are being given work thereby. Admittedly the Government is getting ahead of its regular road building program but the work is being done for relief, he said.

Not For Votes

"It is not a vote-catching proposition. We are not asking whether they voted for us or against us. We are ready to take care of every man in this county who is out of work and unable to support his wife and children. Don't believe anyone who tries to tell you we are doing it for votes."

The speaker offered an explanation of the Abitibi deal in answer to Hepburn charges, declaring that the entire affair was a good example of "the forethought of Mr. Henry." Conceding that the Tory government has made mistakes, he related that some years ago the Government made the mistake of leasing the power rights in the Abitibi River. The interests in control sold the power at such high rates that the low-grade ore mines were finding it too dear to buy, he continued, and since the development of mining in the north was being retarded, Mr. Henry realized that the Government must get back Abitibi at any price. The action was justifying itself for not only are the revenues from Abitibi paying the interest on the investment but also hundreds of men are gaining employment, Mr. McArthur declared.

The Curtis Incident.

Mr. McArthur turned to deal with a charge made against him by Reeve Hy Curtis at the Liberal convention on Wednesday in connection with the gasoline dispute which feature the recent session of the Durham and Northumberland Counties Council.

Reviewing the affair, he said that Mr. Curtis voiced a complaint in the Counties Council to the effect that employees of the county road department were using county gasoline for their own purposes. The charge implicated George Greer, county road superintendent, he related, but Mr. Greer was not present at the time. When Mr. Greer returned, Mr. Curtis had left the chamber and gone to a hotel and could not be induced to return and re-state his charge before Mr. Greer, he declared.

Council Responsible.

"At the Liberal meeting on Wednesday I understand that Mr Curtis charged me with stopping an investigation of the affair by the Government in order to save Mr. Greer. Shortly after the matter arose, I went to the Attorney-General's department about it and I found that under the Municipal Act the responsibility for an investigation rests with the Counties Council. Mr. Curtis has the opportunity at the next session of demanding an investigation."

Then Mr. McArthur referred to the declaration of Clarence Massie, one of the nominees at the Liberal convention, that the Henry Government was spending with reckless disregard the taxpayers' money. "It is true that this Government is spending money but the expenditures are investment expenditures. They are expenditures for power, for highways and for other public works which will pay us in the future. They are expenditures for the care of humanity, for hospitals, for the care of old people and for people who come under the Mothers' Allowance provisions. We have those expenditures and we are going through with them notwithstanding Mr. Massie. They are honorable expenditures. We are not hanging our heads in shame at good, honest expenditureess."

With regard to Mayor H. N. Carr of Campbellford, the Liberal candidate chosen Wednesday, the speaker asserted that the Government had been very good to his town and challenged him to find any fault with the Government. Remarking that the Government is giving Campbellford a road to the south and building a road north, he said: "He has been ill-advised by some Liberal friends in going out to fight the Government which has been so generous to his town."

He offered a whole-hearted endorsement of the Stevens' Commission, stating that the farmer is not getting a square deal from the packing interests. The packers are organized all along the line and are taking a considerable advantage of the farmer, he said. He characterized the situation as "shameful" and "abominable" and asserted that the Tories are going to stick to the job and see that the farmers get fair prices.

Warning To Packers

"If these packing organizations do not soon get down to business and give the farmer a square deal, the next movement of the Government will be to take them over and operate them. I am going to fight for something along that line if things can't be improved. We are producing produce today and not getting any profit from it. The capitalistic institutions are making the money and grinding down the people of this province.

"I pledge you that if I am elected I will devote all my energy to improve conditions in this line. That is one of the great responsibilities of the Tory party—to see that you men get a square deal. An era of prosperity in the next five years will not help the farmers unless we make these great interests play the game. The game is going to be played and it is going to be played quickly."

Mr. Phillips.

Declining the nomination of the convention Mr. Phillips stated his conviction that there were others in positions to do more for the party than himself. He pledged his support of the Tory candidate and expressed confidence in his election and the return of the Henry government.

Referring to the speech of J. J. Duffus of Peterborough at the Liberal convention on Wednesday, he scoffed at the prophecy that Ontario will default its bonds in three years if the present administration continues. "Look over the bonds of the Province of Ontario," he invited. "They were never so high as today."

"This is one of the most important elections in the history of Ontario," he continued. "Our homes, our livelihoods, our futures are at stake. Are we going to place the government in the hands of that bunch which Hepburn leads? Every government makes mistakes but I say that the government of George Henry is to be trusted rather than that bunch which is now aspiring to leadership."

He called on the electors to return the Henry government "to conduct the affairs of the Province in a sane and safe way as for the past five years."

In a brief address, Fred Denyes thanked the convention for honoring him with a nomination for the candidacy but announced that he had no intention of allowing his name to stand. "Whoever is elected here, do not be afraid to stand behind Mr. Henry," he declared.

Hon. Mr. Finlayson.

In the introduction of his address Hon. Mr. Finlayson compared the difficulties which had to be overcome in winning the war with those which have followed the collapse of the post-war boom in 1929.

"The problems of this new period are the more difficult," he said. "In all the strain and stress of the times we have more production than ever, but less of it is utilized. Are you aware that we are producing more wheat, but making less bread? There is more lumber and steel and other materials but we have less construction going on.

It is a difficult period all over the world. And this fact is everywhere recognized that these conditions are absolutely universal no matter what kind of government is at the head of any of the nations."

Hon. Mr. Finlayson briefly contrasted the political and economic experiments which are attracting the world's attention. He sketched the communistic plan of Soviet Russia, a fascism in Italy under Mussolini, and the new system Hitler was endeavoring to set up in Germany. And one of the most interesting experiments, he said, was being made in the United States. That country had believed itself to be self-contained, and sought to make the world pay tribute to it by a system of high tariffs. A creditor nation it had collected great sums of gold, increasing the price of its dollar until no one would trade with them.

Even Canadians had to pay a premium of twenty cents on every dollar owed in New York at one time. From that the condition of the United States had quickly receded until the day came when all its banks were closed, business was declining and the United States realized that they had failed to impose their institutions on the world. Then, when the country seemed faced with revolution at home, a new president was elected, who with new powers adopted the plan of debasing the dollar, and adopted such policies as the N.R.A., the C.C.C. and the A.A.A.

Failure of the A.A.A.

By the Agricultural Adjustment Act the administration endeavored to reduce production by reimbursing farmers for acres they left idle. If a man had taken a crop from sixty acres he was asked to plant only forty acres, and the government would pay him the difference in cash. But, it was found that many farmers used the money they received from the government to buy fertilizers with the result that production from the forty acres was as much or greater than it had been from the sixty.

According to the same plan, a large part of the cotton crop in the south had actually been destroyed. The Government said there was too much wheat, too much corn, too much cotton, and that production should be reduced. Then they tried to control wheat by vast purchases from their own farmers, stored it and when the price went up to forty cents sold it at a loss of hundreds of millions of dollars. They attempted a similar pork experiment, and today Canadian pork prices are nearly twice as high as the prices in the United States.

The whole experiment to the south of us, Mr. Finlayson said, was not ended, and with the great resources of the country and patriotic co-operation by the people it might prove a success. "But, it would be a bold man who would hazzard an opinion."

Great Britain, he continued, had adopted the old-fashioned plan of determining to balance its budget. Ramsay Macdonald, departing from his Labor affiliations of a lifetime, Sir John Simon, one of the leading Liberals, and Stanley Baldwin formed a national government. The right people were told that they would have to pay still heavier taxes, and the government applied itself to putting the country's affairs in order. As a result of this method, the British people had the satisfaction recently of reporting a tremendous credit balance, and London was strengthened in the position of the financial centre of the world.

What Canada Did.

"We in Canada, both at Ottawa and Toronto, set to work to balance our budgets without any startling experiments," Hon. Mr. Finlayson continued.

After paying two thirds of the cost of unemployment relief, spending large sums in creating employment for men out of work, and maintaning Ontario's splendid social services unimpaired, this province was coming out of the prevailing difficulties in a regular and steady way; the Government had been able to take care of the extraordinary burdens, and had shown a moderate surplus this year.

Mr. Finlayson declared himself in favor of providing work for men instead of distributing direct relief.

"The man who receives direct relief is in danger of losing his individuality, and of considering that the State or somebody owes him a living. It is an unhealthy condition, and is not our British system. We who live in the industrial centres realize it more than you who may live in the townships. I would rather tell a man—'there is what you need, there is your own budget, and you have got to earn it yourself.' That is the system we have always followed, and it makes for sound and healthy citizenship."

Work For 20,000 Men.

Nearly twenty thousand men were employed in the northern road camps, Mr. Finlayson said. They were provided with good food and comfortable living conditions, and were given an allowance of ten dollars a month. The cost to the government had been from $30 to $40 a month including this $10, and owing to the severe winter the men were not required to work when the weather was too cold.

Under the new program announced since the winter passed, times had improved, wages were increased, and men were expectd to give a full amount of work in road building and other forms of permanent production.

"I think you all agree with me that it is far better to provide work for men, especially our young men; to give them something to do instead of hanging around the streets and pool rooms of our towns and cities. The program we have begun will also encourage manufacturers to give more work. I am pleased that there is a distinct improvement today and that it is starting in the right place.

We have been making tremendous progress in our mines, and that has brought out a certain type of people who are trying to create another paper boom, selling shares of one kind or another. We have already sent back to the United States thirty or forty of these men. We don't want them here. Our improvement has been coming gradually from the place it should come from, better prices for our agricultural products. A year ago a man showed me two hundred bushels of Irish Cobbler potatoes, and told me he would be glad to get fifteen cents a bag for them. Think of that. Today they would bring probably $1.15 a bag or something close to that. That of course is an extreme example of the improvement in farm prices. But generally speaking, our farm prices are distinctly improving. They are putting heart and confidence into the farmers of Ontario. Farmers are again in the market buying machinery, they are making repairs that have been neglected, they are buying the things they generally need, and it is all a great source of satisfaction to the Government.

But, don't let us make another mistake of getting into a big boom again within the next two or three years. I think it should be the duty of a Government to try to check any movement of that kind after the experience we have had. Let us hold our heads, and build up and expand in a moderate, reasonable way."

Mr. Finlayson explained the change in the Hydro contracts for rural service whereby the old twenty-year clause which farmers had regarded almost as a mortgage on their properties, had been done away with. The farmer can now cancel the contract on one year's notice, which in effect meant that he engaged himself for only two years. The first year would be a time of trying out the service, and if he did not like it he could then give a year's notice that he wished to cancel it.

Ontario's Finances.

"Mr. Hepburn has been attacking the Government on the question of Ontario's debt. He is trying to frighten the people because of increases in the debt. There have been increases but we have $300,000,000 invested in the Hydro that is not costing anybody anything. All the costs are being taken cared of, and we have nearly $40,000,000 in the Hydro reserve account.

We have farmers' loans of over $50,000,000. Formerly, farm loans were largely dealt in by credit companies, but when that was largely changed and there was not the same demand for mortgages on farms, the Government organized the Agricultural Development Board which really took the place of these companies. The Board may make a loan up to 50 percent of the value of a farm, and the farmer can borrow at the rate of 5½ percent. This service is only for farmers, and we have over $50,000,000 invested in that service. It is one of the big items, but it has helped Ontario farmers to come through the bad period."

The Government had $38,000,000 invested in the T. and N.O. railway, extending now from North Bay to Moosinee. That railway was the means of discovering one of the richest mining districts in the world, from which there would be a production of $70,000,000 this year. The railway also opened up a valuable agricultural district, and there were other revenues from the pipwood and paper industries.

Mr. Finlayson reviewed the social services of Ontario, Mothers' Allowances, Old Age Pensions medical and hospital treatment, and referred to the radium treatments which the Government had made available, even for indigent patients.

"If you want that service continued and extended you should return the Henry Government, for Mr. Hepburn had said that he is going to cut the service investment in two if he becomes Premier."

In conclusion Mr. Finlayson remarked that there had to be responsibility in Government.

"The Tory party is the dominant party in Canada and certainly in Ontario. We must go on and give the services we have set up. We must live up to the standard the people of Ontario expect; and it is a higher standard than most other places in the world. This province is not bankrupt. Our credit is better than ever before. We are not fighting the Liberal party, but we are fighting the times and conditions. So don't let there be any uncertainty about the result. The Tory party has got to be responsible for Ontario. We are not fighting Hepburn or Nixon or McQuibban. There are twenty members on the other side and they've got six leaders. Make sure your organization is complete. It is your job to see that the Conservative party is returned to power to take part in the improvement of conditions, and to see that this province plays the part in the future which Ontario should play."

dehyde solution, thus 25 bushels of oats require only ½ pint of formalin mixed with ½ pint of water. A small quart sealer sprayer is most convenient for applying the formalin solution to the oats. A sprinkling can is not necessary.

Sweep a portion of the granary of barn floor and then spray it with a little of the formalin solution. Place the oats to be treated in a pile on the floor and shovel them into another pile as they are being sovelled over spray them with the formalin solution. When finished spray the bags on both the inside and the outside and cover the pile of oats with them. Old carpets, blankets, tarpaulin, etc. may be used to cover the treated oats but should first be sprayed the same as the bags. Leave the oats covered for four or five hours, then uncover and they are ready to sow.

N.B. When treating oats by this method open the doors so as to give plenty of ventilation and hold the sprayer close to the oats. If this is not done the strong fumes of formalin will cause much irritation to the nose and throat.

Advantages of This Method

1. It is safe.
2. Large quantities can be treated in a short time.
3. There is no waiting for the oats to dry; they can be sown at once after treating.
4. If necessary the treated oats can be stored safely for a week or more.

The Standard Sprinkling Method With a Formalin Solution

This method is recommended for the prevention of smut of Oats, Stinking Smut of Wheat and Covered Smut of Barley.

Directions—Mix 1 pint of formalin with 40 gallons of water. Place the grain to be treated in a heap on a clean floor. Sprinkle the formalin solution over the grain, then shovel the grain into another pile so as to mix it thoroughly. Then sprinkle and shovel again. Repeat this operation until every grain is moistened with the solution. Just enough of the solution should be applied to thoroughly moisten every grain but not enough to make the pile wet and soppy. Forty gallons of this formalin solution is sufficient to sprinkle between 50 and 60 bushels of grain so that it takes two-thirds of a gallon or more of this solution per bushel. It is important to use proportional amount of the formalin solution. After the grain has been thoroughly sprinkled cover the pile with bags, sacks or blankets, etc. which have been sprinkled with or soaked in a formalin solution, and leave for three or four hours. At the end of this time spread the grain out thinly to dry. It is often advisable to shovel it over three or four times to hasten the drying.

Advantages of Treating Grain With Formalin

(1) Seed grain treated with formalin if it has been thoroughly dried and aired can if necessary be used for feeding purposes.

Formaldehyde is sold under the name of formalin which is a forty per cent solution of formaldehyde. It can be purchased in drug stores by the pound (16 ounces) or by the pint (20 ounces). Barrels or pails are not injured by formalin and so may be used for holding the solution when treating the seed.

Disadvantages of Treating Grain With Formalin

(1) The grain is wet and it frequently takes considerable time to dry it so that it can be sown with the drill.

(2) Germination is frequently injured, especially if the grain is not sown for some time after treating, or if the soil is very dry at seeding time.

Copper Carbonate Dust Treatment for the Prevention of Stinking Smut of Wheat and Smut in Hulless Oats.

Directions—This dust should be applied at the rate of from 2 or 3 ounces per bushel depending upon the amount of smut present. Dust mixing machines are now on the market for applying dust rapidly to large quantities of grain. Put the grain and the copper carbonate dust into the mixing machine and rotate for two or three minutes, or until every grain is thoroughly covered with dust. It is advisable to wear a dust mask or a wet handkerchief over the nose and mouth while treating the grain. If a smut treating machine is not available a barrel churn or an ordinary barrel fastened in a frame, or some types of cement mixers may be used for treating the grain.

Advantages of Treating With Copper Carbonate Dust

(1) It does not injure germination.

(2) Seed can be treated whenever convenient and stored without injury.

(3) Dusted seed can be sown at any time in dry or moist soil.

Disadvantages of Treating With Copper Carbonate Dust

(1) Treated seed cannot be used for feeding or for milling purposes.

(2) Treated seed must be kept dry and should not be allowed to stand in the seed drill under moist conditions.

(3) Any dust that collects in the seed drill should be cleaned out as it may become caked and injure the drill.

If the drill has not been used for a few hours it is advisable to rock the wheels before starting to loosen the grain and the gearings.

Precautions to be Taken to Insure Success of Methods Recommended to Prevent Smut:

(1) Learn to distinguish the different grain smuts and be sure to use the method recommended for the particular one you wish to prevent.

(2) All bags, sacks, etc., that are used for handling treated grain are likely to be contaminated with smut and should be treated with formalin.

(3) Never leave treated grain covered longer than five or six hours.

(4) Sow the seed as soon after treatment as possible. If wet weather prevents seeding immediately after treatment, then take precautions to see that the grain is thoroughly dry before it is bagged.

(5) Do not allow wet grain to freeze as it may injure the germination.

(6) When the seed is damp and swollen after treating, the drill should be set to sow one-half to three-quarters of a bushel more per acre than usual.

Every farmer has sometime had experience in threshing grain from a smut infested field; and while threshing is always a dusty, dirty job, the presence of smut in the grain makes a great difference and in many cases the thick, black dust actually causes sickness. The added comfort at threshing time should be sufficient reason to make smut treatment popular but when it is considered that in many seasons the loss in yield caused by smut runs as high as 15 per cent of the crop, it is in the interest of every farmer to treat all of his seed grain.

Obituary

MRS. JEFFERSON MOORE

LAKEFIELD, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of the late Mrs. Jefferson Moore was held on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence, Albert street, with Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., pastor of the Lakefield United Church, officiating. Mrs. Moore was well known and identified with the village and Sunday School work for many years and the house was filled to capacity with friends, while a larger crowd gathered outside to pay a tribute to the memory of one of the finest citizens of the community.

The service was simple, dignified and reverent, such as the deceased lady would wish and was characteristic of her life in the village. Two favorite hymns were read and Mr. Archer paid a tribute to her Christian life, her abiding faith and life's service to her Lord.

The pall-bearers were: William Adams, H. J. Abbott, E. J. Millage, C. W. Garbutt, P. Spence and S. E. White. Interment was made in the Lakefield Cemetery.

Mrs. Moore was born in Smith Township, the third daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cox; her girlhood days were spent in Lakefield as was most of her life. In 1904 she married the late Charles Boyce, who predeceased some years ago; later she married Jefferson D. Moore, who survives her.

Mrs. Moore was brought up in the Bible Christian Church, where her father was one of the leading figures, and went into the Methodist Church at the Union in 1884. For years she was a member and active worker in the W.M.S., but for many years devoted herself to the work of the Sunday School, where she was an earnest Bible student and had a great gift for imparting knowledge and of understanding the needs of the youthful mind.

Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Moore took an extended trip to the Pacific Coast and visited Mrs. Moore's only surviving brother, Thomas Cox, at Mission City, B.C.

BLOCK SYSTEM IS FAVORABLE

of selling on the Belleville Board, which was carried. It was also agreed that Mr Joss sell the cheese being assisted by Thomas Fry, the latter's expenses being taken from the association funds.

In a short address Mr. Joss stated that if the association opened a British market, only members of the organization would get the benefit of it. "This association," he said, "was an opportunity for patrons to try and do something now when they were not satisfied with conditions. To get the benefits they must function, and to function they must have loyal support."

Cheese Situation.

In an address which went into the cheese situation very thoroughly, Mr. Mayberry, who is the executive member for Western Ontario, said that in South Oxford they had the worst system of selling cheese in the Dominion although that county had established the first co-operative cheese factory and had sent the first cheese to England, a monster weighing 7,000 pounds. In 1873 the first cheese board was established, and although their forefathers had given the industry the first boost, it had gradually been coasting down hill to a stop ever since, he said. The grading system there had had something to do with this, he said.

Tracing the effect of a combined organization, which with the Patrons' Association costs them five cents a thousand pounds of cheese, he said that in 1929 and 1930 the price spread between Ingersoll and Toronto had been too great, being about one dollar. In 1931 this had increased to $1.20. Then the trial car shipment of cheese was sent to England and independent markets sought, and 1932 the spread had decreased by 53 cents and in 1933 it stood at the same figure. Organization had done this and it would surely pay for itself, and he felt that had they been organized in his county earlier they could have saved the cost of organization on the buying of supplies alone.

Walter Smith was of the opinion that members of the organization should have some benefits, and he suggested that it should look after the insurance, board fees, and weighing and inspections. He felt that all those who came into the association should get these benefits.

Mrs. Hugh Barrett Speaks At Meeting

LAKEFIELD, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Hugh Barrett was the special speaker at the Efficiency league meeting on Monday evening. The topic was of a citizenship character, and Mrs. Barrett gave an excellent talk on the life and achievements of Sir John A. MacDonald, first Premier of Canada after the passing of the British North America Act. Miss Margaret Tanner was in charge of the program. Other items included: Recitation, Jean Miller; song, Lillian Calberry and Mureita Hull; recitation, Jean Tanner; song, Three Black Crows, Earl Robinson, Jack Morrison, Donald Yale and George Tanner.

Some games and contests brought a pleasant evening to a close.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church was held on Monday night with Miss Lulu Smith in charge of the program. Miss Smith was fortunate in securing some excellent guest artists from St. Paul's, Peterborough, who made an interesting contribution to the evening's program.

The following was the program: Reading, Billy Clark; Sketch of English Poetry, Miss Sybil Jackson, Peterborough; reading, Roger Davis; vocal duet, Misses Marion Armstrong and Isabel Mackay of Peterborough; recitation, Ruth Grotefend; solo, Mr. E. Hill; sketch, Literature of the Renaisance, Rev. R. J. Burton; Duet, Misses Armstrong and Mackay. Miss Armstrong gave a talk on the Glenmore Presbyterian Camp which was illuminating and of especial interest to the young people, who were urged to make use of it.

DILLINGER GANG CONTINUES WILD HOLD-UP CAREER

Outlaw's Lieutenant Swoops Upon Bank in Chicago Suburb.

ESCAPES WITH $6,000.

Sheriff Believes He Wounded Nelson in Battle Near Salon Springs, Wis.

CHICAGO, April 28 (C.P.) — The law's bullets are putting creases one by one, in the John Dillinger gang, but the outlaws haven't lost enough blood to halt their gun-roaring terror over the central west section of the United States.

George (Baby Face) Nelson, diminutive gunner, is the latest reported casualty in the Dillinger ranks, and a $6,000 bank robbery in a Chicago suburb is the latest outrage charged to the now widely scattered gang.

Al Johnson, a special deputy, reported to-day at Superior Wis., he believed he had wounded Nelson in an exchange of shots with him near Solon Springs, Wis., last night, the deputy was wounded slightly.

"Wooden Gun John" and his first lieutenant, John Hamilton, were treated for shoulder wounds a few weeks ago, but apparently have recovered completely.

"I took a pop at him and I think I hit him," Johnson said of his brush with Nelson. "His car careened to the side of the road. He probably was hit in the arm or the shoulder, as I did not aim high."

Find No Clue

While 5,000 or more heavily armed peace officers, augmented by hundreds of volunteers, searched from Louisville northward to the twin cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis, without further definite trace of Dillinger or Nelson, another of the Dillinger men was identified as the leader of a quintette of robbers who raided a Villa Park bank yesterday.

He was Homer Van Meter, the swashbuckling ally who recently helped his chief in a sensational raid on the Warsaw, Ind., police station, where they replenished their stock of guns and ammunition.

Waving their guns, the robbers swooped down on the Villa Park Trust and Savings Bank, terrorizing four employees, and scooping up the money. They fled in an automobile in a clean getaway.

In New York State?

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., April 28 (AP)—Two automobiles, bearing six men and three women and believed to be the Dillinger gang, sped through this city after having stopped at a local hotel to obtain refreshments.

Authorities of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania were immediately notified to be on the look-out.

Binghampton police reported that one automobile bore Illinois license and the other Wisconsin.

Obituary

HIRAM ANSON McCARTHY

The death occurred in Toronto at eight o'clock on Friday evening, April 27th, of Hiram Anson McCarthy, husband of the late Mrs. Margaret Langley McCarthy of Park street, who was for many years librarian at the Holy Name Society and who died two and a half years ago, and father of the Misses Mamie and Cathleen McCarthy of this city.

The deceased, who contracted pneumonia after a lingering illness, was born in Beeton, Ontario, and was educated at Upper Canada College. His father, the late Perry McCarthy, a cousin of the late D'Alton McCarthy, K.C., was a member of the group of United Empire Loyalists who came from the United States to live in Canada under the British flag.

The late Mr. McCarthy spent much of his long life in different places in the United States and Canada, and resided for eighteen years in Northern Ontario prior to going to Toronto. At one time, he was proprietor of a store on Water street opposite the Market Square.

Besides his two daughters, he is survived by two brothers—William of Alliston, and Frederick, of Beeton; also four sisters—Mrs. Mary McDermott of Innisfail, Alberta, Mrs. Harriet Wright of Beeton, whose son, Mr. Harry Wright, was for many years Federal Member of Parliament for one of the British Columbia constituencies, also Mrs. T. Fisher of Nesbitt, Manitoba, and Mrs. E. Owen Young, wife of the Rev. E. O. Young of the Presbyterian Manse at Magnetawan, Ontario. Another brother, Franklin, died some years ago.

The remains will arrive in Peterborough this evening and will rest at Lane & Eano's Funeral Home until Monday, when they will be interred in St. Peter's Cemetery. The Funeral Mass will take place at nine o'clock on Monday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral.

CANADIAN UNION MEN PROTESTING U. S. PRIVILEGES

Charge American Firms Conduct Insurance Business Without Deposit.

ASK SIMILAR RIGHTS.

Claim Millions Funds Now Not Available to Men Needing Benefits.

OTTAWA, April 28 (C.P.)—Inveighing against the "special privileges" enjoyed in Canada by foreign labor unions, such as the American Federation of Labor, and urging that these be discontinued or that exclusively Canadian unions be granted the same rights, a large delegation representing the all-Canadian Congress of Labor met Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, here yesterday. The group was headed by A. R. Mosher, president of that body. Consideration of their representations was promised by the Prime Minister.

The protest against the operations of the A.F. of L centred on the right which it enjoys to insure Canadian workers under conditions which exclude the union insurance departments from the operation of the Canadian insurance act.

"Canadian unions may not conduct a large-scale life-insurance business without making a substantial deposit with the Dominion Government; United States unions are conducting such business without any deposit and without any legal security for their Canadian policy-holders," Mr. Mosher said.

Millions Lost

"By the promise of large benefits these insurance schemes have attracted many thousands of Canadian members for the United States unions. The funds, carefully built up over decades, were not, however, held inviolate when the unions' speculative investments collapsed, with the result that many millions of dollars paid in by Canadian workers are not now available to meet their just claims for benefit."

The congress delegates complained that Canadian representation at Geneva conferences of the international labor organiation was vested in delegates "whose sole qualification to represent Canadian workers was their membership in the unions of a country which, though the wealthiest in the world, balks at paying dues to the League of Nations."

Canadian laws which "have the effect of fastening the United States unions on the backs of Canadian workers were designed to look like the keys of a larger liberty, though actually links in the chain of bondage," said Mr. Mosher.

By their aid the A.F. of L. was able to exact "tribute" and exercise domination over Canadian workmen.

The delegation asked that steps be taken to amend the railway act in such a way as to permit men to adhere to unions of their own choice. To illustrate their request, the delegation submitted to the prime minister the draft of a bill which expresses this purpose. They also asked for an amendment to clause 2 section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act which, they said, "permits the imposition of closed-shop conditions under an open-shop agreement."

An amendment to the British North America Act so as to provide for a Dominion-wide minimum wage for men was urged. It was also asked that Canadian advices to the International Labor Conferences at Geneva be not selected without prior consultation with the All-Canadian Congress of Labor.

IN MEMORIAM.

JAMES.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. John James, who passed away April 29, 1931:

Time speeds on, three years has passed
Since death, its glooms, its shadows cast,
Within our home where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.

We miss that light and ever will
Her vacant place there is none to fill,
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

MILLBROOK

"That Spring Feeling" formed the topic considered with general suggestions at an Institute meeting for April, the president remarking that "we need something to get the sluggishness out of our blood, the tired feeling ousted, and to create a revival in our whole outlook now the days of warm sunshine and wooing breezes is at least approaching.

The meeting was really in the form of a tea party, with the guests seated in fours about daintily-laid tables, centred with golden daffodils, and after the meal had been served everyone present was asked to contribute some hint along the line suggested in the theme, "That Spring Feeling."

Starting "the ball rolling," and since housecleaning was large in the minds of all the guests, one member told of her plan which was to clean all the clothes' closets, store room, dresser and stand drawers, with boxes and chests, first, putting each in order, before she began on the bedrooms. "Then you can go right ahead and accomplish so much more in a day than if you must stop for such 'fiddling' jobs as putting to rights the drawers in bureau and stand, etc., before you actually begin cleaning."

Asserting that this had been her plan for many years, another member said she carried it out downstairs too, doing all bookcases, cupboards, and such like, before she began on any room of the ground floor for real cleaning; "and in the cellar too, for I do my fruit cupboard, and any other closed-in shelves, as a preliminary to the basement spring and fall scouring and cleaning up."

A warning came from the chair to "enjoy a nice warm day when it comes by getting out of doors some way, motoring if possible, or at least walking, and visiting with your friends, rather than feeling you just must clean day after day until the whole task is accomplished. I nearly said 'tiresome task', for I always thought housecleaning came under that heading until recently I enjoyed an afternoon's visit with one of our members who declared she took pleasure in her spring cleaning. In the end I came to the conclusion it is her attitude of mind toward that upsetting time that actually leads her to take a certain amount of enjoyment out of it."

Labor-saving devices were mentioned by several, one that met with popular approval being a "bag made of dark flannelette, with a double frill along the lower edge, and made to fit a worn-out broom, that is excellent for wiping down walls, ceilings, the tops of doors and windows, and that may be washed afterward and used again and again. At our house we like this better than a brush, and use it all the year round for dusting high places in the rooms, even the top edge of the picture frames, and the curtain poles, and as a result we find less dust to be removed when cleaning time comes round."

In closing the hostess, after asserting that "she had heard enough of housecleaning for one afternoon," went on to read a clipping on the early history of tea, preceding this by coming in with a fresh pot of the fragrant brew and filling everybody's cup for a final 'social sip' before departure. "Tea came to England shortly before the Restoration, and we find that Samuel Pepys drank his first cup one hundred and seventy-four years ago—on September 28, 1660; his wife, however, never tasted the beverage until seven years later, and then as a cure for a cold by advice of Mr. Pelling the Potticary. Tea once sold at six guineas the pound in 1657, the next year being 'reduced' to fifty shilling, and later there was a cheap quality at 15s, the recommendation being "That it overcometh superfluous sleep, and is of great benefit to those who eat much flesh, or are of too corpulent bodies."

The guests were quite interested in the clipping, particularly when it told of one woman cooking tea with eggs, flavoring it with ginger, and of one housewife who treated it like spinach and served it up with salt and butter—all this because at first it was not understood what the green leaves were really for. One doctor in Leyden recommended it highly as bringing "the gift of sleeplessness, and mentioned twelve cups a day as enough for beginners, while veterans might take as many as two hundred."

It was agreed, as good byes were spoken with thanks for the hospitality enjoyed, that were the habits of the 'good old days' still prevalent "we would not have had the lovely afternoon tea you have served us to-day."

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

Newfoundland is the favorite colony of a very large number of philatelists in all parts of the world. Their stamps, especially from the issue of 1897, are practically all either pictorial or commemorative issues, a complete collection of which are difficult to surpass for general attractiveness and beauty. Their one drawback seems to be in the rather high prices that prevail in the majority of cases.

This week we illustrate three values of the 1931 issue; which although young in age, are much sought after by collectors, and today are selling either used or unused at approximately twice their face value.

The ten-cent value depicts "A Salmon Leaping a Falls." The color is olive black. The fourteen-cent shows us an exceptionally fine reproduction of the famous "Newfoundland Dog," color black. The fifteen-cent depicts a "Baby Seal," a most attractive looking little fellow. The color is magenta.

Canada Imperforates

Our recent article in which mention was made of several "imperforate" issues of Canadian stamps seems to have been somewhat misleading.

Referring to our previous article, it will be remembered that we stated the most common types of these "imperforates" were the two-cent King Edward, and the one, two and three-cent King George of the first design issued. These were the stamps actually issued "imperforate."

A letter from a Vancouver reader brings us the details of a transaction, by which the other varieties we mentioned were allowed to get out of the hands of the postal department. We will include these details, but wish to thank the writer of the letter for his sincere interest.

Our previous article mentioned a "mistake" by which "imperforate" stamps of the various issues from 1897 to 1925, were allowed to get out of the hands of the postal department. Perhaps we should have stated instead, that the "mistake" was made by a high official of the department. It was a deliberate action on his part for which we understand, he was disciplined accordingly.

Be that as it may, a very limited quantity of these issues exist in "imperforate" condition, they demand very high prices, at present; and like our Vancouver reader, with whom we heartily agree, collectors should carefully consider the circumstances, before buying these stamps at the high prices being asked.

In actual fact, the stamps were not issued thus by the government; but they do exist, with the result that a few limited collectors are in possession of a set in blocks or pairs.

While we do not believe in exploiting collectors by the issuance of unnecessary varieties, we think it might be a good idea if the government would issue large quantities of the "imperforate" stamps, whose present status is most satisfactory to philatelists. Such special items could well be sold at a few cents for each set, thus enabling every collector to have one of each. They could be issued in such a manner that there would be no possibility of every mistaking them for the real legitimate perforated issues.

Converting High-Priced Borrowings Into Lower Interest-Bearing Loans

By H.G.M.

DURING the last few years we have seen governments that have found themselves sorely pressed in their financial dealings converting their high-priced borrowings into lower interest-bearing loans. Great Britain really started the ball rolling when her conversion loan was met with such a patriotic outburst. But the success of this loan was due to something more than a patriotic outburst, for it was floated at a time when there was a plethora of idle money looking for some safe investment. Government and gilt-edged securities were, and still are, fetching a high price in London because of their fixed interest-bearing nature and their security in a very unstable market.

New Zealand followed suit with a similar conversion of loans that were falling due, and so, like Great Britain, saved herself large sums in annual interest. Australia went one better and converted loans that were not due, and so, according to the contract, not convertible. In this she met extreme conditions with extreme measures. Although this was contrary to all the usual practices, there was little outcry against it, and one did not hear mention of "abrogation of contract," though perhaps there would have been had the measure been taken by a Labor instead of a National Government. It is to be supposed that many people decided that it was better to get a low-yielding security and let the contract go hang than to haggle over technicalities and legal rights and get nothing.

The Prime Minister of Canada has expressed himself as not being in favor of such conversions for this country; and, after all, that is the attitude one would expect him to take, for large amounts of Government holdings are in the hands of big business. But if governments, federal, provincial and municipal, are not to convert their high interest-bearing loans, what is to stop them from defaulting?

Most of their loans were floated at a time when prices were high and money dear; now they find themselves groaning under the burden of carrying bonds at 5, 6 and even 7 per cent. when money is worth 3½ to 4 per cent. But on top of that is the fact that the low prices make those percentages almost double their face value; so that at a time when everything else has been scaled down to meet the present conditions, we find these loans remaining at the high prices that went with the war days and the boom. Is there any reason why everything else should be subordinated to these loans? There seems to be something sacred about a bond or government security; a sacredness that one does not find when it comes to wages or other charges. But why? Times change, and what was eminently suitable for the last century and the beginning of this one, are now not only unsuitable, but dangerous.

Let us, for an example, put labor on the same footing as capital invested in government bonds and see how it would work out.

For a beginning we must suppose that labor is in a strong enough position to bargain with capital. Let us suppose that there is at least as much union in the labor market as there is in Great Britain or Australia.

Now, times are normal and industry is working smoothly. Prices are fairly good so that industry is reaping a fair harvest. A government, it is immaterial whether it is federal, provincial or one of the others, wishes to put some work afoot. In order to do this it floats a loan at a fixed interest rate, repayable in a set number of years. Then in order to start the work it next turns to the labor market for the men with which it intends to apply this money. For capital without labor is as useless as labor without capital. Labor states that it will be only too pleased to loan a fixed amount of itself to government, and terms are agreed upon. A fixed wage of $30.00 per week over a period of ten years. Seems perfectly fair and above board, for labor is only doing exactly what capital did when it loaned a portion of itself to government: it is making sure of a definite return over a set time. The difference, of course, is that labor is making sure of the means of its livelihood, while capital is making sure of a surplus over and above this.

Well, labor being organized, government can either accept their terms or forego the work. So let us suppose that they sign a contract with the necessary labor and start the work.

Times improve and industry booms. As far as the government is concerned everything is fine; prices are rising and industry is expanding, so that it is easy to raise money by taxation to pay the, now, low wages of labor. But labor finds things are not so good. In reverse as times improve for industry and prices rise, labor becomes less well off, for he has a fixed income, while prices are higher than when he contracted for his wage. He finds that prosperity does not help him, for the better times are, and the higher prices go, so his $30.00 shrinks. He cannot get as much for his $30.00 as when he contracted for it, and so he finds himself going without some of those things that he had looked on as necessities.

Then industry slumps, and things go back to the level they were at when he started work; so that once again he finds himself earning a wage equal to the conditions prevailing. Things get worse and industry slumps lower; prices fall, and there is the beginning of a depression. Labor begins to enjoy life. He finds that his $30.00 is enhanced in value and is soon worth as much as $40.00 at the normal level. The worse things get and the lower prices fall the better off is labor. Not for him to wish for prosperity. Oh no! Give him a good old depression. He is under contract at a fixed wage, and the government cannot do anything about it without abrogation of contract.

Great! While the country is groaning under the burdens of a slowing down of industry, the difficulty of raising money by taxation and the other ills of depression, the contracted labor finds times better than ever. Let government cut down on all their other outlets, says labor, they are bound by contract to pay them their wages; and the more the country flounders and gets into difficulties, the more labor chortles and rubs its hands. The good old times are the bad old times for them, and they offer up a prayer for a continual depression.

All of which is very foolish and silly! And yet, strangely enough, it is the position that capital invested in government loans and bonds is claiming for itself to-day.

As a matter of fact, we do not need to go outside of living realities for our example. Employees of banks, insurance companies and civil servants are paid a low wage in comparison with industry, in return for which they look for security of tenure and stability of income during bad times. But during the last few years this security and stability has gone by the board, and we are often hearing of cuts to civil service salaries, and of many being put off; and yet we have not started to hear of similar compulsory cuts in the fixed interest-bearing bonds. Of course, civil servants are not under a written contract as is loaned capital, but it is an understood thing—what one might call a gentleman's agreement, for, as is so often the case, one party to such an agreement turns out to be not quite the gentleman. But when is it going to be realized that the opportunity to earn a living is at least as sacred as the power for obtaining an unearned surplus?

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., April 27.—Filmlands champion believer in horoscopes is Edna May Oliver, the long-faced comedienne, who plays the fearless school teacher in screen murder mysteries.

Edna May Oliver

Since April 15 the actress has not taken a step outside her home unless she is accompanied by a six-foot bodyguard whose coat shows the obvious bulge of a concealed pistol. The protector even follows the star into the R-K-O commissary and sits at her table.

Wisecrackers, who twitted her about the new boy friends, finally got the truth out of the actress.

She hired the bodyguard because her horoscope warned of danger from violence during the two-week period from April 15th to the 29th. The advice was to be especially cautious about entering and leaving the studio or any crowded place.

The comedienne plans to leave for Europe as soon as she finishes her current picture. By that time the danger period will be over.

DARRYL ZANUCK sent Sam, the studio barber, to the preview of Fredic Marchs new picture, "The Affairs of Cellini." Later, he questioned him about the film.

"It's a swell comedy," said Sam, "but will the ordinary movie fan know who Cellini was?"

Zanuck disagreed and offered to bet the price of a shave that the first man to pass the barber shop door would be able to identify the great sixteenth century goldsmith and lover.

The first passerby was the janitor, Zanuck hailed him: "Do you know who Benvenuto Cellini was?"

"Sure," replied the janitor, "Fredric March."

AFTER LIVING 14 years in the believe that she is an American citizen, Katherine De Mille learns from passport officials that she really owes her allegiance to Canada. The youthful actress was the daughter of Edward G. and Cecile Colani Lester, Canadians. Her father was killed in the Battle of Vimy Ridge and her mother died in Los Angeles, leaving Katherine to enter a local orphanage. When she was nine years old, Cecil B. De Mille adopted Katherine and she has always thought this made her an American citizen. After passport officials ruled otherwise, the Paramount starlet went right from one office to another and took out her first papers.

ONE OF THE FEW actors to attend the funeral services of Karl Dane was Tom O'Brien, who also won fame in "The Big Parade."

Later on, he, too, disappeared from the screen. Hollywood friends asked him about it yesterday.

"Sure," he replied. "I was smart. I got out of pictures long ago. I'm working for the state."

But Dane, who knew the trade of carpentering, could never forget his brief taste of the spotlight.

SINCE THOSE stories broke prematurely about Mae West looking for an armored car, the actress has been swamped by people wanting to supply one. The other day the coast representative of one of the most expensive American motors called to take her riding and to offer specifications of a bullet proof limousine that will go 110 miles per hour. More amusing is the wire she received from a carnival owner in Fort Worth, Texas. He is displaying the $14,000 armored car that once sheltered Al Capone. He'll sell it to Mae for $2,000.

THE "THIN MAN" company at M.G.M. has been in stitches over a dispute between the polished William Powell and the rough-and-ready Nat Pendleton.

William Powell

During a scene, Nat challenged Bill on a point of diction. He insisted that the noun was pronounced sus'-pect instead of suspect' as Bill said it. They got to the point of wagering $500 when Bill refused to make a bet and admitted he had checked with the research department. The pay-off came when Pendleton showed up on the set with arm-load of dictionaries, two of which bore out his pronounciation.

An enjoyable event of Wednesday evening was the annual banquet of the Bowling Club of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association, held at the school. The guests were received by the convenors, Mrs. H. S. Staunton and Mrs. T. Irwin. About sixty-five ladies sat down to a delicious supper served at tables charmingly decorated with spring flowers, in silver baskets, and candles in pastel tints in silver holders. During the service of the repast, community singing was enjoyed, with Mrs. A. R. Piper at the piano. Later, the prizes to the successful rinks were presented by the president, Mrs. E. Telford, and the past president, Mrs. H. H. Graham. The first prize went to Mrs. Hanbidge's rink, which won the majority of the games. Prizes for this rink were two silver salt and pepper shakers, and two silver butter dishes. Vases were presented as second prizes to Mrs. Staunton's rink, candle sticks with candles, went to the third prize winners, Mrs Boyer's rink; Dresden pitchers were won in fourth place by Mrs. Sine's rink, while cups and saucers constituted the fifth prizes, to Mrs. Irwin's rink. Special prizes were awarded to each one of the players in Miss Eason's rink. The skips made suitable acknowledgments of the awards, and spoke of the harmonious and friendly feelings existing between the rinks and their players. On behalf of the club, Mrs. R. Parnell, in a few well chosen words, thanked Mrs. Staunton and Mrs. Irwin for their untiring efforts in making the season's bowling so successful. Mrs. H. Mrs. W. H. Jones of Toronto, is in the city, called here owing to the illness and death of her mother, the late Mrs. James Edwards.

On Monday, April 30th, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Roache, of Keene, will quietly celebrate the fifty-sixth anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Roache, who was the second oldest in a family of twenty-one children, and is a son of the late Mr. and James Roache of Keene, and Mrs. Roache, who is the third youngest of a family of seven girls, and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Denis Fenton of Hastings, were married in Peterborough, on April 30, 1878, by the late Rev. Father Lynch. They have lived all of their married life in Keene with the exception of two years spent in Campbellford, and are devout members of St. John's Roman Catholic church. Ten children were born, six of whom are living: Harold and Dennis of Keene, Lou of Detroit; Mrs. John Brough of Haileybury; Mrs. Harry Andrews of Walkerville, and Mrs. A. E. Campbell of Canton, Ohio.

The following item from the Lindsay Post is of interest locally, as the bride-elect, Miss Agnes Hanrahan, was a former resident of this city, and her fiance, Mr. Leo Gerrard, resides here: "About thirty-five friends gathered recently at the home of Mrs. A. Powers, 18 St. Paul street, in a surprise party in honor of Miss Agnes Hanrahan, an employee of Knitters, Limited, whose marriage to Mr. Leo Gerrard of Peterborough, takes place early in May. The entertainment first took the form of a mock wedding, when Mrs. A. Powers acted as minister, Mrs. J. Hushin as the bride, Miss Helen OToule as bridesmaid, Mrs. Art Bates as bridegroom, and Miss Annette Gerrard, as groomsman. All played their roles exceedingly well and a great deal of merriment was derived from the antics of the flustered parties. Following the 'wedding' Miss Marie Rene read the address and the presentation of bridge lamp and a silver casserole was made to Miss Hanrahan by Miss Lillian O'Toule. Athuogh very much surprised, the recipient thanked her friends in a suitable manner. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and contests which were much enjoyed, and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess."

A very enjoyable social evening was held on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. T. E. Curvin, Water street, under the auspices of Group A. of the W.M.S. of the George street United Church. Spring flowers added a bright touch to the lovely rooms with soft lighting effect. Mrs. Curvin and Mrs. J. C. Wood, leader of the group, received the guests. A devotional period preceded the social part of the evening during which Miss Geneva Sedgwick rendered two very fine solos. The social part of the evening took the form of an old-fashioned children's party, the guests gowned in old-fashioned clothes. The costumes were so varied that the judges had difficulty in deciding which were the best, but finally gave the honors to Mrs. J. Fairbrother in the adult class, and to Mrs. H. A. Bonney in the children's class. Mr. and Mrs. Curvin furnished excellent instrumental music during the evening. Old fashioned games and contests and a fashion parade provided hilarious fun. As befitting such an evening a bounteous lunch was served to the 'children' and their 'grandmas,' who saw that they left for home early, and well well chaperoned. A hearty vote of thanks to the hostess was voiced by Mrs. H. M. Dulmage, and seconded by Mrs. F. Reynolds.

A delightful social time was enjoyed by the Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School on Thursday evening, when Mrs. Wm. Atkinson lent her home on Lansdowne street for the occasion. Over fifty members and friends were present and the splendid program which followed the preliminary exercises, was in the capable hands of Mrs. Bailey of Park Street. The program included a group of highly enjoyable readings, given in their usual humorous style, by Mesdames G. Rowe, J. Roberts and W. Casey. A very pleasing duett, "The Old Covered Bridge" was contributed by Mesdames McNaughton and Reeve Newson. Interspersing the musical program were some very clever contests, which were real brain twisters and afforded much amusement. A prize was awarded every sixth guest who entered. A pleasing feature of the evening was the honoring by the class of one of their members, Mrs. W. Anderson, Edison Avenue, it being the occasion of her birthday. The presentation of a lovely piece of china and many good wishes was a climax to a happy evening. With Mrs. Evans as convenor the social committee dispensed dainty refreshments and the evening came to a very successful conclusion after the sincere thanks of the class had been tendered to Mrs. Atkinson for her hospitality.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The most human of all the articles of furnishings of a home is the clock. It has face and hands and it "tells" the time with sound, so may be said to speak. In the works are teeth, and something like limbs in three or four-legged escapements which are parts of some clocks. With its rhythmic tick-tock, tick-tock, a clock is a companionable thing to have about. Most persons find this true, but the clock shares a human attribute in being also something that gets on the nerves of some of those who listen to it with its slow or swift tolling off of the minutes and seconds. Those who fail to enjoy companionable elements of a clock, have a decided dislike to its incessant reminding of the flight of time. Like persons, clocks have their appreciative friends and their discomfited listeners. Both are groups lost without a timepiece.

* * * * * * *

There are few studies more interesting to delve into than the evolution of clocks and watches and of their wide diversity, each and every one doing its duty as a timepiece. It is not surprising that so much attention has been, and continues to be, given to the ornamental cases of clocks. In almost every home, there are many clocks, each chosen to suit some special room or some decorative scheme.

* * * * * * *

The latest thing is the electric clock. It requires no winding, and runs indefinitely or until the current stops by a fuse blown out, or some mechanical trouble. If the works function properly and the current continues, an electric clock is a marvelous timekeeper. The amount of electricity needed to run one clock is small. It is something to consider however, when a house is equipped with several electric clocks.

* * * * * * *

The anniversary clock is another style which requires little attention as it runs for a year without winding. It gets its name from the fact that it is supposed to be wound on some anniversary which it was probably given or bought to commemorate. Like the electric clock the anniversary clock, unless it gets out of order, needs little attention.

* * * * * * *

Alarm clocks are loud-speakers when bells sound at the time set. They wake up or alarm more than those who need to be roused to some special action. But by winding the alarm slightly, they can do their duty with least annoyance. Kitchen clocks are generally alarm clocks.

Weddings

ROSEBOROUGH—GLENFIELD

A quiet wedding took place in the chapel of St. Anne's Anglican Church, Toronto, on April 26th, of Thelma Lillian, only daughter of Mr. W. Glenfield and the late Mrs. Glenfield, to Mr. Vivian Clarence Roseborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Roseborough, Peterborough. Rev. Mr. Scovell officiated and during the signing of the register Mrs. Scovell played "At Dawning." Only the immediate friends and relatives were present. The bride wore a powder blue sheer crepe gown; blue ballbuntl hat and grey accessories and her flowers were a corsage of roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. William Glenfield attended the bride, wearing a gown of pink sheer crepe with white hat and accessories and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. Mr. William Glenfield, brother of the bride, was best man, and Mr. Frank C. Glenfield gave his sister in marriage. Following a reception held at the home of the bride's father, the couple left for a motor trip west and on their return will live to Toronto. For travelling the bride wore a deep bleu swagger suit, gray hat and accessories.

SCHOOL ORCHESTRA PROVIDES CONCERT

Parts of "The Mikado" Also Rendered to St. Paul's Audience.

The Sunday School Orchestra of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church celebrated its first birthday last night by presenting to a large audience a program of music which was ambitious, and splendidly rendered by this young and helpful organization. March, 1933, found Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., with the nucleus of what is now an indispensable adjunct of the Sunday School,—with a few instruments this body of musicians has grown, with steady and persistent training, to the number of fifteen, and the concert given last night will assist materially in adding both instruments and players to the ranks.

The personnel of the orchestra is: Conductor, Martin B. Chenhall, organist and choirmaster; violins, Noel Barr, George Hall, Earl Powers, Jack McMillan, Donald Ross; flute, Melville McKee; clarinets, Horace Steer, Gerald Woolf, Bob White; cornets, Gordon Kirkwood, Clifford Morrow; trombones, Donald Mackay, James Clarke; 'cello, Ferguson Barr; bass violon, George Broadley.

Orchestral Program.

The orchestral selections were as follows:

Overture — Mignonette (Baumann).

Celebrated Menuet, from First Symphony (Valensin).

Caprice—Dance of the Crickets (Seredy).

Songs of the South (Tocaben).

Arie for strings (Rossini).

Largo, from New World Symphony, brass (Dvorak).

Overture — Poet and Peasant (Suppe).

March— Our National Honor (Brooks).

The audience showed their appreciation of the efforts of the boys by hearty applause after each selection. The playing by the boys reflected great credit on training of their conductor, as well as their own efforts.

The Mikado.

The intermission at this stage was followed by the presentation of excerpts from the comic opera, The Mikado (by Gilbert & Sullivan), recently produced by the choir and Men's Association in the Opera House. Many selections were given by members of the cast, with the same success as on the former occasion, notwithstanding the smaller stage in the hall. The opening chorus by the men was a prelude to the humorous story in song, chorus, and dialogue, with a desire on the part of the "actors and actresses" to please the audience. The applause was hearty on the appearance of the principals (Mrs. Bruce Munro, Jessie Pattison Emma Lou Chenhall, Isabel Mackay, John Fowler, Donald Mackay, Stanley Willis, Adam Sands, George Earl, and the Executioner's boy, Garth Cowan), and the members of the chorus during the rendition, all with excellent ability.

Oliver M. Steer and Harry Taylor (superintendents) had charge of the entertainment, the former giving a short introductory sketch to open the program, which concluded with the National Anthem.

At the piano was Mr Chenhall, and he was ably assisted in The Mikado music by the drums at the hands of Robert Beach.

About 50 species of gulls are known, of which about 26 are found in North America.

DRAMATIC CLUB OF MARK STREET PRESENTS PLAY

"Mother's Moment" Was Title of Most Interesting Little Play.

ACTION VERY SMOOTH.

"Mother's Moment", as presented last evening by the Mark Street United Church Dramatic Club, in the Sunday School auditorium of the church, was a most entertaining play. There were nearly one hundred and twenty-five people present and they seemed to enjoy thoroughly the interest and humor of this comedy-drama in three acts which was directed by Mrs. Leonard Agnew, whose husband, by the way, was the villain of the piece.

The action of the play went very smoothly and each one of the young men and women in the cast enacted their roles to the thorough satisfaction of the audience. It is the type of production which seems to swing along almost by itself, once it gets started, and the interest is sustained until the last curtain, when "Mother's Moment" transpires.

This comedy-drama has a most satisfactory conclusion, with the villain finally brought to a realization of his meanness, and everyone contented with the manner in which the wind-up is attained.

The story centers about the self-sacrifice of Johnny Burt (Carlyle Ferguson), in taking on his own shoulders the blame and punishment for a crime committed by his father, who dies while his son is in prison. The father, Pa Burt, is played by Bill Brady.

The children, with the exception of Johnny, who is said to be the mother's favorite and who proves to be the best of the family, are selfish ad self-centered, thinking more of their own pleasures than of their mother, who remains patient and self-sacrificing throughout. In turn, the daughter of the house, Drusilla (Helen Andrus), and the two sons, Joe (Len Agnew), and Jimmy (Mel Hunter), all contrasting types, marry and settle down in various ways of life. Drusilla becomes the wife of Bunty Crosy (Fred Parsons), while Joel marries the good-looking by fiery Hester Sharpe (Jean Barringer), and Jimmy takes the very pretty and frivolous-minded Julie Elderly (Marie Ferguson).

"Ma" Burt

Johnny's lucky choice of a life-partner is the blonde and sweet-natured Polly Gable (Mary Terrace), who helps so much to dig the mother out of the pit into which the selfishness of her children has well-nigh pushed her.

The important and beautifully-played part of the mother who gives everything to her children, never complains and never falters in her care for her brood, is in the capable hands of Mabel Reynolds, who invests it with a sweet and sincere charm.

When Johnny comes out of prison, he goes to South America and makes good and sends home money for his mother. But Joel, the mean son who has forced her to sign over to him, conceals the letters and pockets the money and "Ma" becomes the household drudge for her sharp-tongued daughter-in-law.

Each role was taken with fidelity to the character delineated, and the cast was extremely well chosen. The play abounded in human interest and the little homely touches of domestic life that brought it home to the audience and made the whole theme and action very real.

Throughout, it was an entertaining and worthwhile production with a most satisfactory ending and splendid acting on the part of the cast. The scenes in which the three young women squabble hastily, the one in which the crafty Joel outwits his unsuspecting mother, and the last episode, when the mean son is unmasked by the faithful Johnny and his wife, Polly, are especially good.

Between acts, William Woodgate played accordeon solos that were received with hearty enthusiasm by the listeners.

OPENING LEAD AGAINST TRUMP MAKES

We have been giving the most modern opening leads against trump makes, especially noting the best blind leads and leads which are bad. Today we will consider leading aces and singletons. The reason that so many opening leads in common use are bad is that such holdings are distinctly defensive in character, which should be led towards, rather than opened from. Only attacking holdings like those listed as good blind leads, possess offensive qualities, due to massed strength, with three or four honors in sequence.

Unless led to attempt the defeat of a slam contract, or unless led from a suit of great length, when partner has supported the make, blindly leading an ace is one of the worst blunders possible to make. Upon the ace goes trash, often resulting in establishing the balance of the suit for the declaring side. Aces ordinarily should be employed to kill high honors held adversely.

The ace is led from A-K doubletons, when desiring and having some reason to hope for an opportunity to ruff a lead of their suit. A lone ace may be led, or A-X may be led, when the leader holds the ace and one or more trumps with which he wants to ruff. This is done with safety when partner has made the opening bid, so that he probably holds top honors in his own suit. Having rid your hand of the lone ace, or the A-X, when trumps are led you win the first trick with your ace, or perhaps a later trick with your K, then you lead partner's suit. He will win the trick and lead the suit you wish to ruff. You lead partner's suit again, and he may be able to again give you a ruff. Many a contract is defeated in this manner.

As a rule an opening lead of a singleton is about as bad strategy as can be undertaken. Your partner has only one in three chances to hold the ace of that suit. He has less chances to recognize that your lead is a singleton. Only when partner has bid, and you hold the ace and one or two low trumps, is the lead a good one. Sometimes a singleton is led because tenaces or single high honors in the two remaining plain suits are held. Seeking a ruff when you are long in trumps is one of the kindliest acts you can perform to help out a declarer who is strong in side suits and short of trumps. Don't be embarrassed if he attempts to express his gratitude by kissing you on the brow. In any event he will want to show his appreciation of your kindness in some manner, to offset the manner in which your partner may show his disapproval of your folly in wanting to ruff.

Aside from having to make an opening lead of trumps when your side suits prohibit their blind lead, a trump ordinarily should be led when opponents have first bid different suits, then compromised upon a minor make, or one evidently not wholly satisfactory to them.

Your Health

What are the symptoms of nervous diseases? Obviously in a column like this no more than a very sketchy bird's eye view is possible. It may be said, however, that no part of the body is immune.

Every patient is entitled to a comprehensive examination, because a nervous patient can develop pneumonia or ulcer of the stomach as easily as anyone.

Pain is usually conspicuous by its absence. The complaints are more often pressure, fullness, numbness or weakness. There is a characteristic tendency to magnify all symptoms. "Terrible", "unbearable", "I didn't sleep a wink all night", "I just can't go on much longer", "No one knows how sick I am", are all familiar.

When carefully questioned, it will usually be found that it is not pain that is complained of, but one or more of the above symptoms. The symptoms often include several parts of the body, such as "gas" on the stomach, weakness in the legs, pain in the back, headache, pressure around the heart, etc.

An organic disease, by contrast, usually presents a definite clinical picture, that is, certain symptoms rather definitely limited to one part of the body. The same symptoms will be experienced by patient after patient suffering from the same disease.

A good illustration of the difference between a nervous and organic disease is to compare two diseases of the stomach—nervous dypepsia and ulcer.

Nervous dypepsia is manifested by the following symptoms: A feeling of fullness or pressure in the upper abdomen and around the heart; excessive "gas formation", with frequent and prolonged eructations; loss of appetite; a "lump" in the abdomen that may come up into the throat; a feeling that certain foods are not digested and, therefore, eliminated, one by one, from the diet until the intake of foods becomes woefully inadequate to supply the needs of the body. The symptoms often are constant and prolonged for months or years. Pain is not present. Vomiting may be frequent and persistent. Food aggravates the symptoms.

By contrast, ulcer of the stomach, a very serious organic disease, may be entirely symptomless until a hemorrhage occurs. Ordinarily the symptoms begin early and are manifested by a periodically recurring burning distress or actual burning pain in the upper abdomen, which is promptly relieved by food. The burning or pain recurs again in an hour or two and remains until food is taken. The symptoms are periodic, there are long periods of complete relief, and then recurrence of the same symptoms, often appearing in the spring and fall.

It may be accepted as certain that excessive eructations of "gas" always are symptoms of nervous dyspepsia, very little digestion occurs in the stomach; it is mainly a mixing bowl; no fermentation takes place there. Fermentation is necessary if gas is formed. Gas forms lower down, in the intestine, and it does not travel upward from the intestine to the stomach. Excessive eructation, therefore, is due to a nervous habit of air swallowing. Any air expelled in this manner is air which has been previously swallowed, and is not "gas" formed in the stomach.

OUR MAIL

My Dear Anne:

In regard to early rising, we always arise at 4 a.m. during the summer months. It seems rather hard at first but we soon get accustomed to it, I should feel sorry to have missed one of those beautiful mornings as at no other time of the day do the birds sing so sweetly as then. For many years when the children were small my task was to drive the cows from the pasture for milking while friend hubby got food ready for them and prepared his horses for the milk drawing and I always thought how lucky I was to be in a position so close to nature and where I sensed the nearness of my Creator. Now a hired man drives the cows and I could rest if I wished to but I prefer to take my morning stroll and watch the sunrise, and marvel at the greatness of our Creator, who doeth all things wisely and so well.

Now a word about bread baking. I do all my own baking and use Quaker flour for everything. I would much prefer using pastry flour for my cakes and pastry but never seem to have it when I need it.

From a 100 lb. sack of flour I bake sixty loaves of bread and three dozen biscuits, four pies and two light cakes. My bread is always good and I have never had a failure and if any one wishes to know my recipe I will gladly pass it on. Now I am not taking sides with either party as I consider bakers have a problem on their hands making such quantities of bread at one time and I am glad that there are enough housewives to buy from them, being farmers it is not always convenient for me to buy mine. In summer time the baker passes by our house but not in the winter so I would have to get out sometimes in bad weather if I did not bake my own bread.

I have heard that the pen is mightier than the sword, Anne, and your pen surely is magical. I trotted around with you on those shopping expeditions and enjoyed them as much as you did. You explain everything so beautifully. More power to you, Anne.

Optimist.

Dear Optimist:

Do you know, Optimist, your letter was really very enjoyable. I just feel that you are one of the very few people in this old world of ours who is really happy. You seem to have the found the secret of enjoying life and your keen appreciation of the beauty that God has spread around must surely find fullest realization in your country home. Do write again soon, Optimist, I shall be looking forward to more of your lovely letters.

Ease Pain, Headache in Few Minutes

For Quick Relief Say ASPIRIN—When You Buy

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

THE HIGHLIGHTS of racing during the past week was the brilliant return of Equipoise last Saturday at Havre De Grace. The sterling C. V. Whitney campaigner carried the crushing impost of 130 pounds and just simply galloped to an easy victory, and was only 2-5 of a second from the track record at that. If he had been extended, he would easily have broken it. His total life earnings to date are $328,770, which places him third among all time money winners and if he wins $50,000 this season he will go into first place. Chase Me from the stable of Mrs. Bosley is the only one which may provide any opposition to him this year in the handicap ranks.

The condition books for the coming Woodbine meeting shows no less than fourteen races fashioned entirely for Canadian breds which shows our own tracks are at last catering to home bred horses . . . . Alamo Downs located at San Antonio, Texas opened a meeting this week and had an inaugural attendance of 6000 turf followers. This is a new track and according to this should do very well. There is a horse at this plant called Iago, which is going to click one of these days and the payoff will be enormous.

THE HAMILTON Jockey Club this year are reviving the famous Hamilton Derby. This race was first inaugurated in 1909 and was run annually until 1926 when it was discontinued. It is for three year olds and should attract some of the best on the continent. The Kenilworth track at Windsor, which ushers in the Canadian racing season, one week from today is in perfect shape and horsemen claim it is as fast right now as it will be at any time this year.

The New York racing season opened last Saturday at Jamaica track. This is the first year that betting has been legal in New York state since 1906 and judging by the enthusiasm shown by the large crowd on opening day it looks as if the fans are going to enjoy themselves this year. In past seasons they had to practically play hide and seek in order to make a bet, now they can do all their betting out in the open.

AN UNDERGROUND wire tells us that they have a nag called Kincacorn down at Havre De Grace all set for winning effort. This one will make the wise ones set up and take notice, so don't be looking out of the window when this trick is sent out with nothing but run on his mind. J. E. Smallman claimed a horse called Irene's Bob not long ago and has won a couple of races with it already. He is shipping to Canada shortly and expects this one to keep up its winning ways.

King O'Connor, last year's plate winner is eating his oats in the Gallagher barn this year and is in the proverbial pink. After his plate winning performance of last year he developed a soreness and was not very successful for the balance of the 1933 season. They seem to have cured this ailment however and the King will be a dangerous factor in all Canadian bred races this season. Pat Gaiety is another Canadian bred that has been receiving his early conditioning in Maryland and will arrive here all ready for action.

SHIFT TO LEFT FAILS TO HURT SLUGGING KLEIN

Warneke Bests Tex Carleton in Mound Duel After Eleven Innings.

KLEIN LEADS HITTERS.

Gabby Hartnett and Kiki Cuyler Combined to Give Chicago Winning Run.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., A.P. Sports Writer)

The expensive experiment of shifting Chuck Klein from right field at Baker Bowl in Philadelphia to the left side of the Cubs' Wrigley field pasture at Chicago appears, after a couple of hastly glances, to have been a successful one.

A good many Chicago fans had dubious moments this spring when they checked up on the Cubs' array of outfielders and found three confirmed workers on the right side and none to occupy the place on the left. Likewise there was little, if any, chance that Babe Herman could be moved over, so it was up to Klein.

Nine games so far seem to have allayed any fears about that matter and about the lesser doubt — that Chuck's hitting might suffer from the change of scene. Not only has he fielded flawlessly, handling 26 chances, but his .385 batting average attests that his bat has lost none of its potency. Klein has failed to connect in only one game, and his collection of timely hits included four home runs.

Leads Chicago Hitters

It was Klein who was the leading Chicago swatsmith yesterday as the Cubs and the Cardinals hooked up in an 11-inning duel which was the only major league contest to evade the attacks of old man weather. Chuck connected for three singles off the delivery of James Otto (Tex) Carleton and picked his spots well enough to score the tying run in the eighth and pave the way for Chicago's 3-2 victory.

With the Cubs trailing in the latter stage of the struggle between Carleton and Lonnie Warneke, Chuck smashed a baseHit, advanced to third on Babe Herman's single and scored while Stainback was grounding out. As Warneke went on to pitch hitless ball for the last four innings of the overtime contest to gain his third triumph Gabby Hartnett and Kiki Cuyler, who had done little and nothing respectively in Chicago's first eight games, got together to produce the winning tally. Cuyler, leaving the bench the first time after Stainback hurt a foot in the 10th, smacked a single on the first pitch he saw.

Manager Charley Grimm sent him to second with a sacrifice. Then after Billy Jurges had been intentionally passed, Hartnett drove in the odd counter with a single, his first hit in 13 times up.

ZEALANDERS FEW BUT GOOD STUFF

Team From Antipodes to British Empire Games Has Championship Material.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., April 28 (C.P.)—Jack Lovelock, Oxford's little mile champion of the world, will lead the New Zealand team in the British Empire Games in England this summer. It will be a small team, packing perhaps more potential championship material than any of the larger squads.

Should Lovelock reach anything like the form he achieved for the United States tour last summer of the Oxford-Cambridge track team, the fair-haired New Zealander will be universally picked to win the empire mile. His record of 4:07.6 has never been seriously threatened outdoors.

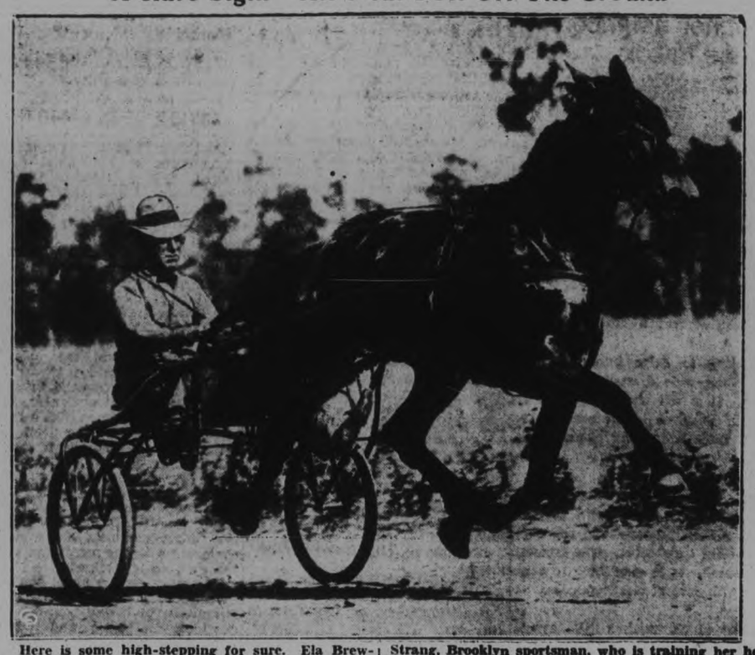
The trouble is Lovelock himself may never threaten it again. Pitted against a tremendously fast field, he would have to come close to it to win. It is just a question whether the empire can produce a runner to make the Oxonian go all out. Englands best man is Jack Cornes.

Other New Zealanders for the empire games are J. W. Savidan, Auckland's great distance runner; T. G. Broadway, a fine half-miler and G. Bainsbury, who is so proficient in the hop, step and jump that he seldom jumps less than 48 feet. All three are certain to be feared challengers at their specialties.

Savidan won the six-mile event at the first empire sports in Hamilton, Ont., in 1930. At the Los Angeles Olympic Games he placed fourth in both the 5,000 and 10,000 metres. Broadway has been caught in 1:54 for the half-mile.

CHAPMAN STEALS—Ben Chapman, baseball's best base stealer, slides safely into second in Yankee-Athletic game.

A Rare Sight—All Four Feet Off The Ground



Here is some high-stepping for sure. Ela Brewer, one of the best filly trotters, is snapped at Orlando, Fla. with four feet off the ground, a rare thing among trotters. She is driven by William Strang, Brooklyn sportsman, who is training her here for the rich Hambletonian stakes. The filly is owned by William Reynolds of the Winston-Salem (N.C.) tobacco clan.

DISTRICT ASSOCIATION SOCCER PROSPECTS FOR COMING SEASON

All Teams Now Active Although Player Form Not Yet Issued.

FIELD IN BAD SHAPE.

With the approach of the soccer season near at hand, there are many rumours in regards to players seeking new quarters; also may new men will be kicking the ball in an endeavour to make the grade in senior company. Registration forms have not been given out to any of the teams but will in all likelihood be distributed, at an early date.

The Lindsay team will be known as the Lindsay Industrial Football Club. They have sent their registration fee to the association which guarantees their intention of participatng in the code. A special meeting was held last night in Lindsay, to discuss the proolems before starting the year and would consider suggestions that they would like to be placed before the executive of the P. and D.F.A.

Deloro have notified the association that they will be more active than usual and intend carrying more of the cups back. It is expected the Deloro representatives will be at the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night. Perhaps, the roads will be passable so as they can attend.

The champions of last year—Canadian General—have been more active than any of the other local teams and have received verbal promises from most of the previous season's players. It is most likely that they will trot out in a new equipment. Many of their players were down on King Edward Park, last Saturday afternoon, taking part in their first practice of the year.

In the Canada Packers' camp, they have been the last team to re-organize. The new executive have made preparations to get tobether many of the players connected with the eleven of previous years. They have decided to hold a dance on a Friday evening in the Woodmen of the World hall so as to raise the necessary finances for the current year.

Success has crowned the efforts of the Caledonians in making preparations for their activities when they conducted a successful dance recently. A full representative from them is probable at the next meeting of the board.

Last Thursday evening the Caledonian Football Club held their organization meeting and elected officebearers for the season. Team manager, R. Carmichael; trainer J. Isles; secretary-treasurer, D. Anderson. All players and others interested are requested to attend a get-together meeting next Tuesday in Duffus' rooms at 7.30 p.m.

Field in Bad Shape

Down on King Edward Park the cabin is still sitting in the centre of the field along with two large posts. The chairman of the parks committee informed the secretary of the association that they would be removed on Friday. He intended to have the field rolled and all the holes filled in with earth but instead the field has been plastered all over with large stones that would be dangerous to any player on the field.

The opening of the season has been held in abeyance by the association, owing to the teams not being fully organized but expect to get started on Saturday, May 12th.

Officers Elected For Lakefield Club

LAKEFIELD, April 28.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Tennis Club met for re-organization on Monday evening and discussed plans for the season. Hon. President—G. J. Elmsley.
President—A. B. Burrows.
Secretary—Charles F. Jarrett.
Treasurer—A. C. Campbell.
Team captain—Walter Spence.
Team captan—Charles J. Tanner.

FEW CHANGES IN RANGERS LINEUP

Murdock Blames Percentage For Team's Misfortune in Playoffs.

EDMONTON, April 28 (C.P.) — Murray Murdock, iron man of hockey decade, takes exception to reports that Father Time has the Indian sign on the New York Rangers. The keen-eyed "youngster" who played his 400th game last winter, blames percentage for his team's slump in the play-offs.

Back home for the summer months, Murray reminisced on the series that saw his team eliminated by Montreal Maroons in the playdowns for the Stanley Cup. He is one man who does not think his mates were hopelessly beaten because they were passe in a sports sense.

"I expect there will be one or two changes in the club," Murdock said, "but we were not beaten because all of the players have become old men. It's just percentage. Captain Bill Cook is going as well as ever and so is Frankie Boucher, "Ching" Johnson and the rest."

Asked if Alikenhead would grace the Rangers' net next season, Murray countered with the remark that the Saskatoon Scotchman "played a swell game during the play-offs." There was some talk of a switch, he added. Rumors were current Montreal Canadiens would call in Wilf Oude from Detroit. That would release Lorne Chabot for Rangers if such a change was desired.

COAL MINERS RAMPAGE.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 27.—(A.P.)—Comparative quiet in Alabama's coal field was shattered last night and early to-day by roving bands of armed men who burned a railway trestel, riddled an automobile with bullets and forced a mine that had resumed producion Wednesday to shut down.

The already heavy forces of special deputy sheriff in Jefferson county, whom authorities hoped to dismiss within a few days, where reinforced and National Guard patrols were ordered back to the fields in this and Walker county.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, our Central League has boiled down to the 3 old contenders, the Ponies from Kingston, the Belleville Nats and our own Petes, with our friends from Oshawa filling 1 double-header date in each town. It ain't like what I would of liked to have saw, Mac, but geography being what it is and they being no way of bringing the towns in this district closer together until Peterborough spreads out and takes them all in, they ain't much you and me can do about it. Let us hope the 3 old stagers will be evenly matched, Mac, in which case we oughta see a lot of good baseball at that. Anyway they ain't no law against wishing for the same.

The big league races is nicely under way, Mac, and so far the feature has been the pace set by them Chicago Cubs which, getting swell pitching and doing some lusty and plentiful clouting, is breezing right away from the field. The Cubs' twirlers has been just blowing them by the batters, oldtimer, and while 2 weeks' campaigning do prove a whole lot, yet old John J. McGraw's statement that the games you win in April you don't halfta win in September still holds good. The Giants is going to have a man's sized job pulling down the chewing gum outfit the way the Cubs is going at this present writing.

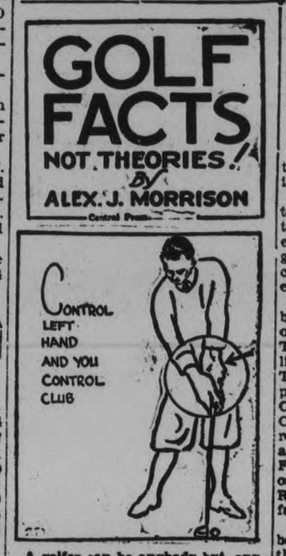
In the American loop the day this was wrote the Yanks was out in front of the parade, and doing quite nicely, thank you. To me the big surprise up to now is the kinda pitching Mister Connie Mack's supposed to be wrecked A's has been getting. First this Mister Marcum and then a young fellow by the name of Mister A. Bentor turned in swell throwing jobs this week, and although both was nosed out by a whisker, they had the Yanks' hitters handcuffed all through the engagement. If the A's bats ever begin to swing behind that kinda pitching mebbe they'll begin to go places.

The announcement of the officials to go to England with the Canadian team for the British Empire Games is out, and I'm glad to see our old fellowtownsman, Mister Bobby Robinson, of Hamilton, heading the parade. He deserves the honor, for these Empire contests was his idea. However, it looks to me as if the outfit is going to be top heavy with officials, and why they need so many is more than I can dope out. It's all very nice to wear badges and strut importantly round the field, but you can't score no points for your team that way, and it looks to me like we oughta send a few more athaletes rather than so many committeemen.

However, what's my opinion against so many? Anyway, it's about time to dash home for the evening refreshments, so I'll be cutting loose from you now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

HEAVY HITTING IS FEATURE OF KNAPP LEAGUE THIS YEAR



A golfer can be anybody but, anybody can't be a golfer.

Will Gould, cartoonistof the 'Red Barry' detective strip, is a very successful artist, but he'd rather be a good golfer. Will's a keen student of the game, has read nearly every line on the subject.

While working as a sports writer and cartoonist, he even wrote golf articles. Hence the subject is indeed complicated to him.

He asked me recently how he could control the clubface during the swing. Simply by keeping track of his left hand, I told him.

The answer seemed too simple to be practical. Try it yourself. Control your left hand and you'll have control of the club.

125 Hurlers Tossed Into Fray in the First 27 Games of the Season.

TWELVE GO ROUTE.

(By the Associated Press)

On the face of the early returns the International League once more is a hitter's loop.

A study of the pitching records today revealed that the staggering total of 125 hurlers had been tossed into the fray in the first 27 games of the season. Par for the course, giving each team one pitcher per game, would be 54.

All told only 12 pitchers have been able to go the full route and only one of these, Gene Schott of Toronto, has succeeded in travelling through two complete games. The other 11, each with one complete game to his credit, include Chad Kimsey, Curly Ogden and Clise Dudley of Montreal, Jack Larocca and Walter Brown of Newark, Fred Blake of Toronto, Fred Fussell of Albany, Beryl Richmond of Baltimore, Johnny Michaels of Rochester, Johnny Wilson of Buffalo and Socks Seibold of Albany.

Only in two games thus far have both starting pitchers been in at the finish, Fussell outpointing Kimsey in one duel and Wilson beating Seibold in another. Ogden and Blake each was beaten in the one complete game he pitched.

Richmond has turned in the best game from a pitching standpoint, a two-hitter against Buffalo, while Wilson gave up only three safeties against Albany in the seven-inning night-cap of a double-header.

Adverse weather conditions forced a postponement of all four games scheduled yesterday. Weather permitting, the clubs will resume today with Montreal at Albany, Buffalo at Baltimore, Rochester at Syracuse and Toronto at Newark.

LEAFS NOT PROTEST KNAPP'S DECISION

President George Oakley Feels Decision Fair to Toronto Club.

TORONTO, April 28.—President George Oakley of the Toronto Baseball Club will not appeal the decision made by President Knapp of the International League over the opening game at Albany. Mr. Oakley believes Mr. Knapp's decision was made in accordance with the rules governing such occurrences, and he feels that the decision is fair to the Toronto club.

"The rule distinctly states," said Mr. Oakley last night, "that umpires must given the home club fifteen minutes notice to clear the field under the circumstances, and this was not done. I don't blame Umpire Van Graflan. He knew that the game could not be finished if such notice was not given. However, the rules are there and they should be observed, and I think Mr. Knapp has acted in fairness to all parties by his decision. I don't think we should object. We can win the game by retiring one batter. Albany has to score two runs to tie or three to win, and the odds are all against the Senators winning."

VISITORS TIE TUSSLE SCORE IN LATE RALLY

Petes Give Lively Exhibition to Hold Edge on Play for First Three Quarters.

PLENTY OF ACTION.

In a lively exhibition game of senior lacrosse before a fair-sized crowd last night at the Armouries, North Torontos and the Petes battled to an 11-all draw. A fourth-quarter rally by the visitors earned them an even break, after the Petes had held an edge on play for the first three quarters. Speed action, a couple of fights and some smart lacrosse—all combined to take it an interesting tilt. The score was 3 to 1 for the Petes to end the first period, 6 to 4 for them going into the third, and 10 to 7 when the Toronto started their rally early in the fourth. Becky Jack's goal late in the game gave the Petes a tie after the others had pulled up on even terms and then took a one-goal lead.

Both fights occurred in the exciting fourth quarter, but little damage was done. Miller and Cooper mixed once with Creighton joining in, followed by several players on both sides and the crowd pouring onto the playing arena. Three penalties were handed out, and Whitton took Creighton's place in goal. Red was no sooner back than Whitton and Wilton mixed it an dagain a free-for-all threatened. But order was restored and two penalties were issued. The game was fast, rather rough and close. The Petes proved better till Torontos came out at full strength for the fourth quarter; several of their players not arriving till after the third had started. Limbke and Powers were best for the visitors, while all the Petes turned in a good performance. The teams:

North Toronto.—Goal, W. LeBarr, Budd; defence, Roberts and LeBarr; centre, Large; wings, Limbkle and Powers; rover, Wilton; subs, Standaven, Scheafer, Cooper, Hickson and Aldie.

Petes.—Goal, Creighton; defence, Miller and Cadd; centre, Dundas; wings, King and Jack; rover, Whitton; subs, Magee, Routley, E. Creighton, Staunt, Jones, Olaveson and Hope.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

It comes to us the other day that maybe not so many of the younger ball fans around these here parts realize that we once had pro baseball played in Peterborough. Good pro ball, too. The old Canadian Professional League operated here in 1912-13-14. The local team dropped out before the 1915 season, which was the last as the war broke up this loop. Knotty Lee, coach of the Petes now, handled Hamilton in that circuit of yesteryear. Well, we got talking to Nagle Phelan yesterday about those days and Nagle—who has a truly remarkable memory for old sports' details—gave us a lot of dope. One in particular was interesting. It concerned Urban Shocker.

• • • • • • •

Urban, who died not so long back, was one of the last of the Big League spitball pitchers, and a really great twirler.. He was with.. Ottawa in the Canadian League and pitched here often. He went from Ottawa to the Yanks in 1916, was farmed out to Toronto for a season, returned to N'Yawk, played with St. Louis and then finished up again with the Yankees. The point that interested us, and showed how good he was when in the league in which the Peterborough White Caps played, was an incident over at Riverside Park in '15. Ottawa was here late in the fall to play a three-game exhibition series with the Cuban Giants, a colored team of pros.

• • • • • • •

Both teams won a game and Shocker pitched the third, blanking the Giants, 3-0. Max Swanston, just a kid then, caught Shocker that day. In the ninth inning, the Cubans got two on base and their star catcher was up. He was rated very highly, many sports-writers claiming it was only his color that kept him out of the Big Leagues. Well, Shocker was a Southerner and had all a Southerner's hatred of "niggers" so he decided to show this guy up. He did it, too. He called his three outfielders in around him and then fanned the star Giant catcher on three pitched balls! Nagle says Shocker used to just sizzle the ball across with that sudden hop that marks a spitter.

• • • • • • •

The local team, recruited from various places, chiefly in the States, played a 104-game schedule in a season, 52 games at home. They played every day except Sundays, and used to average about a thousand fans for week-day games and double that on Saturdays. Admission was only two bits at the gate, fifteen cents for the main grandstand and a dime for the side stand. They lost dough for two seasons and dropped out. Players' salaries were somewhere around a hundred bucks a month, and many of the players were either former Big Leaguers or later made the grade. Season ran from around May 20th till Labor Day. The Peterborough outfit never finished higher than fourth in an eight-team league. Dave Hilliard, who played centre field here in 1913, and went later to the Cleveland Indians, hit the longest homer ever conked in Peterborough. He smacked one clean over the big red barn that used to stand outside the left-field fence! What a blow that must have been. Yeah, those were the days of real baseball around these parts.

• • • • • • •

Southend Softball League holds its final meeting, before the schedule opens, at 7.30 Monday eve in All Saints' clubhouse. Those interstell are invited and all entries must be in the hands of Harry McFadden by April 30th. Call him at 1263 for information. Six teams are wanted, four being in now, Albions, All Saints, Nationals and Orioles. Anyone is eligible to play but City League players.

• • • • • • •

Membership applications are fairly pouring into the Peterborough Tennis Club, we're told, particularly junior ones. So the club will send out blanks to applicants next week and if all cannot be accommodated, those who applied first get first chance—in the order in which they're received. Seems that quite a few youngsters are hot for the racquet game this year. And already there are more senior applicants than last year, but the club wants more seniors so probably all will be accepted. Those interested should send 'em in at once to the Membership Committee of this club.

• • • • • • •

There was a smart senior lacrosse exhibition in the Armouries last e'en, with the Petes and North Torontos going to an 11-11 tie. Cold weather held down the crowd but close to three hundred were present. The game was fast, close, rough in spots and quite exciting. The armouries made a fine spot for this tilt. Two near free-for-alls occurred in the fourth, but order was restored before any real damage was done. Several of the Toronto players were late arriving, and Wilf LeBarr played goal for them for three periods, turning in a good job of it. Creighton was okay as usual in the other net. In fact, all the Petes looked good for so early in the season, and showed they could play in senior company.

• • • • • • •

The Kiwanis Club here has offered to sponsor the Petes' lacrossers this season, probably in intermediate company. No doubt, the Petes will hop at the chance and it will be a fine thing all around. Four senior groups in the O.A.L.A. have been formed but the Petes are not included, the distance from Toronto being the big drawback. As this morning's Mail said: "The executive is planning a visit to Norwood, where representatives from Peterborough, Port Hope, Campbellford, Millbrook and Cobourg will be invited to attend a meeting. The idea is to organize an intermediate group in the vicinity."

• • • • • • •

Picking 'em off the grapevine: Monday is closing date for lacrosse players changing residences . . . . Ken Sine may enter a juvenile lacrosse team in the O.A.L.A. from here this summer . . . . C.G.E. hockey champsof the E.P.L. were entertained by the club at a swell party last eve in the Legion Hall . . . . Monday is closing date for entries in the Church Softball League . . . . Ditto with teams in the Southend Softball Loop . . . . Entries for the Lakeshore Junior Baseball circuit must all be in by May 5th . . . . All Stars and a pickup Capital team play an exhibition cage game at eight tonight in the 'Y'; while Normals and Thistles play a regular fixture at nine . . . . East Peterborough Baseball League is not likely to operate ths summer, according to the latest dope we hear . . . . There.. ..have been at least two applications to the O.B.A.A. for transfers here.

MANY ENTRIES GRAPPLE SHOW

30 Bouts Run Off in Seven Classes Out of Record Entry List of 74.

AT KITCHENER.

KITCHENER, Ont., April 28 (CP). —One of the smartest band of amateur wrestlers ever gathered together in Ontario to-day were grappling for the various Ontario championships as efforts continued to cut down a record entry list of 74.

Thirty bouts were run off last night in seven classes. From the 123-pound to the 191-pound class the grapplers provided plenty of action.

In the 191-pound division, A. Watt of Guelph O.A.C. made an impressive start by tossing E. R. Wright of London Y.M.C.A. [illegible] minutes. Two obouts in t[illegible] class were decided by [illegible] third by decision. Ter[illegible] Toronto West End "Y," threw Bill Jarvis of St. Ann's A.C., Hamilton, in a little over a minute, and Blondy Groom of St. Ann's A.C., put Carl Green flat on the mat in 3.48 minutes.

J. M. Peace of Moss Park, Toronto, fought to a hard-earned decision over Johnny Murray, Toronto Central Y., in a six-minute affair in the third 174-pound bout.

Joe Schleimer, another Central "Y" wrestler, showed some real class when he waded into R. Hines of the West-End Y., Toronto, and flipped him for the most decisive win, taking only 51 seconds to do the trick.

Billy Hughes Sues Selkirk Hockey Club

WINNIPEG, April 28 (C.P.). — Billy Hughes, for 26 years active in a dozen lines of sport and known from coast to coast as an athlete and trainer, goes into court here on May 16 in an attempt to collect $416.51 for services rendered the Selkirk Junior Hockey Club and the Selkirk Senior Hockey Club during the past season.

Hughes also named as defendants W. Byron Scheving and Amphitheatre, Ltd. He claims the amount in payment of services as trainer to the Selkirk, Man., clubs under an oral contract, which also included a promise of a bonus when the teams entered the playoffs he was paid $50 when engaged but denies receiving any further payments.

WESLEY FERRELL ON SUSPENDED LIST

Once Pitching Ace of Cleveland Indians, He is Now Virtually on Shelf.

CLEVELAND, April 28. — Once hailed as the ace of Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, Wesley Ferrell, reposed on organized baseball's shelf to-day, but whether the Tribe will miss him this season is a matter of conjecture.

Ferrell was described as the "boy hero" when he won more than twenty games each season from 1929 to 1932, but he automatically became suspended last night by failing to report to his club ten days after the season opening.

With eleven hurlers on its present staff, generally acknowledged as one of the most powerful in the American League, the Cleveland club anticipates no shortage of pitching talent despite Ferrell's absence.

It is even a matter of doubt in the circuit whether Ferrell, although only 26 years old, would have been able to make the big league grade. Ferrell says he could, but last year, complaining of an ailing arm, he won only eleven games for the Tribe and lost a dozen. He finished the season with an unspectacular attempt to convert himself into an outfielder.

After the idol's fall last year, Ferrell was offered a new contract calling for a basic salary of $5,000. The fact that a bonus agreement would permit him to earn a larger amount —as much as $14,000 for twenty victories—failed to make the contract any more attractive to his way of thinking, and he returned it unsigned.

Meanwhile the Indians made numerous efforts to trade or sell him to other clubs, but met no success.

NATIONALS DOWN ON SENIOR ROUND

Vancouver Province Holds Game Lead in Basketball Title Race.

MONTREAL, April 28. (CP). One game down down on the series and facing almost certain elimination from the Dominion title hunt should they lose to-night's game, Montreal Nationales, eastern Canadian senior basketball champions, to-day prepared for a last-ditch battle against Vancouver province, Western titleholders, to-night. Nationales dropped the series opener, 49-42, Thursday night. The series is for three out of five games, the third game to be played Monday and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, Tuesday and Thursday.

Apparently confident they had a bad game out of their systems Thursday, Nationale players to-night. Pat Griffin, star centre who was suffering from an attack of la grippe on Thursday and was unable to play the full game, said he was completely recovered and is expected to give a good account of himself in checking the lanky Jack Purves, Vancouver centre who was one of the stars in the first game.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Loop Officials Look for Large Number of Entries for Coming Season.

With closing date for entries in the Church Softball League set at this Monday, a number of new ones are expected to consider the matter over the week-end. The loop starts on May 8th, and the advent of warmer weather should bring in several more teams. Everything points to a successful season in this circuit with a large number of entries.

Knox, George Street, Trinity, St. James, Mark Street and Lakefield, have been thinking of entering squads and various teams from Murray Street, St. Andrew's, St. Luke's and All Saints are sure to be back.

Nothing has been heard from St. Paul's, one of the best as far as inter-church sports go in the city. St. George's have failed to show any interest in sports since their hockey team back in 1925, but Park Street and the Salvation Army have both made inquiries.

The time is now short and teams wishing to enter any of the four sections should do so this week-end. They are: Seniors; Juniors, under 21; Juveniles, under 17; and Bantams, under 15. They may receive information from any of the following: Len Agnew, Whitty Thirnbeck, Bill Anderson, Reg. Kingdon and Don Charlton. Six teams should be in each section to make the ideal league, but it appears of if more than six will enter the bantam and junior sections.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Thomas A. Hartwell,
R.R. 2, Indian River, Ont.

Your writing, even without the printed portion, shows definitely that you are of English origin. It shows, too, that you are a 'square shooter' and I hope you will never lose sight of this fact, for it is the making or breaking of a man, no matter where he may reside. Character plays such an important part in the lives of men, that it is a wonder more youths of today do not realize this, and build for themselves a rock of stability, upon which to found the castle of the soul for the future. The castle which is to hold all that is most dear. Love, hope and ambition with a place in the sun, in the world of men. The printed sample expresses the side of you, that you present to the public, a spirit of justice, calm, steady and reliable, with an honest endeavour to do our best at all times. The written sample presents a different side to your nature, a little bit lonely, and often afraid or timid, a side which causes you to cower down when domineered by others whom you consider your superiors. That is a trait which came with you from the Old Country, but is not often found out here. You, with your splendid ability, will no doubt overcome this characteristic, and I venture to suggest that you will be glad to learn something about machinery or electricity at the very first opportunity. The underscoring of your signature tells me that you will steadily gain more and more confidence in yourself and as you do, you will learn to depend upon your own efforts, and to think things out for yourself, without having to ask outside advice. Your birthsign is Aries the Ram. You are ruled by Mars which gives you the power to fight for what you want. Your best day is Tuesday. June and July are your most fortunate months for important undertakings. Your number is five.

May Simmonds,
91 Park Hill Road, Peterborough.

Your writing will change as you grow older but seems to indicate stenographic labours later on. Your type as a rule have to curb a tendency to ask too many embarrassing questions. They are apt to become dreamers in preference to active doers, so must peruse education at every opportunity. You are born under Pisces, the Fishes, ruled by Neptune. May and June are your best months, Saturday your most fortunate day and your number is 9.

Muriel Black,
Hastings, Ont.

Your handwriting with its fine delicate pressure, shows a nervous constitution, and it would be well for you to get out of doors more this summer, and learn to breath deeply. Your disposition is subject to change according to how you feel, for if you feel well, and the weather is fine, you can be jolly and humorous, but if not, the reverse. You have rather a generous imagination, and will have to exercise the greatest care, lest it get the better of you. Some of your capital letters reveal artistic talent, others illustrate a love for music. The 'I' dots denote that you can be very careful and accurate in your work when you know that accuracy is essential, but some of the others letters tell of a don't care attitude at times. Your number is 22, and is a super-number, this should guide you along the path which leads to love and happiness. Your birthsign is Leo the Lion, and governs those who are born between July 23rd and Aufust 23rd. The sign by which you are ruled is the Sun. January and October are your lucky months, with Sunday as the best day.

Hazel Thompson,
R.R. No. 2, Indian River, Ont.

Your handwriting indicates that you are possessor of two decidedly different characteristics, which predominate your whole life. At times you rush headlong into work and intrigues which are impossible for you to undertake. The other side of your nature comes to the fore and then you feel too lackadaisical to exert yourself on anything or anyone. There is no medium in your nature. You are either one or the other. Your large upper loops tell that if you really endeavour to expend more will power on what you know, you will do well and be able to make a success of your undertaking. Your best outlet now would be a life devoted to love and happiness. A life in which you would be protected in which you would give your best to your housekeeping, because of that love. I think you would make an excellent housewife. In this station of life you would find an outlet for you pentup emotions. As it is, your writing shows dissatisfaction and discontent but a great, unbounded capacity for love.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 29

Sunday's horoscope, while holding augury of some progress and fair conditions in mystical, spiritual and matters of an intriguing or secret nature, must otherwise be considered adverse, with danger of offending superiors, losing employment or finding friction, opposition and inharmony therein.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year calling for prudence, rigid control of their impulses, temper and speech, lest they invite quarrels, hostility, violence and losses of various nature.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be willful, headstrong and turbulent, although bold, courageous, enterprising and practically constructive.

For Monday, April 30

Monday's astrological forecast, while indicative of some stubborn obstacles, delays or impediments to be reckoned with, offers splendid opportunities for dealing with "big business" corporations, especially where secrecy, diplomacy, craft, intrigue or other form of subtlety subserve the interests rather than open and direct methods of agreement.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of excellent opportunities in connection with combines, mergers, secret organizations, or by methods of intrigue, strategem or diplomacy rather than open measures. The domestic, social, affectional and artistic should also flourish and bring much happiness.

A child born on this day should be clever, ambitious, popular and should thrive through the friendship of those in high places.

CRY HAVOC STUDIED BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Bailieboro Society Making Study of Beverly Nichols' Book.

BAILIEBORO, April 27 (Examiner Correspondence) — Are the principles of war the same to-day as in days gone by? was the issue dealt with at the regular weekly meeting of the Young Peoples' Society of the United Church on Tuesday evening, when they met and studied the book "Cry Havoc," written by the young English author Beverely Nichols ,and given to the people of the world in such a clear and impressive manner that it has won fame for its author.

Miss Fern Rahmel, convenor of the literary department read the instalment from the book in a very clever manner, which impressed the large crowd which had gathered to hear the young peoples version of the possibilities of another war and how the people would respond to the call should it come again. Herbert Dean, convenor of the citizenship department led the discussion period and many fine arguments were brought forth by the young people as the discussion became heated and argument swayed back and forth.

The president, F. Barnard was in charge of the devotional services, while Miss Frances Watt presided at the piano and also read the scripture lesson. Mrs. W. Lang gave a reading.

Affirmative Wins

A debate "Resolved that modern civilization has a degrading influence upon mankind," also added to the program. The affirmative was upheld by Mr. Aylmer Dawson and Miss Margaret Seens, while Miss Willa Watt and Mr. Jack Ackison debated the negative side. Excellent argument was produced by all four debaters and after careful consideration the judge Mrs. W. Lang gave the decision in favor of the affirmative.

The second instalment of the book will be taken by Miss Rahmel next Tuesday evening and Miss May E arl was elected to lead in the discussion when the subject of war and peace will further be dealt with.

A Grouchy Husband

What About his Nerves?

It may be nervous indigestion,
That has made your husband so disagreeable of late.
This trouble developes as the result of worry,
And exhaustion of the nervous system.
If the vital nerve force is wasted in worry
The process of digestion slows up for lack of power.
All the vital organs weaken in action.
Relief is obtained by restoring the nerve force,
By use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Many men are slipping these days,
Because of exhausted nerve force.
It is the vital power which runs
The machinery of the body.
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food forms new, rich blood
And from it is created new, vital nerve force.
Irritability, sleeplessness, nervous indigestion
Soon disappear under this restorative treatment.

MORE WHEAT FOR JAPAN

EDMONTON, April 27 (CP)—Increased sales of Canadian wheat and other products of the Dominion to Japan are looked for by Hon. Herbert Marler, Canada's envoy to Tokyo, who passed through Edmonton Thursday en route to Ottawa. Mr. Marler saw new hope for growth of Canada's trade in the Orient in the fact Australian and Canadian exchange are more equitable than they were a short time ago, when Australia, by reason of its debased currency, was able to undersell Canada. Manchurian crops and wheat from Argentine would not offer serious competition to Canada, he believed.

IRISH LEAGUE IS OUT TO PLACE NATION IN KILTS

Leader Charges English Killed Revival in '18—No Opposition Now.

START WITH SCOUTS.

Valera Sympathetic—Skeptics Doubt President Will Discard Trousers.

(By Joseph Dennigan—C.P. Correspondent).

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 28 (C.P.).—A new league to foster a nation without pants has been launched in the Free State with a distinguished send-off, but is finding the average Irishman loath to discard his trousers for fear of arousing popular ridicule.

The league, calling itself the "Irish Costume Association," or, in Gaelic, "Cumann Cultach Gaedhealach," has adopted a slogan, 'Ireland a kilted nation.' It seeks to persuade the men of the nation to doff their orthodox trousers in favor of kilts and sporrans, similar to those worn in Scotland.

Among its most ardent supporters are three women who have been prominent in the Gaelic revival.

Despite the recent resurgence, Nationalism in the Free State has given to everything Gaelic, Irishmen appear unwilling to adopt the kilt. As far as can be learned, the only wearers of the garment in recent years have been Lord Ashbourne, Irish language promoter, and Douglas Finlay, junior member of the Irish bar. Both these pioneers excite considerable notice in their passage through Dublin's streets.

Must Fight Ridicule

Some of the bravest and the best in the Free State, however, have decided that now is the time to ignore the snickers of the passers-by The president of the Gaelic League says he thinks ridicule must be fought. Opposition of the British killed the wearing of the kilt when it was revived in 1916, but there is no British opposition now, he says.

A start in the campaign will be made among the young, boy scouts and students in schools and colleges. President Eamon De Valera is said to be sympathetic to the idea, but prospects of seeing his lanky person parading kiltedly through the streets seem dim. He has evinced no desire to appear publicly without his trousers.

A member of the Independents in the senate was asked to express an opinion on the campaign. He said he expected "we shall soon be asked to return to living in round towers, like our ancestors."

WHAT ABOUT OBJECTORS?

Editor Examiner:

Your editorial, What about the objectors? in Thursday's Examiner, raises a question that both total abstainers and those who favor control of liquor sales are asking.

Is the present campaign to be nothing more than a choice between two evils? Has Ontario ever witnessed such a degradation of politics, such a mere scramble for office?

The electors of this and many other ridings (who regard political parties as servants, not masters) will not tamely submit to be the mere pawns of tricky politicians.

From a Control standpoint this is not

(1) A prohibition campaign.

(2) It is not a campaign against the present law.

(3) It is not a proposal to either increase or lower present restrictions, but a campaign to assert that the people and not the brewers or politicians shall say whether we want either more or less beer.

It is a protest against any Government becoming the mere rubber stamp for the liquor interests.

It is a protest against surreptious legislation designedly introduced in the closing hours of a dying government in such manner that the voice of the people could not be expressed in the matter.

That such design was intended is confirmed by Hon. W. H. Price's recent speech at Windsor where he congratulates that wet section for sticking to their demands and states that the Government intended introducing the measure at a previous session but was prevented by the general protest and the "many editorials" against it.

Apart from the brazen iniquity of the act itself, this is much more than a dry campaign, the right of the voice of the people to be heard in legislation is involved, and if candidates for office cannot definitely assure us that they will act independent of party dictation on this matter then another alternative must and will be provided.

Thinking people are not going to surrender the right to govern that cost their fathers centuries of struggle and tamely submit to the sponsors of a Hot Dog Beer Bill, and throttled legislation.

A. B. Cunningham.

DR. ROLLS VS. MR. HARVEY

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Agitation of contrary opinions is a step towards getting at the exact truth. In seeking to find out the truth of any subject; it is well to use our common sense and reason. In making public statements we should be very accurate, and make no statements, unless we are prepared to support them with provable facts. The word "Spirit" is from the same root word, that is properly translated—wind, breath or breeze. Therefore, the true meaning of the word, "Spirit" would be an invisible power. In this connection, it is properly called "Holly Spirit" because all power of God is holy. The Holy Spirit is the power, by which the Almighty inspired the Prophets and Apostles with knowledge and understanding of His wonderful laws.

The Apostle Peter declared: Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the "Holly Spirit. This wonderful Divine attribute is personified and called "He," on the same principle that it is said of Widson—"She is the tree of life." Prov. 3:18. Jesus commissioned the eleven Apostles to go into all the world and preach the gospel (good tidings) to the whole creation (to every creature). He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. (There is one baptism) Eph. 4:5. And these signs will accompany them that believe—"In my name shall they cast out demons; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents and if they drink any deadly thing it shall in no wise hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover. The Apostles went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word by the signs that followed. Mark 13, 15, 16, 17, 20. Jesus further said: "I am with you all the days even unto the consummation of the age" (Jewish age). The Apostle Paul states very plainly that this gospel (good tidings) was preached in all creation under heaven. Col. 1-6-2-3. It is quite evident that this commission was given only to the Apostles with the signs following during that age (Jewish age). After the end of the age, we have no statement, saying that the signs would follow the preaching of others later on. Speaking in a strange tongue was only one of the signs and should not be magnified above the others. The baptism of the Holy Spirit is not a symbolical or typical water baptism, but is a veritable real experience; even though enjoyed only by a few. The Baptism with the Holy Spirit: the Holy Spirit coming upon a person and being filled with the Holy Spirit are only different expressions of the same experience. We have no authority to say all those who are baptised with the Holy Spirit must hear a sound as of the rushing of a mighty wind and that tongues will be distributed, nor that the building where the assembly may be will be shaken, as in the days of the Apostles. We have a positive statement that power shall be received when baptised with the Holy Spirit: Acts 1:8. Divers kind of tongue is one of the different gifts given to the church, and the only reason we do not see all of the eight spiritual gifts manifest today must be because very few are baptized with the Holy Spirit, The only ones who love a normal Christian life are those who are baptized with the Holy Spirit: The Holy Spirit, to such, becomes the one and only law of life.

Miss Greta Clark Speaks On Missions

Miss Greta Clark, missionary on furlough from Honan, China, was guest speaker at a special meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. George's church in connection with the anniversary held last evening. The address, which was illustrated by a series of beautifully colored slides, brought to the hearers a very vivid description of the lives of the missionaries in and around the city of Kaifeng. The medical side was also dealt with at length, the speaker giving much interesting information regarding St. Paul's hospital at Kweitch.

The opening devotional period was conduoted by the rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes. Following the service, the congregation adjourned to the church basement where they were able to meet Miss Clark, personally, and enjoy a social time.

The 'teen age branch of the W.A. and A.Y.P.A. were well represented as well as the congregation in general. Very enjoyable refreshments were served by members of the Senior W. A. with Mrs. C. Cole as convenor. Mrs. E. Tucker, president, thanked the visitors for their attendance and extended sincere thanks to Miss Clark for her helpful address.

LEGION PLANS GIGANTIC RALLY NEAR LAKEFIELD THIS SUMMER

Comrade N. Alex McColl, Campbellford, at Branch No. 77 Session.

STIRRING ADDRESS.

LAKEFIELD, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence). — Strict morals, sound judgment and the necessary membership fees are the usual qualifications for admission to numerous service clubs and fraternal societies, but the narrow gate to membership in the Canadian Legion swings open only to those citizens who rendered active war service for King and Country, especially in those stirring days of 1914-18, said Comrade N. Alex McColl of Campbellford, at the regular meeting of Branch No. 77, in the Town Hall, Lakefield, on Tuesday night. Over three score from the surrounding district attended.

Advancing years have added silver locks and wrinkled brows to many a youthful countenance; war disabilities have slacked the martial stride, but the rank and file of ex-service men are those same carefree chaps of other days, who share even to a loaf of bread and exhibited true comradeship by portioning it out to the last crumb, and bore each others cares and burdens, which often included the pack of a buddy on the long hike to and from the firing line.

To-day, sixteen years afterward, the more fortunate comrades were again implored to lend a helping hand to the weak and needy.

Gigantic Rally

Concluding his remarks, the guest speaker announced his intention of holding a gigantic rally of all returned men at a Legion picnic, to be held in this vicinity, early this summer. He also touched upon the importance of maintaining Remembrance Day as a day of reverence, and expected it to become one of our greatest national holidays in the near future, quite similar to Christmas and New Years Day. Continued support for the Legion and its official publication, the Legionary, was also stressed and, without prejudice to any, a little more preference to ex-service men, in the matter of employment.

The guest speaker was introduced by Comrade T. W. Chaplin as a prominent lawyer, noted clubman, Reeve of Campbellford, representative of Zone No. 15 Canadian Legion, and a jolly good fellow who rose from the ranks to a captaincy after very distinguished war service with the 1st Overseas Battalion, Major J. M. Bygott, V.D., Police Magistrate of Campbellford and formerly O.C. of the local company of the 93rd Overseas Battalion, voiced his appreciation of the existing spirit of camaderie so apparent between the ex-service men of his old home town and his present abode.

Other speakers included Comrade K. A. Mackenzie, President of the Lakefield branch, and Comrade Reg. McCulloch of Campbellford.

At the conclusion of the meeting the guests were introduced personally to the assembly by Comrade J. R. Hill, branch secretary; they, having in this manner an opportunity of meeting the comrades individually and recounting various episodes of other days.

Comrade Walter Chappell and his able assistants on the refreshment committee served lunch and a social hour was spent, with music provided by Comrade G. G. Connell and his choristers, including Comrades Cunningham, Birch, Remnant and McCracken.

Lays Large Egg

Dauntless Dereen 10 L might or might not have the world's egg-laying record. But when it comes to laying eggs that are meals undivided honors go to a nameless White Leghorn pullet owned and operated by Nick Smith, Edmonton barber. The two eggs shown here, one the size of any contribution to be expected from a White Leghorn, and the other of sufficient size to put any hen in the news, were both laid by Nick's hen. Measuring eight inches round in length and six inches around the girth, the egg weighs three and one-half ounces —almost twice the weight of a normal pullet egg. The hen can be counted on to lay one large egg in seven times at the nest, according to the barber.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A PIONEER METHODIST MISSIONARY

On this date, in 1867 there passed to his rest at Belleville, Ont., the Rev. John Black, one of the most active missionaries of the Methodist church in Ontario in the earlier years of the 19th century. Born at Grey, Ireland, September 18, 1790, he came to Canad in 1820 and, after a short stay in the lower Ottawa district, moved to Matilda, where he taught school, studying all the while for the ministry. He was one of the famous five who were "received on trial" at a Methodist Episcopal conference at Saltfleet, Wentworth county, his assocates being Egerton Ryerson, Amos Green, Daniel McMullen and James Richardson. All five were made deacons at Hamilton September 2, 1827, and were ordained elders August 22, 1830.

From that time until 1856 John Black preached the Gospel and ministered to the settlers in stations as far west as Toronto and as far east at Ottawa-Cornwall; Cobourg, which extended from Bowmanville village to the Trent and included Port Hope, Cobourg, Haldimand, Colborne, Brighton and the whole country south of Rice Lake; Toronto circuit, then the "New Settlements Missions" 300 miles in extent, with 30 preaching places; Perth, Mississippi Augusta; Ottawa, the fourth circuit in Canada, including both sides of the Ottawa River, its centre being St Andrew's East; Cavan, Peterborought, of which Mr. Black was the first minister; Bay of Quinte, Hallowell (now Picton), Murray (afterwards Consecon) Colborne, Sidney, Napanee and Brighton. In 1854 at the age of 64 Mr. Black took charge of Rawdon mission in Hastings County which the next year was raised to a circuit with Mr. Black as its first minister. Two years later he was superannuated and moved to Bayside near Belleville where he rested for 13 years, although frequently until near the end called back to old pulpits for special sermons. His saddle bag used so much in the days when he had to travel from place to place on horse back, and his sermon and document case are the treasured possessions of his grandson, John M. Black, a leading Montreal journalist.

KIN KLUB IS HOST TO CAST

President Tenders Thanks to All Who Aided the Club.

SHOW BOAT DAYS.

The thanks of Peterborough Kinsmen Club were formally tendered to the cast and chorus of the "Show Boat Days" production by President C. Alex Sollitt at a dinner dance held at Empress Hotel last evening.

In voicing the appreciation of the club to the members of the cast and chorus, President Sollitt also remarked upon the generous support of the general public, who had made possible a considerable extension of the clubs service work activity in the providing of eye glasses and eye treatment for underprivileged school children of the city, who might be in need of such attention. While he did not disclose the net profit, that has been cleared by the effort, he stated that it is substantial and in keeping with the expectations of the club.

George Zarfas, of Canadian Productions of Hamilton who successfully produced the play in the space of three weeks, also voiced his sincere appreciation to the cast and chorus whose co-operation and support had made such a feat possible.

Vocal numbers were contributed to the program by each of the singing members of the cast adding greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion, and after the tables had been cleared dancing was kept in full swing to a late hour.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Broadened speculative buying that went along with increased reports of ominous crop conditions, especially in the Northwest, led to sharp upturns of wheat prices yesterday.

A sudden rise of more than two cents a bushel took place from the day's low point for wheat. Contributing impetus to the upturn was word that various political farm groups to Washington were likely to join with inflation advocates, and endeavor to create pressure for a new hoist of the price of gold.

Wheat closed unsettled at a moderate reaction from top figures, but ¾c-1¼c above Thursday's finish, corn unchanged to ⅝c lower, oats ⅛c-⅜c advanced and provisions showing 2c to 7c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 28 — Encouraged by sharp gains at Chicago, the wheat prices advanced on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday for net gains of ¼ to ⅜ cent. At the finish May wheat stood at 64⅝c., July at 65½c, and October at 67¾c.

Export demand was not very prominent, but other support appeared equal to all offerings that came out. The market touched top levels in late trading.

Considerable selling originated in Chicago, while big Canadian holders were said to be offering a little from time to time. Local shorts and commission houses were the best buyers.

Adverse crop news from the South accounted for strength at Chicago, Liverpool Liverpool closed steady, unchanged to ⅛d higher.

Spreads on cash grains closed unchanged, while coarse grains followed wheat and ended with fair advances.

ALBION CLUB WILL SPONSOR PROGRAM

Victoria Day Celebration Will be Held at Havelock—Tennis Plans for Season.

HAVELOCK, April 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—The most important business transacted at the regular meeting of the Albion Club held in their club rooms on Thursday evening was the decision to sponsor a celebration on May 24th, as has been their custom during the past three years. It was decided to again stage a program of sports and to secure the best outside attraction for such a day, and thus make the celebration a bigger and better one than ever.

The committee, composed of George Kennedy, Grenville Rutherford and Frank McLaughlin, was appointed to make all arrangements for the big day and the assurance of full support and co-operation of all the members was given.

Plans for the clubs possible participation in sports during the coming summer were discussed. The matter of forming a tennis club, the securing of a tennis court and the probability of similar clubs being formed in neighboring villages by lovers of the pastime with a view to furthering interest in the game by means of organized competition were all left in the hands of a committee of three; Messrs. Paul Voyer, Keith Chiles and Glenn Wright were appointed to act on that committee.

It was decided that further plans for the baseball team and league be left over until a later meeting.

Car Strikes Buggy, Driver Injured

YOUNG FARMER IS BADLY HURT CHEMONG ROAD

Melville Fowler Critically Injured When Car Hits His Buggy.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

No Evidence of Speeding Police Who Investigated Declare.

Melville Fowler, 37-year-old Smith Township farmer was critically injured shortly before midnight Saturday, when the horse and buggy in which he was riding was struck by an automobile on the Chemong Road, two miles from the city limits. At three o'clock this afternoon he had not regained consciousness, according to hospital authorities.

The car owned and driven by Clifford Hartman, 23-year-old clerk in the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was travelling in the same direction as the buggy, it is stated by police, when it struck the left rear wheel of the buggy. Mr. Fowler was pitched to the ground with great force, and sustained severe head injuries, while the vehicle in which he was riding was badly broken, and the horse was so seriously hurt that it is probable it will have to be destroyed.

The driver of the car, who had been proceeding towards Bridgenorth and his passenger Miss Phyllis Jopling, both escaped injury. The former rendered immediate aid to the injured man, rushing him to Nicholls Hospital where he is now being attended by Drs. A. Moir and D. W. Clark.

He afterwards notified city police of the accident. As a result Provincial Constable W. Warren and Motorcycle Patrol Officer A. E. Hornick investigated. The latter told The Examiner that while the buggy had been carrying a lamp, he had been unable to determine definitely whether or not the lamp was lighted. His information, the officer, said, was that the lamp on the buggy had not been lighted.

The accident occurred at 11.45 p.m. in the vicinity of Clayton Sanderson's farm on Chemong Road. Both vehicles had been proceeding towards Bridgenorth. There was no indication that the driver of the car had been speeding, the officer stated.

A sister of the injured man, stated that her brother had left home at about 6:30 o'clock to drive a friend into Peterborough. She believed her brother had ttended a show in the city before commencing the return journey alone.

U.S. Labor Troubles Drawing To Crisis

WASHINGTON, April 30 (C.P.).—Labor troubles in the United States automobile industry drew to a head to-day as a conference was called in Detroit, on which hinges a general strike in eight cities.

The meeting, arranged by the Automobile Labor Board, brought together for the first time executives of the Fisher Body Corporation and representatives of the American Federation of Labor.

Strikers at the Fisher Body plant in Cleveland—regarded as the key to the situation—voted to return to their posts to-day, to await the outcome of the negotiations. The plant, employing 8,400, had been tied up a week.

CYCLIST IS INJURED.

STONEY CREEK.—When a bag became entangled in the wheel of a bicycle he was riding near the Canadian National Railway station this morning, John Luckish, was thrown over the handlebars to the middle of the highway and rendered unconscious by the fall. Dr. M. S. Haddle on investigation, had him removed in the ambulance to the General Hospital, where he is believed to be suffering from severe concussion.

W. CARTER BAUM. SHERIFF JESS SARBER.

The above map shows the points along the bloody trail followed by John Dillinger, fugitive Indiana desperado, and his cohorts, at which a total of 13 lives were forfeited in crimes attributed to his outlaws and during attempts to capture them. CONVICTS USE SMUGGLED GUN TO WIN FREEDOM

Three Convicts From Ohio State Penitentiary Are at Large.

SEIZED SHOTGUN.

Disarmed Tower Guard and Slid to Ground on Cable.

COLUMBUS, O., April 30 (A.P.). — Three convicts with a smuggled pistol who slid over the wall of Ohio Penitentiary after disarming a guard were free to-day as Warden P. E. Thomas promised "an investigation indefinitely until we can find out, if possible, where the gun came from."

The three prisoners — Martin Schmidt, a bank robber; Arthur R. Koontz, an auto thief, and Rufus Deeds, robber, flourishing the mysterious pistol, cowed 14 fellow convicts and two civilian officials, climbed a ladder to the top of the wall on the pretext of repairing a searchlight, disarmed the tower guard and slid to the ground on a cable which they had brought along. They took a shotgun from the guard and cut the telephone wires leading to the prison office.

Three more notorious jail breakers in the prison, Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley and Russell Clark, apparently knew nothing of the plot.

DANGEROUS KITE FLYING.

WELLAND, Ont., April 30.— (C. P.)—His kite wire apparently getting tangled with high tension wires when he was playing near his home yesterday afternoon at Stop 19, Albert Bradnam of that district suffered burns about the hands and chest which are stated to be not serious. He had attached fine copper wire to the kite and was holding it by the wire as it flew in the vicinity of the tension wires. He is in Welland county General Hospital.

No Insults

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 30. (CP). — Mike Minosky, 28, was willing to go along with the holdup until the thugs got insulting, then—

Returning home late at night Mike was halted by two gunmen. He emptied his pockets of 11 cents.

"Ain't you got no more?" asked one of the thugs. Mike said no.

Then they slapped him. Minosky got mad, flattened one of the gunmen and took a swing at the other. Both thugs fled.

COLD AND FROST HITS PRAIRIES

Rain and Sleet in Saskatchewan Sees Mercury Drop From 72 to 25.

HEAVY DUST STORMS.

WINNIPEG, April 30 (CP)—Chill winds, frost and overcast skies today banished thoughts of Spring across the Prairies.

Dust storms which dimmed the sun Sunday had abated, but clouds prevailed. Colder weather, with northerly and easterly winds, and scattered showers were forecast.

Calgary reported an invaluable Spring rain which fell all night. At Edmonton it rained nearly all week-end, then turned to snow which fell lightly.

Saskatoon had six degrees of frost overnight after rain and sleet Sunday. A dust storm held sway over Southern Saskatchewan through the holiday and the mercury dropped at Regina from 72 to a low of 25.

The dust storm extended into Manitoba and took the edge off a day of midsummer heat at Winnipeg. The mercury soared in Winnipeg to 84, but to-day had dipped into the 30's again. Churchill, Man., remained the country's premier cold spot with a low of zero and a high of 10.

Australia will reduce income taxes.

GUNMEN DISARM CHICAGO POLICE AFTER PURSUIT

Victims Believe Desperadoes Were Dillinger and Henchman Nelson.

RUMOR OUTLAW DEAD.

Girls Captured at Resort Identified as Nelson's Wife, 2 Friends.

CHICAGO, April 30 (A.P.).—Four gunmen fought a running battle with police in suburban Bellwood early to-day—and the officers said one of the four, all of whom escaped, "looked like" John Dillinger, the hunted killer.

Another of them, said Police Lieutenant Joseph Hagemeister, resembled George "Baby Face" Nelson, the little gunman of the Dillinger gang, and a third bore a likeness to Henry Fox, another Dillinger aide.

The chase ended when the hoodlums disarmed the officers. One of the men hit Policeman Harry Whalen over the head with a machine gun before speeding away into the darkness with his companions.

Whalen and two other officers, Lieut. Joseph Hagemeister and Policeman Gus Mendze, began the chase in a police car when the gunmen's machine failed to halt at a red light.

Two-Mile Chase.

Shots blazed back and forth as the two cars roared over a two-mile course, the police car catching up as the other machine pulled up [illegible] fire again.

Two of the gunmen jumped out. One, armed with a machine gun, forced the three officers to give up their weapons and struck Whalen.

The other two men, remaining in their car, held machine guns on the officers.

The four then resumed their flight, eluding Forest Park policemen, who attempted to intercept them.

The gunemen's car, a new dark sedan, was believed to have been stolen from Dr. Merle Sweeley at Melrose.

The skirmish came as a rumor of Dillinger's death was gaining circulation. This report had it that the desperado may have been mortally wounded when he and his pals blazed their way out of the Little Bohemia resort country near Mercer, Wis., a week ago this morning.

Death Unverified

The rumor, heard several times since the greatest manhunt of the decade began, received official notice last night. Melvin H. Purvis, Chief of the Chicago office of the Government's Bureau of Investigation, made the terse announcement that Federal officers had been "unable to verify reports that Dillinger is dead in Wisconsin."

"All poppycock," was the comment of Tom McGregor, Sheriff of Vilas County, where last week's gunplay cost the lives of a Federal officer and a private citizen.

There was the usual crop of reports on the whereabouts of Dillinger.

Dillinger and some of his gang were reported to have been seen in the vicinity of Fort Wayne, Ind. Purvis sent a squad of heavily armed Federal agents into that territory, but their quarry—if there was one—eluded them. Northern Minnesota meanwhile was the hunting ground in the search for Nelson.

Women Identified.

Authorities established definitely the identities of the three young women caught in the little Bohemia resort and since held in jail at Madison, Wis. They named one of them as the wife of "Baby Face"

City's Dog Catcher Will Start Tuesday

May Day is going to be a black day for Peterboroughs canines, because bright and early to-morrow morning George Wilson, the citys official dog catcher, starts on the job.

Complaints that dogs were overrunning the city hastened the appointment for this season of the dog catcher. Mr. Wilson is experienced in matching wits with footloose canines, having served in the same capacity for the past two summers Dogs without licenses will receive his special attention, but all stray dogs are liable to fall into his net. Tags for dogs may be secured at the police station.

A Gift

CHICAGO, April 30 (CP)—The police were told that one of the negro brethren of the Rev. Charles King's congregation said as the collection plate passed before him:

"I ain't got no money and I ain't got no automobile, either, since I wrecked it the other day. So parson, you just take these license plates and use them on your car."

Police arrested Mr. King as he glided along a boulevard. They said the plates had been stolen.

STATION IN HULL ASKED HEPBURN FOR HIS SPEECH

Radio Committee Querries Charlesworth on Hepburn Charges.

STATION'S BUSINESS.

Commission Rules Protect Public Against Scurrilous Utterances.

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.).—A flat denial that the Radio Commission was interfering with free speech was entered to-day by Hector Charlesworth, chairman of the Radio Commission, before the House of Commons Radio Committee. He was referring to changes made on Saturday by Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader. The commission had "brow beat" him to submit manuscripts before he spoke over the air.

Frank Ahearn, Liberal member for Ottawa, introduced the subject today at the committee meeting. He asked Mr. Charlesworth if the rules of the commission called for submission of political speeches.

Right To Ask For Copy.

Under the rules, responded Mr. Charlesworth, the stations had the right to ask for advance copies of speeches. For years, he said, stations operated by newspapers had asked for manuscripts "possibly because they are more in touch with libel and slander laws than ordinary stations."

It was a rule of the commission that radio stations might request submission of manuscripts, continued Mr. Charlesworth, but enforcement was left to the stations themselves.

"Would that rule apply to Mr. Bennett or Mr. King?" asked the Ottawa member.

"We have never applied it," replied Mr. Charlesworth.

"Is it the practice of every paper in Canada to demand submission of

HUGE BLACK CRICKETS ARE THREATENING CROPS

BOISE, Idaho, April 30 (C.P.).—The devastating "Mormon" crickets, which came into prominence in 1848 when they threatened first colonists in Utah with starvation have appeared in a half-dozen spots of Southern Idaho, to carry on the destruction they started last year.

Huge black creatures two inches long when full grown, they eat everything in sight, including their own young or injured. When banded together they have mastered almost every device set up against them except tin fences and poison dust.

SURE JAPANESE HAVE NO DESIRE TO INTERFERE

Tokyo Explains She Stands by the "Open Door" Principle.

CRISIS EASES.

Motherland Will Continue Aiding China Toward Peace, Prosperity.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 30 (C.P. Cable). — Satisfied the Japanese Government has no intention of interfering with the rights of other nations in China, the British Government is dropping the matter of Japanese declaration of last week.

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, explained in the House of Commons this afternoon the British Government, following release of the unauthorized "hands off China" statement, had secured assurances from the Tokyo Government that it had no intention of infringing the Nine-Power Treaty guaranteeing Chinese integrity, and furthermore still stood by the "open door" principle in China.

Britain, Sir John reaffirmed, was resolved to assist to the utmost the principle of internal co-operation with China in her progress towards peace and prosperity, and the maintenance of peace in the Far East.

The storm over the Japanese declaration, which had already been considerably modified by official Japanese explanations, thus ended so far as the United Kingdom—with a bigger stake in China than any other foreign Power—is concerned.

Galleries Packed

The Foreign Secretary revealed to a packed house and the country at large the outcome of the British representations to Japan that had speedily followed the unofficial April 17 statement, in which the Tokyo Government was represented as ready to use force if necessary to prevent international dealings with China which Japan might consider likely to lead to a breach of the peace in Asia.

Sir John said that Sir Francis Lindley, British Ambassador in Tokyo, had pointed out to Koki Hirota, the Japanese Foreign Minister, that the principle of equal rights in China was very explicitly guaranteed by the Nine-Power Treaty signed at Washington in 1922, to which Japan was a signatory.

The British Ambassador had explained the British Government must continue to enjoy all rights

Five Miners Killed English Explosion

LEIGH, England, April 30 (C.P.). —Five miners were known to have been killed and an even heavier loss of life was feared in an explosion which wrecked a mine while a full shift was working to-day.

The same colliery was the scene of an accident in 1932 in which 19 men were killed by a falling cage.

Three hundred men had gone down to work just before the explosion happened. A great many escaped by other shafts, but pending a complete check it was not known how many were missing.

The five bodies recovered shortly afterwards were identified as those of William, Joseph, and George Belshaw, brothers, of Bickershaw; J. W. Ormshaw, of Wigan, and a boy named Ratcliffe of Leigh.

Toronto Cancelled Leave For Policemen

TORONTO, April 30 (CP)—All leave for Torontos police force was cancelled to-day in order to have the fullest force on hand to cope with expected May Day demonstrations to-morrow. The Police Commission met in special session today to receive a report by Chief Constable D. C. Draper dealing with public meetings in parks.

"No matter what the decision is," Meyer Klig, chairman of the United May Day Conference, said to-day, "we intend to hold the parades to Queen's Park, where we have permission from Parks Commissioner Chambers to hold a mass celebration at three p.m."

NEW MARLBORO, Mass., April 30 (CP)—The loin cloth may be abandoned as the national costume of Africa, if the women of the Southfield Congregational Church, have their way. According to an announcement, the women will start Tuesday on a program of making aprons for the Africans. The announcement fails to state how many of the several million Africans it is intended to supply.

WIRT CHARGES INTIMIDATION AND SLANDER

Official Washington Did Best to Place Hindrances in His Way.

NAMES THREE MEN.

"Government Officials" Rather Blocked Than Aided Recovery He Charged.

CHICAGO, April 30 (C.P.).—Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educationist, charged to-day there, was "frantic struggling to conceal the aims of official Washington."

When he went to Washington to accuse minor and major "new dealers" of slipping a revolution over on the country, he met, Wirt declared, "not only stubborn official resistance, but actual slander, intimidation, and other hindrances that do not rest well with free citizens."

Names Leaders.

In a speech to-day before an American legion group, his first public statement since the congressional committee declared his revolution charges were "unfounded," Dr. Wirt singled out former Senator Smith W. Brookhart, assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Rexford G. Tugwell and Speaker Henry F. Rainey as having made disturbing statements.

"There are those who have accused me of looking under the bed for reds and bombs," he said. "There is a difference between red baiting and keeping watch on actual happenings in Washington.

Public Stupefied.

"Only the weight of opinion of the people at large can change the apparent direction of the course now being laid down for them by the authorities in Washington. Public sentiment is at present stupefied by the rosy and vague verbiage used by the brain trust to conceal the destination toward which we are being rushed by so called emergency legislation."

Dr. Wirt replied that "government officials" have blocked rather than aided recovery. "We actually had recovery in 1933," he declared, "and destroyed it."

TROOPS GUARD PARIS STREETS

Premier Hopes by Display of Militia to Stave Off May Day Rebellion.

30,000 POLICE ON DUTY.

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, April 30. —(AP)— Tanks rumbled through the streets, machine gunners deployed and thousands of soldiers marched about the city today, in a great-war-like mobilization of military forces to prevent a May Day rebellion.

Displaying the government's strength in his determination to smash all uprisings and break a threatened general strike, Premier Gaston Doumergue brought regiments from Central France to the capital at daylight.

With blaring trumpets, the soldiers marched through the streets, impressing upon the populace that the army is backing unstintedly the 30,000 policemen who will be on duty tomorrow.

A dozen tanks, supported by machine guns were massed in Invalides Square in front of Napoleon's Tomb, ready for movement to the scene of any disorders.

Appealing to the patriotism of his people, the premier warned that a rebellion might lead to a 'foreign invasion.' He apparently expected to be forced to make use of at least a part of the mobilized forces.

SUDDEN DEATH SWOOPS ON SIX OVER WEEK-END

Greenbank Woman Victim of Hit and Run Driver Outside Her Home.

(By Canadian Press.)

Week-end drownings, automobile accidents, and carbon-monoxide to-day left a trail of six persons dead across Ontario. Three were drowned, two killed by automobiles, and one asphyxiated.

Ernest H. Penrose, 28, Picton High School teacher, and Elmow Strawbridge, 18, his student friend, were drowned when their small sailboat capsized on Saturday in the Bay of Quinte. Penrose's body was recovered early yesterday, sprawled across the bow of the upturned craft, to which he appared to have been clinging. No trace was found of Strawbridge.

Mrs. James Inmis, 83, of Greenbank, was injured fatally on Saturday night by an automobile, only a few minutes after she had left her home. The driver of the car did not stop, and police launched a widespread search for him, but with only meagre clues on which to work.

In Toronto 13-year-old Bryan McKinnon jumped from a truck on which he was riding on Saturday. He fell under a rear wheel and was fatally injured.

Youth Gas Victim

Kenneth Smith, 20 of St. Catharines, was found dead in the garage of his parents. He had been asphyxiated by carbon-monoxide gas after driving home early yesterday from a bridge party.

Ottawa police recovered from the Ottawa River the body of Stanley Small, 52, believed to have committed suicide through despondency induced by the death of his wife. The body, apparently, had been in the water several days.

Charles Sheffield of Arnprior died on Saturday from injuries suffered last Thursday when he was struck by an automobile driven by William H. Belford of Packenham. Sheffield was 72.

NOVA SCOTIA COMPANIES MAY REFUSE TO PAY TAX

OTTAWA, April 30 (C.P.). — Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Finance Minister, would not comment to-day on the report from Halifax that eight Nova Scotia gold mining companies would refuse to pay the gold tax and would fight the impost on the ground that it was ultra vires the Dominion Parliament. Any statement the Minister might have to make on that point would be made to the House of Commons, it was stated here to-day.

MacLAREN 73 TO-DAY

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP) — Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, celebrates his 73rd birthday to-day. Col. MacLaren was born at Richibucto, N.B., in 1861, and is a distinguished surgeon. DRAMA HONORS ARE CAPTURED BY HART HOUSE

Toronto Group is Awarded Bessborough Trophy in Surprise Verdict.

SPEEDY JUDGING.

Vancouver Girl Honored For Outstanding Work in "Queen Elizabeth."

(By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP)—The Dominion Drama Festival is over, and the Bessborough Trophy, emblematic of dramatic supremacy in Canada, rests with Hart House Theatre, Toronto. Playing on the last night of the Festival, Group Number Three from Hart House gained the enthusiastic endorsation of James T. Grein, Festival adjudicator, and the amateur dramatic crown in Canada.

Yesterday the Bessborough Trophy was presented to the Hart House Group at Government House, and simultaneously the other awards were announced in the presence of the Governor General and Lady Bessborough.

The Ottawa Drama League with "Marco Millions," was the winner of the trophy for the best production in English, exclusive of course, of the Bessborough winner. To Le Cercle Molier of Winnipeg went the award for the best presentation in French. The play was "Blenchette," by Eugene Bireux.

Next in order came the trophy offered by Sir Barry Jackson to the group giving the best presentation of a Canadian play at the Festival. The Montreal Repertory Theatre, playing "All On a Summer's Day," by Martha Allan, carried off the prize.

B.C. Girl Wins Honors

Lady Bessborough had offered two prizes, the first for the woman giving the best performance during the festival, and the second to the man. Joan Miler of Vancouver, was awarded one prize for her outstanding work as "Queen Elizabeth" in the production of "Elizabeth The Queen" by the Vancouver Little Theatre Association. The man's prize went to J. E. Adams for his portrayal of the Dean of Stour in Galsworthy's "The Mob" played by the Sarnia Drama League.

A play which did not get into the finals of the festival was the winner of the committee's prize of $100 to the author of the best dramatic composition written by a person domiciled in Canada and presented during the festival.

Captain Alexander Ramsy of Banff, and his play "Coercion" gained this award, while honorable mention was made of Marth Allan's "All on a Summer's Day" and "Ebb Tide" by A.M.D. Fairbairn, of Victoria, B.C.

The awards of the festival this year were made in double-quick time. Last year, Rupert Harvey, then festival adjudicator, did not announce his selections for a couple of weeks after the conclusion of the festival. Mr. Grein, however, found it possible to announce from the stage of the Little Theatre, the winner of the Bessborough trophy immediately that the curtain had dropped on the last performance of the week.

Interest Grows

Already there is discussion of the festival next year, which will again be held in Ottawa. Members of the committee find themselves much encouraged by the success, not only of the final competition, but also of the regional competitions which concluded some little time ago. Remarkable interest in the movement is manifested throughout Canada, it is stated, and the standard of playing continues to improve.

This time groups from seven of the nine provinces competed. A total of 2 plays, or acts from plays, was presented, four of which were in French and 18 in English. Four plays by Canadian authors were given, one of which was in the French language and three in English.

Utopia

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—(C.P.).—No strikes, no wars, no capitalists, no surpluses and no relief problems—that is the utopian vision of Communism expressed here last night in an address by Clarence A. Hathaway, of New York, editor of the Communist organ, the Daily Worker.

He urged "farmers, professional men, intellectuals, negroes and members of the middle class, led by the workers," to be prepared to take over the government.

POLICE, TROOPS GIRD FOR BATTLE UPON MAY DAY

New York, Expecting 200,000 Marchers Prepares to Avoid Violence.

HAVANA UNEASY.

32,000 Officers Marshalled in Paris Alone With Militia Ready.

(By the Associated Press).

Police and soldiers of many lands were marshalled for extraordinary duty to-day as authorities girded for battle in outbreaks feared on May Day.

New York laid the most extensive plans in its history to guard against violence as parades were announced in which 200,000 marchers are expected to appear. | All police leaves were suspended for a period of special duty from last midnight to noon Wednesday. Communists and their sympathizers will form one parade, while Socialists and affiliated groups have planned the other.

Other North American cities made similar drastic precautionary preparations to-day, while French mobilizations gave the country a war-time aspect.

In Paris alone Tuesday, 18,000 police, 10,000 mobile guards and 3,000 mounted guards will be ready for action if mobs take to the streets during a May Day general strike against recent Government economy decrees. Military units near Paris and other cities will be held in readiness.

Red flags flew and red signs popped out in many parts of Havana, calling upon all classes to join in Communist May Day demonstrations in which 40,000 are expected to participate. There were rumors of radical anti-Government plots. Soldiers built sand-bag barricades at all bridges around the capital, made ready with gas bombs and bullets to meet any uprising.

Austria Acts Quickly.

Austria began its precautionary moves by rounding up known agitators and consigning them to jail. Men suspected of plotting to dynamite government buildings were arrested on Sunday in Vienna's underground sewer system. It was there that many Socialist fighters held forth during the February civil war.

There was fear of violent disorders in connection with a general strike called by Socialists and Extremists in Madrid.

Fearing clashes between members of the Zionist Revisionists and the Hisatdruthba General Federation of Jewish Labor— authorities banned all demonstrations in Jerusalem.

Nine foreign Communists and one Belgian were arrested at Brussels and Malines, charged with preparing revolutionary agitation for May Day. Firearms and propaganda were seized.

Villagers of Westgate, England, will take a collection for the upkeep of the parish hearse. Rev. J. E. Perry pleading that "sooner or later we shall all want it."

TORONTO, April 30.— (C.P.)— Three Liberal, one Liberal-Progressive and United Front and C. C. F. candidates were the additions today to the growing list of those who will contest the various constituencies in the coming Ontario general election. Stormont county Liberals Saturday chose F. B. Brownridge as the riding candidate and Carleton county Liberals named Huntley M. Sinclair as their standard-bearer.

Thomas Blakelock was selected as Liberal-Progressive candidate in Halton at a meeting in Milton, where Mr. Hepburn delivered his address.

North Waterloo and South Waterloo placed two more men in the field. North Waterloo Liberals named N. Asmussen as their candidate, while the C.C.F. called on Rev. V. Latch to carry their fight in South Waterloo.

The United Front candidate is Ewart Gladstone Humphries who was chosen to enter the battle in South York at a meeting of the Radical Party Saturday.

Conservatives prepared for what is expected to be the largest convention in the history of the Ontario Conservative Association. It will be held Thursday and William H. Ireland, president, declares there is a great demand for tickets.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and other Dominion Government heads will attend the convention.

DAYLIGHT TIME CAUSES UPROAR

Orillia Merchants Refuse to Move Clocks Ahead as Council Decides.

SAYS BUSINESS LOST.

(By The Canadian Press)

Merchants of one Ontario town mutinied to-day against a daylight saving edict, while residents of other Ontario and Quebec centres which have adopted fast time recovered from confusion brought yesterday by the change in time.

The usual number of persons appeared to have forgotten to push forward the hands of their clocks when they went to bed Saturday night. The worst consequences were missed church services and belated engagements.

Orillia merchant protested vigorously decision of the town council to adopt fast time, and many posted notices in their shop windows proclaiming their intention of governing their opening and closing hours by Eastern Standard Time. They complained that by closing one hour earlier they missed considerable business from neighboring farmers and other rural dwellers and are acting on Standard Time.

Schools, it was said, would adopt Daylight Saving.

"AN EYE TO THE FUTURE - AN EAR TO THE GROUND"

—this describes General Motors' policy, a policy by which the public is given what it wants in better cars year after year, and yet is safely protected against ill-timed or dubious experiments

Three in a Row!

How the well-dressed motor car will look is no longer an engineer's guess. The Canadian people are settling that question in a fashion no one can mistake.

By their plain-spoken approval of the new General Motors Cars, tney have definitely set the vogue for streamlining of mature refinement.

It would be foolish to deny our pleasure at meeting so accurately the public's taste, yet we realize that credit belongs to the public also.

Our successful streamline designs did not leap full-grown into being; they are of deliberate growth, rather than abrupt inspiration.

Years are behind them, years of stern work in laboratory and on proving grounds, a total of experience in automotive design and testing unmatched in the world.

But months before any of our 1934 cars were built, the soundness of our designs found priceless advance verification from the public itself. The answers of more than 60,000 motorists to our Customer Questionnaires—suggesting changes here and improvements there—told our engineering department just about what people wanted.

And we can cite Knee-Action Wheels, No-Draft Ventilation, Streamline Designs as triumphs "three-in-a-row"—because our will to progress is linked with willingness to listen to the people's own desires.

to the unemployed so long as government officials are actually placing obstacles in their way. I have not called this treason, but I do consider it most deplorable."

A new name appeared to-day on the Wirt lists.

"I call your attention to Rose Schneiderman," he said, "who, I understand, is now in the Virgin Islands in the interest of a Socialistic experiment of the brain trust. The American people should ask for an explanation of the plan there."

Dr. Wirst declared flatly, "We have gone to the left . . . certainly we are on our way with a revolution by means of evolution and there is no limit to how far we can go."

As for the question of who called President Roosevelt the "Kerensky of the American revolution," a major issue in the Wirt investigation, Dr. Wirt to-day quoted a magazine writer as having written that the President had "half jokingly" referred to himself that way.

What Moley Heard.

To-day he told what he said Raymond Moley heard George W. Christians say to the President in 1932.

"Christians said to the President-elect that he was the Kerensky of a new revolution and would have to make way for a stronger dictator of the Lenin type who would lead an American economic revolt.

"Christians said he told Mr. Roosevelt 'If you move to the third stage of the revolution, the Lenin dictatorship stage, you'll be the first man to do so.' The President- elect replied: 'Well, Oliver Cromwell did it'."

Dr. Wirt quoted Tugwell for nearly a third of his speech, which was made before an American Legion luncheon.

"According to the record, Dr. Tugwell thinks that complete economic planning means socialism, the destruction of business, the undoing of a century more of effort, and a submission without resistance of politicians, theorists, business men, farmers, laborers, industrialists and defenders of the constitution..."

Older Woman Must Choose Colors That Are Soft, Flattering—Gladys

Pert Kelton

The lovely Pert Kelton who, in all her pictures thus far, has stolen plenty of laurels from the crowns of some of our biggest stars, is very particular about the colors she wears. Pert geenrally goes in for bright, vivid shades that reflect her youthful vivacity and pep. And let me tell you, she certainly is a connoisseur at choosing becoming colors for herself.

Bright, vivid hues may be most flattering to an individual of Pert's youthfulness and temperament. But, as I told you in my last two articles, maturity must forego many of the privileges allotted to youth. And so, if she really wishes to grow old gracefully, the elderly woman must be most particular about the shades she wears in her gowning. She must strive for soft, flattering effects at all times.

There are a good many hues that may be worn to advantage by the elderly or the gray-haired woman. Not drab hues, particularly, but soft ones that are flattering and give the skin warmth. Of these shades, the best generally are soft blues, rose, gray, soft greens, beige, grayish purples, and black. The black, however, should always be relieved by touches of white, provided by fluffy, flattering collars and cuffs of organdie, organza or pique that are cut along soft lines. For evening wear, soft violets, pearl and smoke grays, black, and creamy whites are most becoming.

To really set off her charms most appropriately, the elderly or gray-haired woman should be careful in her choice of summer shades. For her, a creamy shade is much more becoming than the dead whites worn so often in the summer time. If she likes prints, they should be of soft shades, and of small design. And they should be given further softness through lingerie touches of white, or through flattering collars and cuffs of soft materials.

For general summer wear, the best shades for the women who would grow old gracefully are soft greens, creamy whites, dusty old rose, grayish blues such as the new Alice-blue shade, pinkish beiges and soft, grayish orchids. Always be particular in your choice of shades, and you'll find your graying locks an asset, rather than a liability.

WARNING WITH A MINOR REBID

Especially when you have bid no trumps, then have been taken out by partner's minor suit bid of 2, if you rebid no trumps over an adverse call, partner's suit rebid is a distinct warning that his minor suit lacks tops, and is a warning that no trumps are too dangerous. Fortunately for South, he heeded his partner with the following hand.

Instead of first bidding a suit, to discover whether or not no trumps would be a safe make, South was lured by his aces to make an opening bid of 1-no trump. Bidding continued: North, 2-clubs; East, 2-diamonds; South, 2-no trumps; North, 3-clubs; East, 3-diamonds; South, 5-clubs; West doubled, ending bidding.

Of course the opening lead was the K of diamonds, and dummy was in with his ace. The declarer saw only one reasonable way of going game, especially as West had doubled. Dummy's ace and Q of spades were led. North overtook the Q with his K, then he led his good spade. Upon it he discarded dummy's last diamond. Dummy ruffed the declarer's' last diamond.

The ace of clubs was led, followed by a low trump, and West was in with his K of clubs. He also was in a fix. Neither the declarer nor dummy held either a spade or a diamond, although West was not certain that North might not still hold a spade. West saw that a heart lead would be fine for dummy. If a low heart was led the J must win. If a high heart were led, the ace would win the trick, and in case North held the 10 of hearts, or if he originally held only two low hearts, the defenders would win only a single trump trick and a single heart trick, giving them 5-odd. Discarding dummy's low diamond, then ruffing the last card of that suit held by the declarer had just spoiled the hands for West.

West felt that his only chance to win another trick than a heart was slight, and dependent upon some misplay by the declarer. West thought his best lead was the K of hearts, and he led it. Dummy's ace won the trick. A low heart was led from dummy. West played low, as possibly East held the missing 10, and gave West the last heart trick. North fulfilled his contract only through excellent work, and seeing his one best chance.

The selection of flowers for the sick room should be given intelligent forethought. The condition of the patient, his preferences and temperament should all be taken into consideration. A cheerful mixture of flowers, not too strong in color, not too pale—will appeal to the patient who is depressed. A proper combination would contain flowers in the blue, pink and yellow shades. If the patient is extremely nervous, it is not a good idea to send red flowers, or ones with deep orange. These would have a tendency to aggravate the nervous condition.

* * * * * *

The choice would be a bouquet in the softer tones, a combination ranging from the softest pink to a deep rose with a dash of yellow and bronze, as found in snapdragons and talisman roses.

* * * * * *

A nice idea, in sending flowers to a very sick person would be to specify an intimate little arrangement, such as a small bowl filled with sweet peas, one or two rosebuds and several sprays of valley lillies. Such a bowl can be kept on the table close to the bedside, so the patient can touch and enjoy the flowers at close range. It is a good idea, whenever possible to send the flowers in a container, already arranged and needing only the addition of water. This is especially desirable in hospital cases for in most institutions the nurses and attendants are far too busy to give the arrangement of flowers proper attention. Fading flowers should not be allowed to remain in a sick room as they have a most depressing effect upon a sick person.

* * * * * *

Another bright and cheerful arrangement for the sick room is to have brightly blooming plants on the window. The type of plant that blooms for a long time will bring a great deal of color and brightness to a room.

* * * * * *

Wall brackets containing graceful ivy plants also adds a very charming note. These can be placed on either side of the windows.

A PARTIAL EXPLANATION.

A certain amount of light was thrown upon the Government's beer policy by Hon. Wm. Finlayson in his address at the Northumberland Conservative convention the other day.

In answer to a question the Minister of Lands and Forests declared that the privilege of selling beer with meals would not be accorded to any Italian, Chinese or Greek restaurants in the province, and intimated that the privilege of such sale would be very sparingly granted.

From other sources it is learned that so far as the restaurant end of the legislation goes it will mainly apply to places in Northern Ontario, where there are no standard hotels and where it is felt that the privilege of buying beer by the glass should be provided in the only way possible by extending the privilege to eating places under the supervision of the Liquor Control Board.

If this is true, one of the most objectionable features of the wine and beer bill will be eliminated, for undoubtedly there are thousands of electors who have no desire to see beer sold in restaurants.

THE C.C.F. COMES IN.

The announcement that the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation proposes to enter a candidate in the Peterborough riding in the coming provincial election is somewhat of a surprise as it has been more or less generally thought that the C.C.F. organization had its eyes centred upon the federal arena and would not take part in the provincial battle.

However, a convention has been called for tomorrow night to select a standard-bearer for the new party, so that the combined city and county constituency will see at least a three-cornered fight in its first political campaign.

We say "at least" advisedly, for the entrance of an independent dry candidate in opposition to the wine and beer policy brought down by the Government and "acquiesed in" by the official Opposition is not outside the bounds of possibility, provided the Liberal, Conservative and C.C.F. candidates decline to pledge themserves satisfactorily when called upon to do so by the dry forces in the riding.

Altogether the outlook here and elsewhere is for some very interesting developments before the people of Ontario get a chance to clear the air by their ballots.

With many candidates trying to dodge the beer question and a large proportion of the electors determined that they shall not succeed in dodging, there are prospects of some lively action in the campaign that is opening up.

Anyway the entrance of the C.C.F. into the local fray adds a touch of color to the proceedings.

SUCKER FISHING.

While The Examiner has always been insistent that game fish in this district should be protected and the new regulations in regard to the use of gaffs and nets in the taking of suckers were undoubtedly designed to prevent the catching of bass and maskinonge during the process of sucker fishing, we are strongly of the opinion that this is a particularly unfortunate time to inaugurate the new policy.

With so many unemployed men in our midst it seems a pity indeed that they should be prevented from replenishing their larder with a supply of the coarse fish that are available at this season of the year, and the local Fish and Game Association deserves credit for calling the attention of the authorities to the situation.

Unfortunately, however, the concession made by the department at Ottawa granting the municipal authorities permission to have two dip nets operated during the sucker season and the catch distributed among the families on relief, does not meet the need.

The Examiner is of the opinion that for this year at least the regulations should be relaxed to permit of the use of nets by unemployed men, believing that it should be possible under proper supervision to prevent any widespread abuse of the privilege and to protect the game fish.

While the authorized use of two nets will provide a certain amount of food the system advocated by the department will deprive heads of families of the chance of obtaining the satisfaction of securing by their own efforts a welcome addition to the family menu.

MR. PRICE'S MISTAKE.

It is generally agreed, except among extreme partisans, that when the Attorney-General, Hon. W. H. Price, took it upon himself in the course of a political speech the other day to announce that rural Hydro customers would no longer have to bind themselves to a twenty-year contract, but that henceforth the term would be five years, he was invading the jurisdiction of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

It is that kind of thing that makes Hydro a political issue.

The Government has no logical right to make announcements that should come from the commission, and the Attorney-General in making such a statement on the eve of an election and for the transparent purpose of enlisting rural support for the Government was using tactics that cannot fail to do harm to the Hydro cause.

All along there has been a tendency on the part of the present Government to regard the Hydro system as a Conservative adjunct, instead of a municipal undertaking, and that attitude more than anything else has been responsible for many of the attacks that have been made on the publicly-owned power undertaking.

A day or two ago the Government publicity bureau circulated among Ontario editors an article on power in which appeared this significant sentence: "Hydro belongs to the people at large, but it is the creation of the Ontario Conservative party which has fostered its development from its small beginnings and will continue to do so in the future."

Such undue attempts to gain political capital out of an enterprise that began among Ontario municipalities are not only silly but they are harmful.

MOST OF THEM CAN "TAKE IT."

In to-day's issue appears another letter from Hon. G. N. Gordon, who returns to the attack anent The Examiner's editorial in regard to Nova Scotia taxation, and this time wanders from the Maritimes right across the continent to British Columbia and back again, doubtless with the purpose of "entertaining the audience," as Mr. Gordon himself once put it upon a certain historic occasion.

We have not the slightest intention of accompanying him on his meanderings throughout the political scene or of entering into anything that might suggest a perpetual controversy.

This, however, might be an opportune time to state that The Examiner holds no brief for any political party; we are an independent newspaper which strives on its news pages to give fair, unbiased and accurate reports of political activities in general, and which reserves the right in its editorial columns to express its approval or disapproval, as the case may be, of any political policy or development.

We have doubtless said many things about the Bennett Government and the Henry administration that did not please our Conservative readers; similarly we have voiced criticism of Mr. Hepburn and the Liberal Opposition at Ottawa that did not draw any cheers from our subscribers of Liberal persuasion, while some of our references to the C.C.F. group were certainly not of a nature to win widespread approval among followers of the Commonwealth ideas.

No newspaper, as a matter of fact, which attempts to take an independent view of political matters has ever succeeded in pleasing all its readers at the one time, and The Examiner has no hope of doing so.

Fortunately, however, most of our subscribers, in the expressive language of the moment, can "take it." They may not approve of our opinions on certain questions, but they give us credit for sincerity, and they don't swing their typewriters into action every time one of their political idols happens to get jolted.

OLD COUNTRY FOLK AND FOOTBALL.

There was a time when the Beacon-Herald was not able to secure the Saturday football results from the Old Country in time for the regular afternoon edition of the paper. Then there came a time when we could secure most of them through a special arrangement. Now they all come in the regular Canadian Press cable service, and on that account we are able to live at peace with the Old Country folk in this city. They used to complain bitterly about not getting those results. It seems to make no difference at all how long an Old Countryman has been in this country. He may have changed his habits, he may have learned to love this new land, and he may have formed new associations here which are much to his liking, but he never does reach the point where he is weaned from his Old Country football results. If he does not secure those figures at the end of the week it seems the week-end is in danger of being spoiled. The habit is as fixed as is the custom of sleeping in for an hour or two on Sunday morning.

And no wonder. When the Glasgow Rangers defeated St. Mirren on Saturday by five to nothing there were just 113,400 on hand to see it done. Come to think of it that is more than twice the number of people we have in Perth County. We sometimes grow a trifle enthusiastic when we write about 12,000 or 15,000 people having seen a hockey game, or in the summer season when some of the big league baseball games draw 50,000, but when you wish to see what a crowd looks like it is necessary to turn to the Old Country football fields, especially when a cup final is on the way. Then you see a crowd what is a crowd.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

A GREAT ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Last year and again this year there was a girl entered in the vocal class of "under 14." This particular girl could not walk to the platform last year; she had to be carried in the arms of her father. This year he had to carry her again. Looks very much like one of those infantile paralysis cases which is not making itself less harmful as time progresses. How long the child has been in that condition we do not know, but it is certain she has to depend on the strong arms of others all the time to get around. Of course, there are such things as wheel chairs, but even so, freedom to go from one place to another is not hers.

When she sat in the row with the other competitors she smiled in turn as each sang. When it came her turn to sing she did it well indeed, making sufficient marks to go into the finals. When she sang there was not a tint that she was handicapped, nor a trace of complaint that she had to sit down to sing while her competitors could stand, and standing is so much better than sitting down when it comes to singing.

This girl was not far from being in the prize marks, and we cannot but wish that some sort of an award might have been hers. She gave to the audience more than she took away with her, for it was a demonstration of smiling brightly right in the face of adversity and of being pleasant under handicap. Brave-hearted child, bless you, say we. You can smile through trouble, and that indeed is a great accomplishment.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Judging by the large attendance at both Liberal and Conservative nominations, the electors of Northumberland take their politics seriously.

As the Ottawa Journal puts it, when Mr. Hepburn comes to telling the farmers of Ontario and some others that it was a heinous offence to take a tax off their sugar and put it on somebody else's gold the farmers of Ontario won't be shouldering their pitchforks to set out on red rebellion.

Although some C.C.F. candidates have already made their appearance, it does not look as if the Co-operative Commonwealth was going to cut much of a dash in the provincial election.

S. C. Tweed, Liberal member for North Waterloo in the present Legislature, has announced his retirement. The decision will be regretted by all who have admired the constructive suggestions brought forward by the North Waterloo representative.

The only mean trick Henry Ford ever played on Detroit was in making Jim Couzens a millionaire.—Malcolm W. Bingay, in Detroit Free Press.

CHAPTER 51

Down the alley went Tiggie, between the old stone fisher huts, where the babies sprawled fat-legged on the steps, sucking their fingers and staring at him, down to the beach and the little bridge that crossed the stream which presented quite an imposing appearance after the reinforcements of last night's rain! Over the bridge without a pause or a glance at the gray sea coming in wreathed in mist, and ominous! Up the narrow winding path cut in the side of the cliff with its stunted gorse bushes and pink valerian! How often he had mounted that path in heaviness of soul! What a load of anxiety had weighed upon him! How he had sometimes dreaded to open the cottage gate!

And now—now as he reached it he had to pause to get the overwhelming joy of the contrast. As he raised the latch, he was whistling like a boy. He had not a care left in the world.

The sound of skipping feet told him that he had been observed, and he looked over the gate to see Joyce, clad in mackintosh and sou'wester, dancing to meet him. She lifted her face to kiss him, her arms closing round his neck.

"Oh, Uncle Tiggie darling, were you really nearly drowned last night?" was her greeting. "How dreadful!"

"There's a long way between nearly and quite," said Tiggie. "How's Auntie Viola?"

"She's looking rather pale this morning," Joyce told him. "You can go up and see her, mummy says. I'm just going up to the other cottage to take care of Peter, but I wanted just to see you first. Oh, Uncle Tiggie—dear Uncle Tiggie—I am glad you weren't quite drowned."

"Thanks!" said Tiggie. "I'm rather glad too."

Joyce's arms clung as he prepared to straighten himself. "You won't ever do it again, will you?" she said.

"Never," promised Tiggie obligingly. "I've quite decided that it's one of the things I'll never do once—much less again—if I have any say in the matter."

"That's all right," said Joyce, releasing him. "Because I'm sure Auntie Viola would die if you did—quite, quite sure."

"Oh, nonsense!" said Tiggie. "She's much too sensible."

But Joyce shook her head at the airy assertion. "No, you don't understand," she said gravely. "She wouldn't be able to help it. She loves you so."

They separated, and Tiggie pursued his way up the path to the porch still feeling absurdly light-hearted, almost light-headed too. Yes, they would have to tell their secret very soon.

There was no one about when he pushed open the door which Joyce had left unlatched. Helen was apparently busy in the back premises and he did not go in search of her. He went straight up the stairs without a pause and knocked softly on the door at the top.

It was ajar, and her low voice at once bade him enter. She was in bed, but partially dressed and propped up by pillows. Her pale face smiled a welcome and she made a gesture as of drawing him to her, though her arms were not outstretched as on the night before.

"You're tired," said Tiggie.

He bent over her, holding her hands; then in answer to her look stooped and kissed her upturned lips.

"You're tired," he said again.

She continued to smile at him, though not very steadily. "I'm all right," she said. "Only—some stupid dreams, that's all."

He sat down beside her. There was no hint of emotion about him, but he kept one of her hands in his.

"It's a waste of time to dream," he said, "when the reality is so good."

"Yes, isn't it a waste of time?" Her voice followed his like a soft echo. "I never knew how reality could be till now."

"That's better," said Tiggie. "Dreams are rotten things."

"Oh, rotten," she agreed, the quivering smile still on her face.

"And that's why you haven't come down?" pursued Tiggie.

"Yes. I was lazy, and Helen advised me to stay here. She said there was nothing to get up for as I couldn't go out."

"That's true," said Tiggie, with a glance at the mist blurred window pane. "Poor old Harvey is of the same mind. He's still in bed too."

"Oh, is he? I wondered." Her look fell, and suddenly he saw a wave of color rise in her white cheeks. "Tiggie!" she said, "your hands!"

"Oh, sorry!" said Tiggie, hastily concealing them under a corner of the sheet. "That happened last night. I ought to have put some gloves on."

"Let me see them!" she said.

"No, really!" protested Tiggie. "It's nothing—nothing whatever."

"Please!" said Viola.

He could not resist her. She drew the sheet away and examined his injuries with deep concern.

"Nothing!" she said, and lifted the damaged hands and held them against her breast. "How those cuts must hurt!"

"Nothing could hurt—like this," said Tiggie, clumsy with embarrassment. "I'm ashamed to have let you see it. I forgot."

"You always forget—yourself," she said.

"Oh, I say!" he remonstrated. "You don't know me very well."

She raised her eyes to his, and they were shining as though the soul behind them gave them light. "I know you so well—so well, Tiggie," she said. "And that's why I love you so. There is no one in the world like you."

"Oh, but darling———" said Tiggie, greatly abashed.

She laughed at him softly, fondly, shaking her head. "Thank you for calling me that! It's the first time, isn't it? Say it again, Tiggie! I like it—from you."

"My darling!" he said. "My own darling!"

His arm slid behind her pillow, and he felt the sweet yielding of her as she gave herself against his neck she said, "That's just how I've wanted to be for ages and ages." She made a little nestling movement. "Your dear big arms round me—like this—holding me safe. Tiggie, have you seen Harvey's picture?"

"No. I've heard all about it," said Tiggie, his cheek caressing her hair.

"I think it's going to be rather wonderful," she said. "It's curious—but he seems to have got right inside my mind to do it. Do you understand, Tiggie?"

"I shall," said Tiggie tenderly.

"Yes, you will," she said. "I know you will. Because—you are you, and you couldn't think anything that wasn't true. You know, dear, I like Harvey. I didn't at first. I do now—very, very much."

"Well, dearest? What of it?" said Tiggie. "I like him too."

"Yes. But you don't understand him," she said. "Perhaps I don't either—altogether. But I know he is very great-hearted. He is devoted to you, Tiggie. You believe that, don't you?"

"Well, I haven't much choice—after last night," said Tiggie.

"Oh, yes," she said. "It was he who saved you."

"I'm inclined to think it was more for your sake than mine that he did it though," said Tiggie.

"I must thank him," said Viola. She was silent for a moment, then said with slight hesitation, "I think he is rather a marvellous friend to have, Tiggie. He is very far-seeing—and understanding."

"Are you trying to tell me he's in love with you?" said Tiggie bluntly.

She laughed faintly. "No dear. That's only his way of putting it—not yours or mine. All genius is like that. Don't you understand? It is made to adore whatever calls it forth."

"Sorry!" said Tiggie. "Out of my depth!"

She turned her face upwards, speaking in a whisper with lips that moved against his neck. "Oh, my dear, it doesn't matter—so long as you don't think I'm in love with him."

"Oh, I see," said Tiggie. He also laughed a little and kissed her again. "No. I don't think that—not being such an outsize ass as I look."

"I knew you weren't really," she said.

There followed a peaceful interval during which neither of them found much to say. The rain was pattering on the panes in earnest, and there was a moaning as of rising wind out at sea.

MR. GORDON REPLIES.

April 27, 1934.

The Editor,
The Peterborough Examiner,
City.

Dear Sir,—In last night's editorial a defence is made about The Examiner's criticism of the MacDonald administration of Nova Scotia and its promise to reduce taxation. The Examiner also drew to my attention that Mr. Rhodes was succeeded by Premier Harrington, it is said for three years before ex-Premier Rhodes accepted a portfolio in the Federal Cabinet, and suggests that ex-Premier Rhodes was not "kicked out of office" by the people of Nova Scotia.

Let me state to The Examiner that ex-Premier Rhodes so bankrupted the province of Nova Scotia by extravagant committments and his Government bribed the people with its own money that Premier Harrington was simply a locum tenens and bound to stand by the committments made by former Premier Rhodes, with the result that the strongest combination of young and active Conservatives that have been in office in Nova Scotia since Confederation was destroyed as a government, and as I recollect, were defeated by two to one at the polls.

The same thing happened the Government under Premier Tolmie of British Columbia, which a short time ago was defeated, and not a single Conservative elected in the whole of British Columbia. This Government attempted to organise an extravagant system the same as the Henry Government at the present time is doing.

Sometime ago The Examiner criticized the Patullo Government, legislation and intimated that Mr. G. G. DeGeer, M.P.P., who was also criticized, was an eminent and outstanding Liberal of British Columbia. Vancouver people said he was disappointed by not being given a portfolio in the Patullo Government and were mean enough to suggest that this had something to do with the criticism of the Government's legislation, which I think to the ordinary man was sensible and reasonable and tending to help the unusual conditions existing in that province.

The fortnightly criticism of Mr. Mitchell Hepburn in The Examiner has not been so apparent of late. Let me suggest something that The Examiner seems to have missed regarding Finance Minister Rhodes. In his Budget he has put on the free list harps and cricket-bats, and during his term of office has decreased the tax on liquor and tobacco and cigarette tubes, but he has increased the taxation on food and clothing, and in addition to that, has taxed everything that is used by persons from the "cradle to the grave."

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

WORKERS' UNITY CONSTITUTION.

Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir.—I trust you will permit the following to enter in The Examiner:

Dear Friends,—Whoever you may be who read these lines. We place them before the public for the purpose of directing understanding toward the activities of the Peterborough Workers' Unity.

The constitution is drafted as follows:

(1) That this organization shall be democratic, and that it shall not affiliate or connect itself with any political body or organization directly or indirectly.

(2) That this organization be created to inaugurate and maintain a strong united and democratic comradeship toward all men.

(3) That this organization shall exist to perpetuate a friendship and loyalty to the Crown, to safeguard and honor the principals of justice.

(4) That this organization shall be helpful to its fellow members in distress.

The meetings are of a social order, with the object of bringing in speakers from other local clubs and welfare orders to educate and help in self-dependence and health conditions. Wednesday and Friday the dances which are held are to try to make the club self-supporting. With Ed. Suddards and his orchestra from St. John's, giving service with very little remuneration for the benefit of the club. Very useful work can be done by this club. The ladies' section is making quilts and other useful work. The men made 280 toys at Christmas and have sponsored several concerts. Many more could be sponsored if we had the support of the town. To prevent misunderstanding, we have decided to change the name, where the public have been mis-advised. We trust this will give all a clear understanding. From now on this order will go under the name of Peterborough Beaver Club.

(Signed) The Committee.

DATE IS ARRANGED FOR ANNIVERSARY

Warsaw Presbyterian Church to Observe Annual Event on June 3rd.

WARSAW, April 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Only a fair number met in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday afternoon, April 26. Mrs. W. H. Clements presided at the Ladies' Aid. ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A DAY OF MOURNING AT HALIFAX

On this date, in 1912 Halifax had as mournful a day as any in its history, surpassed only by the days after the explosion in 1917 when their own dead were being laid to rest. The occasion on that April 30 was the arrival of 190 victims of the Titanic, which had been recovered at sea by the cable steamer MacKay-Bennett. One hundred and sixteen others had been committed to the deep, the Anglican service being read over them by the late Canon Kenneth C. Kind, of All Saints cathedral, who went out on the steamer for that purpose.

The scene as the cable steamer came up the harbor was impressive. In every part of the ship dead lay. High on the poop deck coffins and rough shells were piled and piled. Dead men in tarpaulins lined the floor of the cable wells both fore and aft, so that there was hardly room for a foot to be put down; and in the forward hold dead were piled one upon another, their eyes closed as if in sleep, and over them all a great tarpaulin was stretched.

The business of moment was to discharge the freight of death with decency and despatch. The uncoffined dead were carried down in stretchers, placed in rough shells laid out on the pier, and one by one driven up the slope into the city in a long line of hearses and undertakers' waggons gathered from every quarter. The task was speedily accomplished without indecent haste and with a fitting reverence.

Only a few bodies were claimed, among them that of John Jacob Astor. The others were interred in Fairview and Mount Olivet cemeteries, with a few in the Jewish burying ground. The burial was a long and tedious affair. One reminiscence is of a trench filled with three score or more of the unknown dead, rich and poor, passenger or common sailor, all equal in their sleep of death from which only the Great Trumpet can awaken them.

Happier days in Halifax, on duty or holiday, have passed from memory but these days following the arrival of the Titanic victims and their funerals will never be erased. So does the tragedy of life often outlive the comedy!

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

TRURO, NOVA SCOTIA

This place, like so many others, takes its name from a place in England, dear to someone connected with the new colony. The meaning of the name, according to word received from England, is "town on river," Truro, England, is situated on Truro river, while the Nova Scotia town is situated on the Salmon river and doubtless for that reason a name suggested itself.

Between the years 1760 and 1765 early Empire Loyalists went there as settlers and shortly afterwards others arrived from Scotland and England. At that time the whole district for some miles was called Truro township. This took in quite a bit of territory and continued so until 1875 when the town of Truro was incorporated. The balance of that territory made up Truro township now belongs to the county of Colchester, of which Truro is the capital.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

FIRST DISCOVER YOURSELF!

Nobody is looking for you. Nobody knows you are lost. You can stay where you are forever and you'll never be missed.

If you want to be found, you will have to discover yourself.

That's true, and don't you be doubting it.

Maybe you've read about obscure geniuses being discovered—as children, as grown men and women, as graybeards—and sometimes after they were dead gone. And some people acquire great reputation as the discoverers of genius....But no man was ever discovered until after he discovered himself.

Wherever talent gleams or genius burns, wherever the human spirit rises in song and overwhelms the dull matter of the commonplace, you hear the loud presumptuous claim, "I discovered that!" So many claim but so few have the right to say. "If it had not been for ME, that talent would have shriveled, that genius would have been throttled." And perhaps you have come to believe that until you are discovered, you are nothing, and that you must WAIT to be discovered.

But a man must discover himself before he is worthwhile, and woman must know that she herself exists, before any discovered can find anything worthwhile.

There must be pride and joy and hope and healthy confidence, and a human being must have wisdom enough to say: "Here I am, a human being, and there is something for me to do. I have arms, hands and fingers; I had a head, brains, thoughts; I have dreams, sympathies and passions. I have known anger, grief and delight. I am something more than a rock in the road or a pale flower in a shadowed corner. I am a human being and I have a life of my own."

Not saying that vainly or arrogantly or in excessive pride, but saying it humbly, but confidently, knowingly....Because first you MUST discover yourself. And if you don't, you won't get the job and you won't get the applause and you won't get the promotion and you won't get the girl and you won't get any of the other things you want in this world. It's just too bad for you—because if you wait to be discovered by something else, you'll NEVER be found.

A Thought

The present-day stringency is a bitter pill for all of us, but if, in the end, it teaches people how to live better, happier and more fully, we should take it with a smile. While we mourn our loss of income, deplore unemployment and all of its attendant ills, let us remember that nothing has been actually lost. Nothing in the universe is ever lost. It may change form, but it will still be there even if our poor eyesight cannot distinguish it.

SPEAKS IN PUBLIC AGAIN

ALAMAGORDA, N.M., April 30. (AP)—Albert F. Fall, former secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet gave way to tears here in his first public speech since his release from the Santa Fe prison. Fall, who served a sentence in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal, spoke at the opening of the White Sands national monument. Tears streamed down his care-worn face as he faced many of his old friends in the audience. He delivered the latter part of his speech while seated.

IMPORTANCE OF GOLD MINING IS CLEARLY SHOWN

R. R. Hall, K.C., Tells Rotarians How Greatly Industry Has Contributed to Canadian Prosperity.

NEW DIRECTORS.

Local Service Club Elects Its Boafd of Management From Field of Ten Nominees.

The romance of the great increase in gold production in Canada was eloquently pictured for the benefit of the Peterborough Rotary Club by R. R. Hall, K.C., who in a most interesting address emphasized the necessity from a national viewpoint the necessity of giving every encouragement to the gold mining industry. In this connection, Mr. Hall declared that the tax on gold should be applied on excess profits and not on the gross production. "It is the general opinion," the Speaker said, "and I believe it is the view of most members of Parliament that every consideration should be given to the low ore producing mines."

The annual election of directors also featured to-day's luncheon. Out of the ten names selected by the nominating committee the following five directors were elected for the ensuing year: C. G. Graham, J. L. Gillespie, R. J. Goring, D. A. Loomis and J. Fred Reed.

President Dr. A. Moir reported for the Crippliied Children's Committee that 22 cases had been looked after during the past year as follows: tonsils and adenoids removed, 6; club feet, 3; flat feet, 2; knock knees, 1; infantile paralysis, 2; cerebral paralysis, 3; tuberculosis of the hip, 2; spinal curvature, 1; defective eyesight, glasses supplied, 1. Dr. Moir paid a tribute to the faithful work of Rotarian Andrew Brown as chairman of the Crippled Children Committee.

Commissioner Frederick of the Salvation Army, who was a guest at to-day's luncheon, and who has spent 47 years in various countries in the service of the Army, spoke briefly as to the world-wide activities of the Salvation Army which he declared was a real League of Nations. The Army, he said, was active in 83 countries and 71 languages were used in its work. He stressed the fact that the organization believed in first looking after physical needs before seeking to save souls. Reference was made to the work being done in Java, China and many other countries, the Army's hospital for the blind in Java having a record of 40,000 operations in a year.

Mr. Hall, who was introduced by Rotarian R. J. Goring, pointed out the astonishing growth in Canada's gold production. In 1911, he said, Ontario produced only $42,635 worth, while in 1932 production had increased to $47,282,272. In 1911 the total in Quebec was $12,672 and this had grown to $8,291,576 in 1932, while in Manitoba where no gold was produced until 1917, the 1932 total was $2,521,593. These valuations were made on the basis of gold at $20.67 per fine ounce whereas to-day the price is round $35 per fine ounce.

Canada, the speaker said, was now the second gold producing country in the world, being beaten only by South Africa.

In 1931 this Dominion produced nearly six times as much gold as the whole South American continent, $33,000,000 more than the whole of Europe and twice as much as the continent of Asia.

Mr. Hall stressed the contribution made to national prosperity by gold production, and the impetus the industry gave to manufacturing and business. In the richer mines the cost of labor, machinery and supplies amounted to $80 for every $100 worth of gold produced. The Howey mine, Mr. Hall said, spent four million dolars in labor, machinery and supplies, while the shareholders were only receiving $165,000. The actual gold production of the country only gave a faint picture of what the gold mining industry really meant to Canada.

Pointing out that a definite mineral belt stretched across the whole country, the speaker declared that the surface has as yet only been scratched. There was a large field for development available and great potential values existed to give hope for future development.

Canada, he said, produced in 1931 ten million dollars more gold than the United States, whose production had declined steadily since it reached 101,000,000 in 1915. Canada's production, on the other hand, had increased from $9,781,000 in 1911, to $63,061,103 in 1932.

Mr. Hall said that 68 per cent. of the world's gold was produced in the British Empire, showing that John Bull and his sons were still leading the world.

In conclusion, the speaker expressed the hope that the gold tax would be applied so that it would not interfere with gold production or with prospecting and development work.

President Dr. Moir expressed the club's thanks to Mr. Hall for his informative address.

Roy Cutting was named as member of the Boy's Work and Camp Committee, succeeding George A. Macdonald.

All Irish Free State flour mills are operating at capacity and several new ones are being built.

PLENTY COLOR IN 'Y' PAGEANT

Older Members of Cast Take in "Peter Pan in the Enchanted Garden."

WEE TOTS IN DRILLS.

Hundreds of children flocked to the Opera House on Saturday for the rehearsal of the annual Y.W.C.A. gymnasium pageant. The children met at the Y.W.C.A., where the little tots were conveyed by cars to the Opera House, and the older ones carrying their dumbells marched down in orderly file. The big stage was soon the scene of activity as all joined in the grand march.

Then came the rehearsals for the babies' class. The big stage and the high up scenery attracted much attention from the small performers, and in the midst of drills several wee gym members insisted on wandering around to investigate. The setting up exercises of wee tots of two, three and four years of age is expected to be a drawing card of the evening. These youngsters always bring happy laughter and loud applause from parents and friends. The babies will be seen in the dumbell drill, setting-up exercises and in the story part of the extravaganza, Peter Pan, where their pretty flower costumes turn them into rose buds, forget-me-nots, pansies and daisies in the enchanted garden. Two wee tots take the part of Wendy and Michael, who follow Peter Pan into the garden. The babies' dancing class in soft sunbeam costumes of fairy sheen waken the flowers.

The junior classes present an intricate dumbell drill which they do with class precision and rhythm. The junior tap dancing class have a very bright dance as Fairy Elves and the junior toe dancing class represent fairy dragon flies and woodland fairies. The juniors this year will add a delightful touch of color as they flit about the stage as cardinals, blue birds, orioles, robins and humming birds, flickering among the flowers.

The story of the second part of the Pageant, "Peter Pan in the Enchanted Garden," is as follows:

Peter Pan, whom all children love, is followed by the two tiny children, Wendy and Michael, and find themselves in the enchanted garden, quicksilver Peter Pan travels so quickly the children cannot keep pace with him, the little rose buds, forget-me-nots, dairies and pansies sleepily warn the children to go home as it's getting very late. Night with her curtain of silver stars appears and dances a lullaby for the children. Big bats flitter across the shadow for runners of the witches who terrify the children. "Nice tender titbits they will be," mutter the witches, but the gay little birds come to the rescue, the orioles, cardinals, blue birds, robins and humming birds driving witches and bats away. The curious little Fairy Elves, industrious little cobblers, fascinate Wendy and Michael, and urge the children to join them in their fun. But the children are still frightened by the memory of the witches, so the stately ferns dance whispering to the children that all is safe again. The jolly little woodpeckers with their syncopated time announce that the woodland fairies are coming. "O joy what lovely creatures the woodland fairies are with the brilliant little dragon flies who glitter in the sunlight. The fairies call the dear little sunbeams who as you all know teach the flowers to grow." Wendy and Michael are entranced and all fear forgotten hurry to join the sunbeams in their fun dancing for sheer joy.

Hark! Isn't that the call of Peter Pan. All fairy folk pay homage to the impish Peter, the spirit of youth.

The rehearsal Saturday indicates in every way that this year's pageant will be prettier and more finished than ever. Senior classes are meeting for their rehearsals tonight and Wednesday at 5.30 at the Opera House.

Indications are that the ticket sale is going to be the best yet, and that the Opera House will be crowded to the door. More tickets have been taken out than ever, and there is a long waiting list for 50c tickets. There are still 75c tickets available and a few 35c. The ticket office at the Opera House opens Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, when all tickets should be exchanged for reserved seats.

SURE JAPANESE HAVE NO DESIRE

under that treaty in common with other signatories, the Foreign Secretary continued.

British Policy One of Peace

Sir Francis had added that the anxiety recently expressed in Japan in regard to the situation in China could not apply to the United Kingdom, since it was the aim and policy of the British Government to avoid dangers of peace in the Far East, and to maintain the integrity of China.

The British Ambassador further enquired whether the British Government was correct in assuming that Japan had no intention of infringing the rights of other powers in China.

To this, Hirota replied, according to Sir John, "that this assumption was correct."

Sticking to Pact

Japan, the British government had been assured, intended to observe the provisions of the Nine-power Treaty. Further Japan attached the greatest importance to the policy of the open-door in China, and Hirota reaffirmed her acceptance of that policy.

Sir John concluded his brief explanation and then in reply to a supplementary question declared that in view of the statement of the Japanese Foreign Minister, the British government was prepared to leave the matter as it stood.

"Britain is resolved to assist to the utmost possible extent the principle of international cooperation in the progress of China towards peace and prosperity, and the maintenance of a spirit of harmony and goodwill in the far east," he concluded.

Public Kept In Dark

By GLENN BABB

Associated Press Foreign Staff

TOKYO, April 30. —(AP)— The Japanese public will be kept in the dark, officially at least, concerning the note in which Great Britain and United States, were reassured concerning Japan's intention in China.

A foreign office attache told the Associated Press the government at present has no intention of publishing the note, explaining it is unnecessary since Sir John Simon is making it public in London to-day.

Observers were quick to point out, however, that by not releasing the statement to the Japanese press and public, the government would thereby escape the domestic and political consequences of what might be interpreted as a partial retraction of the Foreign Office China police declaration of April 17.

The note being made public before parliament by the British Foreign Secretary was presented April 26 to Sir Francis Lindley. British ambassador and the United States ambassador Joseph C. Grew.

This statement, by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, was phrased in more conciliatory terms than that of April 17. It was described as the only 'official' interpretation of the earlier declaration of the 'hands off China' policy by a foreign office spokesman.

BREMER RANSOM CASE ADVANCES

Boss McLaughlin Admits Disposing of $53,000 of $200,000 Paid to Kidnappers.

HELD IN $100,000 BOND.

CHICAGO, April 30.— (A.P.) — John J. "Boss" McLaughlin has confessed handling $53,000 of the ransom collected from Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed to-day.

McLaughlin was held in $100,000 bond Saturday for removal to St. Paul for trial under the "Lindbergh" Kidnapping Act.

His arrest followed the recovery of $2,665 in $5 and $10 bills identified as part of the ransom money. The "hot" currency was found on William E. Vidler, a gambler, last Thursday.

Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the Bureau of Investigation, announced that McLaughlin had made a full confession of his part in the disposition of portions of the $200,000 ransom paid for Bremer's freedom after 23 days a captive of kidnappers.

Four men were in Federal custody —McLaughlin and Vidler already arraigned, and two others awaiting the issuance of warrants charging them also with conspiracy."

Purvis said the government had recovered $3,400 of the ransom. They found $85 of it Saturday on young Jack McLaughlin, 17 year old son of the erstwhile west side political boss, Purvis said.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 30. (CP). — The condition of Harold Brooker and Jack Zybach, this city, seriously injured when their plane, piloted by Brooker crashed on the St. David's golf course yesterday afternoon, showed some improvement to-day. Brooker is suffering from bad lacerations of the mouth, three broken ribs, bruises to the head, injuries in the lower chest and possible internal injuries. Zybach was less seriously injured, having two ribs broken, lacerations of both knees and a deep cut in the abdomen. He also has possible internal injuries. Both are expected to recover.

STUDY GOLD TAX.

OTTAWA, April 30 (C.P.).—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, and Hon. Charles McRae, Ontario Minister of Mines, were in consultation all morning on the 10 per cent. gold tax. Their deliberations were devoted to a study of the whole situation with a view to applying the tax in such a way as not to interfere with the small producers of low grade ore, and the new ventures opened up within the last few months which could not succeed but for the high premium on gold.

Paid in Full

LONDON, Ont., April 30.—(C.P.)—The most conscientious of all tax payers has been revealed.

Struggling over his income tax forms he finally computed he owed the government the sum of three cents.

Accordingly he sat down, wrote out a three cent check, placed a three cent excise stamp on the document, then used another three cent stamp to mail the return to the London division officer.

The payment was received today and will receive the same amount of routine scrutiny and checking as if it were one thousand times that amount.

MARKET CLOSES ON DOWN SIDE

Brewery Group Fails to Show Action of Last Week's Sessions at Toronto.

FOLLOWS N.Y. TREND.

TORONTO, April 30 (CP)—The industrial section of the Toronto Stock Exchange concluded the month with sluggish market, low volume appearing with moderately lower prices. Seventy-five per cent. of listings closed on the down side but losses were mainly in small fractions. The trend followed the New York market throughout, even the domestic listings in the brewery group failing to show the action of last week's sessions.

International Nickel reflected the depressed state of the New York Board, closing 80 cents lower at 27.85. C.P.R. and Ford weakened about ¼ each. In the beverages, Walkers Common dropped 40 in the last few minutes, closing 1 down. Seagrams had a net loss of ½ and Industrial Alcohol ¼. Canada Bud and the Brewing Corporation shares were down narrowly.

MINING ISSUES RFGISTER LOSSES

Trading Slow Excepting Three or Four Golds and Few Specialties.

TORONTO, Apl. 30 (CP)—Mining shares were unable to drag themselves out of the rut to-day, and at the close the whole list showed losses ranging up to 1.25. Trading was slow except in three or four of the golds and a few specialties including Olga Oil, Stadacona and McLeod River, whose dredging efforts in Alberta are said to be meeting with better success.

In the big gold group a waiting attitude on the part of traders was in evidence. Offerings met with poor demand, and prices were gradually pared. McIntyre dropped 1.25, Lake Shore 75 cents, Dome 75 cents, Hollinger 10, Teck 25 cents, and Wright Hargreaves 20 cents.

Base Metals weakened lightly, Noranda losing nearly a dollar and Hudson Bay closed off about 20 cents.

FUND ESTABLISHED BY U.S. TREASURY

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—The U. S. Treasury formally created a $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund today, apparently depositing $200,000,000 with the Federal Reserve System for active use and holding the remaining $1,800,000,000 in reserve.

To accomplish the transaction of officially setting up the fund appropriated by Congress for guiding the U. S. dollar's course, the entire $2,000,000,000 was carried as expended on April 27.

Previously, the $2,810,000,000 of profit on devaluation had been designated in the Treasury statement simply as "increment resulting from reduction in the weight of the gold dollar."

LIQUOR TOLL GATE RACKET IN OPERATION

So Hepburn Charges at Halton County Liberal Convention.

PROMISES CLEAN-UP.

Accuses Tories of Trying to Control the Air—Assails Charlesworth.

MILTON, Ont. April 30.—(CP)—Administration of liquor sales in the province was another phase of the Liberal party's attacks on the Ontario government as Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, continued his speech-making tour throughout the province. Before the Halton County Liberal convention here Saturday night, Mr. Hepburn charged there was a 'liquor toll gate racket' in the government's liquor control activities.

The convention unanimously selected Thomas Blacklock, present member for Halton in the legislature, to contest the riding again at the coming Ontario general elections.

Mr. Hepburn promised that his party, if elected to power, would "clean up the dirty mess so that the rate of liquor profits in Ontario would compare favorably with that in Quebec.

Use Money to Cut Taxes

"We know, and everyone else knows, that a British distiller must have an agent here to get the business from the Liquor Board" Mr. Hepburn said. "We're going to open the books and find out how many agents there are and how much they get. When we've cleaned up the dirty mess, we'll have money to increase school grants and lower taxation."

Mr. Hepburn accused the Canadian Radio Commission of trying to 'browbeat" him when he spoke over the air at Ottawa. He said the station manager asked for a copy of his address so it could be edited.

He accused the Conservative government of trying to control the air and criticized Hector Charlesworth, commission chairman.

The Liberal leader predicted the Ontario Provincial debt was mounting rapidly under the Conservative regime and predicted it would reach $650,000,000 through government expenditures. He alleged Ontario bond issues had been turned over to friends of the government "for them to make millions in profits."

COMMISSION HAS RIGHT.

OTTAWA, April 30 (C.P.). — The Radio Commission has the right to require anyone speaking over the air to submit his address in advance, but we have never required any

This exclusive photo, banned in Japan, shows Japan's one-man submarine as it underwent a test before army and navy officials near Tokio. DAMAGE IS DONE BY WIND STORM

Large Sections of Bog Driven Unto Centre of Rice Lake.

BAILIEBORO, April 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Thursday's and Friday's high winds and gales played havoc with the fences and trees of the district. Great stretches of rail fences were blown over and wrecked, while limbs were hurled from trees and other trees blown completely over.

Large pieces of floating bog were driven from the marshes at the head of the lake and could be seen floating in the wind-blown waters of Rice Lake. The bog had been heaved loose by the frosts and the wind drove them out and down the centre of the lake. The bog would float until it would come in contact with islands at the foot of the lake, and there it would anchor. Some bushes and tall rushes could be seen on some of the sections as they moved along.

CARTIER REARED IN FRUGAL WAYS

Early Life of Discoverer to be Pictured at Royal Society Meeting.

OTTAWA, April 30. (C.P.)—The outstanding event in the forward march of Western civilization, the discovery of Canada four centuries ago, by Jacques Cartier a Breton sailor in the pay of the King of France will be the subject of the presidential address at the forthcoming annual meeting of the Royal Society of Canada to be held in Quebec City May 21-24 next it was announced here.

Leon Gerin president of the Royal Society will point out some fundamental facts pertaining to political and economic conditions in Spain Portugal Italy England and France toward the close of the 15th and during the first half of the 16th centuries. Summed up in three words: Renaissance, Reformation, Discovery—they are, as it were, the frame work and primer of this whole phase of modern history.

Cartier will be pictured in the making, both as man and sailor, with his Celtic ancestry in Cymbric Britanny as a background, and his French environment and culture in and about St. Malo. It will be seen how his home surroundings and his early frugal habits, while keeping him in touch with the court and leading men of the nation, inured him to the hardships and perils of the sea.

The greater part of the address will be a critical review of the doings of Cartier on his first official voyage to Canada in 1534, and an appraisal of the data collected and the results secured by him in the cartography and general knowledge of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and adjoining country, as compared with those suplied by his so-called predecessors on our shores.

To keep the number of dentists up to the necessary 14,000 in England, 700 must be added this year.

Dr. George A. McQuibban, Liberal Leader in the Legislature, is rumored likely to receive acclamation to the Legislature in North Wellington. He is certain to be unanimously chosen as Liberal candidate at the convention this afternoon in Arthur. The Conservative convention has been postponed with no future date set which has led Liberals to hope for an acclamation for the House Leader.

Mr. Hepburn, in his Halton address, claimed the Conservative Government was trying to control the air through the Canadian Radio Commission, which, he said, tried to "browbeat' him by asking for a copy of his address for editing when he spoke recently at Ottawa.

The Liberal Leader said his party, if elected, would open the Government books to ascertain who British distillers' agents in the province are "and how much they get." He described the situation in the Liquor Control Board as a "dirty mess."

BUDGET DEBATE ON IN COMMONS

Bill to Reduce Former's Debts Expected After Market Act Settled.

VOTE LIKELY TUESDAY.

OTTAWA, April 30 (CP)—Parliamentarians look forward to a measure of variety this week with today devoted to the Budget debate and the prospect of a vote on the Marketing Bill to-morrow. The vote will put an end to a long debate and it will then be decided whether to send the bill to the Agriculture Committee or study it in Committee of the Whole.

When the measure, designed to regulate and improve the methods of marketing natural products in order to assure the producer a better price and a more stable market, was introduced, the Government indicated its intention of having it reviewed by Committee of the Whole House. Several Opposition speakers, however, have urged a study by the Agriculture Committee where witnesses could be called.

To-day will be the second day of the Budget debate, which began last Monday, when Hon. J. L. Ralston, chief Liberal financial critic, led off with a critical analysis of the annual presentation of income and expenditures, past and prospective, by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance.

Later in the week when the Marketing Bill is disposed of, the Government may introduce some further new measures including the one designed to reduce farmers' debts.

Speculation continues as to what, if any, changes the Government will make in the 10 per cent Gold tax. It is understood a plan to modify it in some important particulars is now being discussed between the Government and representatives of the gold mining interests. Despite the protests against the tax the Government is believed to be firm in its intention to secure a revenue of $10,000,000 from gold.

Obituary

BERT ALLEN

The many friends of Bert (Bertie) Allen will be shocked to hear of his sudden death which occurred at his residence, 587 Water street, early on Sunday morning, at the age of 60 years. Born in Smith Township, where he had farmed for many years before coming into the city, he was a son of the late George Allen, and of Mrs. Allen, who survives.

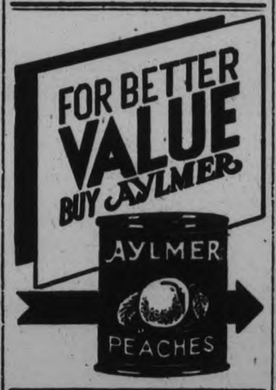
Mr. Allen suffered a stroke some months ago, but had since enjoyed apparent good health. He was out on Saturday, when he was in his usual state of comparatively good health. Early Sunday morning, a member of his family discovered that he had passed away in his sleep.

Besides his mother, Mr. Allen is survived by four sisters: Mrs. W. Pethick of Toronto, Mrs. E. C. Harper of this city, Mrs. H. B. Lawrence of Toronto, and Miss L. Allen at home.

The deceased was a member of George Street United Church, where in 1926 he was treasurer of the Men's Club of that church.

The funeral is to be held from the family residence on Tuesday, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. J. E. J. Milliyard, pastor of George Street United Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

The domestic goose was among the animals figured on the oldest Egyptian and Asiatic monuments.



Backward Weather Delays Farm Work

BAILIEBORO, April 30.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The backward weather which has prevailed during the past week has kept the farmers from making progress with their spring seeding. Some farmers in the district have commenced plowing on fields which are early and dry, but up to date little has been accomplished toward getting the spring crop sowed.

Several farmers have commenced cultivating in their wheat fields. It is generally considered in this district that the fall wheat has been killed, and the problem with the farmers now is, what can they sow to substitute the cash and feed crop. In this vicinity fall wheat is the most important crop grown and this spring when seed grain is particularly scarce and grain dealers are offering little encouragement to farmers to grow peas, as the market for peas is sluggish, they scarcely know just what crop would be the most suitable to substitute for fall wheat and hay.

Should the weather become fair and warm for a few days, the soil would very soon be in condition for cultivation, and farmers would then know just the amount of fall wheat and seeds it would be necessary to plow up and re-crop.

GUNMEN DISARM CHICAGO POLICE

Nelson and the other two as friends of Tommy Carroll and Homer Van Meter, henchmen of the Indiana desperado.

Van Meter was identified through photographs as the leader of a band of bank bandits that looted a bank in suburban Villa Park last Friday of $6,000.

The authorities said that Carroll's girl friend come from St. Paul, that her name as Delaney, and that she is the sister-in-alw of Pat Riley, former St. Paul American Association Baseball Club mascot now sought for questioning in connection with the Dillinger search.

The agents accused the third girl —Van Meter's friend, of making arrangements for the rental of an apartment used as one of the gang's hideouts in Minneapolis.

Fear Rescue Attempt.

A warning was sounded by District Attorney Randall Elmer of Monticello, Wis., that Nelson might try to liberate the women. He said he believed he had sighted Nelson in a car between Monticello and Madison and told Federal agents and the Sheriff at Madison to take extra precautions against an attempt by Nelson to free the women.

At Columbus, O., where three prisoners escaped yesterday from the Ohio State Penitentiary, double guarded to prevent the Dillinger mob from attempting to liberate his three pals, Governor George White defied threats to kidnap him and his daughter, Mary.

ATHLETE TRIO DROWN IN LAKE

Empty Canoe Drifts Ashore at Camp Where Chums Are Waiting.

NO BODIES FOUND.

KENTVILLE, N.S., April 30 (CP)—Wearied searchers scanned Lake Torment's shores for bodies, but the lake's chill waters still held secret the fate of three young Kentville athletes who braved its windlashed surface yesterday in a light canoe.

Their craft lay beached near a camp by the lakeside. A few sodden articles of clothing lay nearby. But there was no trace of Cecil Parks, 23; Roy Hale, 25; and Garnet Barkhouse, 22; and their four companions on a fishing expedition had given them up as lost.

The seven had set out together from here for a day's fishing on the lake. When they got there Sunday morning, a whistling blow was wripping the lake scurface, and other fishermen elected to stay ashore. But the seven set out, in two boats.

Among the four who left shore in a rowboat with the canoe was Garnet's brother David; he saw Garnet and the two other men last as the canoe tossed in mid-lake. The rowboats returned to shore before long, and its occupants were standing by their camp when the canoe drifted into shore, empty.

It struck land just a few feet from the camp. Soon Barkhouse's coat followed it, and then the waves cast up a cap identified as Hale's, and a hat which the fearful watchers believed to be that worn by Parks.

Search was organized immediately. Scores of residents of the nearby little community of East Dalhousie joined in the hunt for the bodies. The lake was dragged, but its muddy bottom yielded no sign of the missing men. Belief was held they would not be found until the sluice at the lake's lower end was opened this week for the early log drives.

DAVE JONES IS UNDER TRANSFER

Bank Accountant Here For Over 3 Years is Going to Belleville.

S. V. MOULTON SUCCESSOR

Announcement was made this morning that David J. D. Jones, accountant in Water and Simcoe Street Branch of the Bank of Montreal, is to be transferred in a similar capacity to Belleville.
His successor, as accountant here is to be S. V. Moulton of Chatham, who is stated to be a brother-in-law of L. J. Pettit of the Collegiate teaching staff. The changes will become effective within the next two weeks.
Since coming to Peterborough over three years ago from the Young and Queen Streets branch at Toronto, Mr. Jones and his wife have earned for themselves the friendship and esteem of a very wide circle of people.
Shortly after he came to this city, Mr. Jones became identified with the Kinsmen Club and has contributed much to the success of the organization. He is the present treasurer of the club, having been re-elected for another term after having served in that capacity the year previous.
Mr. Jones has had wide experience in the banking world, covering a period of twenty-five years since he first entered the service of the Metropolitan Bank of England and Wales in his native England.
Twenty years of his service have been completed with the Bank of Montreal which organization he joined after returning from three years in South Africa with the National Bank of South Africa. While with the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Jones has served in Mexico City for two years, besides various places in Canada, including Stratford in which city he first started.
While Mr. Jones' departure will be regretted by his many friends they will be glad to learn that he is being transferred as accountant of a branch of the bank which is considerably larger than the branch he is in at present.

HASTINGS GROUP PRESENTED PLAY

Proceads for the W. A. of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Otonabee.

An amusing three-act play entitled "The Private Tutor," was given on Friday evening last in the Foresters' Hall, Zion, by members of the A.Y.P.A. of St. George's Church, Hastings; the proceeds being for the W.A. of St. Mark's Church.
Miss Della Plant was directress, and the play which was humorous throughout, was given remarkably well and in fine style, by the cast of amateurs. The many intricacies which arose when Fred Spencer and his school chum, George Carruthers, deceived Fred's father by hiring the leader of a little German band to act as their private tutor were finally cleared up.
Dolly, Fred's sister, whose matchmaking mother was arranging a marriage with the "private tutor," was finally free to accept the attentions of George Carruthers.
The cast was as follows: Fred Spencer, who believes that experience is the best teacher, Eric Pulfer; George Carruthers, his chum, Nicholas Dainard; Mr. Spencer, Harry Tyrrell; Hans Dinklederger, leader of the German band, Ray Pulfer; Richard the Butler, Eddie Radford; Mrs. Spencer, who seeks social aspiration, Bernice Dainard; Dolly Spencer, Mary Pulfer; Miss Snap, private detective, Myrtle Pulfer.
Rev. J. L. Hughes acted as chairman, and also contributed vocal solos between the acts.
At the close of the play, the ladies of St. Mark's W.A. served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

LAWYER BALKS; CHILDREN'S AID INQUIRY HALTS

Counsel Refuses to Abide by Ruling His Form of Questioning Improper.

GOES TO APPEAL COURT.

Witness Charges Col. Little So Drunk He Was Unable to Talk Coherently.

TORONTO, April 30. (CP)—The inquiry into charges of mal-administration in York County Children's Aid Society took an unexpected turn to-day when R. L. Kellock, K.C., counsel for the complainant, Toronto Child Welfare Council, refused to abide by Judge James Parkers' ruling that his form of questioning was improper and declared he would contest the point before the Court of Appeal by way of stated case.
Immediately Judge Parker adjourned the hearing and it likely will not be resumed until late in May, as the Court of Appeal must be given time to dispose of the stated case.
The whole question turned upon Mr. Kellock's right to cross-examine Mrs. Catharine Stone, secretary of Col. George Little, who had been called by K. V. Stratton, commission counsel, to give evidence on charges of intoxication against Col. Little, who is superintendent of the society.
"I understand," said Mr. Kellock," "in some cases he was unable to transact business?"
"Yes," replied witness.
"Were there ever any occasions when he was not able to transact business?"
Judge Parker objected the questioning was improper, since the inquiry was not a court but a commission, and Mr. Kellock said he would appeal.
Col. George Little, superintendent of York County Children's Society, was so 'drunk' on two occasions in 1929 and 1930 that he was unable to talk coherently of business matters, Miss Rowan Patterson, former superintendent of case work at the infant's home, today told Judge J. Parker, investigating charge of maladministration in the society.
"He was quite incoherent. He couldn't discuss the cases with me at all. He was huddled in his chair and smelled strongly of liquor," witness said.
"I'm afraid it is a conclusion arrived at with very little reference to the basis of that conclusion," remarked the judge when witness said she concluded Col. Little was intoxicated.
Cross-examined by J. L. Lucas, counsel for Col. Little, Miss Patterson denied the drunkenness was an impression. "It was a very definite fact," she said.
Mrs. Catharine Stone also declared Col. Little was 'quite incoherent" when Miss Patterson visited him. "He didn't want to be bothered," she declared. "I've seen him that way before but its not usual. I noticed quite a strong smell. His face was very flushed and his eyes were glassy."

C.C.F. POSTPONE THEIR MEETING

Convention is Deferred for Further Information From Toronto.

FEW DAYS' DELAY.

The C.C.F. convention announced for Tuesday night for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the provincial elections, has been postponed for a few days, W. L. Abbott told The Examiner this afternoon.
"We are waiting for further information from Toronto" Mr. Abbott explained, "and we expect to have something definite to announce in a few days."

STATION IN HULL ASKED HEPBURN FOR HIS SPEECH

a speech by a man before he delivers it?" asked Mr. Ahearn.
"No, but they see it before they print it," responded the Commission chairman.

Station Protect Itself.
It was the duty of each radio station to protect itself, continued Mr. Charlesworth. The Commission laid down rules to protect the listening public against scurrilous utterances, but enforcement of the rules was up to the stations.
It was a station in Hull, Que., that asked the Ontario Liberal Leader to submit his speech in advance, said Mr. Charlesworth. "Perhaps they did not know him (Mr. Hepburn) very well. I do not mean that as a joke, but he may not be as well known in Hull as in Ottawa."
"This rule," said Mr. Ahearn, "is a direct interference with free speech."
"I do not believe it is," argued Mr. Charlesworth.
"But here we have a radio station asking a man to submit his speech before he delivers it."
The Toronto municipal election campaign in 1932 led to the drafting of the Commission rule, said Mr. Charlesworth. At that time, one of the mayoralty candidates was accused over the air of packing the civic service with relatives and friends.
"The power should be used after the man has spoken," commented Mr. Ahearn. "The proper procedure would be to ban him after he has spoken, not before."
"We have that rule to protect ourselves," retorted Mr. Charlesworth.
"When Mr. Bennett last spoke over the air, did you ask him to submit his speech," asked the Ottawa member.
"No, that would be up to the station."
The listening public would be better served if the operations of radio stations were left definitely in the hands of private stations and the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission become a regulatory and controlling body, Harold Sedgewick, of Rogers-Majestic corporation, told the committee. The company operates station CFRB at Toronto.
As a regulatory and controlling body, the purposes of the Commission were suggested by Mr. Segewick. "It would," the Toronto radio official said, "be for the purpose of co-operating with and assisting private stations throughout Canada to improve their programmes, purchasing as far as their funds will allow, desirable programmes, free of any advertising matter, and assisting by the purchase of lines to broadcast those programmes in the more remote sections of Canada where a shortage of talent and lack of funds makes it impossible for the private station owner to give the same quality of program service that the listener in the more populated areas has always been receiving."
Radio stations everywhere, said Mr. Sedgewick, would welcome any change that "would convince them that the Canadian Radio Commission were only interested in co-operation with the private station owner and the advertiser to improve broadcasting generally; whereas at the present time the private station owner fees that he can hardly expect the co-operation to which he is entitled when the Commission is competing with him for his livelihood, safe in the knowledge that whether or not they can interest sufficient advertisers to make the station actually pay, the station will continue to operate because it has money expropriated from Parliament to draw on."
The cost of duplicating in Canada the British Broadcasting Commission would approximate $6,105,000 the expenditure in Britain annually. If Canada were able to duplicate the B.B.C. program it would result in a very short time of losing the majority of listeners by turning them over to United States stations. This would result in losing a very substantial amount of money in this country, said Mr. Sedgewick, as advertisers in Canada, selling Canadian-made goods, would be quick to take advantage of advertising over United States stations.

DURHAM TORIES NAMING ELLIOTT

County Convention Will Be Held at Orono This Evening.

PREMIER TO SPEAK.

Milton J. Elliott of Bowmanville, former warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, is expected to be the unanimous choice of Durham Conservatives at their nominating convention at Orono this evening.
Information received by The Examiner from prominent Conservatives in the adjoining riding indicated that there was not a sign of opposition to Mr. Elliott who, as the party's candidate in 1929, polled 5,850 votes to the 5,860 that re-elected W. J. Bragg.
Premier Henry will be the principal speaker at to-night's convention.

THIRD CANDIDATE BEING RUMORED

Supporters of Hy. Curtis Dissatisfied Over Liberal Convention.

RAW DEAL ALLEGED.

Possibility of a third candidate in Northumberland was intimated to The Examiner by Reeve C. H. Curtis of Warkworth in a telephone conversation this morning.
"And is this third candidate likely to be C. H. Curtis?" he was asked.
"It might be. That is as far as I want to go now. The Cobourg World telephoned me this morning that they were coming up to see me about it, but I don't know what they want."
Reeve Curtis was one of the nominees at the Liberal convention at Warkworth last Wednesday when Mayor H. N. Carr of Campbellford was chosen as the party's candidate in Northumberland county.
"A lot of the people who supported me at the convention are very much dissatisfied" Reeve Curtis said this morning. "I have had telephone calls from quite a number of them, and others have been to see me. They believe that I got a raw deal. There were more votes on the third ballot than there were on the second, after probably two hundred people had left for home, for it was then nearly six o'clock. The opinion among my friends is that there must have been ballot-stuffing."
Mr. Curtis was asked whether he had talked with any of the officers of the Liberal Association in Northumberland since the nomination, or whether he had made any complaint to them."
"No Sir" he replied, "the association will come to me. I'm not going to them."

UNEMPLOYED PLAN MEETING

Rally is Called for the Market Square on Tuesday Evening.

WANT MORE RELIEF.

A section of the local unemployed is planning an outdoor meeting to-morrow evening on the market square. In seeking permission to hold the meeting, leaders of the group assured Chief Newhall that the conclave will be orderly and well-behaved. It is anything but a May Day demonstration, it was stated.
Several speakers will address the gathering, urging the need for larger relief vouchers, The Examiner was informed. Following the meeting a representative will probably interview the Special Relief Committee in an effort to secure increased vouchers.

Connections Severed With Unity League

EAST WINDSOR, April 30 (CP). —Employees of the Canadian Motor Lamp Co., Limited, have severed relationships with the Workers' Unity League which sponsored the recent strike in the factory.
Fred Boughton, one of the employees, issued the formal statement to-day: "We the undersigned as workers of the Canadian Motor Lamp Co., Ltd., wish here to repudiate any connection with the Workers' Unity League of Canada, who through the Automobile Workers' Union directed our recent strike."
Th estatement is signed by 90 per cent. of the employees, according to Mr. Boughton. The action here parallels that taken by workers in Stratford after they had returned to work.

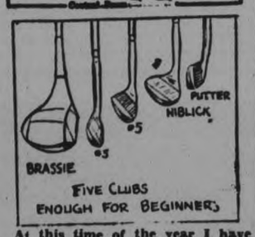
GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON



FIVE CLUBS ENOUGH FOR BEGINNERS

At this time of the year I have a good many players ask about the number of clubs that are absolutely necessary to begin with—people who are just starting the game and not sure about sticking to it, naturally do not want to spend much money on clubs.

That is, they don't want to buy a lot of tools they may not use.

In such cases I generally advise buying only five clubs. Of course, you might use only one club to play the entire game, but taking part in all the major divisions requires a brassie for use off the tee and fairway—a No. 3 iron for long iron shots and short run-up approaches—a No. 5 iron for machie shots, a niblick or mashie-niblick for shots out of trouble, and a putter.

These clubs in any standard make are enough with which to start.

Mel Ott Advances

Melvin Ott of the Giants defied the falling trend of the "Big Six" batting averages yesterday to boost himself into third place in the standing. Hitting three times, once for his fifth homer, in four trips to the plate, Ott sent his average up 41 points from its previous 400 mark. "Pie" Traynor remained idle with .579 average and Carl Reynolds, hitting one in three tries, dropped out of the sextet, to be replaced by his namesake, Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies, while Bill Dickey came back to take the place of Bill Werber.

The Standing:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	%
Traynor, Pirates	6	19	5	11	.579
Reynolds, Red S.	10	40	6	18	.450

BOONE'S FAST-STEPPING CLAN CAPTURES TRIO OF VICTORIES OVER WEEKEND IN LEAGUE RACE

Leafs Mow Down Orioles 5-3 and 9-1 on Saturday for Five Wins to Date.

BEAT BEARS SATURDAY.

Stars Move Into Fourth Place by Defeating Bisons in Double 8-6, 7-5.

(By The Associated Press)

Sweeping a Sunday double bill at Baltimore, Ike Boone's Toronto Maple Leafs had pulled their way up into second place in the International League standings to-day, a game behind Rochester Red Wings.

Backing up excellent pitching by Oscar Fuhr and "King" Cole with heavy and timely stick work, the Leafs mowed down the Orioles, 5-3 and 9-1 to bring their record to date to five victories and three defeats. Rochester has won seven games and lost three.

Moore gave Fuhr a great argument in the opener, but finally succumbed in the ninth, when the Leafs rallied for four runs with Manager Boone's homer as the pivotal blow. The second game was decided in the first inning, when Toronto battered four Orioles' pitchers for eight runs. Cole, a southpaw, stopped the Orioles with three hits and had them shut out until the seven and last frame. Murray (Red) Howell led the Leafs' attack with four straight singles.

Gains Fourth Place

Syracuse moved into fourth place as the Stars tripped Buffalo Bisons twice, 8-6, 6-5. Syracuse jumped into an early lead in each game, but Jimmy McCloskey and Roger Hanlon in the opener and John Merena in the nightcap had trouble stopping the Bisons' late rallies.

Good pitching dominated the Rochester-Albany double - header with the Red Wings taking the first game, 9-0, behind John Berly's eight-hit pitching, and Albany capturing the nightcap, 1-0, as Jimmy Carithers gave Rochester only three hits.

6-4 Win Over Newark

Pete Stack's homer with one on in the eighth gave Montreal a 6-4 victory over Newark Bears in the first game of a bargain bill. But the Bears came back to take the second 4-3, as two errors by Ray Fritz and one by Jimmy Ripple gave them the tying and winning runs in the seventh.

With Sheriff Blake serving up three-hit ball, Toronto whipped Newark 4-1 on Saturday. But the other Canadian team fared badly. With the powerful bat of Fren Sington setting the pace, Albany sent the Royals down to an 8-1 defeat.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

TIGERS DROP 7-1 DECISION RETAIN LEAD

Cleveland Indians Win at Detroit Before Sunday Gathering of 30,500.

BOSTON SOX BEATEN.

Joe Cronin's Senators Score 7-6 Triumph Over Phiadelphia Athletics.

Joe Cronin's rather drastic move a few days ago when he shook up the entire lineup, and benched three veteran regulars in an effort to stir the Senators out of a losing spell, appears to have born some fruit already.

Ossie Bluege is the only one who has remained in the dugout since Joe decided to toss a scare into his squad, but the effect has continued through three straight victorious games and has finally lifted Washington out of the second division The Senators' second 7-6 triumph in succession over Philadelphia Athletics finally hoisted them above the 500 mark and into fourth place yesterday.

But after four other flingers, including the busy Jack Russell, had checked the Philadelphia batters, Cronin smashed a single with runners on second and third and drove in the deciding runs. For Russell it was the seventh mound apearanpce in eleven games.

Leaders Also Win

Despite their victory the Senators couldn't gain much ground in the race as Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees, two of the three clubs who rank above them also won. Cleveland trimmed the league leading Tigers 7-1 before Detroit's largest Sunday baseball gathering in two years, 30,500.

The Ruth-Gehrig-Gomez combination carried the Yanks to a 3-2 triumph over the Red Sox before 50,050 fans. Gomez hurled six hit ball. Ruth tied the score in the eigth with his third circuit drive of the season and Gehrig singled in the winning run in the ninth.

Homer for Simmons

The other American League concontest saw big Jim Weaver of St. Louis hold Chicago's White Sox to four blows, one a homer by Al Simmons, to win 6-2.

SUED FOR HIS CAR

LONDON, Ont., April 28.—(CP)—Less than 12 hours after he had won an automobile in a charity draw last night, O. C. Littleton of London, was sued by an 'informer' in Supreme court. The plantiff is Elma E. Isaac of London who filed a writ against Littleton as soon as the Supreme Court offices opened this morning.

The plaintiff is suing under section 236 of the criminal code for possession of the car which she says is worth $807.

CUBS-GIANTS EASY VICTIMS NATIONAL RACE

Pair of Homers by Gabby Hartnett Fails to Bring Chicago Win Over St. Louis.

MALONE FAILS ON MOUND.

Braves Smack Schumacher Hard in Fifth for 6-4 Victory Over Terrymen.

National League clubs had another home run fiesta as both the the pace setters, the Cubs and Giants, were thoroughly beaten. A pair of homers by Gabby Hartnett failed to bring Chicago a decision over St. Louis as Pat Malone failed to equal Bill Walker's mound work and the Cards pounded out a 9-4 decision. The St. Louis blows included homers by Jim Collins and Buster Mills.

Mel Ott's fifth circuit drive of the season, which put him on even terms with Chuck Klein in the major league race, provided a feature of the Giant-Boston struggle but the Braves won 6-4 by smacking Hal Schumacher for four runs in the fifth. Four lusty swats went sailing over the Pittsburgh fences as the Pirates played their first Sunday home game with 20,000 fans looking on. Gus Suhr and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh and Ivy Shiver and Sylvester Johnson of Cincinnati propelled them. On straightway hitting, however, Pittsburgh had the better of it and gave Red Lucas a 9-4 triumph over his old team.

8-7 Win For Dodgers

Brooklyn won out 8-7 over the Phillies in another of their give-and-take struggles which saw nine pitchers go in and take it for a total of 22 hits.

Standout pitching performances by Gus Bush and Carl Hubbell featured the Saturday program. The neat hurling allowed the Cubs to down St. Louis 7-1, while the Giants hurled back Boston 4-1. In the American "Dusty" Rhodes held the Yankees to seven scattered blows and the Red Sox beat the Yankees 4-2.

BORDER CITY TEAM BEATEN IN THIRD GAME

Commercial Grads Win Women's Cage Title for 13th Consecutive Year.

FINAL COUNT 57-30.

EDMONTON, April 30 (CP) — for the thirteenth consecutive year, Edmonton Commercial Grads Saturday night held the women's basketball championship of Canada.

After winning the first two games in the five-game series, Grads came through Saturday night with a 57-30 victory over Windsor-Walkerville Alumnae last night to make it three games straight and retain their title. Grads won the first game 34-20 and the second, 47-30.

Alumnae Leads Early

A passing game with a decided edge around the basket territory gave Grads their third victory after the Alumnae held the play for the first five minutes of the game and then dropped under a drive by the titleholders.

Grads outscored the Easterns, 10-4, in the first quarter, and at halftime the count was 27-10 for the winners. In the third frame the Alumnae girls could not gain a point, while Grads ran their figure up to 40, and in the last quarter the Alumnae rolled in 11 points, while Grad sharpshooters found the basket to gain another 17.

Gladys Fry, sharp-shooting centre for the Grads, was the high scorer of the game, notching 17 points, while her teammate, Margaret MacBurney followed with 16. The Windsor players spread their points evenly, Wila Hyttenrauch getting nine, while Jennie Golab and Mary Richards followed with 7 each.

Fouls Evenly Divided

Personal fouls were fairly evenly divided, Alumnae getting 13, including 4 by Florence, who was banished, and Grads getting 11.

The Windsor team Sunday night was in Calgary, where an exhibition game with a team of all-stars scheduled for to-night.

VANCOUVER TEAM WINS IN OVERTIME

Murray Patrick Ties Score, Only to Have Winners Rally.

MONTREAL, April 30 (CP)—Despite a movie-like garrison finish by Montreal Nationale, Vancouver Province to-day had a near-strangehold clamped on the Montreal Sportsmen's Cup, emblematic of the senior basketball championship of Canada.

Five seconds to go, black-haired Murray Patrick with a suspense-packed long toss tied the score here Saturday night and sent the second game of the Dominion final into overtime. The Western titleholders, however, called on their reserve strength and triumphed, 43-38.

Title Almost Assured

Coupled with their 49-12 win in the first game on Thursday night, the victory made it practically a certainty the Dominion title would be held on the Pacific Coast for the second year in a row. The third game will be played Monday night with the fourth and fifth, if necessary, Tuesday and Thursday.

Although Victoria Blue Ribbons, last year's champions, have two of their stars, Murray and Lynn Patrick, on the Nationale roster, the third and probably final encounter to-night was expected to finish, with the Vancouver outfit again on the winning end of the score.

Vancouver Has Margin

Montreal last night missed many shots by feet and inches. Vancouver had the margin, however, and it appeared that all the Vancouver quintet has to do is to hold the pell-mell rushes of the fast-breaking Nationale forwards and continue their barrage of sure, deft shots.

THIRD MINER IS KILLED.

NEW WATERFORD, N.S., Apr. 28 (C.P.).—Pinned beneath a huge piece of falling stone, Peter Bolzoni, 49-year-old miner, was instantly killed to-day in the Dominion Coal Company's No. 16 colliery.

His death marked the third fatality in New Waterford's two mines during the last nine days. Accidental injuries claimed the lives of two other workmen in the mines.

Len Minicola Is Victor At Lindsay

Stepping in against Chuck Morton of Toronto, who outweighed him by eighteen pounds, Len Minicolo, Peterborough 141-pounder, pounded out a decision in the main bout of the Lindsay boxing show Saturday evening. They battled five rounds, the last four marked by hard hitting and some smart boxing. Morton was floored once and in distress in the last round, but was too heavy for Minicola to kayo.

The latter received a "shiner" and a cut lip, while Chuck was marked up, also, about the face. The fans found this encounter the highlight on a good card, the scrappy local veteran putting up a fine showing to gain the nod on points, despite the fact that he was overmatched so badly.

THISTLES QUINT WINS FREE-SCORING TUSSLE

Thistles defeated Normals, 35 to 27, in a free-scoring senior cage game at the "Y" Saturday evening, a strong first frame giving them the edge. They led at half-time, 20-12, and both sides tallied 15 the second stanza. Routley and Sager were the scoring aces for the victors, while MacDonald and Cairns were the Normal snipers. The teams:

Normals—Robinson, Seed, Cairns, Dearborn, MacDonald, Jackson, Fraser and Sheppard.

Tihstles—Routley, Hunter, Bancroft, Sager, McLeod and McIntyre.

In an exhibition game, P. C. I. took a 38-20 decision over the All Stars' squad, the winners tossing in two dozen points in the second part to run up the count. There was nothing at stake in this contest, but some nifty shooting and passing was shown.

EMPIRE GAMES TRACK TEAM IS SELECTED FROM PAST RECORDS

Canadian Titles and Trial Performance Will Give Athletes No Preference Except in Marathon—Same Ruling Applies to Boxers.

REINSTATED PROS LIKELY TO BE BARRED

By W. M. GLADISH
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

TORONTO, April 30.—All sorts of "conditions" are to be imposed for candidates for the Canadian team to the second British Empire Games at London, England, August 4 to 11, by the British Empire Games Association of Canada of which William A. Fry of Dunnville, Ontario, is the organizing chairman.

At least two of the stipulations will cause some concern in athletic circles throughout the Dominion. The ruling has just been made by the Canadian B.E.G. Association in connection with the boxing and wrestling trials to be held in Montreal early in July that each branch of the Amateur Union must conduct district eliminations and that entries for the Montreal finals will be limited to two competitors for each weight class from an individual branch, of which there are 10 across the Dominion. As there are eight classes in both boxing and wrestling, the final ring trials in Montreal have a maximum entry list of 320 competitors representing every section of the country.

The Canadian committee has ruled that the Dominion boxing championships to be held in Toronto on May 21, 22 and 23 will have nothing to do with the selections for the British Empire team as no preference will be shown toward any Canadian title winner. Thus, a more or less general practice of previous years in the matter of Olympiads has been tossed into discard. The restriction of entries for boxing and wrestling trials will undoubtedly arouse protests, particularly because Ontario and Quebec have so many aspirants for the team while other provinces have not been so active in the ring sports.

Runners Must Compete

Then there are the special rules for the official marathon trial to be held at Hamilton on June 16 under the auspices of the Hamilton Olympic Club. Taking a leaf out of the experience in selecting Canadian marathoners for the 1932 Olympic games when there was an uproar because the Olympic committee selected a runner on the basis of past performances and required others to compete in an elimination test, the British Empire Games committee has laid down the rule that "Canadian marathon selections will be made on the basis of the order in which contestants finish in the official trial."

It is also required that any marathon candidate for a place on the team must compete in this trial. Still another stipulation is that a prospective member of the Canadian team is to be guided in his athletic competitions from June 16 until the departure of the team from Montreal on July 20 by the Canadian British Empire committee. In other words, the runner cannot compete after earning a place on the team unless he has the permission of the committee. This may prove interesting in view of the fact that the U.S. marathon championship is scheduled to be held one week after the Canadian road trial.

The Canadian committee is at variance in its rules for the selection of track and field athletes for the team, as compared with the requirements for the marathoners. In the track and field department it is ruled that winners of events in the combined Canadian championships and trials to be held at Hamilton on July 13 and 14 will not necessarily be selected. Each competitor in track and field events will be required to furnish details of his six best performances of the past two years and this information will be taken into consideration by the selection committee.

Records Will Count

Thus, while the marathoners for the Canadian team will be chosen in the order in which they finish in the official trial, track and field men will be selected both on their showing in the 1934 Canadian championship meet and on their performances during the past two years. Incidentally, the right is reserved to reject any entry for the track and field trials and the entry feee for each event is 50 cents. Entries close for the marathon trial on June 9, and for the track and field trials on Jone 25, with R. G. Truscott, 212 Wellington St., N., Hamilton, Ontario.

All events are open only to registered amateur athletes who are "nationals" or naturalized subjects and must satisfy the following obligations: 1. Must not be or knowlingly have become a professional in any sport; 2. Must not be or knowingly have received reimbursement or compensation for loss of salary and must sign the following declaration on his honor: "I, the undersigned, declare on my honor that I am an amateur according to the Olympic Rules of Amateurism."

It has already been intimated that no reinstated professional is eligible to represent Canada in the British Empire Games which are listed as International competitions.

(Herb Martin)

The postponed annual meeting of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association will be held on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Delegates will be here from Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, Whitby, Cannington, Norwood and several other clubs in this district.

Several important matters will be discussed at this meeting, besides the election of officers for the coming year.

Local bowlers are asked to keep this date in mind.

On Thursday night of this week the directors of the bowling club are going to put on a smoker in their club rooms. An elaborate program is being arranged and all bowlers and their friends are asked to come on out and enjoy an evening's fun. There will be tables for cards and several other games will be run off.

The carpet bowling will continue to-night at 7.30 p.m.

E. P. L. ORGANIZATION ON TUESDAY EVE AT 8

The annual re-organization meeting of the East Peterborough Baseball League has been called for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Duffus', and officers, club managers and prospective managers are urged to attend. The C.G.E. club has organized and is prepared to enter the E.P.L. if enough other Intermediate squads enter.

Wright's Condition Is Improved To-Day

TORONTO, April 30.— (C.P.)—Further improvement in the condition of Joe Wright, noted Canadian sculler and coach of the Argonaut Rowing Club, was reported to-day at the hospital where he was taken suffering from blood poisoning.

Attending physicians were not prepared to say that the oarsman was yet out of danger. "His condition is fairly good," hospital information desk reported. "He spent a very good night and there is a little change for the better."

Wright was taken to hospital Thursday when blood-poisoning, originating from an inquiry to the hand, caused an internal hemorrhage and consequent loss of blood. He was given three blood transfusions, Lionel Conacher, Toronto, Black Hawks hockey star, George Stockell, Argonaut trainer, and Art Lister, volunteering as donors.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer
Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Monday a.m. and we dropped into Madame Mollee LaMurphy's tearoom for a bowl of her special and a load of her teacup reading. "What," says we; "do you see there that looks like ready cash to us?" The Madame went into her act, a wrinkle of the brow, a squint or two into the mug and finally a sigh big enough to knock over a frame house. "Ha, mon ami," she ha-d, "you ask ze impossible. There ees no what you call cash but in ze work; none of the geek argent. I see plenty of ze sports for you, much work for 'ich you weel be paid—that ees all." Well, that was no bargain, so we queried, "How about laying a couple or three shekels on Horometer to cop the King's Plate?" But no, the Madame couldn't see Horometer romping home for dust. "Non, he weel not be ze victor. I cannot quite make out ze victor's name, but he weel not be Horometer. Maybe, another cup of ze tea and another reading and then I can geeve you ze victor!" But non, we told the Madame, let it slide—sucker season is opening up but not for us yet. However, we may weaken and find out the bronc that'll cop this jog.

Fred Martin and his merry bowlers recently claimed the city five-pin bowling championship and challenged all to a tussle if they disputed the claim. Pronto comes this answer from the gallant pin-smackers from the "Y", who evidently believe in plenty of games: "'On behalf of the Y.M.C.A. bowlers, we accept the challenge appearing a few nights ago in The Examiner. We will meet any team in the city in a 15-game series, 5 games to be played on the Duffus' alleys, 5 on the "Y" alleys, and 5 wherever the leading team chose at the end of the first 10 games. Maybe the challengers will prefer to play the final 5 games in Toronto!" That last rub will make a few faces red, in view of the showing of some of the lads in the Queen City not so long back.

And from the Church Softball League comes the following query (We wont have much work today if the mail holds up): "Why can't an intermediate 'B' softball series be run off in August or September between winners of district league? The Church League and the Southend League are in favor of it. Perhaps this newly-formed Kawartha League and others around Millbrook and Keene might be interested. It could be arranged so that the winner could enter the Provincial 'B' playdowns." Why not, indeed? We'll bite. At least, it's an idea, and when you see an idea in a sports' column—that, my friends, is news!

When a guy deliberately goes out of his way and applies for an umpiring job, he's asking for it, we'd say. Just shows there are birds who can take it and come back for more. Four umps have applied so far for the job of handling the Girls' Softball League games this summer, Ab Frick, Scotty Galbraith, Jim Coursey and Scotty Maudsley. All are experienced. Other applicants had better hop to it if they don't mind being on the spot nightly before a thousand or so of the rabid rooters who spend most of their days thinking up wise cracks to hurl at the luckless officials in the evenings at the Bowl. A Mr. Foster and a Mr. Greenwood have so far applied as caretakers.

Nothing much new in men's softball circles, but things may happen at the next meeting, Wednesday e'en at 7.30 in Duffus'. Meantime, Regent Theatre held a practise at Central tomorrow night at 5.30, and all players wanting a tryout should attend. And the following night at 5.30 in Central, Dunlop Tires will workout with all players being welcome. Brintons appear to have the three Sugar Bowl twirlers lined up this summer, Lefty Sturgeon, Ross Currie and that grand old man of softball, Bill Simmons. This loop should be plenty fast and even this year, but we'd like to see a couple of more entries yet.

From Kingston comes more belated sports' chatter. The writer should have waited a few days till after the O.B.A.A. executive had met Saturday, or didn't he know what was going on again? Anyway, he says if the Ponies remain intact—as he hopes—they shouldn't have much trouble again with Belleville or the Petes in the C.O.B.L. He seems to think the Nats have no one new but Jack Williams—which is wrong. And he adds: "Peterborough will hardly be any stronger than they were last year. They will miss the late lamented Beavis, a smart outfielder and a clever batter; and a couple of others. If Bill Calladine is in pitching condition, he'll help Knotty Lee a lot, but the team as a whole doesn't look ready for the championship just yet."

• • • • • • •

Tut, tut, says we, didn't you see this morning"s O.B.A.A. bulletin of transfers? Here are some of the players granted transfers which might be of interest around the C.O.B.L. territory: Vernon Bishop, Toronto to Napanee; H. E. Grose, Tweed to Napanee; Sig Konopka, Detroit to Peterborough; John Murray, Toronto to Peterborough; J. Mathews, Belleville to Hamilton; and D. Phillips, Picton to Meaford. The two newcomers here can play several positions, but go best in the infield —and rumor has it they can hit like nobody's business! And there will be others in and around Peterborough, besides most of last year's squad, trying out by the end of the week with the Petes.

Anyone thinking of entering a team in the City Baseball League this year should get in touch with Proxy Jack Deannard, or let us know at this office. We can supply necessary information as to the cost, grouping, names of managers, etc. First, we'd like to see the bantam and juvenile sections filled up. Then, the juniors shouldn't have too much trouble getting a good grouping, perhaps a district one. And finally, about four intermediate teams ought to be rounded up to play organized ball with this league. There are plenty of the latter around, but they just play scrub or exhibition games around the town and district. Why not hop in and play in a regular league at no extra cost? The City League expects to have a fine year and the more teams in the merrier. Climb aboard, boys, excursion rates now in force.

Junior League Will Meet In Newcastle

COBOURG, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—A junior baseball loop in this district is now practically certain. It is expected a meeting will be held at Newcastle on May 8 to complete the list of officers and draw up a schedule. The promoters desire to enter teams from Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Whitby and Pickering.

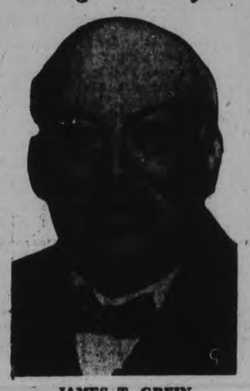
Judge Of Plays



JAMES T. GREIN

One of London's foremost dramatic critics, James T. Grein, is in Ottawa this week to act as judge in the Governor-General's Drama Festival at Ottawa's Little Theatre in which players from every part of Canada compete.

REFUSED TO BELIEVE STORY

BRANTFORD.—Magistrate S. A. Jones to-day declared that he believed the story of the defence to be concoction, and fined Andrew Previdsa, $200 and costs. The defence story was that liquor found on the premises was Liquor Control Board store liquor to which Hungarian medicine had been added. The Crown prosecuted because the liquor was over 90 percent proof spirits.

Magistrate's Court

George Brown of Toronto and his female companion, Alexina Reindean, aged 18, who were arrested early on Thursday morning at a Chinese apartment at 182½ Hunter Street, both pleaded guilty before Magistrate Langley to charges of vagrancy. On their previous appearance they had entered pleas of not guilty.

"If they are permitted to go unsentenced, Peterborough will not see either of them again," said J. A. O'Brien, their counsel, in urging suspended sentence.

"The quicker they can get out of this city the better, and take their other friend along with them," said Chief Newhall.

"They'll leave all right. They don't like Peterborough at all," explained Mr. O'Brien.

TWO ROBBERS GET $14.064

BOSTON.—Two robbers held up a special policeman in the store of Sears, Roebuck and Company today, and escaped with $14.064 in cash and $2.860 in cheques.

A police patrol in an automobile picked up the trail of the bandits and was reported pursuing them into the Roxbury district.

SOFTBALL PRACTICE

Brinton men softballers practise tonight at six at Central, and all players wanting a tryout are advised to beon hand. Mostof the positions on this team are still open.

Fourth Blood Transfusion

Joe Wright Jr., seriously ill from blood poisoning and internal hemorrhages, was given a fourth blood transfusion today. Wright, former holder of the Diamond Sculls, was taken ill last week and has now received four transfusions. Ernest Whelpton, of Argonaut Rowing Club, was the donor today. Doctors were cheered today when it was found Wright slept for two hours last night without being given opiates.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mary E. Pearce,
R.R. No. 11, Peterborough.

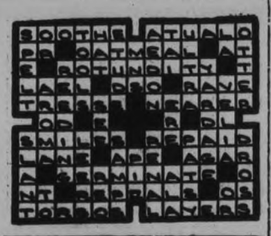
Your sample of writing for analysis suggests that business of a secretarial nature might interest one of your type. The 't' bar crossing shows progress and through this progress you should find happiness. Your disposition is a trifle nervous. You are artistic and your nervous system suffers intolerably when you are unable to express yourself through your art. There seems to be an inexplicable cringing and fear when you make any attempt at self expression. And, as a result of your thwarted ambition you have become embittered with yourself and the world at large. You can, however, overcome this by constant study; through study you will gain much valuable knowledge —confidence will follow and last but best of all you will realize the triumph of your life's ambition. You are affectionate and when you do love you will love sincerely and lastingly.

Mrs. George Fairfax,
Hastings, Ont.

Your handwriting appears to be the correct type with which to impress a softening influence upon your loved ones, especially your husband. I have just delineated his writing, and find that according to graphology, your two types require each other, in order to promote peace. Your are sensitive, and you have a very high sense of honor. You are fond of your home, and seem to enjoy meeting people who are friendly towards you, but if you feel the slightest provocation towards any of them, you will go out of your way, in order to avod meeting them. You have exquisite taste and should be able to design and make your own dresses. Perhaps you have not noticed the fact that you can control others through the power of your eyes. If not, it would be an interesting study for you in the future. You haven't quite as much willpower as you would like, but no doubt if you had more, it would make you appear stubborn. You have a strong and well developed intellect, and you are original in your ideas. If you were in business, you would be successful, because of your thrifty and economical nature. You are trustworthy and dependable. Your birthsign is Aquarius the Man. You are ruled by Uranus. April and August are your most fortunate months. Saturday your lucky day. Your number also is ten.

Miss Mary Carveth,
Indian River, Ont.

Your handwriting illustrates decided qualities. You belong to the business type, and should be the happy possessor of a great deal of executive ability. Selling as in salesmanship, or the promotion of sales should interest you because you exhibit excellent taste and discrimination. You are very progressive and would do much credit to any firm that would have the intelligence and foresight to employ you. Your thoughts are deep, and quite often it is difficult for your friends to understand you. In your love life you would be loyal and true, devout and sincere but you would expect the 'favored one' to show-er affection upon you. There is no half measure for you. It would have to be 'all or nothing. I specified 'salesmanship' above because as you know many women are very adept in this line, and also because I wish you to realize what you may expect in your life, and what your possibilities are. I do hope you will strive faithfully towards a definite goal, for one with such writing as yours; even though you are young, should allow nothing to stand in the way of success.



Miss Cora Farthing,
816 Water St., City.

Your wrting as illustrated on your sample letter for analysis, portrays a quick temper which is very likely to cause you to say and do things, which you are sorry for many, many times. It is really due to impulsive qualities, which as yet you do not seem to know how to control. When working, you would make a lot of fuss about it, but yet not accomplish much. You should try to train yourself to a system of work, and let nothing interfere with the routine which you have set for yourself. I do not mean you are to be stubborn, nor cross if others do try to help you, but just mentally sure of yourself and your plans. Your type as a rule, spend very lavishly when they have money, and skimp on food or other essentials later. You are inclined to be impatient and jealous, and resent being told what you shall do. You may not agree with this delineation of your writing, because it is truthful and meant to help you. In regard to the questions you asked me, the following will answer them as correctly as possible. Your birthsign being Aries the Ram. Your best life mate should be chosen from the sign Sagittarius, which governs all people born between the date of November 23rd and December 22nd. Your correct jewels are diamonds and amethysts, as well as the agate. You are ruled by Mars. June and July are your best months. Tuesday your most fortunate day. You did not give me your year or age so I am unable to set your fortunate number, but it is not absolutely essential. There is one other thing that it would be well for you to remember as regards choosing a mate, and that is: you must be quite sure that you understand his qualifications, for if you marry without a thorough knowledge of the person whom you choose, even though he does answer to Sagittarius as his birthsign. Disaster will surely follow because you, being so impulsive, are very likely to plunge into matrimony without considering every essential fact. As far as a vocation for you I can only suggest housekeeping or clerking in a store as yet. Of course you age may have a great deal to do with your writing, and if so it will change somewhat as you grow older, and no doubt portray a definite characteristic.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, May 1

The planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day must be interpreted as adverse, with strong menace of fraud, loss, misrepresentation, slander and secret enmities, unless extreme precaution and sagacity be exercised. The sinister conditions have peculiar angles to be confronted. Sign all writings with great preacution. Shun speculation.

Those whose birthdav it is should be prepared for a year in which the subtle, secret and probably sinister may have to be dealt with by wariness, shrewdness, vigilance and great acumen. Fraud, loss through speculation, slander, duplicity may be found among the perils. Sign all writings with precaution against the above contingencies and there may be gain in contracts.

A child born on this day should be talented, have a steady and deep mind. It may, however, lean toward craft, subtlety or strategem in advancing its interests.

MEMORIAL TABLET IS DEDICATED AT ST. JOHN'S BY DR. BLAGRAVE

Tablet is to the Memory of Mrs. Isabella Gardiner.

MODEST BRASS PLATE.

In dedicating a memorial tablet to the memory of Mrs. Isabella Gardiner before a large congregation at the morning service at St. John's Church yesterday, Venerable Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave implemented a promise which he made on behalf of the congregation over three years ago.

The memorial—a modest brass plate, which Archdeacon Blagrave believed would have been best liked by Mrs. Gardiner, is appropriately affixed to the new organ of the church, towards which the late Mrs. Gardiner left a handsome bequest. The tablet is inscribed as follows:

"In loving memory of Isabella Gardiner, died March 3, 1931. She remembered liberally in her will, the organ fund and choir and poor fund of this church. The memory of the good is blessed."

Buried In Dublin

Instead of preaching a sermon for the occasion, Archdeacon Blagrave delivered an informal discourse, during which he touched upon the life of Mrs. Gardiner, whose remains he recalled, were buried in Dublin, Ireland alongside of her husband.

Archdeacon Blagrave made reference to Mrs. Gardiner as having been "a very sweet natured Christian woman who possessed innumerable friends through the city embracing all religious denominations". A resident of Peterborough for 27 years, Mrs. Gardiner had interested herself in all activities for the welfare and betterment of society, and was particularly interested, not only in St. John's Church, but the Peterborough Health Association. She also served on the Y.W.C.A. Board.

He related how having been called to the bedside of Mrs. Gardiner he had promised her that he would have a tablet erected in the church in order that future generations might be reminded of her as long as the church should remain.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Calif., April 28.—Several publishers and at least one major feature service are after Jean Harlow's novel, but the blonde star is putting them off. The fact is Jean wants to sell the story to the movies. Moreover she wants to play the leading role.

Jean Harlow

Jean admitted as much to me when I visited her on the set of "100 Percent Pure." She said:

"I've written a script of the story and I'd like very much to play the girl. It would be more of a straight part than I've done yet and would carry more sympathy. There's still some work to be done on the story, but I expect to finish it as soon as this picture is over."

The star, who has more brains under that mop of blonde hair than some people given her credit for, isn't in a rush to make a deal. She knows the exploitation value of a novel by Jean Harlow and she'll probably cash in. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer already has asked to read the story.

CHILDREN ARE

easy to fool, but it pays to answer their questions as truthfully as possible. In the days of silent pictures, John Miljan's step-son was much upset because daddy was always getting whipped in screen fights. John took the easiest way and told him. 'I could really lick those fellows, but you see I get $5 every time I get hit on the jaw."

Came the talkies and pictures didn't have so many fights. John's boy has evidently been thinking it over, for the other night he came out of a theatre looking troubled. John asked him if he didn't like the film.

"Yeah, daddy," said the youngster, "but we don't make so much money any more, do we?"

PERHAPS HE HAS

his tongue in his cheek but Erich Von Stroheim appears to to tell it seriously.

Months ago, he says, a Hollywood seeress predicted the terrible injuries his wife received during a beauty treatment. And she also foretold a critical three weeks' period in Von's life when he probably would commit scicide. If he resisted, she promised good fortune.

The director says he visited the seeress again last week and she told him that the danger time is now started.

COLONEL TIM McCOY

who laid aside his boots and chaps in favor of more modern garb when he abandoned western pictures, nevertheless retains his six-gun in the current Columbia action-drama, "Hold the Press" at the Regent Theatre.

He carries the gun as a reporter on the trail of a story that concerns racketeering, political corruption and murder. McCoy is concerned with an expose that endeavors to rid the city of the "parole racket" whereby paroled prisoners are bled of their money and forced to resume a life of crime.

In his scpporting case are seen Shirley Grey, Henry Wadsworth, Bradley Page, Wheeler Oakman, Jack Long and Oscar Apfel.

PERCY WESTMORE

who knows all about makeup, says that Paul Muni goes in for more realism along this line than anyone since Emil Jannings. This week Muni stopped for a traffic light at the corner of Beverly Boulevard and Vermont. Miguel Gonzalez, a 20-year-old newsboy, was crying his ware. The star, who is about to play a Mexican in "Border Town" saw just the type he had been looking for. He got out of his car and hired the boy on the spot. The astonished newsboy now will work for six weeks as a sort of valet for Muni. The star will use him as a model for makeup.

the same sort of stickler for detail, achieved a climax when he was making "Sins of a Father." The script called for him to appear as a down-and-outer. Instead of letting the studio supply a ragged outfit, he made a pilgrimage to the midnight missions. That evening, an amazed bum traded suits with a well-dressed foreigner, pocketed a $5 tip and shuffled quickly away before the stranger came to his senses.

will take up horse-raising on a commercial basis. Several weeks ago the star had no thought of a hobby. He bought nine horses for $400 and sent them out to his ranch. In 30 days they were so much improved in condition that the star sold five of them for his original investment and a $50 profit. He now plans to buy 20 more and to establish a stable to rent to motion picture companies.

TRENT RIVER

Prospects for several new summer homes this year look good. Mr. W. G. McLaughlin of Havelock is having one erected on his lot recently purchased from Mr. Thomas J. Brown along the Trent shores east of Mr. Ken Greens' cottage. Work has commenced. Messrs. W. G. Barrie, Melville Wight and Harold Yeo (Havelock) have the contract. Others will follow as negotiations are under way for further possible sites along the Trent.

Mr. Percy Wilson of Norwood is operating his threshing outfit for clover seed in the Donegal district.

Visitors with Mr. John Lawson and sister, Mrs. John Free, Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson (formerly Mrs. Vanderberg, sister of Mr. Lawson and Mrs. Free), and Mrs. Nancy Clark, also a sister of Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Thompson and family, Mr. Leslie McMillan of Norwood Road, Miss Reta Longmuir of West Seymour were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Garneau have as their visitors Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones of Marmora, Mr. and Mrs. S. Rylott, Mrs. Harry Pollock and little son, Robert Bruce, of Havelock.

Your Health

by DR LOGAN CLENDENING

So often a person says, "I wake up just as tired as when I went to bed."

An inquiry will often disclose that troublesome dreams persisted during the night. In other words, the implication is that the brain failed to stop functioning as a thinking apparatus during the hours of sleep.

Such statements are familiar in the experience of every physician. The story will rarely be heard from one who makes a living by manual labor; it will be almost entirely confined to those who perform mental work, who are extremely nervous, or who worry a great deal over the everyday incidents of life.

Fatigue should be divided into two classes, physical and mental. For practical purposes the two can be differentiated by a very simple test.

Physical fatigue is characterized by sound sleep which completely refreshes the individual. Mental fatigue, on the other hand, will be recognized by broken sleep, possibly dreams, tiredness on awakening.

It is important to understand this difference so that those who suffer from mental fatigue may take the necessary steps to correct it. The common causes are too much responsibility, worry, anxiety, fear, anger, sorrow, excitement, or any of the major emotions to which people are exposed.

The great weakness of today is hurry. A driving ambition to succeed and outstrip one's fellows. Many do not possess the necessary stamina to keep up the pace, and somewhere between the third and the fifth decade in life, begin to show unmistakabe symptoms of nervous exhaustion and often of high blood pressure.

Most of us are familiar with the person who goes through life like a human dynamo, constantly eager to do more; never completely satisfied with the day's accomplishments; talks "shop" at home and with all his social acquaintances; works every day and often at night; takes a vacation in a high powered automobile, driving five to six hundred miles a day, and returns home more tired than when he left.

I can hear, "Yes, that's my John."

The explosion comes always at the most inopportune time—just when John is most needed in the business. "It is simply not possible to stop and take a rest now. Can't I wait until next summer, doctor? I promise you I will rest then as long as you suggest." Just after the holidays the obituary notices record John's passing from the great disease—high blood pressure and apoplexy.

While the cause of high blood pressure is far from proved, it is agreed that once the signs appear, life should be ordered on a quieter and less competitive basis.

The story of Ezra Jones speaks for itself:

"I just heard that old man Jones died yesterday."

"Yes that's right."

"Rich old cuss, wasn't he?"

"Surely was."

"Wasn't very old, was he?"

"No, just 55."

"Looked older, didn't he?"

"Surely did—everybody thought he was 70."

"Promised he would go fishing with me last summer but he never got around to it."

"That's tough."

"How much did he leave?"

"Every durned cent he had."

PAYROLLS INCREASED.

NORTH BAY.—The monthly payroll of the Canadian Pacific Railway car shops here will be increased, with workers being given 14 instead of 12 days per month, starting May 1. This is the second increase this year. The car and locomotive shop payrolls have been increased by $2,940 per month this year.

RACE MEET IN KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Ont., April 30. (CP) The Kingston Driving Club is arranging for a meet here on June 4, which will be Kingston's holiday in honor of the King's birthday. There will be three classes, 2.16, 2.20 and 2.26 for purses of $200 each. The Kingston horsemen will send representatives with other border city and town delegates to interview the Minister of Customs regarding the lifting of the ban of American racehorses visiting Canada during the season.

PATRICK COLLINS

DOWNEYVILLE, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—Patrick Collins died at his home here early Sunday morning following a short illness from a stroke. He leaves to mourn the loss, his wife, and one brother, James of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, to St. Luke's Church and Cemetery for burial.

FRANK H. KAVANAGH.

NORWOOD, April 30.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — Frank H. Kavanagh, a well known resident of this district, died at his home, lot 5, con. 8, Dummer township, Saturday morning, April 28th, in his 75th year.

The funeral will be held from his residence Monday afternoon, April 30th, and will be in charge of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 522.

MRS. ALFRED HARRIS

KEENE, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The death of Jane Harris occurred on Saturday morning at her home in Villiers, at the age of 73 years. She was a life-long resident of Otonabee and a daughter of the late James Dickson and Jane Swanston. The deceased leaves to mourn the loss: her husband, Alfred Harris, and one brother, James Dickson of Otonabee.

The funeral will be held this afternoon (Monday) at 2 p.m. from the family residence to Keene Cemetery for interment. Rev. J. S. Ferguson of Keene United Church officiating.

WENTWORTH GRAY

MILLBROOK, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of Wentworth Gray, which took place from his late residence, King street, on Friday, April 27, at 2.30 p.m., was one of the largest ever held in the community, the entire countryside and many outside points from a wide radius, being represented.

Deceased was born in Clarke township sixty-five years ago, and was a son of the late John Gray and Mary Hall. For the past thirty-three years Mr. Gray had resided in Millbrook, and in pursuing his calling as a drover had become well and favorably known over an extensive area of the countryside. Thirty-six years ago the marriage of Wentworth Gray and Sarah Cathcart, of Kendal, took place, and after one year on a farm near the Marsh, west of the village, they removed to Millbrook where they had since made their home.

A kindly disposition, a readiness to help in any time of need, and absolute integrity of character, were features of Mr. Gray's entire life, and evidence of likeableness with which he was regarded was in the fact that the home could not accommodate the large number who gathered for the last rites for the deceased, and over one hundred cars were in the funeral cortege that followed his remains to their final resting place.

For some time past Mr. Gray had not been in good health, serious complications developing following a cold which was contracted several weeks ago while taking a load of stock to Toronto, his decease taking place in the early morning hours of Wednesday after an illness in which severe suffering had been endured. He is survived by his widow, three sons, Dr. T. Allin, of Victoria, B.C., Henry and George at home and by two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Acton (Gladys) of Detroit, and Maretta, of Reaboro; three children, Maurice, Cecil, and Kathleen, were previously deceased. Other immediate surviving relatives are two sisters, Mrs. J. Moffatt, of Toronto, and Mrs. J. Drake, of Akron, Ohio, and one brother, John of Frobisher, Sask. Another brother, Walter, of Pontypool, and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Dorsay, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Jos. Drake, of Wadsworth, Ohio, predeceased Mr. Gray. There are nine grandchildren.

The funeral service was in charge of Rev. William Simpson, B.A., rector of the parish of Cavan, assisted by Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church, and Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., pastor of St. Andrew's United Church. The pall-bearers were Messrs. P. Stinson, G. E. Burnham, T. H. Aiken, Stanley and William Gray, and Lorne Giddy (Port Hope). Interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery, Millbrook.

A few of the many relatives who were here for the funeral were Mrs. Acton of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Drake, of Akron, and Mrs. Jos. Stauffer, of Wadsworth, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. J. Moffatt, Mrs. George Smith, and Mrs. Varcoe, of Toronto; Mrs. Jackson, of Peterborough, and Wiliam Lunn, of Peterborough.

Chess teams representing Norfolk, England, playing at home, and Gloucestershire, playing in Bristol, telephoned their moves in an inter-city contest.

"—and I learned about women from her!"

"Yes, Dolly, I tuned in the Pompeian program last night to enjoy Stephen Leacock and those rollicking Russian Balalaikas, but until I heard Elena Murdock on this program I never knew that Canadian girls had complexions that were different from those of any girls in the world."

"Why, of course, silly, that's why the new Pompeian Beauty Powder is becoming such a favorite. I have one of the new beautiful pencil-blue and silver $1.00 boxes on my dresser right now."

"The New Pompeian Beauty Aids have been created expressly for the Canadian Debutante"

Hear ELENA MURDOCK, and the POMPEIAN RUSSIAN BALALAIKA ENSEMBLE every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night at 10.35 over CFRB in a program featuring STEPHEN LEACOCK on Monday and Friday nights; and, on Wednesday nights, MONA CLARK, editor of "Beauty." GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

F.O.B. shipping point—Wheat, carlots, 77c to 79c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Heavier receipts heralding the inauguration of increased production, prices on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market declined last week.

Fresh No. 1 butter in carlots or less finished the week at 21½c to 21¾c a pound, as compared with the previous week's closing price of 24c a pound. Receipts totalled 8,901 boxes against 5,911 the previous week.

Arrivals of cheese showed a substantial increase, a total of 1,196 boxes being received in comparison with only 367 boxes the week before. Prices dropped ½c to 10½c a pound for fresh Ontario No. 1 cheese. Summer Ontario cheese is gradually going off the market.

Eggs were also lower, graded shipments in carlots or less selling at 19c to 19¼c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18¼c for A-medium, 17c to 17¼c for B and 16c for C. Egg receipts were 19,381 cases against 15,383 cases the week before.

Potatoes remained firm at 95c to $1 for Quebec per 80-lb. bag, while New Brunswick Mountains sold at $1 to $1.05 per 80-lb. bag, Prince Edward Island Mountains were $1.20 to $1.25 per 90-lb. bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat swept swiftly upward 2 cents a bushel Saturday on broad buying that accompanied wide spread drought damage reports from the Northwest and Southwest as well.

Active speculative competition for limited offerings of wheat took place and most of the maximum gain was held despite much realising of profits and notwithstanding downturns of securities. Advices from sections of the Red River Valley, North Dakota, said 40 to 50 per cent. of spring wheat had been blown out of the ground, or else covered with dust to such a depth that receding would be imperative.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅜c to 1⅛c above Friday's finish; corn, ¼c to 1c up; oats, ¼c to ⅝c advanced; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 20c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 30 — Weather and export sales of Canadian wheat played the major role in boosting wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange on Saturday for net gains of ½c to ⅝c.

May wheat closed at 65½c, July at 66¼c, and October at 68¼c. Temperatures in Western Canada were abnormally high and practically no rain fell. Blowing of the past two days has created a serious condition over a large part of the spring wheat belt, it was reported.

There was a fair amount of selling on the Winnipeg market, with some of the offerings credited to the Government agency, but support easily took care of the liquidation.

Cash grain spreads closed unchanged and coarse grain prices were generally higher with wheat.

$160,000 LOSS AS ARMOURIES BURN IN DUNDAS

Roar Like Thunder Wakens Nearby Woman Who Gives Alarm.

200 UNIFORMS LOST.

Firemen Constantly Endangered As Heat Explodes Stored Ammunition.

DUNDAS, Ont., May 1 (CP)—The Dundas Armouries were levelled today by flames which swept through the 75-year-old structure from an ammunition store room. Loss was tentatively estimated at $160,000.

A noise like thunder preceded the flames, according to Mrs. F. Wield, first to notice the flames. Her home is 50 feet from the barracks. Awakened, she looked out the window and saw flames shooting from the room of the adjacent building. She called the telephone operator and sent in an alarm.

Lives of firemen were continuously in danger as the heat from the fire exploded bullets stored in various rooms in the Armouries. In the store room where the fire was believed to have originated there was a quantity of .303 calibre rifle bullets and 300 uniforms.

When the fire was brought under control at dawn to-day, only the officers' Mess was still standing.

Trophies Lost

In the Sergeants' quarters were stored some of the most prized trophies of the regiment, and the loss was heavy. Cases of trophies won in a period of 60 years were melted to an unrecognizable mass. Some of the plate was saved, however, Col. E. H. Greenwood, Captain E. Wright, Sergeants J. Baker and S. Grant rushing into the building and carrying out whatever they could grasp. Through their efforts some of the regiment's records were saved.

Sergeant Ed Mason was the last person to leave the building last night, and declared to-day he patrolled the structure before departing. Everything was in order then.

The flames gained such headway that only the east section of the structure could be saved. This wing was built about 32 years ago and housed the Officers' Mess and Orderly Room.

Rifles in the Orderly Room escaped damage except from smoke and water.

EDMONTON GIRL IS THREATENED

Note to Anglican Clergyman Demands $5,000 to Halt Kidnapping.

POLICE HAVE CLUE.

EDMONTON, May 1 (CP). — A threat to kidnap Miss Margaret Comyn-Ching, 21-year-old daughter of Rev. J. M. Comyn-Ching, to-day was being investigated by Edmonton city police.

The threatening note demanded $5,000 as the price of quitting the kidnap plans. Police officials, while declining to discuss the case, are believed to know the identity of the person who sent the note.

The Anglican minister declined to divulge any details of the extortion plot. Other members of the family, on advice of police, also keep silent.

Several telephone calls are known to have been made to the Comyn-Ching home advising as to how the money should be paid. Mr. Comyn-Ching was advised by police to show a willingness to pay the amount as an aid to police in effecting an arrest.

CHISEL WOUND IS FATAL TO CRISFIELD POLICEMAN

CRISFIELD, Md., May 1 (A.P.).—Without regaining consciousness, Patrolman Harry Daugherty of Crisfield died early to-day in the hospital here of chisel wounds, inflicted when he sought to arrest a Negro Sunday night.

The Negro, who was identified by State's Attorney John B. Robins as Howard McClelland, alias Harry Flemming, was held in the Baltimore City Jail, being rushed there for safe keeping, following his arrest yesterday.

A formal charge against the Negro had been withheld pending the outcome of Daugherty's wounds.

Reward of $2,500 for Genuine Performance Famous Indian Rope Trick Finds no Takers

LONDON, May 1.—(C. P. Cable)—The Occult Committee of the "Magic Circle" today offered a reward of $2,500 for a genuine performance of the famous Indian rope trick in which a fakir is supposed to fling a rope into the air, snub it to nothing and have an assistant climb it.

The committee which met here last night reported it had conducted a long investigation into claims of persons who said they had seen the trick performed and had reached the conclusion the feat never had been and never would be accomplished.

The chairman of the committee suggested the "Magic Circle" might just as well have offered $25,000 or $250,000 for all the chance there was of anyone claiming the money.

Lord Samphill, president of the circle, said the committee was rendering a public service, since firm belief in the trick persisted. Lord Halifax, former viceroy of India, wrote he had made many unsuccessful attempts to see it done.

Former Warden Of United Counties Chosen Candidate

Milton Elliott Chosen Tory Candidate in Durham.

PREMIER SPEAKS.

Can't Disassociate Liquor Traffic From Administration.

(By A Staff Reporter)

ORONO, May 1—Milton J. Elliott, former Warden of the united counties and a young farmer living on the outskirts of Bowmanville, was the unanimous choice of Durham Conservatives at their convention here last night to select a candidate for the provincial elections.

The town hall was crowded with an attendance of about seven hundred men and women from all parts of the riding, but chiefly from the southern municipalities. James Paul of Cavan Township was chairman.

The presence of Premier George S. Henry contributed a potent attractive force to the convention which was one of the largest in years.

Hon. Mr. Henry devoted most of his address to a review of the finances of the province, an accounting of his stewardship during the last four years, with an outline of the proposed beer measure which was approved during the recent session of the Legislature.

Not a ripple of dissent emphasized the convention's unanimity in renewing the Conservative party's confidence in the candidature of Milton Elliott, whose entry into the provincial arena of politics in 1929 missed success by the narrow margin of ten votes. He polled 5,850 to the 5,680 which elected W. G. Bragg, Liberal, by a majority of ten.

Mr. Elliott was proposed by Reg Hayden of Port Hope and A. E. Billett of Hampton, Darlington Township.

When no other names were submitted to the chairman, and Mr. Hayden suggested that the nomination be made unanimous, the major business of the evening was completed in a scant five minutes.

COMB CHICAGO FOR DILLINGER

Check-up on All Gang Haunts Fails to Reveal Clue.

GUNSMITH ARRESTED.

CHICAGO, May 1 (AP)—Police dug deep into gang and haunts today to find John Dillinger.

Convinced the slippery desperado has taken refuge in one of the numerous hideouts his gang is reputed to have here, the authorities combed the city, but had found no trace of him.

Definite identification of Dillinger as one of the four gunmen who disarmed three policemen early yesterday morning led to the belief that the notorious outlaw was hiding in Chicago.

The whereabouts of Dillinger's diminutive machine-gunning pal, George (Baby Face) Nelson, identified by police as another of the four, also was unknown.

Elsewhere along the "Dillinger Front" developments were few and comparatively quiet during the past twenty-four hours.

Federal agents said one source of machine gun supply for the Dillinger gang had been stopped in the arrest of H. S. Lebman, San Antonio, Tex., gunsmith, who confessed he had dealt with Dillinger's mob.

KIRK IN COURT AS HIS LAWYER BEGINS APPEAL

Fights Three Year Term for Conviction on Manslaughter Charge.

DEATH OF GIRL'S FATHER.

Counsel Opens Case With Review of Youthful Prisoner's Past.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—Judgment was reserved by the Appellate Court to-day in the appeal of Creighton "Curly" Kirk against a conviction on a charge of manslaughter and a sentence of three years in penitentiary imposed by Mr. Justice H. T. Kelly.

Kirk was alleged to have struck William Sim, middle-aged father of his fiance, causing injuries that resulted in death.

TORONTO, May 1. (C.P.). — Creighton R. Kirk listened from the prisoner's dock in the Ontario Court of Appeal to argument of his move against a conviction on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of William Sim, father of his fiancee.

Upon his conviction Kirk was sentenced by Mr. Justice H. T. Kelly to three years' imprisonment, and has since been in custody. In his notice of appeal, Kirk asked permission to be present during the argument of his case.

Wilfred Heighington, K.C., counsel for Kirk, opened his argument by giving the court a description of the appellant and his past. He outlined the events which led to the altercation resulting in the death of Sim.

At one time Sim had requested the youth to keep away from his apartment, saying the late house were getting on his nerves, Mr. Heighington recalled. On the night

MARKED IMPROVEMENT WRIGHT'S CONDITION

TORONTO, May 1.—(CP)—Marked improvement was shown today in the condition of Joe Wright, Jr., noted Toronto oarsman confined to hospital with blood-poisoning and hemmorrhages. A fifth blood transfusion was administered early in the day.

Unless unforeseen complications set in, the captain of the Argonaut Rowing club should be well on the road to recovery within a few days, hospital authorities insisted.

BAKING TRADE COMES BEFORE STEVENS PROBE

Vice-President of Midland Mills Presents Eight Point Solution.

MANY REMEDIES NEEDED.

Claims Chain Stores Have Hurt Bakers But Also Prevented Mill Monopoly.

OTTAWA, May 1.—(CP)—An eight-point solution to the difficulties of the baking industry with a view to bringing order out of the chaos into which it had been precipitated was placed before the Steven's committee on mass buying and price spreads here today by R. J. Pinchin, vice-president of the Copeland Flour Mills, Ltd., of Midland, Ont.

Advocating the complete separation of the milling industry from the baking industry, Mr. Pinchin said, either the 'mill-bakery threat' to the industry would continue until 2,700 independent bakery units were slowly squeezed to the point of complete extermination at a staggering cost to be paid ultimately by the consuming public, or immediate steps must be taken to counteract its power."

Mr. Pinchin had no fault to find with milling companies that went into the baking industry for the purpose of processing their own products; but the evil arose when companies began to acquire independent bakeries, purchasing them at excessive prices, and entering into competition with one another in a field whose consumption was already determined.

The Chain Stores Part.

While chain stores had contributed to some of the bakers' difficulties, nevertheless they had also something in their favor, for, said Mr. Pinchin, they, together with the independent bakers, had prevented the establishment of a monopoly by the mill-controlled companies.

Presenting his eight-point solution, Mr. Pinchin said that the baking industry must be restored to its status as a local, independently operated business, with the utmost despatch consistent with the minimum disruption to the industry's activities.

Addition to this restoration Mr. Pinchin recommended other points as follows:

"There must be, ultimately, a complete severance of any direct connection between mills and bakeries which has had in the past or may have in the future the effect of controlling bakery operating policies.

"Mill bakery subsidiaries should not be allowed to dispose of existing plants or rent same at a nominal charge, to be operated by new tenants or owners, except on a basis which represents a capital investment at least relative to the independent units tributory thereto. Failing this, due consideration should be given to a policy of permanently dismantling such plants as they fall back on the market.

"Capital re-organization of millmaker subsidiaries designed to reduce fixed interest and depreciation charges for the purpose of securing an operating advantage over the independent units tributory.

Summer Coal Prices Announced In City

If winter had lingered just a few days longer some of the neighbors could have bought their split ton orders of coal at the summer prices which went into effect to-day, $14 for the egg and nut sizes, and $14.25 for stove.

Just when the consumer gets a break from the dealer the weather man finally comes to town with bluebird sunshine, flowers, buds, hungry trout, and the Spring feeling, and the populace turns its back on the coal bin. Some of those who still have healthy cheque books will of course lay in a stock of fuel right off the reel, but after what seemed an eternity of ash-sifting other folks are going to take time out for a couple of months at least, realizing that the $14 price is not stationary, but will gradually increase as the summer wears on to the sub-zero quotations.

Anyway the new coal prices, the same as last May's, afford a means of chisselling a few dollars off the yearly budget. Meanwhile there are B.V.D.'s and shorts and things like that to be stocked up against the days when the mercury plays around the long-deserted heights at the top of the column.

An Oil Cure

NEWCASTLE, Pa., May 1.—(C.P.). — Castor oil—the old-fashioned yellow kind that tastes like axle grease — is Mayor Charles B. Mayne's remedy for those arrested too frequently for intoxication.

The sentence is, five fluid ounces.

One of the guilty ones replied, "D— if I'll serve 30 days; where's the bartender?"

After taking the "cure" he asked for a "cracker."

BANKING TRUST MUST BE BROKEN TERMED RACKET

Many-sided Indictment Against Bank-Controlled Money Made by Lawyer.

McGEER PROBE WITNESS.

Declares Bankers Manipulate Currency to Detriment of Humanity.

OTTAWA, May 1 (C.P.).—"We must break the money trust or the money trust will break us," the House Banking Committee was advised to-day by Gerald Grattan McGeer of Vancouver, member of the British Columbia Legislature.

A many-sided indictment against the gold standard, banker-controlled money system in Canada and other countries was levelled by the fiery, dark-haired lawyer. The issue was simple: "the right of self-government or money dictatorship."

National Bank.

Before a crowded committee room the British Columbian proposed a national bank of wide powers to finance from public credit and free from interest charges all public enterprises and social services. In addition, it would assist in development of internal and external trade while being a repository for savings.

The McGeer bank would have a taxation department with power to levy taxes so as to prevent centralization of wealth. A department of economic control would keep prices, wages, investments and distribution of wealth within the bounds of reason.

"Can you conceive of anything more ridiculous," asked the lawyer-economist, stepping close to the committee members, "than to give bankers the right to print money and then for the Government to exchange interest-bearing bonds for that printing press money?"

"This is what you call sound money," exclaimed Mr. McGeer, telling of a man selling a Dominion

Condition Of Fowler Grown More Serious

The condition of Melville Fowler, 37-year-old Smith Township farmer, has grown worse, hospital authorities stated this afternoon.

Since he was admitted to Nicholls Hospital at midnight on Saturday after the buggy in which he had been driving towards Bridgenorth was demolished when struck by an automobile on Chemong Road, the critically injured man has lain in an unconscious condition. Besides other injuries he sustained a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Fowler, who is unmarried, lived with his widowed mother, Mrs. Annie Fowler, at Bridgenorth. He has one sister, Mrs. Preston of Omemee, and two brothers, Marcus Fowler of Smith Township and Elwin Fowler of Camrose, Alberta.

77 Degrees In Shade Lowest In Night 42

Seventy-seven degrees in the shade was the official maximum thermometer reading recorded here early this afternoon, with a minimum overnight reading of 42 degrees.

To-day's maximum temperature, which is five degrees in excess of the highest reading throughout yesterday, gives May Day the added distinction of being the warmest day during the year. During the past month an average rainfall of 2.70 inches was recorded, which is stated by Mr. Peters to be "fair" for the month of April.

HAVANA SCENE OF WORST RIOTS MANY ARE SHOT

Trouble Expected at Rouyn and Toronto Fails to Materialize.

GERMANY HAS HOLIDAY.

French Police Keep Upper Hand of Reds in Paris City.

(By the Canadian Press)

Canada's May Day celebrants held peaceful and quiet demonstrations today with no disorders reported early this afternoon. At Rouyn, Que., where trouble had been expected, an augmented police force stood on guard but had nothing to do. Marchers from Amos, 70 miles away, arrived but started no trouble.

At Toronto, a large parade was scheduled for the late afternoon, but the paraders had been warned by police there must be no disorder or interference with traffic. Red flags were flying from two schoolhouse poles in the area when the children arrived, but officials of the schools said they had apparently been flown for a joke. An explosion wrecked a west-end house, and Father Michael Gregory, Ukrainian Catholic priest, told police he believed the blast was a Communistic attempt on his life.

Stratford had expected a little difficulty with a large parade scheduled although it had been forbidden by police. However, the citys workers went to their benches as usual today and all was orderly.

Police in Control

Stringent police precautions signalized the world-wide celebrations of May Day.

While radical workers organisations had called for unprecedented demonstrations in flaming manifestoes, the situation at noon indicated that no tremendous disturbances were likely.

The sole danger point at that time appeared to be in Havana, where several persons were reported shot down in the midst of a Communist demonstration in midtown.

In other lands, however, the demonstrations assumed the characteristics of a parade staged in Tokyo where 7,000 demonstrators marched under the direction of 3,000 police.

LEAGUE IGNORES JAP OBJECTIONS

Will Continue to Push Its Work of Collaborating in Reconstruction of China.

BRITISH PRESS UNEASY.

(By Albert W. Wilson, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 1 (AP) — The League of Nations, ignoring Japan's objections to its activities in China, is determined to push forward its work of collaborating in the country's reconstruction, The Associated Press learned to-day.

The League's London headquarters made the strand know to-day in view of the declaration of Sir John Simmon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, that so far as the British Government is concerned the incident provoked by Japan's restatement of her China policy is closed.

British official circles backed up this attitude, pointing out that Sir John,—who is a member of the League of Nations Council—emphatically denied the new Japanese pronouncement would prohibit the employment of foreign advisors by China.

It is accepted here that Japan has officially withdrawn from the "hands-off China" position voiced by a Foreign Office spokesman April 17, and that Tokyo's position is correctly stated in a later note of interpretation delivered to Great Britain's "resolved to assist to the utmost" in international co-operation—was cited as significant today.

MAY DAY BLAST WRECKS HOUSE IN QUEEN CITY

Bricks Hurled Through Nearby Window Land in Baby's Crib.

TOT JUST BEEN MOVED.

Body of Bomber Thought in Wreckage—Priest Fears Plot on His Life.

TORONTO, May 1 (CP)—A violent blast, set by unknown hands, shattered a vacant dwelling shortly before dawn to-day, hurling bricks and debris into rooms of a neighboring home and narrowly missing a sleeping baby.

Bricks and jagged pieces of glass showered into the bedroom of a house where Mr. and Mrs. Charles Templeton and their baby daughter were sleeping. The baby had been removed from its crib a few minutes before in an effort to quiet its crying. Several large bricks settled in the empty crib.

While firemen, called to fight the ensuing blaze in the shattered house, searched the debris for the body of the perpetrator of the explosion, which they thought might be buried there, police learned from Father Michael Gregory, Ukrainian Catholic priest and rector of St. Joseph's Church, that he believed the blast was a May Day Communistic attempt on his life. The priest lives next door to the building where the explosion was set.

Spurts of flame followed in the wake of the blast that rocked the neighborhood, smashed out both sides and the rear of the building and tossed bricks and debris for more than 100 yards.

Hundreds Watch Fire.

Templeton, when he found his wife and baby were uninjured, rushed to his window and saw flames licking up the side of the house. He 'phoned in the alarm while nearby residents, attracted by the blast, gathered by hundreds around the wrecked dwelling.

It was half an hour before firemen, pouring water from two lines of hose into the blazing wreckage, had the fire under control. When danger of further explosions was past, firemen were sent in among the wreckage to search for a body believed buried there. No trace of a body was found.

At the head of the stairs they found a five-gallon can which had contained gasoline. Attached to it was a nine-foot cable which, it was thought, might have been used as a wick to the gasoline bomb.

SEEK TO AMEND ORIGINAL CLAIM IN YOUNG CASE

Hearing is Postponed Until Fall Assizes by Mr. Justice McEvoy.

NOT VALIDLY DISMISSED

Counsel for City Not Prepared to Proceed With Amended Claim.

Trial of Dr. T. W. H. Young's claim for $6,126 against the City of Peterborough as arrears of salary as city physician was adjourned here yesterday afternoon at the non-jury sitting of the Supreme Court by Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy until the Fall Assizes.

Postponement of this feature case among the seven civil actions listed for trial came when Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., counsel for Dr. Young, sought to amend his original claim against city to include the claim that Dr. Young was not validly dismissed from his office as Medical Officer of Health.

R. S. Robertson, K.C., counsel for the city with City Solicitor J. R. Corkery, stated that he was taken completely by surprise by this request of Mr. Gordon's to bring a new claim into the case, that he was prepared to defend the original claim for arrears of salary, but that the new claim concerning the validity of Dr. Young's discharge from office was wholly new and should be treated as a separate case to be tried at a later time.

Pay Costs of City

Mr. Gordon urged that notice had been given of the amendment to his claim previously and the city should have been prepared to defend. It was argued that his new claim was too indefinite and should be more clearly defined. Mr. Gordon requested time to do this and this request was granted, but his client must pay the city's court costs for yesterday.

W. F. Huycke, as president of the local Bar Association, welcomed Mr. Justice McEvoy on this his first official visit to Peterborough.

Irene Nichols' suit for alimony from her husband, Gordon C. Nichols, of Peterborough, was also adjourned until the Fall Assizes when Mr. Justice McEvoy's attempt to gain a settlement of the case failed. He held a private conversation with Mr. Gordon, Mrs. Nichols' counsel, and J. A. O'Brien, Mr. Nichols' counsel, in his chambers without securing a satisfactory settlement of the case. No evidence was taken in the open court.

FATHER IS READY TO PAY RANSOM

Authorities Withdraw From Kidnapping Case of June Robles.

NOT HAMP NEGOTIATIONS.

TUSCON, Ariz., May 1 (A.P.). — The kidnappers of six-year-old June Robles were free to-day to negotiate for a $15,000 ransom without interference from authorities.

Her father, Fernardo Robles, issued an announcement to the kidnappers saying he was ready to meet fully their demands and that, at the family's request, official investigation had been stopped to permit unhampered negotiations.

Grandfather Returns.

Bernabe Robles, reputedly wealthy grandfather of the child, returned from a second trip across the border to Santa Ana, Sonora, where he told a hotel proprietor he had sought the advice of Manuel Gamboa, recognized in that area as a seer.

Alphonso Aguirre and Henry Dalton, Tuscon City councilman, who accompanied Bernabe Robles into Sonora, differed, however, on the value of Robles' activities below the border.

"The baby is safe," Aguirre said, but he declined to disclose the source of his information.

"We have been on a wild goose chase," said Alton. "There is absolutely no news of June."

The announcement authorities had withdrawn from the case came after a conference between them and Fernando Robles.

Meighen Resigns His Post on Hydro

COMMISSIONER SAYS NO USE IN BRIEF NOTE

Refuses All Comment And Maguire Also Remains Silent.

BE ACCEPTED AT ONCE

Henry Denies Resignation Was Submitted At His Request.

TORONTO, May 1.—(CP) — The Ontario government moved today to accept the resignation of Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader of the Red Chamber from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Senator Meighen tendered his resignation yesterday without giving any reason for his action, and Premier George S. Henry last night said his government would accept it at once.

In a brief note to Premier George Henry, Commissioner Meighen, Conservative Leader in the Senate, and former Prime Minister of Canada, announced the action which had been suggested for some months by Liberal legislators and predicted some weeks ago by political observers. The resignation is expected to take effect today.

The Letter

The communication read: "I hereby tender my resignation as a member of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission."

Asked last night to amplify or explain the resignation, Mr. Meighen was as sparing of the spoken word as he had been of the written. "I have absolutely nothing to say," he replied to questions.

His fellow-Commissioner, C. A. Maguire, likewise declined to be quoted, and the third member, and Chairman Hon. J. R. Cooke, could not be reached.

Not so silent was Premier Henry, who announced the text of the resignation, and seized the occasion to deny flatly that it was submitted on his request or suggestion.

He was reminded that rumor had accused him of suggesting to Mr. Meighen that he resign for the political advantage of the Conservative Party in the coming election.

"That," said the Premier, "is just a newspaperman's theory."

Repeated Charges

The resignation is regarded as a sequel to repeated charges of Ontario Liberal spokesmen that Senator Meighen used his position as a Hydro Commissioner to further the interests of an investment house with which he was connected, through the purchase by the Hydro of the Ontario Power Service Corporation bonds.

In this connection Premier Henry explained yesterday that Senator Meighen asked the Government last fall to institute an inquiry into the Liberal charges.

"I told him," said Premier Henry yesterday, "that, so far as the Government was concerned, we did not think there was anything to investigate. I said that we, as a Government, were quite satisfied, from my knowledge of the Ontario Power Corporation, that Mr. Meighen had nothing to do with it and had no knowledge of it. I say that advisedly, because I was dealing with it personally more than anybody else. In the House a year ago I used the word 'Hydro,' which was not strictly correct."

NONE INJURED CAR ACCIDENT

Triple Car Smash-up Occurs on Warkworth Road, Outside Hastings.

EARLY SATURDAY.

HASTINGS, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—One of the worst car smashups to happen in the district occurred on Saturday morning at about 2 o'clock, when a triple crash occurred on the Warkworth road, just outside of this village. Leo Herr, driving north in a coupe and Mr. Bertrand going south in another car, locked wheels, the Herr car going up over a high embankment, with the Bertrand car still on the road. Tim Gorman broke over the top of the hill with a sedan, could not stop, and crashed into the back of the stalled car and went in the ditch, where the vehicle went over on its side. The miracle of the crash was that not one of the number of young people who were in the cars received anything more serious than a bad shaking up.

Chief Constable W. A. Killingbeck of Hastings was on the scene shortly after the accident and notified Provincial Constable Campbell of Brighton, who assisted the local officer in his investigation.

Marmora Man Fined For Spearing 'Lunge

MARMORA, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — As a result of a visit paid to this district by Inspector Marshall, district game warden, over the week-end, a local resident was yesterday charged before Magistrate Casement at Madoc with an offence against the Game and Fisheries Act. Convicted of fishing for 'lunge with a spear, the offender drew a heavy fine.

Commenting to The Examiner on the case the Inspector thought such offences committed year after year constituted a remarkable state of affairs. "No law is better ksown than that prohibiting the spearing of 'lunge," he said, "and I intend to press all charges coming under this category."

ELECTION LIST OF CANDIDATES GROWING FAST

McQuibban Stands Out For Referendum On Beer And Wine Question.

HENRY RAPS BRAGG.

Declares He Should State Policy—Frost Nominated In Victoria.

TORONTO, May 1 (CP)—The growing list of candidates for the Ontario general election to-day carried seven more names, five Conservatives and two Liberals taking their place in the campaign. The Lake-head district was in the running with Mayor Charles W. Cox of Port Arthur nominated to carry the Liberal banner in Port Arthur riding.

The election campaign found seven nomination conventions in actions yesterday and last night, with Dr. George A. McQuibban, Liberal Party Leader in the Ontario Legislature, announcing his stand on the beer and wine question after he had been selected unanimously by North Wellington Liberals to again contest the riding.

Dr. McQuibban declared he held an independent view regarding extension of wine and beer sales, although Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader, plans to give the Government's legislation a trial if elected.

He would favor nothing but a referendum so the people could decide the question, Dr. McQuibban said. He will oppose any other way of handling the matter which, he believed, should be divorced from politics.

Mayor Cox of Port Arthur was the unanimous choice of the Port Arthur Liberals after Dr. G. E. Eakins, President of the Port Arthur Liberal Association, withdrew from the nomination lists. Mayor Cox is a former Conservative.

Milton Elliott, Conservative, Durham.

Dr. R. N. Berry, Conservative, Haldimand-Norfolk.

Leslie M. Frost, K.C., Conservative, Victoria-Haliburton.

Premier George S. Henry of Ontario addressed the Conservative convention at Orono that chose Mr. Elliott as candidate. The Premier declared Durham electors should demand that W. J. Bragg, Liberal candidate, reveal his stand on the wine and beer legislation.

"Mr. Bragg voted against the bill," the Premier said. "Mr. Hepburn, his leader, is for it and says he will proclaim the measure if returned to power. Is Mr. Bragg going to appeal to Prohibitionist sentiment

RING OF STEEL READY TO HALT MAY DAY RIOTS

Paris Resembles Military Camp With 30,000 Police On Duty.

NEW YORK PREPARED.

Parades Set For All Parts Of World—See No Trouble In Canada.

(By The Associated Press)

Police and soldiers threw a ring of steel to-day around demonstrations called in many parts of the world in observance of May Day.

Paris, Madrid, Havana, New York and Chicago were the chief centres of activity. Early indications were for a comparatively quiet day throughout Canada.

The French Capital resembled a military camp—as 30,000 police backed by 10,000 troops with machine guns and armored cars were called to cope with disorders.

A policeman died at Angers in French Provincial rioting in which nearly 100 persons were estimated injured.

More than 5,000 police were assigned to special duty against violence in connection with rallies and parades of Communists and Socialists in New York.

Precautions were taken to guard against bombings in Chicago where another heavy mobilization of police strength was ready for any eventuality.

Citizens Lay in Food.

Citizens of Spain laid in supplies for the day because of a general strike and a government-decreed state of alarm which brought a general shutdown.

Thousands of Cuban soldiers took special precautions against bombing of foreign property in Havana after requests for protection were made by United States and German officials.

Disorders were feared between opposing Communist and Socialist factors in Panama. To avoid clashes, authorities arranged for them to parade at different times.

Demonstrations scheduled were canceled at Santiago, Chile, after three days of fighting between the workers and police, which has resulted in four fatalities.

An extra guard watched over the presidential palace in Mexico, D.F.

In Moscow, War Commissar Voroshiloff issued a May Day proclamation hailing the Red Army as the "merciless defender" of the Soviet Union, adding, "Long live the Red Army—the powerful and unfaltering guard of proletarian revolution."

Berlin made merry as Germany devoted the second May Day celebration under the Nazi regime to speeches and demonstrations in praise of the improved lot of the working man.

TROUT FISHERMEN GET INTO ACTION

Weeks of "Counting Days" and Fly Casting End as Season Opens.

TORONTO, May 1 (CP)—Ontario's grand offensive on brook trout opened to-day with thousands of fishermen in all parts of the province taking a hitch in their high boots and wading through slippery streams. For May 1 is the eagerly-awaited date when the game warden can't say a word. It is the official opening of the trout season.

For weeks many anglers have been practising their casting. Numerous fly- and bait-casting tournaments have been in progress, and the experts have become super-expert in laying a fly just where it will do the most good—or the most harm, depending on the viewpoint.

Among the prominent Ontario anglers who swung into action today was Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice, who recently celebrated his 90th birthday, and who starts counting the days until the "opening" shortly after Christmas.

MINE PROTESTS OF LITTLE AVAIL SAYS STEVENS

Blue Ruin Cries Not Helping Industry—Gold Tax To Hurt None.

MAY BE CHANGES.

Charges Mackenzie King's Theories Of Liberalism Are Out Of Date.

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP.) — With a vote on the Natura Products Marketing Act in sight the House of Commons to-day resumes the long debate on that measure on which the Conservative Government has the support of the Farmer-Labor group while the official Liberal Opposition with one notable exception is opposed.

The Budget debate advanced a stage yesterday with a long list of speakers taking part. For the Government Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, entered a defence dealing particularly with the gold tax. That impost, he declared, was fair and the mining industry had not been well served by cries of blue ruin which had been raised in protest.

It was a fact he said, that most if not all of the present mining developments had been launched at a time when the prevailing price of gold was $25 or less an ounce. The price was now $35, mining costs had not advanced, and the tax would not operate to bring the price below $30 an ounce. Under these circumstances, he claimed, it was foolish to say the tax would ruin the industry.

Must Bear Its Share.

Adjustments in detail and in administration might be made, but the industry was entited to bear its share in the taxation burden of the country.

Commendation for the gold tax came from Spencer (U.F.A. Battle River), who said the impost was the most popular tax the government could impose. On the other hand it found little favor with J. A. Bradette (Liberal, Temiskaming North) who represents a Northern Ontario constituency and was convinced it would throw many men out of work.

Mr. Spencer moved a sub-amendment to the motion to go into committee on the Budget. It regrets the Government has not taken steps to relieve the "unnecessary suffering of our people" and urges measures to exercise a national control

GOOD REPORT IS READ AT MEETING

Inspector Martin's Statement Read at Campbellford—To Prepare Estimates.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, May 1. — A splendid report of the Campbellford Public School by Inspector A. A. Martin, was read last evening to the Board of Education, meeting in regular session at Campbellford, in which he stressed the good work being done in this institution by the teaching staff under Principal Charles Haig. Teaching ranged from very good to excellent and the deportment of the pupils was highly commended.

Inspector Martin also stated in the report that it was a pleasure to see the caretaking done so efficiently by this official, Clarence Massie. He recommended some minor supplies such as a new blackboard, folding paper, and hand work materials, for two of the lower rooms, and also that the board undertake the construction of an office for the principal, which at present is under consideration. Accommodation, grounds, heating, and ventilation he described as being good.

The matter of repairs to the Public School, which includes the furnace and basement rooms, was left over for another month, T. E. Hall, chairman of the Property Committee, who was to have presented a report on this matter, being absent.

And to fall in line with the annual event of the Town Council in striking the rate for the current year, the Finance Committee, of which A. G. Thompson is chairman, was instructed to prepare the estimate for the year for both the High and Public Schools.

Mr. Thompson also addressed the board on behalf of the Softball Association, requesting the use of the High School grounds to play their scheduled games on this season. This was granted on motion of

LESLIE M. FROST TORY CANDIDATE FOR VICTORIA

Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, Special Speaker.

BIG CONVENTION

Nothing Constructive Being Offered by the Liberal Party.

LINDSAY, May 1. — (Examiner Correspondence).—Leslie M. Frost, barrister, town, was yesterday elected standard-bearer for the Liberal-Conservative party for the new riding of Victoria and Haliburton at the largest political convention ever held in Lindsay. There were 480 delegates present from all parts of the riding, and the Academy Theatre was unable to accommodate the large numbers who gathered for the event. The chair was occupied by Dr. Galloway, of Woodville, president, and the stage was crowded with the stalwarts of the party. During the morning it was believed that C. G. Frost, K.C., Lindsay; Clayton Hodgson, of Haliburton, and Ernest Windover, of Minden, would be in the fight for the nomination, but this forecast proved a false one. Mr. Windover, who was boomed in some quarters as a candidate from the north, sprang a surprise by nominating L. M. Frost, brother of C. G. Frost. Clayton Hodgson, of Haliburton, was also nominated, together with a dark horse in the person of I. E. Weldon, K.C., Lindsay. Mr. Frost secured the nomination on the first ballot. Mr. Frost received an ovation when he announced his acceptance, and he received assurances from the other candidates of loyal support in the coming election.

Macaulay Speaker.

Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, who received his early education in Lindsay, was the chief speaker. After congratulating the convention on its choice of a standard-bearer in the coming election, he dealt particularly, and at some length, to that department of the Government of which he was the head. With sixty per cent. of the paved roads in the Dominion, the Government of Ontario, he argued, rendered a greater service to the people than any of the other provinces at less cost to the people. Comparison was also made of the higher charges for auto licenses and driver's fees with those charged in Ontario. Reference was also made to the efforts put forth by the Government to relieve unemployment and to provide work for men who were willing to work. Evidence of this was seen in the plans of the Government to provide work in the construction camps in the northern part of Victoria, and also in Haliburton County where roads were being built which would prove an asset to that section.

Since 1914, the Minister pointed out, the Government had spent $14,000,000 on what is termed arterial highways, with almost an equal amount on township and county roads. The province was spending half a million dollars yearly in keeping the highways open during the winter. Mr. Macaulay said that the Liberal policy as enunciated by Mr. Hepburn in his speeches was innuendo and slander. There was nothing of a constructive nature in their appeals to the people and they were like a house divided against itself. They could not agree on a simple policy of liquor control. How then, he asked, could they agree on great problems, economic and social, which have to be solved in the next four years.

Resolutions expressing confidence in and loyalty to the Henry and Bennett administrations were passed during the afternoon.

Chronic Fatigue—a danger signal

It usually means that you need → THE VITAL 3

CHRONIC fatigue should not be neglected. Chronic fatigue takes the joy out of living. Then, there is always the danger that your system will gradually become weaker and some serious illness develop. The simple way to overcome chronic fatigue is to create in the body larger stores of calcium, phosphorus and iron—the "Vital 3". These three elements are needed for the creation of new energy, vigor and strength. They enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, stimulate appetite and help digest food. You can increase your supplies of the "Vital 3" by taking Fellows' Syrup regularly three times a day. In addition, Fellows' Syrup will bring you potassium, sodium and other mineral substances which, combined with the "Vital 3", keep the blood more alkaline and help to prevent that "tired feeling".

While Fellows' Syrup has been prescribed by physicians for 60 years, and its worth is recognized in 52 countries, modern research has found that adequate supplies of calcium, phosphorus and iron are far more needed by the human system than the originator of the Fellows' formula knew when he first put this now world-famous tonic and restorative on the market.

Don't drag around day after day, week after week, with chronic fatigue. Take Fellows' Syrup. Revitalize yourself with the "Vital 3" and get more joy out of living. 2 sizes. At all drug stores.

1—CALCIUM
Vital to life and health. Constant and adequate supplies of calcium are absolutely necessary to promote normal action of muscles and nerves, to build and to preserve strong rigid bones and sound teeth. Too low a supply of calcium causes oversensitive nerves, irritable muscles, decayed teeth and softened bones. Ordinary diets are more likely to be deficient in calcium than in any other mineral element.

2—PHOSPHORUS
An important constituent of all cells of the body, of the bones and glandular tissues, and first among all substances as a nerve food. Necessary for regulating and maintaining the neutrality of the blood and for sustaining its normal temperature. Also needed for turning starchy foods (bread, potatoes, sugar) into energy. Fresh supplies are needed daily.

3—IRON
The entire store of iron in the human system is only about one-tenth of an ounce, and constant renewal of this dynamic element is necessary to maintain energy, strength and even life itself. If enough iron is not supplied every day to the body cells and red blood corpuscles, the blood stream will draw upon the small reserve stores in the liver, spleen and bone marrow, thus weakening the entire body structure. Anaemia and thin blood simply mean insufficient iron in the system.

LABORATORY BABIES BECOME FACT 8 SUCCESSFUL CASES IN N. YORK

Eleven of 13 Cases Are Actually Offsprings of Husband, Wife, Concerned.

ONE SET OF TWINS.

NEW YORK, May 1.— (A.P.)— Laboratory babies, in a broad sense of the word, have become a fact, it became known to-day upon the birth of twins to a couple living in Long Island.

Dr. Frances Seymour, woman obstetrician, confirmed the mother's claim to her "test tube" babies and said there had been eight successful deliveries in New York city since experimentation in this line of scientific endeavor was started two years ago by herself and Dr. Alfred Koerner.

Somewhat astonished that word of the birth leaked out, Dr. Seymour said she presumed the parents were happy enough over birth of the children to be unable to contain themselves.

Thirteen successful artificial inseminations have been made, she said, eight of them deliveries so far. Eleven, she said, were actually the offspring of the husband and wife concerned, and different only in that impregnation was scientific.

"The other two mothers are both prominent business women," she stated. "They wanted babies but were unmarried. They felt they had a right to have children. One now has a baby nine months old. The other will give birth any day now."

In the first instance, the physician pointed out definitely, the babies are actually of the parents' own flesh and blood. In the second, the father is anonymous save to the physician.

In the case of eugenic babies, Dr. Seymour said, the fathers are carefully picked and tested.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richards (nee Aletha Sine, of Sidney) were honored by a very large gathering in the United Church parlors on Friday evening, to show to them the high esteem in which Mr. Richards is held by the church and community. Gerald Kemp paid tribute to the groom in his faithful service in the young people's work, and extended congratulations to he and his bride on behalf of the Young People's Society in presenting to the bride and groom an upholstered rocking chair. Percy Gooding welcomed the bridal couple to their neighborhood where they will open their new home together. But this was not all as a table full of beautiful gifts, including a Kenwood blanket and spread to match, silverware, table linen, towels and many other gifts, almost overwhelmed the bridal couple to express their thanks and appreciation.

Owing to the long cold winter, there is no growth of fall wheat, clover or alfalfa. It is surely a great loss to farmers, and as yet very little spring work has been done, only cultivating on light soil. The fruit orchards are suffering as many trees split from the root with the frost. Strawberry plants are killed out, winter onions, shrubs, rosebushes, iris bulbs, and the country looks very barren.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

to him, John Barrymore was the cause of an accident Thursday that might easily have cost the life of Ernest Schoedsack R-K-O director.

John Barrymore

The studio has been trying desperately to get Barrymore, who is fishing on his yacht in Mexican waters. Wires were unable to locate 'The Infanta.' About this time, Schoedesack popped in and told harassed officials that he could get hold of Barrymore if he wanted to. A chorus of 'oh yeahs' finally led to a bet and Schoedsack departed mysteriously.

It was 5 p.m., but the director went immediately to Mines Field where he keeps his private plane. A few minutes later he took off, intending to fly down the coast until he sighted the Barrymore yacht.

Just as he was heading the nose of his plane south, the director saw that the red lights of the field popped on and that men below appeared to be signaling him. He circled once and headed down for a slow landing. The plane bumped a few feet and suddenly went on its nose in the soft grass. Ambulances came, sirens screaming, but Schoedsack was only shaken up.

He paid the bet.

one sharp-eyed critic pointed out that you cannot see the breath of the characters in the winter scenes of 'As the Earth Turns.' Warners could have achieved this realism, but they would have had to pay a royalty to Dr. F. Nolan, Hollywood physician, who owns the patents on a chemical to make human breath visible even on a hot sound stage. The chemical goes in the actor's mouth, but does not interfere with his talking. The effect was first used in the picture, 'Dirigible.'

James McKay, who directed these scenes, handled the cats in a large set, adding greatly to the hazard of the shots. The hardest scene in the picture to get, however, was where the monkeys gather about the injured Tarzan, trying to bring him to life. McKay spent a week getting the monks to do it just right.

THOSE TOLL GATE CHARGES.

Repeatedly at recent meetings Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal provincial leader, has made the charge that a liquor "toll gate" exists in Ontario, and that British distillers find it necessary to employ agents in this province to sell their products to the Liquor Control Board, the inference being that these agents are paid for their political influence.

That is a serious charge, especially when voiced by a party leader, and The Examiner would respectfully suggest to the Government and to the Liquor Control Board that in ignoring the allegations made by Mr. Hepburn they are guilty of a serious mistake in judgment.

The "toll gate" accusation is either true or it is not, but so long as it is allowed to go unchallenged a good many people will be inclined to regard it as correct.

The Examiner has no accurate information on the subject, and is in the same position therefore as the public generally.

It is true that the Liquor Control Board stated some time ago that they did not deal with agents, but made their purchases direct from the distilleries, but this statement was not given any wide measure of publicity, nor was it sufficiently explicit to constitute an adequate denial of the allegations made by Mr. Hepburn.

If, as he says, the people of Ontario have had to pay more for liquor and the profits of the Control Board have consequently been lessened by reason of commissions paid to agents, it is high time there was an official explanation offered the public.

"BALANCED" BUDGETS.

There are some home truths in the annual report of the Citizens' Research Institute which was issued yesterday.

The director of that most useful organization gives the lie to the idea that the huge expenditures of governments effect only or chiefly the wealthy and well-to-do.

Taxation, he points out, presses heavily on business and industry in the overhead of which it constitutes an unavoidable part, and it concerns therefore every one engaged in business and industry, whether employer, employee or independent worker.

Similarly there is light thrown upon the so-called balanced budgets claimed by more than one government.

"Balanced" budgets have been set up, according to the report, which are not different in reality from the "unbalanced" budgets of previous years.

The customary device in such "balanced" budgets, it is explained, is to omit from the total of current expenses some item or items, the cost of which is transferred to the so-called capital budget for funding, on the naive assumption that a current expense can be converted into a capital outlay by issuing debentures therefor.

The budget balanced in this way simply means that all the proposed current expenditures which are listed add up the same total as the estimated expenditures.

In reality, of course, such budgets are unbalanced because they will produce a deficit to the amount of current expense which has been omitted from the budget, which deficit is taken care of by the proceeds of debenture issues.

As the report expresses it, if current budgets can be balanced by borrowing money, then practically all budgets which have been issued in Canada since Confederation have been "balanced" or could have been "balanced" by a judicious use of certain devices.

Budgets "balanced" by borrowing lead to increased debt charges, which finally mean either increased taxation or the starvation of necessary resources, or both.

THE MARKETING BILL.

Few pieces of legislation that have come before the Federal Parliament in recent years has aroused so much interest and at the same time caused such difference of opinion as the marketing bill now being considered at Ottawa.

Mr. King and other Liberals assail the measure as a curb on production and as an infringement upon the responsibility of parliament, and Premier Taschereau of Quebec attacks it as an invasion of provincial rights.

On the other hand, such an outstanding Liberal as Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture, has expressed approval of the principle of the bill, and the Progressive and Labor members of Parliament are solidly behind the legislation.

A good many farmers' organizations are apparently anxious to see the marketing bill get a chance to show whether or not it will improve agricultural conditions in Canada, and the Farmer's Advocate, whose opinion is the more significant because it is usually very critical of the Bennett Government, gives this view point which should be of widespread interest:

"The marketing bill is, in the opinion of the Farmer's advocate, the best piece of marketing legislation ever introduced in Canada," says the article. "It is fresh; it is modern and not a bit too sweeping or comprehensive to meet the needs of the agricultural industry under these emergency conditions. Anything less would fall sufficiently short of the mark to leave producers helpless and discouraged.

"The new agricultural marketing bill supplies the one cog needed to make co-operative effort and orderly marketing a success. Co-operative endeavors have failed in most cases because of those who remained outside and because of the chiselling that went on outside the association but within the locality and within the industry. It is genuinely believed by the leaders of agricultural organizations that producers of a given product in any well-defined geographical area would subscribe almost 100 per cent. to any well-organized, properly-managed marketing effort if they could be assured that there would be no outsiders, no back-sliding and no chiselling. When any "scheme" under this new bill is fully approved the producers embraced by the measure are in 100 per cent. They all sink or swim together.

"It is enabling legislation pure and simple. It is a new and workable plan that will enable producers to solve their own problems in any way they deem best."

ADVOCATES PEOPLE'S PARTY.

The Centralia citizen who wrote a letter to the Globe the other day and, stressing the fact that thoughtful, serious people will find it impossible to cast an intelligent vote at the coming election because of the attitude of the three party leaders, Premier Henry, Mitchell Hepburn and Harry Nixon, on the beer question, advocated the formation of a new People's party, was voicing thoughts that are in the minds of a great many people.

Probably Ontario never awaited the announcement of a provincial election in a more disturbed state of mind than it does at this moment; there are literally thousands of electors who feel that with both old parties and the Progressives committed to freer beer and wine they are being left without any effective means of expressing their will and they are seeking a way out.

In that connection let us quote from the letter in the Globe:

"Do the people of Ontario desire a reasonable and practical solution for their present difficulty? Such a solution is not beyond the bounds of possibility and achievement. Invite W. F. Nickle, of Kingston, and W. E. N. Sinclair, of Oshawa, to form a party. Call it the People's party, or any name desirable. Ask those gentlemen by their mutual agreement to accept the positions of Premier and Attorney-General. They are men of outstanding ability, unquestioned integrity, matured judgment and long experience in parliamentary affairs. Under such men Ontario would make financial progress, social and moral reform would receive proper consideration. New life and a clean bill of health would be given the body politic and confidence and peace of mind to the citizens of Ontario.

"This may seem impossible of achievement at this late date, but let citizens and press, having the same objects to obtain, take the initiative and the movement will sweep Old Ontario to the extent that a new party will be in power with sufficient members elected to implement the will of the people. This solution is possible; the old parties just now are impossible. What do the people desire during the next five years? Those who mark their ballots must answer."

POLITICAL BLUNDERING.

The Kitchener Daily Record, of which Hon. W. D. Euler, Liberal M.P., is president, flays both old political parties in Ontario for their attitude toward Hydro. Says the Record:

"Both the Liberal and Conservative parties in Ontario have made a grave error in unnecessarily dragging the Hydro to the forefront of the campaign. In each case the reason is so apparently selfish and political that thinking electors will not be fooled.

"Recently the Record expressed the opinion that Mr. Hepburn should be very careful in regard to what he says he will do to Chief Engineer Gaby of the Hydro should the Liberals be successful at the polls. This paper pointed out that Mr. Gaby knows Hydro as no other man knows it and therefore should not be dismissed by a mere snap of the fingers. If he has erred, as all men do, there is a gentler remedy. Mr. Hepburn still declares that he would fire Cooke, Meighen and Gaby. The last mentioned case is entirely different from that of the two commissioners.

"Then Mr. Price. Attorney-General, steps into the Hydro picture with the announcement that the 30-year agreement farmers must sign to get Hydro will be replaced by a five-year term. Of course, this very welcome announcement to the farmers had to come on the eve of a hard-fought election. It makes the neutral person feel that the Government is displaying fear by such action.

"It is not so long ago that Mr. Price's party was stating emphatically that Hydro was running its own affairs. The natural question to ask is, why should Mr. Price make the "nice" announcement in election time?

"Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Price have not made a very good job of their Hydro election chores to date. Likewise Chairman Cooke of the Hydro Commission is remiss in his duty in not reprimanding Mr. Price for continuing a practice that caused keen criticism in not too recent days. It was thought that once such unfortunate procedure had been drawn to the attention of the Government that there would be no further cause for complaint.

"It will also be recalled that Hon. Mr. Cooke during the recent session in the House was emphatic about Hydro running its own affairs without interference from politicians.

"But apparently the boys on both sides must drag anything they can into the election arena. However, they aren't fooling the people nearly as much as they did in days gone by. It is an interesting circus, but like the circus there is plenty of sham about it and the spectators are beginning to realize this more and more."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A. E. Smith, secretary of the Canadian Labor Defense League, predicts the establishment of a Soviet Canada, but he is careful not to attempt to pick the date when it will become an accomplished fact.

Professor Picard is talking of the possibilities of a flight to the moon. We could name quite a few people whom we would be glad to nominate for the honor of trying the first trip.

For the present all traces of John Dillinger have been lost. It is understood, however, that all police stations are being heavily guarded.

With charges of ballot-stuffing being made in Northumberland, it will have to be admitted that politics in that section of the country still present an old-time aspect.

Orillia is having its share of trouble over daylight saving with many of the merchants operating on standard time. There will always be these disturbances until the system is generally adopted or else completely forgotten.

CHAPTER 52

"Feeling less tired?" murmured Tiggie presently.

Viola stirred as though awaking from a happy dream. "I never feel so tired when you are here," she said. "I was thinking of that picture—you and I—in a boat—in the safe haven—with all the turmoil left outside."

"Funny!" said Tiggie. "I saw it like that long before Harvey did."

"He must have got the thought—somehow—from one of us," she said.

"Daresay, he did," said Tiggie "We won't grudge it him anyway if it turns up trumps."

"Oh, no, I couldn't grudge him anything," said Viola.

"And you're really going to set to work and get strong now?" urged Tiggie gently.

She stroked his hand with a slightly deprecatory gesture. "Yes, dear. I'll try—I'll try," she said.

"You see," said Tiggie, improving the occasion, "I want to get on with things now, so that we can soon tell them—tell everybody—that you are my wife."

A small tremor went through her, but she said nothing.

"Don't you want to?" said Tiggie.

Her fingers still caressed his hand with a touch that had in it something pathetic. "It isn't that," she said at length wistfully, as he waited for her answer. "It's only—that I get a little frightened sometimes when I think of it."

"But why?" said Tiggie, nonplussed.

She was silent again, but another quiver of agitation ran through her slight form. She turned her face into his shoulder.

"Darling," he said, "you're not afraid—surely that I shan't be good to you?"

"Oh no!" she said instantly. "Not that. Never that. No, dearest, I can't tell you quite what it is. It's—a sort of feeling—without any reason to it."

"But what, dear, what? Try to tell me!" he said. "I may be able to help if I only know what it is."

She shook her head slightly. "Dear Tiggie, that's just it. How could you possibly understand my stupid fancies? How could I begin to explain them to you even? I expect it's just because I've been so ill. I used not to be such a coward."

"You're not one now," said Tiggie stoutly. "But there's something at the root of it—even if it's only presentiment. Can't you tell me what it is, and then we can laugh at it together?"

"No, no, you mustn't laugh," said Viola. "And you won't be vexed with me either, will you, dear, when I say that I feel as if we must go on a little longer as we are—not telling anybody? Only a little longer of course!" She glanced up at him anxiously. "Because—it involves deception, doesn't it? And I'm not strong enough yet. I might be asked questions—quite simple questions—that I couldn't answer. When I'm strong again, it'll be different. I shall be equal to anything. Dear Tiggie, you don't mind? Say you don't mind!"

"My dear child," said Tiggie. "I only want to do what is best and easiest for you."

"Oh, I know that," she said quickly and gratefully.

"But," said Tiggie, "are you really sure that this sort of deception won't be harder?"

"Quite—yes, quite," she assured him. "You see, this has been going on all the time, and we're used to it—at least most of it. But the other—oh, Tiggie, we can't begin the other till I'm well enough to leave this place. I couldn't face it here. Besides," she clasped her hands in unconscious supplication, "I must keep my paradise a little longer—even if it is a fool's paradise."

He yielded the point immediately, though it was against his judgment. "There's nothing foolish about it that I can see," he said. "It shall be just as you wish, my dear, though whether I'm too big a muggins to be able to hide the fact that I'm in love with you, I don't know. I'll have a shot at it anyhow. But you mustn't keep me waiting too long, or I shall explode like a Chinese cracker. Besides, my leave is up in October, remember, and we've got to be married by then."

"Oh, Tiggie!" she said in a voice he did not understand. "Are we going all the way back to India together?"

"That's the idea," said Tiggie. "Don't you like it?"

She pressed closer to him, was silent for a little, and then with sudden passion clasped him round the neck in a quivering hold. "If only—if only—I could feel—really safe!" she whispered —"From him, I mean!"

"My darling," he protested, his arms tightening about her, "you're tormenting yourself for nothing. Don't you think I could deal with the damn' scroundrel even if we did meet—which is most unlikely?"

"Oh, yes, of course—of course!" she said piteously. "Only—only—I'd like to keep the world between us—if only I could."

"My dear, that really is nonsense," said Tiggie very tenderly. "But I'm glad you've told me all the same, because p'raps I can show you how preposterous it is to worry. Have you any idea how big India is?"

"Yes, I know," she said rather forlornly, suffering her hold to relax.

"Well, that's one thing," said Tiggie cheerily, trying to think he had gained a point. "And another is, don't you imagine that even if he ever caught sight of you—which is stretching coincidence to its utmost limit—he too would want to go the other way?"

"If he were sober!" she whispered with a shiver.

"Well, it won't happen, dear," Tiggie assured her soothingly, "so you needn't worry. And you'll bear another name, remember, which will make you doubly safe."

"Safe!" she said. "Safe!" Her hands clasped him again for a moment almost convulsively. "Oh, shall I ever be that?"

"You're that now," said Tiggie firmly. "Make no mistake! Safe as houses!" He smiled into her troubled eyes. "And the tighter you hold on to me, the safer you'll be. No, don't let go! I like it."

She smiled back as her arms fell. "No, you must do the holding," she said. "I'm too tired."

"Tired still?" said Tiggie with swift concern. "I'd better go, or Mrs. Spot will be saying I'm bad for you."

"No, no she won't. She's much too kind," said Viola. "She knows you do me good."

"Wonder if I really do," said Tiggie.

By way of answer she lifted one of his hands and carried it to her lips.

"Oh, my dear!" he said. "I'm not worth that."

Her eyes looked straight into his with that in them which kindled a swift throbbing response at his heart. "You are worth far more than I can ever hope to give," she said.

He laid his face down again upon her breast as he had laid it the night before' "I could never—possibly—want more," he said rather inarticulately. "It—I hardly know what it feels like yet—to be sure of your love."

"Oh, my dear!" she said, her hands resting on his head as though they blessed him. "I never dared to tell you before. I was so afraid—so afraid—you might not want it."

"Not want—your love!" said Tiggie incredulously.

He made as if to look at her, but she checked him softly with a touch that seemed to plead. "You see, Tiggie—other men—have never wanted—that," she said with infinite sadness.

"And you thought I was—like that?" said Tiggie.

Her hands still held him softly, tenderly, in check. "My own love, no!" she said. "A thousand times, no! You were—so different—that I thought—perhaps—love didn't come into it at all—that it might be just goodness—just—pity."

"When I was simply—aching for you!" said Tiggie.

She uttered a low sigh and caressed his bent head in silence.

He slipped to his knees beside her, holding her closely, and so at length turned his face once more to hers.

"You know me better now," he said.

There were tears in the eyes that met his own, but they still shone with that steadfast look of perfect trust and love.

"Oh, yes!" she said, and smiled. "I know you now—I know you now—my own love—Tiggie!"

He wiped away the tears and kissed her, and thereafter they sat for a while in a silence that had in it something sacred.

But when Helen came up with some beef tea, Tiggie was talking in his most commonplace fashion about the most commonplace matters in the world, while Viola listened, faintly smiling a faint flush on her cheeks.

To the casual observer there was no sign that that humble little room in the cottage roof with its dark leaded windowpanes against which the rain was driving had become a temporary paradise—even for fools.

UNEMPLOYED EX-SOLDIER

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I hope you will find space in your valuable paper for the following—Re Our Unemployed Canadian Ex-Soldiers.

What is being done in Peterborough for them. The ex-soldier is refused shoes for his child, also clothing. He must work a six-day week at the city wood yard to pay for the relief he gets. Is this something to be proud of to use these war worn men like this? I think if this is the best Peterborough can do it is time some one took action. If part of the money paid out in relief by the Government had been spent in monthly allowance to the ex-soldiers it would have been well spent. Those working in factories, that need a well earned rest, could give their work up then for the fellow that made the big money here in the war days, and to the young men who are unemployed and have never worked as yet. How many men who served in France are fit to work? How many came back the way they went. Those who were in action at the front deserve something. Sox and tobacco would still be appreciated by these men. It is plain to see the returned soldier was not welcome back here If they who stayed in France were here today, what would their suffering be? They would have to go to the wood yard whether they were able to or not, as most of them would be unemployed. Even the odd job is not to be had. How are we going to keep life in our bodies, our children are starving gradually. What would have become of us if we starved our children like this when we had some money? I hope the men on relief who have never given up their bed and home comforts for their country will understand when they get their load of wood for better men than them have gone to the wood yard. Now how about these, who have never gone once as yet and say they have been on relief over three years. One of these has a $24 pay cheque coming in every two weeks, and this money is entirely wasted.

Thanking you again for the space, I remain,

The Wife of a Peterboro' Born Ex-Service Man.

A Thought

A SAFE RULE

You will always find it a safe rule to take a think just as quick as it is offered—especially a job. It is never easy to get one except when you don't want it; but when you have to get work and go after it with a gun, you will find it as shy as an old crow that every farmer in the country has had a shot at.—Larmer.

Foreign Affairs

As Civilization Heightens Human Rights Cannot Be Withheld Successfully From Even the Weak.

(By H. W. L. MAHOOD)

KENYA

Kenya is a little colony of the Crown in Africa. One of the negro tribes has a grievance. To be governed, the tribe demands representation on the Kenya Legislative Council. It also requests representation on the Nairobi Municipal Council Council, and on the Central Advisory Committee.

Rights Recognized By Great Britain

The eagerness of the natives of this Colony to have a part in legislative procedure, and in municipal affairs, and in educational plans promises well for all concerned. A part in self-government promotes self respect, and loyalty, and contentment and thrift.

This eagerness ought to be welcomed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies and by the Crown. Especially because the only people who are represented directly on these official bodies are immigrant communities, or Europeans, and the Indians. The result has been that numerous laws affecting the Kenya people have been enacted without even consulting them. Kenyans are subjects of the Crown, and have rights, and liberties. A petition was sent the Secretary of State for the Colonies asking that the native Kenyans be permitted to send their own representatives to the Kenyan Legislature.

The petition holds some far reaching requests. One is that the Kenya people be ruled by an educated and elected high class chief. That he be assisted by a Central Council and Representatives directly elected from all the province by the people. The petition suggests that he council consist of one hundred members. The chief is to be a Constitutional Chief rather than a tribal chief. The Kenyans will get all they ask and more. This is Britains way with loyal colonies. Britain gives her civilised best.

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE

Are These Two Great Nations Drifting Apart?

Trade between the two nations tells the story. The mutual exchange between them of trade in 1928 amounted to 12 billion francs. Think of the lapse in 1933. Instead of a twelve billion trade exchange it was three billion. And now? Well, it is negligible.

France must bear the onus of the lapse. The slump is affecting the economic conditions of both nations. France is arbitrary. When Britain went off the gold standard France resented the action. That she was displeased was at once evident. A reprisal tax of 15 per cent extra import duty was levied on British imports. Britain bore with this for a year. The trade advantage was with France. An effort was made to adjust trade relations for the advantage of both nations, by Great Britain. France informed the British Minister that as long as Britain remained off the gold standard there could be no adjustment.

Before taking action Britain informed France that it would be necessary to impose a special import duty on French goods. Hope was entertained that France would reconsider.

Instead, France replied with a heightened tax on British imports. Besides this retaliation France adopted the quota system. By the quota system only 26 per cent of the imports made during the years when the 15 per cent duty was in force would be admitted into the country.

Then came the 20 per cent duty by Britain levied on all the principal French imports into Britain.

Matters have not been mended. Britain fully expected that France would be ready to revise its trade relations. But not so. France had much to say on a former time about the violation by Germany of the treaty made with Belgium. It is her turn now to denounce two treaties made with Britain, one in 1826, and the other 1882. These treaties hold until May, 1934. Will they be renewed? Maybe.

THE UNITED STATES

Compromises Do Not Settle Difficulties.

Compromise may mean peace for a time. But it does not mean settlement of disputes where a right is involved. At Detroit the main issue was not settled. The employes unions claim the right to represent all the employees, if they represent the majority. They stress the right to make agreements that will be binding on all the employees. And this regardless of any minority company unions. The employers are likely to reject this claim. Capital in the motor industry is insistent to keep the upper hand. Capital refuses to give up the right of organizing company unions. They are willing that there should be organized employee unions, if the employer is authorized to organize company unions.

There would thus be three parties to negotiate agreements. The company and the company union would control the situation. This policy would provoke strikes, and constant unrest among the employees. The Automobile Board will yet be forced to expose the futility of the settlement of the agreement reached at Washington.

President Roosevelt was eager to prevent a strike. The real issue was the basic principle of collective bargaining. By side-stepping this principle the strike danger has not been removed. That danger and backstep to business will not be removed as long as the employer attempts to control the representation of the workers. As long as the employers fight for the company unions there will be no settled peace in the motor industry nor in any other industry in which the same policy obtains.

Surely these are sordid times, in which, material interests so completely absorb mans mind and effort. James Russel Lowell in 1884 delivered an address at Birmingham, England. He stood before the students at the Midland Institute and said: the one abiding qualification is to distinguish realities from appearances. Spoke he: Be your own palace, or the world's your gaol.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

HAMILTON, ONTARIO

One day in September, 1669, La Salle, the French explorer, and a small band of adventurers entered Mincassa Bay, now Hamilton harbor, from Lake Ontario, crossed in their canoes and landed on its northern shores where they were met by a friendly band of Indians, and thus was born the city of Hamilton.

It remained a wilderness for many years after La Salle explored and surveyed the harbor and the surrounding countryside. Then came the first white settlers—Robert Land and Richard Beasley—in 1778. These men were United Empire Loyalists who fled from the United States after the war of independence.

In 1791, three years after their arrival, the first official survey showed the existence of 31 dwellings, among them one recently erected by George Hamilton, son of Hon. Robert Hamilton, who had but recently removed thence from Niagara-on-the-Lake. In honor of the acquisition of such a distinguished citizen his name was given to the town.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Medin.)

"HOW'S EVERYTHING"

"How's everything?" say he to me, passing swiftly by.

"Fine!" says I to him, hurrying on my way.

And pause. And grin to myself. And wonder at my own casual arrogance.

How would I know how "everything" is? How could I possibly answer such a question? Everything is so big, so wide, so deep—and I am but one human being. "How's everything?" he asks. "I couldn't possibly know." I'll answer the next time he asks me that ....Or I'll hold him by the lapels of his coat and try to tell him what he seeks to know.

There are snows on Chimborazo, and a diamond greater than man has even seen in a dry creek bed to the further south....Popocatepetl smokes again against a blue, blue sky and a Yaqui crouches in a pass through the hills and pulls slowly on his cigaret....A negro laughs on a Mississippi levee; a baby reaches pink hands toward golden oranges in a California grove; a fawn follows his mother daintily over the green rug of the forest, a mountain lion crouches, and a blue jay high in the green bay tree swears at a fluffy kitten.

A man waits beside a doorway, searching for generous faces. High up there in that office building a man sits with his feet on a desk. Higher still a man in an airplane goes roaring by. And higher than he a hawk drifts past....In a distant valley a clean white cloud makes a shadow across the field. In many a plowed field with glistening furrows, seed germinate and promise waving fields of grain....White blossoms decorate many a leafless limb....Far in the north a young Eskimo looks tenderly upon a brown-skinned lass....On the steppes a Tartar glares savagely upon his enemy....In the dark woods a gorilla roars and beats his breast ....The telephone rings and a lad asks his girl if she doesn't want to go for a ride....An old man, thinking back 50 years, sits by the bedside of his feeble old wife....In an office a man signs on the dotted line....Another man slips subtly through a darkened window and steals down the street....A girl with lovely eyes confesses she loved him the moment she saw him....A baby in a little house falls and bumps his nose.

"How's everything?"

"My friend, I'm sorry, but I haven't the least idea."

MINING SECTION SLUGGISH TO-DAY

Silver, Depressed by Drop of a Cent for Metal Traded in Moderate Volume.

TORONTO, May 1 (CP)—The Mining Section of the Toronto Stock Exchange put on a rather lifeless session to-day with volume small, particularly in the high-priced issues, and price changes were mainly on the down side. Offerings were not heavy in any section of the board, even the silver, depressed by a drop of a cent for metal, trading in only moderate volume at prices showing losses within a limit of 15 cents. Base metals were the firmest group.

Senior gold stocks moved up in light volume with exception of Teck Hughes, which weakened 10. Wright Hargreaves, on less volume, sagged 15 cents and Dome, Lake Shore, and Bralorne had losses up to 25 cents each. McIntyre weakened $1.25.

N. YORK STOCK EXCHANGE FIRMS MADE BILLION LAST SIX YEARS

Enormous Profits Pour in Despite Depression Pecora Tells Senate Body.

ASTOUNDS COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP) — Evidence that New York Stock Exchange member firms have made nearly $1,000,000,000 in the last six years, despite the depression, was presented to-day to a United States Senate Committee.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Senate stock market committee, placed before its re-assembled members data showing that exchange firms averaged almost $2,000,000 apiece in net profits during the two boom and four depression years.

Gathered from the member firms themselves, the statistics showed they had had a total gross income of more than $2,000,000,000 during the six year period.

During the high-time years of 1928 and 1929 their gross annual revenue averaged far more than $1,000,000 apiece.

These and a mass of other hitherto undisclosed statistics relating to market operations were presented to the committee as stock exchange control legislation approached the test in both Houses of Congress.

Concededly the disclosure of this data was timed to put the bill over the top." The move followed closely after charges in the House yesterday of a "vicious campaign of misrepresentation against the legislation by the New York Exchange.

Profits Rise and Fall

Buried in the mass of statistics was an amazing story of the depression's effect. It showed member firm profits dropped from $349,000,000 in 1928 to a loss of $6,000,000 in 1932, and rose again to $96,000,000 for the first eight months of last year. The total net profits for the period were $833,167,686.

Other high-spots in the voluminous data showed that:

The 631 reporting firms had 1,371,910 customers in 1929 of whom 811,986 or 59 per cent were cash customers as contrasted with marginal traders.

The firms had 1,028,491 customers during the first eight months of 1933, of whom 596,976 or 58 per cent were cash operators.

Out of 120,000,000 shares of stock sold on the exchange during July, 1933, representing 240,000,000 sales and purchases, member firms, their partners, and individual members of the exchange, made $65,000,000.

Most amazing of all the figures presented by Pecora were those showing the profits. They disclosed that while the United States as a whole was making and losing fortunes by the thousand, the brokers' commissions continued to pour in.

The total net commissions of the reporting member firms for the almost six-year period were $1,502,751,275.

LEAGUE IGNORES JAP OBJECTIONS

satisfaction with Sir John's report that Japan does not intend to interefere with the common rights of other powers in China.

A certain uneasiness lingered, however.

"Sir John Simon's statement," said The Daily Telegraph, "does not clear up the mystery surrounding the Japanese spokesman's declaration of April 18. In fact this mystery is only deepened by the tacit withdrawal of this declaration and by the Tokyo's Government's decision to adjourn the promised explanation sine die.

"The withdrawal is obviously not a disavowal, and what was said only semi-officially remains none the less said."

The Telegraph added: "Sir John adopted a prudent policy in the circumstances and is to be congratulated for having so tactfully but firmly reaffirmed Great Britain's rights."

50 ARE ARRESTED FOR HALL BLAZE

Building Where Hitler Started Rise to Fame is Completely Razed.

BLAMED ON REDS.

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 1.—(AP)Police today arrested 48 persons as suspected incendiaries following a midnight fire which destroyed the huge Singer Hall here.

Eye witnesses claimed they heard an explosion while the fire was raging and the police, who placed the 48 suspects 'in protective custody,' offered a reward of 10,000 marks for the arrest of the actual perpetrators of the blaze.

A competent source declared: 'The hall was destroyed by Bolshevistic arson.'

The Singer Hall was one of the places where Adolf Hitler started his rise to fame for it was there he addressed the people during the early days of the Nazi party.

The fire broke out shortly after midnight and the flames extended over the whole structure with such rapidity that the whole building resembled one flaming torch when the fire brigade arrived.

Last night the hall was decorated with greenery and flags for to-day's assembly with Hitler youth.

The damage is estimated at 250,000 marks (about $100,000).

KIRK IN COURT

of the fatal tussle Kirk had been seized with a sudden impulse to go to the Sim apartment and ask Sim's permission to marry his daughter. "Kirk had a small speech prepared, as I suppose young men do on such occasions," counsel said.

Sim had said. "What do you want?" and Kirk had replied he wanted to marry Betty (Elizabeth Sim) and had a job for December 2. To Sim's dissent to the proposal Kirk had replied: "Well, I am going to marry her anyway."

Mr. Heighington said that, according to Kirk, Sim had rushed him with hands outstretched, caught him by the throat and banged him against the wall. At this time, counsel contended, Kirk was well within the apartment and this fact had a bearing upon the charge of trespassing made against him.

"The prisoner," continued Mr. Heighington, "says he was choked and became dizzy. He admits striking Sim and Sim fell down."

Orders for new passenger and cargo ships placed with British shipbuilders so far this year have a total value of more than $35,000,000.

FOOD SHARES WEAK.

TORONTO, May 1 (CP)—Closing prices on the Industrial Board of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day were well up from the day's low point, but the list nevertheless had a preponderance of net losses over gain. Food and beverage shares were the main points of weakness while oils, utilities and the interlisted leaders, with exception of International Nickel, boarded a majority of advances.

Brazilian was the object of a mild buying flurry late in the afternoon and the price closed at 11 for a gain of ⅝. Nickel reduced a loss of 50 cents to 15; C.P.R. finished unchanged at 16, and Ford "A" added ⅝ to close at 23⅝.

Trading was fairly large in Walkers and Distillers Seagrams, and the recorded losses of ½ to ¾. Brewery shares all finished on the down side.

BANKING TRUST MUST BE BROKEN

Government bond, receiving $100 in cash which he deposited. A few minutes later, the bank used the same $100 to buy a second bond from another man, who likewise deposited it, "and then the bank had two bonds, interest-bearing, and exactly the same money it had when it started."

"There is a stranglehold on humanity to-day and we are writhing in the death grip of usury," almost shouted the witness, referring to bankers as the "wolves of the city" and to banking as a racket.

Bankers manipulated currency to meet their selfish ends, "and to the detriment of humanity and commodity producers." The system was obsolete and not aimed or directed to meet the requirements of to-day.

"The conflict," the committee was told, "is between the banker who wants a shortage of money through his monopoly and the public that wants an abundance of money to carry on trade."

Disaster Facing Civilization.

And the British Columbian had a word to say to his fellow-legislators. There was disaster facing present-day civilization, just as the Roman civilization was smashed by farming out the revenues of the Empire. "Instead of being proud of being public men, we should wonder why the people let us live," he told the committee members, advising them, as legislators, the public demanded to be relieved from the grip of the banker.

The Bank Act before the committee, under which the chartered banks would operate for another 10-year period, Mr. McGeer said, "gives more power to the banks, less to the Government and shows less consideration to the public," than the original act of 1844 for Upper and Lower Canada.

"We are bringing ourselves to disaster," exclaimed Mr. McGeer, "by allowing a small minority to monopolize the wealth of the entire nation by being privileged to manipulate our credit."

Only once or twice in his three hours on the stand was the British Columbian interrupted or called to order. Chairman R. B. Hanson, Cons., York-Sunbury, once advised him to leave personalities out when he named Sir Charles Gordon and Sir Herbert Holt, and again told him to hurry along to his concrete suggestions.

A chapter of unwritten history was revealed by Mr. McGeer when he said, in ihs investigation of the life of Abraham Lincoln, he found a secret service report which said the assassination plot was started in Toronto and completed partly in Montreal.

The report was signed by a secret service agent who said the men behind the plot, which originally was designed to kidnap the civil war president, were not from the south, and to them, the cost was no consideration.

"The only group," continued Mr. McGeer, "coinciding with that description, was the international bankers of the day."

This was greeted with a low wave of laughter from the committee.

"You may laugh if you like, but worse crimes than that have been committed in the name of usury."

Break From Burwash Costs Pair 3 Years

SUDBURY, Ont., May 1.—(CP)—Caught on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks at Burwash, before they could effect their escape from the Burwash Industrial farm, Charles Kent and Clarence Thompson, were given three and one half years in Kingston penitentiary each by Magistrate J. S. McKessock as an exemplary sentence.

Both were serving terms for breaking, entering and theft. Kent had a term of two years determinate and two indeterminate and Thompson from 18 to 30 months. Kent went to the farm Feb. 1 and Thompson Jan. 12. Sunday night they broke a fire escape door down with a bench and ran out but were caught by guards at 1.30. Supt. N. S. Oliver of the farm said if guards had not heard the noise and come to the scene 60 men could have left through the door.

BAKING TRADE

tory thereto, should not be permitted.

Fair Wage Scales

"Uniform wage scales and conditions of employment should be established at levels considered fair and in keeping with recognized standards of living. These should be fixed by law and rigidly enforced.

"No attempt should be made to arbitrarily impose on the baking industry throughout Canada one set of rules and regulations likely to have the effect of suppressing free and healthy competition among all units.

"Trade associations with small local units should be encouraged, to which all members should belong.

"The fixation of prices, whenever considered in the interests of the trade and the consuming public, should be confined strictly to an established minimum, based upon cost of the efficient operator and not upon an artificially supported selling price, designed to protect the high cost or inefficient producer or trader."

WOULD BROADEN CHARGES RESULT OF CAR MISHAP

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.). — A broadening of the range of charges applicable to automobile fatalities was urged to-day in a presentment by an Assize Court grand jury to Mr. Justice J. G. Makins.

The jury found that where an accused driver was allowed to go on a manslaughter charge, by virtue of this trial, no other charge could be laid. They suggested, therefore, that an accused person be liable to face charges arising from any other violation against the criminal code or Provincial statutes, that the law allows, in addition to the manslaughter charge.

The grand jury further suggested the juvenile age for youths appearing in juvenile court before Judge Hawley E. Mott should be raised from 16 to 18 years. There were 16 other suggestions included in the presentment.

CHICAGO, May 1 (A.P.).—A letter demanding $50,000 under threat of kidnapping and death was turned over to-day to police by Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, reputedly wealthy West Side physician, who in 1931 was ordered by Federal Court to pay the government $182,442 35 in income tax, penalties and interest for the years 1921 to 1929 inclusive.

In reporting receipt of the letter Dr. Nathanson said he did not have $5,000, much less $50,000.

Starhemberg Elevated

In Austria, May Day was seized upon as the occasion to elevate Prince Ernest Von Starhemberg, Fascist leader, to the post of Vice Chancellor of the nation.

Communist meetings got under way on the outskirts of Paris in mid-afternoon without police interference and the situation in the French Capital was reported calm, with business practically normal, despite the fact that the Communists had called for a nation-wide general strike. Thirty thousand police were held ready for emergencies.

Celebrations by Communists and Socialists got under way in New York about noon, but their beginnings were quiet and orderly. The New York police were in readiness for any eventuality.

Other demonstrations were scheduled for Chicago and there, likewise, the police were being held in preparation.

Praise of Workingman

(By John A. Bouman, A.P. Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, May 1 (AP)—Germany's second May Day celebration under the Nazi regime—in sharp contrast to those in many world capitals—was devoted to praise of the happy lot of the working man.

A mammoth celebration, attracting "masses such as have never attend one meeting in the world" in the words of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, was centered in Berlin in honor of the "Day of Labor."

It was a busy day of Chancellor Hitler, who began it at 9 a.m. by addressing a great gathering of Hitler youth in the Lustgarten, opposite the former imperial palace.

A joint proclamation signed by President Paul Von Hindenburg and Hitler said:

"For the first time in our history fraternal strife has ceased and unity has been attained. What our fathers for centuries longed for has become a reality.

REDS TURNED BACK.

PARIS, May 1.—(A.P.)—Fifteen hundred communists, after an afternoon-long demonstration at the Porte De Vincennes, attempted shortly before dusk to march into the heart of Paris, but were turned back by police who injured 10 with their clubs.

The 1,500 were part of a mass meeting of 15,000 communists who had gathered during the day in the Vincennes woods.

The smaller number started for the city despite police warnings.

When the body reached the lines set by police, the gendarmes charged into the moving crowd.

The manifestants were scattered into side streets and there hand-to-hand battling continued in small groups.

Saskatchewan Fears Outbreak Of Smut

REGINA, May 1 (CP)—A report from the University of Saskatoon at Saskatoon to-day revealed the threat of an outbreak of a plague of smut which may take a severe toll from 1934 grain crops in Saskatchewan.

Samples of seed grain forwarded to the Dominion Seed Branch at Saskatoon, said the report, showed the presence of more than the usual amount of smut germs. Wheat and barley samples showed the greatest amount.

The cause of the threatened outbreak was believed to be farmers neglecting to purchase material for proper treatment of seed to destroy the smut germs. Necessity of curtailing costs led to the neglect.

AND GIVE SOME MAN A JOB

WEEK OF MAY 5th to 12th

SATURDAY and MONDAY
HOME INSPECTION Days

These days are so designated as to suggest to you that you go through your homes and consider just where some improvement might be made by cleaning, renovating, etc. You be your own inspector.

TUESDAY
COMMUNITY DAY

Any community is judged by the tidiness and cleanliness of its streets, parks, etc. Those responsible for this department of the city's life have and will co-operate further to do their share in making Peterborough a more beautiful community.

WEDNESDAY
PAINT and REPAIR DAY

Both interior and exterior of many homes, factories, etc., will need repainting or repairing. A little paint here and there adds dollars to their appearance. Then, too, there are alterations and repairs which will need to be done possibly, so this is the time to do them.

A Message from the Mayor

Again I hasten to most heartily endorse the annual Clean-up – Paint-up – Give-some-man-a-Job Campaign which will be conducted next week.

An orderly clean community reflects an industrious people and so we should all enter this wholeheartedly and endeavor to do our part for our own as well as for the sake of Peterborough. The suggestion as given to give some man a job during this time, if thoroughly considered and acted upon, will be a step in the right direction. There are many capable men who would welcome this temporary employment and you need only telephone the Relief Office and a man will be supplied.

Here's success to your co-operation and a more beautiful city.

ROLAND DENNE, Mayor.

Make Peterborough More Beautiful!

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP—Clean up back yards, alleyways, lawns, vacant lots, trim trees, paint your home, store, office, factory, repair verandahs, fences, shingle your house, change partitions, do some needed plumbing, tinsmithing, interior decorating, paperhanging, wash windows, etc., etc., and many more odd jobs. If you require a man, telephone the City Relief Office, 933W.

THURSDAY
Discarded CLOTHING Day

If you will take a look through your wardrobe it will no doubt reveal many garments which you will never wear again and which might be very acceptable by some less fortunate. Here is your opportunity to get rid of accumulated clothing.

FRIDAY
SANITATION DAY

Besides being necessary to health it is important that all refuse in the form of decomposed fruit and vegetables, etc., be cleared away and every sanitary precaution taken in the home and elsewhere—make Peterborough a Sanitary City.

SATURDAY
BEAUTIFICATION DAY

To make this week complete some consideration should be given to flowers about the home, factories and parks. The parks will be taken care of and the majority of factories are very particular about their lawns and flower beds. What can you do to improve the property about your home?

EMPIRE LEADERS FOLLOW SIMPLE ACTIVITIES IN PRIVATE LIFE

Golf, Walking, Fishing and Soccer Outstanding 'Sports' of Cabinet.

CHAMPION AT TENNIS.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
Central Press Canadian Writer.

LONDON, May 1. — British Cabinet Ministers, generally regarded by the world as formidable figures preoccupied with ponderous international problems, are strikingly "human" in private life.

Stanley Baldwin, spoken of in political circles as the "power behind the cabinet," loves his pigs and pipes. He can kick a football or coach a soccer team as expertly as he can argue the policy of the British Government. Not infrequently he will step on the field during "time out" when some team is in difficulty in a week-end "big game" and hand out excellent tactical suggestions. He reads a lot and sometimes pens a poem.

Prime Minister MacDonald sticks to golf, early morning walks in the adjacent St. James' Park and reads a lot. He is an enthusiastic supporter of good music and enjoys an extensive knowledge of modern science. He was one of the prime movers in acquiring the Codex Sinaiticus for his country.

Sir John Simon likes to forget foreign affairs and play golf or put on his skates and cut figure "eights" on the ice. At such times his smile is very much in evidence. Chess is his evening favorite.

Champion Sport.

The champion cabinet sport is Sir Samuel Hoare, who represented Oxford at tennis and racquets. His skates are his magic, for on the ice he is a wonder. Fashionable ice rink audiences often get the thrill of their lives watching the secretary for India do his stuff, which already has won him silver medals.

Lord Hailsham and Lord Sankey are inveterate hikers. "Jimmy" Thomas gets a kick out of any kind of outdoor sporting affair and likes a good "belly" laugh. Walter Runciman, board of trade president, collects model ships and has an astonishing assortment. One of them is a model of an old-time fighting ship and is built entirely of bone. The model was constructed by French prisoners of war more than 100 years ago, and the bone was taken from meat on which the prisoners were fed.

Several ministers, as well as members of the House of Commons, have the peculiar hobby of converting paper into wands, rings, paper hats, cups and other shapes. They twist the paper into shapes and figures while listening to debates. Winston Churchill's deft fingers can turn out a number of interesting geometrical designs.

Total deaths during the months also showed an increase, 594 being recorded as compared with 567 last year, the Toronto Department of Public Health reported yesterday.

Costumes Of 1934 Are Seen At Warsaw

WARSAW, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—A large number of ladies from Warsaw and surrounding district attended the exhibit of frocks, suits and coats shown by Mr. and Mrs. McFadgen of Toronto in Harry Digweed's store on Wednesday afternoon, and evening, April 25th. The frocks were mostly printed silks, some in plain colors, though no one color predominated. All were close fitting with belts, wide or narrow, generally about two inches at the fitted waistline. Most of the sleeves were long, tight fitting on lower arm and puffed in upper. The short sleeves were puffed. The majority of necklines were high, with various pretty finishes—little bows on ends, or frilling. A few low cowl necks were pretty and decidedly different from what has been worn for some years past. The greater number of suits were tweed in Swagger styles, some plain colors, some mixed. Greys, blues, and greens predominated. One noticeable suit in navy blue tweed had a blue jacket lined with black and white check, and black and white facings, and two skirts, one blue and the other black and white check.

Some of the summer coats were fur trimmed, with these the collars were turned down. Most of the others had standing collars. There were two pretty brown and mixed tweeds with collar and scarf of brown and mixed tweeds with collar and scarf of brown and white striped silk. The greater number were in plain colors and practically all colors were shown.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles, it's because you haven't heard of Hem-Roid, the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel — the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefitting by Dr. Leonhardt's discovery, so why doubt or delay longer when McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and all druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money back."

Old Subjects Used For New Song Hits

In this great machine age, when nearly everything but eating and sleeping is done mechanically, it seems odd that the modern popular song-writer is the one who is preserving the memory that the forebears achieved the same results by depending upon nature and their own manual labor and ingenuity. Witness the deluge of songs about things that are "old" to the present day civilization. They are writing about the old spinning wheel that spun the yarn for grand-dad's clothes; the old covered wagon that preceded our motorized age and even the old wagon wheels that carried it over the old covered bridge. Recenly we heard old pappy getting senimental about the old urnk in the attic or chopping down the old pine tree.

To round out this cycle of "old" songs, now comes the outstanding hit of them all—"AN OLD WATER MILL"—a ballad of rare simplicity and charm. It is significant that "An Old Water Mill" was written by the same composer responsible for "Throw Another Log on the Fire," which in itself is a guarantee of a sweet wholesome song.

Golf, Walking, Fishing And Soccer Outstanding "Sports"

The trials and tribulations of leading a great Empire are never allowed to interfere with the hobbies and "vices" of Britain's cabinet ministers. Stanley Baldwin, (left) for instance would put off a cabinet meeting to attend a soccer game. Ramsey MacDonald (centre) has done some of the finest "statesmaning" while on the golf course or walking. Sir John Simon, (right) also swears allegiance to the grand old game. (Lower left), the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, would rather spend his time figuring out how to catch a fish than he would trying to balance a budget. (Lower centre) "Jimmy" Thomas, Dominion secretary, is a walker who would rather walk than eat—almost.

PRINCIPAL OF WYCLIFFE HAS HOPE IN CHURCH

Rev. Dr. R. B. McElheran Addresses St. John's Men's Bible Class.

THIRD ANNUAL DINNER

Says "Church of England is Strength of Old Land."

H. LEMMINGS PRESIDES.

"I believe more in the church today than I ever did before. The very poorest and weakest church has more hope in it than any other organization in the world," the Rev. Dr. R. B. McElheran, principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, told a gathering of over one hundred men last evening.

Dr. McElheran, who was introduced by Venerable Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave, made the remarks during the course of a brilliant address as guest speaker at the third annual banquet of St. John's Men's Bible Class, held in the Parish Hall. H. Lemmings, class president, occupied the chair as toastmaster.

The speaker, who was making his first visit to this city, said he was very glad to be present, apart from being in touch with a live, vigorous parish, because he felt that Wycliffe owed a debt to the parish of St. John's that he wished to acknowledge.

He referred to two local young men, Frederick C. Jackson, B.A., the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jackson, of Maitland avenue, and Edward "Ted" Rigby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rigby, of Weller street.

Elected Senior Student.

The former young man, who was present at the dinner, the principal of Wycliffe stated, was this year editor of the college magazine, "Cap and Gown," and the other day was elected senior student of the college for next year.

Of Mr. Rigby, Dr. McElheran said, "he is one of the very rare spirits you run across in a lifetime, and I miss my guess if I prove to be wrong in saying that Rigby is going to turn out to be a real chap.

"It is with no feeling of superiority that I come to visit your class. Neither do I intend to give you advice about it, because I do not feel there is a Bible class, even in Toronto, that is superior to it," the speaker remarked in paying tribute to the work that the class is accomplishing.

"It is a great thing you are doing with this class," Dr. McElheran said. "It is a great thing the congregation is doing is giving such splendid young men as Jackson and Rigby to the ministry. I believe greatly in the church. I believe more in it to-day than ever I did before."

He continued to speak of the Church of England as being the strength of the Old Land, remarking upon the steadying influence which the church had offered to the national life of Britain.

The Church's Influence.

"We see other nations," he observed, "filled with terror about the future, while we see the dear, dear Old Land pulling through with chin up, after having taken heavy losses. She has given a remarkable demonstration in her recovery on the road to prosperity, which has been the envy of the world, and at the heart of it all we have the Church of England.

"One of the steadying influences in Canada in these very trying times has been this dear old church of ours," the speaker also believed. He made sympathetic reference to the unemployment situation, expressing the conviction, "I cannot believe this thing can be permitted to go on," but he warned there was no cure that he could see other than that represented in the work of the church and in the work of St. John's Bible Class. "Christ," he said, "must be permitted to have His way."

The Program.

Following dinner, which was served by the St. John's Women's Friendly Bible Class, Ed. Macdonald led the gathering in community singing, with Jack Marshall accompanying at the piano.

Afterwards, Mr. Lemmings presiding, called upon W. G. Howden to voice a message of welcome to the visitors. Rev. Dr. H. W. L. MaHood responded on behalf of the visitors, and after commenting upon the times of unrest through which the world is passing, expressed the opinion that "every church should interpret the movements of the day and offer leadership to the people."

Since having been called upon to address the Men's Bible Class upon various occasions throughout the past season, Dr. MaHood stated he had become interested in a study of the Anglican Church. One thing had impressed him greatly and that, he said, was the contribution which the Anglican Church had made to the tranquility of the world.

The example set by the Anglican Church, the speaker considered to be "very significant indeed."

The Church.

R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, people's warden, briefly proposed a toast to "The Church," during the course of which he made special reference to the spiritual and social life of St. John's Parish.

Captain A. W. Casey of the Church Army ably responded, speaking of the church of the past, present and future, with particular mention of St. John's. In thinking of the church of the past one was thrilled, the captain said. In thinking of the church of the present, one might be encouraged, while in thinking of the church of the future, he pointed out "that is up to you. What are you going to make of it?"

Before the toast list was proceeded with, H. Ridgely, pleasing baritone, contributed a well-received vocal solo, "The Laughing Cavalier," while Charles Coleman, on behalf of the Bible Class, presented Miss Lily Bacon, who has assisted at the organ during the past season, with a bouquet of flowers as a token of appreciation from the members.

The Executive.

"The Bible Class and Kindred Organizations" was the toast ably proposed by George C. Scott, 2nd vice-president of the Bible Class, to which D. G. H. Melton, class leader responded. In the course of his remarks Mr. Melton stated: "Such a class could not be maintained were it not for the members who comprised it and the capable executive which gave it guidance." In order to give visitors present the opportunity of learning the names of some of the leaders of the class which is now in its third year and come to be regarded as a permanent institution at St. John's, Mr. Melton named the executive as follows: President, H. Lemmings; 1st vice-president; Harold Burrows; 2nd vice-president, George C. Scott; committee, W. G. Howden, Charles Coleman, R. N. Stuart, Cecil Merritt, John Cridland, secretary-treasurer.

He also expressed appreciation to the various speakers who have addressed the class during the season which includes next Sunday, mentioning the names of Archdeacon Blagrave and the Rev. E. R. James, Dr. MaHood. Dr. C. M. Scott, A. R. Piper, E. J. Davies, Dr. G. S. Cameron, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., and Captain Casey.

Quartette of Boys.

The speaker of the evening was preceded on the program by four boy choristers, who sang "The Dream Ship," test piece at Stratford Musical Festival, in which the boys gained distinction. The choristers, accompanied at the piano by Frederic G. Mann, L.Mus., organist and choirmaster, were Robert Kay, Wallace Crouter, Leslie Sage and Fred. Fowler. As an encore the boys sang "Where the Bee Sucks."

A vote of thanks at the conclusion of Dr. McElheran's address was ably moved by C. G. Graham, rector's warden, while R. N. Stuart voiced the appreciation of the gathering to the ladies, taking the opportunity at the same time of thanking the same group for the splendid work in connection with the Bible Society canvass.

The Rev. E. R. James pronounced the benediction.

FINE PROGRAM AT SILVER TEA

Pastor Opens Manse at Janetville For Occasion—Debate is Feature.

LUNCH SERVED.

JANETVILLE, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—Rev. Victor Walker and Mrs. Walker opened their hospitalable home at the Manse for a Silver Tea, sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Presbyterion Church on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Walker welcomed guests from the United Church as well as those of his own flock.

Miss White of Yelverton gave as an introductory number on the program, a delightful piano solo, which was followed by a violin selection by Herman Wilson. Mrs Wilmer Fitzge gave a reading, and the Capstick Twins followed with a popular mouth organ duet. Mr. James Howe contributed a vocal number, while Mrs. Walker and Miss Malcolm rendered a delightful vocal duet.

A debate, "Resolved, that women have more influence in the world than men," was most interesting. The affirmative side was taken by Miss Malcolm and Miss Stacey, while the negative was upheld by Mr. Earle and Mr. Malcolm, all teachers of Janetville.

The judges, Mrs. W. C. Smith, Miss White, and Rev. V. Walker, required considerable deliberation before giving the final decision in favor of the affirmative side.

Miss Malcolm, the leader of the affirmative side, in her final three-minute reply, scored hearty applause by concluding with the words of the Prince of Wales:

"There's not a death
There's not a birth,
There's not a living thing in this wide earth
That has a feather's weight of worth
Without a woman in it."

Rev. W. C. Smith of the United Church gave a brief address which was followed by contests of varying nature sponsored by Mrs. Hilden Johnston and Mrs. William Hanna.

The ladies of the Auxiliary served tea with a variety of tasty edibles. A silver collection was taken and the evening was considered most successful from educational, social and financial standpoints.

HEALTH TALK IS GIVEN AT MADOC

Miss Mary Gillen, R.N., Addresses Members of Women's Institute.

MADOC, May 1.—(Examiner Correspondence). — On Friday afternoon, April 27, Madoc Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. A. C. Anderson, with an attendance of 35, Mrs. R. P. Wellman, 2nd vice-president, taking the chair in the absence of other officers. Correspondence contained thanks from two members who had received flowers during illness, and the resignation from office of Mrs. C. N. Whytock, who has been president of Madoc branch for the last five years, which was regretfully received.

After careful discussion regarding the dinner for the district annual to be held here in June, during which several propositions presented by the secretary were duly discussed, it was moved by Mrs. Wickham and Mrs. R. Taylor that the Ladies' Aid of Trinity United Church be asked to cater for the dinner, and that the use of the church be asked for, for the morning and afternoon sessions.

Miss Mary Gillen, R.N., was then introduced as one of Madoc girls, and gave a splendid talk on 'Health in the Home,' stressing the use and value of fresh air, sunshine and cleanliness in our home life, and for the welfare of the children, and also in the sick room.

Roll call was well responded to by "Hints for the Sick Room," coming very appropriately from those who have practical knowledge of illness and nursing.

Mrs. George White was then called on for "Current Events of the Month," and gave a most interesting and educational talk.

Mrs. Corrigal moved, seconded by Mrs. Parks, a vote of thanks to Miss Gillen for her able paper. Mrs. Smith spoke briefly of the loss to the Institute in the resignation of Mrs. C. N. Whytock and moved that a vote of thanks be tendered Mrs. Whytock for her able leadership during the last five years, and our sincere regret at her resignation. This was seconded by Mrs. Bristol, who also expressed the appreciation of the members of the work accomplished by Mrs. Whytock and the difficulty to be faced in finding a successor. This was carried unanimously.

The members also expressed their thanks to Mrs. Anderson for her hospitality and our regret that it had interfered with other plans.

The National Anthem and a social half-hour closed the meeting and the members were reminded that the annual meeting in May would be held at the home of Mrs. George Huffman. The chairmen of committees were also reminded that the yearly reports should be submitted in writing to be passed on to the district chairman. Members were also asked to respond to the May roll call with written suggestions for the next year's program.

MINE PROTESTS OF LITTLE AVAIL SAYS STEVENS

of credit to the end that the economic life of the country may be placed on a new and sound basis.

Two Satisfactions

Mr. Spencer found two things in the budget, apart from the gold tax, to his satisfacion and regarded them as indications of a change of heart on the part of the government. One was the absence of new taxation. In every previous budget under the present government new taxes had been imposed but in this only the gold tax was new and it was to replace a reduction elsewhere. He believed other means than high taxes might have been used by the government to get around its difficulties and claimed taxes were seriously hampering internal trade.

On the other hand the high tariffs added in successive budgets had had a bad effect on external trade. There was some indication the government appreciated this as the present budget indicated a new trend, downward instead of upward. Of the 72 tariff changes only a very few were upward and the great majority downward.

Mergers combines and cartels came in for a share of attention in yesterday's debate.

Theories Out of Date

Mr. Stevens referred to them at length in pointing out the changes which had taken place in the economic order in recent years and claiming the theories of Liberalism as outlined by Rt. Hon. W. L Mackenzie King were out of date.

The law of supply and demand was not operating freely now, whether governments liked it or not, said the Minister. He referred to the mergers of flour mills and their control of bakeries in Canada, the mergers of pulp and paper mills and pubic utilities. These mergers had not, on the whole, been successful financially, but they had resulted in the concentration of control of business in a few hands.

Harry Butcher (Liberal Last Mountain) assailed mergers and combines from the point of view of over-capitalization and fraudulent stock selling. He urged the placing of sharp teeth in new company laws to prevent practices which in the past, had mulcted the Canadian people of many millions of dollars.

MILLBROOK LODGE ATTENDS CHURCH

Rev. H. R. Williams Preaches to the Millbrook Lodge of I.O.O.F.

MILLBROOK, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—Grace Presbyterian Church was well filled on Sunday evening when Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 308, attended divine worship, the membership being well represented.

Spring blossoms were banked on the altar table, and the choir had special music, including an anthem, "Ere Another Sabbath's Close," Miss Ruth Thorndyke taking the solo, and with her father, Charles Thorndyke, the concluding duet; Miss Vanita Ingram's solo, "An Evening Prayer," immediately followed the sermon.

Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., preached an inspiring discourse based on the story of the Good Samaritan, and after a vivid word picture of the road from Jerusalem to Jericho, "the blood way" as it is called to this day, with its many hiding-places for bandits, went on to show that travellers on life's highway often fall among thieves because they neglect the guide book, the Word of God. The priest hurried by because he thought the service of the temple of more importance than helping a fellow being in need; the Levite because he too was bent on some service for the synagogue and did not wish to defile his hands or his robes for the ministry; but the Samaritan had love in his heart for all God's children and showed the spirit of the Master in extending a helping hand to one who had fallen on evil fortune."

"Go thou, and do likewise, remembering that broken lives can be mended and set on the right road again."

The usual votes of thanks were passed upon return to the Lodge room, and a social time in keeping with the Sunday occasion was enjoyed.

leaving the rest of the program to speeches by the candidate and Fred W. Bowen, M.P., and Premier Henry.

Milton Elliott

Suggestions to the Premier that interest rates on Provincial farm loans be reduced and that rural hydro rates be cut down as measures of relief to the farmer were among four recommendations made by Mr. Elliott as he rose to accept his acclamation. He proposed also a broader application of the Mothers' Allowance benefits and relief from the highway burden for the municipalities.

The farmers of Ontario are now passing through a particularly difficult period although brighter prospects are on the horizon, Mr. Elliott said. If the Government could find it possible to reduce the rates on their loans one-half per cent or one per cent it would mean a lot in helping them through, he proposed.

"We are hearing a lot from our opposition about the surplus power," he said in offering his Hydro recommendation. "I don't believe all I hear from the opposition but I think it is time to again cut down the service rates to the rural municipalities. If the rural rates are cut down I think in a very short time the surplus of power will disappear." The farmers are the backbone of the nation but many of the younger people are leaving the farms for easier lives, he declared. Electricity is a means of making farm life more attractive, he pointed out, and thus it is of signal importance that it be provided the farmer as cheaply as possible.

Reduce the Burden

Reminding the audience that the Government is paying an eighty per cent share of the highway bills and leaving twenty to the municipalities, the candidate voiced his conviction that the time is at hand when the Government should assume a somewhat greater share of the cost. In regard to the Mothers' Allowance he pointed out that a widow with only one child under sixteen years of age is ineligible. The Act shoud be adjusted to offer benefits to unsupported widows in this situation as well as those with two or more children, he suggested.

During his address, the Premier referred to Mr. Elliott's recommendations and stated that the position of the Government on the various issues involved would be revealed with the publication of the Conservative manifesto at an early date.

Asserting that his nomination by acclamation was a considerable surprise to him, Mr. Elliott expressed confidence in a Tory triumph in Durham. In the last Provincial contest the Liberals triumphed by a ten-vote margin, he reminded his hearers. He warned them of a need for energetic organization.

Approves Change

Speaking of the beer and wine amendment to the Liquor Control Act, he said, "The Liquor Control Act was aproved by a great majority in 1926. I believe it has worked out better than even its sponsors at the time dreamed it would. I have confidence enough in George Henry as a temperance man to know that he is not making a change in the Liquor Control Act without the best interests of the people in mind."

While the Liberal party is divided into quarrelsome factions, the Conservatives are united solidly behind Henry, he concluded. "I think that speaks well of George Henry and the record of his Government. This county is strong in Conservatives and there is no reason why we can't roll up a large majority and do our part in putting the Government back in power."

F. W. Bowen, the Federal member for Durham, pointed to Premier Henry as "a man of experience who knows what is best for the people of Ontario. Mr. Henry has at heart the welfare of this province and of its people generally. I am sure some of you do not see eye to eye with him but I am sure he advocates what is best."

In a few words on the situation at Ottawa, Br. Bowen gave his opinion that, if there were to be an election in the immediate future, the opposition would not want control. They would prefer to wait until better times before taking the reins, he said.

Premier Henry

Early in his address Hon. Mr. Henry reached the subject of the finances of the province.

"I don't intend to weary you with a lot of figures," he said, "but I wish to mention a few in round numbers which may be more easily remembered. The revenues of Ontario were between fifty-four and fifty-five millions of dollars before the depression set in. Latterly they have shrunk to fifty or fifty-one millions, and for the sake of convenience we shall regard them at the first amount of $50,000,000.

You will hear a great deal about the debt of Ontario, and statements that we have piled it up to five or six hundred millions. We have increased the debt of the province, but what have we done with the money. It has been mostly invested in paying assets, providing for many kinds of betterments for the people of the province. We have invested from $180,000,000 to $190,000,000 in the Hydro, and $100,000,000 in roads, and we have loaned from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 on housing schemes and also to farmers.

We have given loans to 17,000 farmers amounting to about $50,000,000, and we have spent $45,000,000 in the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway which has uncovered wealth of more than a billion dollars. When you total these amounts up you find that there is left about $125,000,000 that have been invested largely in social and administrative purposes, grants to hospitals, grants to asylums for mental cases, buildings for our administration in Toronto, and for the administration of justice in the north country.

You will appreciate that the largest part of these investments are revenue-producing. Every year the T. and N.O. has paid upwards of $15,000,000, more than one-third of all that was invested in it, and our road system is all to the good."

Premier's Highway Record

Premier Henry said that as Minister of Public Highways for nine years he had handled $250,000,000 in receipts and expenditures and not a dollar had ever gone astray. In all that work he had sought full value for every dollar expended.

"Our capita debt for the improvement of roads is one of the best investments we ever made. I have never believed that the tourists from the United States came into this country because they could obtain beer, and I agree with the editorial in to-night's Toronto Star which points out that the greater number of tourists coming into Canada are attracted to Ontario. We have had seven or eight times the number of tourists reported by Quebec because we have the roads they want. We have country to show them that is particularly accessible by automobile, and that is why they have been coming to us in greater numbers every year.

But, we were not building roads primarily for tourists. We have been building them for our own people. We have more than three times the numbers of cars Quebec has. What would be the use of having cars if we had no good roads. This is the day of good roads everywhere, so there should be no criticism on that score. And, I don't think there will be any criticism of our policy of extending loans to farmers. After all they are our primary producers. I may say that returns from these loans are not as much as we would like, but we are not interfering with the man who can't pay his interest and principal as promptly as he would like. We realize that it is better to leave him on the farm, because he is an asset."

Ontario's Budget

"Of the $50,000,000 we collect annually less than $5,000,000 comes directly from the entire people, and half of that is collected for purposes of taking care of the widows and orphans and the aged people who are on pensions.

The $45,000,000 we gather from other sources from various services, taxes on corporations, succession duties and profits on the sale of liquor. I might point out that the receipts from gasoline taxes last year were nearly as much as in 1932, and yet it was said to have been one of the most difficult years in our history. Obviously there must have been a great number of people who had the money to buy gasoline. Two years ago we got $10,000,000 from the sale of liquor, and if you didn't buy any you didn't contribute one cent. Last year it was about $8,000,000. Two years ago the succession duties yielded about $10,000,000, and the corporations paid $7,500,000.

So, from motor cars, succession duties and corporation taxes we got about $40,000,000, and the other $5,000,000 came in smaller amounts such as timber dues, amusement tax, fish and game licenses and other small levies.

Governmental Expenditures

What do we do with the $50,000,000, you will probably ask. The interest on our debt amounts to $16,000,000, nearly one-third of our revenue, and we believe in maintaining the credit of Ontario by paying the interest on our bonds to those who lend us the money. Up to 1931 we were putting by a reserve to retire the debt, but we have discontinued that to-day because we feel that we should ask from the people just enough to get by on.

In 1932 we distributed altogether between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000 on education in grants to the universities and so on to the smallest rural school. Last year we didn't pay as much as we had been paying, but as soon as our revenues become buoyant, we hope to get back to paying the full allotment again.

We spent three or four millions on provincial highways and six or seven millions on municipal roads. Then, we have to keep up our mental hospitals that are housing more than 12,000 people, and we have our other extensive social services to be maintained. So, when you hear our oponents saying they are going to cut expenses in half you know it is only an indication of their absolute ignorance of what they are talking about. They haven't any expectation of doing anything of the kind. They are simply hoping that people will vote for them.

In times of elections you hear some people say, "Oh give them a chance. Do you think it is wise to give anyone who speaks as recklessly as the leader of the Opposition a chance to take charge of the administration of this province?"

The Beer Bill

After outlining the Government's activities in the marketing of agricultural products, and the new contract basis for the rural Hydro service, Premier Henry referred to the legislation permitting the sale of beer in hotels and restaurants. He recalled that in 1893, 1898 and 1902 the Liberals had taken three plebiscites on temperance legislation, but had declined to carry out the expressed wishes of the people. No progress was made until the Whitney Government came into power, and its famous local option law, with the three-fifths clause, was still in force. Briefly reviewing the Ontario Temperance Act and the Liquor Control Act he said that there had been a promise given in 1926 that the L.C.A. might be modified.

"I believe in temperance, and I would be loth to turn my hand in any way that would increase the use of intoxicating liquor in this province. The Liquor Control Act was not perfect. Under that measure there has been a tendency to use more of strong liquors and less of beer and light wines. So, we recommended to the Legislature a modification providing for the sale of beer under strict control in a special room in standard hotels and also the sale of beer and wine in public dining rooms. That doesn't mean in every little restaurant. It means that in larger public dining rooms authority will be given in areas that are not under local option to sell wine and beer with meals under the regulation of the Liquor Control Board.

The Government doesn't desire to go the limit under this legislation. You know, for example, that we have had the right to permit liquor at banquets, but that permission has not been given because the Government does not believe the people wish it. For the same reason we have refused to permit the advertising of liquors in newspapers.

Now what have you on the other side of the House. In the first place only nine of our 105 members in the House voted against the Bill, all my supporters and twelve out of twenty-one of the Opposition. Now you find the Opposition off in half a dozen camps.

You might ask Mr. Bragg where he stands. Does he belong to Hepburn or is he with Dr. McQuibban? I have known him for twenty-five years. I think it would be worth your while to find out where he belongs so that you can intelligently cast your votes. You know where Milton Elliott stands — behind a Government that stands for responsibility.

I believe in the theory that you can't dissociate the liquor traffic from the administration. When you try that you run into the results they had in the United States. I don't want any independents. I want men who are whole heartedly behind me. That is the basis of government responsibility and stability."

Premier Henry said he had every confidence that the Conservative Government would be returned to power and he hoped that Durham would be "on the right side."

MADOC PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

Dramatic Society Presents Play Under Auspices of Public Library Board.

MADOC, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Dramatic Society of Madoc presented a two-act play under the auspices of the Madoc Public Library on Friday evening, April 27th, under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Ashley, in the Masonic Hall.

The play, "Let's All Get Married," was well presented and each character ably sustained throughout. The cast is as follows: Professor Max Carrington, Don Whytock; Marjorie Miller, his fiance, Miss Clarice Dafoe; Ethel Carrington, his slister, Miss Norma Fair; Miss Pum, "Aunt," Mrs. Wesley Hulin; Jack Foster, Ethel's lover, Harold Mulholland; Reverend Benjamin Morris, Max's friend, Wesley Pinkham; Goldie McGrath, professor's secretary, Jean Phillips; Dick Havens, a college student, Alex Broad; Everett Payne, lawyer, John Bristol; Biggs, an English butler, Bernard Edwards.

During the interval between the first and second acts a musical program was given by local artists which was much appreciated.

Mr. Colin Ross gave a couple of solos in his own inimitable style. The Ladies' Quartiette, Mesdames Fair, Hulin, C. Whytock and Eagleson, sang, "Long, Long Ago." Mr. Will Hawthorne sang "When Father Papered the Parlor," "All Dressed Up and No Place to Go."

The Male Quartette, Messrs. Fletcher, Reddick, Bedford and Hawthorne, rendered "The Bells of St. Mary's" and following a vociferous encore, gave the round "Three Blind Mice," to a highly amused audience. A second number was, "She Sleeps, My Lady Sleeps."

Following the National Anthem the hall was quickly cleared for dancing, which was continued into the small hours; music being furnished by Mulholland's Orchestra.

Through a loud-speaker device recently invented by a Glasgow, Scotland, fireman, men fighting a blaze will be automatically advised of a fire starting in another part of the city.

ASHAMED OF HER FIGURE

Husband Persuaded Her to Take Kruschen.

By following her husband's advice, this woman made a tremendous improvement in her appearance—she actually took off 32 lbs. of her excess fat. Telling of her experience, she writes:—

"A year ago I was troubled with rheumatism, nervousness and other complaints. And I got so fat that I was ashamed of my figure. I was persuaded by my husband to take Kruschen Salts. Before I began, I weighed 161 lbs. After taking Kruschen for a short time the rheumatism was less painful, my nerves got stronger, and my step lighter. Then I knew that Kruschen was doing me good, so I persevered with it and got my weight down to 129 lbs., a reduction of 32 lbs. of unwanted fat. I am not boasting when I say that I feel younger and more active, have a much better figure, and am healthier than I have been for years."—(Mrs.) J. S.

Kruschen is a blend of six mineral salts which assists the internal organs to throw off each day those waste products that would otherwise accumulate in the form of fatty tissue.

MAN IS DROWNED IN DEER RIVER

Canoe Upsets Throwing Two Trappers Into the Swift Current.

BODY NOT RECOVERED

APSLEY, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—News of a tragedy that occurred on the Deer River last week was brought to the village on Sunday. It appears that two men, James Wilson and Henry Bird, residents in Lake Township, were in a canoe engaged in trapping, when the canoe overturned and the two men were swept down the river in the swift current. Wilson was thrown against the remains of the pier of an old sawmill to which he managed to cling and from which he was able to get to safety, but his comrade was never seen again. Very little hope of recovering his body is held by the searchers. It is surmised that he was swept into the Long Rapids, through the Gut, and thence into Lake Tongamong. Pieces of the canoe have been picked up. The victime leaves a wife and five young children.

James McCauley of Warsaw has lately erected a butcher shop between Stephen's store and the Marmonte Inn, and will be open for business very shortly. This will be a decided advantage to the residents who hitherto have had to depend for their meat supply on itinerant butchers, and Mr. McCauley should be assured of a brisk business.

The thermometer dropped to 16 above zero on Saturday morning; a record low for so late a date in this section of the country.

The starling pest has reached Apsley. Flocks of these birds have been seen this week, with blackbirds right in the village. Last year starlings were noticed near Lakefield, but no farther north by your correspondent.

A ping-pong tournament was played off on Thursday night by members eof the A.Y.P.A., and was won by Mrs. Rex Spence, who was handicapped minus ten points. This game is getting quite popular also with the camp boys, who play in the Parish Hall on Saturday evenings.

Obituary

REV. JOHN MILTON DECK

LAKEFIELD, May 1. (Examiner Correspondence) — Seldom if ever was such an attendance of ministers at a funeral in the village as attended the funeral of the late Rev. John Milton Deck in the Lakefield United Church on Thursday afternoon of last week, representatives from Peterborough, Lindsay, and Kingston Presbyteries attended and joined the family and friends of the deceased in paying honours to a brother minister whose career, which promised to be a brilliant one, was so suddenly transformed to a higher sphere. There was a large attendance of out-of-town friends and a number of village friends who recalled the Deck family during their residence here were also present.

Rev. J. E. J. Moorhouse of Peterborough (St. James' Church) conducted the service and was assisted by Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., of Lakefield. Rev. C. V. McLean, M.A., Ph.D., Peterborough, Rev. F. M. Wooten of Peterborough. Among others present were Rev. R. B. Harrison of Maberley, Rev. J. W. Wilkinson, Norwood; Rev. C. C. Miller of Bridgenorth; Rev. W. Macdonald, B.A., B.D., of Peterborough; Rev. C. S. Cleland, Norwood; Rev. C. S. Riddick, D.D., of Omemee; Rev. H. J. Bell of Hastings. Rev. Elgie Joblin of Lakehurst.

Mrs. H. E. Moore presided at the organ and a representation of the choir was present for the singing of several favorite hymns. Mrs. MacMillan sang "Beautiful Valley of Peace" in excellent voice. The funeral address was given by Rev. Dr. Watts, Professor in Queen's University of Kingston, taking his text from the 38th and 39th verses of the 8th chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Romans.

A brief Masonic service followed the church service. The honorary pall bearers were: Clarence Cox of Arden (local preacher and friend of the deceased); A. Pike of Toronto at whose home Mr. Deck's death occurred. Rev. R. B. Harrison of Maberley, Rev. W. R. Archer B.A., of Lakefield, Rev. William MacDonald of Peterborough, Rev. C. V. MacLean of Peterborough. Acting pall bearers were the Master of Arden Masonic Lodge, and the following members of Lakefield Masonic Lodge: L. Erskine, T. Braden, D. H. Webster, P. Spence, W. W. Leonard.

Interment was made in Lakefield cemetery. Many beautiful floral tributes, gifts of friends and relatives, were banked about the casket in the church.

The late Rev. John Milton Deck was born in Lakefield nearly thirty-six years ago but while he was still very young his parents moved to Harvey township, later returning to Smith and settling near Fairview Church. The deceased received his education in the rural schools, Albert College and graduated from Victoria College with honors. He had been in charge of Arden United Church for the past four years.

Besides his widow (nee Vera Miller) and two children, Eleanor and John, he is survived by his father, a half brother, James of Cache Bay, three sisters, Mrs. Cecil Williams of Highland Creek, Mrs. H. J Bell of Hastings and Miss Mary Deck, R.N., of Toronto.

Attorney General W. H. St. George's A.Y.P.A. Gives Play In Apsley

APSLEY, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—A full house greeted the performance of a three-act comedy-drama entitled "Small Town Romeo," by St. George's A.Y.P.A. on Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, in which the performers scored a well-deserved success; those who witnessed the play declaring it to be the best produced by this organization. The character of Sly Perkins, the village constable, and holder of numerous other offices, was splendidly acted by Herb. Lean, who won the most applause, while Elgin Peters as Joe Stanford, a young playwright, excelled himself in that role, which provided ample scope for his ability.

The entire cast performed their parts remarkably well, and held the interest of the audience for more than two and a half hours.

The scene of the play is the lobby of the Rushville Hotel in a small country town; the scenery being the work of Mrs. Spence.

A secret panel, mysterious tappings, wild laughter and groans and a real ghost provided exciting thrills which kept the audience figuratively on their toes. The cast was as follows: Joe Stanford, a breezy young playwright, Elgin Peters; Sly Perkins, the village constable, Herbert Lean; Bud Williams, the village mechanic, the village miser, Harry Andall, the vilage miser, Harry Andrews; L. B. Loyd, the mysterious guest, Orland McCauley; Betty Braxton, the young owner of the hotel, Mrs. H. Lean; Sarah Higgens, the spinster aunt, Mrs. G. Kilborn; Miss Gates, another mysterious guest, Mrs. Rex Spence; Jane Hastings, the banker's daughter, Dora Lean; Anna Aldrich, the village school teacher, Ida Taylor.

Weddings

BOARD—BAUMER.
A very pretty spring wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Rectory by Rev. M. J. Carroll, April 30, when Marthe E., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Baumer, 567 George street, became the bride of Mr. Max V. Board, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Board, of Lindsay. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. A. Seidel, of Peterborough.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives of the family at the home of the bride's parents. Later the young couple left by motor for a short honeymoon.

On their return they will reside in the city.

IN MEMORIAM
REVOY.—In fond and loving memory of our dear Wife and Mother, Mrs. B. Revoy, who passed away one year ago to-day, May 1st, 1933.
"When the Lord said, "You have finished,
Come up higher, Mother, dear;
You have won a crown in heaven
By your love and kindness, here."
We miss your kind and willing hand,
Your fond and earnest care;
Our home is dark without you, Mother,
We miss you everywhere.
Sleep on, dear Mother, your pain is ended;
Rest in peace, your work is done;
You have gone where those who love you
Will meet you, one by one.
—Sadly missed by Husband and Family.

ICE TRAYS DON'T STICK

in the FRIGIDAIRE '34

AUTOMATIC ice tray releasing is just one of a host of features by which the Frigidaire '34 makes inconvenient refrigerators entirely out of date. Defrosting, for instance, is automatic. It freezes more ice—faster. It has a clever Utility Basket which groups small packages to save space. It has more room for tall bottles. It has the Servashelf for carrying dishes from refrigerator to kitchen table. Several models are finished in lifetime porcelain inside and out; have double capacity vegetable Hydrators; have shelves adjustable up or down.

But you can't possibly appreciate how greatly electric refrigerators have been improved in the Frigidaire '34 until you see a demonstration. Won't you step in—tonight?

THIS FRIGIDAIRE '34 MODEL ACTUALLY USES LESS CURRENT THAN ONE ORDINARY LAMP BULB

Nab Three Girls After Dillinger Fight

Doing their utmost to shield their faces, these three girls of the Dillinger mob are shown as they were being hustled to the railway station at Eagle Rivers, Wis., by federal agents, en route to Madison, Wis., following their capture at Little Bohemia, scene of a gun battle between federal operatives and Dillinger gangsters, who are still at large after deserting the girls during the battle.

The Proletariat Celebrates May Day With Parades

These photos show scenes characteristic of the observance of May Day by the proletariat in various parts of the world. The largest celebration is that in Moscow, where thousands of workers gather in the Red Square to mark the occasion with appropriate ceremonies. In the past, violence has occurred, and police are taking precautions to prevent a recurrence this year.

"Ride 'Im, Cowboy! Ride 'Im"

Cowpunchers, daredevil riders and bronco busters and other exponents of cattle range lore made the old west live again at the Hoot Gibson Rodeo, held on the film cowboy's ranch near Saugus, Calif. U.S. Not To Be Caught Napping With These

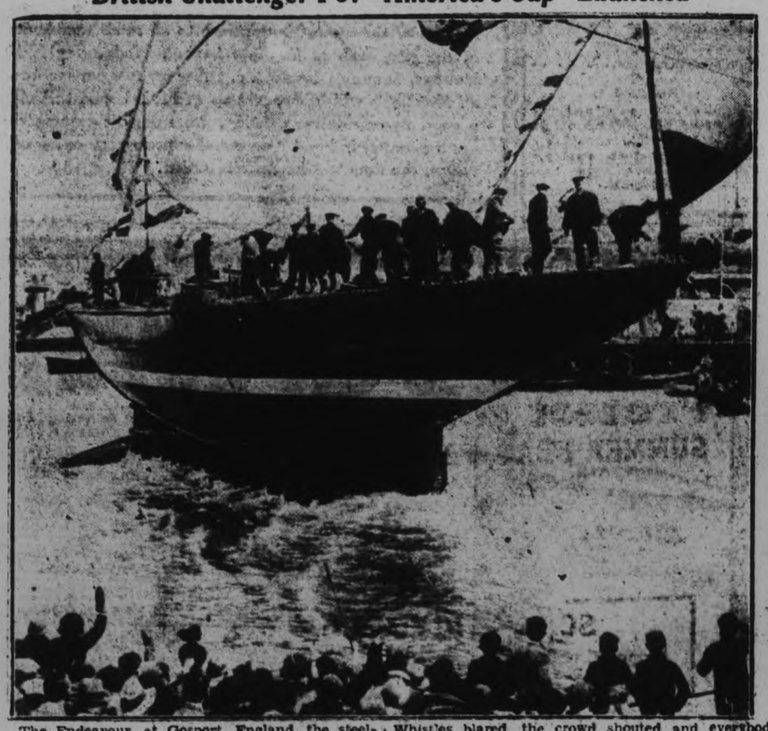
One of the big barkers of the Panama canal zone defences says 'hello' with a roaring blast at the 'enemy' fleet, during the recent U.S. army-navy joint exercises in the zone. The railway gun that is shown in action was manned by the fourth coast artillery. Along with naval expansion, army and navy manoeuvres, it would seem that the U. S. is not to be caught napping in the event of war.

British Challenger For "America's Cup" Launched



The Endeavour, at Gosport, England, the steel-built centre-board cutter yacht, with which T. O. M. Sopwith, noted English sportsman, will attempt to lift America's Cup, is seen here taking its maiden plunge into the water at Nicholson's Shipyard. Whistles blared, the crowd shouted and everybody wished good fortune to the new ship, as the fifteenth boat that has tried its fortunes against American yachts in the quest that was the late Sir Thomas Lipton's life's ambition.

Here's new and lovely crepe print dress, as fresh and lovely as spring itself. Particularly slenderizing is the wrapped effect of the skirt and the pointed bodice section meeting the becoming V-neck. And it's astonishingly simple to make it.

Tie silks, handkerchief linen and seersucker in stripes, pastel washing silks, etc., are nice schemes for it.

GENUINE AND MOCK PATE DE FOIE GRAS AND TASTY RECIPES

Pate de Foie Gras is a paste preparation which comes ready prepared. It is made from goose livers which are more fatty than other livers of fowls. In response to readers' requests for ways of using this paste, and others for recipes for the paste itself, I am giving the following for the foie gras made from calves' liver, or mock pate de foie gras, and others for dishes in which genuine—or its substitute are used.

* * * * * *

MOCK PATE DE FOIE GRAS

Take enough calf's liver, cut in slices to make one big cupful. Cook until tender with one onion, a bay leaf, a blade of mace, and several peppercorns and cloves. Put in refrigerator until wanted, liquor and all. When time to serve, drain the liver, and put in a chopping bowl with one small onion, one tender stalk from heart of celery, a sprig of parsley and two hard boiled eggs. Chop to a paste, and mix with one tablespoon butter. Season highly with sale, pepper, and paprika. This is a recipe I have used satisfactorily for many years. Be sure to have the paste as smooth as possible.

FOIE GRAS HORS-D'OEUVRES

Spread circles of toast with foie gras and garnish with a parsley sprig in centre of each.

Remove yolk from centreof hard boiled egg slices. Fill centres with foie gras and lay on slice of tomato, garnish with sprig of parsley.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

A group of my friends astonished me the other day by getting out one afternoon and playing scrub with an indoor baseball. So I suppose the time of year when outdoor exercise is more or less inevitable has arrived.

Whenever I discuss the question of exercise someone says to me, "I thought you didn't believe in exercise. Of course, I have never said any such thing. What I did say was that for some people exercise is a bad thing; for others it is beneficial. That as age increases it is probably a good thing to cut down the amount of exercise one takes, and that youth cannot be brought back by exercise alone.

But in spite of that, exercise is a pleasant and, in many ways, a health-giving thing. Essentially it is simply the body acting as a machine.

And what a wonderfully efficient machine the body is. A steam engine using coal wastes 90 per cent of the potential energy of its fuel, utilizing only 10 per cent; a gasoline motor using gasoline utilizes 20 per cent; the human muscle using food, mostly sugar, utilizes 33 per cent. This is next in efficiency to a galvanic battery, which is able to utilize 90 per cent of the potential energy supplied to it.

All the work that our bodies do in the world is done by this extremely efficient machine, which in its ultimate unit is a muscle fibril, and which operates by contracting its length, partly using chemical energy in the form of sugar and partly electrical energy. The waste which machines have to lose comes mostly from inertia and friction, and against these two things the human muscle bundle is very well protected. The friction which it has to overcome is largely friction in joints or one bone moving over another and nature, by various means, has managed to reduce this to a very low figure.

To-morrow we will consider something of the action of the muscle as a machine.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

LETTING A DOUBLE STAND

One of the fundamental principles of responding to an informatory double is the right to let the double stand in case more may be made by defeating the contract than can well result from any responsive bid. The result of such strategy is well illustrated with the happenings on the deal shown below.

Only North and South were vulnerable when South dealt. Bidding went: South, 1-no trump; West doubled, expecting a response from his partner. East knew that game at diamonds must be impossible against an opening no-trump call. As a rule 2-no trumps does not do well, bid over an adverse 1-no trump. Fulfilment of a doubled bid of 1-no trum, in case he made it, would not give South the rubber. If East and West could make 2-no trumps, they could defeat South's call for a worth while amount. If East actually could go game at no-trumps the penalty would be more than the value of a rubber, if the double contract was allowed to stand. East passed and so did the other players.

The opening lead was the 4 of diamonds. East put up his J and South's Q won. The declarer decided that spades was his best suit to lead, and his 2 was covered by West's 6, as he realized that East never would have left the double in unless he held honors in all 4-suits. East's ace won the trick.

East led his 9 of diamonds through the declarer, and 3 tricks were run off in that suit. On the last trick South lef go his lowest club, rather than shorten his spades. Wes thereupon led the 9 of clubs. Dummy played the J, East's K held the trick, and he led his 4, which South won as his second trick. West ducked his Q to allow his partner to later on win with the 10, which obviously he held.

South led the 8 of spades. West won with his J. He led his last club. East won the trick. South unwisely discarded his lowest heart. Seeing that discard caused East to lead his 7 of hearts. The declarer covered with his J. West's ace won the trick and he led back his 6 of hearts. East's 10 forced the K from the declarer, giving South his third and last trick. South led a spade. West won the trick, defeating the contract 4 tricks doubled, when vulnerable, amounting to 1,400 points, or far more than winning a game would have yielded.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

The well-known dance director, Seymour Felix, who arranges many of the dances in musical pictures, claims that a good number of the brunet chorines and extras in Hollywood are now cultivating graying streaks in their tresses. Seymour thinks that the contrast afforded by a grayish streak in dusky hair is most attractive. And apparently a good many of the Hollywood prettles do, too.

Recently I spoke of how becoming gray hair could prove to the elderly woman. But it is not always the elderly woman who acquires graying locks. Sometimes gals in their twenties and early thirties also find grayish strands appearing in their hair. And most of them seem to think this means the end of youth and romance for them.

There's really no reason for any gal to think that she's definitely out of the youthful class just because her tresses are becoming streaked with gray. For if she really is young, a gray streak of hair in her locks won't age her appearance in the least. As a matter of fact, it's likely to enhance her attractiveness. For gray hair often adds dignity and charm to a youthful face.

However, if a girl really wants her graying tresses to prove an asset, she must keep her skin fresh and youthful, her eyes clear and bright, and her figure youthfully slender and supple. If she frets constantly about the gray hairs in her head, she's likely to put ugly, discontented lines in her face. And then she really will look older than she actually is. And if, out of sheer disgust, she neglects her figure, the ugly figure lines she may acquire will prove far more aging than any number of gray hairs.

If you are still young, and your hair has started to silver, don't let a few gray hairs put a crimp in your yen for beauty. Instead, try to bring out the lustrous loveliness of your looks. Try to keep your eyes bright and your skin smooth and youthful. Try to preserve the vigor and supple slenderness of your figure. For if you do these things, your graying tresses won't tend to age you, but will rather tend to give you a more striking, colorful and attractive appearance.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Moist Hands

Belle: To correct moist, perspiring hands, bathe them three times daily in a solution of two drams boric acid, three drams borax, three drams salicylic acid, three ounces glycerine and three ounces of bay rum.

Hair

Jean: You will find an excellent dandruff remedy in my "Beauty Culture" booklet. This booklet also describes the salt water treatments for falling hair, the egg shampoo for blonde hair, and the hot oil treatments for softening and thickening the hair.

Make-Up

H. K.: I think that a soft ochre shade of powder, soft orange rouge and light, vivid lipstick would blend well with your coloring.

Lanolin

Janice: It is the pure lanolin that I referred to. I have never heard of a case in which this product has actually caused the growth of hair on the face.

Cold Cream

Mary K.: I think that a good brand of cold cream would prove far more beneficial to the skin than the preparation you mention.

Astringent

S. T. L.: A 4 per cent solution of boric acid mixed with eight ounces of witchhazel forms an excellent astringent and freshener for an oily skin.

Colors

Margaret: You should weigh about 125 pounds. A soft peach shade of powder, soft orange rouge and light lipstick should blend perfectly with your coloring.

Rouge

V. L. L.: A good brand of rouge will not harm your skin, providing that you cleanse the skin thoroughly after its use. Make-up should never be applied to a soiled skin.

KNOX CHURCH Y.P.S. CONCLUDES SEASON

Most Interesting And Entertaining Program Is Given.

Knox Church Young People's Society held its final meeting of the season last night, with a good attendance of members and friends of the society.

The program was in the hands of the executive, and proved to be both interesting and entertaining. Miss May Pollock and Miss Margaret Hill sang two popular duets, and Miss Eleanor Dunford delighted all by her reading. William Wedlock spoke on the Literary Heritage of England. The speaker etched the course of English literature from the Anglo-Saxon period to the present, and stressed not only the content value of our great literature, but also its significance as a vital force in the history of the English peoples.

In anticipation of the coming tennis season a tennis club executive was formed, consisting of Ormond Benson, president; Jack Thexton, sec.-treas., and a committee of three, Eunice Barnes, Mary Rahkonem and Ralph Charlton.

At the conclusion of the regular part of the meeting several games and contests under the direction of Jack Thexton were thoroughly enjoyed.

Refreshments were served, under the convenorship of Miss Hazel Laing.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

During a recent theatrical engagement, I had an opportunity to watch some of the dancers swing a golf club.

I was trying, without much success, to get a pupil to shift his hips from side to side. He couldn't see where this lateral hip motion would help his swing.

One of the show girls happened by, and I asked her to hold the club. Then I showed her how to shift her weight from one foot to the other. As the side to side motion of her hips increased, I had her increase the length of her swing until she was able to make the full swing.

In less than three minutes she was making a smooth and powerful swing, one that a 70-shooter would envy.

The golfer reminded me that she was a dancer. Dancer or no dancer, it's the hip action that does the trick.

Chiefs Hold Place Among Leaders By Taking 8-6 Decision From Bisons.

(By the Associated Press)

The idea that Syracuse Chiefs were the Jersey City Skeeters of 1933 with a different name on their uniforms is not proving true, much to the sorrow of the teams they have met in the International League.

Instead of being the means by which their opponents might step up the standings, the Chiefs themselves are right up there fighting for the lead with the Rochester Red Wings.

Yesterday they knocked off the champion Buffalo Bisons for the third straight time and their fifth victory in eight games. The score was 8-6 as Andy High's men made four double killings to help young Bob Coombs out of trouble.

Rochester Red Wings won their eighth game in 11 contests with a 9-5 decision over Albany Senators. A five-run rally, put together with four hits, a base on balls, a double steal, and two Albany errors in the eighth, gave Ray Harrell the decision over three Albany hurlers.

Breakup In Sixth

Vince Barton's home run in the sixth inning broke up the Newark-Montreal ball game, giving the Bears a 6-4 victory and their second triumph over the Royals. Selkirk was on base at the time and the blow cameoff Clarence Fischer, Montreal's third hurler of the game.

Toronto Leafs came from behind in the last three innings to pound out a 9-5 victory over Baltimore and sweep the three-game series. The Orioles had da 5-1 lead as late as the fifth inning but the Leafs got the range of Beryl Richmond's pitching and drove him from the box in the eighth and continued their attack off two other hurlers.

Hanging to-day in all the clubhouses of the American League are notices from Prexy Will Harridge warning the young men against fisticuffs. An unprovoked attack on another player, the notice tells them, will mean a 30-day layoff without salary.

Those last two words clinch it. The fight game will be dead all season, inso far as the American League is concerned.

MANAGER OF EMPIRE GAMES TEAM HAS WIDE EXPERIENCE

Sammy Manson Has Organized and Led Many Teams in Long Career in Sport—His Voice Will be Heard All Over London in August.

By M. J. WALSH
Central Press Canadian Writer

HAMILTON, May 1 — Canada's contingent to the British Empire Games in England this summer starts off on the right foot with the choice of Samuel Byckman Manson as manager of the squad.

"Sam," as he is familiarly known in track circles throughout the Dominion, has an intimate knowledge of all sports. In his home town, Hamilton, he operates a large sporting goods store, and it's almost a safe bet that Sam outfits 90 per cent of the teams in Wentworth County. The reason? He takes a deep interest in all games, plays most of them, and has promoted scores of leagues for school children and grandparents and embracing everything from corner-lot baseball to ping-pong.

"Sammy" Manson

Sam was one of the founders of the far-famed Hamilton Olympic club; he organized the 91st A.A.A. which yearly introduces the outstanding track stars of the North American continent to the Hamilton public, and, during the Amsterdam Olympic games, he sat in with M. M. "Bobby" Robinson and the officials of the British Three A's in laying plans for the first British Empire games, held in Hamilton in 1930, and acclaimed on all sides as the most successful pageant of its kind ever held under the Union Jack.

Was Star Athlete

Early in life he evinced the keenest interest in all things sporting, and soon his name began to be respected in football, basketball, baseball, softball, hockey, etc. He managed a champion Tiger cage squad, and bossed the Senior O.H.A. team which was beaten out by Granites for the provincial championship. He played as centre half on Tiger teams which won the junior, intermediate and senior Dominion titles, and he captained five Tiger teams. It was during one of these seasons that he earned the nickname "Iron Man." One Saturday morning he played for the Tiger cubs, and, through his kicking, they annexed the provincial intermediate rugby championship. That same afternoon he was right back in harness, playing for the Alerts, and, although they lost, it wasn't Manson's fault.

He travelled with the Canadian team to Amsterdam in 1928, and again to California in 1932, gaining plenty more experience in the ins and outs of the track and field game, and his frequent visits to the Millrose games at New York and other track centres have made him one of the willest in the game.

Manson is particularly noted for his voice. When the broadcasting apparatus at the Hamilton track goes out of order, Sam swings in as the broadcaster, and those in the far-off stands can hear results even better than through mechanical aid. He's not afraid to use that voice, either, and it's a cinch that, if Canadian athletes have anything coming to them at the White City, they'll certainly get it with two such battlers as Sam R. Manson and M. M. Robinson fighting on their behalf.

HAS YET TO WIN A RACE, SIR THOMAS IS 3-2 FAVORITE IN KENTUCKY DERBY

(By Central Press Canadian)

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Louisville, Ky., May 1.—Sir Thomas has yet to win a race, yet he is the 3-2 favorite to win the Kentucky Derby.

Why?

There are several reasons, the most important, of course, being his form in workouts at Churchill Downs. Glowing reports are broadcast about the son of Sir Galahad and Breathing Spell. He has been gradually worked up to the Derby distance of a mile and a quarter and has shown the railbirds that he will be able to stand the gruelling test of May 5. His best time for the Derby route is 2.10, which doesn't compare with Twenty Grand's record of three years ago, but he wasnt extended and breathed easily at the finish, as he also did at 2.11 several times.

The popularity of Sir Thomas dates back to his last start in the forthy-fourth running of the Belmont Futurity on September 16, 1933. There he ran a head back of Singing Wood for the biggest purse of the year and though the chart shows he lost by only a head, many critics disagreed and maintain to this day that if ever there was a dead heat it was between Sir Thomas and Singing Wood.

Sir Thomas' popularity is great around this section. His owner is a Louisville man, A. B. Gordon, and the Gordon entry will have plenty of support from Kentuckians, though they will also lay some of their greenbacks on Colonel Bradley's horses. A Louisville horse hasn't taken a Derby since Old Rosebud won in 1914.

While Sir Thomas is still a maiden, he has won $10,600 with two seconds and three thirds. He won money in only one stack race other than the Belmont Futurity and that in the National Stallion Stakes, won by Greentree's Black Buddy. He was twelfth in the Hopeful stakes at Saratoga, won by Bradley's Bazaar, seventh to Hadagal in the Champagne stakes at Belmont, and also seventh to Wise Daughter in another stake at Saratoga.

Only two maidens have won Derby races—Sir Barton, in 1919, and Broker's Tip last year. The latter horse is one of the reasons why Sir Thomas is getting heavy backing from the Louisville folk.

BRANTFORD REQUEST TURNED DOWN BY INTER-COUNTY LOOP

Red Sox Want Release So They Can Play in Hamilton City League.

MUDDLE CONTINUES.

KITCHENER, Ont., May 1. — (CP).—The request of the Brantford Red Sox ball team for a release from the intercounty association so that they may play in the Hamilton City League this season has been turned down by the intercounty executive officers it was announced here to-day. As a result the inter-county wheel will consist of seven teams but the final schedule continues somewhat obscured due to indecision by the Hamilton City League which has played an interlocking schedule with the inter-county for some years.

When inter-county officials advised C. K. Jutten, president of the Hamilton league, of the decision of the Brantford request he intimated that unless they could "borrow" Brantford for this season that their league may not operate this year.

A meeting will have to be called by them to make a decision and this cannot be arranged until Tuesday night, Mr. Jutten said.

The inter-county officials plan to draw the schedule for the opening games on Saturday of this week to-night, but will defer drafting the complete schedule until the Hamilton situation clears and it is definitely known whether that loop is operating and if so whether they wish to continue the interlocking games. Inter-county clubs are willing that the inter-league operations shall continue this year.

PALE HOSE TRIUMPH 20-10

Al Simmons Leads Pale Hose Batters With 3 Hits, Including Third Homer.

CUBS-GIANTS ON TOP.

Detroit Browns Suffer 7-2 Reverse At Hands Of St. Louis Browns.

(By Herbert W Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

An overnight rise of 23 points in Chicago White Sox' batting average had induced their backers to shed their principal cause of alarm.

The pale hose, woeful disappointments in the early stages of the American League race, broke no records as they blasted five Cleveland pitchers for 18 hits and a 20-10 victory yesterday, but the rattle of baschits of Comeskey Park was the sweetest music White Sox fans have heard this spring.

Al Simmons, who had made only seven safeties in his first nine engagements, led the fusillade with three hits, including his third homer in as many days.

Sad Sam Jones, veteran right hander, started for Chicago, but weakened after holding the Indians to six hits in six innings, and retired in favor of Joe Heving with the score 20-3.

Regain Top Place.

Meanwhile New York Yankees regained first place by tripping Washington 7-4, while Detroit Tigers were taking a 7-2 beating from St. Louis Browns. Charley Ruffing went the route for the Yankees and drove in the winning runs in the ninth with a lusty drive into the left field bleachers with two on. The Browns hopped on Lynwood Rowe for four runs in the first three innings and won from the Tigers, going away.

Fine relief pitching by Bob Kline and successive homers by Frank Higgins and Lou Finney in the eighth helped Philadelphia Athletics to win from Boston 6-2 in the other American League tussle

Still in Lead.

Chicago Cubs and New York Giants held their places at the top of the National League heap. The Cubs had to travel 12 innings to earn an 8-6 decision over Pittsburgh Pirates with Guy Bush's courageous relief pitching and Gabby Hartnett's string of three hits, including his fifth homer, as the decisive factors. The Giants rolled to a 5-0 triumph over Brooklyn Dodgers as big Fred Fitzsimmons stopped the Stengel-men cold with five scattered hits.

Bartel's double and Ruble's single enabled the Phillies to top Boston Braves 5-4 in a tight 10-inning struggle, while St. Louis Cardinals rallied for four runs in the seventh to beat Cincinnati Reds 10-6.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS MAY 12TH

Two Picked Teams Will Play—Delegates To Await Upon City Council.

The official opening day of the local soccer season has been definitely decided upon last night at the meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association, with President William Anderson in the chair, when two selected teams will meet on Saturday afternoon, May 12th on King Edward Park. The players will be selected from the list signed up to and including the date of Monday, May 7th and the executive will choose the two elevens to do duty on that date.

Each team was given twenty registration forms. This does not imply that they can sign only that number but any team can sign as many individuals as desired to carry out their own full quota. The cost has been stated at ten cents each and the money from same goes to the association.

Teams Represented

Lindsay was represented by J. Miller, Canadian General by Robert Clyde, Caledonians by David Anderson, Hap O'Toole on behalf of the Canada Packers. Deloro was not represented.

Delegation to Council

Many interesting discussions took place in regards to the playing field on King Edward Park. The fans stated that the park was never in such a condition before as it is now, there are stones all over the ground that would prove dangerous to any player, the ruts have been filled in with gravel instead of ordinary earth and the hut is still in a dangerous position where a contestant may get injured. A delegation will await upon the city council on Thursday night in an endeavour to get a share of the grant that has been alloted to the parks, more especially King Edward, that has been neglected.

A committee was appointed to find out the most suitable marker for King Edward Park and report

SPEEDY COMEDY—SPEEDY ROMANCE

TORONTO BASEBALL SEASON OPENS ON WEDNESDAY, MAY 2

Boasting Five Straight Victories, Boone's Leafs to Meet Senators.

COME HOME TO-DAY.

TORONTO, May 1.—With five straight victories to their credit and running a close second to Rochester in the league standing, Ike Boone and his Leafs will arrive home around noon to-day to prepare for the opening of the Toronto season to-morrow. To their credit they have the best record in memory a Toronto team has made on its first road trip.

Boone planned to have the Leafs workout at the Maple Leaf Stadium about 2.30 this afternoon and the fans will then have their first chance to look over the surprise team of the league. In their preseason calculations critics called the Leafs to finish far to the rear in the International League race.

But indications, at the present time, point to them being strongly in the hunt right through the season. If they are able to maintain their present pace—and there are few, if any, reasons to expect that they won't—they will prove to Toronto baseball followers that they are the hardest hitting and most colorful team that has represented this city in many years.

Hustling Team

And they are a hustling aggregation. If any doubt on that score existed it was dispelled yesterday when Boone's men overcame a four run lead gained by the Orioles in their handbox of a park and slugged out a 9 to 5 triumph.

While they were reeling off their five-wins-in-a-row the Leafs did some tremendous clouting as they fashioned no less than 80 hits, or close to an average of 12 a game. They score 35 runs, which is a seven-per-game average. Such accomplishment is one to be proud of. And the fans seem to be just that. There was steady demand yesterday for tickets for the opener, and granted good weather, the crowd should be a splendid one. As a matter of fact to-morrow's opening is shaping up as the best blowoff since 1926, the first year Maple Leaf stadium was in existence.

Not only has the team been hitting hard and timely but it leads the league in fielding and the pitches have been standing to their guns in great style. This hitting has not been confined to two or three places in the batting order but all the players have been coming through nicely.

Of the new comers, who are playing their first year in Toronto uniforms the fans are going to like Harry Rice, Jack Crouch, the good-natured Bert Cole, Oscar Fuhr, Jim Pattison. Sheriff Blake and Gene Slott. Joe Morrissey will probably arrive here to-morrow from Cincinnati. He will round out the infield.

HAMILTON BOYS LEAD IN TOURNEY

Ontarioans Pound Out Five Victories in Five Starts Over Cleveland Boxers.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—Ontario's amateur boxing elite, warming up for the Canadian trials for the British Empire Games, held a unanimous decision to-day over a troupe from Cleveland. Led by the flashing little Callura boys from Hamilton, the Ontarioans last night pounded out five victories in five starts—four by knockouts.

Jackie Callura, the mighty atom who carries so much wallop that he finds great difficulty luring bantamweight foes into the ring with him, personally capped the drive. He knocked out Jimmy Walsh of Cleveland in 85 seconds of the first round. This was the final bout of the amateur card.

Earlier Jackie's brother Angelo had floored Emil Kasunic after 1.40 minutes of the fourth round for the count. Fighting at 118 pounds, four less than his brother, Angelo gave the Cleveland boy a terrific walloping before he finally smashed him down and out.

The other knockout wins were scored by Big Bill Maich of Brantford, Ontario heavyweight, and Len Wadsworth of Hamilton. Maich finished Steve Smosey with a right to the jaw in 1.26 of the fourth round and the referee stopped the Wadsworth-Jimmy Kocion battle in the fifth round when the Cleveland boy was in distress.

In the other international bout, Mel Glionna of Toronto, veteran featherweight, outpointed Al Gerald in decisive fashion.

COUPLE HOLDS TOP-LAP LEAD

Alf. Letourner Suffers Leg Injury After Hitting the Rail.

PLENTY OF SPILLS.

TORONTO, May 1. — Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, the favored pair in the current six-day bicycle race in progress at the Arena Gardens, provided leading efforts throughout most of the first day's riding. At midnight they held a two-lap advantage over their nearest rivals, Piet VanKempen and Freddie Ottevaire, who have been one of the best teams so far.

Throughout the competition, Peden-Audy and VanKempen-Ottevaire have provided most of the heated action. Throughout the jams this quartette have carried a great deal of the advantage and their two-team battle has set a pace difficult for the less-experienced teams to follow.

The teams are much alike in that Peden and VanKempen are fine jammers and Audy and Ottevaire have great sprinting and following ability. The jockeying for positions and hunt for soft spots provided by these riders through a field packed with talented riders brings one of the features to the race.

To Alfred Letourneur, who is once again partnered with Henry LePage, came the most serious misfortune of yesterday's riding. In the middle of an afternoon session of jamming, Letourneur was trailing another sprint star, Piet VanKempen. Going into a turn the back tire of VanKempen's machine blew out and the rider fell to the track.

Boucheron - Mouton, the all-French pair who were hailed highly have been rather a disappointment to many who believed them a serious threat. At 10 o'clock last night they were 11 laps behind the leading Peden-Audy. Neither in the jams nor in the sprints have they shown much.

QUINTE LEAGUE OPENS MAY 30

Picton, Belleville, Brighton and Gibbard Athletics Line-up for Season.

SCHEDULE NOT RELEASED.

NAPANEE, May 1.—At the 1934 organization meeting of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League, held in Belleville, all of last year's entrants, Picton, Belleville, Brighton and Gibbard Athletics of Napanee, definitely decided to line up. This league has been advanced to intermediate "A" rating. All the necessary 1934 business was dealt with except passing certificates and the schedule will be released at a later date. The opening games are on May 30 as follows:

Belleville at Brighton and Gibbard Athletics at Picton and at the latter game the league pennant will be formally presented to the 1933 league champions.

The Picton and Belleville delegates suggested the bolstered Gibbard team be given a bye into the "A" play-offs but to play in the regular league schedule and the team finishing second to enter the playoffs, but Secretary G. E. Gibbard of Napanee mentioned this experiment was being tried out by the O.B.A.A. in the Bruce County League with the champion Southampton team entered in that manner and if successful there would likely be adopted elsewhere.

Brighton displayed fine sportsmanship in upholding the "A" grouping and their stand was largely responsible in making the league possible again this year. Brighton are still a legical "B" club but it is hardly likely the O.B.A.A. executive would reconsider Picton or Belleville.

The officers, all unanimously returned for a second term, are: Chas. N. Loucks, Napanee, president; Norman Mallett, Picton, vice-president; G. E. Gibbard, Napanee, secretary-treasurer, and Don Scott, Napanee, secretary's assistant.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Tomorrow eve (Wednesday) at eight strokes of the clock in Duffus', an executive meeting of the Girls' Softball League gets under way. Only officers and team managers are requested to attend. Various important matters will come in for a lot of chatter, but the most important one will be regarding the affiliation of this loop with the Provincial Women's Union. It was voted to affiliate at an open meeting not so long ago, but the question will be rehashed and put to a vote again tomorrow by the executive. The damsels should advise their managers what they want and let the managers vote that way.

• • • • • •

Our big kick against affiliating is because it will shorten the playing season for all teams in this circuit except the winner. It will shorten the season by three weeks or so, which isn't a good thing for either players or fans. But there are other objections, too. For one thing, an affiliated league has to go by the Union's rules. And then, don't forget the added expenses. It would cost this league about four bucks to affiliate, and the players are also required to take out amateur cards, costing two bits a player. In playdown games, the home teams keep their own gate receipts but must kick in with five bucks to the Union each game, besides paying their own travelling expenses. And officials' fees for playoff games are: Scorers' three bucks, and umpires" three bucks per game. And it costs $25 to lodge a protest with this Union.

• • • • • •

Besides these added expenses to affiliate, the winning team must start out Aug. 15th in the Ontario playdowns. Our winning crew might knock off the Lakeshore victor, but would likely run into plenty of grief after that. Besides, can the gals arrange to get time off from work to go touring around the country a couple of afternoons a week in playdowns, and if so will they mind losing several hours pay? Men softball winners have to do it in the O.A.S.A. playdowns, and sometimes employers aren't very fussy about letting 'em off. Yeah, there are a lot of angles to think over before tying up with a Union for the year. When a league is sitting on top of the world, getting good gates and keeping 'e'm, drawing big crowds, playing till cold weather sets in—in fact, being quite independent—then why the Sam Hill change? As we see it, there is nothing to be gained by affiliating, and plenty to lose. However, we'll abide by whatever is decided there tomorrow and not crab regardless of the outcome.

• • • • • •

An open meeting of the Men's Softball League will be held tomorrow night also at 7.30 in Duffus'. It's an open session for the closing of entries, and any further teams wanting in should look lively. Various other matters will come up,too, such as umpires, caretaker, use of grounds, type of schedule desired, playoffs, etc. Those connected in any way with the league, and others interested, are invited to this gab-festival. Four squads are in now, Brintons, Dunlop Tires, Fashion Craft and C.G.E. There's room for two more.

• • • • • •

The East Peterborough Baseball Leaguers hold their re-organization meeting to-night at eight in Duffus', and everyone interested is invited. This loop will operate again in O.B.A.A. intermediate 'A' company this summer if enough teams enter. We suppose four is the desired number. C.G.E. is ready and anxious to go, but this is the only certainty at present. Fosters, Raybestos and Crescents have all been mentioned, as well as last year's champs, the Cogs. We hope some of these outfits can get lined up and go in there as a number of good ball players will be out of luck if this circuit curls up for a year. If enough entries are represented this e'en, officers will be elected and plans made for the season.

• • • • • •

Bay of Quinte Intermediate League organized again the other day with Napanee, Picton, Belleville and Brighton in, and the schedule opens May 30th. Brighton, the weakest squad in there, proved the gamest and kept this loop going when Belleville and Picton didn't want to play against the strong Napanee team. It was first suggested that the Gibbards get a bye into the playoffs, but Brighton said they weren't afraid to tangle with this bunch in the regular schedule. And the others finally agreed. Since then, word has come that two more players were granted transfers to Napanee—but they insist that fans will still know this summer that it's a Napanee team since they'll put the name on their shirts to prove it! And for the luvva Mike we hope somebody doesn't forget to introduce Manager Walter Gerow to all his new players. Vinnie Utronki will likely be the mainstay of the Brighton hurlers again.

• • • • • •

A husky gent breezed into the office today looking just like a guy that somebody owed some dough to and who intended to collect it. While we couldn't recall anything outstanding but our poll tax, still we decided to jog out and grab a lungful or two of air. But he nailed us first and asked in a nasty tone who was the sportswriter. We thumbed him toward the police reporter and did an am-scray in double-quick time. Half an hour later we toddled back innocently and doggone if the bird wasn't parked at our desk with a young thundercloud on his brow. "How come?" see he, "I thought ya told me the other mug was the sportswriter," But we thought fast. "Nix not him," we pipes up, "didn't you ask where the court-writer was?" And somehow or other he swallowed it.

• • • • • •

But his squawk came over just the same, and it concerned Madame Mollee LaMurphy's prediction that Horometer would not cop the King's Plat. "Why, she must be nerts," see he, "that bronc will romp home and lap the field, chuckling all the way! Why that McLaughlin entry could bust a leg and hobble home six lengths ahead of any of 'em!" Okay, we didn't argue. We think Horometer is a cinch to grab the big money, too. But, why blame us for what Madame picked out of a teacup? It wasn't only this guy, but at least a dozen have been after us already, and no doubt before the day is over, every hoss expert in town will tell us that this is one race when the favorite can't lose. We can't help it, blame the Madame. After all, she might have got the King's Plate and the six-day bike race mixed up.

A Canadian Skeptic Looks At Cricket

The following article written by D. Clarke was taken from the first issue of The Cricket, a new magazine published at Montreal.

First, I would like to say that until last year, the game of cricket was just a rumour as far as I was concerned. What little I had heard of the game was by no means interesting—a slow game—a game in which old men play. A sport in which tea seemed to play a larger part than the game itself. The impression that had been given me was that cricket was not a real athletic game in which physical fitness, courage, spirit and team play played any large part, but a leisurely game lacking in competitive spirit. Baseball and hockey were my games; real he-man games—cricket not worthy of my time.

Being interested in sport, I naturally read the sporting pages of the daily papers; it was there that cricket was first brought to my attention in any large way. I had been reading of the bodyline trouble in Australia. It interested me. Any game that drew thousands of spectators for days at a time must have something. I went to a chap whom I knew to be one of the outstanding cricketers in Canada and asked him to explain the game and especially the bodyline angle. On hearing from him just what happened when Larwood bowled his fast stuff—I began to look at cricket players in a different light. In my opinion there are not many baseball players who would stand up to, say, Lefty Grove pitching at their heads—what would happen is hard to realise. There would be at least a riot—an umpire beaten up and mass meetings held all over. To get on with my story, I became interested enough to go and see a game.

Having seen a game and having been told a little of the general idea I went to practice with my friend's team. Never has my pride in my athletic ability received a greater blow. Having a good eye and being at least a fair ball player, I figured that I would soon get the hang of hitting the ball. Nicely padded I took my stand, in what I hoped was the correct stance, and with confidence faced the bowler. The only exercise I got was putting the wickets up again—I was soon convinced that cricket was not only a game of skill, but a dangerous game—I just could not seem to keep from getting hit. Balls bouncing one place and changing direction was something I could not master. Breaks are what I mean, all over the place. So much for my debut as a budding Bradman. My ego had been given a terrible beating—but cricket had just recruited a new member. Ever since I have kept at the game and manage to score a few—the thrill I get when a few runs is a bigger one than if I do get a few runs is a bigger one than if I knocked a home run—there is something in the game alright.

Having now a slight knowledge of the game I would like to give my opinion as a Canadian, of the game and the chances of cricket becoming a popular Canadian sport.

First, if you can once get the Canadian boy to try—he will stick—because it seems to me that there is more personal satisfaction in the game than any other. It combines teamplay with individual effort in a peculiar and attractive manner. There is much to learn and this holds your interest. To tell you the truth it is my opinion that cricket has everything—and cricketers need everything to be good—skill, courage, self-control, agility, brains, physical conditions and sportsmanship. The latter virtue is one that is needed very badly in sport at present. I advise any young Canadian who has the impression that he is a great all round athlete to try cricket before he lays claim to fame, and if he wants a real game to play.

It is well known that a game, unless popular with the spectators, never goes very far. Well, I have taken some friends of mine to see matches and it was the general opinion that, if the fielding was a bit snappier and there was not quite so much delay in changing overs, etc., combined with a little more enterprise on the part of the majority of batsmen it would be a good game to watch. Personally, no other sport has absorbed me quite so much.

Cricket can go places in Canada if some real stars are developed and more publicity given their deeds. It's up to the old cricksters to make the game attractive—and if you do, we will sure appreciate it. Canada has lost her lacrosse supremacy and is away behind in other games, with the exception of hockey—so why not do something about cricket—we have the athletes—you get them interested. Sure it's a great game.

CAVALCADE ODDS DECLINES 3 TO 1

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 30. (UP) Railbirds were given a thrill yesterday when John Simonetti's Sgt. Byrne, promising candidate for the Kentucky Derby breezed through his first distance test. He covered a mile and an eighth in 1.59 2/5 at Churchill Downs. This proof that Sgt. Byrne is in peak form probably will pare down the odds against his chances to win the Derby, Saturday. A shortening of at least from the current 15 to 1 to 10 to 1, is expected.

Sgt. Byrne is the conqueror of the Australian "wonder horse" Winooka in the International Sweepstakes and also winner of the Paumonok Handicap in his first appearance as a three-year-old.

Bender First, John Bender's chestnut colt, went the full mile and a quarter Derby distance in 2.10 4-5, finishing under a drive. His performance and Sgt. Byrne's Gallop were the best workouts of the day at the Downs. In addition Dartle ran three-eighths of a mile in .37, and Quasimodo covered the same distance in .36. The track was fast.

To-day an even dozen candidates will strut their stuff in a one-mile race here for three-year-olds, the sixth race on the program. Sir Thomas is expected to win. The field of 14 includes these Derbyites Dan Sabath, Prince Pompey, Quasimodo, Peace Chance, Blue Again, Thomasville, Ridgemor, Vitamin B., Likewise Fogarty and Naval Cadet.

O. F. Woodward's Collier worked, a handy mile in 1.56 at Douglas Park.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, winner of the Chesapeake on Saturday, was the most widely discussed entry here to-day. The abrupt drop in odds from 7 to 1 to 3 to 1 failed to halt the flood of eastern money on this brown colt of Lancegaye-Hastily.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyst for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mrs. A. Gardiner,
R.R. No. 1, Fort Hope.

Your handwriting as illustrated throughout the sample for analysis, is indicative of honesty, integrity and good common sense. You have gained wisdom through maturity, and so, never expect too much from any one. You are gracious and very pleasing, with a kindly smile and genuine sense of good humor. If you have to reprimand an offender, you do so with a sharp precise tone of voice ,authoritative, yet not unkindly, for you understand the many weaknesses to which humans are subject. Your imagination is such, that you can visualize the why and wherefore of happenings, and seem to know why people do things which are not quite in accordance to your code of discernment. Your 't's' which are hooked at the upper terminal and also definitely crossed, show an independent spirit, the ability to complete tasks, firmness, but not too set or dogmatic, ingenuity and circumspectness. Your mind is very keen and agile. You are not a person who can sit with hands folded for long at a time, but must be 'up and doing' as often as possible. You like to talk, but you know when to keep silent; this in itself is a splendid attribute. Your general character is splendid, and to your serve I shall add "At Eventide, There Shall Be Light."

Lavena Evelyn Bruce,
R.R. No. 3, Norwood, Ont.

Your handwriting indicates a generous nature, and it tells me that you are deepy hurt if you cannot give when you want to or do things that you want to, due to prevailing circumstances. You are impulsive, and inclined to rush into projects, and hurry through them, then wonder what else to do with your time and energy. Your imagination is of the romantic type, and really should be of assistance to you later on when you have overcome your impulsiveness. Office work or teaching might appeal to you, but no matter which line of endeavor you care to choose, you will have to try to develop your will-power, for according to your 't' bar crossings, it does not come to your aid as often as you might wish. You are friendly and have a fine sense of humor, but there are times when you will not let yourself 'see' a joke. Those lower loops of yours suggest graceful rhythm as in dancing or swimming. Your capital 'N' in the word Norwood reveals poise and a certain amount of artistic talent. Some of your lower loops are at the back of the letters and some at the front, so you are rather secretive when you wish to be, and have a way of hiding your feelings. Pent up emotions are not good for one of your type, for they lead to bursts of temperament, and I pity the poor object who has to take the brunt of your ire when this happens. I do not think you would care for anything which necessitated routine or detail, because you would soon become bored and restless. Often people with your disposition, become writers when they have learned to overcome the urge to spread out their talents in too many directions. Concentration and a definite training is most beneficial, for these people have keen mental qualifications. I wonder if your birthsign is Gemini? Your writing is indicative of the usual talents depicted by these people.

BASKET SOCIAL FLEETWOOD Y.P.S.

Social Hour is Preceded by Excellently Presented Play, "Too Many Husbands."

FLEETWOOD, April 30.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The Young People's Society of Fleetwood United church presented their play, "Too Many Husbands" in the church Friday evening, April 27th, with a good attendance. Rev. Scott, pastor of the church, acted as chairman for the occasion and introduced the play in an attractive manner. The cast of characters was as follows:

Colonel Thaddeus Crane, Fred Walker; Dorothy Crane, his daughter, Marion Davidson; Chauncey Chilton, his secretary, Norman Shea; Arthur Maitland, a poor author, his nephew, Cyril Smith; Harry Brown, a bookkeeper, Leonard Welch; Milly Brown, Harry's wife, Margaret Armitage; Reverend Ormsby, a preacher, Edmund Staples; Mrs. Sheffield, Harrys mother-in-law, Edith Cook; Mollie, a servant, Evelyn Finney; Jones, an expressman, Clarence Brown; OFlynn, a patrolman, Bill Ridout; Rudolph Bauer, a German, George Tubor.

Time — The Present. Locality — The Bronx.

The parts were particularly well chosen and each character deserved great credit.

Enjoyable musical numbers between acts added greatly to the pleasure of the evenings entertainment. Violin and mouth organ selections from several of the young people received hearty applause.

At the conclusion of the play a number of attractive, well-filled baskets were sold by auction. One dollar was the approximate price received for the majority.

Appetizing lunches were provided in paper bags for those not fortunate enough to secure a basket. The proceeds for the evening netted over thirty dollars and the young people felt amply repaid for their efforts.

The final meeting of the Y.P.S. for this season is to be held in the church on Friday evening next and the regular meetings which have proved so enjoyable and instructive each week during the winter months will be discontinued until the commencement of the Fall session.

That overcrowding and sub-lettings of buildings was a social problem in England in 1592, when an Act of Parliament was directed against it, has just been found in ancient tomes.

Trent River Y.P.L.

Invitation is Extended to Havelock Group for Rally in May.

TRENT RIVER, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—A fair attendance met for the Young People's League Friday night, with Mr. D. Walker in charge.

The members decided to invite Havelock League in three weeks time; the visiting members to provide the program and Trent River members to supply the lunch. Clifford Chaplin asked to be relieved of the office of assistant convenor for Literary and Social Night, but the members would not accept his resignation, and he was reappointed.

Miss Bessie Inkster took charge of the following program: Scripture reading Chronicles II. by D. Walker; guitar and mouth organ selection, Archie McMillan, who responded to an encore; reading, "Mother's Glasses," by Miss Debra Longmuir; vocal solo, "The Sinner and the Song," by Mrs. John Scott; piano instrumental, Mr. Wesley Wildman, who responded to an encore; reading, "Graduation,' Miss Betty Ormiston. The gathering assembled in the dining hall, where Mr. Walker was in charge of a "station" contest; also "Musical Chairs" with Archie McMillan playing the accompaniment on the guitar. The Mizpah Benediction closed the meeting.

NEW FEAR RISES IN KIDNAPPING

Arizona Girl's Grandfather is Unreported Since Leaving for Mexico.

MAY HAVE RANSOM.

TUCSON, Arizona, April 30 (AP) — Two governments sent crack agents out on the hunt for little June Robles, kidnap victim, to-day, and for her 73-year-old grandfather who has mysteriously disappeared.

Bernabe Robles, the grandfather, left last night with two companions for Mexico, presumably to establish contact with the kidnappers and perhaps pay the ransom of $15,000 which has been demanded. Their failure to return early to-day gave rise to fears for their safety.

Agents of the Governments of the United States and Mexico began looking for the aged man, reputedly wealthy, and for the child, who was kidnapped last week.

While Robles' destination was not definitely known, his companion, Henry Dalton, Tucson City councilman, said they were going to Santa Ana, and would be back before midnight. The two pioneer cattle men, with Alphonse Aguirre as their chauffeur, were granted expeditious handling of their clearance papers when they crossed the border, immigration records showed.

The already nerve-wracked Robles family had not expected the cattlemen to be away for any length of time, and were unable to explain their prolonged absence.

In an effort to locate Robles and Dalton and furnish any help if needed, two United States immigration officers who were off duty, and two Mexican border officials, set off for interior Mexico.

COULDN'T "TAKE IT"

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 1.—(CP). Constable J. W. Bourke, newly appointed to the local police department, served only nine hours on night duty when he handed in his resignation. Mr. Bourke declared he couldn't stand the change from day to night work. He was governor of Nipissing district jail for some years.

U.S. SENDS TOKIO STERN REMINDER ON CHINESE CASE

Does Not Approve of Japanese Control—Stay in Treaty Limits.

JAPS RESENT NOTE.

Reaction is in Sharp Contrast to Britain's Willingness to Drop Affair.

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—The United States Government awaited for Eastern reaction to-day to its reminder to Japan that claims of "overloardship in Asia" must stick within treaty limits.

Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, unfolded to newsmen last night a statement asserting the United States does not approve of Japanese control, as projected, over Chinese affairs.

Note Resented

TOKYO, May 1 (AP)—Resentment at the stand of United States toward Japan's "hand off China policy, as expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, was voiced in the Japanese press to-day.

The reaction was in sharp contrast to the manner in which word of Great Britain's willingness to drop the whole matter raised by the Japanese Foreign Office declaration of April 17 was received.

Morning newspapers headlined Sir John Simon's speech yesterday before the House of Commons:

"Britain satisfied" and "England lets matter rest."

Afternoon newspapers, however, splashed Secretary Hull's statement with his portrait and such headlines as:

"American calls on Japan to consider the rights of other powers," and "America calls Japan's attention to the Nine-Power Treaty."

Incident Closed

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, told the House of Commons the British Government was ready to regard the incident as closed because of reassuring word from Koki Hirota, Japanese Foreign Minister, that Nippon has no intention of violating existing treaties or of interfering with the rights of other powers in China.

Apparently the Japanese Government has adopted a policy of silence at home regarding the diplomatic exchanges. Grew handed the Hull statement to Hirota Sunday, at the latter's residence, but the Japanese press first learned of the visit through despatches from Washington. A Foreign Office speokesman said Japan has no intention of replying to the Hull statement.

FIELD DAY PLANNED FOR VICTORIA DAY

Omemee Association Plans Big Sport Meet and Dance.

OMEMEE, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Omemee Athletic Association held a large and enthusiastic meeting in Coronation Hall on Friday evening. A number of new members joined the association. Reports were given by the conveners of the different committees, who are planning a monster sport day on the 24th of May, and good progress all along the line was reported. It was decided to buy the necessary wire and equipment to make a number of lines of colored lights for the street and to be the property of the association.

Two orchestras are to be secured for the street dance at night, but complete arrangements of same are not yet settled. Entries for the softball tournament should be sent to Dr. W. H. McPhee. Good prizes are assured, and given fair weather a record crowd is looked for. Races for the school children, horse-shoe pitching, softball, road races, and the street dance at night are some of the attractions. More and definite information will be given later.

Runciman Defends Foreign Purchases

LONDON, May 1 (C.P. Cable). — The British Government to-day rejected the principle of discriminatory action against imports from foreign countries "merely because these imports happen to show an increase in any particular period."

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, faced a storm of questions in the House of Commons this afternoon complaining of increased British purchases from foreign instead of Empire sources. Increases in foreign wheat and oats purchases in contrast to decreased purchases of Canadian grain were stressed.

While no favorable opportunity would be lost of developing intra-Imperial trade, the Minister declared in reply, he was unable to contemplate discriminatory action against the products of particular countries merely because the imports from those countries happened to show an increase in a particular period.

SEVENTEEN COUPLES WED DURING MONTH OF APRIL

Twenty-four deaths were recorded as compared with 29 in April of last year.

Meeting or Merchants Called for Wednesday

A meeting of the merchants has been called in the Chamber of Commerce board room on Wednesday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

All retailers in the city, whether members of the retail merchants section of the Chamber, or not, are urged to attend the meeting. Besides the Daylight Saving Time question other matters of general interest to all retailers are on the agenda of the meeting, including the matter of Wednesday half holiday, shopping hours, etc.

Confusion has arisen regarding the Daylight Saving Time problem, with the city officially remaining on standard time and some of the factories working to summer time schedules with Toronto's adoption of D.S.T. on Sunday last.

MILLBROOK

The name of Mrs. Russell Smith, of Millbrook, was inadvertently omitted from the obituary of the late Wentworth Gray when the members of his family were mentioned.

Mrs. C. Thorndyke returned home on Monday at noon after a week-end spent in Toronto, visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. Hill and Mr. Hill.

The hot supper served by the Golden Links Mission Circle in the Waverly parlors on Saturday was quite successful, over fourteen dollars being realized from the meals served, and the baking afterward sold. The president, Miss Gertrude Spence, had a general oversight of the event and was assisted by a number of capable workers from the executive, and the membership of the Circle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Platt, and daughter, Mary, of Belleville, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fowler, and Mr. and Mrs. David Fowler, on Sunday.

The two lads working on farms in the vicinity, Allen Hassett, at Mr. G. Bothwell's, and Jas. Chapman, at Louis Moore's, who wandered off over a week ago, and concerning whose whereabouts their employers had been decidedly anxious, have been heard from. Chapman at Claremont, and Hassett in Toronto, and both have written asking for their personal belongings to be forwarded. The object in disappearing without leaving any word has not been determined.

REV. ARCHER GUEST SPEAKER GOLDEN JUBILEE

Congregation of Havelock United Church Observes Event on Sunday.

LARGE CONGREGATION.

HAVELOCK, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence). — The opening services of Havelock United Church (formerly Methodist) golden jubilee were held here yesterday, April 29. The morning service was taken by Rev W. R. Archer of Lakefield, former pastor. Rev. R. J. Fallis, pastor of the then Methodist Church in 1887-1888, who was to have taken the service, was unavoidably absent due to recent illness.

The address of welcome was extended by Rev S. A. Kemp, present pastor, who also read a letter of greetings from Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, Moderator of the United Church. Mrs. (Dr.) Kindred of Tweed, a former member of the congregation here, was guest soloist, singing "My Loved Ones Rest."

Services on Sunday afternoon were in charge of Rev. Ralph Spencer of Smithfield, a former Havelock boy. Mrs. Fawcett of Tweed, a daughter of Mrs. Kindred, was guest soloist.

Rev. W. R. Archer was in charge of the evening service, his sermon subject being "This is the Day of Glad Tidings and Peace." A solo by Miss Edith Roberts and a duet by Mrs. Kindred and Mrs. Fawcett were also sung. Rev. Alfred Spencer pronounced the benediction.

Presentations of many beautiful and costly gifts, in keeping with the jubilee celebration were made by Miss Williams on behalf of the following members and former members of the congregation:

Solid oak Communion table from the Women's Association, oak pedestals by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Haig in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blake, oak pedestal donated by the Young People's League, brass jardiniere by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sedgewick of Norwood in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blake, brass jardinieres by Mrs. Claude Hawley of Toronto in memory of her parents, M. and Mrs. Charles Brewster, and her aunt Miss Beatty; five silver collection plates by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williams and family in memory of their two sons and brothers Ernest and Earl, Miss Mary Seeney in memory of her sister Mrs. Coon, Kniewasser family in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A Kniewasser, Archer family in memory of their parents, Mr and Mrs. H. T. Archer and brother Arthur, Wiseman family in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Wiseman.

Photos of all the ministers of the church during the past fifty years have been collected by Miss Williams and placed in two golden frames donated by Frank Hooper.

Framed photo of the choir of fifty years ago, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Firm Haig. One of the members of this choir, Mrs. Herbert Williams, was present at two services yesterday, and has two daughters and two granddaughters singing in the present choir.

A photo of the choir which sang during the pastorate of Rev. J. C. Bell and the Men's Fraternity Class organized by Rev. C. W. DeMille, both former pastors of the then Methodist Church, were presented by Mrs. Roy Campney, the present organist, who has held this position now for ten years, and who was organist during the pastorates of J. C. Bell 1899-1902 and 1907-1910, also in 1914. Her family of three boys and her husband have all been members of the choir at some time. A framed photo of Rev. McQuaid' choir was presented by Mrs. Jesse Campney.

The floral decorations for church were gifts from various members of the congregation, in memory of deceased relatives and friends.

A book "Historical Facts of Havelock United Church," has been written by Miss Minnie Williams, who is secretary-treasurer of the Jubilee Committee, and contains many interesting facts about the church for the past fifty-two years. Most of the information contained in the book is taken from a diary kept by her mother, Mrs. Herbert Williams, whose records have been kept for the past twenty-eight years. These facts with the correct dates and other information supplied by old residents, as well as church and village records make an almost complete story of the community life in the village for the past half-century.

Continues Through Week.

The festivities of the jubilee will continue through the week: Monday is Reminiscent and Re-union Night, when a program of old-fashioned numbers, also a parade of old-fashioned and modern costumes will be presented in the Town Hall. Tuesday, May 1st, will be Reception Day, when guests will be received in the church, and treated to a display of antiques, curios, and photos. The birthday cake will be cut and visitors will enjoy a cup of tea and piece of the cake in the company of old friends.

Wednesday, May 2, "Retrospect and Prespect," a pageant written and directed by Rev. S. A. Kemp, will be presented in the Town Hall.

Thursday afternoon and evening will again be Reception Day, the same program as Tuesday.

Friday, May 4, Young People's Night, entertainment at the Town Hall by the Young People's League.

Closing services will be held on Sunday, May 6. Rev. E. O. Seymour, a former pastor, will be in charge of the morning and evening services. The afternoon service will be in charge of Rev. Gleyn Beatty, a former Havelock boy.

Guest soloists for the closing services will be Mrs. Harold Buchanan of Toronto, formerly of Havelock, and Messrs. Henry Campney and Russell Abernethy of Campbellford.

Crew Brace Flames Save Ship At Sea

LIVERPOOL, N.S., May 1.—(C.P.)—Battling fire at sea and refusing to take to their boats even when there was danger of an explosion, crew of the Gloucester fishing trawler Sabia saved the vessel and brought her into Liverpool for repairs.

A spark from the generator of the motor operating the winch started the blaze in the engine room while the trawler was fishing on Brown's Banks yesterday.

The flames spread so rapidly that the interior was a mass of flames within 15 minutes. For a while the men feared the fire would eat its way through to the oil stores and cause an explosion.

Part of the crew was ordered to fight the fire, while others made the lifeboats ready for a quick getaway. After battling for over an hour the fishermen finally got the flames under control and the Sabia was headed for Liverpool, reaching port under her own power.

CANADIAN PRESS HONORS NICHOLS

Presentation Made to Past President of Great Newspaper Association.

PROVED STRONG LEADER.

TORONTO, April 30. (CP).—The Board of Directors of the Canadian Press, co-operative news-gathering association of the daily newspapers of Canada, met here to-day in a two-day session in preparation for the annual meeting on Thursday next.

A pleasing feature of the session was the presentation to the past president, M. E. Nichols of the Winnipeg Tribune, of a pair of Sheffield plate candelabra as a token of affection from the board and the membership at large and in recognition of his services as president from 1931 to 1933.

In making the presentation, the president, Henry Gagnon of Quebec Soleil said the association was greatly indebted to Mr. Nichols for successfully steering the association through two of the most difficult years of its history, when the country and the daily newspaper with it passed through the depth of the economic depression from which they are now recovering.

In that trying time, Mr. Gagnon said, they found in Mr. Nicholls a leader with the courage to comprehend and the authority to state that however necessary it might be for the Canadian Press to economize, those economies must not be carried to a point that would damage its efficiency or destroy its value as a national institution.

First President

Mr. Gagon reminded the board that Mr. Nichols had been associated with co-operative news-gathering in Canada from its very earliest days, when in 1907 he had become first president, in Winnipeg, of the Western Association Press. He hoped the board would long have the benefit of his experience and wisdom.

Returning thanks for the gift and gracious words accompanying it, Mr. Nichols said he had never spent happier years than those he served as president of the Canadian Press. It was true that the Canadian Press had become a great institution. But there was no mystery about the manner of its achievement of greatness. The newspaper brains of Canada had been mobilized to establish the Canadian Press in the first place in all the succeeding years the collective abilities of the Canadian newspaper business had been zealously applied to its development.

It was not by accident, therefore, or by any fortuitous circumstances that the Canadian Press was to-day a highly efficient national organization, serving adequately the widely varying requirements of its member newspapers and through them the interests of the nation.

Report Of Scottish Estate Proves Fake

HESPELER, Ont., May 1 (A.P.). —Some time ago a cablegram was received in Hespeler advising Roy Wilson, a transient, that he was the heir to a considerabl fortune and a farm in East Kilbride, Scotland; the message having been presumably signed by a firm of solicitors there.

Now from Scotland comes word that there is no firm of that name and no death recorded of a Robert Wilson.

Chief of Police Wilson, who says he has been suspicious of the claims of Roy Wilson, says he believes the transient to be Roy Hudson, alias Allan Gilmore, who it is alleged, staged a somewhat similar game in Pembroke, borrowing $200 from a widow there to be returned when he got his supposed fortune.

The Chief also got word from a Mrs. Hudson of Toronto, who comes from East Kilbride, stating a man answering Roy Wilson's or Hudson's description had secured $30 for her. He then gave the name of Allan Gilmore.

Wilson's whereabouts now are unknown.

NEW AUSTRIAN CONSTITUTION IS OVERWHELMINGLY APPROVED

Only 2 of 76 Members Voting Express Opposition to Dollfuss Measures.

470 NEW LAWS.

(By Wade Werner, Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

VIENNA, May 1 (A.P.)—A favorable vote of 74 of the 165 members elected to Austria's Parliament today overwhelmingly approved the new Austrian Constitution advocated by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

With the Constitution was approved 470 other laws decreed by the little Chancellor since he declared Parliament "dead of its own demagogy" more than a year ago.

The only negative votes on the subject were cast by two Pan-Germans, and the other Pan-German as well as the Agrarians and the 72 Socialists elected to Parliament were absent from the session.

The Pan-German Party protested that both the session and the balloting were illegal and unconstitutional on the basis of the Government's own previous declaration to the effect that Parliament was paralyzed and could not be convened without violating the Constitution.

In one case, said the leaders of that party, the 76 attending members could not constitue a quorum in a House numbering 165.

72 a Quorum

Chairman Rudolf Ramec—authorized by Dollfuss' decree to call the session—explained however, that since the 72 Socialists had been outlawed—one was hanged, one died after imprisonment in connection with the civil warfare of February, and the remainder are fugitives or prisoners—Parliament really numbered only 91.

The 76 present were, therefore, he said, a sufficient quorum.

One of the Pan-Germans, Ernst Hampel, rose immediately after the opening to protest that the session was unconstitutional and to assert that the only legal procedure would be to have President Miklas dissolve Parliament and call a new election.

Hampel was overruled by the chair. The Austrian press was forbidden to publish his protest.

The Parliament's action was, in a manner of speaking, rebirth and suicide, for the body had been "dead of its own demagogy," as Dollfuss said, for more than a year.

FAMOUS ESTATE WILL BE SOLD

Lord Strathcona's Glencoe Domain Scene of MacDonald Massacre 1692.

75 SQUARE MILES.

(By Thomas T. Champion—C.P. Staff Writer).

LONDON, May 1 (C.P.)—Lord Strathcona's decision to sell his Glencoe estates, prominent in the pages of Scottish history as the scene of the massacre of the Macdonalds in 1692, constitutes one of the biggest transactions in real estate in Scotland for many years.

This highland domain extends from Loch Leven on the west into the moor of Rannoch on the east, a distance of over 20 miles, and covers about 75 square miles of country notable for the grandeur of its scenery.

Glencoe is a famous deer forest, and the sale will also include the forests of Kinlochbeg and Black Corries.

The residence, built by Donald Smith, the first Baron Strathcona, famous as a pioneer of Canadian railways, is a modern structure commanding extensive views over Loch Leven and Loch Linnhe. The first Lord Strathcona entertained here in princely style over a long period of years. Statesmen from all parts of the Empire, and, indeed, from all parts of the world, and many hundreds of visiting Canadians were guests.

Bacon Export Total 10 Times 1931 Figure

TORONTO, May 1.—(CP)—In 1933 the quantity of bacon exported from Canada to Great Britain increased to 10 times more than the 1931 figures and Canadian annual products were generally of better quality than they had been in the last 11 years, W. A. Molson, Canadian Animal Products Trade Commissioner in England, said in an interview yesterday.

He said none of the other products under his jurisdiction had been so sensationally successful as bacon but that all had profited by the economic pickup.

BYRD DIRECTS CAMP ACTIVITIES

Leader in Ice Dugout 123 Miles Away Issues Orders by Wireless.

WINTER SETTLES IN.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctic, May 1 (Delayed—A.P.)—Although isolated in an underground ice dugout in which he is spending a lonely winter conducting meteorological observations, Commander Richard E. Byrd still is directing the activities of his field camp 123 miles away. He is doing it by wireless.

The veteran polar explorer, completing his first month of self-imposed solitary confinement, said he was digging a third emergency tunnel exit from his undersurface shack, in which are housed his scientific instruments and supplies.

At Little America, the men are putting the aeroplanes into cold storage for safe keeping. The biggest plane, with its wing spread of 82 feet, now is being buried in the snow and ice.

Drifts had arisen around the landing struts of the plane until the lower wing was level with the snow. Two deep passages wide enough to accommodate the wings were cut under the lower wing sections and the snow blocks which were hewn out were used in building a six-foot wall around the plane.

The flooring of the passages will be driven deeper and the plane will be lowered slowly excavating under the skis. When the shelter is completed, the skis will be 11 feet under the surface.

The finishe d hangar will follow roughly an oversize pattern of the plane. There will be room enough for the aviation unit to work on the engines and plane.

Two other planes will be similarly accommodated. Connecting passages between the hangers will be constructed.

JANETVILLE W.A. HAS FINAL SOCIAL

Delightful Program Winds Up Activities for Winter Season.

(Examiner Correspondence)

JANETVILLE, April 30. — The Women's Association of the United Church held their final social evening for the season on Friday evening. These splendid gatherings which they have held in the Sunday School room of the church during the winter and spring months have consisted of brief devotional periods followed by excellent programs, refreshments and a general social time. The men of the congregation were welcomed on each occasion and often assisted very largely in furnishing an interesting program.

The final meeting was in charge of Rev. Smith who announced the following program: Orchestra selection, Misses Bessie Howe, Olive Fisher, Marjorie Armstrong and Cecil Bradburn; reading 'Poverty and Wealth' by Miss Edna Robinson; piano duet, Mrs. Smith and Bessie Howe; recitation, Mr. Jas. Howe; violin solo, Mr. Frank Russell; reading 'House-cleaning Time', Isabel Marshall; vocal solo, 'The Sentinel Asleep' by Mr. Joblin.

At the conclusion of the program Rev. Smith congratulated the ladies on the success of their activities and thanked all assisting members and friends. A substantial lunch brought the happy evening to a close.

Rev. Clifford Smith B.A. and Mrs. Smith were guests of relatives in Toronto on Tuesday and attended the closing exercises of Emmanuel College at which the Rev. Smith received his degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A LACROSSE LANDMARK

On this date, in 1876 an Allan line steamship sailed from Montreal, having among her passengers two lacrosse teams intended to demonstrate the points of Canada's (then) natonal game to the Britishers "at home." It was not the first lacrosse team that had gone from Canada; that honor belongs to a team of Indians who had gone across in 1867, Confederation year, but their visit did not attract much attention, although every effort was made to play up the history of the game and let the Britishers know that its origin lay away back in the earliest days of the aboriginal tribes. The quickness of the game and the daring of the players had made it a favorite with the officers of the British garrison at Quebec and Montreal, among them Prince Arthur, afterwards the Duke of Connaught. It was in 1840 that the first white men's lacrosse club, the Olympic, was organized at Montreal; it played with the Caughnawaga Indians. Then in 1856 the Montreal club was formed and when the Prince of Wales (Edward VII.) came in 1860 one of the attractions was a lacrosse match between 24 whites and 24 Indians.

Many of the army officers tried, on their return to England, to popularize the Canadian game, but without success, and it was then proposed, supposedly by Prince Arthur, that two Canadian teams should be sent over to demonstrate the points of the game. Accordingly Dr. W. G. Beers, of Montreal, got busy with a number of associates and arranged for the trip of two teams, one of gentleman amateurs, the other of Indians from Caughnawaga. The Montrealers were Dr. Beers (captain), H. W. Becket, G. S. Hubbel, S. Massey, S. Struthers, D. E. Bowie, T. E. Hodgson, W. O. Ross, Angus Grant, J. Summerhayes, T. J. Ralston, F. McIndie, Henry Joseph, J. T. R. Green and C. H. Massiah (secretary).

The teams landed in Ireland on May 9 and played their first game at Belfast the next day. There followed in quick succession matches at Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Newcastle, Sheffield, Birmingham, Brighton and then London, where matches were played at Lord's cricket ground, the famous Oval, Huringham Ranelagh, Richmond and Wimbledon, concluding with a match before Queen Victoria and the royal family at Windsor Castle on June 26. Her Majesty was much impressed with the speed of the game and with the physique of the Canadians, white and red, who proved their fealty with Canadian cheers and the the Canadian "tiger", which is reported to have greatly amused the sovereign.

Seven years later a third team was sent over, eight Montrealers and seven Torontonians, who played 62 games, including one before the Prince and Princess of Wales. This team of 1883 was a sort of immigration propaganda and induced quite a number to come to Canada. Again in 1886 the Toronto Lacrosse club sent over a team which "did credit to the city from which they came, as well as to the scientific reputation of the game."

Those were the banner years of lacrosse. Who among us old-timers can recall the thrilling contests of those and later days without the blood running warm in our veins again?

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Stimulated by warmer weather and prospects of increased production, prices on the Montreal produce and dairy market eased yesterday.

Fresh No. 1 butter in cartons or less declined ¼c to 2lc to 21½c a pound. Receipts were 593 boxes. To retailers, solids were 23c and prints 24c a pound.

Ontario fresh No. 1 cheese was also off ¼c at 10c to 10½c a pound. Arrivals totalled only 50 boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs were slightly lower at 19c for A, large; 17¾c to 18c for A, medium; 17c for B, and 16c for a dozen for C Offerings amounted to 2,224 cases.

Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag increased 5c at $1.25 to $1.30. Quebecs per 80-pound bag were unchanged at 95c to $1 as were New Brunswick Mountains at $1 to $1.05.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Abnormally high temperatures, making widespread droughts worse, combined with dust storms both Northwest and Southwest, lifted the wheat market skyward anew yesterday.

Soaring of values carried wheat up to almost seven cents above last week's low point. Concentrated buying of July delivery wheat, representing the 1934 harvest as distinguished from grain already in store, was a conspicuous feature, and appeared to come from sources Northwest.

Despite a world of selling to realize profits, wheat closed strong at nearly the day's top level, 1¼c to 2c above Saturday's finish, corn ¾c to 1¾c up, oats ¾c to ¼c advanced, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 5c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 1 — Weather continued to exert a steadying influence on wheat prices yesterday, and firmness was further enhanced by sharp upturns at Chicago and fair sales of Canadian wheat for export. Closing quotations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange were unchanged to ¼c lower.

Selling was quite persistent, and the opinion among the trade was that prices made a very fair showing. May wheat wound up at 65¼c, July at 66¼c, and October at 68¼c.

Liquidating operations were credited to commission houses, Chicago operators and spreaders. Export business aggregated about 300,000 bushels.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ½d lower.

Only odd lots of cash grains changed hands, while coarse grains hovered around the previous closing levels in dull trading.

SMITH FARMER FAILED TO GAIN CONSCIOUSNESS

Melville Fowler Died in Nicholls Hospital 6.30 To-day.

FRACTURED SKULL.

Funeral Will Be Held on Friday From Home Near Bridgenorth.

Melville Fowler, 37-year-old Smith Township farmer died at Nicholls Hospital at 6.30 o'clock this morning, from injuries sustained when the buggy in which he was riding on Chemong road was struck by a motor car owned and driven by 23-year-old Clifford Hartman, teller in the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The accident occurred in the vicinity of Clayton Sanderson's farm on Chemong road two miles from the city limits. Both vehicles were proceeding towards Bridgenorth, the driver of the car being accompanied by Miss Phyllis Jopling whom he was taking home.

Since he was picked up and conveyed in Hartman's car to Nicholls Hospital shortly before midnight on Saturday the fatally injured man had lain in an unconscious condition with a multiple fracture of the base of the skull.

According to Provincial Highway Trafic Officer Hornick, who investigated at the scene of the accident along with Provincial Constable W. Warren, the buggy had been carrying a lamp, but the officer had been unable to determine whether or not it had been lighted immediately prior to the crash. His information, the officer stated, was that the lamp on the buggy had not been lighted. He added, that he found no indication that the driver of the car had been speeding.

Hartman, the driver of the car, is from Kitchener it is learned, and has been in the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the past eighteen months. Before coming to this city he was in the branch at Tillsonburg and featured as teller in a sensational bank hold-up in that town, it is stated.

Mr. Fowler who was unmarried, lived with his widowed mother Mrs. Annie Fowler on a farm near Bridgenorth. Besides his mother he leaves one sister, Mrs. James Preston of Omemee, and two brothers Elwin of Camrose, Alberta and Marcus of Smith Township. He was a member of Bridgenorth United Church.

The funeral is to be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from the residence of his mother with the Rev. C. C. Miller of Bridgenorth United Church officiating, with interment at Omemee Cemetery.

After conferring with Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., the Coroner, Dr. T. W. H. Young, announced that an inquest will be held in the police court room at eight o'clock on Thursday evening.

Among the questions for discussion are: The Wednesday afternoon closing during the months of June, July, and August; shop closing hours with special reference to grocers, fruiterers, and butchers; daylight saving time; and the prevailing practice of manufacturers selling good to their employees.

J. J. Dorris, secretary-treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, under whos auspices the meeting is being held, told The Examiner indications are that the meeting will be well attended Interest is keen on all the various questions to be considered. So far as the Daylight Saving Time matter is concerned, he said, the retailers will be ruled by the will of the majority

Lad, 7, with 2 Fingers Off Dislikes Hospital So Starts 25-Mile Hike Home Along Tracks

CHAPLEAU, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—Seven-year-old Sylvio Lavoie of Nicholson Siding thinks there is no place like home, but to-day he is still in hospital at Chapleau whether he fancies it or not.

While at play with an axe in the woodshed of his home there on Saturday, he suffered injuries which resulted in the loss of two fingers from his right hand. His father rushed him to Chapleau, 25 miles distant, on the first train and returned to Nicholson.

Sunday morning at 6.30 Sylvio decided that he'd go home too, slipping out of the hospital, he started on the 25-mile journey afoot, following the railway tracks.

He had gone about a mile and a half when Mrs. P. Donovan, who resides near the railway, saw him, and took him to her home for breakfast.

Meanwhile, hospital authorities hunted high and low for the lad. They telephoned the railway station and finally Chief Constable P. E. Dery located the runaway. He was none the worse for his journey.

20-POINT BAKING INDUSTRY CODE IS SUBMITTED

Prohibit Any Member Selling Below Association Prices, Ratified by Gov't.

HALT EXPLOITATION.

Set Working Hours, Wages and Abolish Child Labor.

OTTAWA, May 2.—(CP)—A 20-point baking industry code proposed to the parliamentary price spreads and mass buying probe today would prohibit any member of the industry from selling products at wholesale or retail prices below those agreed upon by the baking association and ratified by the government. The code was submitted by the baking industry of Saint John, N.B. "To free the baking industry from exploitation."

Elimination of discounts and rebates, advertising allowances, promotion of the sale of bakery products by the offer of prizes, premiums and coupons, combination sales by giving any bakery product free, loans to customers for the purpose of suppressing competition, sale of bakery products on consignment and the sale of fresh goods as 'stales' or day-old goods for the purpose of price reduction are recommended.

The code further proposes: Stale or day-old goods cannot be offered for sale without being so advertised; stale goods cannot be offered at reduced prices; there shall be no defamatory advertising relative to competitors' goods and prices; non-delivery on Sundays or public holidays with the exception of train and boat service and institutions; non - advertisement of bread as 'loss leader'; licensing of all bakery product manufacturers; no contracts for sale of bread to the government or institutions below prevailing wholesale price and a check by members of the baking industry to prevent violations by 'bobtailers' who buy from manufacturers for the purpose of re sale and delivery from privately owned vehicles to the wholesale or retail trade.

A second code for the baking industry of British Columbia was filed with the committee by R. W. Ward, vice-president of the Canadian Bakeries, with headquarters at Calgary. Adoption of this code, said Mr. Ward in his preamble, would mark the final stage in many attempts to free the baking industry from exploitation from without and the unbridled competition within its ranks.

The code would forbid members of the baking industry from selling below production costs, from extending special rebates and other privileges to select customers. It would ban the giving of prizes and premiums, abolish 'commercial bribery' and, loans to customers beyond ordinary commercial credit, consignment selling and the sale of stale goods without properly declaring them.

Hours of work and wages would be established by the provincial government; child lacor would be abolished, and the administration of the code would be in the hands of LONDON, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—Charged with assaulting a child under two years of age, Mrs. Mildred Fishleigh, 56, proprietor of a baby farm in South London, was remanded to-day for mental examination. She appeared in city police court before Magistrate Scandrett.

Fifteen babies all under two years of age were found by the police at the farm. They were removed to the Children's Aid Society and placed in War Memorial Hospital, due to lack of accommodation at the Children's Home, and Mrs. Fishleigh's license, issued to her by the city was cancelled.

Edison Home Shrubs Moved To Museum

VIENNA, Ont., May 2 (C.P.). — Shrubs and bushes and small trees have been removed from the boyhood home of Thomas Alva Edison here to the museum of Henry Ford, Detroit motor magnate, at Dearborn, Mich. The electrical wizard's little home was moved to the Ford museum a year ago.

The bushes, shrubs and trees will be placed around the home in the museum in the exact positions they held in this little East Elgin village. Ford's expert gardeners moved the plants and architects charted their locations.

The landscape architects made elaborate sketches of the grounds and positions the shrubs bore to the original house and then workmen carefully lifted the plants, packed them in burlap and conveyed them carefully on a truck to Dearborn. To-day they rested again in place around the old Edison home in its new location.

FRENCH AGENTS UNCOVER RING GERMAN SPIES

Disclosure Follows Disappearance of Defense Plans for Belfort City.

OFFICER INVOLVED.

Was About to be Freed When Accomplice is Taken and Talks.

PARIS, May 2 (A.P.).—Police announced to-day that a huge "German spy organization" had been uncovered with the arrest of an agent in Paris and that warrants had been issued for other members of the group.

Secret service agents were said to be searching for the spies, but even the name of the agent arrested here was not made public.

The organization was uncovered, authorities said, as the result of investigation of charges against a French army officer, Captain Froge, who was taken into custody in connection with the mysterious disappearance of plans for the defence of the city of Belfort.

Many Agents.

Authorities declared that the spy organization is as large, if not larger, than that for which Benjamin Bercowitz and wife, self-styled Canadian, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of New York and New Jersey, and 11 other persons now are in prison.

Captain Froge, who had been under investigation for a long time, was just about to be cleared of all charges, police said, when the secret service "caught an accomplice in the act" of espionage.

Foreign Officer.

The prisoner arrested in Paris was described as "an officer of a foreign power." He was arrested on Saturday night, but was held secretly and questioned. The grilling revealed his connection with Froge, the authorities said.

The Paris prisoner's revelations were "so important," police said, that authorities immediately notified the examining magistrate at Belfort. Froge, in civilian clothes, was crossing the square in front of the Court-House just as the secret service agents came out the door with their warrant.

Froge was taken into custody without the people in the square realizing what was happening and was taken before a judge immediately.

The Captain refused to answer questions until his lawyer could arrive from Paris. He was imprisoned, and the Magistrate sent to Paris for the other prisoner in order to question him in the presence of Froge.

In the charges against Froge figure counter-spies' tipsters, French secret agents and decoy letters.

The Captain was originally trapped, police said, through letters

N. York-Rome Flight Set For Thursday

NEW YORK, May 2 (A.P.). — Cesare Sabelli announced to-day an intention to take off to-morrow at 9 a.m. on a non-stop New York-to-Rome flight with Captain George R. Pond. The flight has been postponed from time to time since last August.

Sabelli said Dr. Kimball of the weather bureau had advised him weather conditions over the Atlantic were very good. He said he was maintaining constant communication with Dr. Kimball.

The two men plan to take off from Floyd Bennett Field in a Belanca monoplane, the Leonardo Da Vinci.

First Straw Hat Of Season Seen

The official recorded maximum thermometer reading here to-day was 81 degrees in the shade—virtual Summer heat. The temperature, the highest for the present year, was recorded on Walter Peter's thermometer. It exceeds yesterday's maximum by four points.

Unheeding the old warning: "Ne'er cast a clout till May be out" most of Peterborough's citizens have shed their Winter garments, while Sid Mitchell of The Examiner circulation department won distinction by appearing at the office wearing the first straw hat of the season.

Sleep First

VANDERGRIFT, Pa. May 2. —(CP)—It was not the hours but the time that caused a dispute at the Hicks Coal Mine and 500 coal diggers remained away from work.

Under daylight saving time, operators wanted men to go to work at 5:30 a.m., instead of 6:30 to make railroad connections.

The miners didn't show up. Their leaders explained such a work schedule would rob them of an hour's sleep in the 'Cool morning hours.'

COURT CHARGES MAY BE CLIMAX OF BOYS' SCRAP

Bloomfield Youth Has Both Arms Broken During Scuffle.

ARGUMENT OVER BALL.

Victim, a Cripple, is Taken to Hospital—Beaten While Down.

CHATHAM, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—Whether police court charges will be the outcome of a schoolboy battle which occurred in the playground of the Bloomfield School in Raleigh Township Monday afternoon and which resulted in painful injuries to Bobby, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Copley of R.R. No. 5, Chatham, Provincial Police, who are making an investigation to-day have not yet determined.

Provincial Constable J. B. Sheff, in charge of the investigation, intimated that he proposed to "lay the facts before Crown Attorney H. D. Smith, K.C., to-day for instructions.

The boy, who suffered two broken arms, as well as cuts and bruises about the face from blows with a baseball bat, alleged wielded by a 15-year-old playmate in the heat of temper, was removed from St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon, where he was taken for medical attention after the fight. Inquiries to-day elicited the information that while he is suffering great pain, his condition is satisfactory.

According to Mrs. Copley, who learned the story of the incident from her son, and which she says is confirmed by other children, the boys were playing baseball when the fight occurred. Bobby was at bat, and, apparently he refused to strike at the balls thrown down to him by a lad because it was not the latter's turn to pitch. The boys got into an argument and called each other names. It is alleged that the boy who was pitching struck young Copley, who is a cripple, in the face and he went down under the blow. Copley apparently tried to defend himself with the bat but lost it in the struggle to the other lad, who is then alleged to have beaten him with it.

On these charges he was sentenced to six months definite and 12 indefinite, while sentence of three months was imposed for attempting to defraud three Hamilton doctors. He pleaded guilty to all counts.

CITIZENS FLEE NORTHERN TOWN CAMP IN HILLS

200 Persons Watch Helplessly as Ice Cakes Sweep Homes Away.

HUGE JAM BREAKS.

Children Rescued in Nick of Time as Waters Swirl Into Mission.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., May 2. — (C.P.) — Crashing ice swept down by flood water on the mighty Peace River forced the entire population of the little Northland town of Fort Vermillion to flee to the hills last Friday, April 27, according to word received here today.

An ice jam just above the little town, 250 miles north of here, caused the flood. The populace of 200 persons evacuated the village to escape the inundation that flooded buildings and crashing ice that levelled telegraph towers. Five homes were completely wrecked.

Damage to property and livestock from the Great Wall of water which descended on the sleeping community about 4 a.m., was estimated in thousands of dollars. An exact figure has not yet been determined.

Peace River town is about 300 air miles northwest of Edmonton, on the Peace River.

The turbulent stream backed up behind the huge ice barrier until its weight finally crashed through. A great wall of water cascaded over the flats with a deafening roar, carrying large blocks of jagged ice along with it.

Ice Destroys Houses

Residents who had not already moved from their homes on the flats as the river rose, fled before the rapidly-advancing waters, leaving their houses to be ground to pieces by the massive ice cakes.

The entire population camped in the hills listening to the grinding ice bring devastation to their homes.

Many children were marooned in a mission on the south bank of the river. Men of the settlement attempted a rescue with teams and wagons, but the waters rose so rapidly teams were useless and boats were used. The swirling waters swept into the mission, flooding the ground floor, shortly after its occupants had been taken to safety.

Telegraph towers on the north side of the settlement gave way before the battering ice and were swept away in the tide. Communications with the outside world were not restored until late last night.

REV. S. C. PARKER AGAINST SYNOD

Only Expensive Court of Review, Not Worth Outlay Involved.

SUGGESTS NEW SYSTEM.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.).—Synod is, in reality, only an expensive court of review and not worth the huge expense involved, Rev. Stuart C. Parker of Toronto told his colleagues at the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston to-day.

General Assembly, and in fact the entire organization of the Church had been patterned after the Presbyterian Church in Scotland, he said. In reality, such a system was not workable in Canada owing to the wide areas that must be covered.

"Really, if it were not for the wonderful fellowship resulting," he declared, "I do not see how Synod is worth the expense involved."

The general matter of Church administration should be considered and a biennial arrangement for Assembly meetings might well be though of, he declared. The United Church was now successfully operating with such a plan.

Rev. W. Patterson, Preston, took exception to Dr. Parker's lengthy report.

It was finally decided to name a committee to prepare an overture to be sent to General Assembly next month asking for consideration of Synod's powers, with a view to their extension

Important Cat

DENVER, May 2—(CP)—Mrs. Estelle Leo says her cat has been kidnapped and she wants something done about it.

"I know the woman who took my cat and I want her charged with grand larceny," Mrs. Leo told Hubert L. Shattuck, Assistant district attorney.

"That's a pretty grave charge," said Shattuck.

"Yes, and that's a pretty important cat," Mrs. Leo retorted, "because it's my cat."

Shattuck promised to try to get in touch with the accused 'catnapper.'

OTTAWA ASKED TO SUBSIDIZE PULP EXPORTS

Resolution Climaxes First Session Nova Scotia's 40th Legislature.

BILLS GET ROYAL ASSENT.

Old Age Pensions Are Paid for First Time in Province.

HALFAIX, May 2. (CP)—Adopting a resolution asking the federal government to subsidize exports of pulpwood to United Kingdom markets, Nova Scotia's 40th legislature brought its first session to a close to-day.

The resolution, sponsored by Hon. J. H. MacQuarrie, Attorney General, stated that assistance was given Pacific coast exporters marketing wood in the Orient and called for similar action to assist Nova Scotian operators.

Hon. W. H. Covert, the Lieutenant-Governor, entered the historic assembly chamber with his suite and prorogued the legislature after giving royal assent to a number of bills.

One of the outstanding measures passed during the two-months session classed gasoline as a public utility for the first time in Canada and gave the Public Utilities Board power to regulate distribtuion and sale. Another act increased the tax on gasoline from six to eight cents a gallon but Hon. A. S. MacMillan, Minister of Highways expressed belief the Control Act eventually would reduce prices to consumers. A tax of one cent per gallon was levied on fuel oil.

Old age pensions were paid for the first time in this province after the Lieutenant Governor-in-council proclaimed enabling legislation that had been passed in 1933.

Other important measures included the provincial revenue corporation tax bill, designed to provide more than $10.000 additional revenue, which puts new taxes on chain stores and small corporations and increases levies on banks, finance corporations and telegraph and telephone companies.

Pressure Salesmen Are Fleeing Toronto

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.).—As a result of investigations carried on by the Ontario Securities Commission, headed by Col. George B. Drew, a large number of "high pressure" salesmen have left Toronto and returned to their homes in the United States, Col. Drew stated today.

The men, not registered in Ontario as stock salesmen, had been carrying out a considerable trade in "off-color" stocks and the commission opened its investigation on complaints from many residents. The salesmen left when they learned of the probe, Col. Drew said.

Meanwhile, the commission is continuing its investigation and is looking into all complaints received.

Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, speaking at Madoc last night, declared at least 30 of the salesmen were known to have left Toronto.

FAIR WAGE CLAUSE.

Ontario Program Announced By Minister to Give 20.000 Men Jobs.

Road construction contracts announced yesterday by Hon. Leopold Macaulay include four projects in the Peterborough area.

The Law Construct on Company of Toronto has been awarded the contract for the laying of a concrete pavement twenty feet wide from the northern outskirts of Peterborough to Lakefield. The distance is approximately six miles.

And the contract for the grading of No. 7 east of Havelock has been let to C. V. Billie, Smith's Falls. This link to the Hastings County boundary is 5.6 miles.

20,000 Men to Get Jobs

The work announced by the Minister of Highways will engage 20,000 men, and the details of the program include 39.15 miles of 20-foot concrete pavement; 74 miles of 10-foot concrete pavement; 46.55 miles of asphalt pavement; 10 miles of retread, and 76-9 miles of grading and culverting.

Hon. Mr. Macaulay has insisted on the fair wage clause being rigidly adhered to, and the contractors are required to proceed with the program with the least possible delay.

False Clues Dull Hunt For Dillinger

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 2 (A.P.) —Cold trails and false clues dulled the search for John Dillinger and his gang to-day.

The latest false tip came from Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., where an amateur sleuth decided that a stranger was George (Baby Face) Nelson, Dillinger ally.

Without taking local authorities into his confidence, Gilmore Layton telephoned Department of Justice headquarters in Chicago yesterday that Nelson was in a Wisconsin Rapids hospital.

After briefly questioning Layton, the police announced it was a 'false alarm.' He learned the man suspected of being Nelson was a correspondence school salesman.

The belief that Dillinger and other members of the gang have reached a hideout in another state was held by officers.

BRITAIN BARS TROTZKY

LONDON, May 2 (CP-Havas). — The Home Office to-day rejected Leo Trotzky's application for permission to reside on British soil. The former Soviet war lord has gone into hiding somewhere in France awaiting word from Turkey or some other nation which will grant him refuge. France ordered him expelled recently because of his failure to abstain from political activities.

Gold Tax Statement To-day

WILL NOT HURT DEVELOPMENT OF NEW MINES

No Embarrassment to Low Grade Producers in Latest Plan.

RHODES TO SPEAK.

Climaxes Two Weeks of Continuous Parleys Between Miners, Ministers.

OTTAWA, May 2.—(CP) — A definite statement with respect to the application of the proposed 10 per cent. tax on gold will be made today, either in the form of a government statement or an announcement in the House of Commons by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, who announced the tax in his budget speech a fortnight ago.

It was learned authoritatively that the tax would be imposed in such a manner as not to impede development of new mines nor to embarass low grade producers whose only hope of successful operation lies in the high premium now being paid for the yellow metal.

The chief attack upon the tax was based upon the claim that considerable fresh development in gold mining dependent entirely for success upon the continued high premium on the metal sold on the world market. It was claimed that many who were able to barely eke out a living by panning for gold in certain areas, and others engaged on securing the metal from low grade ore, would be thrown out of employment.

No particulars could be secured as to the actual intentions of the government, but there was no doubt of the disposition to bear lightly upon those who would be thus embarrassed, while at the same time securing the anticipated revenue from the tax.

Many conferences have been held between the government and the mining interests in the past fortnight, and committees of miners as well as officers of the treasury department, have spent considerable time seeking to work out a plan of operation as nearly suitable to all as possible to achieve.

YOUNG CANADA CONSERVATIVE CLUB FORMED

Ex-Reeve E. J. Leeson Chosen President of Havelock, Belmont Organization.

R. PHILPOTT IS SPEAKER.

Convention Delegates Are Named—Social Evening Planned.

HAVELOCK, May 2. (Examiner Correspondence). — A meeting for the purpose of organizing a Young Canada Liberal-Conservative Club was held in the basement of the Orange Hall on Monday evening. A large and most enthusiastic crowd was on hand to hear Ross Philpott, Provincial organizer of Toronto.

T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., introduced the guest speaker who told in a splendid manner the purpose and origin of the movement. Starting seven years ago, the club had made great strides towards progress. After five years twenty-one clubs had been formed. Since then with the aid of active organization ninety clubs had been formed.

The duties of the officers and the work of each and every member to shoulder the responsibility of getting the younger voters' lists out was stressed particularily.

It was unanimously agreed that the club should take the name of not Havelock alone, but be known as The Havelock and Belmont Young Conservative Club.

The election of officers by ballot was hotly contested and was a high-light of the evening's program. The result was as follows:

Thomas Edison's Dream Of Making Rubber From Goldenrod Plant Now Coming True

FORT MYERS, Fla., May 2, — (A.P.)—A dream of the late Thomas Alva Edison—to insure, the United States an emergency source of rubber in the event the tropical supply should be curtailed — lives in the miniature rubber plantation near here.

Flowing from the tiny goldenrod plant, finally selected by the "wizard" after more than 100,000 tests of various other weeds, rubber, in the crude, now is an assured fact, however limited its immediate commercial availability may be.

While secrecy has enveloped the work, it is understood that Edison pronounced the product capable of standing rigid tests before his death. Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone retain their interests in the project which they aided in financing, and a staff of five men work on—the dream coming true.

Associates of the late inventor said he planned his synthetic rubber development to meet such a situation as some business interests fear may result from recent steps to limit production by nations which control the world's supply of the commodity.

VOTE ASSURED MARKETING BILL IN HOUSE TO-DAY

Thomas Reid and Bourassa Swing From Opposition to Back Measure.

TEMPERS FLARE.

Meighen Fails to Make Statement on Resignation From Hydro.

OTTAWA, May 2.—(CP)— With two more supporters on the opposition side assured the vote on second reading of the Marketing Bill in the House of Commons is due to take place today. It was expected last night but failed to materialize. Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, however, adjourned the debate and thus has the right to speak first today. As he is the sponsor of the bill his utterance will bring the debate to an end.

Added to the solid ranks of the Conservatives and the Progressive Farmer-Laborites supporting the bill will be Thomas Reid (Lib. New Westminster) and Henri Bourassa (Ind. Labelle). Both spoke last night and announced their intention of voting for the second reading and endorsing the principle of the bill.

Like Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Liberal Minister of Agriculture, who previously announced he would depart from the line marked out by Rt. Hon. McKenzie King, Liberal leader, and support the bill, both said there were features they did not like and that they would be constrained to oppose the measure later if these were not changed.

The other cabinet minister who when J. F. Pouliot (Lib, Temiscouata) spoke in opposition to the Bill. He tangled with Sam Gobeil (Cons. Compton) and I. D. Macdougall (Cons Inverness) and later the Speaker ordered some of the uncomplimentary utterances stricken from the record.

Canada and the League.

While the Lower House was debating the Marketing Bill the Senate turned again to the League of Nations and discussed Senator A. D. McRae's motion that Canada should withdraw from the International Association, while Senator W. A. Griesbach of Edmonton said he would support the Government in its policy of continuing its interest in the League he was really indifferent as to whether Canada withdrew or not.

The League's interests in Canada were championed by pacifists and that was as much as signing its death knell. It had began as a society of conquerors seeking to maintain the status quo, and it was idle to hope to maintain the status quo for ever.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government Leader in the Senate, did not make the statement it was rumored he would make in connection with his resignation from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. It is possible he may make it to-day and carry out his rumored intention of asking the Senate to appoint a committee to inquire into allegations concerning his conduct in connection with the commission.

EVIDENCE HEARD IN SUIT AGAINST NORWOOD MAN

Administrators of Faux Estate Sue Thomas McConnell for $3,500.

CLAIMS HOUSE GIFT.

Judgment is Reserved by Justice McEvoy Until Late in Session.

Hearing of the evidence in the suit of Samuel John McConnell and Samuel Buck, as administrators of the estate of he late Mrs. Margaret Faux, against Thomas McConnell, of Norwood, for $3,500 was concluded late yesterday afternoon in Supreme Court before Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy.

Before the case opened an effort was made by Mr. Justice McEvoy to arrange a settlement of the case, and His Lordship made a similar attempt after several witnesses had been heard, but no agreement could be reached.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., acted for the paintiffs and W. F. Huycke for the defendant. Counsel concluded their argument in the case last night but Mr. Justice McEvoy withheld judgment until later in the session.

Briefly the case may be outlined as follows: Mrs. Margaret Faux, who died at her home in Norwood in August, 1930, owned considerable property in Norwood but died intestate. In 1923, she had transferred to her brother, Thomas McConnell, a house which she had purchased for $3,500. The deed for the house was given to Thomas McConnell and it was registered in his name, with the purchase price being set forth at $2,000. Thomas McConnell made no payment for the house but did pay interest to Mrs. Faux on $3,500 at three per cent. This much is agreed between the parties.

Ground of Dispute

The plaintiffs claim that the transfer of the property was made by Mrs. Faux on the understanding that when she died it must return to the estate. They testified that at a meeting of heirs of Mrs. Faux held in Norwood shortly after her death that he agreed to pay $2,000 into the estate as payment for the house.

On the other hand Thomas McConnell claims that the house was a gift to him from Mrs. Faux and that he was only to pay interest on it up to her death and then retain possession of it, and that it was not his share of the estate. He testified that he did not agree to pay $2,000 into Mrs. Faux's estate for the house at the meeting of the heirs.

W. F. Morrow, county registrar of deeds, produced in court the deed to the house in dispute showing that it was transferred to Thomas McConnell in April, 1923 by Margaret Faux.

J. F. Pearce, Norwood merchant, testified that in April, 1923, he did

OFFICERS FIGHT PITCHED BATTLE WITH PARIS REDS

Communists Defy Law Behind Flaming Barricades in Blind Alley.

FOUR POLICE SHOT.

General Strike Called for Capital is Regarded as Failure.

(By Stuart Moroney—A.P. Staff Writer).

PARIS, May 2 (A.P.). — Police fought a pitched battle with Communists in a "tough" quarter of Paris early to-day as a climax to "Red May Day" in France.

Four policemen were wounded as the Communists, entrenched behind flaming barricades in a blind alley and windows of a municipally-owned apartment, poured a stream of pistol fire into the ranks of police and mounted guards.

Only after a four-hour siege were police—commanded by their Prefect, Roger Langeron, in person — able to storm the Communists' citadel and drive them to cover.

By 5.30 a.m., calm had been restored, but special squads carrying bullet-proof shields and gas pistols swept into the apartment house fortress, routing the defenders and hustling the captives off to jails.

The rioting flared at midnight, when—after a surprisingly quiet day the nation over—hundreds of Communists shouting defiance entrenched themselves in the alley.

Wreck Apartment.

Ripping up floors and tearing out doors in the apartment building, the Reds dug in with a trench across the alleyway and raised barricades to the Rue Nationale, along the left bank of the Seine, to which the alley extends.

Later, they took a leaf from the book of Socialists who fought in Vienna's recent civil war and turned the fourth and fifth floors of the building into a fortress. There they continued their resistance until routed.

Thousands of police and mobile guards were rushed to the scene, when bullets began flying about the small squads of early arrivals. The Communists set fire to their alley barricades. From behind the protecting screen of flame, they fired at the police. Snipers blazed away frim windows.

It was nearly dawn before the police, who delayed a determined charge to avoid fatalities, leaped the smoking barricades to the alley and swarmed upon the houses. Hand-to-hand fighting ensued.

To-day it was disclosed that the riot was caused by a comparative trifle.

Taximen Blamed.

The Communists sought to prevent taxi-cabs from leaving a garage in opposition to the May Day Communist - sponsored general strike. Several cabs were smashed. A number of drivers were beaten.

The rioters then tore up pavement and raised a barricade to prevent cars from passing, when police were called, firing started.

The 10,000 troops massed in Paris to support the 30,000 police and mobile guards remained idle. The strike was regarded as a failure. It was effective only in the building trades. The strike had been called against government economy decrees and what oppositionists term the "Fascist" tendencies of the cabinet.

$15,000 RANSOM READY FOR GANG

Parents and Grandfather of June Robles Wait Word Anxiously.

MISSING WEEK.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 2. (AP). — The $15,000 ransom to free six-year-old June Robles awaited the call of her kidnappers again to-day.

There was no public indication the kidnappers or their representatives had come forward to meet the Robles family's offer, first made Monday night when they announced official investigation of the case would be withdrawn pending negotiations.

Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles, parents of the girl, and Bernabe Robles, her elderly grandfather, steeled themselves for more hours of agonized waiting and wondering as to the fate of the child.

At the home of the grandfather, pioneer cattleman of Arizona, the ransom money awaited, a package in $5, $10 and $20 bills.

June's mother was under care of relatives as she hoped for some word of her daughter, who was seized as she returned from school last Wednesday and spirited away in a rickety old sedan.

PETERBOROUGH HAS 90 P.C. LOSS IN FALL WHEAT

Similar Conditions Prevail in Durham and Prince Edward Counties.

BERRIES PROMISING.

Snow Still in North Ontario—Seeding Delayed Fortnight.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.). — In practically all sections of Ontario fall wheat has been damaged extensively by a severe winter, floods and frosts, and in some cases 90 per cent. of the crops have been killed, the Provincial Department of Agriculture reported to-day.

Southern Ontario was the only section where winter crops weathered the frigid winter. The six counties in the western division reported wheat acreage would have to be patched or torn up, that spring conditions were backward and that the fall wheat situation was anything but promising.

In Durham County it was estimated 90 per cent. of the crops had been killed and in Peterborough and Prince Edward Counties in Central Ontario similar conditions were prevalent.

Clover and alfalfa fields in Eastern Ontario were reported to have wintered well, but little improvement was seen in the fall wheat fields. Strawberries and other berry crops looked promising, while poultry was in good shape generally.

General feeling in Northern Ontario was that conditions were improved and farmers appeared more hopeful for the future. There was still a considerable quantity of snow in this district, and it was not expected that seeding would commence for a fortnight.

LINDSAY, STANDARD TIME.

LINDSAY, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—At yesterday's session of the police court a resident of Ingoldsby, Haliburton County, named Anderson, was fined $200.00 and costs by Magistrate Jordan on the charge of having illicit spirits in his possession. This case arose out of a seizure made by police last Friday, when they visited Anderson's home and found a quantity of moonshine in the house and a still in the barn. The police had been around the property for two days waiting the opportune time to make the seizure.

Proprietors of summer resorts in this section are receiving many inquiries from parties in the United States relative to accommodation, etc., during the summer months. A proprietor of a resort on Pigeon River informed The Examiner that he had booked a party of fifteen from Akron, Ohio, and five from Bradford, Pa.

No move will be made to introduce daylight saving in Lindsay this summer. Some of the merchants are in favor of a change in time, but no one appears interested enough to present a petition to the council. The usual half-holiday will be observed by the merchants during the summer.

EVIDENCE HEARD

the conveyancing work for Mrs. Faux which transferred the disputed property to Thomas McConnell. He made out the deed and Mrs. Faux told him the purchase price was $2,000.

Samuel Buck, of Norwood, one of the administrators of the estate of the late Margaret Faux, his wife's aunt, stated that Mrs. Faux had died in August, 1930. Early in September a meeting of her heirs was held at her former residence at Norwood. The witness was present at this meeting and was appointed administrator of the estate.

Agreement Made

Included in the estate was a note for $1,800 held by the late William McConnell and a house and lot occupied by Thomas McConnell, he stated. It was decided at the meeting of the heirs to reduce the late Mr. William McConnell's note, which was produced by his widow, also now deceased, to $1,500, and Mr. McConnell's indebtedness to the estate from $3,500 to $2,000, he explained.

At the meeting there were some hot words exchanged between Thomas McConnell and William McConnell, when the latter proposed that the former "should put in the house at $3,500," witness said. It was understood at that meeting that Thomas McConnell would "put the house into the estate at $2,000," witness stated, but later he withheld his signature from the necessary papers.

"Last winter he told me he was willing to have the place go in at $1,000, but this was not accepted," Mr. Buck said.

Not Listed As Asset

Cross-examined, Mr. Buck said that he was appointed administrator of Mrs. Faux's estate in February, 1931. He could not state why Thomas McConnell's house, claimed as part of the estate, had not been listed among the assets of the estate. He maintained that at the meeting of heirs, Thomas McConnell had agreed to "put the house in at $2,000."

Samuel McConnell, next witness, a former resident of Belmont Township but for the past 20 years a resident of Toronto, said that the house in question would easily cost $3,500 to replace. He substantiated the evidence of Mr. Buck that it was agreed that William McConnell's note should be decreased to $1,500, and that Thomas McConnell agreed to put the property which he had received from Mrs. Faux into the estate at $2,000. "I came away from that meeting considering it was settled and that we would have no more trouble with it," stated the witness.

Cross-examined, witness said that it would be next to impossible to sell Thomas McConnell's house at the present time. He could not state whether or not Thomas McConnell was to have given Mrs. Faux a note for the house he received from her. "It was the opinion of the family that if Mrs. Faux had given it to him as a gift he would not have had to pay her 3 per cent as interest on $3,500," he said.

Mrs. Margaret Scott, of Toronto, sister of the late Mrs. Faux, said she was present at the meeting of heirs in Norwood and well remembered all that took place. "The business was all settled except for Thomas McConnell's house and the question of it came up," she related. "Thomas repeatedly stated that the house was not worth $3,500 now that property values had fallen, and that it should not go in at $3,500. He said that he would agree to put it in at $2,000. It was agreed that William McConnell's note should be reduced from $1,800 to $1,500."

Given As Share

Asked what she knew concerning the transfer of the disputed property from Mrs. Faux to her brother Thomas McConnell, Mrs. Scott said, "Mrs. Faux, my sister, told me that she had sold the house to Thomas for $3,500 and that he was to pay 3 per cent interest. She told me that she had given it to him as his share but that she was sorry that she had done so, that she should have waited until after like she did with the rest," Mrs. Scott said.

Cross-examined Mrs. Scott said that the conversation with Mrs. Faux which she had just related took place at Norwood on April 9, 1924, because she was then in the village attending her brother's golden wedding anniversary. She said that she had never heard of Thomas' house being a gift to him from Mrs. Faux.

Harold McConnell, farmer in Percy Township and son of the late William McConnell, said he was present at the meeting in Norwood of Mrs. Faux's heirs and substantiated the testimony of the other witnesses as to what arrangements was agreed upon regarding Thomas McConnell's house.

Mrs. Faux's Offer

Russell Thompson, nephew of the late Mrs. Margaret Faux, also related what had occurred at the meeting of the heirs and the agreement reached with Thomas McConnell that he should put in his house to the estate at $2,000. He said that about a year before her death he had a conversation with his aunt, Mrs. Faux, concerning a house she owned on Peterborough street in Norwood. "She told me I could live in the house and pay her interest on its value until she died and then it must be turned into her estate," he said.

About a year ago, witness stated, there had been a partial distribution of Mrs. Faux's estate.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Thompson said that at the meeting Thomas McConnell had acknowledged that he owed the estate $2,000 for the house he had received from Mrs. Faux.

Mrs. Annie Buck, wife of Samuel Buck and niece of Mrs. Margaret Faux, said she was also present at the meeting of heirs. Thomas McConnell there agreed to put in his house at $2,000 to the estate, she said, but signed no papers to that effect.

Mrs. Edith Metcalfe, of Asphodel, niece of the late Mrs. Faux, who was present at the meeting of heirs, substantiated the evidence of other witnesses as to what transpired and the arrangement made with Thomas McConnell concerning his house and the estate.

Did Not Get Note

George A. McConnell, brother of the defendant, stated that when his sister, Margaret Faux, was turning over her house to Thomas McConnell in the Spring of 1924, Thomas came to the witness' home and asked him to move Mrs. Faux's furniture. "Right there he told me that Margaret had got William's note but that she hadn't got any note from him. When I went with my team and wagon to my sister's to move her she said that Thomas was to have moved her that that was in their agreement."

He explained that at the meeting of heirs in Norwood he and Thomas had exchanged some hot words when he introduced the subject of Thomas' house. "He has not spoken to me since," witness said. "It was agreed that he should turn in his house at $2,000. He consented to that."

This closed the plaintiffs' case.

Never Asked For Note

Thomas McConnell, the defendant, testified that Mrs. Faux had first suggested to him that he should take her house, which she was then occupying. "She knew I was leaving the farm," he explained. "She said I could have the house if I would pay her bank interest on $3,500 while she lived. She never asked me for a promissory note, and a note was never mentioned between us."

At the meeting of heirs in Norwood, it was George McConnell who had suggested that he should turn in the house at $3,500. He denied that he had agreed to turn it in at $2,000. "Where they all got that impression is more than I know," he said.

The two administrators of the estate had come to see him several times to have him sign papers turning in the house at $2,000 but he had never done so, he related. "One time I said I was willing to put it in at $1,000 rather than go to court about it," he said. "They were threatening court action."

He said that Mrs. Faux had made all arrangements regarding the transfer of the house to him and the securing of the deed. It was she who had named the sale price as $2,000 to Mr. Pearce when he was drawing up the deed.

Cross-examined, he admitted that a cheque for $100 produced in court was his given to Mrs. Faux in April, 1924, as first payment of interest for the house. He denied that Mrs. Scott had ever told him that he knew that he had got the house as his share of Mrs. Faux's estate.

He admitted that he knew that the purpose of the heirs' meeting at Norwood was to find how much property Mrs. Faux, how much she owed and who owed her anything, and that he had not objected when it was decided that he should turn in his house to the estate at $2,000. "I never assented, however," he explained.

He denied also that George had ever told him that Mrs. Faux had given him the house as his share of the estate.

WARKWORTH PAIR 54 YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson Observe Anniversary on April 30th.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, May 2. — Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wilson on Monday, April 30th, observed their 54th wedding anniversary. Mr. Wilson was born at Ythan Wells, Scotland, on August 16th, 1859.

Mrs. Wilson, formerly Magaline Yule, was born at St. Fergus, Scotland, September 30, 1861.

They were married at Ythan Wells, Scotland, April 30, 1880.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and two children came to Warkworth 51 years ago where they have lived on the same side of the same street ever since. Mr. Wilson, who was well known and highly respected citizens in the vicinity, are enjoying good health and are also able to do a good deal of work. They are active members of St. Paul's United Church.

Seven children were born to them. They are as follows: George, Rochester, N.Y., James, Neepawa, Man., Alex., Hudson, Ont.; Mrs. B. Duigman, Kenora, Ont.; Mrs. E. Hoertz, Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. W. H. Smooker, and William, killed in the Great War.

In the summer of 1933 Mr. Wilson visited the land of his birth, the first time since coming to this village. Their many friends extend to them hearty congratulations.

Woman Injured

Mrs. William Bonny of Burnley, was badly bruised and shaken up when the horse she was driving ran away. This was caused by the bridle coming off and while Mrs. Bonny was trying to put the bridle back on the horse it got frightened. Mrs. Bonny, being entangled in the lines, was dragged over a quarter of a mile. Before neighbors heard her cries, she managed to loose herself. She was taken to her home by neighbors.

COTTESLOE CHURCH DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze Started While Men Are Burning Grass in Nearby Cemetery.

NORWOOD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence). — Monday afternoon, while a number of men were engaged in burning grass off the Cottesloe Cemetery, the church building narrowly escaped being destroyed. The fire gained entrance to the building through a small opening in the foundation, and had gained much headway between the outside and inner walls before being noticed. The interior of the building is considerably damaged. Only the herculean efforts of the neighborhood saved the structure from destruction. Cottesloe Church is one of the early landmarks in Dummer Township. Having been built in the early days of the pioneers of this district, has always been kept in splendid condition, and is held in sacred trust by succeeding generations.

During the excitement a serious accident was narrowly averted when Elton, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Blakely, was struck by a car but fortunately escaped with a few minor bruises.

A BOASTER.

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., May 1 (C. B.). — "I'm a wrasslin' man, and I takes anyone I can," boasted Jake Henry, in a billiard parlor.

"Oh, yeah?" retorted Conrad Hartwig, and a wrestling match started. When it ended, Henry had a broken right leg.

TWO LIBERALS ENTER RUNNING

Premier had "wobbled" on the beer and wine question, and Dr. Simpson said it was because he possessed $25,000 in Abitibi bonds

"Bonds Used as Club."

"The interests in the Conservative party in favor of beer and wine used these bonds as a club to get what they wanted," Dr. Simpson charged in referring to the government's legislation for extending beer and wine sales.

The Ontario Hydro system took over the Abitibi development which resulted in Liberal demands Premier Henry resign because he held bonds in the firm the government utility purchased.

While the verbal war waged no indication of a government announcement regarding the date of the election was forthcoming.

The Mail and Empire said today it had learned definitely the Premier would not make any announcement of the date at the Conservative rally here to-night. It had been predicted that such announcement would be made, with forecasts placing voting around June 21.

Premier Henry is scheduled to address the Peel County Liberal-Conservative Association convention at Brampton next Saturday when Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculutre, will stand again for nomination.

The resignation of Senator Arthur Meighen as a member of the Hydro Commission took its place in Liberal campaigning when Arthur Roebuck, Liberal candidate for Bellwoods, declared in an address this resignation, with Hydro chairman J. R. Cooke's retirement from politics, resembled "rats leaving a sinking ship."

30 Salesmen Ousted

Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, told the convention at Madoc which selected Mr. Hill as East Hastings' candidate that 30 mining salesmen had been returned to the United States for promoting inferior propositions. Mr. Finlayson declared he did not favor a mining boom through efforts of 'lower class salesmen.'

The Minister also told the convention wages were increased in road camps because conditions are better and not as an election dodge."

Theo ther cabinet minister who took part in last night's campaigning was Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways, who defended the government's record before the South Grey convention at Durham where Winslow Kernahan was named Conservative candidate.

Harry Nixon, Progressive leader, was promised opposition from Conservatives in North Brant riding when government supporters decided to enter a candidate.

There were four other nominees at the East Hastings session. Earl Denyes, deputy reeve of Thurlow; Wesley Gray, reeve of the same township; R. M. Mitchell, former warden of Hastings County, and E. C. Metcalfe of Deseronto.

New officers of the East Hastings Conservative Association are: President, Walter Whytock, Madoc; vice-president, J. W. Kingston, Tweed; second vice-president, Wesley Gray, Thurlow; association president, Miss Rosamond Burley; treasurer, W. A. Davis; secretary, Howard VanDusen, Deseronto, and executive, Mrs. W. A. Morton.

With a single stroke assets in Northern Ontario alone could wipe out the province's $592,000,000 indebtedness, from which the Opposition, he said, was trying to make political capital to-day. Thirty millions of that indebtedness, he said, was tied up in the T. & N.O. Railway, and that enterprise was paying its way. "There are sixty millions in farm loans," he added, "and that is one of the reasons why the farmers in Ontario are finding their way out of the depression."

Mr. Hill, the candidate, touched on the government's beer and wine amendments of the last Legislature session. If the government felt an effective temperance measure could be legislated they would not hesitate to legislate, he said. But Ontario and other provinces, and the United States, had tried such a policy and it had proved unsuccessful. "Government control," he said, "is the one channel through which liquor can be managed."

Seeding Is General Over Saskatchewan

REGINA, May 2 (C.P.)—Seeding is now under way in practically all sections according to reports received by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture. In the south eastern portion about half the wheat acreage is seeded, whereas in the north eastern districts seeding is just nicely started. About 25 per cent of the entire wheat acreage is seeded. Not more than 10 per cent of the whole acreage intended for coarse grains is seeded.

The land is reported in good shape for cultivation, but lack of rain during April has left top soil dry. Many farmers have delayed work on summer fallow until rains have come to settle the loose surface soil. In a few cases stubble land has been worked before the summer fallow. Soil moisture conditions in south eastern Saskatchewan are reported poor.

A LOSING ACTION.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 1 (C.P.). —W. B. Cowan, Memphis attorney, can't win for losing.

Cowan sued a former client for a $500 fee.

Chancery Court jury decided in Cowan's favor, but awarded him only a $1.00 judgment

And the court directed that Cowan pay about $15.00 court costs.

LAKEFIELD Y.P.S. TO PRESENT PLAY

Home-made Candy Sale Will be Held in Millbrook on Friday, May 4th.

MILLBROOK, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Literary and Social Committee had charge of the Y.P.S. meeting at St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening; the vice-president, Miss Francis Jones, taking the chair. Olver Brock gave the call to worship and read the prayer, William Ridge singing "Take My Life," and Elwood Fallis and Jack Arundel giving the devotional readings, and Stanford Brown the scripture lesson.

The president, B. B. Dawson, took the business period, announcing that the Christian Fellowship committee will have charge of next Monday's meeting, when a special self-denying offering is asked to augment the funds of the society. The play for Friday, May 4, by the Lakefield young people was also announced and the fact that home-made candy will be sold, Jean Burnham being convenor of the candy committee.

The fact that the Young Peoples' Societies of the Peterborough Presbytery led the whole Bay of Quinte Conference in the givings to the fund for western relief was mentioned by Mr. Dawson, who also gave a brief report of some of the business transacted at the meeting of the Conference Y.P.S. Executive held in Peterborough last Friday evening; the Peterborough Presbytery executive met with the Conference body, Mr. S. Saywell, of Oshawa, being in the chair.

Mr. Saywell, as president of the conference Y.P.S., was appointed delegate to the North American General Council for Young Peoples' work which will convene at Geneva Lake, near Chicago, this year; this body meets once in four years and plans the program for the young people for the whole of this continent. A resolution that the young people should have a representative at the United Church General Council was passed, and tentative arrangements made for a Y.P.S. excursion this summer, possibly from Cobourg to Rochester with entertainment at the latter point by the young peoples organizations of that city.

Continuing the program, Miss Jones pointed out that "this is the eve of May Day," and Martha Earle gave an account of some ways in which the May Day is celebrated. The special feature was the presentation of one or two scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," as peculiarly appropriate to the season, a background of cedars, with softened lighting, making a suitable setting for the action which all takes place in the woodland. The story, in its various phases, was outlined by Bob Dunford who told of the fairy king and queen, Oberon and Titania; the four lovers, by Gladys Williamson; then came the scene enacted Bernice Smith being Helena; Ken Kidd, Demetrius; Bea Jones, Hernia and Gordon Muspratt, Lysander.

Puck was well taken by Gordon Jones, and Oberon by Jack Arundel; a solo, "My Laddie," by Vanita Ingram was well received, and Francis Jones read a fairy tale "since this is a celebration of the eve of May Day." The final scene with Peter Quince drilling his company of Athenian mechanics for their comedy on Theseus' wedding day, was acted Francis reading Peter's part, Jack Arundel taking "Wall," Bea Thisbe, Gordon Jones "Moonshine," and Ken Peramis, Phyllis Kidd completed the story telling how the lover's knots were untangled.

The pillars of the large room were arranged with colored streamers to simulate May Poles and by matching numbers at the end of each long cord partners were found for the musical contest and other games which followed, rounding out a most enjoyable evening.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1934

THE POLICE ARE RIGHT.

Chief Constable Newhall is entirely justified in his decision that children found roller skating on the city streets henceforth will be prosecuted. .

Earlier warnings as to the extreme danger of this practice have had little or no effect, and it has become necessary therefore to take more drastic measures to prevent traffic accidents, seeing that parents have either fallen down in their duty or their orders have been ignored.

It should be obvious to everybody that urban streets with their large amount of fast-moving vehicular traffic are not safe to be used as a roller-skating rink, and to allow children to use them for that purpose is subjecting them to unnecessary risk and the motorist to a needless strain.

Games of any kind on city streets are dangerous, but roller skating is particularly so, because many children are by no means experts in the art of skating, and in hastily attempting to get out of the path of an oncoming car are just as likely as not to fall in front of the automobile, giving the driver little chance to avert an accident.

In the general interest it is essential that roller skating in dangerous places must be stopped, and the police department in deciding to prosecute all offenders is taking the only feasible and effective way of putting an end to this foolish practice.

MR. MEIGHEN'S RESIGNATION.

No matter what motive may have inspired Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's decision to resign from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, there will be general satisfaction that the former Premier has severed his connection with the publicly-owned power enterprise.

The Examiner's views on this question have been made clear on more than one occasion.

Regardless altogether of the Abitibi matter, we have always felt that Mr. Meighen's connection with Hydro should have terminated once he decided to accept the post of Government leader in the Senate.

We have nothing but admiration for Mr. Meighen's ability, but the position he has occupied in Hydro management was inconsistent with active participation in politics, and it has always been a matter of surprise that he himself failed to recognize the undesirability of his retaining both positions.

The Government is rightly represented on the Hydro Commission by a member of the Cabinet, Hon. J. R. Cooke; the municipalities are represented by a second member, C. A. Maguire, and the theory in regard to the third member is that while appointed by the Government, he should not be a partisan appointment.

It was never contemplated that the third member should be so actively connected with politics as to be leader of his party in the Upper Chamber, and when Mr. Meighen chose to accept the Ottawa post of honor it was time for him to have stepped out of his Hydro Commission berth.

He did not choose to do so, and his failure has not increased his own prestige or that of the Ontario body.

HOW WOMEN BUY.

The theory that women are shrewd and careful buyers, especially of foodstuffs, has been given a body blow by a study conducted in Missouri by the home economics department of the State University which reveals surprising inefficiency in food-buying for the home.

Not only are housewives quite oblivious of data on food labels but, say university representatives, "the methods which they use in designating quantity and qualities of food desired indicate a similar lack of information."

When buying packaged foods, the report says, only three-quarters of the women read the labels, and 16 per cent. of them could not name a single point of specific information to look out for, brand, ingredients, weight, etc. Less than 45 per cent. knew more than one point.

Even brand names on the labels were looked for by only from 50 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the women, varying with different foods.

A blow to the vanity of many a manufacturer is the fact that the proportion who sought out the maker's name ranged from from none on some foods to a top of 3 per cent.

In describing quality some relied on brands, others on variety, form, size and price, and instead of giving the number of units many housewives ordered by container, bottle, sack, package and by such adjectives as "large," "small," "square," etc.

Strange to say, veteran housewives, according to the survey, did not show any better knowledge of food-buying than did young brides.

THEY ALL SUPPORTED IT.

The Examiner must confess that it has always been a matter of wonderment how the Canadian Parliament was stampeded through the medium of skilfully organized propaganda into launching out into nationalized broadcasting.

We were never of the opinion that there was any great measure of public demand for the adoption of such a policy, and have always admired the work of the lobbyists who were able to convince the politicians that the people of Canada wanted a state-operated radio system.

All parties in Parliament were, as a matter of fact, hynoptized into supporting national radio, which makes a recent campaign utterance by Mr. Hepburn difficult to understand.

The Liberal leader described the Canadian Radio Commission as an adjuct of the present Government, and intimated that the system had been created merely to give the Government control of the air for political purposes.

As a matter of fact, the records show that the present radio system in Canada was unanimously recommended by a special parliamentary committee representative of all groups in the House, and its adoption was also unanimously supported in Parliament by all parties.

Mr. Hepburn is, of course, a member of the Federal House, and there is nothing on record to show that when the measure was before Parliament he regarded it as a Government scheme to get partisan control of the air.

Parliament has rarely been as unanimous on any question as it was in this matter of national radio, and if the thing is not working out satisfactorily all parties will have to share the blame.

A GOOD YEAR FOR VACATIONS.

Forecasts for the coming spring and summer are usually concerned with business conditions. But there's one field that has been overlooked in most of the prophecies so far, and we might as well get in on it right now. It looks as if it ought to be a great year for vacations.

More people are at work, incomes are higher, business firms are doing better, and there is much more leisure time. Add all this together, stir in a dash of hot weather, and you get a booming vacation season.

And in that connection it's worth pointing out that the people of Canada and the United States are exceedingly lucky, when it comes to holidays. They have so many places to go, and the ways of getting there are so very pleasant.

If you take your vacation in your own car, you have the world's finest network of smooth, well-cared-for highways, studded with hotels, camping sites, garages and service stations.

If you go by rail, you have an almost limitless selection of fine trains and special vacation fares.

If you like to go on the water, there's a whole fleet of steamship lines travelling over an infinite variety of fresh and salt waterways.

But all this deals only with the mechanics of travel. It's where you go that counts most; and the North American continent seems to have been designed especially as a vacation ground.—Kitchener Record.

WE MAY MAKE USE OF IT.

For a week and a half we have been sitting under the refining influence of sweet music as exemplified in the Musical Festival. Much are we learning as we hear intelligent adjudicators give advice to those who enter the various classes, and well versed do we grow in the use of phrases which refer especially to music.

It may be that in days to come it will be possible to apply some of these delightful terms to those with whom we do business. When an irate subscriber enters the office with strong yearning to inflict bodily injury upon the editor, we have a half-baked notion now of what to say and how to say it. After he has finished with his first roar and has relieved himself of strong adjective and vigorous verb we shall say:

"My dear fellow, in order to be successful there are certain fundamentals of speech and action which you must observe. Your manner on entry was entirely devoid of charm; one could tell you were angry, and you should seek to suppress that. The manner in which you said the word hell was not good; it was not impressive; there was nothing mysterious about it to awaken slumbering emotion. Likewise the passage which you introduced with the word damn was extremely faulty. It was evident that you have not studied deep breathing; there was something thoaty and unpleasant about the sound you gave to that word. It should be so pronounced that final m and n sounds should be allowed to take unto themselves that beautiful singing quality of which these consonants are capable. Then when you came to that phrase 'lousy sheet' (referring to this paper) you were quite in fault; in fact, you will find it hard to progress in the dramatic art unless you correct faults which were painfully apparent. The word lousy should be said in a slow manner and a short breath should be inserted between those two words. Coming to another place, page three, first bar, where you use the words 'I have guts enough to knock your block of,' you failed entirely to enter into the spirit of the phrase. A great improvement would have been registered had you said 'I have sufficient intestinal stamina to inflict a powerful blow upon your proboscis.' Do you not see what a flowing motion there is to those words, and how delicate they are when compared with the uncouth utterance of which you made use?"

If, by this time the visitor has remained calm and collected and shows a disposition to appreciate the instruction which he is receiving, then long attendance at the Musical Festival will not have been in vain.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It was a Hull radio station that wanted a copy of Mr. Hepburn's speech in advance. They doubtless did not know that the Liberal leader prefers to talk ad lib, as the stage comedians ex press it.

To some of our politicians we commend the example of that Montreal citizen who, according to the news despatches, succeeded in holding his breath for fifteen minutes.

Premier Henry ought to take time out long enough to announce the date of the provincial election and let us get the thing over before the bass season gets here.

One feature of the Ontario situation is that the embattled politicians can select almost any issue they prefer to discuss.

The farmer cannot complain that he is being neglected in the present campain. Attorney-General Price promises a reduction of the Hydro contract period to five years, and Mr. Hepburn comes back with a hint of flat rates to Hydro customers and the absorption by the province of all highway costs. What is this, an election or an auction sale?

It's funny a woman who can spot a blonde hair on your coat at ten paces don't see a pair of garage doors.—Pelcan.

The savage isn't so dumb. He can tell whether he is uncomfortable without looking at a thermometer.—Robert Quillen.

Shorter skirts are said to be staging a comeback. Why not? Everything else is on the up and up.—Kitchener Record.

CHAPTER 53

For some reason Tiggie's thoughts dwelt upon those words of Viola's as he returned to "The Sea Lion" for luncheon. Why had she called this great happiness of theirs a fool's paradise? He had put her misgivings away at the time without any difficulty as the outcome of her nervous state; but now they returned upon him with curious force. He no longer had any doubt as to her feeling for him, but somehow that fact no longer filled him with ecstasy. He was conscious of a weight upon his spirit for which it was difficult to account. Though he knew that this wonderful thing belonged to him, he could not rejoice in its possession. Was it some premonition of disaster that hung upon him? He had never experienced it before, never believed in it. But now, like a bird of evil omen, it spread its wings between him and the light. Had he indeed walked in a fool's paradise?

He made a resolute effort to shake off his depression as he trudged back through the now driving rain, and failing assigned to it, with a determination that would have been comical if it had not been in a way desperate, all the most commonplace reasons that occurred to him.

Naturally, the weather came first. Who could feel elated on a day like this, with the wind and the sea moaning together and the sun completely hidden? The rain, too, pattering all around him with desolate persistence—a necessary evil, of course, but how unwelcome! He had not noticed it when setting out to go to her, but it was much heavier—and much darker—than it had been then. At least, it seemed so to him. Who could maintain any mood approaching high spirits on a day like this? The very dogs slunk about with their drenched tails tucked out of sight. Looking about him, Tiggie decided that, for real desolation and gloom, there was no place on earth like an English hamlet at the seaside on a wet day in the summer. Then he became aware that this decision expressed the basest ingratitude, and endeavored to fix his depression to another cause.

His mind, as he gazed across the bleak shore with its floating mist-wreaths, went back to the night before, to the Slimby Rock and the awful peril which had driven him up its slimy surface. He recalled the turmoil, the terrific fight for life, and what—but for Harvey—would have been the ultimate failure. Were there not ample grounds here for this overwhelming depression? How could he expect to escape some physical reaction after such an adventure? Surely he would be something more than human if he did not feel its effects for several days! He had not been conscious of fatigue, but he assured himself that this was the cause—the natural and inevitable cause—of his depression. What he needed was a decent meal and a rest, and then everything would look different.

The long-drawn-out wail of the lightship siren off the distant Slimby Point here broke across the gray silence. It seemed to pierce through and through every cranny of the cliffs, awaking in them echoes that came forth in melancholy cadences to spread far over the dreary wastes and mingle with the cries of the startled sea birds as they flew out from their rocky shelter.

The siren finished Tiggie. He was not an imaginative man by nature, but his previous night's experience had quickened his imagination to an extent which he himself would normally have described as morbid. All that life could hold of misery and despair seemed to be expressed in those dismal echoes, and he broke into a run and literally fled inland.

Joe Penny was standing in his porch and received him with a grin. "Got wet again, sir!" he remarked.

"Damned wet," said Tiggie tersely, and tramped in without further words.

He was sitting at lunch when Harvey joined him with a countenance so black that even Tiggie was roused to comment.

"You're looking a bit off, old chap. What's the matter?" he said.

Harvey glared at him as though resenting the overtures of a complete stranger, and opened his paper without a word.

Tiggie was too depressed to be offended. Besides had not the man saved his life only the day before? He merely sighed and continued his meal.

Harvey continued buried in his paper until his own was brought, when he devoured it with the speed of a famished animal and then departed in unbroken silence.

Tiggie heard him curtly order a bottle of whisky at the bar to be sent up to his room, and shrugged his shoulders. Harvey's method of counteracting depression did not appeal to him, but for the moment he almost wished it did.

He had one more look at the weather when he had finished his lunch, but it was still so unpromising that he turned from further contemplation and finally drifted up to his own room to smoke his pipe in solitude. In weariness of soul and body, he stretched himself upon his bed and lay staring at the dark ceiling. Why did her words haunt him so? What strange force was at work? "I must keep my paradise a little longer—even if it is a fool's paradise." Why had she said it? And why could he not forget?

Drearily he smoked his pipe to an end and put it down. But he continued to lie gazing at the ceiling and wrestling with the problem as though some evil magic were at work.

Outside, the rain streamed in torrents and beat upon the windows, and the rising wind howled desolately. All the happy summer days had fled. He could not look forward, and a veil seemed to blot out the past. He could only lie and wonder—and wonder!

He remembered afterwards that he made one great effort to recover his common sense, as he turned upon his side and closed his eyes to shut out the black cloud of depression that enveloped him and poor Harvey also.

"All Tommy rot!" he said aloud and distinctly and the words comforted him almost as much as if someone else had uttered them.

Five minutes later he was snoring peacefully, and the burden had slipped from his shoulders. . . .

When he ultimately awoke, it was with an urgent sense of being late for something. He started upright on the bed and looked at his watch. The room was shadowy. The rain still fell incessantly. To his horror he discovered that it was past seven o'clock. Exhaustion had claimed payment with a vengeance, and he was already two hours late for his evening visit to Viola.

He sprang up and dragged on his boots. What on earth would she be thinking of him? Would she picture him wandering a second time along the shore and cut off by the tide?

He pulled open the door and went out into the passage. He saw at once that Harvey's door was open, and a queer misgiving went through him to which he could give no name. The burden that had oppressed him before his sleep had returned upon him with a ten-fold weight. He went down the narrow stairs with a sense of doom at his heart.

He reached the dark hall, hung with antlers and clothes' pegs, and stopped to grope for his coat and hat. As he did so the sound of voices came to him from the bar-parlor, and in a moment, as though a hand had clutched his throat, he was standing motionless, with caught breath. For Harvey was speaking—in tones of deadly insolence.

"I'm afraid you've been misinformed regarding Captain Turner. If he has a wife—she's not here."

"Not here!" Another voice, harshly raised, broke in upon Harvey's deliberate accents. "Not here! Then where the devil is she? Anyhow, where is he?"

"At the present moment," said Harvey, "I am not in a position to tell you. But no doubt he will make a show at dinner. He usually does."

"Dinner!" The harsh voice barked the word. "It's past seven now. What time do you dine in this outlandish hole?"

"I'm not the landlord," said Harvey, supremely contemptuous. "Personally, I dine when it suits me to do so, and at no other time."

"Well, where is the landlord then?"

There was a sound of impatient feet moving across the oilcloth and in a moment the door of the bar-parlor swung open, and Tiggie, standing motionless against the coats, found himself confronted by a short, thick-set man with iron-gray hair and a small cynical-looking mustache of the same color. His eyes also were iron of hue with a tinge of rust that gave them a reddish glare.

He stopped short at sight of Tiggie and challenged him aggressively. "Hullo! You the landlord of this place?"

"Did you speak to me?" said Tiggie, prompted by some instinct of self-defense that he did not stop to question.

"Who else?" said the aggressive man, pausing to take stock of him. "I asked if you were the landlord, but I suppose you're not, as you don't seem in any hurry to lay claim to this blasted cave."

Harvey's voice, cool and sarcastic, here spoke over the newcomer's head, and his tall thin form showed in the gloom behind. "Hullo, Tiggie! You haven't seen Captain Turner anywhere, I suppose? Been hogging it upstairs all the afternoon, haven't you?"

He made a rapid sign with the words which was too pronounced to be ignored.

Tiggie stared for a second or two, then said, "I haven't seen anyone. Yes, I've been upstairs."

"Here! Let me pass!" said the stranger, and stamped away from between them and down the passage towards the kitchen.

Harvey made an instant dive forward. "Quick! Come outside! Don't wait for anything!"

He strode out into the rain as he was, and Tiggie blindly followed, mechanically dragging on his coat as he did so.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

AROUND THE WORLD IN 19 MONTHS

On this date, in 1841 Sir George Simpson, the Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, began the second stage of his memorable journey around the world. He had left London in March, touched at Halifax, landed at Boston and travelled in his private carriage thence to Montreal, arousing much curiosity as he passed by through the New England states by reason of the fact that whenever he left his coach he was played to his hotel by his piper. It is doubtful if the Indians of northern British Columbia were more astounded at Fort St. James than were the people of Burlington or of the French villages in Quebec south of Montreal.

The start from Lachine on May 1 was full of color. The war canoes escorting the official barge were manned by voyageurs and taken through the rapids by Indian pilots. Up the Ottawa river by the fur traders' route to Fort William, then through the Lake of Woods country to Fort Garry, where a halt was made for several days and business transacted. Then on by slow stages to Edmonton House, over the mountains to Fort Colville on the Columbia and to Fort Vancouver, then the Pacific depot of the H. B. C. Here again the efortunes of "The" Company were discussed with John McLaughlin and James Douglas and the future of the fort was discussed. Possibly it was then that the decision was reached to prepare for a removal to headquarters to Vancouver Island in view of the probability of Fort Vancouver being declared American territory as it was in 1846.

Travelling to Fort Nisqually on Puget Sound, Sir George Simpson took the company's steamer Beaver, the first on the north Pacific, to Sitka, Alaska, where he was the guest of the Russian governor, after which he went back to Fort Vancouver, whence he went down the coast to San Francisc from which he sailed to the Sandwich Islands. Reversing his journey he got back to Sitka, crossed to Siberia and, travelling in great state and everywhere a guest of distinction, he visited Moscow and St. Petersburg. There the recipient of honors from the Czar and court, pleasant days and rich nights climaxed the journey around the world, which ended in London 19 months and 26 days from this departure. He afterwards returned to Canada and died near Lachine in 1860.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

FORGET YOUR MISTAKES

You made mistakes. You wouldn't deny it if you could. Everybody makes mistakes. You can't avoid them any more than you can avoid a germ or a mosquito or the air you breathe.

If you didn't make mistakes, you'd be hardly worth living with. People would admire you—and void you. You'd be a living reproach to them, who make so many mistakes.

You make maitakes in thought, in action. You cannot know the future, so you make mistakes in the present. You do not know other people completely, so you make mistakes about them. You do not know yourself thoroughly, either, so you make mistakes even about yourself and what you think and feel and are likely to do....That's true, isn't it?

What do you do when you make a mistake? Do you accept it or deny it? Do you brood over it, or do you forget it?

My idea is that the very best thing to do with a mistake is to FORGET it!

I know that wiser men than I am have counseled us to regard our mistakes closely and keep them with us forever as guardians of our future, transforming them into rich experience....There's truth in that advice, too....And yet, I do believe that the best thing to do with a mistake is to Forget It. Not to deny it, or to disregard it at the moment, but nevertheless to push it as far as possible into the back of your mind.

If a man walks over this earth, remembering every mistake he ever made, thinking more often of his mistakes than of his successes, he takes some of the life in himself, he kills the best of his own vitality. He becomes a living, lugubrious memory. At every instant of decision he is reminded of some ridiculous or pathetic, or humiliating or tragic failure. And these memories paralyse his powers for actions. He falters, hesitates, and becomes an indecisive and powerless man. Thinking too much of what he has NOT done, he is able to do what he OUGHT to do. And because of all the little failures, his life becomes one enormous mistake....I think that's a tragic thing to happen to a human being who is, all the time, trying to do the right thing.

OWEN SOUND, ONTARIO

Prior to 1800, Owen Sound was known by its Indian name: Wad-i-need-i-non, signifying "beautiful valley." Some few years late Lieutenant Bayfield and Capt. W. F. W. Owen, R.N., made the first hydrographic survey of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay. Because of the fact they had "sounded" their way in, the bay was named Owen's Sound.

In 1842, Charles Rankin surveyed a township which he named Sydenham, the townsite was given the name. This named endured until 1856, when an application was made to incorporate the town and it was given the name Owen Sound. The town was incorporated as a city in 1919.

ONLY ADEQUATE SOLUTION CANADAS' RAILWAY PROBLEM C. P. R. HEAD TELLS MEETING

New Forms of Competition Occupy Useful Place in Transportation of Country.

SHAREHOLDERS GATHER.

Present Situation Involves Economic Waste of Millions of Dollars a Year.

MONTREAL, May 2.— (C.P.) — Unification was the only adequate solution of Canada's railway problem, E. W. Beatty, K.C., told shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at their annual meeting to-day in the course of his presidential address.

"After many years of study, I am of the opinion that unification for the purpose of administration offers the only adequate solution of Canada's railway problem," E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president Canadian Pacific Railway, declared in an address to the annual meeting of the shareholders of the company. "The railway structure of Canada is unsound and in good times as well as in bad, involves economic waste of many millions of dollars per annum. It is idle to lay the blame to government or to parliaments."

New Competition.

The situation Mr. Beatty argued must be viewed in the light of present day experience, and of our conception of the future trend of transportation in Canada. "The private motor and the bus trucks are here to stay, and occupied a useful place in the transportation system of the country, but," he said, "the public interest requires that the limits of their place in that system should be ascertained, and their operations and tariff as well as those of water carriers, controlled in the same manner as the railways. Water competition threatens to increase, and the airplane has possibilities for the future which cannot be treated lightly. With these considerations in mind I feel we should without delay fortify our railway situation to meet the new condition, and insure the solvency of the private company and the nation."

"The proponents of the present competitive system," Mr. Beatty said, "assert that an equal, or at least sufficient, economy may be effected by co-operation between the two companies, but it must be patent that this cannot be so. They assert also that politics do not enter into the administration of the government system, or political considerations into a solution of the problem. While I would like to believe that to be true, I have heard emphatic assurances of the same character made during the past years, and unfortunately, they have been proven to be without foundation."

"The submissions which this company has made, coupled with a recommendation of joint administration by a private company, have caused some people to deduce that the effect of the proposal would be to turn the assets of the national system over to the Canadian Pacific, the government retaining the liabilities. The governments guarantee of the national system's securities means that there is no escape from their liability to the holders of these securities save by the unthinkable course of repudiation. The purpose of unification is to provide the owners of the national system with more money to satisfy their obligations than it is possible to secure if dual and competitive systems are maintained; likewise the same economies will increase the revenues of your company. It has never been suggested that the Canadian Pacific should assume ownership of the national system—that will remain with the government of Canada as will the ownership of the Canadian Pacific remain with its present proprietors. In effect, the suggestion is a partnership with a division on an agreed basis of the net earnings of the properties jointly operated. Private administration is recommended as that most likely to lessen or eliminate political influence and secure maximum efficiency I am satisfied that in good times as well as in times of adversity unified administration gives greatest assurance of economy and efficiency. The objection usually offered is said to be founded on fear of the consequences of monopoly, but I think the fear groundless. Railways do not and can not enjoy a transportation monopoly, and the public interest may be fully protected by public control exercised through the board of railway commissioners and the government. I can see no reason why that control should not, under the system have suggested be as effective as it has been in the past."

No Dividends

In expressing the regret felt by the directors that no dividend could be paid either on preference or ordinary stock in respect of 1933 Mr. Beatty said that it was felt to be in the best interest of the shareholders notwithstanding their natural disappointment. The finances of the company must be strictly conserved until earnings show a return to normal figures, and a definite trend toward stability.

"I have mentioned the improvement in rail earnings since the beginning of the present year," he said "the increase has been in the earnings of your railway in eastern Canada. In a very peculiar sense the prosperity of this company depends upon the prosperity of agriculture and therefore, of western Canada from which territority about 60 per cent of its freight earnings are normally derived.

Obviously therefore improvement in conditions in the west is essential in order to justify the claim of general prosperity I can only express the hope that the progress already made indicates the beginning of the general revival in trade.

"In reviewing the position of the company, Mr. Beatty said that in 1928 the gross earnings which are now being included in railway accounts amounted to $241,978,461 which constituted a new peak. In 1933 gross earnings amounted to $114,286,688, a total recession from 1928 of $127,708,773 or 53 percent. The company's plant and organization had been explained to handle the peak trafic of 1928, and the successful record of progressive readjustment of the company's operations to make such an unprecedented decline reflected credit upon the manner in which the company's officers and employees had conducted operations under very difficult circumstances. In 1928 working expenses amounted to $180,028,332 and in 1933 at $93,407,592, working expenses showed a total reduction of $95,620,750 or 51 percent below 1928.

Passenger Decrease

There were 9.68 percent fewer railway passengers carried in 1933 than in 1932 but the average journey was longer. Passengers carried one mile decreased 4.81 percent only. The volume of traffic would have been less had it not been for the policy of operating special coach excursions and maintaining low week-end and holiday fares. Total passenger train earnings per train mile only decreased from $1.43 to $1.39. Notwithstanding the reduction in the volume of freight traffic, heavier loading of trains was secured and the total freight train earnings per train mile increased from $4.80 to $5.00.

Maintenance expenses were in keeping with reduced traffic, the company had benefitted in lowered maintenance cost. due to improvements made during more prosperous years and from economies brought about by new practises.

Transportation expenses decreases 13.8 percent made possible by reduced wages, lower material costs, better operating performances and other contributation factors.

20-POINT BAKING INDUSTRY CODE

a committee from the Master Bakers Association.

Costs Increased

The chief complaint of the independent baker against the mill-owned bakery is that, due to the latter's aggressiveness in advertising and selling, backed by large financial resources, the independent man finds his distribution costs greatly increased, James Dempster, Toronto baker, told the committee. Coupled with this was the fact that the chain store sold bread at the lowest possible figure.

Thus, faced on the one hand with increased costs in order to meet one type of competition, and on the other with decreased retail prices to meet another, the independent baker found himself in a difficult position.

The last ten years had seen the mills "buying" their way into the baking field, said Mr. Dempster. This, in his opinion, was due to the desire on the part of the mills to secure a share of the flour output.

Control

"You mean to secure control," suggested Hon. H. H. Stevens, chairman.

"Yes," replied the witness. But in fairness to these concerns he found they conducted their business in a business-like manner—as they saw it. However, as a result of their aggressive campaigns, the independents had had to increase their own distribution costs. Delivery costs had risen from 22 per cent to 30 per cent between 1923 and 1932, said Mr. Dempster.

This increase had not resulted in a rise in the retail price of bread.

Discussing his own firm, Mr. Dempster said that wages paid to his salesmen were much the same as in 1923. Paid on a basis of salary plus commission, these men earned from $23.50 to $24.00 a week.

GOLD ADVANCES FALSE RUMOURS

Considerable Volume of Buying Sends Leaders Up 50 Cents to $2.

LIST CLOSES HIGHER.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.). — A considerable volume of buying, sufficient to push prices of the gold leaders up 50 cents to $2 to-day, had market observers wondering what good news the gold group was anticipating. Rumors were afloat all day as to the nature of the statement expected from the Government regarding the gold tax but no official announcement appeared before the market closed. The mining board of the Toronto Exchange closed mainly higher.

McIntyre had a gain of 3.25 in early afternoon but profit-taking pared the closing price to 45.50 for a net gain of 2.75. Dome gained 1.25, Hollinger 95 cents, Lake Shore 50 cents, Teck Hughes 20 cents and Wright Hargreaves 40 cents. Bralorne gained about 35 cents.

Noranda moved up 1.50 in the early part of the rally but retained only about 75 cents till the close.

VILLAGES GROWING IN MINING AREAS

Important Developments Taking Place in Patricia District.

The Patricia mining district of Ontario is attracting increasing attention in the mining field following the interesting and important developments which have been taking place in this area recently.

Sioux Lookout, the Railhead and start of the waterways is assuming the proportions of a busy small city, having a population already of some 3,500 and growing rapidly. Striking out from it there runs 150 miles of water route to Red Lake and at Howey Mines, the terminus of this route, is a growing town of 1,000 people. Four miles out at McKenzie Red Lake is another town of 300 persons.

As an example of the progress being made in the North, Howey has schools, a hospital, electric lights and most of the comforts of less frontier towns. The rapidly growing importance of the Patricia area has received the recognition of the government in the building of a Hydro plant 40 miles from Howey which will supply power for Hudson Patricia and McKenzie Red Lake, as well as another line going into Central Patricia and Pickle Crow Mines. They also assisted with the construction of marine railways over the portages so that now it is possible for freight to go by scow to Hudson in 26 hours at a cost in the neighborhood of $25 per ton.

Howey is the most advanced mine in the area and it is understood their production this year will be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 in gold. McKenzie Red Lake, its neighbor, is developing rapidly and competent mining authorities estimated several millions of dollars of probable ore already indicated. It should be in production this year.

Several rapidly developing properties are McQuig Red Lake, Gold Eagle, McManus and West Red Lake. Further along we find Casey Summit being developed by Maple Leaf Mines and Coniagas and about to start a 50 ton mill. A few miles away Hudson Patricia holds an important property, on which large ore bodies of extremely interesting values have been blocked out and which is rapidly advancing to a production stage under most competent management.

Jackson Manion is approaching production, while Coniagas Mines is understood to be combing the area for additional promising properties. Some of the largest mining operating companies and strong financial interests have become associated with operations in this area and the general developments in the Patricia district indicate a mining area of rapidly growing importance in relation to the outstanding Canadian mining camps.

FIND SNAKES IN COAL

BELLEVILLE, Ont.—Two hissing copper-head snakes startled workers at the freight yards here when they darted out from a load of coal imported from the Southern United States. The workers were shovelling the coal when a small slide disclosed the two copper-heads. The shovellers dug the serpents out and killed them with their tools.

MARCH DIVIDEND PAYMENTS SHOW ENCOURAGING ADVANCE

Total of $13,764,975 Almost Two Million Above Same Month Last Year—Many Companies Able to Increase Rates.

By A. D. O'HALLORAN
Copyright 1934 by Central Press Canadian

TORONTO, May 2. — Canadian dividend payment continue to improve with the estimated total for April almost $2,000,000 above that for the corresponding month for 1933, making the fourth month of the past five in which the total has exceeded that for the corresponding period of previous year.

A. D. O'Halloran

Payments for April, as estimated from official declarations by Financial Counsel, approximated $13,764,975, contrasted with $11,935,188 for April, 1933, and $20,532,879 for April 1932.

Most encouraging feature of the compilation of the month's payments is the number of companies able to increase their rates for the period, pay bonuses or extras, make distribution after having had to omit payments in the past, or able to reduce arrears of dividend by distributions on this occasion. The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Canada has restored the old annual rate of $5 a share on the common by payment of $1.25 for the quarter, an increase of 25 cents over previous quarter. Canada Northern Power has increased the quarterly rate on the common from 20 to 25 cents, Canadian Canners on convertible preferred from 5 to 7½ cents, and Geo. Weston Ltd. doubled the old rate of 25 cents quarterly on the new common as a result of the two for one split. Payments on account of arrears of dividend were made by Canada Packers, Investment Foundation, National Grocers, Niagara Wire Weaving, and Riverside Silk Mills. Fanny Farmer Candy made up for a payment missed previously, in addition to regular distribution, Economic Investment Trust paid 31½ cents a share, as against preceding payment of 18¾ cents, and Ottawa Traction made the first distribution on the common stock of 50 cents since January, 1926.

The increased price of gold has allowed for more liberal disbursements by mining companies. Bralorne Mines made an initial payment of 12½ cents a share, and Hollinger, Dome, and Wright-Hargreaves paid bonuses in addition to regular distributions.

FRENCH AGENTS UNCOVER RING

sent him by tipsters, one of whom used a name of a former woman acquaintance.

One of the tipsters subsequently was charged with forgery, was identified by police as a German agent.

Worst Since War.

Revelation made by one of the suspects, Stanislas Krouss, a Pole, were said to have shown the spy organization to be the most dangerous discovered in France since the War.

Krouss was arrested in Paris by secret service agents, who claimed to have caught him in the act of handing documents dealing with new frontier fortifications to an accomplice.

The disclosures by Krouss, who posed as a business man, led to the arrest, police said, at Belfort of the French officer, Captain Froge, who has been under suspicion for a long time.

The identity of the accomplice mentioned in connection with Krouss was not revealed, but it was indicated that he is a British Army officer. The accomplice was said by authorities to have been engaged in carrying the French military secrets across the border.

$1,000 CONSCIENCE MONEY

OTTAWA — Another substantial payment of "conscience money," has been made, according to word received yesterday by Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue. The sum of $1,000 cash was handed in over the counter of the office of the inspector of income tax, Montreal, by a Catholic priest, presumably on behalf of some parishioner who desired to make restitution of money owing to the government.

Recently a bank draft for $5,400 in "conscience money," was received at the department, the letter was postmarked Montreal.

STERILIZATION OLD ISSUE IN THIS PROVINCE

Proposed by a Past President of N. S. Medical Society 24 Years Ago.

SHOCKED TRURO COUNCIL.

TRURO, N.S., May 2 (C.P.) — Sterilization of the mentally unfit though very much to the fore to-day is no new proposal in Truro. Twenty-four years ago Dr. W. R. Dunbar, past president of the Nova Scotia Medical Society, advocated such a proposal to the town council, of which he was a member, and in so doing "shocked all the members of the council." This information was brought out in a survey of professional opinion on the question of sterilization. Out of a score or so of clergymen, medical practitioners, dentists and social workers querried only one protest was registered against sterilization. This opposing opinion was from Rev. Father Kinsella, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. He declared, "The Catholic Church does not approve of sterilization of humans and consequently condemns it as wrong."

Dr. Dunbar who, in addition to being a past president of the Nova Scotia Medical Society, is also a former mayor of the town and has occupied a number of public health positions, stated he had advocated sterilization ever since 1910. He added, "the number of mentally deficient in institutions is large and is increasing. When we take into consideration the simple operation which is necessary there should be no objection from that point."

Rev. W. McN. Matthews, president of the Truro Ministerial Association and minister of First United Church, Truro, stated that he was in favor of sterilization and expressed the belief that there was a growing feeling in favor of it.

The town's only woman medical doctor, Mrs. Hugh Dickson, M.D., C.M., who is actively associated with the Nova Scotia Red Cross and a well known social worker, stated, "I consider sterilization a suitable method of coping with the menace of the feeble minded citizen."

The question of sterilizing the mentally unfit was brought to the fore in the province of Nova Scotia when Dr. T. R. Johnson of Great Village, in submitting his annual report as County Health Officer to the January Session of he Colchester Municipal Council, meeting in this town, stated that in a short while we would have to adopt some form of birth control by means of sterilization. "We have only to survey the families," he stated, "that are now producing most of the children to-day to realize that something must be done."

The report was accepted but no action was taken.

FISH AND GAME GROUP FORMED

New Organization Embraces Eighteen Counties in Eastern Ontario.

URGE NATURE STUDY.

PRESCOTT, Ont., May 1 (CP)—The Eastern Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association was an accomplished fact to-day, formed at a meeting of representatives of 18 Fish and Game Clubs here yesterday, to further the interests of fishermen and hunters in this part of the Province.

The organization embraces clubs in the counties of Frontenac, Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott, Russell, Lanark, Renfrew, and Carleton.

John L. Reid, Prescott lawyer, was unanimously elected president. Hon. George H. Challes, Minister of Game and Fisheries for the Province of Ontario, was elected honorary president.

Other officers are: Honorary vice-presidents, Dr. H. A. Clark, M.L.A., Brockville; Frank Shaver, M.P. for Stormont; G. T. Fulford, Brockville; vice-president, W. E. Wright of Gananoque; and secretary-treasurer, Hubert D. Earl of Prescott.

Resolutions were passed and will be forwarded to the Ontario Government.

Among them is one suggesting the present elementary course in nature study in the Public and Separate Schools be more comprehensive in regard to game birds and animals and their economic importance.

Another asks that the boundary line between Ontario and Quebec on Lake St. Francis be established, so as to rectify the present difficulty. It was said that fishermen had no means to guide themselves while fishing in the lake, with the result that many were fined for illegal fishing.

SPYING ON SPORTS

"GOSSIP AND SUCH

CHICAGO FANS, intrigued by those two one-hitters pitched by Lon Warneke, are now praying nightly that their hero from the Ozarks turn in a no-hit performance.

What for?

It would be a nice spectacle, but outside of that a no-hit game by Warneke would not add a fraction of an inch to Lon's status as a star hurler. No hit games mean nothing. Plenty of mediocre pitchers have twirled no-hit games.

Those two one-hit games Warneke has already turned in total up double the value of any no-hit performance he may have up his sleeve. Ask Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs, Lon's boss.

• • •

DO YOU remember Morris Amole, Winford Kellum, Henry Dowling, Frank Hahn, Robert Wicker, Weldon Henley, John Lush, Malcolm Eason, Thomas Hughes, George Mullin, Earl Hamilton, Edward LaFitte, Miles Main, Arthur Davenport, Robert Groom, Harry McIntyre?

It's a two-to-one bet that you do not.

Well, these gentlemen were among the major league pitchers who have pitched no-hit games since 1900.

Evidently their no-hit performances added little to their fame—or you would remember having seen or heard of them.

• • •

WALTER JOHNSON pitched his first no-hit game in 1920, but he was a great pitcher for more than a decade before that. Walter's no-hit performance came when the Big Train was nearing the finish of his career and when he probably was not quite so effective as in earlier years.

Of course, a great many stars have pitched no-hit games. Cy Young pitched three. But Cy would have been just as great if he had not pitched his perfect games.

Christy Mathewson tossed two no-hitters. Other aces who entered the no-hit lists included Hoss Radbourne, Amos Rusie, Jess Tannehill, Nick Maddox, Nap Rucker, Leon Ames, Addie Joss, Smoky Joe Wood, Chief Bender, Big Ed Walsh, Jeff Tesreau, Rube Marquard, Bullet Joe Bush, Hub Leonard, Eddie Cicotte, Ernie Shore, Ray Caldwell, Jess Barnes, Dazzy Vance and Wesley Ferrell.

MENTIONING FERRELL recalls a remarkable fact. The big Cleveland right hander was going great guns until he turned in his no-hit performance.

Since then Wes has had all sorts of misfortunes—physical and financial. Now that no-hit game of his looks like a jinx.

Presbyterian Synod Praises Westerners

LISTOWEL, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—Standing committees presented their reports to-day at the annual sessions of the Hamilton and London Synod of the Presbyterian Church being held here. The sessions here mark the Synod's diamond jubilee.

A number of committee reports were presented at yesterday's meeting of the Synod, including the budget, missions and pension reports. At the evening meeting, Rev. Alan Reid described conditions in the drought-stricken areas of Western Canada and declared he believed "the hardiest and most heroic people in the world are our people in Western Canada."

In presenting his budgte report, Rev. Charles Cowan of Hamilton said many ministers, missionaries and officers of the Church had offered voluntarily to accept reductions to aid church finances. He announced a drop in revenues had been met with expenditure reductions.

Rev. G. A. M. Laird of St. Thomas said total mission receipts were $122,363, with $100,000 going to foreign missions.

GLANLEY'S UNBEATEN COLOMBO FIRST IN 2,000 GUINEAS RACE

Son of Lady Nairne Finishes Length Ahead of French Colt, Easton—Champion Backed Strongly to Win Turf's

NEWMARKET, England, May 2 (CP Cable).—Lord Glanely's unbeaten colt Colombo to-day won the 123th renewal of the classic Two Thousand Guineas Stakes. Colombo, hot favorite for the Derby in which he will meet much the same brand of high-class three-year-olds, started at probably the shortest odds in the history of the class'c.

R. B. Strassburgher's French colt Easton raced into second place, with the Aga Khan's Badruddin third in the field of twelve.

ONE-LENGTH WINNER

Colombo, trim son of Manpa, a former Derby winner, out of Lady Nairne, was ridden by Johnstone to a one-length margin at the finish over the French horse, who in turn finished a length and a half ahead of Badruddin.

The champion, backed strongly to win the turf's mythical "Triple Crown" this season, started at record odds of 7 to 2 on. Eafton was 20 to 1 against, and Badruddin 50 to 1 against. Colombo's backers, the great majority of the fans at turf headquarters, had to be satisfied with a return of $2 on each $7 outlay.

NINTH WIN IN NINE STARTS

Colombo recorded his ninth win in as many starts, seven of them being as a juvenile last season when his earnings of $85,000 were surpassed on the English turf only by those of Hyperion, the Derby and St. Ledger winner.

Lord Glanely's colt, hailed as the best English racer since the great Isinglass of 40 years ago, will be about an even-odds starter in the Derby. The other race in the "Triple Crown" is the Autumn St. Leger. Only ten horses in 150 years have won these three races together, outside of the war years when substitutes were run.

NAZI TO STRIKE AT COMMUNISM

Blow to Come During Regime's Second Year in Power Says Goering.

EULOGIZES HITLER.

BERLIN, May 2. (AP).—Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Minister Without Portfolio, says the Nazi government plans to strike a decisive blow at Communism during the regime's second year in power.

The warning was sounded in a speech closing the official phase of Germany's May Day exercises before approximately 70,000 persons gathered in the Lustgarten.

After assailing enemies of the Nazis, Goering vigorously exclaimed:

"Stand together and sacrifice and all you have if necessary, but never sacrifice your confidence in the leader!"

The setting sun casting gilding beams on the steel helmets of the Reichswehr, added much to the glamor of the scene when Goering proposed three cheers for Chancellor Adolf Hitler and eulogized him as "The man who lit the torch which lights Germany's road to a better future."

The gigantic gathering at the Lustgarten followed one at Tempelhof airdrome where Chancellor Hitler declared in a speech heard by millions:

"The German people want no war because they do not need additional territory; they became great on a small area because of their special talents and industry; they need no tribute or contribution."

BOARD DISCUSSES WAY TO SAVE FUEL

Carbo Engineering Company Sends Representative to Board of Education.

With the memory of the past winter still fresh in their minds and a coal bill amounting to over $9,000 to be footed, Peterborough Board of Education last night gave serious consideration to ways and means of effecting a saving in the future costs of heating the schools.

Mr. Farr, representing the Carbro Engineering Company of Toronto, was given a lengthy audience by the Board, during which he expounded the merits of a fuel saving device invented by himself ten years ago, and for which he made the claim that a 35 to 50 per cent saving could be made in fuel costs.

He presented a plan to the Board, in which he claimed the Board could save enough on the cost of fuel to pay for the installation of the equipment in the schools over a period of two years.

The representative was introduced to the Board by the chairman of the property committee, W. J. Hancock.

John R. Marshall who suggested that the Board secure the unbiased opinion of other users of the equipment in the province, believed, "the system might have considerable merit under certain conditions."

"We cannot pass it up if it means a saving to the Board," he stated, "without a thorough investigation of the claims made for the system."

The suggestion was followed in a motion made by J. A. McKone, and seconded by W. J. Hancock, that the secretary of the Board be instructed to write to twelve different users of the system and ask their experience of the equipment, and that the property committee report back to the board.

E. F. Reid, chairman of the Board spoke of the installation of electric heating equipment by the Hydro Electric Power Commission, under a plan by which the Commission installed the apparatus gratis, and sold off peak power at cheap rates.

An investigation of the merits of the H.E.P.C. plan was also included in the motion, in the Board's effort to reduce fuel costs.

PUBLISHES HIS JOURNAL COME FAIR OR FOUL

W. J. Smith, Editor of Montrose Gazette, Has Yet to Miss a Deadline.

"ALWAYS AT SEA."

SAINT JOHN, N.M., May 2 (CP)—A newspaperman who is "always at sea" is William John Smith, publisher, editor, reporter, proofreader, printer, pressman and circulation manager of the Montrose Gazette, published in one of the world's smallest daily newspaper plants, located aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose.

In his ten years as proprietor of the Gazette he has achieved the distinction of never missing a "dead-line," an enviable record considering the time lost in attempting to place type in the forms during rough weather. Picking type by hand from a stationary galley is difficult enough, and usually, when the steamer lurches in heavy seas, all the type is spilled upon the floor of Smith's tiny establishment, undoing all his work. But it's all in a day's work for him and his labors have not lacked appreciation. George Bernard Shaw, from whom stinging criticism is no stranger, once commended Smith's publication.

Most of his news is "spot", gathered by wireless from various news agencies. He also uses editorial comment clipped from other journals and occasionally prints an item of "local" news if its value warrants. He does not worry about circulation, as every member of his seagoing community is a reader, and when the eight-page edition rolls off the press each noon it is eagerly perused.

Smith takes pride in his compact establishment, where contortionist-like movements are necessary. All possible space in the tiny cabin is used, including the floor. Crowded into quarters measuring six by eight feet are the editorial desk, type galleys, forms, reams of copy, a press and numerous other essentials.

Besides Shaw, readers of the Gazette have included royalty, captains of business and industry and people in every walk of life. For the stock broker Smith carries complete market quotations.

Jobbing work is done in conjunction with the newspaper. Smith once encountered difficulty in printing menus for Hungarian, Czechoslovakian, Rumanian and other foreign passengers. Finally he secured assistance from one of them, and since then an interpreter has been carried aboard the steamer for this and similar purposes. Smith admits, however, that he's still "at sea."

Stone Eggs

CHICAGO, May 2. —(C P)— Joe Paprock and his friend, Harold Riley were fined $21; and $60 respectively after housewives pounded on eggs without being able to break them.

They complained that some of the 'eggs' they bought from the pair were not eggs at all, but stone of the same shape.

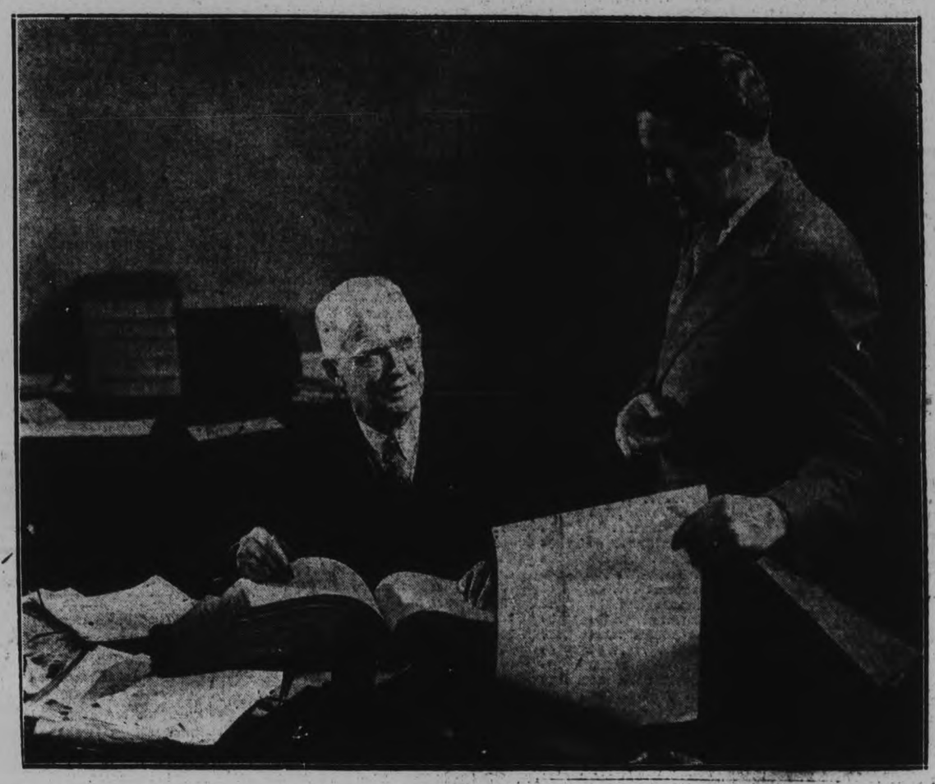
THE THIRTEEN KEYS

A DRAMA THAT HAPPENS MORE OFTEN THAN YOU IMAGINE



CHARACTERS

CAL. SPENCE.—One of over five thousand retailers doing business in the Thirteen Key Cities. With business steadily improving Cal. knows that recovery has really started, but the depression has taught him many things. Careful buying is one of them.

JIM LAWSON.—One of over a score of salesmen calling on Cal. Spence every week. Jim, too, is finding things more encouraging, but the tough sledding of the past three years has taught him many things also. Constructive selling is one of them.

SCENE

A large desk, a swivel chair and a table are the main furnishings of an office at the back of Spence's store. Seated at the desk, Cal, is going over his books. From here he can survey his entire establishment, keep an eye on his staff and observe his customers as they come in. Lawson enters, lays down his sample case, and opens a portfolio of the advertising for a new product as Spence looks up from his ledger.

LAWSON.—Hello, Cal.! I've got something good for you this trip.

SPENCE.—O, Yeah!

LAWSON.—I mean it, Cal. This has everything you have ever asked for. It's priced right. Everyone uses it. Your profit's sure—and big. And it's going to be nationally advertised.

SPENCE.—What do you mean, nationally advertised?

I've taken a loss too often on something that was going to be nationally advertised—advertised in papers or magazines that few of my customers ever see.

LAWSON.—I'll agree with you. But hold on a minute, Cal. This product is to be advertised in your local newspaper.

SPENCE.—Now you're talking. That's where my customers do their buying. Sales prove it or I wouldn't be paying for a quarter page every week. Are those the ads you are going to run?

LAWSON.—Yes, sir. This is your copy of the proofs with insertion dates. Space, position, frequency, and your own daily newspaper. What do you say?

SPENCE.—O.K. I guess we can do business.

Lawson did business with Spence and with the Spences in a dozen other thriving Ontario cities where the combined retail sales are in excess of a hundred million dollars. Below are listed the thirteen dailies that helped do the constructive selling. It was careful buying, too, for the advertiser. The cost of all thirteen was about quarter the cost of one magazine and less than the cost of two of the dailies at the head office city.

BIG HUNGER MARCH IS PLANNED ON QUEEN'S PARK AFTER ELECTION

Unemployment Insurance, Wich is Non-contributory, Will Be Demand.

RELIEF CRITICIZED.

Organization of employed workers as well as the unemployed in a class movement was urged by George Ashbrook of Toronto in an address to approximately five hundred men and women on the Market Square at a meeting of which William McCourt was chairman.

Mr. Ashbrook extolled the Canadian Labor Defence League and its purposes, and said that a hunger march was being planned for after the provincial elections with Queen's Park, Toronto, as its objective in an endeavor to enlist the assistance of the Ontario Government in an appeal to the Federal administration for the establishment of a system of non-contributory unemployment insurance.

Other speakers were William Childs, Mrs. Childs, Thomas J. McMurray and Charles Lambert. They received an attentive hearing, occasionally punctuated by applause as various phases of cause and effects of the economic depression and its causes were discussed.

Mr. Ashbrook said he had formerly lived in Peterborough, had worked in several local factories and enlisted in this city for overseas service during the war. He said he felt proud to be called an "agitator," if anyone used the word in reference to him. Without agitators there would have been no social progress, and the conditions of the people would not have improved since the dark ages. Hundreds of millions of new wealth was created in Canada every year, Mr. Ashbrook continued, but 75 per cent of it was expended in paying interest to bondholders who could afford trips around the world, winters in Florida and California, and all the other luxuries that went with large incomes. Quoting what he said were official figures, he said that during the year ending March 31st there were more than 1,400,000 Canadians on relief which cost the country $44,843,672, or an average of thirty-sevent dollars. In other words the per capita cost of relief in fuel, food and shelter was thirty-seven dollars for twelve months.

The necessity of organization, Mr. Ashbrook stated, must be apparent to both the unemployed and also those who have work, because there was no assurance to those who had employment of the continuance of their jobs.

"Fellow workers, we must carry on the struggle in the municipal field but we must not forget that unemployment is a permanent condition. We have it with us at all times. So we must organize in provincial and federal fields to force the authorities to grant us a scheme of unemployment insurance that will be non-contributory. How can you expect any of those 1,400,000 Canadians on relief to make any contributions toward unemployment insurance? They would be shut out of the benefits of such insurance from the very start if they had to make contributions towards it. When we are ready for the hunger march on Qdeen's Park we want to see Peterborough in the line. Forget your little political, religious and racial differences, and remember that as individuals you don't mean a thing, but as a body you can be a great force. I would also like to see a branch of the Canadian Labor Defence League organized here."

Mr. Ashbrook denied the reports that the "C.L.D.L." was Communistic.

Thomas J. McMurray

"There is no one as satisfied as the workingman if he has a job and is getting along," said T. J. McMurray, who expressed the conviction that under the capitalistic system the immense burden of interest was an increasing handicap to progress and the welfare of the people.

"The first duty of a government is to look after the interests of the citizens one and all, and not the few. As long as we have to pay a billion dollars of interest on the public debt we will continue going down and down, and I am quoting our government's own figures."

Mr. McMurray said that the cost of relief should be borne by the government, in order that the cost should be more evenly distributed.

"I don't think it should be part of the municipal tax. Peterborough has already $300,000 of back taxes for the last two years, and it may be $400,000 next year. I never saw conditions existing here like they are this year. You can walk from the Otonabee River all the way up to the waterworks, and you won't see half a dozen men employed on construction work."

Mr. McMurray remarked that people had told him he was a "fool" to be actively interested in the cause of the workingman, but he could not be indifferent to their needs, "and for all the years that I have been in the Labor movement I defy any man to say that I ever advocated rowdyism as a means of improving their conditions."

Some one in the crowd enquired: "What would you do, Tom?" and he intimated in reply that the workingman had the means in their own hands by their franchise and the ballot.

Mr. McMurray mentioned a radio speech he heard yesterday by a United States Senator on the costs of armaments. One of the statements he quoted was that 20,000 new millionaires had been created in the United States during the war.

"The depression will never end in our time and mine unless the issuing of money is taken over by the governments of the world, and money is issued in the interests of all the people."

Criticizes Relief System

William Childs declared that the allotment of relief in Peterborough was insufficient for the needs of the people, both children and adults. He used the word "starving" in referring to small children in homes that were on relief. A group of doctors had determined that $7.23 a week was the lowest amount on which a family of five persons could live, and the allowance in Glace Bay, N.S., was eight dollars a week for groceries only. Mr. Childs quoted a comparative list of prices of staple foods, showing that there had been substantial increases since 1932. He stated that voucher allowances should make provisions for these increases.

Mr. Childs criticized the relief system in Peterborough, read a letter from Premier Henry to the effect that the administration of relief was in the hands of the municipal authorities, and expressed the opinion that "the buck" was simply being passed from one group to the other. He raised a laugh from the crowd by alluding to the Centra Relief Board, the Council and the Council headquarters as "the gas house."

Mrs. Childs spoke of many household needs that were not supplied by the Relief Committee, and related some of the details of a clash with the Relief Board and Mayor Denne prior to the Market Square meeting. The need of clothing, boots and household utensils were some of the articles which were not generally supplied by the committee. Children were not adequately fed, and their mothers hadn't clothing in which they could dress decently to take the children outdoors.

"They asked me if I went to church, and I said 'No, and for this reason,—when I see peope like you there I don't want to be there with you'."

Mr. Childs stated that people on relief didnt want to accept it. They would rather work, but if they had to accept relief at least they should have the open voucher system.

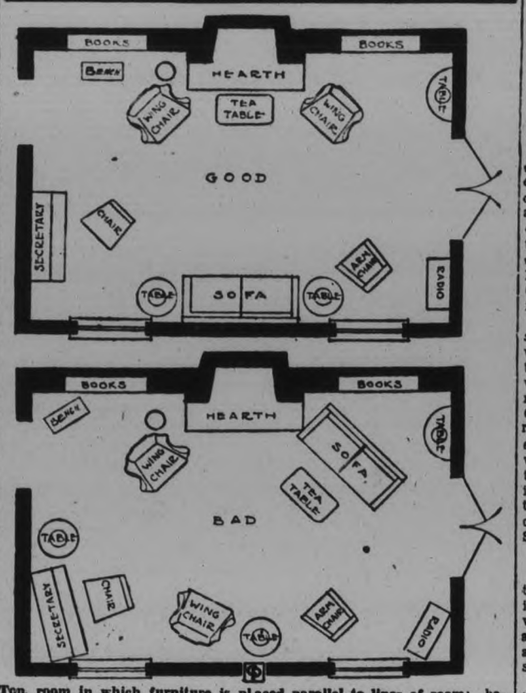
DON'T CUT CORNERS

Placing of Furniture to Conform to Lines of Room Advised by Decoration Expert



Top, room in which furniture is placed parallel to lines of room; below, furniture at conflicting angles.

By FLORENCE B. TERHUNE
Central Press Interior Decoration Expert

If these two rooms could spring into existence for you where you are right now, and if you could linger first in one and then the other, you would experience two very different emotions and undoubtedly wonder why. Comparison proves to you that these two rooms are alike architecturally. They contain the same nicely proportioned furniture. Yet your feelings say, 'It can't be so!'

The first room's seems spacious. It is invitingly restful. The furniture 'belongs.' Your reaction is, "Ah, here is where I should like to dwell!" But in the second room you sense a restless activity. The room seems smaller; the furniture discontented. There isn't that same charm of settled, livable quiet, coaxing you to stay.

As you analyze the situation, you discover that in our GOOD room, above, all the large straight pieces of furniture are placed parallel to the architectural lines of the room. Whereas in our BAD room these same pieces are all at conflicting angles, sharply contradicting these structural lines. The radio and secretary are particularly out of order. Such diagonal cutting off of corners is the chief cause of a disquieting atmosphere, as well as being an unwarranted waste of space Unless furniture is especially designed to coincide with the angles of a corner, such as a corner cabinet, wing chair, and the like, never place it in this contrary way. And all of you homemakers who have desks, straight tables, upright pianos, book-cases, bureaus, beds, etc., cuttingoff square corners, won't you try them flat against the wall, and see what a difference it makes?

Your room will not be stiff or stereotyped if you follow this advice, but rather, it will have a feeling of ballance and repose. You may rely on the smaller things turned at easy angles for interesting variety and relief.

PROBE WITNESS HOTLY ASSAILED

Conservative Flays Saskatoon Livestock Official on Procedure.

SALARY TOO HIGH.

OTTAWA, May 2. — The late hours of the Marketing Bill debate last night was featured by an attack by F. R. MacMillan (Conservative, Saskatoon) against H. P. Kennedy, well-known cattle exporter of Toronto, who has been giving evidence on live stock matters before the Stevens mass buying committee.

Mr. Kennedy is president of the Saskatoon and Edmonton Live Stock Yards. Mr. MacMillan described the formation of the company in Saskatoon which constructed and operated these yards. Citizens of Saskatoon were invited to take shares on the same basis as the outside interests.

Many citizens, incuding himself, Mr. MacMillan said took shares, not for profits particularly, but to make possible yards in the city. Mr. Kennedy was president of the company and all the directors were from Toronto. The solicitor of the company was Norman Sommerville, also of Toronto.

The president first received $1 200 a year. That was satisfactory, as he had practically nothing to do. Mr. MacMillan declared, but last year it had been boosted to $3,700. He claimed Mr Kennedy did absolutely nothing for this salary.

The shareholders of Saskatoon tried to find out what the directors were paid and had been unable to do so, the member said. He criticized several of the items in the annual statement of the company, and claimed the company was making handsome profits.

This situation indicated how careful the Mass-Buying Committee should be in accepting advice, Mr. MacMillan said. Mr. Kennedy was advocating that all cattle marketed should go through the stock yards. In such a case "Mr. Kennedy would get his," and that was all he was interested in.

To a query from John Vallance (Liberal, South Battleford) as to whether this was the same Norman Sommerville who was counsel for the Mass-Buying Committee, Mr. MacMillan said he would have to find out that for himself.

SALVATION ARMY WORK IN INDIA BY COMMISSIONER FREIDRICH

37 Criminal Settlements Worked and Supported by the Army.

WORK IN OTHER LANDS

To have pioneered the work of the Salvation Army in China, Czecho Slovakia, the Klondyke during the gold rush of the nineties; among the criminal tribes of Northern India, together with intimate contact with the work in Australia and New Zealand and Central Europe as well as on the American continent gave Commissioner Freidrich a wealth of experience from which he gave an appreciative local audience some interesting facts and figures.

In the Punjab territory, with its sixty-eight millions of people, whom he described as the most intelligent of India's millions, the work of the Salvation Army has met with considerable success, the Commissioner said. The Sikh is a reformed Hindu, who does not worship idols, but who has a form of worship based on a similar book to the Psalms of David. Because of interference from other religious tribes the Sikhs developed a defence corps which has come the brilliant Sikh soldiers known the world over.

Officers Inspire Confidence

Offered as the secret of success of the Salvation Army's work in India, in addition to the power of God, was the fact that the officers adapted themselves to the customs and dress of the people thereby inspiring confidence.

In 1908 the Commissioner, following a series of conferences with government officials, inaugurated the work among the Dom Tribes—criminal tribes who had caused considerable trouble by their lawlessness. Much patience was necessary as the tribes disliked work and to them the following of a trade was a huge task.

As a result of the Army's work the Commissioner related, the tribes have in a few years developed weaving sheds, and cotton fields, as well as having undertaken the cultivation of grain crops. In all there are thirty-seven criminal settlements in India being worked and supported by the Salvation Army.

Work in Java.

Forty thousand operations a year is a somewhat astounding record. Yet such is the figure given officially as performed at the eye hospital staffed by Army officers at Java. Paying a wonderful tribute to Dr. Wylie a Dutch Salvationist, who has for many years given his ability to God in alleviating the sufferings of 30,000 lepers and the innumerable thousands who suffer from eye troubles and diseases peculiar to the Javanese, the speaker said, that from all over the Orient came those seeking the doctor's attention. Amongst the thirty-three millions of people inhabiting these Islands the Army has five leper colonies with Japanese, Chinese, Indians, Siamese and European patients, each needing separate compounds and separate treatment. Official government commendation of the work has repeatedly been given by the Dutch government, Commissioner Friedrich stated.

The Army in China

The dying wish of the founder of the Salvation Army, William Booth, was that the work should be opened in China, and in 1917 Commissioner Friedrich with a party of Australian officers settled in Pekin and started work. The language presented great difficulties. Possibly the greatest work of the Army in China, the Commissioner believed, had been accomplished among women, who have become active members and workers following centuries of opposition.

Speaking of affairs in Central Europe, and more particularly of Germany, the Commissioner stated that in 1921 he was appointed commander of the Salvation Army's work with headquarters in Berlin. With inflation at its height and financial chaos the work presented a very difficult task, he said, and the Army suffered considerably during the War cut off from all international connection. It had however survived, he stated, was making progress through the faithful work of the German Salvationists.

Condemns Inflation

Condemning inflation as a terrible method, with its resultant havoc, the Commissioner vividly described some of the results of inflation. With the mark quoted in millions as against par value, unscrupulous foreigners entered Germany with their money and bought property for a song and then sat back to wait, he claimed. This brought disastrous effects. Stabilization called for tremendous sacrifices on the part of everybody. During those trying times relief work of remarkable magnitude was carried on by the Army mainly due to the generous support received from other countries.

Work in Czecho-Slovakia

In 1927 the Army opened its work in Czecho Slovakia, a country with fourteen to fifteen millions of people of six nationalities, each living their own customs and speaking their own language.

"The recognition of national feeling here," the Commissioner said, "is essential and calls for considerable linguistic ability in Army officers." For seventeen years, the Commissioner remarked, he had never spoken the English language, but entirely made use of the language of the country he was living in. Oversight of the work of the Army in Austria and Hungary was also his privilege during which time he visited Albania, Turkey and Greece in the interests of the Salvation Army.

Major J. Woolcott in charge of the local corps expressed the thanks of all present to Commissioner Freidrich, and emphasized the Self Denial Effort—the Army's annual campaign on behalf of its missionary work.

Y.W. PAGEANT FRIDAY NIGHT

German and Danish Gymnastics Will Feature Part of Program.

GARDEN OF PETER PAN

The annual Y.W.C.A. Pageant, to be presented at the Grand Opera House on Friday evening of this week, promises the usual excellent program of entertainment that all the children and their seniors as well, look forward to with so much interest, from year to year.

Each year brings something different in the physical exercises which form a large part of the program. German and Danish gymnastics will feature the more business-like portion of the entertainment, this year, with the always-popular pyramid formations, intricate dumbell, club and wand exercises and the amusing "Setting-Up" exercises by the Baby Class.

Lovely costumes of brilliant colors and contrived to imitate in each instance some flower, or bird, or fairy creature, have been in the making for months past, with busy fingers plying the needle in gaily tinted fabrics. No detail is overlooked to make the costumes appear real and extremely appropriate, and, as always, they will form a very attractive part of the presentation.

When Peter Pan beckons the children to the enchanted garden, robins and bluebirds, orioles and cardinal birds and dainty humming birds, come to greet them, and there are flowers of many types; daisies, pansies, rosebuds and forget-me-nots, while the wood peckers announce the coming of Wendy and Michael, the glittering fireflies flutter about and the tall, stately ferns whisper in the background. The whole makes an animated fairytale which will not fail to please.

This "Enchanted Garden of Peter Pan" forms the big moment of the 'Y' Pageant of this year.

LEAMINGTON PLANT WILL BE ENLARGED

H. J. Heintz Company to Enlarge Largest Ketchup Plant in World.

To keep pace with an expansion in the demand for its products, H. J. Heinz Company has prepared plans for a large addition to its food plant at Leamington, Ont. While they have not been officially approved, it is understood that the construction of the first units will be under way in a short time, to permit completion before the tomato harvest.

Specifications for the first units call for a three-story stepped building, the first floor and basement having dimensions of 170 x 110 feet, the second 135 x 40 and the third 60 x 35. A steel frame, concrete floors and gray brick walls are planned for the structure, which is designed to house so-called "rigging," or equipment for preliminary tomato products processes.

The Leamington plant is already the largest Ketchup producing establishment in the world, and contracts have been made for a large tomato acreage this season. Heavy exports of Heinz products are made to England, continental Europe and other points to the east, and to oriental destinations by Vancouver, while there is a large and growing demand in Canada.

It has been only a short time since a vinegar unit was completed.

Exportation of tobacco from Cuba is greater than at this time last year.

The program was arranged by the devotional department with Herbert Stillman in the chair. This included: reading, Miss Dorothy Kingston; vocal solo, Russell Abernethy; topic, Rev. R. C. ST. PAUL'S CLUB VISITS TWEED

Marmora Group Sponsors Lively Program for Evening.

LUNCH FOLLOWS.

MARMORA, May 2. (Examiner correspondence). — Eighteen members of St. Paul's Men's Club answered the kind invitation of St. James' Men's Club of Tweed to visit them on Tuesday evening and a real sociable evening resulted.

Rev. W. Hope Swayne and A. Mouck, vice president of the Tweed club having warmly welcomed the visitors, W. R. Reynolds president of the Marmora Club gave an address in which he outlined the past activities of his organization. He then called upon his vice president, W. J. Cottrell to carry on with the remainder of the program. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell and C. H. Buskard gave short talks and the club's instrumental trio gave some enlivening music. President Harry Clark of the Tweed club voiced his appreciation of the Marmora club's visit and folowing a vote of thanks, dainty refreshments were served during a period of happy social intercourse.

YOUNG MUSICIANS WELL RECEIVED

Norwood Band and Octette and Westwood School Choir Heard in Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—A musical treat provided by Mr. Renaud of Norwood, assisted by he Norwood Boy's Band and the Westwood School Choir and Norwood High School Octette, was the attraction which packed the Town Hall to its utmost capacity on Friday evening. The entertainment was in the nature of a demonstration of the value of teaching music in the school and the excellent results which can be derived from it. The impression made on the local audience which was a representative one was most favorable, and it is not at all unlikely that the community will back up at least a trial in local schools.

H. R. Wagar, chairman of the Pubic School Board, presided in his genial manner, giving heartiest cooperation to the entertainment and those who took part.

Mrs. Breckenridge, chairman of the Westwood School Board, was present, and spoke briefly of the value which musical instruction has been. It was introduced as an experiment and remains as a necessity. It is much more than just learning a few songs and constitutes a valuable item in the education of boys and girls. Miss Margaret Battersby, the teacher of the school, endorsed Mrs. Breckenridge's opinion. Mr. Renaud thanked all who had assisted, including Mr. Walter Madill for the loan of a drummer (S. Alford) and a trombone player (H. Jewell). When he was asked for his assistance he acquiesced at once saying, "Anything for music." He hopes that the citizens and the school board will be interested to the extent of introducing supervised musical instruction in the local schools. The school at Pattrick's Hill, S.S. No. 6, and the Hall's Bridge school have both taken the musical instruction and are delighted.

The program was varied, the band numbers were splendid, time and harmony being perfect, and the nineteen bays and young men made a favorable impression on the audience.

The octette was a well-trained group of young people who would be an asset to any program. The Westwood School ,although not up to full strength, gave an excellent account of themselves and were as happy in giving the performance as the audience was in hearing them. A pleasing interlude was the clever tap dancing of Miss Yvonne Finlay, who was recalled each time.

The highlight of the entertainment was the closing number, "Abide With Me," sung by the Westwood School, accompanied by the brass band, and its success was remarkable for the two units had co-operated in this way for the first time.

The School and the Octette sang without accompaniment; the note being taken by the tuning fork of Mr. Renaud.

Motor Car "Steps Out"

Mr. Trueman Jewell parked his car on Friday evening in the driveway of Mr. Fred Wannamaker's home on Rabbit street, leaving it in gear. Probably the car grew weary of waiting. At any rate it started out on its own, following a zig-zag and decidedly erratic course, finaly bringing up at the Webster fence. Spectators were much amused at the antics of the car which had "stepped out" with a vengeance. Mr. Jewell started off in hot pursuit on foot but his vehicle was away to a good start and led him a more or less merry chase, merrier for the spectators than Mr. Jewell.

Miss Yvonne Finlay varied the program with an exhibition of tap dancing which was well received.

Judge Will Decide Religion Of Youth

MONTREAL, May 2 (C.P.) — Whether a nine-year-old boy should be raised as a Jew or as a Roman Catholic is the problem faced by Judge J. A. Robillard of the Juvenile Court. The Judge said to-day he would give his decision in two weeks.

The case came to court when the child's mother, Mrs. Minny Paul, a Jewess, complained the boy's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Donnelly, had induced him to leave a Hebrew Boys' Home and live with her.

The boy's father, James Donnelly, had died a year after the child was born, the Court was told. In the meantime, the boy had been baptized as a Roman Catholic, the father's religion. The mother went to New York and re-married. In 1931, the mother returned to Canada and sought to regain custody of the boy, then in charge of the paternal grandmother. A Juvenile Court Judge had granted the mother custody and he had been received into the Jewish faith and had been placed in the Hebrew Boys' Home.

CONCORDAT PUBLISHED

VATICAN CITY, May 2 (CP-Havas).—The text of the Concordat between Austria and the Holy See had been made public to-day by The Osservatore Romano.

The concordat, which was signed June 5, 1933, by the Pontifical Secretary, Cardinal Eugene Pacelli, and Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss but made effective only to-day, recognizes the special rights of the church as a public corporation.

Rheumatism

is essentially the result of an accumulation of poisons within the system.

Most cases of rheumatism respond well to Chiropractic treatments because spinal manipulation frees the nerves of constriction, thus restoring normal energy to the eliminative organs so they can work properly and expel wastes from the body.

The duke will sail on Aug. 31 aboard the Cruiser Sussex. After visiting Australia he will go to New Zealand and thence return home Jan. 21 aboard the Australia, cruiser of the Royal Australian Navy, travelling via the Panama Canal.

Meanwhile the Duke will combine his military duties with several public engagements. He will fly to Belfast on May 26 to receive addresses of the Parliament of Northern Ireland. MONEY-MAKING EGGS

HAWKESBURY, Ont. May 2 (CP) Hawkesbury hens take off their hats to no one when it comes to laying good mouth-filling eggs. A despatch appearing in the papers from Fort Erie, Ontario, about an egg eight inches around the ends and six inches around the centre was greeted with a chorus of indignant cackles.

William Harding at once produced an egg laid by one of his hens which measured 8 5-16 inches around the ends and 7¼ inches around the centre. And other Hawkesbury poultrymen claim that is a record.

IN MEMORIAM

PEARSON.—In affectionate and loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Harry Pearson, who passed away May 3rd, 1927.

At early morn, when all was still,
God gave his great command;
When one we loved was called away
Into the Better Land.
We leave you in God's keeping,
The rough road safely o'er.
You are not lost to loving hearts
But only gone before.
Your face is ever before us,
Your voice we cannot forget,
Your smile will linger forever,
In memory we see you yet.

PARENT CLAIMS FOR LOST COAT

Board of Education Refutes Liability—Lockers Provided at School.

$50 GRANT TOWARDS P. T.

The secretary of the Board of Education was last night instructed to write to Reeve Harry Wood of North Monaghan Township, telling him in effect that the Board could not entertain his claim for $16.50, for the loss of his son's overcoat, and pointing out that the precautions that are taken at the Collegiate Institute to prevent the loss of articles of clothing belonging to the students.

In claiming the $16.50, Reeve Wood stated in a communication to the Board that he paid that amount to replace an overcoat belonging to his son which had been stolen from the Collegiate Institute where the boy is a pupil.

Chairman E. F. Reid said that on the day the coat was stolen the matter was reported to him by the boy's father, and the question was then taken up with Principel Kenner.

Mr. Kenner told the Board that each of the pupils at the school was provided with a locker for which a returnable fee of fifty cents was levied for a key.

The boy's overcoat had not been placed in one of the lockers provided. Had it been, Principal Kenner stated, the coat could not have been stolen.

Mrs. W. R Morris moved that the secretary be instructed to notify Reeve Wood of the precautions taken by the Board and to inform him that had the coat been placed in the locker provided, it would not have been stolen.

Among other communications was a letter from the Separate School Board acknowledging the offer relating to the placing at their disposal of the Collegiate auditorium for the use of Separate School commencement exercises.

A request from Principal Kenner for the sum of $50 to provide physical culture equipment for outdoor use, such as hurdles, and shot putting equipment, was granted on motion of Dr. A. Moir, seconded by Mrs. Morris.

Applications from the Westclox Softball Club, Peterborough Softball Association, and Peterborough Church League for the use of school grounds during the present ball season were referred to the Property Committee. The legal angle as to the liability of the Board for any persons who might be injured while watching games at any of the grounds, is to be particularly considered in the disposal of the applications.

Principal Kenner during the course of the meeting called the attention of the Board to six coat and hat trees made by the boys of the Vocational School, and presented to the school for use in the Board room.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Board:

"That the Property Committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for the fuel required for the ensuing year, with power to award the contract."

"That the Supervision Committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for text books and supplies for Collegiate Institute supplies for the ensuing year, with power to award the contract."

"That the Committee on Appointments be authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur on the staff at the end of the present term."

"Eight Men Speak" Barred In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, May 2.—(CP)—The play "Eight Men Speak", dealing with the Portsmouth penitentiary disturbances, will not be presented here tonight by the Progressive Arts Club as scheduled.

Banning of the play was effected last night through revoking the license of Walker Theatre, where the play was to have been given, under the Amusements Act. Announcement of the decision was made by Hon. D. L. McLeod, municipal commissioner, after conferences with the Manitoba Attorney-General's department and solicitors for C. P. Walker, owner of the theater.

According to Mr. McLeod a meeting of the police commission decided the play was subversive to the public interest. This decision was forwarded to Hon. W. J. Major, attorney-general, who in turn instructed the municipal commissioner to order cancellation of the theatre's license. Chief of Police Chris H. Newton's only statement was that the action had been taken for "good and sufficient reasons."

London Hospital Sued For $25,000 Damages

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 2 (CP)—E. G. Ponsford's $25,000 action against the Board of Directors of Victoria Hospital, London, Ont., and Dr. George McNeill, X-ray expert of the institution, was heard before Mr. Justice J. M. McEvoy to-day. Mr. Ponsford, St. Thomas resident, claims damages as the result of injuries allegedly caused by treatments given Mrs. Ponsford by Dr. McNeill.

The husband told the court when the case opened yesterday that his wife entered the hospital in July, 1931, for treatment of an internal tumor. After three years, he said, burns suffered by Mrs. Ponsford during the treatments have failed to heal. He claimed he spent $3,347 in hospitalization, treatments, medicines, nursing, visits to specialists and various journeys in a futile effort to obtain a cure.

PROBE POLICE HANDLING OF MICHIGAN STUDENTS

DETROIT, May 2.—(AP)—Investigations were under way here and in Ann Arbor today as to what happened to 38 University of Michigan students who were escorted out of Detroit by police late yesterday when they sought to take part in May Day labor demonstrations.

The students, in a truck driven by Alfred L. Klaer, student pastor of an Ann Arbor Presbyterian Church, were surrounded by motor cycle police when, the police report said, they created a disturbance by singing the International and shouting to bystanders.

Police officials said they had no report of violence, but Edward Cheyfitz, a senior from Toledo, O., said the students were led to a dead-end street, that one of the students were struck, and that a woman student suffered a sprained ankle when she was forced to jump from the truck.

Mail Carrier Braves Treacherous Bay In Going 60 Extra Miles To Maintain Schedule

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—His Majesty's mail must get through, and Alfred Roque, veteran Killarney mail carrier, upheld the traditions of the service on Saturday when, despite hazardously soft ice, stretches of open water, and bad roads, he carried the mail from the little north shore fishing village to Little Current, and civilization. The roundabout route he was forced to take was almost 60 miles, though Killarney is only 25 miles from Little Current, across open water.

Roque left Killarney before daybreak, pushing a boat ahead of him for ten miles across the ice to Wikemikong Bay, on Manitoulin Island. Striking open water there, he rowed several miles to shore, where he hired a truck to carry the mail the 40 miles to Little Current, over roads made hazardous with frost boils.

The return trip, with the Killarney mail, the same afternoon was more difficult, for the ice had softened considerably during the day.

ACTOR FIGHTS HIS WIFE'S SUIT

Mrs. Richard Bennett Claims She Was Stabbed With File.

ASKS $3,000 ALIMONY.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(AP)—Charges that Richard Bennett stabbed her with a nail file, beat her and threatened her life were made today by his wife in a separate maintenance action.

The suit demanding $3,000 monthly alimony asserted Bennett "so beat and struck" his wife last month that she had to go to a hospital for treatment. In an 'Oklahoma Hotel,' she said, the actor jabbed a nail file into her cheek while in one of the 'maniacal moods' to which she charged he was subject. Once, the actor's wife charged, she found him garbed only in a "bedroom robe" in his bedroom with a "female secretary." When she protested, Mrs. Bennett alleged, she was told to get out if she "did not like it."

To this the actor replied that the secretary was an elderly woman who had been in the employ of the couple for more than a year.

His attorney said Bennett had offered his wife half of their community property, which she valued at $75,000, but refused to pay alimony "because he felt the fault of the separation was more hers than his own."

AND GIVE SOME MAN A JOB

WEEK OF MAY 5th to 12th

SATURDAY and MONDAY
HOME INSPECTION Days

These days are so designated as to suggest to you that you go through your homes and consider just where some improvement might be made by cleaning, renovating, etc. You be your own inspector.

TUESDAY
COMMUNITY DAY

Any community is judged by the tidiness and cleanliness of its streets, parks, etc. Those responsible for this department of the city's life have and will co-operate further to do their share in making Peterborough a more beautiful community.

WEDNESDAY
PAINT and REPAIR DAY

Both interior and exterior of many homes, factories, etc., will need repainting or repairing. A little paint here and there adds dollars to their appearance. Then, too, there are alterations and repairs which will need to be done possibly, so this is the time to do them.

A Message from the Mayor

Again I hasten to most heartily endorse the annual Clean-up – Paint-up – Give-some-man-a-Job Campaign which will be conducted next week.

An orderly clean community reflects an industrious people and so we should all enter this wholeheartedly and endeavor to do our part for our own as well as for the sake of Peterborough. The suggestion as given to give some man a job during this time, if thoroughly considered and acted upon, will be a step in the right direction. There are many capable men who would welcome this temporary employment and you need only telephone the Relief Office and a man will be supplied.

Here's success to your co-operation and a more beautiful city.

ROLAND DENNE, Mayor.

Make Peterborough More Beautiful!

WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP—Clean up back yards, alleyways, lawns, vacant lots, trim trees, paint your home, store, office, factory, repair verandahs, fences, shingle your house, change partitions, do some needed plumbing, tinsmithing, interior decorating, paperhanging, wash windows, etc., etc., and many more odd jobs. If you require a man, telephone the City Relief Office, 933W.

THURSDAY
Discarded CLOTHING Day

If you will take a look through your wardrobe it will no doubt reveal many garments which you will never wear again and which might be very acceptable by some less fortunate. Here is your opportunity to get rid of accumulated clothing.

FRIDAY
SANITATION DAY

Besides being necessary to health it is important that all refuse in the form of decomposed fruit and vegetables, etc., be cleared away and every sanitary precaution taken in the home and elsewhere—make Peterborough a Sanitary City.

SATURDAY
BEAUTIFICATION DAY

To make this week complete some consideration should be given to flowers about the home, factories and parks. The parks will be taken care of and the majority of factories are very particular about their lawns and flower beds. What can you do to improve the property about your home?

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Pressing is an important element in good dressmaking. Sometimes this feature is slighted when the work is done at home. The cutting, fitting, and sewing may be well done, but if the pressing is neglected, the seams will not have the professional look so coveted, and the tailored or smart appearance of the garment will be lacking.

* * * * * * *

It is not enough that the dress, coat, blouse, etc., whatever it is that is being made, should be pressed when finished, although, of course, it must be. It is necessary that the ironing be done at intervals during the entire making of the garment.

* * * * * * *

Regulation seams should be pressed open. They can be dampened by running a damp cloth over them. As the pressing is done on the wrong side of the garment, no pressing cloth is required, but all the more care must be used not to scorch goods. Woollen materials and artificial silk of whatever sort require special care. A moderately hot iron pressed down firmly on the goods is as successful in ironing, as is a hot iron run quickly over the seam or other portion of the garment.

* * * * * * *

Whenever a seam is to be stitched flat when joining portions of a garment together, it is imperative that the seam be spread open and pressed first or it will rumple. Then it never looks right in the finished garment. The seam will buckle and refuse to flatten down. Be very particular about this in shoulder and arm seams.

* * * * * * *

Pleats and hems should be pressed carefully, never hurriedly. Pleats will not show stitch marks if caught along the lower or outer edge to a thin old ribbon. Pin the top of the unpleated portion to the ironing board and pull the lower end taut and straight down from the top.

* * * * * * *

Iron over a damp cloth laid over the pleats. Press lightly at first and firmly later on. Take the cloth up after the light pressing, to be sure the pleats are creasing properly. Then repeat the operation pressing hard and keep ironing until the cloth is dry. If the pleats are not set then, professionally, dampen the cloth again and repeat pressing.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

Not so long ago, I received a letter from a young Kentucky lass that amused me greatly. "I've heard," she wrote, "that violet powder's wonderful for giving the skin a clear, luminous appearance. Can you tell me where I can procure the violets to put in my powder?"

Obviously, this little southern gal was laboring under the delusion that violet powder is powder to which fresh violets have been added. That's a fallacious belief, of course. Yet, lest any of you may be harboring the same idea, let me say that violet powder is not a mixture of powder and violets. It is merely an ordinary face powder of a distinct lavender of violet shade.

Violet powder really is excellent for giving the skin a delicate, transparent appearance. This powder however, should be used only under the artificial lights of evening. It is too likely to make the face appear garish and obviously made-up in the clear, revealing light of day. To use this powder properly, you should mix one-fourth of a box of the violet powder with three-fourths of a box of the powder that you generally use. And you should be sure not to use too much of the violet powder, else it may give your face a somewhat purplish tinge.

Despite the delicate, luminous appearance it gives to the skin, however, violet powder should never be used indiscriminately. There are, you see, certain types of individuals that this powder does not become at all. Violet powder generally is best suited for use by blondes and redheads. Girls of this type generally are naturally fair of coloring. The powder, therefore, does not break up their natural color harmony, but simply adds a more flower-like delicacy to their features.

Some brunettes, of course, also can use the violet-shaded powder advantageously. This class is very limited, however, and includes only such brunettes as possess very fair skin and rich cheek and lip coloring. Ordinarily, the brunette with olive or dusty skin should not use the violet powder, as it will afford too great a contrast with her hair, and will tend to give her an unnatural color.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Ears

Carl: Yes, it is indeed possible to have the ears made more shapely by plastic surgery. The cost depends upon the amount of work necessary to correct the defects, and upon the surgeon who performs the operations.

Legs

Lora: It is indeed possible to enlarge the calves and make the legs more shapely. The exercises in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs" are most effective for this purpose. They are too long to print here, unfortunately.

Cosmetics

Winnifred: I think that a soft peach shade of powder and dark brown eye shadow cream would blend best with your coloring.

Standard Weight

Dora: Your weight is about correct for your height and age. Facial exercises, such as the movements involved in whistling and blowing bubbles, will help to round out the facial contours.

Coffee

Mrs. L. C.: You are drinking too much coffee. Coffee contains the drug caffeine, and should therefore be imbibed moderately.

REFERENDUM ON BEER

WOODSTOCK, Ont., May 2 (CP)—Asking that a referendum be submitted to the people of the province before the proposed amendments to the Liquor Control Act, or any other amendments to the Act which will give freer rein to the sale of beer and wine in Ontario are made effective, the Oxford Presbytery of the United Church went on record to-day urging the people of Oxford to support in the coming election only such candidates as will endorse this stand. All Oxford candidates will be asked to state their position on the subject.

Today's Recipes

Hungarian Goulash — One and one-half pounds lean pork, shoulder cut in one-inch cubes, two onions, sliced; one-half teaspoon salt. Place in pan with just enough water to cover it. Simmer slowly for about one hour. Then add: Three cups tomatoes, two green peppers, sliced; one-half teaspoon hot pepper. Cook again for thirty minutes. Add one-half cup boiled rice and season. Serve hot. When making this in the summer use a little piece of fresh hot pepper instead of the ground.

Lemon Drop Cookies—Two tablespoons butter, one-fourth cup sour cream, one-half cup sugar, grated rind of one lemon, three tablespoons lemon juice, one egg, one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-eighth salt. Melt butter, add cream, sugar, lemon juice and rind and egg. Beat well and add the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) until delicately browned.

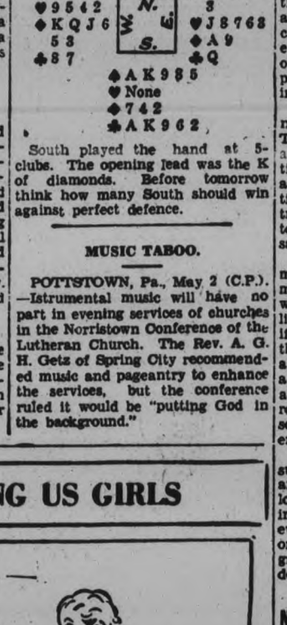
TRUMP LENGTH IMPORTANT

When a player knows that he will be ruffed repeatedly he must consider his trump length before he bids too high. Not fewer than six trumps are required to stand ruffing several times, especially when partner fails to support promptly, showing that trumps may have to be led several times.



On the rather freakish hand shown above bidding went: South, 1-spade; West, 1-no trump, having honors in all suits, with two apparent stops to spades; North, 2-hearts; East, 3-diamonds; South, 4-clubs, which no doubt he would have made; West, 4-diamonds, which could never have been made against perfect defence; North, 4-hearts, which East dared not overcall, and which South it unwise to disturb; West, doubled, ending bidding.

As his partner had both bid no trump and supported his diamonds, East led his fourth-best diamond. The declarer won with his ace, then dummy ruffed the last diamond held by North.

North afterwards said that he remembered an easy rule which I had given him for expectations concerning the adverse division of four trumps, when you and dummy jointly hold nine. The chances in 10 are: Five for the 3-1, four for the 2-2, and one for the 4-0 division between opponents. Consequently North figured that he had 9 in 10 chances to fulfill his contract, as he could not hope to do so in case he found West holding the K-Q-J-10, with the K of clubs guarded.

Dummy's last trump was led. North put up his ace. The J dropped at his right and the 10 at his left, assuring fulfilment of his contract, with an overtrick in case trumps split on the next lead. North led a low heart and lost his first trick to the Q. He was ruffed with a diamond lead. He led a low club, finessed dummy's Q and lost his second trick to the K.

North was ruffed again. Then he spread his hand, claiming 4-odd, as he had to give West one trump trick.

South played the hand at 5-clubs. The opening lead was the K of diamonds. Before tomorrow think how many South should win against perfect defence.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

To convince a nervous patient that his or her symptoms are caused by an abnormal emotional state, and not by organic disease, is an extremely difficult matter. Quite likely some physician in whom they have complete confidence has already told them that the glandular system is weakened or out of balance, and this has served as a comfortable alibi ever since. The fact, however, that after repairing the damage in the glandular system the symptoms still persist, has rather blandly escaped their attention.

If the physician bluntly tells the patient "There is nothing the matter with you," the effect is so frequently the opposite of the desired one. The patient becomes resentful and accuses the physician of lack of knowledge or sympathy, and loses entire faith.

On the other hand, through lack of courage, to attempt to justify the symptoms on some highly speculative or unproved basis, is equally disastrous, because from that time on the nervous patient has a logical alibi for the symptoms, and derives great satisfaction in elaborating in extremely technical language just why the symptoms occur and persist.

A safe and logical procedure is to explain first that while no organic disease has been found, it is recognized that the symptoms are real to the patient, but are brought about by an over-development of the emotional centers and not by organic disease. Often the abnormal emotional state is produced by fear, anxiety, worry or initiated by some trivial organic disease which has long since passed away.

The problem is not so simple as it may appear, and failures are common. Every physician develops his individual technique of handling these problems, and it would help tremendously if all physicians were tactful and sympathetic, yet stayed entirely within the bounds of strict fact and refused to be a party to an alibi.

In many organic diseases the patient may remain a passive spectator and the disease be completely eradicated. Not so with functional diseases. Here, as in no other branch of healing, is it so necessary for the patient to become an active player in the game.

There must be a desire to recover normal control of one's own nerves. There must be a willingness to take all the bumps and bruises. This attitude will first be manifested by a candid admission that the emotional centers are the cause of the trouble, and an active effort made to put on the brakes when necessary.

The symptoms, severe though they may be, must be minimized and not magnified. Completely ignore them whenever possible. It is easy to look lightly upon many aches and pains if we are thoroughly convinced they will not do us permanent damage. By following this simple rule a great improvement is immediately apparent, and the sufferer soon realizes that for the first time reason and not worry sits in the driver's seat.

The road is not smooth, and the sufferer will be assailed with doubts and fears whenever a temporary looseness of the brakes occurs. Faith in one's own ability to do whatever others have done, and prove one's worth to society, will help a great deal in re-establishing confidence in one's own machinery.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Most golfers asking me to look at their swings wants to know something about the downswing.

A few ask me to watch their backswings, but seldom do I have anyone ask me to check up on the way they start the backswing.

The better a player becomes the more attention he gives to his starting position and the initial move of his backswing. He knows that starting properly is half the battle.

The correct way to start your backswing is by moving your body, arms in close to your stomach, the as though all of one piece.

To do this you must have your arms in close to your stomach, the upper part of your arms resting against your body. Then you can start the swing by moving your stomach.

This should move your arms and the club without an effort on the part of your hands.

GUINEAS CLASSIC TO BE RUN TO-DAY

Unbeaten Colombo Strong Favorite for Great Three-year-old Event.

NEWMARKET, England, May 2 (CP Cable).—The first great race of the new flat-racing season today brings out the finest English 3-year-olds, including a colt rated as the best on the English turf in many years.

Lord Glanely's unbeaten Colombo is a prohibitive favorite for the 126th running of the Two Thousand Guineas Stakes over the mile course—first of the season's five classics for the 3-year-olds, including the Derby. Lord Glanely, incidentally, has never won the Two Thousand, for all his success on the turf.

Colombo, in his seven starts as a juvenile and his only previous start this season, has whipped the best of his age, with the exception of the Aga Khan's Umidwar, whom he has never met. Umidwar ran only one race last season, and won, and turf followers therefore are not sure just how good he is, but are still pretty sure he doesn't rank with Colombo.

Last year Colombo's earnings of $85,000 were surpassed only by those of Hyperion, Derby and St. Leger winner.

CHIEFS SWEEP SERIES.

Gain Second Place Tie With Leafs in Standing by 7-6 Win Over Bisons.

(By the Associated Press)

Syracuse residents with weak hearts had better remain away from all International League engagements played by Andy High's Chiefs.

High's men were locked in a tie for second place with Toronto in the standings today with six victories and three defeats but their total margin over the combined opposition stood at exactly two runs. The Chiefs had scored 57 runs in their first nine tussles against 55 for their opponents.

Syracuse made a clean sweep of the four-game series with Buffalo Bisons by earning a 7-6 victory in 10 innings yesterday.

Newark Bears extended their winning streak through three games as they plastered Montreal 11-3 behind Vito Tamulis' good pitching. Tamulis gave the Royals only five hits and struck out seven. Newark, meanwhile, battered Clise Dudley and Laurie Mylkykangas for 16 solid blows.

These two games comprised the day's scheduled as the league prepared for the opening of the season in the north. The lineup for today's inaugurals found Newark at Buffalo, Albany at Toronto, Baltimore at Rochester and Syracuse at Montreal.

BELLEVILLE KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN HOCKEYISTS

BELLEVILLE, May 2. — The Kiwanis Club of this city last night entertained sport celebrities when a father and son night was held. "Dit" Clapper of the Boston Bruins, Doug. Brennan formerly of the New York Rangers, and now of Windsor, and Albert ("Toots") Holway, defence man of the champion London team of the International loop, were guests of the club, and each gave a short resume of his hockey career. It was intended that Father Lynch of St Michael's College and Jerry Lafamme, member of the St. Michael's junior squad, would be present, but business kept them from attending. Monsignor J. O. Nicholson, V.G., of this city, was the pinch-hitter, and his advice to young players was most timely, as he is credited with the development of the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, of the Rangers, when they were learning the rudiments of the game at Kingston.

NEW BASEBALL LOOP UNDER WAY

Bailieboro, Millbrook, Bethany and Keene Will Make Up New League.

GOOD SEASON'S PROSPECTS

BAILIEBORO, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—The local baseball club have decided to drop out of the West Northumberland ball league this year and plans are now under way to organize a league consisting of Bailieboro, Millbrook, Bethany and Keene. All four clubs are showing enthusiasm over the prospects of such a league, and when arrangements are finally completed there should be four exceptionally strong outfits and each within a reasonable distance from each other to make it convenient and a real contest as well.

The local club with a few exceptions will be able to gather practically all of last season's players and should be able to give the opponents a real battle.

Millbrook, although they have been away from the game for the past number of years, have plenty of good material to choose from and will have a strong team in the contest.

Bethany still have the majority of their players who took part in the Peterborough City League and a few stiff practices will shake the rust from the Bethany crew, and Dr. Hamilton's boys should prove a real drawing card to the fans who cheered them on as they fought gallantly a few years ago to win the honors of their league. The boys from Keene are all ball players and will no doubt be right in there when the play-offs come around.

From every standpoint the outlook for baseball this season is very bright in this locality and the local boys will soon be out on the field attempting to get the kinks out of their muscles.

A meeting of the representatives will soon be called to make final arrangements and draw up a schedule.

PEACE CHANGE SETS NEW TRACK RECORD

Widener Colt Breaks Twenty Grand's Record in Preparation Purse.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 — The mighty Twenty Grand's track record for a mile was broken yesterday by Joseph E. Widener's Peace Chance, in winning the Preparation Purse for three-year-olds, offered as a conditioner for nominees for the Kentucky Derby, to be raced at Churchill Downs on Saturday.

Peace Chance, with Jockey W. D. Wright aboard, ran the mile in 1.35 4-5, one-fifth faster than Twenty Grand's time in the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes in 1930. The Widener colt finished four lengths in front of Colonel E. R. Bradley's Blue Again, an outsider, which ran a surprising race.

W. Sachsennaier's Plight, winner of the Texas Derby, but not eligible for the Kentucky Derby, finished third, with nine other Kentucky Derby nominees trailing. A. B. Gordon's Sir Thomas, one of the favorites for the Derby, finished next to last.

The victory of Peace Chance strengthened the chances of the east to win the $30,000 added stake on Saturday. The son of Chance Shot—Peace ran the six furlongs in 1.10 3-5, which two-fifths of a second faster than the Churchill Downs track record for that distance. He worked out an extra eighth, running the mile and furlong in 1.50, pulled up. He carried only 103 pounds.

The secondary feature, a six-furlong sprint, saw two Derby eligibles finish in front of three non-eligibles. F. A. M. Burton's Dartle was the winner, but his owner has announced he will not start in the Derby. J. W. Parrish's New Deal, which finished second, is a probable starter in Saturday's classic. Widener's Sickle Pear was third.

COAST FIVE WIN SERIES BY 3-1 COUNT

Defeats Montreal Nationale 33-20 in Fourth Game of Senior Title Series.

EASY WINNERS.

Murray Patrick Gives Brilliant Display for the Eastern Contenders.

MONTREAL, May 2—Determined to remove the stigma of their lone defeat, Vancouver Province last night waltzed through Montreal Nationale, 33-20, to win the senior basketball championship of Canada by a 3-1 game margin.

With the exception of a one-point lead they held in the initial minutes of the game, Nationale were never in the picture as the Westerners coolly flicked shots at the baskets with devastating effect.

In comparison with Monday night's encounter when the Montrealers were fighting off elimination and nerves and tempers were at raw edge, last night's final paled into a mere formality for the Pacific Coast team.

Vancouver with a superb exhibition of dead shooting captured the first two games on Thursday and Saturday by scores of 40-42 and 43-36 respectively. The Eastern champions came back Monday night to snatch off a 35-31 victory and force the best three-out-of-five-game series into another meeting.

Nationals Erratic

The speed and verve that Monday night added impetus to their every footstep was lacking from the Nationale exhibition last night. Their shooting was wide of the mark time and time again, passes went astray, and at no time did they display their former "clicking."

With ease the Pacific Coast team pulled away in the first three minutes of the game, and were never headed or even sighted. Determination plainly discernable from the outset, the Vancouverites played a methodical system of attack. Players fell into proper formations almost casually. The ball zipped from hand to hand and then went straight for the hoops.

The first two minutes saw the only time the lead changed hands. Before twenty seconds had gone by tall Jack Purves dropped the ball through the hoops for two points.

Murray Patrick came back with a field goal and then a free shot, to put the Montrealers ahead, 3 to 2, but from then on it was a walkaway for the Westerners. Nationale showed some form near the end of the first half, which ended with the Vancouver gang leading, 18 to 9.

New York Giants Nearly Lose Decision to Dodgers—Hubbell Saves Day.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Even though they are pounding the new National League ball in better style, it looks as if the world champion New York Giants might have to travel over a long rocky route created by pitching weakness to reach their goal of another National League pennant.

The Portland rookie, Joe Bowman got through six innings in fair style as the Giants slammed young Emil Leonard of Brooklyn around to the tune of eight runs in three innings yesterday, but he weakened considerably in the latter stages. Adolf Luque, who was sent in to relieve him, was belted out again before he retired a man and finally Carl Hubbell had to take the hill for the fifth time in 12 games to save a 10-9 decision when the Giants apparently did their best to equal the Dodger total of five errors.

The shaky triumph left the Giants only a half game behind Ralph Birkofer's five hit southpaw pitching and defeated the League leaders 4-1. Pittsburgh in turn advanced to third ahead of Boston Braves, who took an 11-6 shellacking from the Phillies.

Burleigh Grimes won his second victory for St. Louis in as many days when two homers by Jim Collins gave the Cardinals a 3-2 decision over the Reds after Si Johnson had hurled eight shutout innings.

Close Call for Yanks

Cleveland Indians, reversing Monday's decision slammed Chicago pitching for 15 hits, including four homers, and defeated the White Sox 12-1 to avenge their 20-10 beating. It was the league leading New York Yankees, however, who provided the biggest thrill of the American League program. Going into the ninth inning against Washington with the score tied, they belted three successive triples and finished the inning with five runs and a 10-6 triumph.

Detroit's Tigers came from behind, scoring two runs in the eighth, and held second place by beating St. Louis 5-4. A revised line-up minus Goose Goslin, produced 10 hits, the biggest Tiger total in a week. Henry Johnson, making his first start pitched the Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over the Athletics in the fourth American League game, allowing the A's only six hits and blanking them until the last inning.

"SURE we do, boys. So do many other 6-Day bike riders. Do you boys ride C.C.M.'s too?" inquired Torchy Peden with a grin.

"No, sir. Neither of us has a bike. But we want our dads to buy us C.C.M.'s this Spring," said Joe.

"I wish you luck, boys. I know every boy is keen on owning a bike, especially a C.C.M. If you want to convince your dads how good C.C.M.'s are, bring them down here and show them these two C.C.M.'s that I've pounded away on for 37,500 miles, and they're still going strong. Jules and other riders have ridden their C.C.M.'s just as far as I have ridden mine."

"Gee, that's a great idea. We'll try and get our dads to come."

• • • • •

BOYS! You may not have the chance to show your dads the bikes ridden by Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, but you can surely get your fathers to go with you to a C.C.M. dealer's and see the 1934 C.C.M.'s. There's the same rugged, stand-up quality in them as in Torchy's and Jules' C.C.M.'s. They've all the extra C.C.M. features that make them extra value for the money.

An ordinary bike would crumple up under Torchy Peden's hard riding and would be a poor investment for him. While a boy isn't as hard on a bike as Torchy, every boy's bike has to stand plenty. The best investment in the long run is in a bicycle of real quality—a C.C.M.

CHURCH SOFTBALL LEAGUE IS ASSURED OF FULL ENTRY LIST

Schedule Opens With St. James' Juniors Playing George St. B.Y.S. on Monday.

AT KING EDWARD PARK.

The Church Softball League is practically assured now of passing its entry list objective of twenty-five teams. The closing date has been extended to include this Thursday. The schedule will open with St. James' Juniors playing George St. B.Y.S. at six Monday evening at King Edward Park. Complete schedule will appear in The Examiner the end of this week. Members of the Ministerial Association and the Boys' Work Board will take part in the opening ceremoney. St. James', champions, should draw a large crowd, while George St. also has a good following.

The next senior section has four entries now, and expects two more. George St. will be managed by Leo Copp, Len Agnew handles Mark St., Bill Wedlock is playing-manager of Knox, and Harold Rehill manages Trinity. Players are nearly all graduates of the junior section. Most of the Knox and Mark St. teams are still eligible for junior. George St., Park St. and St. Paul's are good prospects in this class, and Jack Richardson may field a team from the young men's class at St. Andrew's.

St. James', junior titleholders last year, are back pretty much intact with Bill Anderson manager. George St. will have two junior squads, one composed of Normal students who attend that Sunday School and one of local boys. The latter team is coached by E. J. Shortt. W. Thirnbeck has a St. John's entry, and All Saints' hope to come through in softball as they did in hockey. Lakefield has sent no further word but gave the impression at the annual meeting that they would be a sixth team. The winners of these junior sections must play-off in the summer for the right to represent the league in the proposed district intermediate "B" championships.

The two younger divisions are flooded with teams. Knox, who won in juvenile hockey and softball last year, are back, Captain K. Hughes believing he can repeat though he lost half his team via the over-age rule. George St. will be coached by Mac Gordon, while St. Paul's will be handled by F. Barr and Trinity by C. Davern. St. James will have one and perhaps two in the juvenile section. Bob Killenbeck is managing St. Andrew's a newcomer in softball but winner in basketball last winter. Whitby Thirnbeck has a juvenile team from St. John's.

Roy White's Murray St. class, which won the midget hockey shield the past season, has all its players on the dividing line between bantam and juvenile and is uncertain yet which section to enter. Jim Ellis will coach this team. The midget division, organized last summer, had seven entries, but will be even larger this year. St. James', last year's victors, have lost many players but will be back. St. Paul's, Knox, Trinity, Mark St. and George St. will also re-enter. The latter is coached by Roy Parnell. Alex Runnett may put a team in from All Saints. St. John's are sure starters, and St. Luke's may reconsider their intentions of staying out for a year. Park St. is also thinking of going bantam this summer.

On Sunday evening last Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne of Tweed preached in St. Mark's Church to a large congregation, his father, Canon W. G. Swayne taking the services at Tweed.

Taking as his text the passage of scripture, "Whither goest thou?" Mr. Swayne preached an inspiring sermon. He stressed the fact that we should all ask ourselves this question and that action is needed. In closing he eloquently and beautifully explained "The Lord's Prayer" as a prayer with which to start each day.

Miss Lulu Brown spent the week-end in Toronto with her brother, Dr. Chapman Brown.

NO INTENTION DROPPING FROM TENNIS TRIALS

Davis Cup Star Repudiates Interview Quoting Him on Controversial Subjects.

WRITER APOLOGIZES.

(By W. John Stewart—C.P. Canadian Writer).

TORONTO, May 2.—A few days ago there appeared in several Canadian newspapers, statements attributed to Gilbert Nunns, Canada's ace Davis Cup tennis star, in which Mr. Nunns was reported as having said, among other things, that:

Canada would never come close to winning the Davis Cup with its present team.

He (Nunns) might drop out of the Davis Cup trials if Walter Martin did not return to Toronto in time for practice with him.

Jack Wright, at the expense of the association, would like to come east, where he has many friends.

Marcel Rainville's ability as a tennis player was open to question.

Coming from any tennis player in Canada, these are strong statements. But from Gilbert Nunns, of whom no better sportsman can be found, they were, to the writer, unbelievable, despite the fact that they were reported by a tennis writer of reputed standing, C. C. Petersen.

Mr. Petersen has already expressed to Mr. Nunns his deep regret at having written the article in question.

So I hied myself to see Mr. Nunns. I was met at the door with this::

"I deny emphatically having ever made such remarks to anyone at any time. I have taken the utmost care during my tennis career to take part in no controversial subjects. I have absolutely no intention of dropping out of the tennis trials, unless, of course, business interferes. As for disparaging Marcel's tennis ability, no person in their right senses could seriously make such a remark as is attributed to me, in view of his splendid record in Davis Cup and tournament play. I hold both Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville in high esteem and I feel sure that they would never attribute such statements to me."

Mr. Nunns was exceedingly perturbed to say the least. Not satisfied with having made this denial to me he even put it in writing, as follows:

"I have just read with great surprise and displeasure an article which recently appeared in several Canadian newspapers, written by a certain Toronto tennis reporter and containing various statements which I am alleged to have made.

"I deny emphatically having made such remarks and further state that I gave no permission to the reporter to use any quotation of any kind on any subject whatever." (Signed, Gilbert Nunns).

Having watched Gilbert Nunns on the courts, and having talked with him, and knowing people who are on intimate terms with him, I knew him for as clean and gentlemanly a sportsman as one could hope to meet. Never has he been known to take an unfair advantage of an opponent, even though the opportunity quite legally presented itself. Never at any time, in any company have I heard a single remark made about Gilbert that could be construed by the furthest stretch of the imagination as being critical of either his personal conduct or his manner on the courts.

Lovers of tennis who must have read with no little surprise the statements attributed to him, will doubtless be relieved by the emphatic and sweeping denial he has made.

Tennis Official Speaks.

Not satisfied with having seen Mr. Nunns himself, I went further and saw Garnett Meldrum, for 12 years president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, and now chairman of the council of that body. Said Mr. Meldrum:

"I first met Mr. Nunns in 1924 when he won the junior championship of Canada. In the ten years I have known him, he has never made a single remark to me of a disparaging, critical or unsportsmanlike tone. And I have known him intimately in those ten years, many of which he was a member on the Canadian Davis Cup team. That he should make any such remark as reported, would, in my opinion, be incredible."

That would seem to fairly settle the matter, for Mr. Meldrum himself is a sportsman of long and honorable career in the tennis world.

Keeps in Condition.

With these matters set at rest, I asked both Gilbert and Mr. Meldrum about Gilbert's chances this year. Said Mr. Nunns:

"I haven't played much, a few games indoors, and a few outdoors, that's all. But I have managed to keep in good condition all winter by playing badminton and squash."

Said Mr. Meldrum: "I can say this much about Gilbert Nunns' ability. Back in 1930, when we were playing the United States in the cup round at Philadelphia, John Doeg, then on the United States team, came to me one day and asked if he could play a practice game with Gilbert. He said that he knew of no forehand drive as difficult to return as Nunns'. That was four years ago."

While talking with Gilbert in his new home, which seemed to be literally filled with trophies, he made one very pertinent remark which I feel should be recorded.

"If I can't say anything good about a person, I make it a habit never to say anything."

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Two softball meetings slated for tonight in Duffus', an open session for the men's loop at 7.30, and an executive gabfest of the gals' circuit at eight bells. Much of importance will come up at both and those who should be at these meetings ought to make it a point to drop in. New entries will be welcomed in both the men's and the ladies' leagues, since each one is a couple shy of what they'd like. Looks like a fine season for softball coming up, and these organization meetings are important.

Closing date for the Church Softball League is this Thursday, considerable dope regarding this bunch appearing elsewhere in today's paper. They'll have some 26 or so teams in—more probably than the City, Girls' School and Southend loops combined! To run off single schedules in their four sections before the end of June will require three and four games each week night. Credit to a large extent for the success of this circuit and the number of teams entered is due Reg Kingdon of George St., Whitby Thirnbeck of St. John's, Harold Rehill of Trinity and Bill Anderson of St. James. We think Don Charlton of the Boys' Work Board rates a bouquet, too.

The Fashion-Craft men softballers worked out at Central last eve and quite a gang attended. There was plenty of promising material on deck, including: Gray, Clarke, Shrimp McDougall, Red Creighton, Gainey, Ab Delahaye, Butcher, Moon Ridley, Wiley, Cowan, Bill Scollard, O'Toole, McQuade—with the Picton baseballers last season, and going to Normal here now—and half a dozen more. Manager Jack Russell and the team's backer, Bud Hickey, watched the lads loosening up, and both expressed confidence in lining up a strong squad in another week. They practice again at 5.45 in Central this Friday, and all players are invited.

Jack Maunder, former Lindsay sportswriter, is knocking off sports' copy, besides doing a bit of news broadcasting via radio, for the Northern News, a Kirkland Lake weekly now. He sent us a recent copy of his sheet, a live number. Included in the sport jabs was the crack that Jo-Jo Graboski, who is visiting his folks there, said he would play for South Porcupine next winter, not Oshawa. He has a job with Dome Mines. But brother Tony will be back in the Motor City. Barney Morris and Dick Frost, Oshawa tourists last winter who were barred by the O.H.A., will play for Frood Mines at Sudbury. And another item was that Carl (Inky) Woods—he played City League ball here some time back—will pitch for Noranda this summer. Kirkland Lake will have a senior baseball team in a northern league, and will also have a six-team town loop.

• • • • • •

The boys of Pinedale Lodge, care of Camp 4, Lakefield, sent us this letter last night: "Dear Sir—Would be very grateful if you would kindly thank Bill Prindible through the sports column of your paper for balls he donated to our camp. As we have no grounds suitable for baseball, we have to play softball, and will say we have four smart teams playing a double schedule. We also have one star team picked to represent Camp 4. If you can obtain any softball equipment for us we will be very grateful. We remain, yours sportingly, etc." Anyone wanting to help the lads out can write directly to this camp.

Miss M. Austen of Cobourg, secretary of the Lakeshore Gals' Softball League, writes us explaining why no Peterborough or Belleville team is in that loop. Both places had been queried on it early this Spring, but a local official informed her in an answering letter that he knew of no team here wanting to join the Lakeshore League, the Peterborough girls' teams intending to again play in the local circuit. So Miss Austen decided not to count on an entry from here. A Belleville girl informed her that they had not organized yet but would get in touch with her when they did. Nothing more was ever heard and Belleville failed to send a representative, though invited, to a later meeting. She concludes thusly: "I hope you will understand this as it is meant. We are sorry that an incorrect idea of the Lakeshore League has been received. The League now includes Port Hope, Newcastle, two Oshawa teams and Cobourg. We have decided to operate with only five teams this year." Evidently, this league can't be blamed for any misunderstanding.

As usual, the first meeting of the East Peterborough Baseball League, last night, saw little done. Generally takes a couple of sessions before any real action is started. But things don't look too bright. The C.G.E. outfit was ready to enter, and the Cogs appeared willing if others would join. But Crescents dropped out, and neither Fosters nor Raybestos were represented. So President Jack Pilling decided it would be best to hold one more meeting next Tuesday night and in the meantime to get in touch with several possible entries and the O.B.A.A. representative here to see what can be done. They don't want to disband the E.P.L. if it can be avoided, but more teams are needed or some sort of interlocking schedule with an outside league, or else just have two teams play a five—or seven-game series together, with outside teams here for exhibitions—and this latter doesn't sound so hot. Charlie Curtis sent in his resignation as secretary-treasurer, being too busy at work for the office this summer. One of the original organizers of the E.P.L., it will be next to impossible to replace Charlie.

The big hammer and anvil man from Kingston—who sometimes shoves a little sportswriting in between knocks "ag'in the government"— tries without much success to laugh off the two new players, Konopka and Murray, the Petes' senior team has this year. He admits he doesn't know much about 'em, but he says: "But the Petes have to provide for the loss of Red Hollingsworth, who played a smart game at short, even if he didn't hit the size of his collar." And now, with the widely-rumored report that Kingston has lost Vin McQuaide, Jake Quinn and Mickey Compeau to Brockville, he isn't saying quite as much about what a cinch the Ponies should have again copping the C.O.B.L. title. It's a little too early to predict, but it's just possible this is the Petes' year to knock off the senior pennant.

HAMILTON CITY LOOP PROTESTS NIAGARA ACTION

Peach Belt District League Has No Right to Demand Return of St. Catharines.

COMPLAINS TO O.B.A.A.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 2 (CP) — Officials of Hamilton City Baseball League have decided to protest to the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association against the forced withdrawal of St. Catharines from the Hamilton League.

The officials at a meeting here last night decided to point out that St. Catharines was virtually "kicked out" of the Niagara District League two years ago and was then taken into a compact and satisfactory grouping by the Hamilton League. Niagara district has demanded St. Catharines decline to affailiate with the local circuit this year.

The meeting was opposed to starting a three-team league this year and little progress was made toward solution of the problem as the result of Niagara's demand.

Bill Smith of Galt, President of the C.B.A.A., was requested to call a sub-committee meeting no later than Thursday night to decide on whether St. Catharines would come into the Hamilton group or remain in the Niagara district. Until a reply from the President is received nothing definite will be undertaken here.

NO COMMENT FROM O.B.A.A.

GALT, Ont., May 2 (CP)—President W. A. Smith of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association had no comment to make this morning re the Hamilton protest over the withdrawal of St. Catharines from the Hamilton Amateur Baseball Association, but said he might have a statement later when he received further particulars.

However, he pointed out it was not his place to call a special sub-committee meeting but said Hamilton could have it if they wanted it by applying to either the chairman of the sub-committee or the secretary.

Yesterday being May 1st and no demonstration of any kind downtown, we thought that we would wander out as far as the bowling greens, just to see if the board of management was on the job.

You know this board of management are the boys who tell the rest of us just what to do and how to do it; and yours truly, being on a couple of committees, has, with the rest of the lads, been under the whip.

× × ×

However, when we arrived at the greens, we find that the Greens Committe has been active. The men are working hard getting the east green in shape and just by way of a little inside dope, it does look good. In fact it looks far better than any other year, so early in the season.

× × ×

All that is now needed is just some fine weather with the odd shower thrown in and then along with that just a couple of more men to rush along the work on the west green.

Of course we have nothing to do with the Greens Committee, but we are just passing all this information on, just to see how the boys take it.

However, we will keep the bowling fans informed how things are going.

Tonight is the occasion of the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association. All local bowlers are asked to be present.

Tomorrow night at 8 oclock the directors are putting on a smoker. It will be a kind of a get-together affair. Everybody is welcome. There will be all kinds of games and a good program besides, so the boys are asked to come prepared.

TORCHY PEDEN BADLY BURNED IN BIKE SPILL

But Stout-hearted Victorian With Jules Audy Continues to Lead Pack.

7 RIDERS IN SMASH-UP.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.). — A spill in which Torchy Peden suffered painful burns failed to slow up the giant Victorian and, with Jules Audy, he was still leading the six-day bike race here this morning.

The teams of Charlie Winter and Frank Bartell, of New York, and Roy Macdonald, Ottawa, and Freddy Zach, Switzerland, were tied with the leaders in mileage, but behind in points.

Seven riders were involved in the spill. Floravanti Baggio teamed up with Henri LePage after injuries forced Alfred Letourner out, went over the top of the saucer and was badly injured about the face. Zach suffered two broken ribs, but continued in the race.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Georfe Fairfax,
Hastings, Ont.

Your handwriting describes you as rather a critical sort of person. You must be convinced if you are to believe things are as represented. The writing seems to indicate that you suffer either sciatica or rheumatism, for there is a tension of the nerves as you hold your pen which causes you to experience difficult in completing your downstrokes. You say "If you are not sure of yourself, or not sure that you are right, then go ahead and find out." I am glad that you take that attitude, and that you are willing to let graphology help you find out. You see, your type as a rule are very difficult to understand. Some prefer to follow the sea, due to their restless natures. Others make excellent engineers, strangely enough usually on the sea too. However, as all people cannot follow the sea, there must be something in the same line which could be successfully undertaken on land, in the engineering line, or perhaps mechanics. The writing as portrayed by you, indicates electrical enterprises but you may be farming, if you are, the chances are, that you spend a great deal of your time 'tinkering' with the implements. Your number is ten, and I am afraid that it robs you of the fruit of your labor quite often. Your birthsign Pisces the Fishes. Saturday your best day. May and June your fortunate months.

Frank Turner,
R.R. No. 8, Peterborough.

Your handwriting does not give you credit for your age, but that does not mean that you cannot undertake many really worthwhile plans, especially if you can get your hands on machinery. You see, though knowledge is essential if you desire progress, yet many people have obtained a marked degree of success, through the use of their hands, chiefly because they can grasp the fundamental facts more readily when they can see the work of their hands progressing from day to day. However, I advise you to study as much as possible in the future, and try not to depend too much upon 'getting' through in school, through sheer luck. Of course you may not be a regular attendant at any school, but if not there is always night school where one can at least try to acquire knowledge along specific lines. I do not wish to hurt your feelings, but yet feel that if I do, I shall help you more than if I praised you, for the little good that there is in your writing. You really need a mental spur, to goad you on to better things. Your writing is all shapes and angles, and all sizes. Changeableness is noted as well as stubborn qualities. If you care to write again in pen and ink and on notepaper, asking questions if you desire to know anything in particular. I shall be very glad to help you, for it would be a great pity to let a boy of your age drift into the land of half-heartedness, just because advice was not given when necessary. The writing, as I said before, may be due to lack of schooling, then if so is not your real portrayal of character, and so I do not wish to judge you from this pencil work. You may give me your birthdate, month and year, and I shall be delighted to tell you which are your most fortunate months, and which number is correct. All that I ask is: when you reply to this, you be sure to use the same name as above, and the same address, and state the day upon which your delineation appeared in The Examiner.

Arthur Lewis,
Warsaw, Ont.

Your handwriting as delineated, shows that somewhere in your family is an English tradition. Usually this type of characteristic will follow through from generation to generation. I wonder if you have ever thought of mining, as in metallography, which is the descriptive science of internal structure of metals, or else metallurgy which is the art of working metals, or extracting them from their ores? I believ that you would do well if this line if you were to give it the necessary study. You would ze careful, and that means accuracy. You would be patient, and that of course is essential. You would be honest, and that is another splendid attribute. You have will-power, but it is not quite as well developed yet as you could make it. Your health does not appear overrobust, but that can be built up too. If you would care to write and ask me questions, you may do so, but only for a limited time, due to the pressure of my work, and if you do write, you are permitted to give me your age, date and month of birth, or year, but mention the date upon which this appears in The Evening Examiner.

BRANCH PREXY-GUEST SPEAKER W.M.S. MEETING

Young Members of Mission Workers From City Churches Hear Mrs. W. L. Smythe.

SPIRIT OF WORK.

Under the auspices of the Evening Auxiliary of George Street United Church the younger group of W.M.S. workers of the six United Churches of the city, had the wonderful privilege and pleasure of hearing Mrs. W. L. Smythe, W.M.S. Bay of Quinte Conference Branch President, at their meeting last night.

The guests were met and welcomed by members of the entertaining Auxiliary and ushered into the cosy parlors, where the meeting was held.

Miss Eva Elliott, the president, presided, and opened the meeting with a devotional service consisting of a hymn, after which Miss Pearl Delahaye read the scripture lesson and Mrs. E. Coon offered earnest prayer.

During the evening Miss Alma Blanchard, in her rich contralto voice, contributed a group of beautiful sacred solos including, "I Shall Not Have Lived in Vain," and "Enough to Know." Miss Bessie Elcome presiding at the piano as accompanist.

In a few sincere words, the guest speaker, Mrs. Smythe, was warmly welcomed and introduced to a most appreciative audience by Mrs. J. E. J. Millyard.

In her opening words, Mrs. Smythe expressed her pleasure for the opportunities this visit afforded her of meeting the Young Women Missionary workers of Peterborough United Churches. "The world," she said, "moves forward, on the feet of little children. So, in mission work it moves forward through missionary education and training."

Spirit of Work

In her own experience, Mrs. Smythe said her missionary zeal grew from the ever-present atmosphere in her home life, of the spirit of missions. She recalled many little happenings of home. Her mother going to a provincial W.M.S. convention in Brantford, returning to tell of little incidents of interest to her own children.

Brantford, she declared, was to her then, as distant as China is today. With our widened interests, no one hears a W.M.S. woman speak of our "foreign work," but rather of "our work abroad." There is no possibility of making this world of ours Christian by sections. We are too closely linked together. We cannot solve a problem in Africa without dealing with the same problem at home. Christianity is a matter of individual regeneration and our influence must radiate until it touches other lives for Christ.

The W.M.S. is the instrument with which you can do this, and in doing this you are engaging in the most important work in the world. Some may say, "I have so little to give," but it is not what you give that counts, it is the part you keep back, for the mystic letters W.M.S. means "We must share."

Some one said long ago "that the Christian's life is a book in which Christ is writing His New Testament, and to allow this, we, as Christians must consecrate our whole lives to Him.

"The legend of the Bamboo tree" with its heart-searching message of giving all to Christ's service, even unto death, closed this inspiring and challenging address.

Mrs. J. Bradbury, on behalf of the organizations represented, voiced their appreciation of the honor and privilege of listening to their beloved branch president. Mrs. Smythe is no stronger to this audience and has won their wholehearted admiration and devotion.

This motion was seconded by Miss Vera Squire, and Mrs. E. Parker of Trinity Mission Circle, who also spoke words of appreciation which were endorsed by all present.

A delightful half-hour of social intercourse followed when the girls had the pleasure of greeting Mrs. Smythe informally. The girls of George Street Evening Auviliary brought this most enjoyable evening to a close by the service of dainty refreshments.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., MAY 1.

On the crest of a wave of popularity, Bing Crosby makes this startling statement:

"Just as soon as I finish my present picture, if I feel that musicals are slipping, I am going to quit the screen."

In the history of pictures, no other successful star has cared as little about film work as Bing. He doesn't think he is an actor and has no desire to become one.

This isn't just talk with him either. The only two clippings Bing has saved are a notice on College Humor,' in which his name isn't even mentioned, and a review of the picture of another crooner, of whom the critic remarks:

"Mr. —— has a good voice, but he can't act as well as Bing Crosby, who can't act at all."

On the set, it's the same. The other day, Director Elliott Nugent tried to get Bing to do a technical bit of acting for 'She Loves Me Not.' The star was willing to try but warned:

"I don't know how from nothing. I just dropped off a load of pumpkins."

WHY FILM BANNED

The film story of Nurse Edith Cavell, who was executed in Belgium during the war for aiding the escape of British and French soldiers, 'Dawn' is banned in Canada because it might revive wartime hatred.

THE COLONY

is getting a laugh from W. C. Fields' latest bit of whimsy. When visitors come to his home the star soon suggests that they go to his office to talk things over. He leads them into a room fitted like the office of a movie executive—filing cases, wide-topped desk, straight leather chairs. The conversation goes on for five minutes, then Fields exclaims: "Gentlemen, let us adjourn to the bar. Whereupon, he pushes a button, the top of the desk folds back and discloses a complete bar with ice-making compartment, electric ice-shavers and mixers and a full array of liquors.

THE NOVEL-WRITING

craze has Hollywood in its grip. With books already promised by Jean Harlow and Richard Dix, Patsy Ruth Miller confides she is in the midst of one and—real surprise—Mala, the hero of 'Eskimo,' also has turned writer. The half-Eskimo youth, whose real name is Ray Wise and who worked as cameraman before he turned actor, already has completed a 48,000 autobiographical volume called 'Far North,' and is now engaged on a longer and more fictionized story to be titled 'Snow Man.' Mala seeks to have the two books published, then he wants to combine them into script form and make them into a picture. Furthermore, he hopes to direct it himself.

STUDDED WITH

lovely girls, beautiful revue numbers and photographic wonders, 'I Am Suzanne!' Jesse L. Lasky's latest Fox Film production appears on the screen of the Regent Theatre today. It offers a perfect setting in which Lilian Harvey, the internationally famous star, does indeed shine with a greater brilliance than ever before, either in Hollywood or in Europe. The film, with its background of Parisian night life and the Podrecca Piccoli Marionettes, offers Miss Harvey a splendid opportunity to display her versatility.

Gene Raymond, who plays opposite Miss Harvey, gives a performance that is easily his best to date. The other members of the cast, Leslie Banks, Georgia Caine, Geneva Mitchell, Halliwell Hobbes, Murray Kinnell and Edward Keane, all give splendid performances under the direction of Rowland V. Lee.

WHEN THE MOOD

strikes her, and it may be any day now, Colleen Moore will depart for New York to read three plays, one of which she has agreed to do next season on Broadway for Dwight Deere Wyman, co-producer of the hit, 'She Loves Me Not.' Colleen's current visit to the film capital has had mostly to do with completing the famous dollhouse, which she'll eventually send on an exhibition tour for charity. The star has four workmen busy on the house. In addition, Willy Pogany has been spending most of his time of late doing tiny mosaic designs for the entrance hall.

WOULD EXTEND PAVED HIGHWAY TO BRIDGENORTH

Smith Council Petitions Suburban Area Commission to Extend Pavement.

PERMANENT LANDMARKS

Council Will Co-operate With J. W. Pearce to Find Old Posts.

The Municipal Council of Smith Township met on Saturday, April 28, in the County Council Chamber. All the members were present except Councillor Harry Fowler, unavoidably absent through illness.

By-law No. 928 changing N. ½ of Lot 19, Concession 5, from S.S. No. 4 to S.S. No. 11, received its several readings and was passed.

Moved by G. Mullen and C. Westlake, That orders be drawn on the treasurer in favor of Road Superintendent T. H. Graham for the following amounts and purposes:

Pay sheets Nos. 12 to 32 inclusive (snow), $361.43; Pay sheets Nos. 33 to 43 inclusive, $282.15. Carried.

J. W. Pierce, O.L.S., was present and outlined the Surveyor-General's policy of placing permanent landmarks in Smith Township where any old marks can be established.

Moved by G. Mullen and F. Armstrong, That the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith co-operate with Mr. Pierce in his effort to locate all old boundary stakes and corner posts in Smith Township and in placing permanent ones in their stead as per regulations of the Department of Surveys; and that each councillor try to locate as many stakes and posts as possible in his own district. Carried.

The clerk was instructed to write A. G. Wagner, of the Burleigh Falls Fish and Hunt Club, stating that work will be re-commenced on the new road leading south from Lovesick Lake, on Tuesday, May 1st.

The clerk was asked to advise Mr. Christopher that Smith Township has accepted Plan 54 of Smith township but has not assumed the building or maintenance of the new road created thereby; and therefore until some revenue is obtained through taxes from property facing the road the council does not care to take any responsibility in building or maintaining the same.

The clerk was also requested to forward the auto accident claim of John Darling to Messrs. A. E. Wilson & Co., Toronto.

A resolution was passed expressing Council's deep regret because of the inability of Councillor Fowler to be present through illness, and also because of the great amount of sickness which has visited his home during the past year or more, and expressing the hope that he and the members of his family may soon be on the road to recovery.

Obituary

MRS. SAMUEL SEYMOUR.

HAVELOCK, May 2.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— A well known resident of Stratford was claimed by death on Sunday in the person of Mrs. Samuel Seymour, at her home, 288 Douro street. Mrs. Seymour had been ill a little more than a week and death was due to a heart ailment. She had been a resident of Stratford for the twenty-four years and was well known in the community. Mrs. Seymour was a member of Parkview United church and until deafness had made church attendance impossible, she had been a regular attendant at services. Her absence in church circles will be greatly felt.

Mrs. Seymour, whose maiden name was Rosanna Breckenridge, was born on a farm near Peterborough seventy-two years ago. She lived on the family homestead there for a while. Later she moved to Garden Hill, where she was married. Mr. and Mrs. Seymour moved to Stratford twenty-four years ago.

The late Mrs. Seymour leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, one son, Murton of Guelph; four daughters, Mrs. H. Pocock of Vancouver, Mrs. Joel Leslie of Rockwood, Mrs. Frank Whitlock of Hamilton and Miss Rhita at home. Following a private funeral service on Wednesday, the remains were interred in Rockwood cemetery. Rev. D. E. Foster, of Parkview United church, conducted the service. Charles Taylor of Havelock, is a nephew of the deceased.

Grass Fire Spreads To Garages, Houses

CAMPBELLFORD, May 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — The first serious grass fire this year in Campbellford broke out yesterday morning when the local fire fighters were called out to a blaze on the old Levisconte Estate, which had spread to the eastern limit of the property and threatened the garages and homes of N. Alex MacColl and G. A. Ironside. The fire spread over a wide area of and but for the prompt action of the fire brigade and many helpers, who formed a bucket brigade, would have set fire to the garages and endangered the houses. The fire did spread to a barn on the estate, the brigade having to be called a second time to extinguish it with the water lines. The Levisconte Estate is situated between Rannie and Booth streets.

dried grass and undergrowth and crept to the line fence, igniting it,

CURLERS ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. W. J. Creighton, Chaplain of Lakefield Club, Delivers Thoughtful Sermon.

LAKEFIELD, May 2.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Between thirty and forty members of the Lakefield Curling Club attended St. John's Church on Sunday evening when the club chaplain, Rev. W. J. Creighton, preached a very thoughtful sermon with the text taken from the 34th verse of the 14th chapter of the Book of Proverbs, "Righteousness exalteth a nation." Mr. Creighton, who has been a curler for more than forty years and was chaplain of the Bobcaygeon club for years when he was rector of that parish, claimed that sports have a real place in the community life and serve to draw people together with a common interest in recreation. One must learn to lose well before one can win well, and the good loser has learned the lesson which helps to make for better citizenship and a finer spirit in the individual. In the game of curling the perfect rink is composed of the perfect first stone, second stone, vice-skip and skip, each probably so efficient in his own place that he would be less useful in any other, and it is a mistaken idea which accords less importance to the first and second stones. The winning of the game is the lesser part to playing the game to the best of one's ability and skill. The spirit of fellowship is fostered by friendly sport, acquaintance ripens into friendship and the community life is enriched by the friendly spirit of its citizens. This has its effect, and a good one, on every phase of our lives, the churches, business and social life.

Mrs. Todd was at the organ and the choir sang Houldsworth's "Gloria" and Turner's "Evening Service."

This is the first church parade of the Lakefield Curling Club, and its success was such that it will more than likely be continued as an annual event and a feature of the program.

Afternoon Tea.

The Willing Workers of St. John's Church held a successful afternoon tea on Friday afternoon and a card party in the evening. The attendance at the card party was affected by the entertainment which packed the Town Hall to capacity. The Willing Workers are a voluntary band, made up of members of the W.A., who are working to help the parish work, and their endeavors have been successful and have demonstrated what may be done by a group of faithful and devoted women.

Indoor sports was the program for the A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening, and though the attendance was below the average, those present had a good time, and the program was at least a novelty which kept everyone guessing and entertained very pleasantly. Prizes were won by Miss Woodhouse (2), Miss Viola Murphy, Rev. W. J. Creighton and Mr. Fred. Hampton.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Stocks of butter and storage eggs in Montreal as of yesterday were lower than on May 1 last year, according to figure announced by the Montreal Board of Trade. Cheese, fresh eggs and butter in bond stocks, however, were higher.

Creamery butter stocks were 5,435 boxes, against 7,752 on April 1 of this year and 4,799 on May 1, 1933. Dairy butter figures were five boxes yesterday as compared with 55 last month and six last year. Stock of cheese totalled 58,327 boxes, as compared with 62,675 on April 1 and 39,358 last May. Fresh egg stocks amounted to 6,756 cases in comparison with 1,046 last month and 4,840 on May 1, 1933. Stocks of storage eggs were 21 397 cases, while none were on hand on April 1 this year and 29,999 last May. Butter in bond amounted to 1,500 boxes, against 6,850 last month and none on May 1, 1934.

Approximately 500,000 pounds of chickens and 75,000 pounds of turkeys have been sold in recent weeks to United Kingdom buyers, it was learned. The food export inquiry has caused Montreal poultry prices to firm.

Rise in Egg Prices

With the exception of a slight increase in eggs prices, quotations were unchanged on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

No. 1 fresh butter in cartons or less was quoted at 21c to 21½c a pound, while to retailers solids were 22c to 23c and prints 23c to 24c a pound. Receipts were 734 boxes.

Fresh Ontario cheese sold at 10c to 10½c a pound. Arrivals were 51 boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs in cartons or less were quoted at 19c to 19½c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18½c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for B, and 16c for C. A total of 4,475 cases were received.

Quebec potatoes per 80-pound bag were 95c to $1, New Brunswick Mountains per 80-pound bag, $1 to $1.05, and Prince Edward Island Mountains per 90-pound bag, $1.25 to $1.30.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Possibilities of an immediate break-up of prevalent severe drought in domestic wheat territory led to sharp set backs of prices for all grains yesterday.

Wheat suffered a maximum drop of 2⅝c a bushel, chiefly because some moisture yesterday and likelihood of more last night induced a sudden general profit-taking movement on the part of recent buyers. The wheat market tumble was in the face of an unofficial estimate that United States winter wheat production this season would be 9,000,000 bushels less than the latest previous authoritative private forecast.

Wheat closed unsettled 1⅝c to 2¼c under Monday's finish; corn, ½c to 1c down; oats, unchanged to ⅝c off, and provisions showing 7c to 10c decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 2. — Despite delivery of 20,043,000 bushels of wheat—a new high record—against the May contract wheat prices held relatively firm on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday to close only ⅝c to ½c lower.

May wheat ended at 64½c, July at 65⅝c, and October 67½c. The deliveries apparently passed into strong hands and their effect on prices was almost negligible. It was understood the Government agency took considerable quantity of the cash wheat while exporters also accepted good round lots.

Liverpool closed ¼d lower to ¼d higher, influenced by continued dry weather in the Balkans. Actual sales of Canadian wheat for shipment abroad were small.

Interest in cash grains was again dead and spreads generally remained unchanged. Coarse grains prices idled around previous closing levels.

WAGES RAISED IN SEYMOUR TP.

Fire Protection for Trent River Asked for by Delegation.

COURT OF REVISION

CAMPBELLFORD, May 2 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — A raise in the wages of all employees of the Township of Seymour was made by the Township Council, sitting in regular session yesterday, when a very popular motion was introduced by Deputy Reeve W. J. Milne and Councillor Thomas Fry, raising the scale of wages for 1934.

The scale is as follows: Men, 20 cents an hour, 1933 rate being 17 cents an hour; man and team, 40 cents an hour, 1933 rate being 35 cents an hour; trucks, $1 an hour, 1933 rate being 85 cents an hour; maintenance operator, 37½ cents an hour, 1933 rate being 35 cents an hour. The motion was unanimously carried.

Following the recent fire at Trent River, a delegation comprised of G. W. Johnston and John Ruttan addressed the council in reference to proper fire protection at that place, and a motion was sponsored by Deputy Reeve Milne and Councillor William Rowe, that the council as a whole investigate the situation at that place. This will be done in the near future.

No action was taken in regard to the government's offer of supplying seed grain to needy farmers, the clerk, Wesley Stephens, being instructed to notify Walter H. Smith, county agricultural representative, to this effect.

The time for holding the Court of Revision to hear appeals against assessments was fixed for Monday, June 4. At this sitting the case of Sanders Free will be dealt with, in his application for apportionment taxes on the South ½, Lot 16, Concession 3. The clerk was instructed to notify the owners that this apportionment will be made.

Messrs. Daw and Thompson addressed the council in regard to insurance. The letter from the Department of Highways regarding the Government's assuming that portion of the road from Campbellford to Havelock, was received and filed.

Robert McAlpine was allowed a rebate of $2 on his dog tax. Accounts amounting to $401 were ordered paid. Reeve William J. Duncan presided over the deliberations of the council, which was fully attended.

BRITAIN RUSHES WARSHIPS TO ARABIA

Pioneers Conquered Worse Depressions

DAVID CONROY, OLDEST RESIDENT, OF PETERBORO CITY AND COUNTY RECALLS STRUGGLES OF SETTLERS

Life Imposed Severe Hardships in Lean Days When Homes Had to be Literally Hewn Out of the Bush.

WORKED IN SHANTIES AS A YOUTH
FOOD WAS ROUGH AND WAGES SMALL

Mr. Conroy, Now in His 94th Year, Was Born in Douro—Pays Tribute to Parents and Benefactors.

The so-called economic depression is a joke to David Conroy, oldest resident of Peterborough city and county.

In his 94th year, Mr. Conroy, during the course of a recent interview with The Examiner at his Sophia street residence, spoke of the almost insurmountable trials and hardships endured by the original settlers of his native Douro Township, alongside of which present-day problems appear to assume lesser proportions.

The present generation doesn't know what hardships and hard times are, the old gentleman laughed as he recalled the time when as a youth of twenty summers he worked in the shanty for seven dollars a month, when for sixteen weeks he subsisted mainly on a diet of potatoes, bread and fat pork.

But even such conditions as those he hastened to explain were as nothing compared with the hardships faced by his parents, Edmund Conroy and Mary O'Brien when as members of the Peter Robinson immigration party they arrived in Canada from Ireland in 1825, and hewed themselves a home out of the bush in Douro Township, where he himself was born on August 4, 1840.

Born on August 4, 1840

The old gentleman said he marvelled at the courage and indomitible will of those pioneer settlers every time he contemplated their exploits, and he admitted he was often at a loss to realise how his parents had managed to raise a family which had consisted of five boys and five girls, of which he is the oldest surviving member.

When his parents first arrived from the old land, Mr. Conroy said, there was not even a wagon trail between here and Douro, only a blazed trail over which the settlers had to walk.

His father, Mr. Conroy related, literally hewed the little log cabin, which was the original dwelling erected on the homestead, out of the virgin forest and cleared his land, which turned out to be terribly stoney and hilly and quite unsuited to successful farming.

Some Of the Handicaps

"Each of the settlers who built their own cabins," received a government grant of twenty dollars in addition to a cow and a cowbell which was given to every family," Mr. Conroy said. "A team of oxen was also provided by the government for the common use of the community."

Viscount Tredegar Pneumonia Victim

LONDON, Eng., May 3. (A.P.)—Viscount Tredger died of pneumonia to-day at a west end hotel, only a few days after returning from a cruise he took to Australia for his health. He was 67 years old.

Viscount Tredegar, born April 10, 1867, was created a Peer in 1926.

He was married in 1890 to Lady Catherine Agnes Blance Carnegie. They had one son, Hon. Evan Frederic, who was born in 1893.

Viscount Tredegar served with honor in the Boer War in 1900-1901.

He was president of the National Union of Conservative and Unionist Associations and of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, being elected to both offices in 1927.

The Weather

The thermometer soared to a new high level to-day at 82 degrees in the shade.

Steadily rising temperatures have been recorded here during the past three days, ranging from 77 degrees as Tuesday's maximum; 81 degrees yeserday and 82 degrees to-day as the record high for the expired term of the present year.

MARKETING ACT PASSES 120-60

Weir's Measure Given Largest Majority Gov't Ever Received on Division.

ONLY LIBERALS OPPOSE.

OTTAWA, May 3 (CP)—By a vote of two to one the principle of regulating the marketing of natural products in Canada has been endorsed by the House of Commons. Climaxing a long debate on the Natural Products Marketing Act, the House yesterday placed its approval on the measure sponsored by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, as at least a partial solution for the ills of the farmer, the fisherman and the lumberman.

The vote of 120 to 60 represented the largest majority the Bennett Government has secured on a division in the House since it entered office in 1930. Conservatives, Laborites, Farmers and Independents voted solidly for the bill. The Liberals opposed with two exceptions: Thomas Reid, New Westminster, and Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture.

Study of the bill in Committee of the Whole began at once despite a drive on the part of the Liberals, supported by J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. Leader, to have it referred to the Agriculture Committee. Mr. Motherwell, who voted for second reading, led in the move to send it to the Agriculture Committee.

Mr. Weir appealed to the members for constructive suggestions during the committee stage and insisted it would be a waste of time to send it to the Agriculture Committee.

Century Old Elm At Park St. Corner Felled On Property Of And. Brown

An old landmark which for a century looked on as Peterborough grew from a small, pioneer lumbering town to a busy manufacturing city, has met its fate. Workmen felled a great elm tree on the property of Andrew Brown at the cor ner of Park and Charlotte streets yesterday.

A count of the growth rings on the stump of the tree reveals that it was well on the way to its 100th birthday. When it first took root, Peterborough was little more than a group of flimsy structures centered about the corner of George and Hunter streets and it was a quarter mile outside the town limits. Before its end came yesterday, it saw itself a quarter mile inside the nearest boundary.

The tree was removed to make room for a younger poplar which had grown up beside it.

Fancy Teeth

CHICAGO, May 2 (C.P.). — When Dr. Lionel Holzman made a set of false teeth for Miss Bertha Krniberg he did a very extra special job — but that's where the trouble started.

So fond was he of the product of his own art, he asked to borrow the teeth for a dental exhibit.

She complied, she charged in court, but the dentist never returned her teeth.

The teeth cost her $64. The court awarded her a $95 judgment, but the dentist keeps the teeth.

INDEPENDENT PARTY ENTERS ELECTION LIST

Aims Are Described by Capt. Philpott and U.F.O. Secretary at Tiverton.

LAUD MARKET BILL.

Two Liberals, Conservative Nominated—United Fronter Out in Wellington.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.)—Liberals and Conservatives to-day heard warnings of a new Independent Party in the Ontario general election campaign, an organization which believes a change is necessary in the political and economic systems if conditions are to be improved.

The new party made its appearance at Tiverton last night as part of another night of campaigning throughout the province during which three more candidates were selected at conventions, two Liberals and a Conservative. They were William G. Nixon, Liberal, for the riding of Temiskaming; James H. Clark, Liberal, for Windsor-Sandwich, and Dr. A. R. McMillen, Conservative, for West Lambton.

Captain Elmore Philpott, former head of the Association of Ontario C.C.F. Clubs, and H. H. Hannam, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, appeared at Tiverton last night and described the aims of the new Independent Party. Captain Philpott scoffed at the campaign issues being discussed by Liberals and Conservatives when such a serious economic situation was to be overcome.

Mr Hannam and Captain Philpott had praise, however for the Dominion Government's Marketing Board legislation, which they described as the best work any Parliament has accomplished since 1915.

Mr. Nixon who captured the Temiskaming Liberal nomination, defeated two other nominees. He obtained 110 votes; Joseph Legris, Haileybury barrister, 96; and Nelson Green, former Mayor of Haileybury, obtained 11.

Mr. Nixon was an employee of

FRANCE UNEASY PLANS LONGER ARMS TRAINING

Boost Conscript Service to Two Years From Present 12 Months.

FEARS HITLER.

Sees No Hope of Disarming With Germany Increasing Her Military.

(By John Evans—A.P. Staff Writer)

PARIS, May 3 (A.P.).—France is considering lengthening military service in the face of the danger the Government sees in the policies of Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, it was learned authoritatively to-day.

Premier Gaston Doumergue, reliable sources said, is backing a proposal by Marshal Henri Petain, War Minister, to increase by stages the 12 months' conscript service until eventually it reaches possibly two years.

The French Parliament has been hostile to such a measure, but the reduction in births during the Great War has resulted in diminishing the size of the army, and the Cabinet favors a frankly bold action to keep France strong in a world situation the Government regards as full of danger.

The program has been drawn up by the general staff, which is fearful that the present year of training is inadequate in view of the powerful professional German army which the French declare is constantly being increased in size.

Last Increase in 1913.

The last increase in the length of service was in 1913, when it was increased from two to three years at the time war clouds were gathering in Europe.

Since the war the length of service steadily has been decreased.

The proposed increase is declared the logical outcome of the French belief that disarmament now is out of the question in view of Germany's clear announcement that she intends to build up an army.

The French have been particularly aroused by sizeable increases for defence purposes included in the new German budget.

With the prestige of Premier Doumergue behind the program, observers feel it has an excellent chance of being approved by Parliament.

The present Government already has launched a strong policy. This was indicated in the recent central European tour of Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, openly described as designed to strengthen France's old alliances.

FAMOUS ALGOMA TWINS SEPARATED FIRST TIME

SAULT STE. Marie, Ont., May 3. (CP)—Old age and retirement today served to separate Algoma's famous twins for the first time in the 70 years of life.

The twins are Mrs. J. Armstrong and Mrs. J. Irwin who have lived on adjoining farms in MacLennan for 51 years and who spent their girlhood years together in Huron county where they were born. Now Mrs. Armstrong will reside in Sault Ste. Marie while her sister remains in MacLennan.

The sisters, who celebrated their 70th birthdays April 21, have 17 children, 60 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Mrs. Armstrong is the mother of two sets of twins and her husband, the late J. Armstrong, was also a twin. Mr. Armstrong's death was the only break in either of the two families.

FEAR IBN SAUD MAY PUSH WAR BEYOND COUNTRY

Already Crushed Ancient Kingdom of Yemen, Taken Part of Hodeidah.

RUMOR RULER SLAIN.

See France and Italy Involved as Colonies Are Threatened.

LONDON, May 3.—(A P)—Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia, was reported today to have crushed the ancient kingdom of Yemen, captured Hodeidah, and sunk armed ships in Hodeidah Harbor with his modernized army artillery.

The Iman of Yemen, ruler of the country, was reported assassinated in a revolutionary outbreak.

The British government moved rapidly to protect its nationals and British property and to prevent any organized uprising of Arabians.

Warships including the sloop "Penzance" were dispatched to the area. H.M.S. Enterprise, a cruiser, was ordered from Mombasa, East Africa to Aden in Southwest Arabia.

The situation in Arabia was regarded with grave concern by the British Government.

France and Italy, which possess colonies at the Southern end of the Red Sea, also may become involved, it was said.

Official despatches did not confirm the reports of the death of Imam, who had ruled with absolute power for thirty years, but his overthrow was generally conceded likely.

Conflict Raging Months

The war between Ibn Saud and the Imam has been carried on for months, beginning as a small border dispute and sweeping to to-day's apparent climax.

On April 12, Ibn Saud specified that he would give Yemen peace in return for the surrender of the mountainous border strip, but to-day's reports showed his army had carried far beyond that objective.

CANDIDATES TO BE INTERVIEWED ON BEER POLICY

Peterboro City and County Temperance Associations Plan Convention.

RECENTLY ACTIVE.

Have Already Met James Hawthorne, Liberal—Statement Pending.

At a meeting of the executives of the East and West Peterborough Temperance Associations, held yesterday afternoon in the Board Room of the Y.M.C.A., arrangements were made to see that the temperance sentiment of the Peterborough riding is given full opportunity to express itself during the pending provincial election. A county committee was appointed with Mr. G. A. Brethen, ex-M.P., of Norwood, as chairman, and H. B. Cowan of Peterborough, as secretary. This committee was authorized to call a county convention as soon as declarations as to where they stand have been secured from the candidates approved by the various party conventions.

The temperance workers have been hard at work for several weeks and report that they have been receiving a surprising response. A committee of fifty representatives of the city met some three weeks ago to canvass the situation. About a week ago a meeting representative of the riding was held, followed by yesterday's meeting which also was thoroughly representative of both former ridings.

See Issue Simplified

The fact that both political parties have come out in favor of the new wine and beer measure has simplified the campaign very considerably for the temperance forces, in as much as it has largely removed the political aspect of the issue at stake, members of the organization

COURT DECISION IN PAYNE WILL IS RESERVED

Widow Claims Bank Accounts and Bonds Were Held Jointly,

ESTATE OF $16,372.42.

Niece and Nephew Bring Action For Share in Estate of Uncle.

Judgment was reserved yesterday afternoon by Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy, presiding over the present non-jury sessions of the Supreme Court, following hearing of all the evidence produced in the action brought by Wallace and Charlotte Dewart, both of Dummer Township, against Addie Evelyn Payne, widow of William K. Payne, th's city, claiming a portion of the estate of $16,372.42 left by Mr. Payne, who died without a will in August, 1931. As nephew and niece of the late Mr. Payne, the Dewarts claim their share of the whole estate, consisting property, mortgages, cash and bonds.

Evidence was produced on behalf of the defendant Mrs. Payne that previous to her husband's death, he and she had taken out joint savings accounts in three local bank branches and that a safety deposit box in which were placed four $1,000 bearer bonds was also held jointly. Mrs. Payne testified that her husband told her that "if anything happened to him she was to be able to get the bonds."

Uriah Payne, brother of W. K. Payne, said that he had "signed off" any claim he had to the estate because his brother had told him that he and his wife had both worked hard for the money they had and she was entitled to what they had as much as he was.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for the plaintiffs, and Walton Stevenson for Mrs. Payne.

Fear Kidnapped Girl Never Be Found Alive

TUCSON, Ariz., May 3. (AP).—The unvoiced fear that little June Robles may never be found alive was felt by many here to-day—the eighth day since she was kidnapped.

If the family had reason for new hope of her return, the fact was not known. There has been no public announcement of developments in the case for two days, the only definite facts are: The six-year-old child is still missing, and the ransom money—$15,000 in bills of $5, $10 and $20 denominations—is ready.

There has been no development to lend substance to the belief that the child may have been killed by her abductors, other than the continued silence of the kidnappers in the face of the family's readiness to meet terms of payment for June's return.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS APPROVED BY MERCHANTS BUT DECISION OF RATEPAYERS NOT OPPOSED

Vote of Two to One in Favor of Summer Schedule an Expression of Merchants' Opinion in Future Action.

TIME CONFLICT IN PETERBOROUGH
SOME FACTORIES ADOPT CHANGE

Want Wednesday Half Holiday Made Compulsory — Not Exceptions to Closing Daly at 7 P.M.

By a standing vote of over two to one, a representative gathering of retail merchants last night went on record, in favor of daylight saving time from June 1, to the end of August. The vote was 45 in favor, 21 against.

While it was generally acknowledged by the meeting that their attitude towards the daylight saving question might not meet with the desired result, and that it most certainly could not interfere with the decision made by the ratepayers that the city should remain on standard time, it was hoped that it might act as some guide to the future action of manufacturers who are as yet undecided about the adoption of new time schedules.

The meeting was definitely in favor of Wednesday half holiday during the months of June, July and August and it was decided by the merchants to circulate a petition among the retailers of the city asking the City Council to pass a by-law making the half-day closing compulsory.

Enforce By-law

On the question of closing hours for all classes of retailers, it was unanimously decided by the meeting that enforcement of the present city by-law requiring the closing of businesses at seven o'clock on week nights, would be sought, and that the hour for closing on Saturday nights be 10 o'clock.

The last item on the agenda concerned the prevailing practice of some manufacturers in the city of selling produce to their employees in unfair competition with the merchants. After some discussion of the matter, the secretary was instructed to write to the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, calling their attention to the existing condition in the confident hope that the manufacturers concerned would be able to discontinue the practice as far as possible.

Constituting one of the largest-attended meeting held under the auspices of the Retail Merchants Section of the Chamber of Commerce in recent years, the gathering presided over by James Juby was fairly representative of all

BRITAIN TO PAY DEBT IN SILVER

Use White Metal for U. S. as Result Recent Drop in Price.

BUYING FROM INDIA?

By ALBERT W. WILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Eng., May 3. (AP). — Great Britain already is prepared to make a silver token debt payment to the United States in June, it was reported in financial circles to-day, as a result of the recent drop in silver prices.

While official confirmation was lacking, it is believed probable the government took advantage of the low price.

Although the day of reckoning is only a little more than a month away, there is still no official indication that Great Britain is making any kind of a payment on her debts to the United States, but it is believed it will be another token payment.

Well-informed financial quarters said to-day there has been no evidence of purchases of silver on the open market by the British government.

But one prominent broker said: "Silver was bought privately from the Indian government to make last December's payment and the British Government probably is doing the same thing again."

Great Britain's war debt to the United States totals $4,636,157,358.

The next instalment on the British debt due, June 15, is $95,670,765.

The token payment made at the time the December British instalment fell due was $7,500,000.

COL. T. H. LENNOX NOTED LAWYER TAKEN BY DEATH

Member For North York Past 30 Years Succumbs to Heart Attack.

LED 208TH BATTALION.

One of Most Colorful Figures in Politics—Host at Annual Picnic.

TORONTO, May 3. (CP).—Col. Herbert Lennox, Member of Parliament for North York, died to-day following a heart attack last night.

Col. Lennox was born in Simcoe County, son of Thomas Lennox and Margaret Island, both Irish. He was educated at Barrie public schools and collegiate and at Osgoode Hall in Toronto. He was a barrister-at-law, King's Counsel and a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

With the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, he commanded the 208th Battalion which he took overseas during the Great War. He was defeated in his candidature for the Ontario legislature in 1902 and 1903 but elected in 1905, 1908, 1911, 1914 and 1919. He was first elected to the House of Commons as a Conservative in 1925 and re-elected in 1926 and 1930.

"Herb" Lennox was one of the most colorful figures in Canadian politics. Annually he was host at a gigantic picnic in his riding, to which everyone—Liberal and Conservative alike — was invited. Thousands attended the picnics, with Col. Lennox genially shaking hands and having as much fun as the youngest guest.

A pungent debater, Herb was equally well known for his wit. Always exceedingly well dressed, he liked flashing colors—his straw hats bands and ties being famous among his friends.

Overwork was responsible for Col. Lennox' illness, his doctors said. During the past few weeks, he had been engaged in a large number of criminal cases in the assizes in addition to his regular parliamentary duties. He was 65 years old last month.

England's school enrollment is expected to decrease 1,000,000 in the next few years.

ROAD WORKER BLAST VICTIM NEAR MARMORA

Charge Explodes Prematurely Blowing Leo Latonne's Head Off.

ACTINOLITE MAN.

Police Investigate — Coroner F. J. Nickle Decides Inquest Unnecessary.

MARMORA, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence).— Leo Latonne, 21, of Actinolite, met his death under distressing circumstances at 3.15 p.m. on Wednesday in the new No. 7 Highway four miles east of Marmora Village. He was employed by Messrs. Henniger & Scott at the cut which they are making upon the Richardson property ,and was assisting P. Markotich, a foreman, in a blasting operation. As he was springing a hole, the shot went off, severing the upper part of his head.

Coroner Dr. F. J. Nickle, of Eldorado, was summoned. He decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Blasting Through Rock.

The construction gang on No. 7 Highway were blasting their way through rock. The practice is to drill holes 14 feet deep; into these they drop two sticks of dynamite and explode them, to make a pocket at the bottom for a larger charge. This is done twice, the second time with four sticks, after which they place the big charge.

At 3.15 yesterday afternoon, the four sticks had been placed. The fuse, lighted, with cap attached had been dropped in. Latonne was pouring water on top of it. While he was bending over, the charge went off prematurely.

Provincial Constable E Hill of Madoc and Provincial Constable f. Gray of Marmora investigated.

The remains were brought to F. N. Marett's Undertaking Parlors and later were taken to the deceased man's home to await burial.

the Ontario Government for a number of years, being agricultural representative before entering the political field.

United Front Enters Fray

A United Front candidate will enter the South Wellington race, according to Edward G. Hill, Canadian Labor Defence League official at Guelph, and the C.C.F. will contest Welland West, the candidate to be chosen at a meeting in Welland May 18.

Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Ontario Minister of Highways, charged that the Liberals in the Dominion had been to a certain extent responsible for the United States failing to ratify the St. Lawrence Waterways agreement, because they had "harpooned" the proposal.

"The same party," he charged, "has joined in a conspiracy with the Province of Quebec to help strangle public ownership."

Mr. Macaulay upheld the Government's record before the convention in Sarnia that selected Dr. A. R. McMillen, present Legislature member, as candidate in the coming voting for Lambton West.

The big Conservative campaign drive starts in Toronto to-day when candidates and government heads meet to discuss the election date and make plans for the fight. The rally is expected to be one of the largest ever held.

LICENSE BICYCLISTS.

SEATTLE, May 3 (C.P.). — City Traffic Engineer J. W. A. Bollong says bicycles are now a "menace," not only to their riders but to the automobiles and pedestrians.

"Their use by young and old is increasing at an astonishing rate," he said.

He recommended passage of a city ordinance requiring they be licensed.

"Capitalistic Dragon" In Gotham's May Day Parade

May Day, said to have originated in Canada in Quebec late in the last century, has now become a world wide day of celebration, or demonstration. This May first was no exception and literally millions of proletariat all over the world took a day off to parade with banners and attend lectures and meetings. In Toronto 8,000 attended a gathering at which little signs of violence was manifest. In New York, 100,000 workers paraded the streets. Little difficulty was experienced in Europe parades and demonstrations were marked by considerable violence, though not as great as was feared. Above are scenes from the colorful parade in New York. At TOP, reminiscent of Macbeth's moving forest is this sea of placards. BELOW, the block-dragon, representing Capitalism, which was a feature of the parade.

PEACE FLOODS BEGIN TO EASE

Telegrapher Flashes Word All Safe, But Fort Vermilion Deserted.

STOCK LOSS HEAVY.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., May 3 (C.P.). — Raging torrents flooding the Peace and Boyer Rivers to-day began to recede, but the water was still far too high to permit the residents of Fort Vermilion to return to their homes from the hills.

Only for a brief while last night was Arthur Bowtell, the Government telegraph operator at Fort Vermilion, able to maintain telegraph connection, but he rushed through the message that all residents of the village were safe.

Several houses were damaged, a warehouse was badly wrecked, and the Dominion Government telegraph lines crossing the Peace River were put out of operation by debris and ice breaking the poles. The telegraph operator crossed the river by boat, sent the message that damage had been done, but no lives lost, and then returned to his post at Fort Vermilion.

The floods began to rise last Friday and last night the water covered the river flats to a depth of nine feet. An ice jam coused the rapid rise in the water level, and sleeping residents were forced to quit their homes hurriedly. When the water continued to rise ,boats were used to remove children from the mission school.

Full estimate of the damage cannot be estimated until telegraph connections are completely re-established with Fort Vermilion. 250 miles north-west of here. Heavy loss in live stock is expected as well as to buidings in the village

FIRE DESTROYS BARN IN BELMONT

Wm. Steenburgh Occupant of Premises—Jas. Kitchen Owner.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK., May 3.—A large barn, four miles east of Havelock, was totally destroyed by fire early last evening. The barn is on the farm occupied by Wm. Steenburgh, but owned by James Kitchen, local butcher. Mrs. Steenburgh, first to see the blaze, noticed fire shooting through the roof of the barn about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire had spread so rapidly that when the alarm was given nothing could be done to stem the flames. There was nothing in the barn at the time.

The loss is estimated at $2,500, which is partially covered by insurance.

Slowing Traffic

NORTH WILBRAHAM, Mass. May 3 (C.P.). — Leave it to the canny New Englander to find a way.

Local residents complained of the speeders on the State Highway, but were unable to persuade the State to install traffic lights.

So they took matters into their own hands. Two teams of oxen will be driven up and down the highway, the theory being that the plodding animals will form a blockade to slow down the fast drivers.

VETERANS' CASE GREAT PROBLEM

Legion Head Claims Prosperity to be of Little Aid to Jobless.

AGE MAIN DRAWBACK.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.)—Returning prosperity will not solve the problem of unemployment for a large number of workless ex-servicemen because of their impairment through war service, Brig.-Gen. Alex Ross, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, declared in an address to members of the Military Institute yesterday.

"I am not unduly pessimistic but I am endeavoring to face facts," he said. The average ex-serviceman was now 46 years old and seriously handicapped in entering the labor market. Of Canada's 70,000 pensioners, more than 60,000 were in receipt of less than 40 per cent compensation, which was insufficient to provide a fair standard of living, he declared.

In Great Britain, the British Legion with the backing of officers and men of all grades of society, had in the last three years undertook the problem of securing the maximum of profitable occupation for the veteran and achieved great results. "In the year ending last October," General Ross said, "they were able to announce they had found permanent employment for 39,000 men."

He appealed for action by ex-servicemen, officers and leaders of business and industry to give concerted effort to the problem.

13 Pistols Are Stolen From U.S. Armory

WARSAW, Ind., May 3 (A.P.)—Thirteen .45 calibre pistols were missing from the National Guard Armory here yesterday, but whether they have been added to the armament of the fugitive John Dillinger, who obtained several bullet proof vests at the local police station April 13, was a question on which police declined to speculate.

Whoever stole the weapons walked into an unlocked door, went through open club rooms in the front of the Armory, and broke open an inner door to reach the arsenal.

Edward Felter, custodian, discovered the loss when he arrived to close the building last night.

In addition to the pistols, field glasses, compasses and watches were taken by the thief.

LINDSAY WATERS ARE PATROLLED

Extra Men Are Put on to Halt Slaughter of Game Fish.

ONE ARREST MADE.

LINDSAY, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — R. D. Winters, Fish and Game Overseer, has secured the appointment of several permanent men to aid in the patrolling of the waters in this district with a view to stamping out the slaughter of game fish, which is bringing undesirable publicity as well as harm to our waters as an attraction for tourists. These new officials are from Parry Sound, Listowel and Kinmount. Warning that game fish will be protected by every means that the Provincial Government can employ was given in the police court yesterday when a local man named Mastion was fined $20 and costs for having maskinonge caught out of season. The fish was found in the possession of the man by Overseers Windsor, of Lindsay, and Scott, of Kinmount. Mr. Windsor told of one man who was formerly employed by the government to protect game and fish who assisted the poachers by towing their boat.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education Monday night, Dr. Amos, of the Department of Education, addressed the Board relative to the establishment of Auxiliary Classes in Lindsay. These classes would be made up of students from the different schools who do not progress as fast as the other members of the classes and as a result are a deterrant to the other pupils.

The death is announced al Calgary of a former resident of Lindsay district in the person of Conductor Samuel Kirkland. The deceased, who was in his sixtieth year, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkland, of Woodville. Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, one daughter, two brothers and one sister.

Reginald Barton, a prominent young resident of Kinmount, was presented with a farewell address by the members of the United Church in that village on the eve of his departure for Havelock, where he will reside in future. The address was read by Principal Groat, of the Continuation School. Mr. Barton was very active in church work while a resident of Kinmount.

The funeral took place in Galway Township, Peterborough County, on Monday of Maurice Allen, a well known resident of that section. The deceased, who was in his sixty-fifth year, was born in Galway Township, his parents being pioneer residents. He was one of a family of ten. There is left to mourn his loss his wife, three sons, five sisters and four brothers. Requiem Mass was chanted at Kinmount Catholic Church by Rev. Father Butler, interment taking place in the Galway cemetery.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

LOW GRADE ORE PRODUCERS ARE LET OFF FREE

25 Per Cent. Assessed on Premium in Price Over and Above $20.67.

DEDUCT INCOME TAX.

Only Companies Paying Dividends Prior to January '33 Affected.

OTTAWA, May 3 (C.P.). —Canadian gold mines now know the extent to which they will have to contribute to the Dominion Treasury from their new-found profits due to the recent rise in the price of gold. Changes in the gold tax originally annouced in Budget speech by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, were revealed yesterday by Premier R. B. Bennett.

Instead of a straight 10 per cent. levy on the value of all gold delivered to the Mint the tax will be a 25 per cent. levy on the premium on gold, that is on the amount by which the price of the yellow metal exceeds the statutory price of $20.67 an ounce. The present price is approximately $35.

Mines which did not pay dividends prior to the beginning of 1933 and are not now paying any dividends will be exempt from the tax. This will let the operators in low grade ore who have been enabled to carry on owing to the recent high price go free and will also set free the mines developing at the present time.

Deduct Income Tax

Another aspect of the new tax is that mines will be allowed to deduct the amount they pay in corporation income tax from the gold tax. This will be of benefit to the larger, old-established producers.

The aid of the tax is to get at the enhanced profit accruing from the new high prices. It was for this reason mines not paying dividends prior to 1933 were exempted. It was in that year the price shot upwards and so the tax will bear on those mines which were able to make profits and pay dividends at the old price of gold and to whom the new prices brought added returns.

As is in the case of the tax as first announced it will not operate to make the return to the mines less than $30 an ounce.

The tax is expected to produce a revenue of about $9,000,000 and to replace the loss brought about by the reduction of the sugar tax from two cents a pound to one.

DOMINION SUED

NO COALITION FOR LIBERALS IN OLD COUNTRY

Party Regards Labor as One of Two Reactionary Groups.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Unification of Liberal Groups Regarded as Urgent Need.

(By George Hambleton—C.P. Staff Writer).

BOURNEMOUTH England, May 3 (C.P. Cable).—No coalition with Lab, was the keynote as Ramsay Muir from the presidential chair to-day opened the annual national conference of the Liberal Party.

Mincing no words, Mr. Muir declared, "The only safe course for a body of definite beliefs like ours is that, come what may, we shall stand for our beliefs."

The 800 delegates cheered. Mr. Muir was emphatic that to order Liberals to retire in favor of Labor was party suicide. He refused to look upon the Labor Party as an advanced progressive wing. On the contrary, he regarded Labor as one of the two parties of reaction against Liberalism.

Co-operation Possible.

There might be co-operation on certain lines but the great dividing line remained on public ownership and control of the essential means of production.

"Can we accept public ownership of all means of production? Can we?" he demanded of the assembled delegates.

"No," came the swift reply.

"There are those who tell us the time has come for a great radical party, and to drop the silly old name Liberal," he continued. "I love the name Liberal. It expresses an outlook, an attitude, a state of mind. Radicalism means tearing up things by the roots and making sweeping changes. Hitler is the biggest Radical in Europe to-day, for he is the man making the biggest changes."

Liberal and Labor fusion was impracticable, he repeated. He described as "most dangerous" Labor's proposal to nationalize the Bank of England and the main deposit banks. It would create such a state of panic as would mean infinite damage. The Liberals' job was to see that the country had an alternative between Socialism on the one hand and Fascism on the other.

Sees Divided Ranks.

Yet the official view did not pass unchallenged. Alfred Morrison, Brighton delegate, declared the Liberal statement of policy was Radicalism out and out. Nobody knew what Liberalism meant, he complained.

"If you say you are a Liberal," he added, "people ask whether you are a Simonite Liberal or a Samuelite Liberal or a Lloyd George Liberal, and nobody knows."

Spirits revived as Mrs. Hartley of Bradford added that what the Liberal Party needed was for David Lloyd George, now leading little more than his own family group, and Sir Herbert Samuel, Opposition Liberal leader, to shake hands.

"We want Lloyd George," she was positive, and cheering reminiscent of the days gone by shook the hall.

The conference, before considering the report which condemns the Empire trade pacts, turned to discuss Liberal finance and policy, but as the speakers surveyed a world of growing dictatorships the proceedings rang with notes of gloom.

FEAR IBN SAUD MAY PUSH WAR

British quarters said they feared he migh be inspired to extend his power among all Arabic peoples east of Egypt.

The British have direct control of Aden, Hadhramaut, Koweit, and large areas in Southern and Eastern Arabia. The control of Aden was only recently negotiated with the Imam and official quarters indicated that Great Britain was ready to use force to maintain order.

Whether Ibn Saud should be disposed to honor the pact signed by the ruler whom he appears to have toppled from power, appeared a question of the utmost concern.

May Be "Holy War."

Reports also came that the Iman Yahya of Yemen would attempt to rally his forces by calling upon all Moslems to join him in a "jihad" (holy war) against Ibn Saud.

Most Arabians appeared, however, to regard the fight between the tribal monarchs as a private dispute, and there appeared little chance that much outside support would be given to either.

The precautionary movement of the Penzance was regarded as a part of an official indication that Great Britain is ready to take action to defend the frontiers for which she is responsible if Ibn Saud's triumphant advance into Yemen inspires a greater Arabian movement.

Great Britain already has taken other steps to protect British life and property in the fighting area which thus far has been restricted to south-west Arabia.

Another sloop is standing by at Aden.

SPY-CATCHERS BUSY IN FRANCE

Seek to Trace Leaks in Closely-guarded Military Secrets.

FOLLOW KRAUSS TRAIL.

By STUART MORONEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

PARIS, May 3.—(A.P.)—France's best spy-catchers worked feverishly in the historic citadel at Belfort to-day in an effort to trace the leaks in her closely-guarded military secrets.

They bent their efforts particularly toward following the trail of Stanislaus Krauss, former Polish army officer, who was arrested yesterday as a German spy.

At the same time, however, a force of detectives and secret police were investigating the activities at this fortified town near the Franco-German frontier of Captain Froge of the French army, accused of having been Krauss' accomplice.

The army officer's lawyers demanded an immediate hearing for Froge to-day. They declared it was "suspicious" that a new witness had been aligned against him just when French operatives were on the point of concluding he was not involved in the asserted plot. plot.

In announcig the arrest of the officer yesterday after they said Kraus had confessed Captain Froge sold him $6,500 worth of military secrets for Germany, police revealed they had been ready to exonerate Froge of charges previously lodged against him when the new accusations were raised.

CANDDATES TO BE INTERVIEWED

point out. Local temperance workers believe that both political parties have greatly over-estimated the strength of the political appeal for the wine and beer measure.

"In the last election," it was stated to-day, "the Conservative party was returned to power under the plea that government control really represented a temperance measure in as much as it was claimed that it would give better control than was possible under prohibition. Thousands of temperance voters accepted this opinion and voted accordingly. In the approaching campaign it is believed that the issue is entirely different. Those who supported the government measure in the last election are not inclined to believe that the present measure represents temperance sentiment in any respect, temperance workers claim. Instead, they are convinced that it constitutes a great lowering of the bars and a long step towards returning to the conditions which prevailed before prohibition was instituted. In view of the fact that both political leaders have taken the stand they have, it has been decided by the provincial organization that candidates of both political parties shall be asked whether or not they will favor the proposed wine and beer measure being submitted to a vote of the people before it is enacted into law. Already a considerable number of candidate throughout the Province have agreed to do this, and it is intended to see that this principle is followed in the Peterborough riding."

County Convention

At yesterday's meeting arrangements were made for a large riding convention to be held at which prominent residents of the riding will express their views and the organization of a riding association will be completed.

"In view of the fact that all the rural municipalities of the Peterborough riding voted by large majorities in favor of local option and that every vote taken in the City of Peterborough upon local option was carried by a considerable majority, although it was short of the three-fifths majority then required, it is believed that the temperance sentiment in the Peterborough riding is going to prove an important factor in the approaching election," The Examiner was told.

A strong delegation, composed mainly of Conservatives, will wait on the Conservative candidate as soon as possible after he has been nominated at next week's convention. The Liberal candidate already has been interviewed and a statement concerning his views will be made at the same time the announcement is made as to the views of the Conservative candidate.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.).—Three hundred of the 440 head of cattle still remained unsold on the Toronto livestock market this afternoon and with all buyers off the floor, it appeared likely that a number would have to be held over for next week. The few head sold went steady at the week's decline. Off truck hogs were the only grade on the market and they sold 10 cents lower at $8. Packers were bidding $7.50 f.o.b. for bacons on week-end deliveries. The price was down 25 cents. Hog receipts were 100 head.

Common to medium weighty steers sold from $4.50 to $5, with a few good steers at $5.50. Butcher cattle ranged from $4.50 to $4.85, with a few common down to $2.50 to $4. Fresh receipts totalled 40 head. Calves under a run of 150 head sold unchanged, $3 to $4.25 for plain vealers.

Livestock Quotations.

Cattle, calf, sheep and lamb quotations remain unchanged.

Hogs, off car basis, selects, $1 premium; bacons, $8.40; butchers, $1 discount; heavies, $1.50 discount; lights and feeders, $1 discount; sows $5.40.

INSURANCE MEN MEET IN CITY

Large Gathering Dines at Empress and Meets at "Y" For Sales Congress.

PRESIDENT DELAYED.

Over eighty life insurance men, representative of the Peterborough and district branches of the Dominion Life Underwriters' Association gathered in the city to-day to participate in a sales congress and to do honor to their Dominion president A. D. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson, whose scheduled address on "Taking Stock" had been eagerly anticipated by the life underwriters, was prevented from being present at the luncheon at Empress Hotel on account of engine trouble which delayed his arrival here. He spoke later in the afternoon, however, at the sales congress held at the Y.M.C.A., along with other prominent men in the insurance world, including G. Fay Davies, assistant general manager of the Northern Life Company.

W. C. McCreery Presides

W. C. McCreery, president of the Peterborough branch of the Association, presided at the luncheon and also at the afternoon sessions, while the luncheon meeting at the hotel was addressed by A. Gordon Nairn, B.A., B.C.L., Dominion supervisor, and by C. C. Johnson, chief agency officer, in the Provincial Department of Insurance.

In his remarks as chairman, Mr. McCreery expressed extreme pleasure at the large turnout of life underwriters, and hoped that the sales congress to be held during the afternoon would be productive of great benefit to all concerned.

Mr. Nairn, in the course of his address touched upon the continual effort that was being made by the L.U.A. to raise the standard of the business of selling insurance.

He believed that the growing spirit of co-operation between the members of the association and the companies which they represented was evidence of a widening realization of what the association was trying to do in the interests of the life insurance business as a whole.

Proper Type of Men

"The association has been trying in every way possible," he said, "not only to assist in the co-operation between life insurance representatives and the various companies, but in seeing that the selling of life insurance is done by the proper type of men, and that the public by that means are give a proper picture of life insurance as a whole."

He stressed the importance of companies engaging the proper type of men to sell life insurance, and spoke of the desirability of weeding out men from the profession who might be guilty of unethical practices.

Mr. Nairn also spoke of the Life Underwriters' Association as being an organization that was tending to keep the selling of life insurance "on the highest possible plane." The association is a necessity," he felt, "and if you do not take advantage of its benefits then you are the loser."

Predicts Expansion

He believed that the life insurance business was on the threshold of great expansion, and he urged the necessity of those engaged in the business to equip themselves to serve the public to the fullest extent. He anticipated great increase in the sale of pension and annuity policies.

Mr. Johnston spoke of the co-operation of the government department which he represented and the life undewriters, and felt with the previous speaker that the association was an organization that deserved highest commendation in its effort to raise the standard of the life insurance business.

He also touched upon some slight changes in insurance legislation that had been effected as a result of the work of the association, whereby rebating and "switching" of insurance policies is now punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

Vote of Thanks

A cordial vote of thanks to the speakers was voiced by Lionel W. Scott, branch manager, Imperial Life Assurance Company, and seconded by N. J. Wootten, manager for Central Ontario Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

Mr. Wootten also made announcement that the next meeting of the local branch of the association, on May 21, is to be held in conjunction with the Rotary Club, when a prominent life underwriter would be guest speaker.

THE RELIEF SITUATION.

With so many new road projects opening up in this district and with the already established road camps operating on a different basis, a considerable improvement in the relief situation should be effected within a short time.

The camps that have hitherto been carrid on as a relief undertaking are now on a new basis, and they, together with the road contracts that have been let, should take up considerable of the slack in unemployment in this section.

Heads of families will have an opportunity to secure employment on these road construction enterprises, and it should be possible therefore to eliminate a good many names from relief lists as a consequence.

Municipal authorities are to furnish the Government with the names of men available for this work, and they will undoubtedly give those who have long been without employment an early chance to secure jobs, the allocation to be made by an official of the Department of Labor, who is shortly to open an office at Havelock.

With jobs soon to be available for many at present without work, municipal relief organizations should find a much reduced demand for assistance, for these employment possibilities should eliminate a considerable proportion of those now being helped.

CLEAN-UP WEEK.

The objects to be served by Peterborough's clean-up, paint-up, give-a-man-a-job campaign next week are entirely praiseworthy, and the effort should have the whole-hearted and loyal support of the whole community.

In the first place, a general compliance with the appeal that is to be made will put this city in immaculate condition for the summer season; in other words, Peterborough, like good housewives everywhere, will have her spring cleaning effectively done, and will put on her best bib and tucker to welcome the army of visitors that summer weather invariably brings.

If lawns and gardens and yards are thoroughly tidied and the many painting and repair jobs that have been demanding attention have been looked after, there will be a wonderful transformation in the appearance of the city.

These operations, in the second place, will mean work for many of the city's unemployed, not only those on the relief list, but the many others who, although in the border line because of a long period of enforced idleness, have managed to eke out an existence without public help.

And third, a general clean-up will make Peterborough safer from two important viewpoints: in the matter health and in the reduction of fire hazards.

In short, this city can be made healthier, safer, more beautiful and more prosperous if the spirit of the campaign is caught by the citizens generally.

MUNICIPAL TAX ARREARS.

The Examiner quoted the other day from the annual report of the Citizens' Research Institute some interesting comment upon the subject of balanced budgets.

In the same report Dr. Brittain also paid some attention to the very important matter of municipal tax arrears, and his views thereon are well worth general consideration.

According to Dr. Brittain, many municipalities have got into trouble by making annually no reserve or inadequate reserve for uncollectable taxes.

That is, some municipal councils have regarded the tax levy as revenue, ignoring the perfectly obvious fact that part of such revenue would never be collected.

Such budgets were not balanced because revenues were over-estimated.

The result was that tax arrears accumulated to such an extent that in some cases legislative authority had to be obtained to fund the tax arrears, which is really the funding of debts, and in other cases the municipal revenue declined to such a level that money could not be borrowed either through debentures or otherwise, thus forcing default in principal or interest, or both.

"The very evident fact of the matter," says Dr. Brittain, "is that under present conditions not only should adequate reserves for uncollectable taxes be set up but generous provision should be made on account of the slow collection of taxes."

This, of course, would enable municipalities to consider as estimated revenue current funds which are actually collectable in the current year, and to limit appropriations to this conservatively estimated revenue.

That would certainly seem the only way to keep municipalities from living beyond their means.

TACTICS THAT DO NOT HELP.

It is difficult to see how the condition of the unemployed in Peterborough is going to be helped by publicly-voiced attacks upon the mayor, the City Council, the Relief Board, the clothing bureau, the Red Cross and the churches, by abuse in short of all the agencies that are endeavoring to take care of victims of the depression.

Self-constituted champions of citizens on relief and who at the most do not speak for anything more than a small fraction of the total are doing the people they profess to be striving to assist an ill-service indeed in following such tactics, which if persisted in cannot fail to dry up the willingness to help that has hitherto characterized relief administration in Peterborough.

The sooner this fact is realized, and the sooner, too, it is generally appreciated that relief measures were never intended to take the place of the weekly pay envelope, the better it will be for the whole community in general and for those on the relief lists in particular.

Rather than spending their time abusing the relief authorities and endeavoring to dig deeper into the public treasury, these self-appointed leaders would be better advised to devote their attention to the possibility of them helping themselves, if only in the direction of working a relief garden.

As for the suggestion of the visiting spokesman that a branch of the Canadian Labor Defense League should be formed here and that A. E. Smith should be brought to Peterborough for an address, The Examiner can see in neither of these plans anything that will improve conditions for the unemployed.

Linking up with a movement headed by a leader whose avowed ambition is the establishment of a Soviet Canada is not a way out that will commend itself to the people of Peterborough. There is no Red sentiment here, and any attempt to transplant Communism into this part of Ontario will show that there is no soil here in which such a rank weed can grow.

SOMEBODY MUST BE GETTING THE BENEFIT.

During the month of March Canada's exports were up 57 per cent., her imports up 44 per cent. This over March a year ago. In the circumstances, it is hard to understand the pessimists who say that recovery is slow. Actually, considering world conditions, we appear to be getting back to prosperity at a rate that is extraordinary. During March, April and May of last year things seemed desperate. In April trade was down 29 per cent.. in May 8 per cent., in June 3 per cent. July brought a turn of the tide, and since then there has been a remarkable advance, so much so that despite the losses of the first three months the close of the fiscal year saw our 1933 trade better the 1932 record by $132,000,000. This not counting exports of gold.

Somebody must be benefiting. When this trade is going on, and when the index of the physical volume of business, involving forty-five economic factors, including products of our factories, mineral products, electrical power, car-loadings and construction contracts, show a betterment of 29 per cent. over last year, then only one conclusion is possible. It is that there must be more work, more wages, more money in the pockets of more people.

Movement of railway revenue freight is the best possible measurement of a country's business. In the first three months of this year—January, February, March—the gain in cars of freight over the same period last year was 95,000—23 per cent. And this gain was made despite the fact that grain movement declined. The freight was to and from our mines and factories. Exports and imports.

Take productive activity in individual industries. In February (March figures are not yet available) pig iron production increased 100 per cent.; steel production 369 per cent.; newsprint production 38 per cent.; imports of raw wool and yarn 143 per cent.; raw cotoin imports 84 per cent.; exports of boards and planks 178 per cent.; construction contracts 72 per cent.

These figures mean something. Just what they mean is found in the fact that out of 79 important companies, making returns of their earnings, 64 reported net profits of $61,500,000 after all charges, against $47,000,000 the previous year, while the remaining 15 companies reduced their deficits from $8,600,000 to $7,100,000. As a result, the index of employment rose from 76.9 to 92.7, with an estimate of 250,000 more people at work than one year ago.

No amount of pessimism can change these facts. Canada is not yet out of the storm, and there are some rough seas ahead, but the worst of the tempest has been weathered, and the old craft is safe and sound. Another year of progress such as we have just made, and we may be well back to where we were four years ago, and a lot wiser to boot.—Ottawa Journal.

IT SHOULD COME OUT.

The Opposition Budget amendment in its indefinite nature offers another reason why the man on the street is becoming "fed up" with the political game and to sigh for more business and less partyism in the conduct of public affairs.

This resolution after condemning the government's policy of "economic nationalism" continues thusly.

It (the House) is of the opinion the immediate substitution therefore of policies which will promote export trade throughout the world is essential to any permament improvement of conditions in Canada and the successful application of other policies respecting credit and employment designed to effectthat end."

Now that is a high sounding paragraph, but it does not stand up well under close inspection.

Everybody knows that there is need of policies which will promote export trade throughout the world, but unfortunately nobody here or elsewhere seems to be able to hit upon the formula that will solve the problem and start the nations merrily trading with each other again.

We are inclined to think that if the authors of this Budget amendment really have policies that would revive universal trade, their solution would be enthusiastically received by the Governments of the world, all of whom seem to be powerless to find the right answer.

It would be a pity indeed to have the remedy for the depression remain buried in the brain of the opposition at Ottawa, while millions all around the globe are impatiently awaiting the way out.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough's May Day "demonsration" failed to develop any sensational features. Not a single Red flag or a radical banner was in sight.

STORM DRIFT

By ETHEL M. DELL

CHAPTER 54

Harvey turned sharply in the streaming road and made a dash for shelter into an old cart shed, used by Joe Penny as a garage. Here in the dimness, with the rain pattering on the corrugated iron roof, he faced round.

"Now for it!" he said. "Square your shoulders, man! That's—Norman!"

"Who?" said Tiggie.

Harvey shook him angrily by the arm. "Don't be a fool! There's no time. He's come after you—don't you see?—you and Viola!"

"Ah!" Tiggie said. It was more of a deep breath than an exclamation. He stood face to face with Harvey, very square and resolute. "Well?" he said. I'm ready for him. Why didn't you let me deal with him straight away?"

"Thought you'd make a mess of things," growled Harvey.

"Why should I?" said Tiggie.

"Well, it mayn't be as simple as you think. The man's a scoundrel. He's out for something. What?" There was agitation in Harvey's voice; his whole form was quivering with excitement.

"Money probably," said Tiggie.

"Yes, money. And for what? To keep his mouth shut." Harvey's hand still gripped his arm impressively.

"Don't see the force of it," said Tiggie. "Are you sure it's Norman?"

Harvey groaned. "Are you doing it on purpose, or just to gain time? Yes, I am sure—dead sure. He got in a few minutes ago, just before I did, and I saw them off-load his bags. Then I ran up against him inside, and he tackled me about you. He's gone off to look at the visitors' book now. He'll find your name all right, but not hers. Look here! We must keep him away from her at all costs."

"Well, of course!" said Tiggie. "That's my job."

Harvey's hand shook his arm with nervous force. "And you think that's going to be easy? Oh, why did I let you write that tom fool letter to her brother the night we got here? That's what's done the mischief."

"Wait a bit!" said Tiggie. "He can't have heard of that letter in India."

"No, I know that. But he'd changed his mind about her, can't you see? Jumped to the conclusion he'd find her at her brother's, came posting home, and then was presented with the information that she'd gone off with you. Oh, it's as plain as a pikestaff!" almost wailed Harvey. "If you'd only kept quiet, he wouldn't have known where to look."

"That's nonsense!" said Tiggie curtly. "I'd nothing to hide. Why should I?"

"Nothing to hide!" echoed Harvey. "And even the Spots don't know!"

"They don't matter," said Tiggie.

He was determined to view this sudden emergency undismayed. If the fellow had come to try to exhort money, well, he was ready for him. If for any other reason—something knocked at the door of his heart here to which he resolutely refused to listen; there could be no other reason. Money was everything in this world. It was all probably a deep-laid scheme to obtain it. There was nothing to panic about. Viola was safe under his protection, and he would keep the schemer at bay.

"Well, what are you going to do?" said Harvey.

Strangely, though he had maintained so calm a front a little earlier, he was now far the more agitated of the two. It was as if Tiggie's composure had a disquieting effect upon him. It certainly did not inspire him with confidence.

"I'm going first to say good night to Viola," said Tiggie, "or she'll be worrying. By the way, is Spot back?"

"No. He's staying on at Thorley for a few days unless he's wanted. Like him sent for?" asked Harvey uneasily.

"No, thanks. I'll run my own show," said Tiggie quietly. "Don't you worry, old chap! He won't get past me. You can tell him I'm the man he's looking for. I shall be back in half an hour."

"D'you really mean that?" said Harvey. "D'you know what you're going to do?"

"I shall know," said Tiggie steadily.

Harvey stared at him for a moment or two while the rain hammered on the roof and the darkness increased.

"Well," he said at last, "I'll stand by anyway, just in case you're not quite as clever as you think you are."

He spoke half-defiantly, as though he suspected Tiggie of trying to drive him away. But Tiggie's hand came out to him on the instant and grasped his own, dispelling all doubt on that score.

"Thanks awfully, old chap! I always count on you," he said.

No one ever dressed for dinner at "The Sea Lion". Joe Penny's guests were not as a rule of the type that possesses dress clothes, excepting the artists aforementioned, who would have forgotten to put them on even if they had remembered to pack them.

But Harvey was the only artist now staying at Farne, and he would have scorned to wear any clothes at all that did not minister to his physical comfort, just as he scorned the daily shave which most men regarded as one of the necessaries of life.

He had grown considerably shaggier of late, as he never had a moment to waste on his personal appearance when driven by the fiery goad of his genius. For several days he had not presented himself at dinner at all, and Joe Penny smiled broad approbation upon him as he brought in the soup.

"Bad weather had its uses, sir," he observed. "You'll have time to get a little good food into you before it lifts."

Harvey growled at him, "I shall murder someone if it doesn't."

And Joe Penny laughed comfortably at the joke and passed on.

The stranger sat at a small table in a corner by himself. His rusty-gray eyes watched the door. He had not addressed a word to Harvey since his entrance. And Harvey, with his brows drawn down like shutters protecting his soul, did not present an aspect to encourage any overtures.

Joe Penny hovered about the stranger for a space, but received no civility for so doing. The few tentative remarks he made were treated with contemptuous silence. Eventually he withdrew to fetch the fish.

The clergyman and his wife entered during his absence and took their places at the further end of Harvey's table which occupied the middle of the room. They had been tramping the hills in the wet and had evidently managed to derive considerable enjoyment therefrom. Their cheery conversation trickled through the silence like a chattering stream.

Joe Penny returned, bringing their soup, but he was evidently under orders not to linger, for he departed again precipitately.

The clergyman looked round the table. "Captain Turner not here yet! I hope he is none the worse for yesterday's adventure."

His wife looked towards Harvey, but found it impossible to penetrate the drawn shutters. "Mr. Penny said he was all right," she remarked.

The stranger made a sharp movement as though he were listening to them, but they said no more upon the subject, and he resumed his watch upon the door.

Joe Penny was bringing in the fish when Tiggie arrived, entering with his usual quiet tread and surveying his fellow-guests without a trace of anxiety.

"Afraid I'm late," he said to the landlord. "Don't bring back the soup for me! Where've you got to? Fish? I'll go on from there."

He seated himself beside Harvey with a smile towards the other diners at the same table. His look did not go so far as the man in the corner.

The clergyman raised his voice. "We are pleased to see you, Captain Turner. We were afraid you might have developed a chill after last night's unpleasant experience."

"No, I'm all right, thanks," said Tiggie. "I don't chill very easily."

The stranger's eyes had closely marked his progress from the door and now they fastened upon him with deliberate intentness. They might have been the eyes of a trapper watching his intended victim drawing near to the mouth of a trap.

Harvey barely glanced up as Tiggie joined him. He merely pushed the whisky bottle towards him, a mute invitation of which Tiggie did not avail himself.

The meal proceeded, and once more the clergyman and his wife maintained the conversation between themselves the dividing space being too great for Tiggie to be drawn in. When the meat course was withdrawn, Harvey abandoned all pretense of eating, and sat looking like a hungry wolf biding his time. But Tiggie continued to eat, showing no signs of strain.

The man in the corner still watched him with an intent and measuring gaze, while he disposed of his own meal, his dark face full of a smouldering hostility of which Tiggie was quite obviously oblivious.

The clergyman and his wife were the first to move, having been informed by the hospitable Joe that there was a nice fire in the drawing room—a dingy apartment on the first floor which was generally shunned by all visitors.

Their departure left a silence in the room that made the scraping of Tiggie's match sound almost ominous. Yet he did not seem to find it so as he calmly lighted his cigaret and shook out the flame, Harvey mutely refusing to smoke.

Several burdened minutes crept by during which the three men sat as if bound by the stark silence. Then suddenly with a movement of exasperation, Harvey pushed back his chair.

"Have you finished at last?" he said to Tiggie. "Let's go!"

"There was no need for you to wait for me," said Tiggie mildly. "Where shall we go to?"

He rose, and immediately the stranger did the same and crossed the room to intercept him.

"Excuse me! Am I speaking to Captain Turner?" he said.

His voice held a challenge that provoked a fiery gesture from Harvey, though Tiggie met it with unruffled as urance.

"Yes, my name is Turner," he said.

"I thought so"—there was open hostility in the rejoinder—"though your friend here tried to throw dust in my eyes a little while back. Where can I speak to you alone?"

"Nowhere!" cut in Harvey, breathing out the word as though he exhaled fire. "He isn't in the habit of granting private interviews to complete strangers."

Tiggie quietly intervened. "Let me introduce my brother-in-law—Mr. Gilmore!" he said. "I don't think I've ever met you before, have I?"

The courtesy of his speech had a calming effect for the moment. Harvey, as if taken by surprise, subsided with a growl. The stranger, also surprised, surveyed Tiggie's red, good-natured countenance as if he half suspected some mistake.

"My name's Norman," he said. "You are Captain Turner, you say?"

"Yes, I'm Turner," said Tiggie. "What do you want to say to me?"

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, WINNIPEG

On this date, in 1871, an act of the Manitoba Legislature incorporated St. John's College. This was a civil recognition of the institution founded in 1865 by Bishop Anderson, the first bishop of Rupert's land. He had been in his diocese only a few years before he realized that education must go hand in hand with religion and when he visited England in 1856 to arrange for plans for the first St. John's cathedral, he at the same time urged upon the church societies the need for a college. He had, soon after his arrival in 1849, started St. Cross school for girls and had himself taught in the boys' school, known as the Red River Academy. He is said, one day, when looking at the little buildings, to have expressed a hope that there would soon be a large college for the training of men for the ministry, to which he would give the name St. John's College, with the motto: "In Thy light we shall see light." In his charge in 1856 he was able to say: "At St. John's a school of trustees has been established who will act as guardians of the property connected with the Collegiate school. Books now bear the stamp, decide and motto of St. John's College."

After his departure the college fell on evil days, but it was revived in 1866 by Bishop Machray with Rev. John McLean, afterwards Bishop of Saskatchewan, as its warden. It re-opened with three students in theology, the forerunner of the hundreds who have since been trained there for church extension in the great west. St. John's College has indeed been the cradle of many missionaries and is revered by all Anglicans throughout Canada.

THE BROWSER

Read F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Tender Is the Night" and it will stay with you for many a day....It may for all you know, linger with you forever till the last breath of all, till the frailest wisp of a thought stirs in your brain....It is like no other novel you have ever read. But it may, indeed, be like your own life. So much like it that you may even recognise yourself and other people in the richness of its pages....There used to be a teacher of narrative in San Francisco who told his pupils they must always write of life ascending. His pupils did and many of them sold their stories...But "Tender Is the Night" is NOT life ascending. It is life descending, fading, disintegrating, falling into ruins. But nevertheless a memorable one and one of which its creator will never be ashamed.. "Tender Is the Night" sounds like some words out of a Gertrude Stein poem. But don't be misled, it is a quotation from Keats' "Ode to a Nightingale"....As the Browser read it, he found himself turning down corner after corner of page after page, saying to himself, "I must remember that." And just now, as he held the book before him he found that he must have turned corner on at least 50 pages....Abe North is drunk and insisting that he has a moral code. "Of course I've got one. A man can't live without a moral code. Mine is that I'm against the burning of witches. Whenever they burn a witch I get all hot under the collar." He was drunk, "with the exquisite manners of the alcoholic that are like the manners of a prisoner or a family servant"....Dr. Dick Diver is told that he has lovely manners. He says gently, "My politeness is a trick of the heart." And, again, he says: "Good manners are an admission that everybody is so tender that they have to be handled with gloves."....And many more... It is a sad story. Of a man who tossed aside as carelessly, as emotionlessly as if he were a burnt-out match....And it's strange how closey it resembles in external scene Phyllis Bottome's "Private Worlds" and how fundamentally different it is. Hers is a psychiatric hospital, so is Fitzgerald's. Her principle character is a woman doctor. She is telling you how madness and sanity are akin and interminglied; he tells you how a man was entangled and ruined....And the Browser hopes that Phyllis Bottome will read this and tell him what she thinks of it, if ever he meets her again. He'll probably not have the courage to speak of it first....because, for him, "Tender Is the Night" went ever so much deeper than "Private Worlds."

But after all, "Tender Is the Night" isn't the ONLY book published this year....The Browser knows two little girls, nine and eleven, who have read every word of Lauren Gilfillan's "I Went to Pit College," although they both agree it had a lot of bad words in it. She herself is just a little girl, 22, four and a half feet tall, restless....Alexander Woollcott's articles on "While Rome Burns" are not identical with their originals in the magazines. They sound as if he had restored paragraphs the magazine editors had deleted....Dashiell Hammett's "Thin Man" in book form contains several words and several paragraphs that weren't in the magazine serialisation..and you could hardly blame any editor for putting his pencil through them.... Writers put some things in just to be shocking....From now on no one will ever take a trip into California's Mother Lode country without first reading C. G. Glasscock's "A Golden Highway." It is a fascinatingly indispensible book. The Browser knows some stories that Mr. Glasscock doesn't know, but he knows thousands of others that the Browser doesn't.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

LETHBRIDGE, ALBERTA

The city of Lethbridge owes its name to the formation of a coal company on a large scale. Prior to launching coal operations on a large scale it had been known as Coalbanks.

In 1883 the O.P.R. agreed to take 3,000 tons of coal at a fair price, consequently the North West Coal and Navigation Co., was formed, with William Lethbridge, an Englishman, as president.

The post office for the new town was named Coalhurst, as a small town existed in Ontario by the name of Lethbridge, but confusion resulted as the station, stage, etc., bore the name of Lethbridge, while the place still was known officially as Coalhurst. Resident agitation eventually caused the name of the town to be change to Lethbridge.

The Blackfoot interpretation is "Ashsoysem" or "Steep Banks."

A Thought

TROUBLES

We need never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they have had, all they have now, and all they expect to have. Let us keep cheery. Hopefulness puts energy into the muscles, clears dim eyes, steadies tired nerves, and fits one to do the most and the best of which he is capable. On the other hand, despondency just as certainly saps nerve force and weakens muscles. A little hill becomes a great mountain to the climber with a despondent heart. One sometimes sees in the streets an advertisement which says: "Don't worry, use—" —somebody's soap! The advice I give everybody is "Don't worry, use—Hope!"—Harold Murray.

Unsteadiness on New York Board Inspires Note of Caution at Toronto.

OIL GROUP ACTIVE.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.). — Prices were scaled down narrowly again to-day on the industrial board of the Toronto Stock Exchange with action appearing mainly in some of the distillery issues, the oils and some of the brewery shares. Unsteadiness on the New York board inspired a note of caution here, all the interlisted issues finishing the day on the down side. Consolidated Smelters responded to the new gold tax impost by dropping 3 points.

A steady flow of buying was evident in the oil group and price variations were on the side of the advance. Imperial, McColl Common and North Star were up, and the others unchanged. Walkers Common came out in substantial volume at prices between 35 and 36, the lowest point reached in recent weeks. The close at 35¾ off 1¾. Industrial Alcohol slumped ¾ and Distillers Seagrams unchanged at 18.

MINING LIST HOLDS STEADY

Gold Prices Close Generally Firm With Only Scattered Variations.

BASE METALS STEADY.

TORONTO, May 3 (CP)—The Mining Section of the Toronto Stock Exchange regarded the gold tax and the attending agitation as a matter of history to-day, showing neither approval nor disapproval by definite movement in either direction. The steadiness of prices suggested that the Government announcement, made late yesterday, did not take the market by surprise, but suggested rather that Wednesday's adjustments were based on correct advance information regarding the tax. Gold prices closed generally firm, with only scattered variations. Base Metals and Silver were also steady to strong.

The main ruffle appeared in the secondary gold group, some of which come under the tax provision and some do not. Sylvanite and Siscoe, which will pay the tax, lost ground to the extent of 5 to 8 cents, and Macassa and San Antonio, two issues that escape the tax, lost only a cent or two each. Other issues of the group showed practically no change.

In the senior group, Bralorne, exempt under the tax, closed 50 cents higher at 14.25, while the others, most of them tax payers, dropped 10 to 25.50 cents, including Dome, Hollinger, Pioneer, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves. Lake Shore and McIntyre added about 50 cents each.

$250,000 SPENT IN DEVELOPMENT

Hudson-Patricia Gold Mines Carrying on Extensive Campaign.

Hudson-Patricia Gold Mines, Limited, recently formed wih a capitalization of 2,500,000 shares to take over a group of 26 claims in the Red Lake district of Ontario, is carrying out an extensive campaign of development work. $250,000 has already been expended in earlier surface exploration and underground development. This work covered the sinking of two shafts to depth of 100 and 239 feet, where lateral work was carried out. Drifting on the 150 ft. level from the No. 1 shaft has been extended for a distance of 300 feet while considerable tonnage of commercial ore has been placed on the dump. On surface, the No. 2 vein which lies about 300 feet south of the No. 2 shaft, has been uncovered for a length of 50 feet. The Spence vein on which considerable work has been done to date, lies some 1000 feet north of the No. 2 shaft. The property is fully equipped with a complete mining plant, including steam power generator, compressor, assay plant and all necessary tools and machinery. It is expected that a contract with the Hydro Electric Power Commission will be made, assuring the company of ample power to carry on all developments.

An offering of 500,000 treasury shares of Hudson-Patricia Gold Mines is being made to the public, the funds from which will be spent on the property to bring it to the production stage.

500,000 SHARES of

Hudson-Patricia
GOLD MINES LIMITED

NO PERSONAL LIABILITY

PATRICIA DISTRICT: The properties of the Hudson-Patricia Gold Mines, Ltd., lie in the heart of the Red Lake Mining Division of Northwestern Ontario, immediately adjoining Clearwater or Confederation Lake on the West and between that body of water and Woman Lake. Neighbouring gold mines now producing or about to install milling machinery, include the famous HOWEY, JACKSON-MANION and CASEY SUMMIT, and at a not remote distance, the CENTRAL PATRICIA and PICKLE CROW properties.

PROPERTIES: The company's property comprises 26 patented claims covering about 1,140 acres, most of which are heavily mineralized and wooded and according to engineers' reports contain highly valuable gold ore deposits. A plentiful supply of timber is available for extension of existing mine workings and other needs in connection with active further development of the properties.

EXTRACTS FROM ENGINEERS' REPORTS: COLIN A. CAMPBELL, M.E., Superintendent of Barry Hollinger Mines, Ltd., in a letter under date of February 14, 1934, referring to the Hudson-Patricia Gold Mine Properties, wrote: "I have classed it as one of the major discoveries in the district—the present price of gold makes it a most attractive property."

From the report of JOHN C. ROGERS, Consulting Geologist and Mining Engineer, dated January 18, 1934: "As the property now stands, disregarding its No. 2 vein, and the Spence Vein for the present—although they are potential assets—its No. 1 vein has an average back of 70' vertical or 80 slope feet above the 86' level, and a length of 190' average of surface on the 86' level, with a width of 2' 6" and an approximate value of $15.00 per ton, with various sampling results. This value of $15.00 is considered conservative, although a great variation is found in all sampling done, and bulk sampling would be the safest way to average this ore. Possibly bulk sampling would give a higher value. It now seems that the price of gold will be safely maintained at some point between $33.00 and $41.00 per ounce. At the lower figure this would give a value of the ore of $25.50 per ton".

DEVELOPMENT: To date more than $250,000 has been expended by the discoverers and operators in pursuing development work on the company's properties to overcome early hazards. This underwriting provides funds for the necessary further development work and for the installation of the mill. In addition to extensive surface prospecting, rich and sizable gold ore bodies have been uncovered and blocked out in the main ore zone. A two-compartment vertical shaft, designated as shaft No. 2 has been carried to a depth of 239 feet.

The shaft vein has been traced for over a length of 700 feet. At this point it enters an area of Muskeg. The eastern face of the drift on the 100 feet level shows a width of over 4 feet of quarts carrying visible gold and good mineralization.

VALUES: Considerable gold ore of good commercial grade has been taken from the incline shaft (shaft No. 1, which has been sunk to depth of 100 feet and drifted eastward for 300 feet), and channel assays made have shown an average of $25.50 in gold per ton, figuring the market price at $33.00 per fine ounce. This high value would be revised upward if computed on the basis of present market quotation for gold at $35 an ounce. A large quantity of good commercial ore is now on the dump, while ore developed and blocked out is figured to have a value well in excess of $100,000 on the basis of $35 an ounce for gold.
Vein No. 2 referred to in J. C. ROGERS report outcrops in low ground about 300 feet south of No. 2 shaft striking North and South. This vein was uncovered for a length of 50 feet with both ends dipping into Muskeg. JOHN W. MORRISON, Mining engineer sampled over this length and secured an average value of $18.50 across average width of 23 inches. This value taken at $20.00 per ounce.
The Spence vein also referred to shows very spectacular free gold where broken into over a length of approximately 150 feet. Very little work has been done on this vein which lies about 1000 feet north of No. 2 shaft and strikes south.
Values indicated by channel sampling of these veins show them to be important and greatly enchances the potential value of the property.

PLANT EQUIPMENT: The company is completely equipped with an efficient mining plant, including steam power generator, air compressor, hoist, assay plant, powder magazine, complement of drills, and all necessary tools and machinery. Buildings include dwellings for the management personnel at the mine, bunk house to house fifty men, cook house, powder houses, stables, two warehouses, power house, blacksmith shop, all with up-to-date equipment throughout. It is anticipated that the steam plant will be replaced with electric power by agreement with the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

MANAGEMENT: The personnel of both the executive and technical management of the Hudson-Patricia Gold Mines, Ltd., is of the highest character for skill and economical administration. The executive management is headed by some of the foremost mining, legal and administrative authorities in the Dominion. The technical staff is being directed by DR. T. L. GLEDHILL, M.A., PH.D., a mining geologist of outstanding ability and reputation, formerly with the Ontario Department of Mines.

PLOT UNFOLDED TO KILL HITLER

Nazis Say Jews Plan Worst Ritual Murder Ever Witnessed.

ANNIHILATE ARYANS.

(By Walter Brockman A.P. Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, May 3 (A.P.). — Details of a "Jewish plot to murder Adolf Hitler" appeared to-day in an officially-countenanced special edition of the anti-semitic weekly, "The Stormer."

Twelve pages were devoted to discussion of "Jewish Ritual Murder," climaxed with the allegation that world Jewry is planning "the biggest, most gruesome ritual murder aganst Hitler and his followers ever witnessed by the world."

Asserting that Czar Nicholas was a victim of a similar plot, the paper said "the Aryans of the world, the pick of humanity, are to be annihilated.

"That is the wish of all Jewdom, and it has been resolved by the Jewish Kahal (Jewish Secret World Government)."

As chief evidence of the asserted plot, The Stormer cited what was presented as a Jewish New Year post card, dated 1933, which was reproduced showing a sacrificial rooster, swastika-marked, and bearing a picture of the head of Hitler.

BAN ADVERTISING FROM THE RADIO

Labor Congress Official Would Also Cancel Private Stations' License.

MEAN HIGHER FEE.

OTTAWA, May 3 (C.P.)—Cancellation of licenses for private radio stations and elimination of advertising from the air, were proposed to the House Radio Committee yesterday by W. T. Burford, secretary of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor. This would necessitate increasing the license fee to at least $4 but the witness believed it would be a popular move.

The committee decided to hold a meeting in camera to determine whether to hear E. W. Weir, former program manager of the commission and, before that, head of the Canadian National Railways Radio chain.

Onesime Gagnon, Con. Dorchester, objected to Mr. Weir being called because he said he had been "fired" by the commission.

Frank Ahearn, Lib. Ottawan and W. A. Beynon, Cons. Moosejaw agreed the former commission employee should be heard.

Hon. Raymond Morand, the chairman, suggested the committee meet in camera to consider the application.

The all-Canadian labor official objected to the American Federation of Musicians interfering with Canadian musicians seeking broadcasting position in this country.

Licenses for private stations should not be renewed after this year, Mr. Burford submitted, giving the Commission a monopoly throughout the country.

COURT DECISION IN PAYNE WILL IS RESERVED

count in the Bank of Toronto for many years. In March 10, 1928, he closed his account of $4,646.96 and made a joint account with his wife, Addie E. Payne. From the time the joint account was opened up until the time of Mr. Payne's death there was deposited only moneys to the joint account by him.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne had a joint tenancy of a safety deposit box at the bank, and when this box was opened after Mr. Payne's death there was $4,000 in bonds in it. The bonds were two $1,000 City of Toronto bearer bonds and two $1,000 Dominion of Canada bearer bonds.

Cross-examined Mr. Borland said that Mrs. Payne did not enter the safety deposit box until after her husband's death. Nor did she draw any money from the bank until after her husband's death. Afterwards she operated the box and the bank account.

Mr. Gordon filed succession duty inventory of the estate of William K. Payne totalling slightly more than $16,000.

Beryl V. Moore, cashier at the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, produced a certificate showing that on March 15, 1928 W. K. Payne and Addie Payne opened a joint savings account. On July 18, 1931, the acount was $751.30 and it is now $973.86. Mrs. Payne, witness said, has operated the account since her husband's death.

Refused to Sign Off

Wallace J. Dewart, of Dummer Township and nephew of the late W. K. Payne, said that he received no part of the estate of W. K. Payne. In conversation in August, 1931, with Mrs. Addie Payne witness said he was asked by Mrs. Payne to sign off. Witness said he refused to sign off, but told Mrs. Payne that if she would promise to give him his share when she was through he would sign off.

Cross-examined, witness said Levinia Payne had lived with him. The late Mr. Payne was in the habit of visiting witness. He said he owned his own farm and some other properety and Charlotte Dewart, his sister, had money of her own.

Charlotte Dewart, sister of the last witness, said she had received none of the estate of W. K. Payne. In an interview with her brother and Mrs. Addie Payne she and her brother were asked to sign off, but this she refused to do.

This closed the case for the plaintiffs and Mr. Stevenson moved that a sufficiently strong case had not been made out to require any defence. Nothing in evidence to rebutt the equitable presumption that a gift was intended, declared Mr. Stevenson, on that ground asked His Lordship to declare a non-suit.

Motion Not Allowed

Mr. Justice McEvoy decided against Mr. Stevenson's motion and called upon him for the defence.

B. F. Chilton, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here, said that on July 7, 1928, W. K. Payne and his wife opened a joint account in his bank. The account was operated wholly by W. K. Payne, until closed by Addie E. Payne on August 6, 1931.

Mrs. Addie Evelyn Payne, the defendant, said she married her late husband 44 years ago. Her husband was a farmer and continued farming until 1904 when he and witness moved to Peterborough. Listed in the estate she said was $4,500 on the family residence, 84 London street, a mortgage held of $3,500 held on their former farm, and $1,000 mortgage on a house on Dufferin street.

Regarding the four $1,000 bonds which had been placed in a safety deposit box in the Bank of Toronto, Mrs. Payne said her husband had asked her to go to the bank to sign the contract for the joint box "so that if anything happens to me you will get these bonds." Her husband also showed her the box and what she was to do to get the bonds.

Her husband also made her joint with him in his account at the Bank of Toronto and she made him joint with her in her account at the Toronto Savings and Loan. She also made him joint with her in a deposit of $2,100 she made at the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Remedies Stock

In 1929, her car purchased for her by her uncle was turned in with her consent by Mr. Payne for another car and a cheque of $745 for the difference was given. Her husband also purchased $1,000 worth of Gallagher Remedies preferred stock and the shares were taken out in both her husband and her own name, witness said. This stock was purchased from money taken from their joint account in the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Other papers and deeds in connection with her husband's property were kept at Mr. Wearing's office, witness said.

Her husband visited the Dewarts in Dummer Township once or twice a year and they visited him occasionally, witness said.

Mrs. Payne said she brought the estate accounts to the Surrogate Court last fall.

Cross-examined, witness said Wallace Dewart and his sister refused to sign off and they never suggested that Mrs. Payne should have the estate as long as she lived.

Uriah Payne, brother of the late William K. Payne, said he had never been consulted to become a plaintiff and would not have been had he been asked concerning it.

Mr. Payne said that his brother, William, had told him that he and his wife, Addie, had worked hard for what they had and that she was entitled to what he had as much as he was. Witness said he had signed off any claim he had to the estate.

Pulp, Paper Strike Reaches Deadlock

FORT FRANCES, Ont., May 2.—(C.P.).—Negotiations were at a standstill to-day as 3,000 pulp and paper mill employees continued the strike which they began yesterday in an attempt to obtain higher wages and altered working contracts.

The dispute so far has been free from disorders. Strikers idled the time away on Fort Frances streets without causing trouble. Similar strikes occurred in the Thunder Bay area last autumn.

Union heads are asking, besides the pay increase, a 36-hour work week and a year's employment contract at the higher rate of wages. The present basic wages are 35 cents an hour.

The companies involved are the M. and O. Paper Company of International Falls and the Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Company. They were negotiating with the unions until the strike was declared.

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS APPROVED BY MERCHANTS BUT DECISION OF RATEPAYERS NOT OPPOSED branches of the retail trade of the city.

James J. Dorris, secretary-treasurer of the Chamber, outlined the purpose for which the meeting was called, stating, "We do not want to hinder any merchant in the manner of carrying on his business. On the other hand there is the employee to be considered in the matter of the half holiday and the early closing question."

Daylight Saving

W. Chris. Hughes, manager of Grafton's Limited, in opening up the question of Daylight Saving time, remarked upon the number of factories that were working to revised time schedules, and stressed the inconvenience that was being caused to many housewives throughout the city, who were having their families going out and coming in at conflicting times throughout the day.

"I would make a motion," Mr. Hughes declared, "that we advance our time one hour. We need not alter the hands of the clock, but merely open our places of business one hour earlier in the mornings and close one hour earlier in the evening throughout the months of June, July and August."

The motion was seconded by Vern Selkirk of Selkirk's Men's Shop.

Alderman J. D. Fitzpatrick pointed out that so far as the City Council is concerned, "their hands are tied."

"Daylight Saving time was voted down and unless another by-law is put to the people on the question, the Council could not run contrary to the will of the people as expressed last January," Alderman Fitzpatrick pointed out. He felt that no weight could be brought to bear on the Council unless the expenses of putting another by-law to the ratepayers was guaranteed by some organization and was not borne by the ratepayers.

Heads Opposition

E. F. Mason, proprietor of Mason's grocery chain stores, led the opposition, pointing out among other things, that while the manufacturers might like to go on Daylight Saving time, he believed they would be largely influence by what the rest of the city did.

"I do not think it is the place of the merchants to step into this matter to try and make a change against the expressed wish of the people," he stated. Mr. Mason also spoke of the opposition to Daylight Saving that had always been felt by the farmers of the district, and felt that the merchants would lose a lot of rural trade if they decided to operate on Daylight Saving time schedules.

After representatives of the dry goods and shoe trades had spoken against the adoption of daylight saving time, the motion was put to the vote and was carried by a majority of two to one.

A Pertinent Question

"How do those merchants who voted for the motion propose to carry it into effect," Mr. Mason demanded to know. "As the matter stands to-day the council decided and put a by-law through for standard time, and here we have a handful of men against the rest of the citizens. What are we going to do. This is only a small representation of all the merchants."

Ed. Riley of Riley and Hickey Men's Store remarked that according to his information a straw vote had been taken at the C.G.E. plant and 95 per cent of the employees favored daylight saving time. He believed a lot of the manufacturers were waiting to see what the merchants intended doing on the question.

Mr. Hughes—"We should settle the matter here and now, once and for all."

"I take it the matter was settled by the ratepayers on the first of January," one of the opposition retorted.

"The factories are not abiding by the decision," someone else remarked.

Robert Haddow, manager of Heintzman and Company suggesting a way out of the deadlock that appeared to have arisen, said that as 75 per cent of the retailers had expressed themselves as being in favor of daylight saving time, he felt the meeting should go on record to that effect. It might at least afford some guide to the future action of the manufacturers who had not yet decided upon the adoption of time schedules.

At the invitation of the chairman Mr. Haddow put his suggestion in the form of a motion, which was further discussed before being carried at the vote.

Half Holiday

Expressing himself as being in favor of Wednesday half holiday closing during June, July and August, Alderman Fitzpatrick felt there was no one worked longer hours than store employees and particularly those engaged in the grocery trade.

The employer he said was in a position where he could take an occasional day off if he so desired, but he did not feel it was fair to deprive the employees of their half day.

"If we are to have a half day closing, however," the speaker urged, "let us have it applicable to all kinds of retail businesses. At present we have fruit stores remaining open. Fruit stores should close just the same as grocery stores. No line of business should be exempt from closing."

Alderman Fitzpatrick moved that a petition be circulated among all the retailers in the city with a view of having the city council pass a by-law making half day closing during the summer months compulsory upon all retailers. The motion was seconded by W. Arthur Elliott, manager of Barries Ltd., and was carried by a very large majority.

Shopping Hours

James W. Geraghty, partner in the business of Fitzpatrick and Geraghty, grocery chain, also spoke strongly against the long hours which grocery store employees were called upon to work under present conditions.

It was not Christian or civilized, he urged, that employers should take advantage of their employees.

While suggesting that steps should be taken to have all classes of retail businesses close at seven o'clock on ordinary nights and ten o'clock on Saturday nights, Mr. Geraghty charged that at present many places of business are keeping open "till all hours," many of them operating under the guise of ice cream parlors were also selling fruit and groceries. Besides the so-called ice cream parlors he referred to, the speaker, claimed that the greatest offenders are fruit merchants and butchers.

By-law in Effect

Mr. Juby pointed out to the meeting that there is at present a city bi-law in effect requiring the closing of retail stores at seven o'clock in the evenings.

By resolution the meeting decided to seek enforcement of the by-law and to also require uniform closing on Saturday nights at ten o'clock.

Matthew B. Dymond, manager of the A. and P. Store, who stated he had been in the grocery business for fifteen years, said he could speak both as an employer and employee on the question of late hours.

"In all my experience," he remarked gratefully, "I have never heard an employer speak so fairly as Mr. Geraghty."

He remarked upon the "tough time" through which the grocery business had been passing through the past four years, adding "that only makes the kind remarks of Mr. Geraghty all the more impressive."

"As an employee I want to say how much I appreciate his remarks, and as an employer myself, I would remark that anything the merchants of Canada can do to make the working conditions better for their employees will be well repaid in increased service to themselves."

TINY AD TRAPS DANGEROUS SPY

German Offered Loans to French Officers for Defense Plans.

ACCEPTS DECOY CASH.

By STUART MORONEY

(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

PARIS, May 3.—(A.P.)—A veteran German spy and his alleged French accomplice are in prison to-day because the French secret service reads the want ads.

Stanislaus Krauss, former Polish officer, was such a persistent spy, police declared, that he sought a new source of military information for Germany by advertising after Captain Forge of the French army—who allegedly sold him $6,500 worth of secrets—fell under suspicion.

Authorities said France's new espionage case has no connection with the so-called International spy ring in connection with which Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bercowitz, self-styled Canadians, two Americans and 11 others are held.

Police charge that Krauss has spied in France under many aliases for four years. They say he resorted to the classified advertising columns of Paris newspapers after he lost contact with Froge, whom he met in 1931. He offered loans on easy terms to army men.

A French officer stationed at the Franco-German frontier answered one of the advertisements in good faith, police said, and was told he could avail himself of one of the generous loans by supplying national defense secrets. The officer informed his superiors. Agents laid a trap in Paris.

In the famous Tuileries Gardens, Krauss is said to have accepted a decoy bundle of bills from counter-espionage operations in exchange for official documents. After examining the documents, police immediately arrested him.

INDIAN ROPE TRICK SUSPECTED "ACCOMPLSHED" BY HPYNOTISM

Claim No Rope Can Be Made to Hang Unless Snubbed to Something.

NATIVES "VICTIMS."

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

The occult committee of the "magic circle" of London, whose membership includes many prominent people interested in things mystic, has decided after lengthy investigation that the famous Indian rope trick is a myth.

The committee says it is impossible for a fakir to throw a rope in the air and make it hang there, suspended from nothing, while a boy climbs it. The investigators have even offered a reward of $2,500 for a genuine performance.

The magic circle may lose its money. It depends on what interpretation is placed on the expression "genuine performance."

Other scientists who have investigated the phenomenon are quite prepared to agree that even the wily fakir cannot make a rope hang without snubbing it to something. They do claim, however, that one or more spectators can be made to believe in all sincerity that they have seen the impossible performance. The secret is said to be hypnotism.

Lord Halifax, former Viceroy of India, says that he made many unsuccessful attempts to see the trick done. The writer spent months in India, and never saw it done, although there were plenty more mystic things to be seen. However, it is highly improbable that a fakir would dare to attempt hypnotism on the average European—certainly not on the Viceroy of India. The magician confines this sort of activity to natives.

The best of Indian magicians are amazing performers—unbelievably adept at sleight of hand, ventriloquism and hypnotism. The rope trick long has been advertised as the star exhibit.

Fifty Cases Hinge Upon Tax Appeal

LONDON, Ont., May 3 (C.P.)—Fifty cases hinge on an appeal against the allocation of city taxes between Public and Separate Schools which was placed before County Judge Joseph Wearing yesterday. The appeal is against a decision of the Court of Revision and would have the entire tax go to the Public Schools.

In each of these the husband and wife are joint tenants of rented houses, the husband a Protestant and the wife a Roman Catholic. Their children are attending Separate Schools and under the Court of Revision's judgment, half of their school tax, representing the wife's interest, goes to the support of Separate Schools and half to Public Schools.

Four cases in which these circumstances exist were placed before Judge Wearing in the appeal.

Japs Prepare Reply To Note From U.S.

TOKYO, May 2 (A.P.).—Whether to make a detailed reply to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement regarding the position of the United States in the Orient or merely to deliver a note of polite acknowledgment was the question before the Japanese Government to-day.

Some contended for a forceful reply. The newspaper Nichi Nichi said officials consider the most vital difference in United States and Japanese positions lies in Secretary Hull's declaration that no nation can "make conclusive its will in situations where there are involved the rights, the obligations and the legitimate interests of other sovereign states."

This was seen in certain quarters as denying the keystone of Japan's policy toward China — that is, Tokyo's claim to responsibility for maintenance of the peace in the Far East.

PIONEER WOMAN REMODELS HOUSE

Plastering and Repairing All in Day's Work for 70-year Old Woman.

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask., May 2.—(CP).—Mrs. Thirza Simmonds, who celebrated her 70th birthday by taking a holiday in the city, has more mannish attributes to her credit than the most modern flapper. In addition to clearing brush land for ploughing, she has found time to re-build her home.

Alone on her farm 50 miles north of here, her dexterity with axe, hammer and saw enabled her to clear 33 acres of brush land ready for crop and remodel the farm home.

Her latest achievement was the lathing and plastering of the newly-repaired home with a mixture of her own invention. Unable to secure laths, she plucked tiny willow twigs sufficient to completely cover the walls. The task occupied the summer months of 1932.

For plaster she unearthed a clay ravine. Quantities of this she carried to the house and applied over the twig laths. After the rough clay had dried she applied a smoother solution, made from the same clay, plus sand and chaff from the bottom of the straw-pile. A little paint supplied the color scheme suitable to the room.

Mrs. Simmonds came to Canada from Edinburgh in 1920. She has worked the farm alone since her son left home five years ago. Asked how she learned to use a saw and make plaster, she remarked, simply. "It is strange what one can do when one really has to."

URGE TEAM PLAY PRESS AND RADIO

Broadcasting Official Claims It is to Advantage of Both Organizations.

DAILIES' ANNUAL DINNER.

TORONTO, May 3. (C.P.)—E. C. Buchanan, director of public relations for the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission yesterday told the Ontario Provincial Dailies at their annual dinner that both the newspapers and radio could profit from a close mutual relationship in Canada. Under the National Radio System, he said, there had been so far no serious clash of interest.

Since the one aim and concern of national radio interests of the listeners and the national interest, Mr. Buchanan considered the opportunity for co-operation with the newspapers was the greater. Under a radio systems operated for profit, the likelihood of harmony with newspapers was diminished.

Especially in the matter of news bulletins, Mr. Buchanan said, had the Radio Commission been able to work closely with the newspapers. In seeking to answer the public demand for a news bulletin service, the Commission had turned naturally to the Canadian Press, the Co-Operative News-Gathering Association of Canada's Dailies.

The C.P. Bulletin Service, which he considered provided a muchmore up-to-the-minute service than that being given in the United States, was working out to the satisfaction of both the Commission and the listeners.

Mr. Buchanan reviewed the work of the Commission in the 16 months of its existence and asked for understanding by newspapers of its commendable work in the face of difficulties. Operations of the Commission were being carried on at much less cost than contemplated by either the Aird Commission or the Parliamentary Radio Committee but were accomplishing the aims set out by the reports of these two bodies.

DAVID CONROY, OLDEST RESIDENT, OF PETERBORO CITY AND COUNTY RECALLS STRUGGLES OF SETTLERS

ed from another souce, was a woman of great resourcefulness and wide sympathies and made a valuable contribution to the early life of Douro Township.

When The Examiner reporter called to see Mr. Conroy, the old gentleman, a man of remarkable physique and vigour in view of his advanced years, rose from the couch on which he had been resting, and after the formalities of introduction were completed, asked his interviewer, "are you married." Receiving a reply in the negative, Mr. Conroy offered the advice, "well; don't be too easily pleased."

Advice On Matrimony

Asked to what he attributed his longevity and present good health, Mr. Conroy's reply was forestalled by his daughter, Mrs. P. J. Doris, who interjected, "you can attribute his longevity to the good wife he had." She added that her mother, formerly Catherine Allen of Douro Township, who passed away five years ago, had been a most devoted wife and mother.

Mr. Conroy attested to the truth of his daughter's tribute, and while acknowledging the care he had received from his late wife, said he believed he was long-lived, because "I went to bed early and got up early," and smoke and drank with extreme moderation."

During a lifetime of great activity Mr. Conroy has been shantyman, farmer, drover, lumberman and latterly contractor. As being representative of the many contracts he has handled, the old gentleman said he built Smith street bridge, and also constructed dams or bridges at Keene, Indian River, Buckhorn, Balsam Lake, Beaverton and Toronto.

Successful Contractor

"I tendered on the Hunter street bridge, but lucky for me I didn't get it," Mr. Conroy remarked referring to the low tender he had put in as compared with the cost of the finished structure.

"How long is it since you retired?"

"Not for a few years yet," Mr. Conroy replied with the trace of an Irish accent in his words and something more than a sparkle of Irish humor in his eyes.

Discussing the past winter, he declared, "during the whole of my lifetime I never saw a more severe winter." He had often seen heavier snowfalls, than those experienced during the months recently passed, he said, but for prolonged spells of sub-zero temperatures, 'this winter was a record-beater."

Most Severe Winter

Touching upon the highlights of Mr. Conroy's life of activity in chronological sequence, one cannot overlook the remarkable fact that he attained such a fair measure of success in the business world despite the fact that the primitive conditions under which he lived as a boy, deprived him of any schooling in the rudiments of reading, writing or arithmetic.

The old gentleman is not ashamed of the fact that he is unable to write, except to sign his own name, but he is proud of the fact that he can dictate a mighty good business letter.

Dictates Correspondence

Well fitted for the task after years of toil on the old homestead, David Conroy went to the shanty as a youth of twenty years of age, where he worked for four months for John Ludgate, father of Mrs. R. R. Hall.

During the whole of that four-month period, Mr. Conroy related, "I never saw the shanty by daylight except on Sunday. We had to be out to work before sun-up and would not return to camp until sundown."

As was typical of the fare in all shanties at that time, the noon day meal of the gang consisted, according to Mr. Conroy, of a loaf of bread for each man and a large piece of salt pork.

Dick O'Rourke was the foreman of the shanty, Mr. Conroy recalled, and would not permit the men to light fires in the bush during the meal hour even though that was the only manner in which they could melt the snow in order to provide drinking water in the absence of tea and coffee.

No Tea Or Coffee

"Of course we used to light fires if we thought the foreman was not around," Mr. Conroy confessed, "but if he caught us at it he would come along and kick snow onto the fire."

The pay was seven dollars a month, in the shanty, and the chief items of the daily diet was potatoes, pork and bread. On week days the pork was boiled, but as a special treat fried pork was served to the men on Sunday.

After leaving the shanty, Mr. Conroy said, he lumbered on the river for ten years after which he laughingly recalled, "I got the disease the doctor couldn't cure." He referred of course to his first meeting with Catherine Allen of Douro, who was shortly afterwards to become his bride.

After their marriage the young couple took up farming on the old Conroy homestead with their total assets being an unconquerable faith in the future and a capital of five hundred dollars.

Took Up Farming

After two years of farming, the young couple found that the family treasury was exhausted. The five hundred dollars was spent, and Mr. and Mrs. Conroy left the farm to express it in the old gentleman's own words, "with one cow and two children."

Mr. Conroy eked out a living for himself and his family by purchasing lambs for Joseph Redmond of Otonabee. "I got twenty-five cents apiece for each lamb I bought," he recounted, "at a time when lambs were fetching top price of $2.50 each. I had no horse and had to walk from farm to farm."

Had No Horse.

It was Pat Moher who suggested to Mr. Conroy the advisability of going into business for himself. Said Pat: "Why shouldn't you buy lambs for yourself?" The answer was simple. Mr. Conroy lacked capital.

The resourceful Pat further suggested that Mr. Conroy should borrow some money. He did. And it was Tom Menzies, father of Mrs. C. I. Suckling and Mrs. Gus Lech, who endorsed Mr. Conroy's note for one hundred dollars. Subsequently Mr. Menzies endorsed other notes for Mr. Conroy for varying amounts up to as much as a thousand dollars.

"That gave me my first real start in business, and I flourished for a long time as a cattle drover, and have never looked back since that day," he exclaimed. In grateful recognition to the late Mr. Menzies who helped him out at a time when he most needed help, Mr. Conroy remarked, "I hope he's in heaven."

First Real Start

In later years when Mr. Conroy had established a name for himself as a successful contractor he found much less difficulty in borrowing money. As evidence of the confidence in which he was generally recognized, the old gentleman proudly referred to the fact that, "I borrowed on my own note at one time from the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, $70,000 for starting a contract.

Mr. Conroy, and his wife who died five years ago, raised a family of eleven children, all of whom are living with exception of their second son, Dr. Robert J. Conroy, late of Portland, Oregon. The family consisting of five sons and five daughters is as follows: Messrs. Edward, David and Frank Conroy, Miss Josephine Conroy, Dr. Herbert Conroy, Mr. Frederick Conroy, Miss Eleanor Conroy and Mrs. M. Leahy, all of Edmonton, Alberta; Mrs. J. S. McGarry of Seattle, Washington; and Mrs. P. J. Doris of 46 Sophia street, Peterborough.

Family Of Eleven

Mr. Conroy also has two sisters and one brother, and twenty-seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

To Be Honored

An honorary degree of LL.D. will be conferred by the University of B.C. on Hon. Iyemasa Tokugawa (above), Japanese minister to Canada, at the annual congregation ceremony in Vancouver May 10. The degree is a recognition of the minister's excellent work on promoting friendly relations between Canada and Japan. Hon. Mr. Tokuwaga has accepted the honor and will attend personally to be capped.

IRISH DIVORCES 300 YEARS BACK

Manuscript Uncovered on a Tipperary Farm Regarded as Very Important.

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, May 3 (C.P.) — Divorce, now impossible in Southern Ireland, existed here three centuries ago, according to a 1645 manuscript just discovered in the house of a farm at Silvermines, County Tipperary.

The 400 page manuscript, transcribed partly in Irish and partly in English, is in two volumes of vellum and is regarded by the National Museum as a find of rare importance which may affect accepted theories of Irish history.

This historical matter relates to the Stapleton Clan of Tipperary. Shocking to the consciences of the Irish clergy an account is given of an action brought by way of appeal by Patrick Stapleton against his wife, Isabella Beckett "whom he has divorced." William Carrigan of Corrigan, Commissioner General for the Bishops of Cloyne and Cashel, was cited as a "special defendant." Stapleton lost the case however, and was ordered to pay "nine marks within eight days."

Tales of the Fianna (soldiers) of the Red Branch Knights, poems by the Abbot of Boyle Monastery County Roscommon in 1224 and a Gaelic Key to the moveable ecclesiastical feasts of the year are also included in the newly discovered manuscript.

Dr. R. J. Best, National Librarian and Professor Eoin MacNeill (brother of the former Free State Governor General) Chairman of the Ancient Irish Manuscripts Commission, regard the discovery as an important one. They hold the opinion the volumes may be connected with one of the rarest of Gaelic Works, the Brussels Catechism of Theobald Stapleton (1639). They have established that the manuscript was transcribed by John, son of Pierce Stapleton, but are puzzled by the use of vellum as late as 1645.

A difficulty has arisen however. The owner, James Stapleton, is refusing to part with the work for inclusion in the National Collection. He declares his dying father obtained from him a promise he would guard the manuscript jealously in view of the fact it had been handed down from father to son for generations.

TORONTO—Price of commonly used grades of United States anthracite coal were reduced 75 cents a ton to-day, while Welsh blower coal was increased 50 cents a ton. HAVELOCK WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION HOLD JUBILEE RECEPTION DAY

Exceptional Collection of Curios and Antiques Attracts Much Interest.

BIRTHDAY CAKE CUT.

HAVELOCK, May 2. (Examiner Correspondence). — Jubilee Reception Day in the United Church here was held Tuesday when the Women's Association received visitors from afar and near who came in response to the invitation to join in the festivities in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the building of the then Methodist church which was erected at Old Havelock on the site now occupied by the Stillman house.

Rev. Mr. Kemp extended a hearty welcome to the visitors on behalf of the whole congregation and himself. He expressed his appreparation of the whole-hearted way in which every one had entered into the spirit of the occasion, and the support given the committee in charge of arrangements.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the gift of a basket of golden daffodils and card of congratulations on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee sent by members of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, for which Rev. Kemp expressed the appreciation of the members of the congregation and himself.

A splendid collection of curios and antiques was on display among which were noted a collection of old coins, a Bible 100 years old, a bootjack, wooden skates, spinning wheel, ivory serviettes from Jerusalem, a violin 205 years old, pepper grinder, carved card case from Jerusalem, Chinese coins, a German jewel case 150 years old, Russian striped shawl, oxen yoke 100 years old, soup tureen 125 years old, old pottery, a musket used during the Fenian raid, a mahogany nick nack cabinet, a volume of Cowper's poems 142 years old, a punch bowl, Scotch whisky cup 150 years old; butter tray carved out of one piece of wood and over 100 years old; a piece of linen woven by hand from flax grown 90 years ago at Beaver Creek in Marmora Township; colt revolver 1858 model, Chinese comb, doll over fifty years ago; a pair of the first metal skates ever made; a Wesleyan Methodist discipline Bible; Turkish fez and slippers modern style made over 100 years ago; a milk china plate (this was much admired by the ladies), over 100 years old; a melodeon and many other interesting objects too numerous to mention.

Tea is Served

Afternoon tea was served in the dining room, and five of the oldest ladies presided over the tea tables which were beautifully laid with lace covers, silver teapots and pitchers, candles, and cut flowers in silver baskets. Mesdames Firm Haig, Herb. Williams, H. T. Archer, Jesse Campney poured tea. Mrs. (Rev.) D. Balfour, whose late husband was pastor of the church here in 1907-1910, cut the four storey birthday cake, (which was made by Mrs. Charles Roberts) and this was served at the afternoon tea, with small cakes, sandwiches and a delicious cup of tea.

On Monday evening a program of old fashioned numbers, a parade of old fashioned and modern costumes was staged at the town hall, the following being featured: School girl of fifty years ago and to-day, little girl of yesterday and to-day, young woman of the two periods, old fashioned and modern woman in go-to-meeting clothes, old fashioned and modern bride and groom. Many of the costumes worn were more than one hundred years old. A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the playing of the bells, an heirloom of the Roberts family, by Mr. Charles Roberts and his two daughters, Misses Edythe and Bessie. The bells are over one hundred years old.

OUSTED TEACHER SUES FOR SALARY

Claims $337 For January to June Terms Taken Over by Girl.

ALVINSTON, Ont., May 2 (C.P.)—Blake McLean, deposed teacher of school section number seven, Euphemia Township, has started action to recover $337.50 salary from the Board of Trustees and the case is expected to have a bearing on the validity of all school teachers' contracts in Ontario. The claim is for six months' salary from January to June, the unexpired section of McLean's contract, for which he was not paid.

The hearing will be held in division court at Florence May 4. The Board of Trustees' defence is that McLean's contract is invalid although issued on a form supplied by the Department of Education and used throughout Ontario rural schools. The clause about which the case hinges is that which renews the agreement from year to year unless cancelled by either party.

The trustees claim the clause's provisions are beyond the jurisdiction of any school board on which trustees are elected for only one year.

McLean, son of George McLean, chairman of the Board of Trustees, was appointed teacher of the Cairo School last September but when he went to the school to take over his duties, Miss Jane Stalker refused to relinquish her position, claiming she was not given proper notice.

Two schools developed when the ratepayers became divided on the question. McLean taught in the school and Miss Stalker in the Baptist Church. Miss Stalker had seven pupils and McLean one.

Finally at the annual nomination meeting the ratepayers supporting Miss Staker elected two new members to the Board and the woman teacher's reinstatement followed.

SAYS LIQUOR NOT TOURIST BOOSTER

N. S. Social Service Secretary Quotes Figures to Support His Claim.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., May 2 (C.P.)—The idea that liquor attracts tourists is all wet in the opinion of Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant, general secretary of the Nova Scotia Social Service Council.

Opposing the campaign of the Nova Scotia Hotel Association for privileges to serve guests beer and wine, the veteran temperance stalwart declares "the contention that freer sale of beer and wine would increase tourist traffic finds no support in the experiences of other provinces."

He compares conditions in Ontario and Quebec:

"In Ontario liquor is sold in government stores but not in hotels. In Quebec liquor is sold in government stores, hotels and taverns under permits. In 1930 for every foreign car entering Quebec directly over six entered Ontario.

"Comparing the tourist traffic of 1926 with that of 1930, the number of cars entering Ontario in 1930 increased over the number in 1926 by 168 per cent, while the number entering Quebec increased only 148 per cent.

"The bureau of statistics made annual estimates of the money spent by tourists from 1926 to 1929. The estimates show more than 50 per cent in Ontario over Quebec.

"In Ontario liquors, wines and beers are sold in sealed containers by permit, but only one in 100 of tourists entering Ontario purchases a permit. The outstanding attraction of tourists is not beer and wine."

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

CHICAGO GRAIN

Corn ran briskly upward in price yesterday, where as the wheat market sagged, with some speculators active buyers of corn and simultaneous sellers of wheat.

Augmented shipping demand for corn was apparent, purchasing on this account being the largest in some time. Moreover, the open interest in May corn was sharply curtailed owing to deliveries of 2,380,000 bushels here yesterday, in addition to Tuesdays reduction of more than 5,000,000 bushels. Much talk was heard that rural consumers were meeting with difficulty in obtaining corn to fill needs.

Corn closed strong at almost the day's top level, ⅝ to 1⅜ about Tuesday's finish, wheat unchanged to ¼c down, oats showing to ½c advance, and provisions exactly unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter and cheese prices declined on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

No. 1 fresh butter, in cariots or less, lost a cent at 20c to 20½c a pound. To retailers, solids and prints were also off a cent, being quoted at 22c and 23c a pound, respectivley. Receipts were 449 boxes.

Fresh Ontario cheese eased ¼c at 10c to 10¼c a pound. Arrivals were only 43 boxes.

Eggs were unchanged, graded shipments, in cariots or less, selling at 19c to 19½c a dozen for A-large, 18c to 18½c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for "," and 16c a dozen for "C." A total of 2,736 cases were received.

Potatoes held steady, Quebecs per 80-pound bag being quoted at 95c to $1. New Brunswick Mountains per 80-pound bag at $1 to $1.05, and Prince Edward Island Mountains, per 90-pound bag, at $1.25 to $1.30.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

MINNIPEG, May 3. — In the absence of important operations on either the buying or selling side of the market, wheat prices marked time on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, and closed unchanged to ¼c lower.

May wheat ended at 61½c, July at 65½c, and October at 67¼c. Offerings during the session were small, and this fact, coupled with the upward tendency at Liverpool, offset the effect or a small foreign demand.

Quotations had a range of less than half a cent, showing both gains and losses during the morning. Volume of trade through the pit was light, but the undertone of the market was quite friendly

Cash grains sales were restricted owing to the scarcity of supplies, which are not expected to come out before navigation on the Great Lakes is under way. Coarse grains trading was dull and featureless, with prices holding steady at small fractional decline most of the day

LONG ASSAILS SEAWAY PLAN

Pictures Canada Having Sole Control, Using American Money.

BLOW TO U. S. PORTS.

WASHINGTON, May 2 (A.P.)—Senator Huey Long of Louisiana attacked the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty yesterday before the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

The Senator warned the delegates if the resolution committee reported favorably on the project the Congress "might as well tear up its record and hold no more meetings."

"I'm willing," he said, "to co-operate in the development of American waterways but I'm unalterably opposed to the spending of $600,000,000 of American dollars to keep commerce from going through the ports of the United States.

"If we are to have an international treaty," he said, "why not throw in the Canadian lakes and let the United States control them.

"Whatever Great Britain owned is preserved to Great Britain but what belongs to the United States is subject to international treaty. If Great Britain or Canada wants to build a lake or a waterway with Montreal as its chief port, why not tell them to take $1,000,000,000 of what they owe us and do it?"

He said that in addition to the United States putting up the money for the work, Canada would be permitted to deduct its expenditures for development of waterway tributary to the St. Lawrence. The waterway, he said, would be constructed by Canadian labor in Canadian territory and directed by Canadian engineers.

"Why they would own the United States before we got through," he explained. "All matters pertaining to the waterway such as property damages would be adjudicated by Canadian courts."

GAGNON LAUDS J. F. B. LIVESAY

Credits General Manager for Majority of Canadian Press Efficiency.

ANNUAL MEETING.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.).—In his presidential address, Henri Gagnon, general manager of Quebec Soleil, to-day told the annual meeting of the Canadian Press that with the possible exception of the war years, there has not been in the history of the co-operative news-gathering association of the Canadian daily newspapers a period in which its usefulness to the papers and to the country itself has been as clearly demonstrated as during the last few months.

He reviewed the important nature of legislation and debates at Ottawa and in several of the Provincial legislatures in showing what the Canadian Press had been able to do in placing these eventful proceedings before the people of Canada. The work of the organization recently in this regard he considered an outstanding evidence of its public usefulness.

Mr. Gagnon paid tribute to the "long years of strenuous and capable effort" J. F. B. Livesay, general manager, had contributed to the Canadian Press. In welcoming Mr. Livesay home from Nassau, the Bahamas, where he had recuperated after an illness, he said:

"For myself I cannot visualize the Canadian Press without discerning at its portals the personality and the organizing ability of its general manager. It would perhaps be going too far to say the Canadian Press could not have become the great co-operative news-gathering organization it is to-day without him, but I have no hesitation in saying that his abilities have contributed mightily to the upbuilding of the organization which is to all of us a source of pride.

The annual meeting concludes with the election of directors late to-day for 1934-35, and will be followed by the meeting of the new board and the election of officers.

WOUNDED BOY WINS DAMAGES

Suit of Fenelon Falls' Student for Injuries in Explosion Settled for $300.

SUED CONTRACTOR.

Settlement of the action brought against J. W. McMillan, contractor of Fenelon Falls, by John Jones, aged 13, and his father, William Jones, as the result of the accident in which the boy had two fingers blown off in a dynamite explosion, was settled yesterday for $300 before Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy.

Reviewing the case, T. J. Carley, appearing for the plaintiffs, said that about a year ago John Burns, aged 14, entered a school building at Fenelon Falls which was under construction and removed several dynamite detonators. He gave one of these detonators to a seven-year-old-boy, Mr. Carley's son, telling him they were firecrackers. This little chap later that day gave the detonators to John Jones, who in using a match to set them off, suffered damage to his hand in the explosion which followed.

The action for damages was brought against Mr. McMillan, contractor for the school building, was set down for hearing before a jury at Lindsay, but before it came for trial a settlement of $300 was agreed upon, Mr. Carley explained. Settlement was adjourned by the judge in order that the official guardian might study the case. Crown Attorney Anderson, of Lindsay, told Mr. Justice McEvoy yesterday that the official guardian was content with the settlement, the father receiving $150 and $150 being placed in trust for the injured boy.

Theodore Zinston and John McClennan, fugitives from Mimico Industrial School, were rtmanded on the application of the Crown, on charges of breaking and entering cottages at Stony Lake. There are five charges against Zinston, and three charges again McClennan.

A Stewart street resident was also remanded on application of the charge of unlawfully keeping liquor for sale. He was arrested in an early morning raid to-day, by Provincial Constables W. Warren and D. Silvester, acting in conjunction with the city police.

Havan Reds Call Out General Strike

HAVANA, May 2 (C.P.). — Communists called a one-hour general strike to-day, protesting May Day incidents which left one dead and 10 wounded. Disorders were feared. Bombers got in their work early this morning. Two bombs exploded in midtown Havana. Damage was slight.

Some laborers expressed doubt that the protest strike, set for 10 o'clock, would be generally effective.

A woman was among those wounded when snipers fired from housetops yesterday into massed thousands marching in a Communist parade.

A soldier died this morning of wounds suffered when his kit containing tear gas and hand grenades exploded.

Five Lads' Trek To Get Dillinger And Fame Leads Back Home to Breakfasts on 'Mantel'

BROOKLYN, N.Y., May 3.—(AP)—One Pisano, one Caballs, one Berconi, and two Siconolfis, ranging in age from 16 to 19, set out for the west last Sunday to capture John Dillinger, the alleged outlaw.

Critical of the police and federal agents, they planned to reap the reward and go on to Hollywood and fame. There was one flaw in their own methods. They stopped at Scranton, Pa., and wrote postcards to their parents, saying all were well. Two of the parents and three policemen took up the trail of the tailers, captured them in a shack in a Scranton Park, and brought them back today in an automobile.

The other parents joined them in the police station. The police looked the other way. The several members of the posse went home for mantel breakfasts.

SHOW WITH EATS IS TAKING HOLD

Singing and Dancing Acts Moving Theatre to Restaurant and Getting Popular.

TORONTO (C.P.).—Musical comedy and what used to be called vaudeville have left the theatre stage for the dining-room floor. Toronto and Montreal and other large Canadian cities are having vaudeville shows served with the soup and entree.

"They call it 'floor show.' Actually it's just the same old "vodvil" and not dressed up a bit. But since so many small movie theatres found it impossible to bring in vaudeville troupes for weekly visits during depression days, the dancers and singers had to move.

It might have been a puzzle for some time but it's not any more. They have moved into the resaturants. They do the same things they always did before the footlights. You can have them for dinner or late supper and the chances are more and more cities will be going "floor show" before long.

"Of course there have been floor shows here and in large United States cities for years," said a Toronto orchestra man who has played the neighborhood theatres, big-city circuits, summertime dance pavilions, and finally the restaurants, which he likes best. "The idea is taking hold in this country.

"A few years ago it was necessary for diners to dress formally in order to dance and eat in establishments where there were floor shows. Even then the shows usually came on at the supper hour, after the theatres were out.

"I think the dinner-hour floor show will gain in popularity tremendously in the next year or two. People seem to like us at close range. They can have their meal, see a good show and be away in time to do whatever they want to in the evening.

"And of course we like the idea. Floor shows are giving employment to many artists. It's just the beginning. The floor show wave has swept over a goo d part of United States and it is taking a firm foothold here."

Boiled Tongue Creamed Potatoes
Tomato Jelly Salad
Buttered Cabbage Stewed Apricots
Eggless Cookies Tea

Serve tongue when you have guests, or the day before. Then, on the following day it will be delicious to serve cold, and it is good for sandwiches, etc.

Today's Recipes

Boiled Tongue—One medium-sized tongue (beef, pork or lamb), two carrots, diced; one onion, chopped; one stalk celery, one teaspoon whole cloves, one-half teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon salt. Wash the tongue well in cold water. Put into boiling water with vegetables and seasonings. Cook slowly until the tongue can be pierced with a fork. This will require from one and one-half to three hours, depending on the size of the tongue. When tender, remove from the water, rinse with cold water and peel. The tongue is now ready to be served hot or cold, plain or with a sauce, raisin sauce being particularly tasty.

In boiling the tongue, it is well to remember that slow boiling is the secret of a firm, well cooked tongue. Another point, don't throw away the remaining stock, use it as the basis for vegetable soups and sauces.

Eggless Cookies—One cup sugar, one cup sour cream, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla. Mix cream, sugar, and soda with a little flour. Add vanilla and a pinch of salt. Add enough flour, to make soft dough. Roll thin and bake.

Toasted Cheese Sandwich

Cut wheat bread one-fourth inch thick and butter lightly. Add a little butter and grated cheese and mix well. Spread between slices of bread and toast until a delicate brown on both sides. Serve quickly.

FOUR TROUSSEAU COSTUMES FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

Chosen for Smartness, Wearabiltiy

(Courtesy Good Housekeeping)

(Courtesy Good Housekeeping)

When a woman is a bride she wishes, more than at any other time in her life, to be cleverly and distinctively dressed. The clothes she smooths into her trousseau are those she will wear on her honeymoon, when she meets new relatives-in-law and hubby's friends She wants to feel she looks well in her own eyes and that her brand new husband may be proud of her.

The four costumes sketched here are all pretty—more than pretty, perhaps—above the ordinary in appeal, but exceedingly wearable, besides.

She may choose the polka dotted silk jacket frock, third from left, to be her going away costume. It has white pique lacings on the frock and detachable collar of the same on the jacket. The frock has short sleeves.

Another silk jacket frock is pictured right. It is made of sheer ribbed crepe in navy blue with multi-colored top. The dress has short sleeve, bow tie and gypsy sash. It's the ideal for shopping and many other occasions.

When our bride goes to tea she would be noticed if she wore the navy blue or black frock, left, with the darling neckline and cape sleeves. Crisp white waffle pique faces the upturned, open collar and forms the flowers and belt. The frock is made of heavy crepe.

When she visits friends the dark silk dress on the seated figure is most becoming. The bright, contrasting collar and tie of Roman-striped lame is distinguished, the neckline is new, and the sleeves the popular three - quarters length. Square nickel buttons decorate the sleeves.

With these frocks, three or four cotton dresses for the house and porch, a lace frock for dancing—or her wedding frock doing double duty, if she prefers—our bride is well equipped to face her new life.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., MAY 3.—Family resemblance got Loretta Young her first film chance and now, in a curious case of history repeating itself, her kid sister, Georgianne, comes to the screen for the same reason.

For a week, Director Erik Charell has been seeking a youngster to play Loretta as a little girl in Fox's new picture, "Caravan." Just by chance, he happened to show Loretta to her limousine, where 9-year-old Georgianne was waiting to be taken home.

Loretta Young

Charell looked casually at the little girl, then suddenly stared.

"That's the very child I want!" he exclaimed.

Now, the excited youngster is getting ready to make her screen debut and Loretta is pondering the strange ways of coincidence. For, only a few years back, she went to a studio and got her first job because she looked like her sister Polly Ann, who had had to drop out of a picture.

YOU WOULDN'T

believe it but they swear it's true. The other night Ralph Morgan came home from the Levinsky - Ramage fight and found his wife entertaining some women friends at bridge; Ralph started an excited description of the fight.

"Ramage certainly opened up Levinsky's eye in the third round," he exclaimed.

One of the ladies looked up, surprised.

"Why, I didn't know they fought with their eyes closed!" she said.

THE EDWARD F.

(stock - broker) Huttons are here from Tahiti in their 300-foot sailing yacht and are seeing Hollywood in tow of Billie Burke, who knew Mrs. Hutton when she was Mrs. Post (of the Post Toastie Posts). Some of the papers hailed the arrivals as the parents of Barbara Hutton Mdvani but actually they are her uncle and aunt. Mrs. Hutton and some of the party lunched with the red-headed star at the R-K-O studio and afterwards saw how movies are made. Oddly enough, the first set they visited was the picture, 'Down to Their Last Yacht.'

SPEAKING OF

Garbo, the most sought-after picture in Hollywood is still an informal shot of the retiring Swedish star. Hyman Fink, one of the on-the-job bulb-pressers, almost got her the other night at a surburban theater. He proudly displays a picture of Greta ducking into a coupe, one hand reaching out to slam the door behind her. More heart-breaking was the experience of Eddie Stone, of the I. N. S. picture service. He caught the elusive Swede hemmed in by autograph seekers as she came out of the Philharmonic auditorium. She looked up and smiled just as he snapped the picture. But—the height of hard luck—his flash-gun didn't synchronize.

THE UNPREDICTABLE

Francis Lederer has returned from his San Francisco engagement in 'Autumn Crocus' and has notified the R-K-O studio not to look for him until he shows up. Rumor has it that he will stage the opening play in Joan Crawford's backyard theater. But, so far, no one has been able to find out just what is is or who will be in it.

Francis Lederer

Add to Hollywood eccentricities Edna May Oliver's specially imported drinking water. The star has whole cases of it shipped from Mountain Springs, Arkansas. She has her maid bring a half gallon bottle on the set and even carted a supply on her last trip to Honolulu. When it gave out on the last day of the return voyage, she went without drinking for 10 hours rather than break her rule.

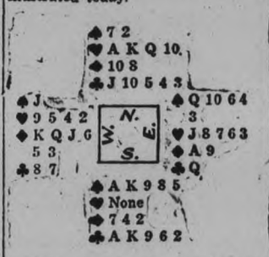
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

CO-PARTNERSHIP

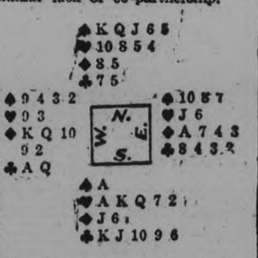
Among other things co-partnership includes enlightenment of partner, and doing for him things which he cannot do for himself, as illustrated today.



Bidding went: South, 1-spade; West, 2-diamonds; North, 2-hearts; South, 3-clubs; North, 5-clubs, ending bidding.

The opening lead was the K of diamonds. When that held, West led another diamond, which East won, but that was the end, as South fulfilled his contract, when opponents should have defeated him a trick had East practised true co-partnership. East should have won the first diamond lead with his ace and led back that suit. This would have told West that East wanted another diamond lead, as the latter was both able and willing to outruff dummy. East would have outrufed dummy on the third lead of diamonds, putting the contract down. It was just too bad.

The next hand went game through similar lack of co-partnership.



Bidding went: South, 1-heart; West, 2-diamonds; North, 2-spades; South, 3-clubs; North, 4-hearts.

West led his K of diamonds. Instead of overtaking with his ace, East signalled to come-on, which West did by leading the Q of diamonds. Even then East might have overtaken, had he thought of it, but he left his partner in the lead. Thinking that East might hold the ace of spades. West led that suit. South won with the lone ace of spades. He dropped all opposing trumps in two leads. North was put in with a trump. On dummy's four good spades, the declarer discarded four clubs, then gave opponents a single club trick, just going game.

Had East won either the first or second diamond trick, and led back a club, the contract would have been defeated.

INFORMATION FOR AMATEUR GARDENERS

To avoid the many erroneous ideas about the growing of potatoes, gardeners should procure Bulletin No. 352 from the Agricultural College at Guelph (a post-card request, no charge) will bring you the best results obtained from 5 years' experiments.

For the average garden they recommend that seed with two eyes planted 3 to 5 inches deep in rows 30 inches apart and seed from 9 to 12 inches apart in the row; if planted in hills, two and not more than three sets. The 9-inch is for early potatoes only. Closer planting is a waste of seed and the potatoes will not mature. The shallow planting is best in damp soil, the deeper for light soil; potatoes should not be hilled high unless it is a wet season.

The surface should be kept loose, especially after a heavy rain. After the potatoes are six inches high, the surface should not be cultivated more than 1 inch deep; this gives the best protection for a dry season.

When bugs appear, dust (not heavily) with poison, using a bag about 8 by 10 inches made from a piece of sacking and apply early while the dew is on; succeeding applications will be necessary as circumstances warrant.

Many of these egg-laying beetles can be killed by scattering potato peelings and small potatoes that have been poisoned with paris green on the surface of the ground as the potatoes are coming up.

Staking tomatoes will ensure ripening, and be sure to cut the suckers or small shoots away from the corn as they spoil both yield and quality.

Those on relief must get an order from Mr. Metheral for their seeds and plants. The potatoes and cabbage and tomato plants will be at the Relief Store on George Street.

Both the owners of the plots and the Committee insist that the plots be kept free of weeds, especially during August and September, the weed months. Refuse must be cleared up and either burned or left in piles at the close of the season.

The Committee again look forward to another year of fine co-operation on the part of everyone and it is only fair to the generous owners of the plots that everything be kept in good order.

We wish all our gardeners a healthy, happy, prosperous season.

The Garden Plots Committee.

Blind Student Wins Degree At Age Of 46

NEW YORK, April 3. (CP)—Miss Eleanor Gertrude Brown, of Dayton Ohio, blind since childhood and burdened with illness and poverty in her early years, will receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia University at the commencememnt next month, probably the first woman to earn such a high scholastic honor while blind. She is 46.

Publication of the thesis for her doctorate, entitled "Milton's Blindness," has already been announced by the Columbia University Press. In it from the point of view of "one who knows what blindness is" she opposes the contention of generations of scholars that the blind poet lamented his affliction.

"No one" she wrote, "would deny that blindness has its deprivations. That it has its compensations is recognized by every sightless person. It is, I believe, the thought of these benefits that Milton would leave with the reader.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Cigarete smokers must have ash trays. If the homemaker does not provide plenty of them, she will find her vases and dishes converted into ash receivers, and even tops of boxes will be upturned and used for the purpose. It is important therefore, to have enough of these dainty little trays. They should be the sort to withstand heat, as well as wash easily.

* * * * * * *

For these reasons there is nothing better than pottery for ash receivers. This substance is not inflamable, it is a non-conductor of heat, and it washes to look like new. Pottery or semi-porcelain is preferable to china for both are heavier than china. The intense heat of glowing stubs when pressed against the last ware may crack it. The ashes, of course, would do no harm, only intense heat of the burning tip when carelessly pressed too long, without releasing the stub continually while the fire is being quenched.

* * * * * * *

Glass ash trays are attractive in their pristine clearness, or their gay colors. They should be fireproof. It is chiefly through carelessness that either the glass or the china cracks, but smokers are proverbially heedless with cigarettes.

* * * * * * *

Metal ash receivers have the advantage of being unbreakable but they cannot have all the points in their favor. Metal heats through very quickly. If a smoker carelessly or hurriedly leaves a burning stub in the tray, as we all know happens occasionally, the heated metal is liable to mar a highly polished table top of wood. When the smoker's stand or table top is of marble or tiling such possibility of damage does not exist.

* * * * * * *

Ash trays of genuine quartz such as amethyst quartz, rose quartz, etc., are choice and practical, but unfortunately are not inexpensive.

* * * * * * *

Beware of using cloisonne for ash trays. The metal framework between the spaces of which the enamel is set, expands under less heat than do the bits of enamel. This sometimes causes cracks to appear especally in linings of enamel.

* * * * * * *

Carved soapstone ash trays are decidedly decorative. Choose those without over-hanging top carving if you want the kind easy to keep clean. Use a hand brush, soap water, and even a little pumice when the dirt gets into the soapstone as it may for it is not impervious to dust. It is described as a soft stone.

Britain Is Ignoring Consul Recall Move

LONDON, May 3 (A.P.)—What was termed a "satisfactory" report on Representative Fred A. Britten's recent speech assailing Major Gerald Campbell, British consul general in New York has been received by the foreign office from the British embassy at Washington.

On the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives, Britten demanded the recall of Major Campbell, on the ground that he had opposed American naval expansion.

It was stated in official circles that "whatever imaginings Britten had" concerning Major Campbell will not affect the latter's position in the foreign service in any way.

The British Government, it was intimated, will not protest the incident, but will leave it to the United States government or congress to take any action deemed necessary.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

We have been discussing this week the body as a machine, and dwelling largely upon the work of the muscles. These, of course, are to the body merely what the engine of an automobile is to the automobile. In order to make the automobile move and do work, other structures are necessary. So it is with the body.

These other structures, are, first, the nervous system and, second, the bones and joints.

A long bone is a hollow tube.

While the muscular contraction is largely an example of the conversion of chemical energy into mechanical energy, there is also an electrical factor in it which is suppled by the nervous system. At least, so far as we know anything about it, the nervous impulse is an example of electrical energy. The only thing that has been found to be present in a muscle or nerve preparation at the moment of contraction is the change in electrical potential. The most important artificial means we have of stimulating a nerve, and hence a muscle, is an electrical shock.

In our comparison to the automobile, the nervous impulse is represented by the spark from the battery.

The other element in the body as a machine is represented by the bones and joints, which may be compared to the framework and wheels of an automobile. Nothing in nature is really more beautiful than the manner in which the bones are constructed to do their work. They have been, in fact, the model of the best sort of engineering construction.

In other words, they combine lightness and strength in their construction. A long bone is a hollow tube with an extremely strong, thick, compact mass of bones at the cortex enclosing air cavities and a fine network of bony structure, which makes for lightness. If all of our bones were solid bone a man would weigh two to three times as much as he actually does, and would not gain anything in efficiency from the standpoint of tensile strength. Inside the bone of course is also the marrow, but this has nothing to do with the functions of the bone itself.

The elbow joint as a model of a hinge.

Equally amazing are the joints, and upon one or the other of these joints has been modelled every sort of hinge or ball and socket joint used in mechanical construction. Indeed, on an old Egyptian wall painting there was found, side by side, the picture of the construction of a primitive door with a picture of the elbow joint which served as its model and inspiration—the perfect hinge.

Lad Of 4 Drowns In Sudbury Creek

SUDBURY, Ont., May 3 (C.P.)—The spring swollen waters of Junction Creek, which flows through Sudbury, claimed their first 1934 victim yesterday when Joseph Thomas Jean Bodson, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Bodson, lost his balance while crossing the creek near King Street, on a makeshift foot bridge, and was drowned in about six feet of water.

The body was recovered 20 minutes later by a group of neighbors searching for it under the direction of Chief David Louden and Sergeant Fred Davidson. Artificial respiration was tried until the arrival of the fire department inhalator, which worked on the body for about 20 minutes with Dr. H. M. Torrington in attendance.

IF YOU MUST SMOKE, REMOVE NICOTINE STAIN

When the beautiful and glamorous Garbo made her last voyage to Sweden, it is said, she used a pipe whenever she felt like enjoying a smoke. The great Garbo is not, of course, an inveterate smoker. But when she does feel inclined to smoke, she seems to find a pipe more pleasurable than a cigaret.

Very few women today, of course, smoke pipes. But many do smoke cigarets. Whether or not this is an unseemly practice for women is a debatable topic, and one that I don't intend to touch upon. But what I will say is that the smoking habit certainly does have detrimental effects on beauty. In the first place, smoking tends to taint the breath and give it a stale, unfeminine, tobacconized odor. And in the second place, the nicotine in tobacco tends to stain the fingers and make them an ugly yellowish or brownish shade.

If you like your occasional cigaret, however, there are ways in which you can circumvent such effects. In the first place, try using cigaret holders, to spare your fingertips. There are heavy paper holders that are fine for this purpose. They come twelve in a box, are differently tinted, and can be discarded after an evening's use. And if you prefer holders of bone or ivory, scrub them frequently to keep them clean.

If your fingertips have already beccme stained with nicotine, use a good nicotine remover. There are plenty of them on the market. Or, if you prefer, make your own. Powdered pumice and lemon juice or peroxide form an excellent remover. Mix enough peroxide or lemon juice with a bit of powdered pumice to form a thick paste. Spread this paste over the discoloration and permit it to remain on a while. Then rub the paste briskly over the stains. After this, rinse your hands, and then use a good, bleaching hand lotion.

In order to keep your breath sweet and untainted, of course, you must brush your teeth at least three times a day. And you should also use a good mouth wash frequently. A most effective mouth wash for this purpose can be made by dissolving one-fourth teaspoon of borax, one-fourth teaspoon of peroxide and one-fourth teaspoon of salt in a glass of warm water.

And don't forget that it is ithe sweetness and femininity of women that appeal to men, and anything that tends to make them seem hard

As John Dillinger Once Again Escaped Capture

These photos tell the story of John Dillinger's sensational escape from a federal police trap near Spider Lake, Wis., where he and his gang shot their way to freedom after two men were killed and four wounded when the gangsters were surrounded in a resort at Little Bohemia. At right is Max Organist, of Spider Lake, examining the guns and ammunition left behind by Dillinger and his mob; left, above, George Bazou, Emil Winnetka and Frank Traube, captives of Dillinger at Winnetka's lodge who were forced to wait on the gang for three nights at the point of guns; left below, the automobile in which John Hoffman, John Morris, and Eugene Boisoneau were fired upon by federal agents as they left Little Bohemia in the belief they were members of the Dillinger gang. Boisoneau was killed, while Hoffman and Morris were wounded. Morris and Boisoneau were CCC workers.

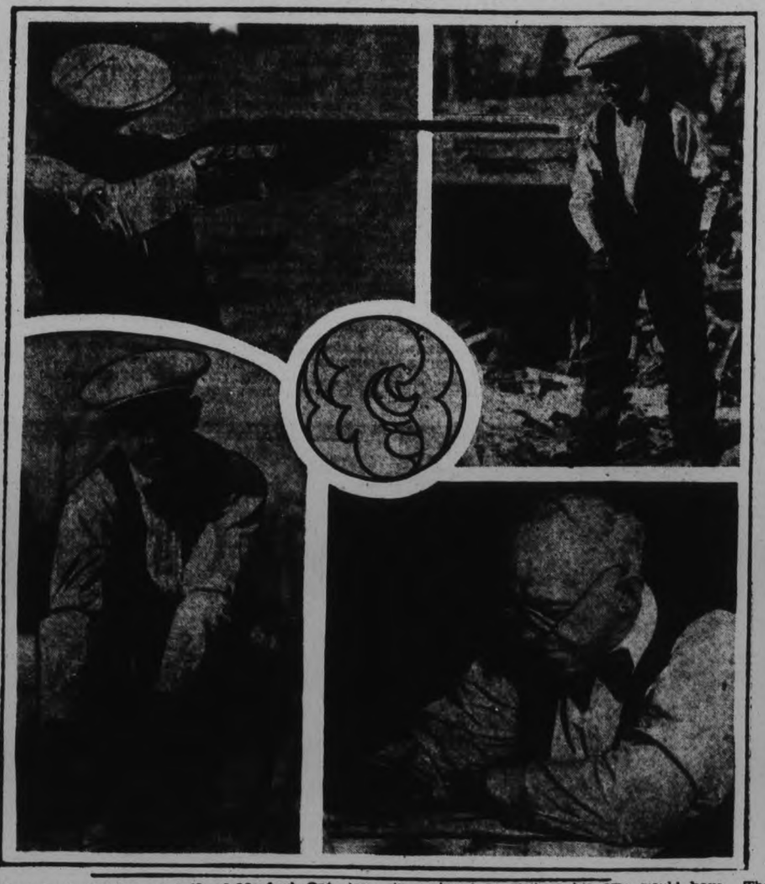
Ontario Man Overcomes Handicap—Deprived Of Both Arms



Andrew A. Gawley, aged 49, of Meaford, Ont., lost both forearms 32 years ago. They were amputated by a buzz saw in a mill accident. But that did not stop Mr. Gawley. Though his father was blind, they together made steel hands for the young lad. The eyes of the son and the hands of the father fashioned the steel hands that have served Mr. Gawley ever since almost as well as his own would have. The layout, above, illustrates what can be done. Mr. Gawley, today, earns his living as a machinist. He can write, shoot, ride a bicycle, tie his shoe-laces, chop wood, thread a needle, and of course eat and dress without any assistance. Surely a magnificent accomplishment for one deprived of his hands early in life.

BRITISH AGRICULTURAL SLUMP BLAMED ON IMPORTATION FROM COUNTRIES OUTSIDE THE EMPIRE

Ferguson Emphatic Responsibility Not With Member Nations of Empire.

LIBERALS DIFFER.

Convention Condemns Ottawa Pacts as Hamstringing Free Trade.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, May 3 (CP Cable).—The Dominions and the National Farmers' Union of Great Britain are fully in accord with the view that imports from foreign countries—not the Dominions—are entirely responsible for the depressed state of British agriculture at present.

This was the declaration of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, to the Canadian Press to-day, simultaneous with consideration at the Liberal Party Conference in Bournemouth of a report condemning the Ottawa Trade Pacts as ham-stringing Free Trade while failing to increase Empire Trade.

At the same time a high official of the Farmers' Union, which has been represented as chiefly antagonistic to increased imports of livestock and agricultural products from the Dominion, told the Canadian Press that the Farmers' Union objections to the Ottawa agreements "admittedly concern details rather than principles."

Cordial Relations

Relations between the union and representatives of the Dominions were entirely cordial, this official added. He referred to a memorandum just circulated to members of the National Farmers' Union which said, "It seem a pity the suggestion of a conflict in policy—promoting agricultural self-sufficiency while endeavoring to encourage industry with increased exchange of manufactures for overseas agricultural products—should be raised at a time when signs of trade revival are becoming marked, and a greater feeling of optimism prevails."

This memorandum expressed a considerable measure of sympathy with the views recently expressed by Sir George MacDonogh, retiring President of the British Industries Federation, who dealt at great length with this apparent conflict in policy among the Government. On the one hand Ministers, led by Walter Elliot, Minister of Agriculture have been going all out for making British agriculture fully self-supporting. On the other, Ministers led by Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, are making every effort to encourage industrial revival by a system of commercial agreements designed to promote the interchange of British manufacturers with Empire and foreign agricultural produce.

Given No Details

The farmers' chief complaint is they are being kept in the dark in regard to Government proposals. It was explained to The Canadian Pre in this manner:

"Before the Ottawa Conference the National Farmers' Union met representatives of the Dominions' interests, and much useful preparatory work was done. It was no fault of the Union that fuller use was not made of the result of that work and of the accredited observers whom the Union sent to Ottawa to facilitate agreement between home and Dominion interests.

"Again, when the Argentine and Danish trade agreements were negotiated, the home agriculturists were kept completely in the dark, and when the terms of the agreements were published it was too late for the Union to make any effective representations in regard to any aspect of them.

"It is to that policy of keeping the home agriculturists in the dark that we owe the present plight of the livestock industry."

Mr. Ferguson told The Canadian Press that relations with the National Farmers' Union were entirely cordial. "So far as Canada is concerned, we prefer to work out complications in the Ottawa or any other agreements in friendly negotiation, rather than make public protest.

"The question of beef imports will come up next month for instance (the meat clauses of the Ottawa pacts, chiefly affecting Australia, run out in June) and Canada is preparing a case for more generous treatment as compared with foreign countries.

"How far the foreign treaties made since the Ottawa conference will affect the position, will be afforded ample opportunity for discussion."

Cattle Limit Set.

It is pointed out also that in accordance with British requests Canada has already agreed her exports of cattle to the British market in the first six months of this year shall not exceed last year's total.

On the other hand the British government is known to have made it plain to Australia and New Zealand that it cannot continue the present entirely free market existing for their agricultural output, even in return for drastic lowering or abolition of Antipodes' tariffs on British goods. A huge inflow of New Zealand butter for one thing has caused considerable concern.

Coincidentally the Times to-day devoted a long article to the return of Stanley Bruce, Australia's High Commissioner in London, after a stay in Australia during which he explained the difficulties of the British market to commonwealth and state authorities.

"His experience gave weight to his advice that Australia should organise her marketing of primary products and co-operate with Britain in regulating supplies to the British market," said the Times. "Even in Australia and New Zealand it is recognized that in their own interests, as well as those of the British farmers, some check must be put on the flow of supplies to the British market.

"Ill-informed Comment"

"Stimulated by ill-considered and ill-informed comment in this country, there is a tendency to urge that plenty of room could be found in the British market for the domestic and empire farmer if foreign supplies were either drastically restricted or entirely excluded. The repercussions such a policy would have upon the export trade not only of Britain but of the whole Empire, as well as upon the general economic and financial position, are either ignored or dismissed as unworthy of serious consideration.

"They must however be taken into account by British policy, which certainly aims at giving the Dominion producer a place in the home market only second to the home farmer, with a very substantial advantage over the foreigner. But British policy, must, both in equity and for reasons of self-interest, be framed to permit foreign countries to sell in this market enough of their goods to enable them to meet charges on loans and capital invested by Britain, and to buy the goods Britain wants to sell them."

ALL MINISTERS TO GET PENSION

Will Be Taken Care of Whether Able to Contribute to Fund or Not.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.).—Ministers unable to contribute to the pension fund will be cared for, the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston has decreed after hearing stories of hardship told by veteran members of the Synod.

The Synod yesterday discussed the advisability of changing the system under which contributions are made to the fund. Under the present system a minister with a $10,000 yearly salary contributes the same amount as one earning $1,800.

A minister who had to sell the gold from his false teeth appeared before the Synod to explain he was unable to contribute to the fund. He was Rev. R. W. Ellis of North Bay.

Rev. Mr. Ellis said he earned $5 a week for a while last year on which he had to maintain a family of five. This year he obtained $10 a week. He sold the gold from his teeth when his finances dwindled to nothing.

Rev. J. A. Ralston of Parry Sound declared the principles of the ministry of the Church called for the strong to protect the weak. "You cannot find a suspicion of these principles in the base of our fund," he added. He also was unable to contribute to the fund, although he had served the Church for 20 years.

Rev. M. Zeidman criticised a Toronto minister for stating he hated Communists and atheists. "I curse them in the name of Jesus Christ," Rev. Mr. Zeidman quoted the minister as saying.

Rev. Mr. Zeidman said the Presbyterian Church did not preach hate although "some ministers were guilty of stirring up the passions of the ignorant against their fellows."

Wolf Cub training of boys from eight to twelve years, is the junior branch of the Scout movement, and was devised in 1917 by Lord Robert Baden Bowel, founder of the Scout movement, to meet the eagerness of a large number of small boys who wanted to be Scouts, but who were too young.

The training is based on Rudyard Kipling's story, The Jungle Book, and a great deal of imagination is used in securing a jungle atmosphere. The element of make-believe is used. Games supply the outlet for boyish energy, and simple tests are made in progressing through different grades.

The boy first becomes a tenderpad, and promises to live up to Wolf Cub promises and laws. The laws are simple but effective. The Cub gives in to the old Wolf (the leader).

The 8th St. Andrew's Scout Troop recenlty opened their meeting with sixteen members present. Vic Millard, the Scoutmaster, and Max Hutchinson, A.S.M., conducted the meeting. After the announcements had been given out, the patrol leaders were issued with their record books. An inspection of patrols was held, followed by patrol corners, where recruits were examined in tenderfoot work.

At an impressive investiture ceremony Gordon White, Allan Moldivere, Arthur Todd, Jack Oranford, Thomas Kemp and James Gibbons, made their Scout promise, and were admitted to Scout membership. Assistant District Commissioner A. Hope gave an interesting talk and led the group in a game of Police and Robbers. At the camp fire plans were made for a social evening next meeting. The troop is making satisfactory progress.

KNOX DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS AMUSING FARCE

Church Thespians Score Success in Comedy, "Her Gloves."

REPEATED TO-NIGHT.

Cast Shows Appreciation of Roles and Maintains Interest.

"Her Gloves" is the title of the gay farce comedy in three acts which was presented last night for the first time by the Dramatic Club of Knox United Church, under auspices of the Sunday School of the church, with a second presentation scheduled for to-night.

In a bright play in which the action at times becomes uproariously funny, there are many complications, and three divorces of happily married couples are generated by the unfortunate intrusion of an actress into the life of dwellers at New Rochelle, New York, where the scene is laid in the home of Walter Dillingham and his wife.

Walter and his father-in-law, Jefferson Ruggles, engage in a mysterious yachting trip with a mysterious passenger who leaves her gloves aboard, thus commencing a lot of trouble for her hosts.

Mrs. Dillingham and her mother, Mrs. Ruggles, are jealous-minded ladies and the gloves arouse their suspicions at once. The two men do their best at a moment's notice, but their talent for prevaricating is not of the best and they tell so many lurid stories that they become involved in plenty of curious mix-ups. Charlie Brooks, a neighbor, under pressure, tries to help them out, but he also possesses a jealous spouse, who comes armed with a fierce umbrella.

Robert Slocum, suitor to the pretty daughter, Dora, also essays a feminine impersonation in an effort to relieve the strain on the mendacious gentlemen, but he doesn't do so well as a lady. And then the actress, Valeska Bijou, arrives on the scene, along with her rather tough-sounding husband, Jim Ryan, and further gums up the works.

Needless to say, the third act finds the affair straightened out, but the final denouement arrives unexpectedly, and all is once more serene in the house of the Dillinghams and their parents-at-law.

The Cast

All members of the cast do excellently, taking their parts with sincere appreciation of the needs of the role and never letting the interest down for a moment.

The direction is very fine also, with Mrs. H. McLachlan training the members in their roles.

Between acts, entertainment is provided by Mrs. Ken Baker, singing "An Old-Fashioned Town," with encore, and accompaniment played by Miss May Pollock, and Bert Alcock, who does a coon impersonation in a sable suit and stove-pipe hat, with various darky philosophical remarks on the wedded state.

The Rev. W. McDonald acted as chairman.

The members of the cast are as follows: Walter Dillingham, a dealer in real estate, played by Norman Hughes; Jefferson Ruggles, his father-in-law (Howard Hall; Robert Slocum, a friend of the family (Sam McKinley); Charlie Brooks, a neighbor (Harold Martin); Jim Ryan, a theatrical manager (Reuben McDonald); Lulu, Mrs. Ruggles, wife of Jefferson (Cora Tuily); Blanche Dillingham, wife of Walter (Margaret Hill); Dora Ruggles, in love with Slocum (Edna Dunford); Elizabeth Brooks, wife of Charlie (Margaret Wedlock); Valeska Bijou, a leading lady, and the actress in the case (Beatrice Wallace).

"Her Gloves" will be repeated to-night in the lecture hall of the church.

A Sweet Slip

PITTSFIELD, Mass. May 3. (A.P.)—Frank Wilson and his family have had the novel experience of being besieged in their house by a great swarm of bees, and a crew of house painters gets the blame. When they mixed their paint, the painters used three gallon cans of maple syrup instead of three similar looking cans of linseed oil that stood nearby. When the syrup-sweetened paint was spread on the house it evidently attracted most of the bees in Berkshire County, and the family did not dare venture outdoors until nightfall, when the bees left.

At the Theatres

AT THE REGENT

"FASHIONS OF 1934"

The suave, smooth, silky William Powell has the stellar role in this picture. He is also very smart, and at moments, he appears to be almost too smart. However, he swims along beautifully, and Bette Davis, the blonde, unusual little lady who always looks as if she should be acting the part of a really bad girl, swims with him.

They are a pair of dress pirates, in a fashion racket which takes them to Paris to copy new models there and send them along to New York, before the couturiers of Paris have an opportunity to ship over their gowns. It is a clever idea that involves the two in some peculiar mixups.

There is also the Grand Duchess Alix of Russia, none but the former Mabel McGuire of Hoboken, a lady who poses beautifully in a gorgeous Revue that brings into play some glittering scenes and a lovely theme song titled "Spin a Little Web of Dreams" that is more than faintly reminiscent of the "Little Lowdown Tune."

The Grand Duchesse is Veree Teasdale, who, according to reports, is "that way" about William Powell. Evidently Mr. Powell finds it easy to go for a tall blonde.

And let us not forget Frank McHugh, the gentleman who can just about steal any picture he has a mind to appear in. With his vague way and his chortle and his original manner, he is as good as ever in the part of 'Snap', who has plenty of difficulty with his own love affairs.

And Mr. Ward has a way all his own, too. These minor actors in pictures of this type certainly put it over sometimes.

The comedy film, entitled "Hold Your Temper," has Leon Errol in the major part and shows the business executive, George Kiwanisly, in the midst of a bad day.

—Jeanette.

Leafs Drop First Game On Home Grounds to Albany

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES.

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

The incorrect foot and leg action always finds the knees pretty well apart. That is, the legs separated as though the player was bow-legged.

The greater distance the knees get away from each other the more trouble the player will have in his swing.

To offset this and bring about an approximation of the correct foot and leg action, particularly when the player hasn't the time to go through the proper exercises. I've suggested standing knockkneed in the starting position. As the swing progresses, try to keep the knees touching. This gives a steadier balance and smoother body action during the swing.

MEN'S LEAGUE OPENS MAY 18

Harrison to Fill Vice-President Vacancy Left by Resignation of Dormer.

GAMES START 6 P.M.

A large and enthusiastic open meeting, followed by an executive one, was held by the Men's City Softball League in Duffus' last evening, and the ground was cleared for the start of the playing season in about two weeks' time. President Fred Scates presided and pushed through various details that came up for discussion.

George Dormer tendered his resignation as vice-president, stating he expected to play softball this year and preferred not to hold office. Percy Harrison was elected by acclamation to replace him. The date for the opening of the schedule was set at Friday, May 18th, and teams drawn to open were C.G.E. and Dunlop Tires. The following Monday, May 21, Fashion-Craft and Brintons meet. Four teams will comprise the league this season. No games will be held May 23rd or 24th in order not to conflict with the opening of the girls' league and the Omemee softball tournament.

Games will commence at six o'clock, Standard Time, and will be played Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The schedule, to be drawn up by Secretary Dave Leether, will consist of two halves, as was the case last year. Winners of each half will playoff for the right to enter the O.A.S.A. playdowns. The Kenesky ball was adopted.

Bob Batley was appointed umpire-in-chief and will appoint his own assistants. The caretaker will be appointed later. Finances will be carried on as in previous years. The league will fix up the grounds at Central School if their application for the use of these grounds to the Board of Education is granted. Various other matters were discussed before the meeting adjourned.

Leafs in Three-way Tie for Second Place With Newark and Syracuse.

BISONS BEAT BEARS.

Red Wings Gain 9-4 Victory Over Orioles in Rochester Opener.

(By The Associated Press)

The results of the northern openings in the International League seem to indicate the fans lost very little, if any, enthusiasm during the two weeks the teams were playing in the "southern" half of the circuit.

Where some 33,000 fans, considered a good Opening Day turnout, saw the season's first games April 18 when the weather was a trifle colder, a total of more than 48,000 packed into the parks at Toronto, Montreal, Rochester and Buffalo for yesterday's four games.

Toronto's Maple Leafs easily copped attendance honors, although they couldn't win their first home game. After a civic welcome and street parade, witnessed by about 5,000, the Leafs drew approximately 17,000 fans to the Stadium, to see them drop a 3-2 decision to Albany Senators, and wind up again in a three-way tie for second place with Newark and Syracuse. A five-hit attack on Sheriff Fred Blake produced all the Albany runs in the third inning.

The league-leading Rochester Red Wings got about the best all-around results from their opening. Not only did they attract 14,230 cash customers, but they smashed out a 9-4 victory over Baltimore Orioles, getting extra base hits in big bunches.

Buffalo Bisons, despite their place at the bottom of the standing and a six game losing streak, had a paid attendance of 11,430, and they celebrated the occasion by shattering their string of losses with a 14-6 triumph over the Newark Bears.

Smallest Attendance

Montreal, the largest city in the league, had the day's smallest attendance. Possibly because the Royals are down in the second division, only 6,000 fans turned out to witness a return battle of the mound struggle between Chad Kimsey and Fred Fussell which marked the opening at Syracuse. This time the decision and score were reversed, Kimsey pitching the Royals to a 2-1 triumph, although he allowed seven hits, including a homer by Joe Benes, to six off Fussell.

Pirates Topple Cubs From National Lead League

This Must Be Autumn: At Least Football H as Started

Did someone ask if we enjoyed the summer? Believe it or not, the football season has started right here in Canada. Or perhaps we should have said the 1933 football season is just finishing. Ot Ottawa last week, Glebe Collegiate and Carleton Place met in a championship struggle that weather did not permit to be played last year. Glebe won the title by a score of [illegible] in a game that was not only well played, but attended by several thousand fans who were not forced to shiver in wintry blasts to watch the game. The idea made a hit in Ottawa and the sports writers there are advocating more football in the spring. The ABOVE layout shows two action shots from the game which was featured by the 60-yard run for a touchdown by W. Short of Glebe.

HOROMETER ATOP IN RACING PUBLIC MIND FOR PLATE RACE

Never Was There a Stronger Favorite for the Royal Guineas Than the McLaughlin Gelding Under the Entry of Harry Giddings.

TORONTO, May 3 (CP)—A lanky brown gelding, yet to taste defeat has been installed as public choice for the 75th running of the King's Plate, annual classic of Canadian turfdom.

From more than two score of the best three-year-olds and up Ontario racing stables could produce, R. S. McLaughlin's three-year-old Horometer has become the strongest favorite in years for the old continuously-run fixture in North America.

The consistent son of Hourless, out of Star Pal has been selected as unanimously as any racing favorite could be. Horometer holds a reputation in never losing his many starts as a juvenile. Also there is a mediocre field of 1934 candidates. The present list probably will be cut down to about a dozen for the historic race, to be staged at the opening of the Woodbine meeting, Saturday, May 19.

Making first choice more decisive is the entry with the McLaughlin candidate of another gelding, Pitchblende, along with Mad Miss, the little bay daughter of Mad Hatter and French Miss, from the stable of R. W. R. Cowie, owner of the King's Plate in 1931 and 1932. Horometer, Pitchblende and Mad Miss are all under the entry of the veteran trainer, Harry Giddings, saddler of Cowies filly Queensway which set the Plate record of 1.56 1-5 for the mile and an eighth in 1932.

There is every probability, however, that Mad Miss, a capable mudder will be withdrawn unless the race is heavy going. J. T. Smallmans' Andiron by Merry Monarch from Ifs and Ands, is about the most definite third choice.

The King's Plate is worth 50 guineas from the King, with $7,500 added by the Ontario Jockey Club.

Stringent rules of the Plate, first donated by Queen Victoria in 1859, confine the contest to Ontario-bred three-year-olds and up who have never won a race since graduating from juvenile company. It was for the purpose of encouraging the breeding of thoroughbreds in the province, the fixture was inaugurated. The Earl of Minto, former Governor-General of Canada said on his return to England: "Nothing, in my opinion has done more good for horse breeding in Canada than the Kings' Plate, run at Toronto."

Until 1833, the Queen's Plate, as it was then known, was run at various Ontario tracks—London, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Prescott and Picton. Finally, under sanction from the Queen, the race was established permanently in Toronto. Originally the race was over a mile and a half course. Now it is a mile and an eighth.

With appearance of Seagram entries in the late '30's, the Plate became almost a traditional part of the historical stable, present holders, for the 19th time. King O'Connor, a bay gelding by the Winter King out of Doreen O'Connor—staged a victory last year, recapturing the royal gift for the Waterloo stable, making the second best time on record for the Plate course.

Comparative times for the last ten years when the course was reduced to the present distance, are shown in the following names of winners and owners:

Year.	Horse.	Owner.	Time.
1924	Maternal Pride	H. S. Wilson	1.57 3-5

CHICAGO DROPS SECOND TUSSLE TO BUCCANEERS

Giants Wabble Through to Third Straight Victory Over Brooklyn 6-5.

CARDINALS WIN 4-1.

Indians Gain American Lead When Yankees and Tigers Suffer Setbacks.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., A.P. Sports Writer.)

As the Eastern clubs of the National League move on the West for the opening of the first intersectional strife of the 1934 major league season, a timely warning might be to look out for Pittsburgh Pirates. It appears very much to the point as the Buccaneers clash with the league leading New York Giants in the first series.

So far Chicag Cubs have held the spotlight more than any other Western Club in the circuit, but it was Pittsburgh, in third place with only a fair showing against Cincinnati and St. Louis, which knocked the Cubs out of the lead and made them take two defeats in a row for the first time this season. Following Tuesdays 4-1 triumph behind Ralph Birkofer, the Pirates won 4-2 yesterday with Heinie Meine, veteran righthander, on the hill.

Pittsburgh never was in trouble yesterday as Arky Vaughan opened the firing in the first with a homer with one on base and the hits off Lon Warneke continued to come when they counted.

Fall Behind the Giants

Chicagos' defeat dropped the Cubs a half game behind the Giants, who wabbled through to their third straight victory over Brooklyn, 6-5, when Frank O'Doul smashed a pinch homer with two aboard in the eighth.

The Cardinals won the other National League struggle from Cincinnati, which had to get along without Jim Bottomley, by a 4-1 count. Tex Carleton hurled effectively to the last inning, then Dizzy Dean did good relief work. Philadelphia and Boston were unscheduled.

Indians in Lead

Cleveland Indians slipped into the American League lead with playing a game, as both New York and Detroit suffered reverses, going to second and third respectively. The Yanks bowed, 6-2, to Washington, when the Senators landed on Russell Van Atta in the first inning, collecting six hits and four runs before he retired with only one out, and finishing the job against Johnny Murphy in the same inning.

St. Louis Browns handed the Tigers a 5-2 setback on a combination of home runs by Irving Burns and Ray Pepper that produced all the tallies, and George Blaeholders' seven hit hurling. Philadelphia's Athletics outslugged Boston, 12-11, after spotting the Red Sox six runs in the first two innings. Bob Johnson's pinch homer in the seventh finally put the A's ahead.

Chicago was bracketed with Cleveland for an off day.

McBride Asks Probe Into T.T.C. Affairs

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.) — In seeking a judicial investigation into affairs of the Toronto Transportation Commission, Controller Sam McBride yesterday presented a motion to Board of Control asking for a complete probe into affairs of the commission, which operates Toronto's street cars and subsidiary bus lines. The motion was presented to the City Solicitor for his opinion as to whether the charges made were properly drawn up.

Controller McBride charged the commission with illegally depleting its cash reserves; making exorbitant purchases of lands from one of the commission's own members; with failure to maintain an adequate service, and with acting against the best interests of the citizens. He charged William C. McBrien, a commissioner, with violation of his oath of office in selling lands to the commission and said the commission acted illegally and without authority in purchasing the lands.

An identification ticket, obtained at the same time as the railway ticket, is the only passport now needed for a week-end visit in France.

GIRLS' LEAGUE NOT AFFILIATE WITH PROVINCIAL ASSOCATION

Move of Former Meeting Rescinded After Considerable Discussion.

APPOINT UMPIRES.

The Peterborough Girls' Softball League will not affiliate with the Provincial Women's Union this year, it was decided by an unanimous vote at last night's executive meeting in Duffus'. After considerable discussion on the question, a motion to rescind the move to affiliate, which was made at the previous meeting, was carried. Considerable other business was done at this session.

President Russ Kitchen was in the chair and thanked those present for electing him again. The minutes were then read, and the question of affiliating with the Provincial Union came up next. Various angles were threshed out, and everyone present appeared to think the league would be better this year without such an affiliation. It was put to a vote and passed.

Correspondence was dealt with next, including applications as umpires and caretaker. Scotty Galbraith and Ab Frick were named umpires for the season, and George Foster was re-appointed caretaker. Jack Graham was named to take care of the score-board during games. Omemee applied for entrance to this league and after some talk this team was accepted, and will be called upon to pay the five-dollar entry fee required of new entrants.

Besides Omemee, Westclox, Keene, Maple Leafs, and C.G.E. are the only sure teams in yet. Warsaw and Sixth Line—not represented—were said to be indefinite, and Brintons are uncertain. It was decided to get in touch with these teams before the next meeting and find out definitely what they propose doing. Six teams are wanted, and eight would be preferred, it was stated.

The schedule is to open May 21st with suitable opening ceremonies. Games will start at 6.15 sharp, Standard Time, and seven innings will comprise a game if nine innings cannot be played owing to darkness or rain. The matter of an official ball, where to obtain them, and how many each team should receive from the league, was left over till the next meeting when more information might be obtained. Alderman Robert Cotton promised to see that the Bowl grounds were rolled in the near future. Other details regarding the grounds, stands, benches and collections were discussed. A new wire netting will be placed behind the home plate.

A Protest Committee, comprising Fred Scates, Ted Lebarr and H. E. Choate, was appointed. President Kitchen notified the meeting he would donate a silver cup to the player being of most assistance to her team this year, playing ability and conduct being considered, the trophy to become her permanent possession. A number of other matters, of minor importance, were discussed and either passed or left over, and the next meeting was set for eight o'clock in Duffus' Wednesday, May 9th. The session then adjourned.

HAMMOND ASSOCATES GAIN CONTROL OF MADISON GARDEN

Former Partner of Rickard Will be New President of New York Rangers.

PURCHASE 112,000 SHARES

(By Edward J. Neil. A.P. Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, May 3. — Madison Square Garden, the sports palace Tex Rickard built, returned yesterday to the control of one of his earliest associates, Colonel John S. Hammond, the man who fought hardest, and for years lost the battle, for the continuance of the policies of the great promoter.

Hammond annouced yesterday that with the exception of minor legal details he and his unnamed associates had bought the stock interests of Richard F. Hoyt and Hayden, Stone Co., the bankers who underwrote Rickard's $7,000,000 venture nine years ago. The deal was reported to have involved the transfer of 112,000 shares of stock at $7.00 per share, slightly above the market value.

At the same time the white-haired colonel, a West Point graduate, who first met Rickard when they were both interested in cattle in Argentina, annouced that while he would become chairman of the Garden board of directors, and return to the presidency of New York Rangers, of the National Hockey League Col. John R. Kilpatrick would remain as president of the corporation. Lester Patrick, who succeeded to the presidency of the Rangers when Hammond withdrew, will remain as manager of the big blue team.

It was perfectly evident, however, that Hammond, who has fought ceaselessly for control of the Garden ,will direct its policies in every way.

When Rickard sought backing for the building of the Garden Hammond, a wealthy man, was first to join him. He sold Tex on the idea of professional hockey.

At the time of Rickard's death in 1929, Hammond owned a large block of stock in the Garden, but lacked control. He clashed constantly with the banking interests in control, and the increasing conflict resulted in his resignation as president of the hockey club over a year ago.

A thorough reorganization of the hockey team is forecast ,for Col. Hammond is feverish over the sport.

AFFILIATION WITH O.L.B.A. UNDER DEBATE

Retiring President, Major McCulloch, Urges Need of Strong Association For Success.

TOURNAMENT DATES.

J. Mackey, of Lindsay, was elected president of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association at an enthusiastic meeting of the association's delegates held last evening in the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club's clubhouse. W. Livingstone, of Port Hope, was elected as vice-president, and R. Disney, formerly of Peterborough and now of Lindsay ,was elected to the important position of secretary-treasurer.

While no definite decisions were reached on some important questions, there was much discussion, and it appears that the association is certain of a most successful year. Delegates were present at the convention from Port Hope, Cobourg, Whitby, Norwood, Lindsay, Port Perry and Peterborough. Another meeting will be held here on May 16.

In addressing the delegats at the opening, Major McCullough of Cobourg urged the need of a strong Central Ontario association if lawn bowling is to thrive in this district. He appealed for all the clubs to co-operate one with another, and urged them to send rinks to compete in the association's annual play-offs held at Peterborough.

Free of Debt.

J. T. Braund, president of the local club, extended greetings to the association. E. R. Hiscock presented the secretary-treasurer's report which showed that the association was free of debt and had a balance of $81 in the bank. He urged that it was necessary for every bowler to work hard for the association and to support every tournament by endeavoring to attend.

During the open discussion, the question arose of membership in the Provincial Association, but nothing was decided, albeit the delegates secured a better understanding of the work of the Provincial body.

A resolution was passed authorising the secretary to write a letter of condolence to the family of the late Dr. Daly of Port Hope.

July 5—Ladies' rinks.
July 18—Mixed rinks.

BRADMAN SCORES 112 RUNS NOT OUT

Three Other Players Get Centuries in First Dayof English Season.

LONDON, May 3 (CP Cable).—Dominated by the lusty batting of Don Bradman, one of the greatest cricketers the game has ever known, the snick of the bat and crash of the stumps resounded yesterday as the new cricket season got under way.

The touring Australians, bent on regaining the mythical "Ashes" lost on the last English tour of Australia, opened their long campaign against Worcestershire, one of the lesser fire-class county elevens, at Worcester. When stumps were drawn the Aussies had run up 199 runs for loss of only three wickets, in reply to Worcestershire's 112, all out.

Bradman, the New South Wales batsman extraordinary, compiled 112 runs himself, and was not out at the close of play. Captain P. M. Woodfull contributed 48, while on the bowling side Clarence Grimmett, the 42-year-old slow bowler, captured five wickets for 53 runs.

The Australians have just over a month's campaigning to get acclimatised before the first test match against England at Nottingham, starting June 8.

Only one regular first-class county match was included in the five matches that got under way yesterday. At Cardiff, scores at the close were: Kent, 332 (Ashdown) 109); Glamorgan, eight for one wicket.

Surrey took a long lead over the M.C.C. at Lords, where the closing scores were: M.C.C. 142 (Hendren 81, Holmes six for 16, Glover four for 35). Surrey, 151 for two (Hobbs 50, Gregory 59).

Both the first-class Varsity elevens made good starts in the remaining matches, closing scores being as follows:

Cambridge 248 (Bartlett 85, Hargreaves four for 57); Yorkshire 47 for no wickets, at Cambridge.

Oxford 397 (Desaram 176, Mitchell-Inns 107); Gloucestershire 20 for no wickets.

DUNDEE IS FAVORITE

PATERSON, N.J., May 3 (UP) — Vince Dundee, of Belleville, N.J., recognised in the United States as world's middleweight champion, will defend his title in a 15-round bout with Al Diamond of Paterson, tonight. Diamond earned the title chance by beating Andy Callahan in Boston recently. Dundee is a brother of the former welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, and is a 3 to 1 favorite in to-night's bout.

Knotty Lee has called for the first senior baseball workout at two o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Exhibition Grounds. Stevenson Park wont be ready for another week, so the Petes' coach will look over the players at the southend diamond. As was the case last year, Knotty extends an open invitation to all ball players in the city, regardless of age or experience. All places are open and the more battling for each position the merrier. No doubt, some of last year's ballsters will grab places again but there are several gaps to fill, and some of last summer's lads may find the competition stiff. A large turnout is looked for at this practice.

Belleville held its first session the other evening and had quite a gang on deck. According to the dope, Jack Williams, re-instated pro and former National star, has lost none of his cunning and made a fine impression on the railbirds the way he was burning 'em in to Peeney Mills. Other twirlers were Ernie Smith, Bud Wilkins and Langman. Infielders present were Roy Smith,, Blaker, Kerr, Darragh, Barriage, Meagher and H. Long of Trenton. Weir, Cretney, Rigy, Ryan of Toronto, Casey and Wallace were other players on hand. Utronki, Scarlett and Vaughn Jack—who are expected with this team—didn't show up for the first practice. They'll workout every second night from now till May 24th. This team is going to be 50 per cent stronger than last season.

The Quinte scribe is a little surprised at the two local transfers and says: "Let's see', wasn't it about a decade ago the Petes had a couple of up-and-coming ball players by the name of Camolli and Ansaldo?" That's right, and if Jack Murray and Sig Knopka go like these stars when they were here, the Petes will be sitting pretty this summer. The writer also suggests that maybe the Johnston Cup should be awarded right now to Kingston as the Ponies' press agent evidently thinks no other team has a chance in '34, and the schedule will be just a case of going through the motions. He points out that Belleville has a grand past in C.O.B.L. championships and states: "The Petes have been less fortunate but all that glitters is not gold, and we can safely say that Peterborough is one of the best, if not the best, baseball towns in the east, and that goes any way one wishes to look at it."

Alex Kasaboski, a favorite "bad man" of the mat game when he rassled here, felt the might of Jack Dempsey's famous Mary Ann punch—as Jack called his left hook when he was champ—the other day in Detroit. The Times says: "That big fellow (Jack was referee) has not lost his punch was indicated when he treated a couple of the rougher wrestlers even rougher than their opponents were doing. Once he socked big Alex Kasaboski with a left hook to the jaw when Alex refused to abide by the rules, and Alex went sprawling on his back, groggy and all but out." He helped to draw a good crowd paying nearly five G's, of which Jack got half. Not bad for a few hours work! He is still very popular and packs 'em in wherever he referees, and the crowd cheers his every move. Of course Jack puts on a good act, even as a referee. He was always smart.

At the executive meeting of the gal softballers last e'en , it was decided unanimously not to affiliate with the Provincial Women's Union this year. There was a lot of chatter on the subject and everyone was against it. Expenses, shortening of schedule, time off from work,, and other reasons caused the change in feeling. We think they were wise. As Manager Thomas of the C.G.E. said: "I had about eighteen girls out at a practise last night and they all voted against such an affiliation." A lot of other business was cleaned up, too, but only five sure entries are in yet. Warsaw, Sixth Line and Brintons ought to be back, and why not teams from Quaker Oats and Dominion Woollens? This is a very popular circuit, there are plenty of players available, cost is low—since the teams get a third of the gates —and the advertising is excellent. We'd like to see eight teams in, and they may enter up till the next meeting on Wednesday, May 9th. Scotty Galbraith and Ab Frick were named umpires.

• • • • • •

Men's Softball League met last p.m. also and waded through a pile of details. Four teams will make up this circuit and it'll start May 18th (three days before the gals' loop). Games commence at six bells, while the damsels' fixtures start at 6.15. Bob Batley is umpsin-chief for the men softballers again, and Percy Harrison replaced George Dormer as vice-prexy. Opening game sees C.G.E. and Dunlop Tires tangle, with Fashion-Craft meeting Brintons next eve. They've applied to the Board of Education for Central School grounds again and will fix 'em up, if obtained. This circuit will be mighty fast this summer with four classy squads in and practising almost nightly for nearly three weeks before the schedule begins. Incidentally, the Board of Education has had several applications for grounds: Westclox Shop League for King George School, City Softball for Central, and Church loop for Queen Alex and Queen Mary grounds. All have been referred to the Property Committee.

• • • • • •

Bert Deck had his Dunlop Tire men softballers working out at Central last night and quite a crew of smart players were strutting their stuff all over the place. After several more practises, we imagine Bert will have as promising a looking outfit lined up as any in the loop. Some of the better ones noticed cavorting about the diamond were: Walter Crary, Stanger, Starr, Chuck Dorrington, Ossie Anderson, Jim Ellis, Stuffy Mahood, Morrison of Lakefield, Meredith, F. Montgomery, McKay (a neat-looking Normalite) and pitchers Graham of Lakefield Tom Montgomery, Jimmy Price, and Lefty Grisdale. Elliott will be out later for hurling practise. The next workout is this Friday at 5.45 in the Oval.

• • • • • •

Lefty Judd, classy Guelph southpaw, is on his way back. He was unconditionally released by the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League the other day. Too bad, as he'll have to stay out of amateur ball three years now, though he may catch on somewhere else in semi-pro company. Lefty had the speed but lacked control. And speed is not enough in that kind of company. Four pro twirlers out of five—and we've watched a lot of them pitch—can burn 'em in a mile a minute, but control, a change of pace and ability to throw to a batter's weakness is what makes a real hurler in the cash-and-carry class. Yeah, there's a lot of difference between pro and amateur baseball.

• • • • • •

Grab-bag: C.G.E. men softballers practise tonight at 5.30 in Central and Sat'day there at 1.30 . . . . While C.G.E. gals are at it this eve at six in King Edward Park . . . . Westclox lasses are working out regularly now, and expect to have Mary Hall pitching for 'em this summer . . . . Maple Leaf damsels will workout tomorrow p.m. . . . . Other practises for the he-softballers include Fashion-Crafts at 5.45 Friday in Central, and Brintons there Sat'day at three . . . . Public School Softball League opens tomorrow afternoon with Queen Mary at King George, and Queen Alex at Prince of Wales . . . . . Something for players in the gals' softball loop to shoot at this summer is the silver cup offered by Russ Kitchen for the most valuable player, conduct on the field to count, to her team this year; cup to become her permanent possession . . . . More Church League dope appears in a separate story in today's paper.

PILOT CHANGES NO GENTLE ART IN PRO HOCKEY

Gorman's Resignation Recalls Many Shakeups at Top of Various Teams.

PEACEFUL PARTING

(By A. E. Fulford, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Tommy Gorman's resignation as manager of Chicago Black Hawks recently emphasized the high turnover of National Hockey League coaching brains in recent years.

Not that Gorman's resignation was forced. He made the Hawks over into world champions in one season and could have had a new contract with a higher salary had he wished to stay with Chicago.

As a general thing the retention year after year of hockey managers no matter what success they attain is a thing of the past. Now they must deliver or get out, and plenty of them have had to exit as gracefully as possible.

While a new guide for the Stanley Cup winners next season is certain there have bee no definite indications owners in other N.H.L. cities intend to hire new managers or coaches. George Boucher may drop out of the N.H.L. picture with the passing of the Senators from Ottawa, but otherwise the lineup of pilots is likely to be unchanged.

Gorman was the seventh manager or coach Hawks have used since their entrance into the league in 1926, none of them nearly as successful as the Ottawan. Pete Muldoon was first, followed by Hughey Lehman, Bill Tobin, Dick Irvin, Doc Matheson and Emil Iverson.

Lester Patrick has the longest continuous service record. He has been in charge of New York Rangers since they entered the league in 1926, Detroit, too, has been a happy spot for managers, only Jack Adams and Art Duncan have piloted them in their eight-year history.

Ottawa Senators and New York Americans both have had as many coaches as Chicago in recent years. Gorman piloted the Amerks first and Newsy Lalonde, Shorty Green, Lionel Conacher, Tom Howard, Eddie Gerard and Joe Simpson followed him. Gorman started to manage Ottawa in Ottawa in 1918 with Pete Green as coach and since then Alf Smith, Dave Gill, Lalonde, Cy Denneny, and Boucher have held the reins.

Art Ross has been in charge at Boston since they entered the league in 1924, with Sprague Cleghorn, Denneny and Mickey Mackay coaching at different times. Conny Smythe has retained his managership at Toronto for years, with first Art Duncan and then Dick Irvin as coach.

Cecil Hart, Leo Dandurand and Lalonde have handled Montreal Canadiens for the last decade or more, while Hart, Gerard, Duncan Munro, Jerry Laflamme and Cleghorn have tried their hands at piloting Montreal Maroons.

RE-DRAFT SCHEDULE

COBOURG, May 3. (Examiner Correspondence)—As another team from Oshawa has been added to the Lakeshore Girls Softball League it was necessary to hold a second meeting at Newcastle to re-draft a schedule, which has been done. The new schedule opens on May 24th and is not completed until August 12th, giving a long season and forcing the play-offs close to the September month. The Cobourg girls have the opening game here with Port Hope on May 24th.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Miss Dorothy Weese,
559 Harvey St., Peterborough.

Your handwriting was delineated last July the 22nd, so there will not be any need of repetition, because I find that your sample of writing is the same, but if you did not see the delineation and in print, and require a copy, you may write again. In regard to your question concerning teaching the answer is yes most decidedly. Your birthsign is Capricorn the Goat, and most people born under this sign are excellent teachers, especially along commercial lines. You are ruled by Saturn. Tuesday and Saturday are your best days. March and November your most fortunate months. You did not give me your year of birth, so I am unable to give you a number. People born under your sign also make excellent milliners and designers.

Miss Martha Cummiskey,
75 Benson Ave., Peterborough.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis shows that you are a very interesting person. You do not tell your troubles to the whole world, but manage to figure out your own salvation in the most ingenious manner possible. This is termed 'resourcefulness' and should stand you in good stead, many, many times as you journey through life. This characteristic creates a tendency to say and do the right things at exactly the right time in an emergency. Your tall upper loops and strokes indicate willingness to lead, coupled to a propensity for art. This does not of necessity mean painting, because there are so many lines in which one may indulge in art.. even household science is an art. The art which you might develop should be in a line where quick and decided thinking must be essential. Your whole outlines attendant to the signature denotes keenness of thought and activity. You are wonderfully attractive to the opposite sex, but yet in reality you do not wish to be. You are sensible and do not demand too much attention from anyone. You desire clothing which harmonizes with your moods. Colors affect you to such an extent that you are absolutely miserable if the dress you are wearing does not appeal to you, or your mood at the moment. Your number is 9. Your birthsign is Leo the Lion. You are ruled by the Sun. Your best months are January and October, and your lucky day is Sunday.

Miss Lillian Elliott,
R.R. No. 1, Lakefield, Ont.

The handwriting as indicated on your sample, symbolizes a desire for leadership, but as some of the lesser formations are cramped and angular, the desire is toned down to one of normal business ability. You could do equally well in business for yourself, or under the direction of an authority. You can apparently change your point of view in order to meet any situation. This tendency should make you popular among your friends. You seem to enjoy being among acquaintances, and also take pleasure in being alone. You cannot really stand constant noise, though you make the best of it, therefore quiet moments ease your mental vibrations. You possess a clever brain, which appears to telegraph the right thoughts at just the right moment. You are not too demonstrative in any manner, yet you sometimes wish you had not given way to your emotions even as much as you do once in a while. You are your own exacting taskmaster. You berate yourself for your own shortenings when there is no reason to do so. You should be a very happy person. Nature meant you to be. Could you not enjoy yourself a little more through recreation? Try to overcome that reserve which the closely knit letter formations indicate, and I think happiness of greater interest will follow.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, May 4

According to the lunar transits bearing rule on the affairs of this day there is great hope for those in the employment of others or those who are anxious to merit the support, friendship or favors of those in places of power and authority. It is a propitious time to approach these for promotion, increase of salary or other form of preferment and advancement.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of fulfilled ambitions in employment or in affiliation with those in places of power and authority.

A child born on this day should be efficient, ambitious and should merit the favors and support of superiors and those in high places.

MRS. W. L. SMYTH W.M.S. LECTURER

Addresses Representative Women of Six United Churches.

BRANCH PRESIDENT.

Study, Pray and Serve, was the key-note of the splendid address delivered yesterday by Mrs. W. L. Smyth, the W.M.S. branch president, to a large and very representative audience from the six United Churches.

Mrs. McMillan's group of the W.M.S. of George Street United Church was responsible for yesterday's May meeting of the Auxiliary and Mesdames Latimer and Mather, group members, received and welcomed the visiting ladies. The president, Mrs. E. W. Coon, graciously presided over the meeting and was supported by Mrs. Dulmage as treasurer. The devotional period opened the service, when all joined in singing "O Worship the King." Mrs. Bamforth read the Scripture lesson with its beautiful Missionary theme. Mesdames Stinson and Rome offered prayer.

In a brief session, the business was dealt with, the outstanding features being the announcement of a Mother and Daughter banquet in the W.M.S. of George Street, on May the eleventh, and the open meeting of the W.C.T.U. which as announced on another page, will be held to-night in George Street Sunday School Hall, with Miss Duff as the guest speaker.

In introducing Mrs. Smyth, the president spoke of her great popularity throughout the branch and that it was indeed a special privilege to the Peterborough W.M.S. women that she could come at this time.

Kingdom In Our Hearts

Mrs. Smyth thanked her audience for their sincere welcome and for the opportunity of having a share in this meeting. At the very beginning she gave two texts which she hoped would linger in their memory, if they forget everything else in her address. Each text compared the Kingdom of God to leaven and Mrs. Smith stressed the fact that the Kingdom of God is in our own hearts and like the leaven reaches out and transforms other lives.

The work of the W.M.S. is primarily to share the Gospel and to care for the needy, both in soul and body. To do this we must first of all study. We mhave many agencies to aid us in this—chief of which is the Bible where we find Jesus and His plan for us as individuals and as W.M.S. workers. Dr. Endicott says that the New Testament is the first Missionary text book.

Prayer is not coming to God to ask for things you want but in the light of the Knowledge that has come to you, you will find a new passion for souls and will make it your object of petition. In your daily life you may make your individual contribution to the work. There are many services we may all render such as friendship to those in need.

Adding to the missionary atmosphere were the delightful vocal solo selections, when Mrs. T. E. Curvin sang very effectively "Spirit Divine" with Mrs. Greenslade accompanying, and "The Lord is My Shepherd was beautifully interpreted by Miss Florence Glenny who was accompanied by Mrs. D. Howat.

In a few gracious words Mrs. E. Harvey voiced the sincere thanks of the gathering for the very fine address by Mrs. Smyth and to the soloists, Mrs. Curvin and Miss Glenny and Mrs. S. R. Armstrong seconded this sentiment.

The ladies were invited to remain for a cup of tea and a delightfully informal half-hour was enjoyed.

The tea-table was lovely with lace cloth, and daffodils, formed the floral decorations. Tea was poured by Mesdames Armstrong and Harvey and the gathering dispersed after bidding Mrs. Smyth good-bye.

HIAWATHA ONCE REAL CANNIBAL

Expert Believes Longfellow's Legendary Iroquois Really Existed.

BETWEEN 1550-1600.

(By F. B. Colton, A.P. Science Writer.)

WASHINGTON, May 3 (A.P.).—Hiawatha, mighty fighter, mighty hunter of Longfellow's legend, was declared to-day by the Smithsonian Institution to have been all of that, and a cannibal to boot.

Hiawatha, the Smithsonian said, finally got the better of his man-eating appetites and reformed into a preacher of the doctrine of human brotherhood.

Dr. J. N. B. Hewitt, the Institution's authority on the famous Iroquois League, asserted to-day he was convinced Hiawatha was more than a legendary figure, and that there was proof he actually lived between 1550 and 1600.

Hiawatha, he said, was one of the founders of the league, sometimes known as the Six Nations, which played an important part in early North American history.

His cannibal traits were a matter of tribal custom. He dropped the practice after becoming a disciple of the great Iroquois law-giver Dekanawida, who preached the doctrine of human brotherhood and built the Iroquois League around that idea. Dr. Hewitt said.

Separated from the legends interwoven in Longfellow's poem, Hiawatha's story is about as follows:

His early life was one of sorrow due to the murder of those close to him by his brother. He became a wanderer. Dekanawida, a wanderer also, followed him. One day, he climbed on the roof of Hiawatha's lodge and looked down the smoke hole.

Hiawatha saw the reflection of a human face in the water he had prepared to boil the body of his victim, and he believed he had seen a vision. He foreswore cannibalism on the spot. A great change of heart apparently came over him.

Hiawatha and Lekanawida later planned the Iroquois League, and must have labored together for about 30 years.

Police Use Tear Gas At Kitchener Plant

KITCHENER, Ont., May 3 (C.P.). —Police used tear gas to-day to break up a crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers gathered outside the plant of the Lang Tanning Company. A Mrs. Duchuck, Ahrens Street, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Police charge Mrs. Duchuck threw rocks at men who reported for work at the plant this morning. A mob of strikers and strike sympathizers gathered around the place, but their enthusiasm is said to have been cooled somewhat by a tear gas cartridge fired by Police Chief Hodgson.

During the night the homes of two workers were bombarded with stones and many windows were smashed.

DR. BLAGRAVE URGES FAITH IN DEMOCRACY

Tells Workers Britishers Have No Use for Communism.

BEAVER CLUB DINNER.

Chairman Asks For Co-operative Unity and Urges Use of Idle Time.

A plea for continued faith in the principles of democracy was expressed by Venerable Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave of St. John's Anglican Church as he addressed the Beaver Club, formerly known as the Workers' Unity, at a banquet in the club's Simcoe street headquarters last night.

"When want and hunger come it is hard to keep from getting bitter and sore," Dr. Blagrave said. "But those who have the British strain in them are steadied by the desire for the democracy and freedom which our King symbolizes. It should not be that those who are willing to work should have no work but we must do our best and be patient."

Asserting that he would rather be a British subject on relief in Peterborough than a Russian at work in Russia, Dr. Blagrave declared he was at a loss to understand the appeal which communism has for some of the more disgruntled people in Canada. Common to communism, Fascism and Hitlerism is the restriction of personal liberty, he pointed out. Personal liberties such as freedom of speech and freedom of worship — liberties for which British peoples have fought for centuries—are denied under such regimes, he said. "Let us live our own lives and not let any foreign country tell us how to live them."

Congratulates Club

Dr. Blagrave congratulated the club on the selection of its name, "Beaver Club." He said, "It may be a surprise to see what this club can do as it goes along just as it is a surprise to see what the beaver can do when it gets to work." He offered the assistance of himself and his congregation to the organization.

Bearing greetings from the Kiwanis Club, J. A. McKone told the gathering, "I believe you have based your organization on the right principles. If you want to get anything it is unwise to try to get it by force. I think you will have the support of every right-thinking person in Peterborough. He assured them the support of the Kiwanis Club.

Ernest Bradbury, the chairman, reviewed the work of the club since its formation. Five concerts and three dances for the purpose of raising funds have been held and many benefits have been provided to destitute unemployed in the city, he said. At Christmas almost three hundred toys were made and distributed to children of unemployed.

Co-operative Unity

"Our goal is co-operative unity," he said. "If we can first study and understand our problems and then co-operate to meet those problems we can do useful work. Individually we are helpless but collectively we can move mountains." He urged unemployed to make use of their idleness by keeping thmselves in physical trim and gaining knowledge which would make them more useful citizens. Rather than do nothing it would be better for the unemployed man to busy himself teaching his youngsters one or another of the trades, he suggested.

Albert Jewell, president, proposed the toast to the King. Mr. R. Walker proposed a toast to Canada and the chairman sponsored the toast to the club. Edward Suddards sang two comic ballads which won hearty applause during the program. He was accompanied on the piano by his son, Percy Suddard. Mrs. Robert Bugg led the gathering in several songs on the piano.

The gratitude of the club to those who made the banquet possible was expressed by Mr. Bradbury. Among the contributors of food, aside from club members, were Thomas Hooper, William Gibson, Mrs. W. Kent, Mrs. K. McKinley, Mr. Stinson, the Salvation Army and the Quaker Oats Company.

Whether women players shall wear shorts on tennis court promises to become an issue in Wimbleton, England, home of international contests.

MADOC TRINITY Y.P. HOLD NOVELTY TEA

"Journey Through Life" Proves Unique Feature—Follows Musical Program.

MADOC, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — "The Journey Through Life" was the intriguing title chosen for a unique novelty tea and musical entertainment put on in the Sunday School rooms of Trinity United Church by the Young People's Society on Monday evening. There was a good attendance and much merriment followed as the group went from room to room for refreshments.

The evening commenced with a piano solo given by Miss Edna Salisbury, "Nola"; song, "Grandma's Knocker," by Helen Wellman; monologue, "How the Elephant Got His Trunk," Mrs. Abott, and was followed as an encore by "Me, Too"; violin solo, Mrs. Zuercher; chorus by six girls, "The Old Spinning Wheel"; duet, "Birds of Spring," Miss N. Fair and Mrs. Ashley; a reading from Drummond, "The Old Stove Pipe Hole," by Miss McDermid; a piano duet by Miss Salisbury and Miss Ferguson; a solo by Mr. Reddick, "Little Grey Home in the West."

Then started the "Journey Through Life," beginning in the Infant room, where Miss Lilian Connor and Miss Norma Fair, as nurses, held a short program of Nursery Rhymes, after which the guests were provided with bibs and treated to "animal" biscuits and milk. Then faces were "wiped off" and all marched to the next room. This was "School," and each guest must "Sing for his supper." Miss Jean Phillips, as a "Scotch lassie" and Mr. Alex Broad presided. After stunts were done, cookies and kisses were the treat, and little Sylvia Abbott sang "School Days" very sweetly.

Then came the Wedding Day, Grey Rivers and Aileen Kelly being bride and groom. Decoration of pink and white, with wedding bells and flowers made the occasion very festive. Cordial good wishes were extended to the happy couple who, owing to a breakdown in the old car planned to hitch up old Dobbin and go to Bridgewater for the honeymoon.

Sensible and Steady-going Middle Age was the next period, when Mrs. Rivers presided, very ably assisted by Miss Ela Fluke and Miss Flossie Stewart, who served a dainty luncheon of sandwiches, pickles, cake and tea.

Mrs. Hamm and John Bristol as Grandma and Grandpa entertained the company in the Evening of Life. A cosy home scene, with old-fashioned lamp, blooming geraniums and peppermints for treat, was the centre of social chit-chat, while Grandpa bemoaned his "rheumatis" and hunted his paper for a certain cure. Grandma proudly displayed her crazy patchwork which Grandpa sarcastically dubbed, "lunatic." "Darling, I Am Growing Old," was sung by Mrs. Hulin and Mrs. Ashley, and the guests departed one and all loud in their praises of the very pleasant evening.

SEASON'S SHOOT DATES ARRANGED

Annual Meeting Held for Rawdon Rifle Association at Bonarlaw.

(Examiner Correspondence).

BONARLAW, May 3. — The Rawdon Rifle Association held their annual meeting in Bonarlaw on Wednesday evening of last week, and set the dates for the season's shoots as follows: May 24th, May 30th, June 6th, June 13th, June 20th, and Labor Day, September 3rd. The four shoots commencing May 30th will be the official shoots for the silver salver donated by the D.C.R.A. This was won last year by Mr. Fred Mack, and the silver cup donated by Mr. E. B. Collett of Toronto, was won by Mr. John Wellman, he having the highest aggregate at all six shoots. Any member winning this cup for three consecutive years may hold same.

An added attraction this year is a silver cup donated by Lieut.-Col. A. V. Yates of Deloro, to be awarded to junior members of the association, i.e., 21 years of age and under.

Shooting will commence this year at 12.30 p.m. sharp.

The election of officers for 1934 resulted as follows: Captain, Geo. Wellman, range officer, Isaac McInroy; secretary-treasurer, Wallace McInroy; target maker, Chas. Burkitt, caretaker of rifles, Chris Burkitt.

The joining fee was left the same as last year, viz, $1.

Arrangements were made to have the rifle range pit put in first class condition.

It was decided to pay prize money as in former years, viz.: Special prizes at each shoot, except May 24, for first, second and third; highest man 75c, 50c, and 25c. respectively.

Also prize money on the season's shooting as follows: First five, 75c each; next ten 50c each; next ten 25c each, based on the aggregate for all six shoots.

As a special inducement for the first shoot, May 24th, prizes will be given for bulls' eyes made on the 500 yard range, at the rate of 5c per bull's eye, provided four or over are made.

The auditors' report showed the association to be in a healthy condition financially with a balance on hand of $79.13. This included donations to the association from Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., and Hon. G. S. Henry, the Premier of Ontario.
